London 20th July 1846.

Dear Sir,
 I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th inst. in relation to the proposed purchase of the land for the purpose of building a new school for the poor of the parish of St. Martin in the City of London. I am glad to hear that you are desirous of proceeding with this project, and I am sure that the Board of Directors will be pleased to see that you are so actively engaged in promoting the welfare of the poor.

I have the honor to enclose herewith a copy of the report of the Committee of the Board of Directors, which was adopted at their meeting on the 10th inst. I am sure that you will find it of interest, and I am sure that you will be glad to see that the Board are in favor of your proposal.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
 Yours truly,
 J. J. [Name]

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the humidity. It was like a warm blanket that wouldn't let go.
 The humidity was everywhere, in the air,
 on my skin, and in the sweat on my forehead.
 It was a relief from the dry, cold air of the north. I had heard that the humidity was bad, but in this heat, it felt like a blessing. I had been told that the humidity was the worst part of the experience, but here it was, and I was loving it. The humidity was perfect.
 It was exactly what I needed.
