

Giorgi Kuparadze

WORLD OF WISDOM

Giorgi Kuparadze

WORLD OF WISDOM

The present book offers English-speaking readers the quotations of wisdom translated from Georgian
by the order of the Writers' Union of Georgia

Tbilisi

2018

UDC (უცკ)

Translated from Georgian into English
by the order of the Writers' Union of Georgia

Translator and editor: Khatuna Akhobadze

Design: Paata Kuparadze

Publisher “Dani”

112, A.Tsereteli Ave., Tbilisi

© G. Kuparadze, 2018

HUMAN BEING

He who is free from envy is the cleverest and the happiest man in the world.

Very often people do express their emotions without thinking of the consequences.

Apart from inherent nature, very often it is the occasion that makes a man do either evil or good.

We need a lot of effort to maintain our energy, so we should take care of it from the early days.

You will find it difficult to speak to the man who is always right because you will feel humiliated and incompetent.

Sometimes even our good intentions can hinder the other to achieve his final goal.

A person who does not share your ideas cannot be viewed as a friend - you can just consider him as a good acquaintance.

Pleasant talk is better for our health than arguments and confrontations.

Because of the difficult human nature, psyche and behavior we know so little about each other that it is not easy to have close relationship with others, despite our efforts.

Charity, love, good manners, knowledge and charm make one a great person.

A man ignoring an advice is always a looser and stays ignorant forever.

Men can dive in water, can fly in the sky, can get into the cosmos, but very often it is difficult for them to be human.

One should be able to perceive the calm sea, great mountains to feel himself to be a part of this planet rather than a mere mortal.

Although we have past and present experience, we still make mistakes; otherwise we won't be perceived as human beings.

People always have a desire to experience something new, though they know in advance that in most cases it is risky.

Primarily we are human beings rather than some creatures striving just for luxury and fortune.

We are always seeking the like-minded people to share our ideas rather than to seek reality and justice, because each of us has his own justice.

Everything is expected from us, including such a thing that we had never had an idea about.

Time, environment and mentality are all changing but the human aspiration for well-being never changes.

The algorithm of human career is the risk and ambition.

We measure our dignity by the quantity and quality of our family members.

Man can't be unhappy in life if he is sensible and prudent.

The pointless life is the synonymous with masochism and untimely death.

If you want to annoy and insult anyone, you must blame him for that what he has been fighting against.

The ability of overcoming the unexpected obstacles will form a person.

Human psychology is such that we envy the great talent in someone, we do not say anything about the medium talent and support the little talent, but we respect the person who sponsors the great talent and consider him as the great citizen of the country.

No matter how many times you cultivate the land, it never gets tired yielding harvest. The same can be said about the man: no matter how much trouble he has in life, he never stops doing good job.

The foundation of education should be laid in early life of a child and then he will mature through experience.

A wise man is more than he thinks of himself, and the true creative personality is more than we think of him.

Communication with other people is interesting if it is easy for you to find a common language with them.

It is upon our faith in justice to perceive human values.

People with limited mental outlook live in a false pride, and the more so, sometimes they look at us with arrogance.

The sense of humor sends out positive energy and harmonizes human feelings.

It is difficult to find a genuine intelligent, but it's more difficult to find a common language with such a person.

People respect those who know everything, but never love them and are wary of them.

It is upon time and circumstances to be worthy or worthless.

Worthy and unworthy are assessed by people, not by nature, because they are the same for the latter.

It is not easy to tolerate a rude man even for another rude one.

Eccentricity is peculiar to the talented and rich people as far as their status let them.

The nature with its beauty is marvelous unless men have their hands in it.

Usually, the level of living of a man is to be determined by his skills and talent but everything's upon the time and opportunity.

History, epoch and fate have their own laws, which can't be justified by human reason.

We are very quick to get used to the offerings of progress.

The hormones of joy prolong our life.

People who are empty of ideas and ideals often find it difficult to perceive reality.

Human speech is one of the areas that is to be studied better.

Man is unable to know everything and to anticipate the possible threat, but he must strive for that.

Sometimes we hate a man not only for the stupid things he says but also for his clever talk.

The absurd principles may ruin your life rather than the respect for any principles.

Man is depraved and roguish in his nature, but traditions, circumstances and education can subdue his negative qualities.

Some people often have problems for the words they utter, but not those who have the ability of reasoning.

Man with his inherent dignity and virtue is distinguished.

It is difficult for any person to diminish his possessions even if he is very generous.

If you are the subject of jokes it means that you are perceived as a person.

One should be respected for the good things and benefits he does for the country rather than for his lifestyle and for his wealth.

The mission of a human being is to be interested in the origin of the world, to be able enthusiastically to explore it but never to solve the problem.

One can never be formed as a citizen unless he has faith and motivation.

Patience and expectancy, astuteness and prudence, intellect and courage are the fine weapons of a human being.

Theoretically, we must love each other, but in practice without envy and rivalry we can't achieve any technical progress because just envy and rivalry drive the progress.

A man has two quick hands, two sharp eyes, two sober ears, two quick legs and one "stupid" and mysterious head.

Try to see a human in a man and don't seek a beast in him!

We may have such a dream that we don't want to disclose but we will never stop striving for it.

Humor is a harbor of entertainment where you are delighted to drop the anchor.

In our life there are rarely such pleasant moments that we will remember forever.

Neither education nor traditions can ever prevent us from striving for a good life.

A self-confident and gifted person is never afraid of doing something extraordinary.

Hunger is a necessary condition for human development.

The best characterization of a man is his past.

One must have a special skill to perceive and judge the human attitude.

Wise and successful people do not speak much of themselves.

Cognition of truth and justice encourages us and makes us uncompromising.

Insatiability, aspiration, creativity and purpose makes a person perfect.

Freedom of thought does not mean yakking.

A flexible, unenviable man is always happy unless he has some foolish ideas.

No one can be a worthy citizen of his country unless he is aware of his obligations to the community and to the nation.

A man who cannot take a risk is a dead body.

One should be feeling that he is an integral part of his community and necessary for his people - this will make him stronger, fairer and more confident.

Sometimes a man whose ideas seem silly end up in glory and fame.

Even the most awful rascal is the cause of hope and delight at least once a life: when he is born.

A man who wastes words is a mere chatterbox.

A human being is destined for seeking novelties and innovations forever.

A whining person enjoys the fruit of the labor of others, however he doesn't understand that.

Although the human mind differs from that of the cattle, it is not always the case.

Obedience and humility are good, but not for the people with different problems.

Faith sometimes may be the cause of an extra headache, but we need it to stay human.

Our life is an experiment accompanied with improvisations, but otherwise it would be difficult for a normal man to be able to live.

The Universe discloses as much knowledge to people as they need for their progressive existence.

If you don't have the inherent strength you will never be able to come to prominence, or to bring fame to your country and nation.

There are some human qualities that cannot be viewed even through the microscope, but you never know when and where and how they will appear.

In the future the ecological knowledge will save the human being rather than the exploration of unknown aspects of the Universe.

A memorable man never resembles anyone else.

It is more important to support one than to solve the problems for him.

If we had not invented so many ways of entertainment, we would not have survived up to now.

Wealth will never turn into evil in the hands of the rational and creative patriots.

Rise and fall are characteristic of humans and it has nothing to do with the philosophy and intrigues.

Very often heart disagrees with the reason, the spirit with the body, the ears with the eyes, the desire with the passion- there is great incompatibility in our life, but we never try to change anything because it doesn't make sense.

The ordinary mortal who never claims to be clever is a great person, but an ordinary great person.

Dream and fantasy have always been the source of temptation for us and will always remain the same.

Man should be feeling happy to be able properly to perceive the duties imposed on him.

Some of the depraved men are not worth comparing even with the animals.

When people miss their real opportunities and can't achieve their goals, they get angry and scold themselves.

People hate one another because of selfishness and envy, but if they find common interests, they can love each other, but only for some time and in some occasions.

We can never grasp the idea of happiness because of our genetic disease of dissatisfaction.

We must follow the norms of conduct and obey the rules of the country, where we live.

Our ability of thinking rather than our flesh prolongs our lifecycle.

One can't be called a human being unless he has some responsibilities.

Love and hatred can often lead us to crime, because we are of unknown nature.

Striving for luxury instead of progressive life causes our decline, decline of our ideology and faith.

A person lacking the sense of joy is a lout resembling an animal.

In pursue of minor achievements people often create certain problems to each other.

One should adapt himself to the nature and live in harmony with it.

If you find a person who understands your feelings, it will encourage you in your life.

It is difficult for us to live in this world without God, because we can't understand the world anyway.

He who theoretically recognizes the advantage to love may give advantage to hatred in practice.

Devaluation of human dignity is caused by devaluation of life.

If you understand the essence of the trouble and delight of others, you are already a person.

No matter how proud you are of your good personality your social status is determined by your money and position.

A person disregarding the public opinion is a moron.

Doing good depends on human nature, genetics and the existing situation.

A person changing his character is like a chameleon with a bias to flattery.

Man can be better tested during the crisis in joint business and during the property division.

GENERAL IDEAS

Everything old kept and retained well is destined for eternity.

If you resemble someone who is praiseworthy, it is good, but if you are compared to a well-known rascal, it is not good at all.

Charity is for dissemination good in the world and it has no right to be closed.

Thinking longer in decision-making is often the symptom of getting old.

The laziness is a heavy burden on our back.

Indeed, different point of view must be taken into consideration, but one must have his own say too.

EDUCATION, KNOWLEDGE

Children represent the most serious investment, but with no guarantees.

The curriculum should provoke interest in both learning and working, otherwise, it's worthless.

The skilful teacher must have the ability to choose the proper option of teaching for every student.

Doing your best to bring up your children with love and care nourishes a kind of hope to receive some back in your old age.

We love our children more than parents, because we prefer to make an investment rather than to repay the debt.

Every teacher should know that to instil good is the same as to suppress evil.

Fortunately or unfortunately, children are not always open with their parents, and apparently, it's good for their progress.

Education is useless unless it serves its objective.

Education can never be useless in any period of our life.

The result of the education depends on the skills of the teacher and the genetics of the student.

Our skills and knowledge should bring some benefit, otherwise it would be our ingratitude to nature.

The immoral people are few in a law-obedient society because teaching is controlled since the early age of life.

Friendship is not just mutual support, it is also mutual understanding.

Dream is fantasy, gift is a potential, but reality requires practical skills.

To be honest in irrelevant situation is the same as to be stupid.

Mutual respect, understanding and delight provides benefit, love and morals.

Student is a potential rival of the teacher in a good sense.

A good teacher is eager to find a better teacher than himself for his gifted student.

Gift is revealed in education and not vice versa.

Parents never want their children to repeat their mistakes, but children often can't avoid the mistakes of their ancestors.

Very often the ignorant envies the knowledge but he doesn't know why.

Practice is the best teacher.

Education helps us to keep the centennial experience in a right order to be available for immediate use in the right moment.

Education, enthusiasm, faith and gift can provide us with necessary knowledge.

If you haven't tested each other in work it means you don't know each other at all.

Mind should have a creative vision rather than the mere ability of memorizing.

The purpose of education is to develop our personality, and human feelings and emotions.

None of us likes to be told what to do while we all like to teach others what to do.

We can't achieve our goal unless we extend our knowledge.

Teaching can be fruitful if the teacher frankly believes in what he teaches.

Education means an attempt to absorb everything, while the reason tries to absorb only that what is interesting and useful for us.

The ill-mannered can't be taught manners without punishment.

Only a dignified man can take back his unfair claim.

To be a pedagogue means to have a vocation, to be a teacher means to love, to be an educator is an attempt and to be a mother is an art though with now idea of the consequences.

If "Hello" is not followed by a small talk it can't be considered as communication that would be pleasant for us.

Education without prudence and practice never brings any material benefit.

The teacher who is not able to win the children's heart must give up teaching.

We need some teaching, training and experience to be always in such a mood that not to put others in a bad mood.

You can teach and guide others on the example of your own teachers.

The Internet and the books are our companions, our collocutors and not the teachers and tutors for us.

Mostly it is our decent past that cause interest, inspiration and enthusiasm in the next generations.

Our education is measured compared to the knowledge of our opponents.

From the educational point of view, teaching without research elements and practice does not mean decent education.

Good manners imply that one can control his behavior.

Sometimes good manners mean to be able to ignore minor infringements and mistakes of others.

Good education requires to be patient and to be calm when you hear thousands of stupid things.

Knowledge requires constant update and expansion, but the updated information should be processed in mind.

Our parents are trying to guide us in life, but the street and time are better guides.

Education is valued with good knowledge.

The past sorrow brought back in different colors is never forgotten.

A good teacher is the one who wants to learn new things together with his pupil and is guiding his pupil in that direction.

Sometimes to train others requires to train yourself depending on the trainee.

The trainee is a kind of trainer for his tutor.

Apart from talent and experience the teacher must be able to investigate the gene of his student.

Rules of conduct are mainly dictated by the education and age.

Parents of many children can bring up their children better.

If you don't like the advice and faith of your teacher, he won't be able to bring you up and teach you anything.

Your teacher is the one who teaches you, your tutor is the one, who you trust, and not the one who tells you what to do and flatters you.

It is more important to bring up your children well than to pursue your own career.

In education the main thing is mutual understanding rather than obedience.

It is very important to teach your child different things through games.

The more you know, the more you feel ignorant – such is the caprice of life.

Our ambitions try to control everything, but we mustn't forget that we need great experience and deep knowledge for that.

Sometimes the teacher must imagine himself in the place of a student before judging him.

The main purpose of education is to bring up a person who will be able to control himself without the help of others.

The teacher must have a good influence on his students helping them develop a strong character and demonstrate their merits.

Rationalism and progressive traditions come from the culture.

Father is the moral for a child, and Mother is the homeland with no other alternative at all.

If you don't envy anyone and there is nothing that can surprise you, that's because you were brought up in such a comfort that no rich could have caught your eye.

It is not difficult at all to give birth to children and to raise them, but the main thing is to bring them up and to teach them to be useful for the country.

Not all the kids can be clever from birth, but they can be taught to be good.

There are 100 sweet and laudable words that can help you to bring up a good personality: Angel; 1. Angel; 2. Revolt; 3. Awesome; 4. Proud; 5. Clever; 6. Tall; 7. Lofty; 8. Rumbling; 9. Grumbling; 10. Huffy; 11. Puffed up; 12. Wise; 13. Tired; 14. Heir; 15. Educated; 16. Distinguished; 17. Dear; 18. Supportive; 19. Understanding; 20. Calm; 21. Unbreakable; 22. Unsubdued; 23. Obedient; 24. Helpful; 25. Tireless; 26. Easy-going; 27. Chatterbox; 28. Witty; 29. Eloquent; 30. Man; 31. Polite; 32. Adult; 33. Lazy; 34. Sluggish; 35. Insolent; 36. Windbag; 37. Wilful; 38. Curly-haired; 39. Self-willed; 40. Impudent; 41. Bubbling; 42. Cheeky; 43. Hopeful; 44. Improvisator; 45. Capricious; 46. Neat; 47. Evil; 48. Beautiful; 49. Smart; 50. Friend; 51. Purposeful; 52. Darling child; 53. Tricky; 54. Mean; 55. Strict; 56. Cognizant; 57. Elegant; 58. Smiling; 59. Helping; 60. Talented; 61. Educated; 62. Family man; 63. Optimist; 64. Naughty; 65. Chic; 66.

Golden; 67. Patriot; 68. Stubborn; 69. Booming; 70. Risky; 71. Fair; 72. Revered; 73. Hard-working; 74. Honorable; 75. Praiseworthy; 76. Lucky; 77. Glorious; 78. Hot-tempered; 79. Faithful; 80. Unproblematic; 81. Modest; 82. Honest; 83. Happy; 84. Pensive; 85. Strong; 86. Thoughtful; 87. Bold; 88. Thrifty; 89. All-knowing; 90. Carefree; 91. Troublemaker; 92. Fixer; 93. Expert; 94. Decent; 95. Impressive; 96. Know-all; 99. Clever; 98. Healthy; 99. Good-looking; 100. Skillful.

Education raises our self-confidence and comforts our soul.

We are having problems in bringing up our children when we ignore their mood and nature.

The children have their own way of life stealthily granted from God regardless of the fact whether they resemble their parents or not.

Some are not clear about why they are learning, but there is no doubt that we need education.

Good and proper upbringing brings us happiness, and very often it can even win over the ill-genetics.

It is the most difficult job to bring up a child, but we are happy when we achieve the desired result.

We need a kind of knowledge even for crying, laughing and smiling to feel their virtue.

Learning does not give you desired result without having a memory.

A thorough knowledge of any subject fills us with inner pride.

We appreciate the virtue of knowledge and education in old age, and we no longer need them.

Those who respect novelty try to absorb knowledge and information like a sponge.

Practical results are based on theoretical knowledge.

One must be self-confident, must make an investment in knowledge and must know the value of time to live longer.

The best way to bring up a child well is to show him the example of your ethical behavior.

The arguments are good, but the evidence is better.

The knowledge is that what you can use to achieve a proper result.

Sometimes we have to sacrifice personal interests for the sake of social interests because we are brought up so.

Teaching is based on love and respect of the student.

Life is an experienced and self-organized adviser that teaches us much more than all the books and computers together.

Good tutors and teachers play a greater role in education and development of the students than their parents.

All parents should know that to bring up and to raise a child are not the same, because bringing up means to teach culture, life and traditions.

Knowledge is that what we gain through our learning and development, and education is the knowledge and information that we receive and understand.

Teaching and taking care are two different things, though they both have one goal.

It is very important to have some skills, including those you don't like or don't need today, because you never know which one you will need somewhere in the future.

It is better to be ignorant than to have pointless and useless knowledge.

All the newborn children are saint until their parents begin to bring them up.

Unwilling to study well we begin telling lies.

Yakking and gabbling is always peculiar to ignorance rather than to knowledge and education.

Decency and good education are a kind of human wealth.

Good teachers help us to see and understand more than the others do.

The experience is an expensive school but it teaches us the real life and provides us with practical knowledge.

The teacher not leaving his followers after him cannot be considered to have worked well.

The desire to live a decent life is the result of decent education.

Sometimes young children teach us the things our teachers had no idea about.

The real knowledge and experience are always proclaiming and doing good.

Probably, in future our children will be taught by wise robots and the parents will be never reproached for anything.

Sometimes children have to “bring up” their parents, because some of them are not prepared for bringing up a new generation.

Good taste cannot be taught, it should be developed.

Call for mass education is a fight against evil.

Those who are striving for knowledge are definitely of creative nature.

If a young man knows more than he should know at his age, that's great, but if he misuses his knowledge, that's a trouble.

If teaching cannot penetrate into the soul and mind, it does not make sense.

Good teacher can always discover good students if the will is there.

Schoolteachers are mostly women, while the university lecturers are men - it is probably the natural regularity to distribute the roles in such a way, because the schoolteachers must give basic education to students, and the university lecturers must give profession and deep specialized knowledge.

Knowledge tends to infinity, otherwise it would lose its worth and would gradually disappear.

Education has also its ups-and-downs though its goal is clear and right.

First things first, children must be taught rules of behavior at school if we want to have morally perfect society.

Criticism isn't as dangerous as the silent ambush.

Sometimes knowledge and fantasy can serve us in such a right moment we have never dreamt about.

Very often we love the subject because of the teacher whose skill of narration captures us and arouses interest in us to learn it.

Children are never responsible for their parents' behavior while the parents are, if they don't bring them up in a proper way.

Parents should realize that their child is a person from birth and they must do their best to help him to be a person.

Knowledge is the power that should be used, because there's no use of the untapped knowledge.

The book and the computer are trying to educate us, but each one in its own way.

Sometimes a diligent student appears to be the teacher of his teacher.

There is no age limit for acquiring knowledge.

WISDOM, GENIUS, EDUCATION, TALENT

Education is a kind of treasure, but you never know how you will invest it and who and what will help you in that.

The well-considered risk is a potential opportunity but with no guarantees.

You can't defeat intelligence with fists.

Ignorance can be found anywhere, but the intellect only in its familiar circumstances.

All talents have their own runways and we should not erect any barriers there if we want to live beside geniuses.

Our heart is full of belief, our soul with delight and our reason is always in doubts.

The genius brings fame to his home country and makes it well known to other nations and not vice versa.

Questions appear in the intelligent mind, while in the ignorant mind they disappear.

The reason is less productive if it strives for bravery.

Reason is less pretentious no matter whether it is seen or not.

Any new idea seems crazy at first, then it seems to be genius, later becomes a monotonous routine and finally it is a boring stereotype.

The profession of a teacher should be the best-paid job and the teachers should be strictly selected, otherwise education will never answer the requirements of the epoch.

Wisdom does not belong to everyone, but it must be open to public to be useful for anyone.

All of us should help the one who is born for a great job because the fruit of his labor must be useful for people.

The ability of comparison and analysis provides self-confidence.

Sincerity can set our psyche at rest and relax our body.

Each of us has his own genetic mission no matter how we understand it or how we use our capacities and potentials.

Some are born such ambitious arrogant that even the proverb “the grave straightens the hunchback” doesn’t work with them.

The wise man doesn't care about the wealth of others, but observes them and tries to become wealthy himself.

Trust should be appreciated, but the habit of appreciation comes from the gene and education.

The Universe will be strange and unknown for us forever, unless our reason does something.

Legends aren't created promptly: it needs a worthy, talented, favorite hero, whose descendants will brag about his heroic deeds.

It is not so easy for us to suppress our natural impulses because apart from the knowledge and experience we need rational mind for that.

You must concentrate your mind to make your speech impressive and to win the hearts of others.

The talent gives power to the mind, while the mental exercises give pleasure to it.

The biggest defect of mind is the weak sense of anticipation.

Even a mere relationship with the wise man gives us great pleasure and benefit.

The lazybones believe they are not lucky.

Wisdom means that when something gives us pleasure we know why it happens so.

The clever man is seeking truth even in nonsense and sometimes it happens so that he finds it.

Mind is the slave of his duties and must be adapted to that.

It is a great pleasure for a wise man to strive for perfection.

The deadlock can be broken if we select the right time and the right way.

Wisdom can win against power, but sometimes it is difficult to solve the problem without power.

Sober mind is always fruitful.

Unfortunately, it is common today to subdue rationality.

Almost all the geniuses died underappreciated to be much more appreciated by the future.

The job done with all your heart and mind will never be forgotten.

The battle between different minds makes our life meaningful.

The intelligence of a man is one thing and the intuition is the other, but nobody knows which one's better - the former or the latter.

The genius enjoys an absolute immunity, but the government only a temporary and partial immunity.

You must try not only to see more, but also to do more than you are able, but you must be a genius to be able to do that.

The clever man tries to find a way out even of a desperate situation, while the stupid can't even understand whether he is in a desperate situation or not.

Education can't guarantee that a person will never lie.

The ability to forgive is the prerogative of the gene, it is not the product of education.

The more mature the clever man becomes the less his counterparts understand him.

The genius can see more in his dream than the others in their real life.

We should appreciate our well-being. The clever man does appreciate that.

Unbridled fury can make us do unforeseen stupid things.

A reasonable advice can surprise and give joy to the advisee.

Moral satisfaction can sometimes be immoral as we are living beings full of inherent passion.

The clever man is always full of dignity no matter what others think of him.

Knowledge and caution guarantee stable life.

Education is permanent and ranks higher than anything else.

The reason unwittingly strives for understanding the eternity.

Intelligence, hope, depravity is genetically inherited in us, but in different proportions.

Self-control implies both wisdom and courage.

The fragments of classics are known to many who have never read the original.

Character changes like the weather: now rainy, now hot - you can never trust it.

Taste is innate, individual and actually it has nothing to obtain.

Very often the reason disagrees with the action of the politician, because it can find different way out.

Lots of things are destroyed and absolutely disappear in the world, but the fruit of the human reason will never disappear.

The mind trained through prayers is smarter and more active.

Time is horizontal and the eternity is vertical.

The leftovers of the genius will feed next centuries.

The source of everything is the person.

Clever mind always knows what is necessary to forget and what is not.

Sometimes foolishness comes from the gene and no intelligence can do anything with that.

Mind regards and obeys clear conscience.

Reason is the perpetuum mobile, but sometimes it also needs to relax.

Time and circumstances have always been the sponsors for genius and so it will be forever.

Reason supports patience up to a certain moment.

The wise man prefers to learn about the achievements of others rather than to talk about himself.

The wise man doesn't like to exaggerate some trifle things.

Intelligence and creativity resemble a horse reared up on its hinder legs.

We must respect intelligence, business, ambitions, but we must never make fetish of them because nobody will be able to understand that and will laugh at us.

Education without knowledge and experience can't achieve anything and will lose its value either by idleness or by sclerosis.

Only free mind can say "I don't know" without feeling shy or sorry.

If you don't pay any attention to the silly talk of others, it's also sensible.

The ignorant can also be useful because on the example of his "ignorance" others can learn a lesson.

The clever man will never call on us to become silent slaves and reject everything secular in the name of belief.

Fortunately, very often our apprentices appear to be the better teachers than our colleagues.

The genes are responsible for everything rather than the heart.

The world will always be unrecognized, infinite and eternal for our mind causing our dissatisfaction, because we have no answer to lots of questions.

Today there are lots of scoundrels in the world and good people are few, while the geniuses are countable on the fingers of one hand.

Except our dreams there is nothing permanent and everlasting for our mind.

Wisdom has nothing to do with evil, but sometimes it likes to be stubborn.

Both education and knowledge can fully achieve their goal.

One needs an experience based on great gift and intelligence to perceive the world properly.

Rational mind should be rationally nourished with rational ideas and mustn't be overloaded with exaggerated rationality.

First things first, the genius must know that he is a genius.

No matter we like it or not, we need all kinds of intelligence to create and develop a society.

For a clever man the human merit is the right way of thinking, and for the fool it is much money though neither the former will refuse to accept it if he deserves.

The clever man is not interested in the banal ideas of others, but he is interested in such an advice that would be useful.

An extremely wise man is miserable and sorrowful because there are so many careless people around him, who don't understand him.

It has always been the axiom that one considers himself to be the cleverest and almost indispensable. Despite our bitter historical experience, our genetics makes us believe the same.

The wise man is always in search of wisdom, while the ignorant is always trying to oppose him.

Usually, the wisdom and the beauty should be in harmony with each other, but very often the envy doesn't allow that.

Our intellect can be beneficial, if we are able to control ourselves.

Genius is the one who can discover such novelty in the work of others, the author had no idea about.

Don't contradict with your mind until you are convinced in your capabilities.

If your demands comply with your intellect and talent, you will be happy and rich.

Wisdom is very expensive if you can find a buyer.

The clever man likes to listen, while the common mortal prefers to talk.

The clever man does not care about the knowledge of others, but he does care about how to use the knowledge.

The clever man needs support first, rather than wrong criticism and bitter opposition.

The clever man doesn't like yakking and chatting.

If you don't feel yourself miserable among so many geniuses, then you are a person.

The brain is not the same as the gift, but brain has the ability to use gift.

Sometimes, we can unwittingly give such a useful advice, that we will be surprised ourselves.

Even today the civilization is nourished by the ideas of the old geniuses, who left this world long ago.

Business requires rational talk rather than senseless chatting.

The nation must take care of the talents, because the sponsorship alone is not enough.

The wisest thing is to retain and invest that what is already attained.

The closer the dignity is with the intellect, the less it tries to show up.

It is necessary to select proper place and proper time to show wisdom.

The primary role of wisdom is to know what can be done and what can't be done to avoid the useless work and not to overload the brain.

Each of us is a bit of Don Quixote in our gene.

Sometimes the prospective mind is in some awkward situation because at the beginning it is not easy to recognize it.

If politics is to play on words, the economy plays the numbers, but unfortunately it's no use of playing unless you have a proper mind.

Even the geniuses who are sometimes eager to add piquancy to their glory don't have the right to dispose their own life.

One needs a special skill to be able to enjoy the beauty because education alone cannot help.

The progress in the world is achieved by an unlimited reason rather than by the limited mind.

Every talent has suffered from its own tragedy or will suffer in future.

Wisdom studies the laws of nature and, therefore, it is never criticized.

The geniuses do the impossible things, and the talented people do the possible things.

The blood in an unrecognized genius is boiling so hard that he never knows what he will do.

The unrecognized and underestimated intelligent is deprived the desire to do something good.

Our hidden genius is ambushed in our instincts waiting for the right moment to be revealed.

If a flower is grass for the cow, it is aesthetics and beauty for us.

The genius is like a shepherd of his epoch, no matter he is entrusted to take care of the 'cattle' of people or not.

It is hard for the clever man to devaluate and reevaluate genuine national values, even if he is obliged to do it.

When you are in trouble the wisdom, insight and instict will teach you so many things you had never had an idea about before.

Giving a wise advice never derives a sensation of discontent, but rather it fills us with joy.

Miracles are accomplished by ordinary talented mortals for our better life on this planet.

The mind should be nourished and managed by the energy generated in experience.

The path to eternity passes through the brain of the geniuses and those who made and financed the path are rarely appreciated in their life.

Wisdom can turn the poison into treatment and vice versa depending on the goal to be achieved.

In the force-majeure even the reason is powerless.

What is forgivable for the intelligent, is unforgivable for the ignorant because he does not know the limits.

The right mind made a choice long ago.

When the teacher and his student learn from each other for nothing, the mixture of their intellects will give an incredible result.

The clever man needs to experience difficulties to test himself.

The beauty, intelligence and good luck are great power for you, especially if you have them.

It is necessary to take care of beauty and intelligence in every field.

The patience together with the intelligence is a great gift.

Mature mind is sometimes sorry for some past mistakes that he can never improve.

It is rational to pursue that what you are sure about and what you believe.

A clever man, who is aware of his own merit never instructs others and never gives an advice unless he is asked for.

The talent is always revealed in early days, though it can do nothing alone without hard work.

A gifted man does care about his capabilities and prospects rather than about the criticism of others.

A clever man seeks clever people to listen to them carefully and to do the job together with them.

It is upon the farsighted mind rather than upon the affect and desire of uncertain heroism to decide whether to obey the enemy or to fight against him.

The talent is a kind of genius, depending on how it will be understood by the contemporaries.

Heroism is mainly encouraged by an effective outburst of affect, than by the inner nature and education of the hero and the circumstances.

Everyone must have his own brain and must share the experience of others.

The wisdom not always can outmaneuver the ignorance, because it has also a part in the development of this society.

The clever man never fights openly against the stronger one than himself but tries to find a common language with him.

Indeed, the heart is a driving force for the mind.

There are some celebrities that we dislike but there are some others we are delighted with, because our strange and stubborn gene wants so.

Education can't do anything with the evil gene.

Intellect must be guided by experience because the knowledge or talent alone are not enough.

A clever man never stops thinking in the middle.

The clever man can learn a lot even from the least information.

The mind should raise a problem, the eyes should see it, the ears should hear about it, and the aptitude should complete all the good beginning.

The clever man prefers the following attitude: to outmaneuver others and to show mercy to the defeated.

The genius is a cosmopolitan phenomenon that belongs to the whole world.

The genetics has its own laws that are not clear for the science yet.

The purposeful mind does not waste his life in vain.

The clever man can remember his failure better than his success and strives for its improvement all the time.

The clever man tries to learn from others and, also, to share his knowledge and experience to others.

There is no one who complains of the lack of sense, except the sensible men themselves.

It is wrongdoing against the epoch and against the world not to recognize and respect the genius.

Even for the mind itself it is not easy to terminate the pleasant dreams.

Both the genius and the ignorant prefer to live in their own world.

The wise man is satisfied with little that is sufficient for his earthly needs.

The questions arise in the conversation with the wise man rather than in the dialogue with the stupid one.

The genius creates his own world himself, while the ordinary mortals are simply born in the world they are destined for.

The rational speaker needs rational listeners to understand at least a part of his rational wisdom, otherwise, his wisdom will never be comprehended and appreciated.

Everything develops and dies, but in cycles.

Idle mind can sometimes cause great damage.

The old man thinks he knows a lot, while the young one thinks his great energy is more important than his knowledge.

The clever men think that life is full of positives, therefore we mustn't allow the negatives to appear.

The fantasy is the driving force for the mind, not vice versa.

Although its cost is expensive, the education and the good creative knowledge provides the best benefit.

The rational creative patience is beneficial.

There are some great geniuses, who are so great that two hands are not enough to applaud them.

If one can find a common language with the fool, stupid or an idiot it speaks about his intelligence.

The rationally trained mind promises a lot of interesting and useful things.

The brutality comes from the evil and the inept genes.

You can criticize anyone and anything including yourself, but the main thing is what will be good of that.

If a reformer can implement some novelty he will be proud and encouraged to bring some benefit.

Our actions are appreciated and respected for our own traditions and customs.

The geniuses are good at understanding the jokes, but still they consider them as a waste of time.

The sluggish mind needs to be trained to respond to the expectations in some way.

The advice must be taken so that not to look fool.

The ability of a person comes from his genes rather than from his mind.

The attempts of achieving our dream makes our mind fearless.

Education and intellect are considered and assessed in different ways.

There is nothing too late, and nothing too early for our mind unless there is a time pressure.

The desire of opposition lies in the human genetics otherwise we wouldn't be able to develop.

Analyzing his behavior one can often judge and reproach himself, but he never knows the verdict of his mind.

With a reasonable courage we will be able to feel the virtue of life.

Only an experienced person can find a real friend and be devoted to him.

The smart man relying on his mind is always taking a risky way full of hopes and dreams, that might be followed by success or even failures.

It depends on certain geniuses to appreciate certain clever people.

We shouldn't make our sponsors solve all our problems, but rather we must make an effort to solve them ourselves in order not to become dependent and sluggish.

It is always better to be competent and expert than to be just brave, though bravery seems more effective.

The crash between the wisdom and passion is full of internal contradictions.

We can't always be wrong or always right, therefore we must listen to each other and discuss different viewpoints.

The clever man never repeats or escapes the mistakes, however he is just interested in them.

A sudden and rational action is the warrant of all success, especially if technical progress has a part in it.

Famous quotes must be taken into consideration – they mustn't be gone with the wind in the field.

We must carefully build a new civilization on the ground of the old desires and dreams if we want our nation to maintain its original face.

Reasonable treatment starts with the discussion and admission.

Education given for profit is both practical and rational.

Our mind mostly serves to justification of the silly things we have committed, rather than to enjoy the good things we are committing.

Your'd better rely on your own mind, because it will never deliberately let you down, at any rate.

The world should be based on mutual understanding and support, because there is no better way out.

There are many people who try to oppose the genius in his life, probably, because they want to enter the history as his opponents.

The rational man is responsible for the actions of the others, because he is the leader in his nature, who must lead the masses.

Our mind doesn't like to be overloaded and overfilled with anything, even with the dreams.

Theoretically, the intelligence is stronger than the power, but in practice, the intelligence also obeys the power.

One must show wisdom even in the battle to avoid humiliation in case of defeat.

Your intelligence and efforts will have no benefits unless you use your memory

Mental violence is worse than the physical one.

There are no limits to the capacities of the reason and there will never be any limit, because its virtue is so incognizable.

The elevated mind shouldn't seek the way out in longing for paradise but rather it should try to use his capacity in the earthly life.

The reasonable silence will lead us to glory.

Each clever man views his own life as an unscreened movie.

There is nothing useless and unprofitable if we process them through our mind.

Our ability of creative infiltration of the information determines how genius and clever we are.

Knowledge without fantasy gives poor results.

The honesty is also a dubious and disputable notion that is perceived in accordance with the time and occasions.

A clever man achieves more by his easy-going attitude than by stubborn and uncompromising behavior.

Even the good example is not worth imitating, because it will reduce the aspiration for novelty and the mind will become lazy.

Everything new is against something old, such is the nature of any novelty.

To change revenge into love is a great step and a heroic behavior of mind.

Economization comes from prudence.

Prudent obedience to wisdom is a guarantee of a quiet life.

The emotions make us feel that we are human beings, but sometimes they can destroy the genius.

Wisdom is synonymous with experience and without each other they can't do anything with respect to achieving the goal.

If you listen to your mind it will put you on the right path and life will not be difficult for you.

The genius can't be resembling anyone else, because he is unique and incomparable.

The conflict between the severity and obedience is regulated by the reason.

The sensible talk rather than the yak is memorable for the clever man.

Sometimes we need some wisdom to tell the truth in a pretty way.

Without taking some reasonable risks the humanity wouldn't be able to develop.

He wins the argument who is smarter, and he wins the fight who is stronger, but he can avoid both who is a genius.

The clever man tries to avoid depravity, while the fool does not care about anything.

There is no need to worry because any acute problem can be solved this or that way with the help of wisdom in the right moment.

If you want to enjoy yourself, you should also think about enjoyment of others.

If we stuff wisdom into a stupid mind, it will become confused and twice more stupid than before.

Some are interested in the idea, others in the results and some in the process, depending on their intellect, aspirations and genes.

Genius is also a conditional notion, but infinite.

Discipline and order are the basis of rational life.

Wisdom is cautious and business-friendly.

The knowledge and enthusiasm rather than laziness and illiteracy allow the clever man to fancy.

The wise man chooses different opponents rather than the same because the latter one already knows his strengths and weaknesses.

Sometimes the so-called "foolish", "brainless" can turn out to be genius if the fate helps him.

Even the smart mind never achieves the result without training.

Sometimes we achieve that what we have been striving for, but then we need some sense and hard work to add something to our achievement.

Sometimes, it is justified to use force if the wisdom requires and the intuition agrees.

Sometimes we need a third eye to check the sight of both eyes.

Love never obeys mind, it is related to the external forces.

Intellectual individual is a private soldier in the civilized world.

Intellectual values do not change regardless of the time, environment and technical progress.

Wisdom is manifestation of our strength.

Wisdom adds strength to us and not vice versa.

Joy and grief can cause mental disorder.

One head is good, two are better but the third is unnecessary if it does not support neither the one or the other.

It is easy to manipulate the mass to cause rebellion, but it is difficult to organize and manage them to be used in a good job.

The clever man is always impartial, neutral and prudent, because he never knows what the fate has in store for him.

Instead of teaching lessons to the fool it is better to teach him a practical job because it will be more productive.

The first success often depends upon the intuition and occasion, but also on the great effort of the mind.

Sometimes we have to listen to the flatterer, but its upon our mind to believe his words or not.

Rational mind is trained by rational questions and become more useful.

Reason is the supreme arbiter and super instrument in life, and no other power can compete with it.

Sometimes it is better to keep silence than to gab in an endless way.

Very often for a prudent and farsighted person it is hard to understand, whether he is crazy, or the others are ignorant and stupid.

The only rational question is “Why“, which can never have a perfect and thorough answer.

The clever is always trying to stay within the limits, while there are no limits for the fool.

The clever man is against all kinds of conflicts, while the ignorant striving for some benefit is ready even for war without thinking about about the consequences.

If the work of a clever man has provided a positive result, any disputes and opposition are useless.

Forced relationship between the clever and the stupid is the most severe punishment for the former.

The clever man has the skill of listening, but the fool is deprived of that, because he is born for vanity and frivolous life.

You can never buy sense and mind, but you may control your mind.

Good education means to seek novelty all the time.

The fools appreciate only such sense that they can understand.

Very often, introduction of inappropriate standards prevents rational development.

The wisdom is a kind of power that always achieves its goal.

Sometimes the clever man can't achieve his goal unless he is eloquent.

The clever man can do good himself and also he can notice and appreciate those who are doing good.

The clever man will better see the achievements of others, and will be the first to appreciate it.

Sometimes anxiety teaches us the better lesson than the quiet and calm mind.

The primary rational margin lies between morality and immorality.

The moderate and sensible silence is the sign of wisdom.

The pleasure received from doing a good job demonstrates the uniqueness of our gene.

Sometimes the genius is happy to show his fault in an original way, which causes confusion and astonishment in others.

The word can be both the poison and the remedy depending on the dosage and usage.

You might be passionate, clever, kind and prudent in your heart, but the final decision is upon the mind.

It is no good to resist to your own desires, if your mind is in agreement with those desires.

If your mind forgets what's your job, your hands must continue doing the job without thinking, and that is the professionalism.

The intelligent person can cause a greater damage than a mere mortal because the scope of damage will be more grandiose.

The stupidity can never be cured if it is inherent.

To work and to do some job will accelerate development of the mind.

The obstinacy of the stupid is clear at a glance, but the obstinacy of a clever man is not easy to note.

It is a great dignity of a person to be able to forgive himself in a rational way.

The greed, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, the kindness and generosity come from the inherent gene rather than from the surrounding conditions.

Doing good is our will, which is inherent to all of us to some extent.

Geniuses avoid praise, because they consider it as a waste of time.

The best way to show your wisdom is to be careful about what you say.

ECONOMICS AND BUSINESS

Any ideology is equal to zero, unless economic and technical progress is achieved.

The cascade of slangs is characteristic of unstable politics and the economic crisis.

Loss and profit in business are close rivals of one and the same origin.

Hundred parameters the rich people must satisfy:

- 1) To do his favorite business;
- 2) To be self-confident;
- 3) To know the price of money;
- 4) To be practical and prudent;
- 5) To try not to be left behind his colleagues;
- 6) To be always aware of the necessary information;
- 7) To be seeking prospective innovation;
- 8) Not to live in luxury;
- 9) To provide children with the essential and not superfluous;
- 10) To be a moderate philanthropist;
- 11) To travel frequently in doing business to be noticed by the fate;
- 12) Never to trust anyone to the end.
- 13) To conclude all the agreements in writing;
- 14) Often to check the activity of partners and subordinates;
- 15) Never to be lazy;
- 16) To follow healthy life style;
- 17) Never to postpone for tomorrow what can be done today;
- 18) To know the art of PR and advertising;
- 19) To have money in permanent circulation;
- 20) To establish a good relationship with the government;
- 21) To avoid doing any dirty work;

- 22) To be a trustworthy person always keeping his promise;
- 23) To be able to analyze and foresee;
- 24) To have warm and business relationships with his partners;
- 25) To seek partners abroad.
- 26) To have own people everywhere;
- 27) Not to treat equally to everyone;
- 28) To learn and teach to be optimistic;
- 29) Never to involve his wife and family in the business;
- 30) To be humble, modest;
- 31) Not to have business with envious and stupid people;
- 32) To be eager quickly to realize the political course of the country;
- 33) To buy immovable property abroad;
- 34) To make certain investment in reliable countries;
- 35) Never to take active part in politics;
- 36) Never to relax, never to be satisfied with the achievements.
- 37) To have a goal that is more than life;
- 38) To trust his predecessor;
- 39) To learn considering his actions;
- 40) To impose certain restrictions/prohibitions to himself;
- 41) To be able always to see the remarkable and noteworthy;
- 42) To sell everything what he can't use and is unnecessary;
- 43) Never to trust no one completely even himself;
- 44) To settle in a country where he can make money;
- 45) To have the postulates appropriate to his life;
- 46) To have his own economic vision and management;
- 47) Always to seek a prospect and profitable way out;
- 48) To keep up with technical progress but not to outrun it;
- 49) To learn to refuse saying 'Sorry, I'm broke';
- 50) To live in a way not to be envied;
- 51) To learn to take care of the whole property rather than to display it;
- 52) To be persuasive in his action and words;

- 53) To learn relationship with providers and regulation of their deficiency;
- 54) To avoid both taking debts and being in debt;
- 55) To be always ready to try his luck;
- 56) To strive not to seem sick and old;
- 57) To learn the art of compromise;
- 58) To learn to pardon, to forgive and forget;
- 59) To avoid publicity by criticizing and judging others;
- 60) To respect the written and unwritten laws;
- 61) To have clever advisers and to encourage them;
- 62) To learn money laundering within moderate limits;
- 63) Never to be satisfied with the achievements;
- 64) Always to try his luck buying a lottery ticket;
- 65) Never to approach the gambling business;
- 66) To learn to select useful ideas;
- 67) To learn several foreign languages;
- 68) To employ cheap labor, immigrants, but in a legal way;
- 69) Always to have an alternative;
- 70) Always to be an individual and original in his business;
- 71) To have the unclear expenditures within moderate limits;
- 72) To strive for new markets;
- 73) To avoid reckless barter trade;
- 74) To strive for creation of a new brand;
- 75) To insure the immovable property by all means;
- 76) To have own corporate culture;
- 77) To avoid environmental pollution;
- 78) To strive to increase the dividends;
- 79) To strive to be an effective leader;
- 80) To learn the “theory of games” with respect to the human behavior in an extraordinary environment;
- 81) To learn how to balance activity with respect to the future;
- 82) To try thoroughly to learn management;
- 83) Always to have preliminarily considered fixed expenses;

- 84) To avoid stagnation, depression;
- 85) To have providers for checking the work and use their service under the contract;
- 86) To avoid trading at after sales payment;
- 87) To keep the track of exchange rate;
- 88) To make restitution of all his own and finest;
- 89) To have savings;
- 90) To protect the human rights in the principles of democracy;
- 91) To employ people around you;
- 92) To be honest within moderate limits;
- 93) To avoid stagnation and idleness in business;
- 94) To follow the principles of democracy and to find out how useful he is for the community, for those around him;
- 95) To try not to be ignorant and never to trust the government and its politics;
- 96) To avoid cheating unless it is necessary;
- 97) To overcome the 'psychological barrier' in his business, as it will become routine tomorrow;
- 98) To use the slogan 'invest money to earn money' as the principle of his business and to pursue it;
- 99) Never to delegate his job out of control even to his future heir;
- 100) To select a person out of his friends or relatives and to train and prepare him to continue the business.

The economics is the subject of economy, and sometimes is supported by progress and politics.

You must share profit with the mediator if you want him to be always loyal to you.

The quantity is good with the quality while the quality depends on the quantity.

Business is always based on the intuition and a good luck.

Business is a competition where you need prudence, self-confidence and a good luck.

The economics is a very delicate squanderer of its time.

We can't develop competitive economics unless we integrate, hook and conquer new markets in other countries.

Before you borrow money from the bank you need to consider it in your mind and then answer two questions: 1) Why do you need to borrow money? 2) Will you be able to repay it?

Economics requires the order and the discipline along with skills and knowledge.

Capital must be reasonably invested, and its owner should be against any irrational investment.

The unprecedented struggle for millions is still going on and so it will always be but neither the law nor the justice can stop it.

Corruption can't be called an absolute hell because sometimes it resembles a kind of business.

The economic opportunities are mainly based on the political will.

It is much more difficult to use your wealth than to earn it.

Business is a kind of algorithm: you never know when you succeed at the expense of your risk and dare.

Financial work is based on fear and remorse, especially if we deal with great amount of money.

When ten people do one job it means that ten people are employed instead of one and no job is done at all.

We mustn't overcharge people with taxes due to which they may hate the laws, but rather we must teach them the law-obedience since birth to avoid the necessity of paying overcharged taxes.

He who works for one and the same salary for a long-time needs payment rise, i.e. appreciation.

Without strong economy both the national open-door policy and the national seclusion policy are the same folly.

Today we are all involved in the process of lending and borrowing that we call it business.

Intuition and instinct are the algorithms of observation and comprehension.

Economic downturn, governmental chaos and uncertain future are always followed by violence and revolution.

The economy is the backbone of the nation, and the politics is the ideological support of the economy.

If the politics and economics disagree and don't share the experience, neither the country nor its government will succeed.

Political economy never fails there, where everyone has the profit.

Financial guarantee is a kind of airbag in life.

Business depends on a good luck and it would be a great art to set up a business without money; as for the economics it is the art of doing business based on theories.

Business works in its own way of perverse combinations and sometimes achieves good results.

Appearance of a strong personality as the head of the country will be the guarantee of temporary success, but ultimately the national development depends on the right economic and political course.

If you don't put both faith and investment into business, that business won't be successful.

Practice is more lucrative than the theory, but it will never move forward without theory.

Real economy means to create material wealth from nothing rather than to make something from the existing one.

Underemployed labor force indicates the economic crisis of the country.

Reckless, stupid optimism will do no good to the political economy of the country.

The salary of an ordinary man can't catch up with the rise of the prices that is always outrunning.

Although loss and profit are brothers, they have different parents.

The economics has its ruthless law of export-import: the export should exceed the import in order the country to be economically free.

One needs mental reincarnation to make fortune, because it requires special mentality and skills.

Reckless explosion of national self-consciousness is undermining the integrity of the country and its economy.

Unlike politics, business can't allow itself to waste time on holidays because even a slight relax can turn everything upside-down that will lead to a loss.

Under-evaluation of the existing situation is always bad in every field, especially in the economy.

No progressive economic development is possible in the country unless a strong personality appears there.

The thrift also has its inherent code that requires to be deciphered.

Even the hard work can't help us to reach the economic progress unless we sacrifice something and get the gist of technical progress.

Psychological factor is the wind at one's back both in politics and economics.

Without a rational economy, wise policy, rule of law, and belief in future, the country won't be able to develop.

Nothing should stand on the way of business to achieve success and provide the well-being of the country.

When domestic market is import-dependent it can't be considered as the economy of the country.

The economy of the country is destroyed by the creditors, who are trying to copy others and take credits to buy luxury items rather than to search for the capital instruments for employment.

The intelligence, bargain, profit plan and sale are the attributes of price formation.

Business requires flexible conscience.

The business without diplomacy won't be able to gain to its feet and to develop.

Today the advertising is a driving force of business, but the same advertising is dimming our minds because we no more can make a choice without it.

The business doesn't like vacuum, the politics doesn't like accelerated actions, while the economics is against both.

It is not difficult to become friends and to earn money together, but it becomes difficult to divide it afterwards.

Coordination of legislation, public demands and personal interests will ensure economic development.

In the economy every second is lost if the government can't produce money, every minute is missed if the state can't obtain its own income, and every hour is lost if the country's budget is not duly filled.

The kind-hearted 'cooperation' is harmful for all kinds of economy and politics.

Early implementation of modern technical and economic achievements makes the country stronger and is the warrant of peace.

Knowledge is a kind of business, and intelligence its manager.

Business is based on opportunities, money investment and trust, while the loss of the latter is the same as to go bankrupt.

The interest-free loan is a good thing but not everyone can understand and appreciate it.

The economy should be busy with regulation of the food supply rather than with raising the awareness, because the latter is the business of the politics.

The main goal of business is to find markets for realization of production, because manufacturing is not a problem.

Politics and economics must speak in figures rather than in eloquence.

LAW, LAWYER, JUSTICE

The order and the laws are necessary in every field and we must follow them in mathematical precision using even the probability theory.

The primary power of the law is in its need, justice and rationality.

The only hope for the loser is to join any kind of riot and rely on it because such a “job” does not require any brain or knowledge.

No law can be efficient unless it is reasonable and principal.

The exceptions make the law attractive and interesting.

Diplomacy is the art of asking smart and topical questions in conditions of the foreknown consequences.

Corruption is a kind of barter based on the principles of business.

Permanent change of laws deprives them of tone, power, and character.

Most valuable thing for an arbitrator is his conscience rather than his qualification.

The respect and obedience to the law are synonymous to the guarantee of trust.

There is nothing that can't be settled in this world; lack of success can be only a temporary matter resulting from confusion.

Sometimes the moral and the law are in conflict, but the law is always fulfilled and that's right.

The respect, humility, and law-obedience have done a lot of good job.

If the sheep begins to judge the wolves, there is no hope for good.

Justice and truth is the greatest achievement of all epoch and of all circumstances regardless of the consequences.

No lawyer can be poor since they can always find a prey among so many demented people.

The law also has its own ups-and-downs not acceptable or approvable for everyone.

The crime must be expiated by the penalty in accordance to the law, rather than by charity action.

We can judge the strangers more fairly than those who we know, regardless of our friendly or hostile attitude towards them.

The ignorance of the law is the expression of disrespect for it, but the disregard of justice will lead us to reckless behavior.

The truth doesn't always mean evidence and that is its weakness.

There are lots of scoundrels, but it is not easy to reveal them.

There is no Article in legislation about conscience and sometimes neither the judges take it into consideration because the judgment is based on the evidence and the actual consequences.

It is difficult even for justice to struggle with the half-truth.

The rights have priority compared to capacities, because when you buy luxurious apartments you are asked - How did you buy it? But you are never asked about whether you had the right to buy that, because that means if your legal income allows it then you have the right.

The law is the same for everyone, while the lifestyle is different and their coordination with the time and the circumstances is necessary.

The primary mission of the lawyer is to never disclose confidential information even in the next world.

The appeal of the law is not only to protect the human rights but also to educate people in human rights.

A conscious and law-abiding person is a great resource for protecting the laws but a perspicacious one is better, because he follows the law but is never enslaved to law.

The law prefers the truth rather than the lie, while the injustice prefers lies.

Reasonable and fair requirements are often satisfied.

The fair question also requires opponents to be clearly understood.

You mustn't escape the truth and justice, but shouldn't get too close, because you never know what will be tomorrow.

Justice, law and truth can bring benefit if the society is practically prepared for that rather than theoretically.

The truth never stops and is never relaxed striving for achieving justice soon.

The notion of law and justice are different things depending on the type of law and justice one is seeking for.

Sometimes we are obliged to violate the law or ignore it, but there is something that can't be let down.

Sometimes you may disregard the law if it doesn't harm the common cause, but rather accelerates it.

The purpose of the law is to provide a good life through a decent way.

The relationship of the citizens based on the cohabitation principles will be very bad for the lawyers because it will leave them unemployed.

Talking to educated people I came to conclusion that these people can't be trusted the fate of the state, not even their own fate - they are so lazy, ambitious, and ignorant autists. Therefore, the only choice is the experienced Council of Elders.

What we believe to be fair, some might misunderstand and consider it to be unfair.

To defend the laws and justice does not mean just to know the laws.

Sometimes even the embellished truth doesn't work and requires some proper words to be effective.

Evaluation and assessment are often upon the conscience.

The law and the moral are sometimes incompatible with each other, but the law should have the priority because its disrespect and criticism wouldn't be good for the country.

All the contracts and agreement will be down the drain unless supported by the lifestyle and law.

We can sometimes violate a law, but it will never forgive us if we disrespect it.

The principles of law will take at least five years to learn, but even fifty years won't be enough to learn fair judgment.

We must follow the law, but it would be dangerous for us to outrun it.

Sometimes a certain part of our mind willy-nilly respects the unwritten laws.

The primary duty of the justice is to protect the weak from violence rather than to ignore the law.

We all must act in accordance with the law and obey it, but very often it is difficult to find a way to justice, because we all believe the truth and justice in our own way.

If in case of conviction there are lots of questions including some with no answer, then justice becomes doubtful no matter the defendant admits the crime or not.

Generally, the legislation should work for our well-being, but only by means of preventive measures rather than punishment and fines.

If you have a Mafioso income, you never know when the law or the bullet reaches you.

The rule of law will put pseudo patriots and chatterbox politicians in their places.

The primary victim of the confrontation is the truth and the justice fighting for truth.

Don't look for the enemy, he will find you himself.

The discipline and the rule of law is the remedy for all kinds of disorder and chaos.

The moral code is against violation of unwritten traditions and laws in any conflict.

It is fair to punish a person for not only a deliberate crime, but also for undeliberate mistakes because preventive measures are necessary.

We must respect the law and treat it wisely trying not to break it.

Criminal law does not like the lucky ones because it is difficult to punish them as they manage to find a tricky alibi to escape from justice.

Betrayal and mistake are different notions and deserve different judgment.

Truth and justice move in a slow cart for those who have no protector.

There are the laws and there are the traditions - we must obey the laws and we must respect the traditions.

Sometimes you might be sent on a business trip even to hell to revise the jungle law every now and then.

The main purpose of the law is to achieve justice without any objection and without self-interest.

Today a shield and a sword alone are no good to protect the truth unless you have some lobbyists in the Government.

There are some dictates such as the laws and the Constitution of the country that we must respect.

We must legalize some traditions if people like them and the more so if they are indigenous.

The attitude of conscience and law are so different that sometimes they find it difficult to have a common language.

The rights are valuable if both the law and the lawbreaker respect them.

Although there are many who believe to be the law experts, there are not many who can be a fair judge.

We should not be afraid of the law, we must know it, and we must understand its outcomes and must be aware and respect the rule of law.

Justice should be achieved fairly, so that justice cannot be rebuked.

We respect the law, justice, honesty, though some people can't get on with them and hate them.

It shouldn't be necessary for the legislation to be interpreted and explained by the legislators.

There are some areas such as the legislation, education system, court and prosecution that never subject to bankruptcy and rejection.

The legislation, despite its inevitable authority, is useless unless it lays the "eggs" of justice.

People involuntarily feel and speak about justice no matter they thoroughly understand it or not.

The police can't work in white gloves, because doing the job requires to stir a hand that can't be done without getting dirty.

It is not easy to find justice, especially for them who don't know the concept of compromise.

The essence of laws is to maintain well-being of the humanity even through the punishment.

5459 The law and justice are the same, but they have some other regulatory means too.

The law is based on justice, and the justice on fairness.

The street has its own laws, while the state has its own and they together provide the decrease of crime.

Papers say a lot, but the truth is the only one.

Our wealth needs care and we need the state support not to be afraid of losing our wealth, but we need the rule of law for all of these.

The idleness and laziness are a kind of illness that can be cured by strict laws and not by drugs.

Sometimes the truth is embellished and beautified with some details for better effect.

We mustn't allow anyone to decline the law, otherwise it will be the step forward to depravation and degradation of the society.

Sometimes silence and knowledge of laws are better for us than opposition and fight against them.

The conscience will never get lost.

Lawfully to forgive someone for something arouses a kind of pleasure.

The right is one thing and the power another but there is no benefit of them unless they are combined.

If you do not want to run into injustice, do not turn back to law and follow it.

Sometimes the law defends existing subordination rather than the justice.

The law is the greatest dictator therefore it must be uncompromising for justice.

All legal punishments are justified, and we mustn't doubt in them.
The conscience never forgives us to violate the law even its weak points.

The right should be the same as justice, otherwise it will be impudence and racket.

Human relationship was always regulated by mutual understanding and agreement of written and unwritten laws requiring special approach.

The justice achieved in judgment is much better than the justice achieved by confrontation because the latter is less firm and less reliable.

We all must know and follow the law, but some of us are even proud of their ignorance saying: "If I had known that!"

Any position deserves respect if the one who occupies that position is law-abiding.

The law and its obedience must make us do a good job because only the education is not enough for that.

All of us are striving for justice, but from our own position.

Justice is clearly expressed even in a few words.

Sometimes even the lie disguised as justice is attractive.

FORTUNE, LUCK, HYSTERIA, DEMOCRACY

The freedom of speech means to be responsible for our words, because any uncontrolled freedom brings much trouble.

Wealth finds it difficult to establish freedom.

Freedom of speech should be balanced with the rule of mind.

The unlimited freedom leads to anarchy.

Freedom does not know fear.

A free man is proud and fearless if he lives in an appropriate environment.

The desire of freedom requires the knowledge about how to enjoy the freedom.

Not everyone is worth having freedom, one must deserve it.

To achieve inner freedom is an art, sometimes even heroism.

Sometimes freedom is confused with immorality and the democracy with demagogy that has a bad influence on the national traditions and development of the country.

Some believe that they need freedom to do some real job, but in fact they gain freedom for freedom.

Very often liberalism develops the predatory instincts and the genes of a grabber.

We must know the price of freedom and must be able to maintain it.

Sometimes, freedom resembles the festival of the scoundrels, so many selfish rascals are involved in it.

Our freedom is upon us, even if we are in another country.

We will be able to achieve the inner freedom if we respect the law, first.

Freedom is good unless it is full of hate speech and yak.

We all want to live in a free country, but we don't realize that we need to bring up generations to achieve freedom.

We don't want to lose our freedom, but the problem is that we don't know how to enjoy it!

Sometimes we feel the virtue of freedom when we are alone.

We need hard work and love to achieve freedom.

One must deserve freedom to achieve it, otherwise it won't work.

We must respect the freedom of others if they deserve that freedom.

Your freedom will end there, where the unbridled freedom of others begins.

The free ideas lead most of the population into error and encourage them to take inconsiderate steps, rather than the freedom itself which is inherent and can't be taught with some tips.

Freedom does not allow us to waive the etiquette, because we must respect the people around us.

Striving for freedom implies to suppress the anger and to avoid hatred.

Freedom is a kind of responsibility which is often difficult to be understood.

Freedom must be reasonably used, otherwise it will become anarchy.

If freedom is a heavy burden for one, it is pleasant and beneficial for the other, though neither of them are aware of that.

To strive for freedom is an attempt to taste the forbidden fruit.

The principles of freedom are reasonable actions without ultimate excitements.

Lobbyism is one of the forms of corruption, but it is not easy to disclose who are involved, because it is disguised by the alibi of the freedom of speech.

We need effective democracy rather than the granted freedom mixed up with PR and yakking.

It is hard to stop longing for freedom, but it is harder to deserve and rationally to enjoy the freedom.

The unbridled freedom cause much more trouble to the country than the old traditions.

The right to free choice - this is the freedom, regardless of its quality and ability.

Freedom is the right to free choice and not the right to anything because it must also be within some limits.

For some people freedom is related with money, for others with the knowledge or even with their position, because freedom is a very peculiar feeling and an unexplained joy.

Democracy also has its negative bacilli for those who don't know how to use it properly and how to reinforce it.

Wherever the freedom is, there is the happy life and people are easily adapted to everyday challenges.

We must deserve freedom because the freedom gained by force will complicate our life and will earn us a lot of enemies.

It is the social order that gives real hope for freedom and not our effort and enthusiasm.

Democracy will work if you act in the interests of people rather than try to suppress them in the name of democracy and make them do whatever you want.

There are many stupid and occasional people in the government, much more than we think, but apparently their involvement is a necessary attribute of the democratic and free government.

Democracy should not become the way of blackmail and racket, though neither the politics, nor economics does not take it into consideration.

Freedom, democracy should be felt through the action rather than perceived through just hearin a talk about them.

Freedom is joy for some, while for others it is a burden, for which they are not ready to carry.

If freedom turns into anarchy, and the independence into a false happiness, then life in such a world will be just waste of time.

Freedom has a changing nature because it is never satisfied with the achievements.

Independence does not mean to ignore the positions of others and to follow just your own principles.

We appreciate our freedom when it is blocked.

Propagation of democracy in an undeveloped country causes conflicts, which have a bad influence on the economic development.

The door for friendship is never closed.

Original meaning of democracy was demagogy in Greek, and freedom in Georgian.

If democracy is obligation, it can't be perceived as freedom.

Democracy, independence, freedom implies that others don't make decisions for you and don't impose their banal ideas on you.

Freedom requires hard work and great foresight otherwise it would be nothing more than just a caprice of the epoch.

We will be able to feel and perceive real freedom and democracy if we will never think about evil and will never have a desire to do evil.

Unrestriction of obscenity during freedom will deprive us of human values.

Some think that the freedom means the anarchy and unruliness, and they find many followers in the masses.

The enemy and the friend, the conqueror and the conquered have different ideas about freedom and support that causes more or less trouble to both sides.

There won't be any freedom for us unless we have some obligation, and there won't be any democracy unless we respect the law.

Freedom and love are valuable if they promise interesting prospects.

A reasonable democracy does not permit everything, but unfortunately, not everyone understands it.

The unlimited freedom and funding are the dream of each of us.

We will achieve real democracy and freedom if we all equally perceive, respect and obey the law.

Democracy primarily is the self-respect, the ability to share the ideas of others, to discuss and to solve them together.

In case of imperfect democracy, we are obliged to see and hear a lot of inconsistent, disgraceful and dishonest things.

Anything that is inconsistent, reckless and unclear is unacceptable, including democracy, freedom and human rights.

The roguish freedom brings far more harm to the country than the dictatorship disguised as justice.

HOPE, FEAR

The belief in the future is an innate gift and a great hope.

Hope is a universal therapy for anyone and for anything, the more so it is quite intimate.

Fight for survival is a synonymous for providing the daily welfare.

We must control even our dreams so as not to let it go too far from reality.

Dream resembles a successful fight with swords, and the reality is the fight with blemished daggers.

If you want to know the power and parameters of loyalty, buy a dog.

A reasonable hope promises a common future rather than a particular one.

The martyrdom is a kind of admiration, expression of love and the last hope of the believers.

Any revolution, any reform is an expensive trouble inspiring hope.

In difference to its creator, the idea never dies and refuses to give in even to time.

We live in hope that we won't be forgotten in this world even after our death.

Hope does not guarantee realization of our ideas.

Very often our good wishes are very far from the good happenings, but we never lose hope.

If the hope dies last, the joy disappears on the very first occasion of incomprehension.

We hope all the time that our secret dream will come true.

Hope is the elixir of our efforts.

Even in hell we will live in hope.

Dreams and hopes require sacrifice.

Whether we understand it or not, inspiration of hope provides consolation.

We all have some troublesome adventures, entertaining to recall, but still we live in hope that they will never happen again.

Little children are connected with little problems, big children with big problems, little grandchildren with great joy, great grandchildren with great hopes and so we live in hope and so we will disappear.

The education inspires hope, and the wealth revives the hope.

Mostly women live in hope, even if they know that their hope is unrealistic.

Those who are always hoping to rely on others, they are destined for fiasco, except for the lucky exceptions.

If a man is not punished for his unworthy behavior in this world, we hope he will be punished in the next world, so we comfort ourselves with this helpless hope.

We can't find the rejuvenating elixir but we all live in the hope of finding it.

The hope is infinite that fills us with joy and prolongs our life.

We should live using our capabilities rather than live in abstract hopes of dream that is the same as indolence.

Sometimes, living in the hope of tomorrow means more than being satisfied today.

Polluted reality and disappointment makes us seek reality in fairy tales.

All of us are waiting for tomorrow and live in hope.

Hope has a great power controlling human mind by means of dreams.

All the problems can be solved in accordance with time, circumstances, belief, fate, and desire.

The greatest wealth is education, the ability of joy, a favorite job, rather than the money deposited in the bank, which is just a hope.

Selection of proper situation and proper time would be better than pointless hope and waiting without prospects.

He who has a faithful friend in this world, will be hopeful in that world too.

He who loses all hopes, is already half-dead.

Great inheritance needs great care in order not to lose it and not to be left empty-handed.

A man can be half-destroyed and his personality completely destroyed from despair.

Since 'hope dies last', apparently it will mourn us and attend our funeral.

He who is never afraid of anything and never hopes for any profit never lies.

The civil society, social self-awareness, proper legislation will ease our life and inspires hope in us.

Sometimes man just lives in hope, and that means a lot for him.

The hope is the elixir of life that we are so stubbornly clutching at.

To dissappoint others and then to say something in excuse is neither bad nor good.

Our hopes, our dreams and our subjective version of memoires, where we are consciously trying to recall everything good, are prolonging our life.

Hope is the best remedy, the verbal recipe of which is in the hands of individual healers of the spirit.

Hopeful dreams are characterized by light sleep.

Hope lives a long life dreaming all the time while despair commits suicide without thinking at all.

The hope for the future comes from love.

The envy is doubtful even about the hope.

There is a kind of friendship between the fear and the hope, because they alternate with each other.

The optimism and foresight are the opponents of all kinds of fear.

Very often it is the fear that makes us be loyal.

Sometimes uncertainty is also acceptable if there is a hope for the following good consequences in future.

Hope is happiness, despair is trouble, and life without a family is terrible – such are the algorithms of our life, where some problems are solved and some are unsolved.

The past always seems to be pretty and incomparable but hope for the future is always better.

We appreciate hope, at any rate better than the statistics, because we pray for it, we love it and adore it.

If we spend all our life thinking about the past failures, then the future will also be lost for us, because despair will have a bad influence on our future.

To inspire hope is the best way to manipulate others and to gain their support.

The children are the hope for their parents, whether a boy or a girl they may be.

We feel sorry for the weak, but we envy the stronger.

The hope and the memory add years and virtue to our life.

If you want to see you will be able to see the stars even from the pit, you will dream about the future and find the way to get out of the pit.

The real wealth brings not only the joy and hope to a wealthy man, but also the fame.

The envy feels better than happiness, because it lasts longer.

The envious man gets angry and nervous, when he sees the success of the others, but why, he never knows himself.

Try to be hopeful and respect the present and future.

Sometimes one demonstrates himself with his envy, curse and swear, but surprisingly enough that arouses more interest in others.

The eyes blinded by envy can't be cured.

Hope is always with us every time and everywhere, even in a very desperate situation.

Money likes silence, politics - yakking, and hope accepts all promises even the unreal ones.

Sometimes your success will emphasize the failure of your friend and will inspire envy in him.

The false hope is also hope, you never know what the fate has in store for you.

The only thing that is never betrayed it's hope.

Without faith and hope, no mother would have a desire to have children and wouldn't be able to bring them up.

He who envies you, will never be your friend.

If you love and you are loved, you are lucky, but sometimes even a mere support is also hopeful.

Envy is also a kind of modest evil, because it can't achieve the position to be envied.

The envious man feels envy for that what does not belong to him and is not able to have it.

It is a great pleasure for an envious man to find drawbacks in others.

All envy the philanthropist, especially those for whom he has done a lot.

Every important achievement can be sold and is hopeful.

Envy is a terrible thing as it can incite your friends against you even though if you have never had business relationship with them.

There are two kinds of envy: first, when you want to repeat and outperform the achievements of others, and the second, when you envy the better achievements of others inspiring a bad intention of doing something wrong to him rather than to improve his achievement.

ART, CULTURE, LITERATURE

The culture and the nation are synonyms, no matter how we understand and perceive modern art.

Loyal and supportive attitude was always the basic principle of the creative and strong-willed people.

It's a waste of time to scan a good book because you won't be able to perceive that, what is best in it.

ADVICE AND WISHES

The dignity is never defeated because it finds something good even in defeat to take into consideration in future.

If you want to create something worthwhile, you must be self-confident about your own dreams, first.

Water can do a lot of things: some good, some bad, for example, it can roll the stones of the watermill, but it can also drown a man.

Pain can also be mysterious, but we can't hide it.

In this world, apparently neither the evil nor the good is lost and both always forcefully return to us.

Tips are good if they can add something useful to your education.

Seeking an ideal man or a woman can't be good neither for a man nor for a woman because no one is ideal.

There is always something that you can't understand, if you don't experience it yourself.

Even the compulsory work is pleasant if it is followed by a good result.

Success may cause envy, but you should be humble if you want even the envious people to be proud of you.

A stupid man reveals himself with his behavior.

We must follow the fashion trends but slowly.

It is better to be a little bit late with civilization than to be too early to avoid possible mistakes.

Not all the disgusting things must be tasted.

The main purpose of faith is to make people love each other and to achieve consensus among the confessions.

Appreciation of humility deserves respect and approval.

You'd better never recall some secrets in order not to disclose accidentally, because sometimes you mustn't trust even yourself.

One must try to get closer to his national culture and demonstrate its grandeur with improvisation.

We need a kind of mature mind to be able to appreciate that what we possess.

To strive for perfection does not mean to fight against the progressive ideas of our life and to throw them away.

We need enthusiasm, passion and desire to realize our ideas.

We appreciate silence after a crazy turmoil.

Traditions should go in step with progress, otherwise they will be destroyed.

Faith is a great power, no matter whether it has found a proper position in the community or not.

You must criticize your opponent in such a manner that not to make him feel being humiliated.

Sometimes you'd better escape even the clever man, who gets on your nerves saying such truth that you can't take to your heart, but your mind agrees with that and actually is on his side.

The nation needs reasonable bravery to defend democracy and freedom.

Silence should not turn into deafness.

Your aspiration for doing good can turn your opponents into your supporters.

Neither restricted dictatorship nor granted democracy will work.

Some believe the foolish laws and fool government to be the democracy.

Real freedom and democracy require good discipline, law-obedience, diligence and hard work.

The doctrine of freedom and democracy is the care of the human being that requires a reasonable constitution of the country and the rule of law.

People pretending to be on the side of democracy and freedom represent a shameful society.

We all want peace, but we expect profit and benefit even from that.

In ancient Rome, although the battle of gladiators was so brutal, it attracted the crowd; today the fight without rules attracts people to release adrenaline; that means, a great part of the people was always a crowd and will always be a crowd, and can't be taught to be good in the name of democracy.

Democracy without demographic propaganda is an immoral system.

The main thing for democracy is what happens after the elections and not what the candidates had promised the voters before the elections.

If you respect your friends and relatives you must keep your promises you have given them rather than just to tell them beautiful lies.

Some people think that democracy and freedom are the means of maximum satisfaction of human desires, while no judgments and requirements of the law are necessary to obey.

Prophylaxis is the means, and not the guarantee, of avoiding an accidental mistake and minor infringement.

The shepherd should not abandon ninety-nine sheep untended in search of one missing sheep, because mathematics is an exact science and it doesn't like political manoeuvres.

The bare democracy brings more harm than the benefit.

If you want to know what would be the better gift for the birthday-girl, call her saying that you have already bought a gift for her and ask her to guess, then you can buy any gift from the list she names.

It's upon the time, situation and rational foresight to keep the fame.

It's easy to swear an oath, it's hard to fulfill it.

It is never late to learn lesson and improve something.

We should never laugh at the constraints, but rather we must remove them.

Very often our desires don't coincide with our understanding and caprices.

Hastiness does not support the truth and is less helpful.

We must try not to disappoint our guardian angel.

Never weep for your own capabilities.

Any business with no real results, without bringing any income, is equal to yakking.

Any other system is better than a vulnerable democracy.

The democratic system is primarily a rule of law, which doesn't like political eunuchs.

First, we must rely on our intuition and then seek the help in our mind.

The government of the false democracy won't be able to rule the country.

Democracy and national freedom were always used in support of dictatorship and authoritarian government.

Many new countries suffer and struggle in the name of democracy and freedom.

One needs to gather all his strength to be always good.

Today democracy is not the freedom of speech, but rather it is a fun of speech, because it does not require any proof.

We are not waiting for danger - we observe it in advance, inspect it and get ready to avoid it.

If you want to do good to yourself and to others you must be able to listen to the advice of the people of all ages.

Power never asks, it demands, so does the democracy, though softly.

Patriotism is to serve your country with faith and enthusiasm - it has no other definition.

Sometimes it is not advisable to tell the truth, but it is not necessary to tell the lie, instead.

Education takes long, but it is necessary for us in order to have a secure life in our best years.

A prudent and clever man can easily avoid the anticipated trouble.

One tries to join different groups because he wants to be seen, to be noticed and gain authority, no matter he deserves that honor or not.

To choose the old way to achieve the desired goal is old-fashioned and unreasonable.

Very often our walk with slow, watchful and ambushing steps leads us to our goal.

We must be able to take a step back to move forward in perspective.

Sometimes we have a desire to live so as others want but can't.

One must have both gift and phantasy to do something impossible, because the desire alone is helpless.

You must be doing something to make a mistake.

Thinking about something good is the synonymous to some good desires.

If you are motivated, you must begin doing a great job with doing a little one.

Some like just to wear old clothes, others like to dress up in the latest fashion - it is difficult to find any kind of regularity in that.

We mustn't let misfortune and disaster to punish us with remorse. Unlike love, fear is never offended.

Theoretically, we want to pretend to be an angel, and practically - to be the person who is acceptable to us.

It is not enough to read a book, you must be able to learn good ideas from it.

Creative work can earn you more friends and favourably disposed people.

Most people turn away from the problems of others trying not to be involved in those problems themselves.

Some feel so uncomfortable in an evening dress as if they had been forced to wear the uniform.

Getting tipsy is followed by feeling ill, that can be cured by getting tipsy again but this time only a little bit.

If you want to know the evil of life you should not love anyone better than yourself.

We should not leave the space for the past mistakes in our mind, if we want not to keep in step with the life and know its virtue.

Some try to prolong their life by some diets and everyday exercises, but they don't know themselves why they need such a way of life.

Excessive assemblies, meetings, symposiums and goals have never solved the problems and challenges of reality.

Erudition does not guarantee that you know exactly what you really need today.

You should never completely believe others to maintain your own belief.

The first thing for the orator it is to be able to find, select and hook his audience.

We must try to live such a life that not to be a burden to the earth and not to be left without friends.

It's better to do little but well, than to do much doubtful and pointless work in an obligatory way.

The boaster can't appear better because of his boasting.

Carefully done job rarely results in a countereffect.

If you don't finish the food that is on your plate, it might mean the disrespect of the hostess, therefore, you'd better begin with a small portion.

The main thing is to start doing business, then you will be able to earn money and be happy.

Don't openly fight against bureaucracy and imperfect laws, you'd better skillfully escape them to do the job quickly without waste of time.

It is very important to use the inherent intellect in a proper way.

Even a light beam coming from the clouds inspires us to do something good.

You'd better make friends with the great and strong enemies or you obey them, but you must be wary of little enemies, because sometimes they will do such a thing to you that you had never expected from them.

The underestimated details are the main obstacles for our success.

You should never borrow anything in such an amount that will be difficult for you to return or you won't be able to return.

The right analysis of lots of mistakes made in the past can help us to choose the right way for our development.

Faith, trust, and commitment can successfully destroy the fortresses of bureaucracy.

Our motto should be to surprise each other rather than to deceive.

Negligence follows from the ignorance and arrogance disregarding the tips and advices of others.

Experience means the ability to overcome the obstacles, while the talent tries to avoid them with his foresight.

The doctrine of freedom and democracy does not mean to be idle and to escape obligations. Therefore, the doctrine of freedom and democracy must be based on the ideology and the rule of law to avoid misunderstanding of the values that might lead us to the idle and careless behavior.

We need a great effort even for understanding what is difficult and what is simple.

We must try to achieve all our dreams because we never know when our life and our presence in this world will be over.

We must try to cheat our mind with forced laugh to be in a good mood and free from stress and pressure for a couple of minutes because that means a lot for us.

We must be in a good mood all the time to prolong our life. This is the best antiaging remedy.

STATE, SOCIETY, GOVERNMENT

The nature and the life have their own written and unwritten laws and we must share and obey them.

Patriotism means to bring up more and more good generations rather than to sacrifice ourselves to any obsessive idea and to die out without descendants.

Hatred can destroy anything including the love we believed to be eternal.

Sometimes because of our mentality, faith, family or the inferiority complex we are obliged not to support something what we really like and believe in.

The progress drives the centuries in a circle, but the speed of driving is increasing.

We must get rid of any wrong idea on time before they are known for the society and before they take roots in the crowd.

It is very important for the statehood to collect taxes, to attract investors, to ensure employment, to observe laws and justice, while attraction of wrong sponsors spending illegitimate money as if in support of something will debouch people.

Popularization of an incompetent creative worker will kill the national spirit.

We mustn't confront the public laws, but rather we must obey them and try to live and develop accordingly.

When you learn your history, when you learn about the strange things happening in the world, and when you feel how helpless you are, you become more and more convinced that there is nothing accidental in the world.

It is very good if you know in advance about the place, purpose and cause of the ending and no comments are necessary.

There is no effective public opinion, until any politician imposes the ideas upon them, that are favourable to him.

Patriotism should be raised in the citizens, and the gratitude will come itself.

The Internet allows us to reassess values, regardless of our world view.

The patriot is the one who cares about the prosperity of next generations, the prosperity of the country and peaceful coexistence rather than those who are just dreaming about good life, who are immoral and are coquetting with empty words.

People mustn't be fed up with monotonous life, they like diversity.

The syndrome of impunity can deprave people and ruin the statehood.

The tyranny and dictatorship disregarding the laws and legitimacy can quickly establish order, but it won't last long.

That society which does not blindly follow the developments of technical progress will be strong.

Demagogy and honesty are different notions, but they both have something common – they are based on the love of something or somebody.

Sometimes the greatest job is done in the name of rule of law.

The traditions, honesty, probity are much more restrictive than the laws, legislation and justice.

He who did some good is often responsible for the people he had done good for.

Our inherent nature compels us to be better.

We all like our own idea about the constitution but when we compare it with the constitution of the country we find some contradictions, therefore we must obey the constitution of the country.

The decent old age largely depends on the ability of the state and its fair attitude to age.

The public opinion no matter whether it is foolish or not still scares us as if it has something against us and threatens us.

When there is a dispute in society about what job is for females and what job for males that is the beginning of devaluation of the society.

In the immature society the students are trying to receive high scores rather than to enhance their knowledge.

In the society where physical labor is not properly compensated, neither the ethics nor morals will be properly appreciated.

We cannot appreciate the existing stability until the terrible anarchy begins dominating in the country.

The law is concrete that we can see, but justice is abstract and it is difficult for us to see it.

The immoral and immature society attracts the immoral dictator to rule the country.

The citizen is the one who tries to understand the temporary poverty and trouble of the country and does not create a riot because of it.

Pride of the country will disappear if its integrity is undermined.

The norms of conduct are considered within the context of justice.

A reasonable state system can't exist without administrative and statistical bodies.

The reason and the faith are always compatible with each other, because the faith is too conservative, while the reason is too critical, and probably it is better for social development.

The people demand justice, but from the point of view of each individual.

The state constantly suffers from the lack of intellectual people, especially the leaders, who can rule the nation.

The government, the authority will always be the symbol of evil , because it will never be in the hands of majority.

He, who can't regulate situation in the family, will never be able to be the head of the country.

The coup d'état, revolution, "reconstruction" mainly results from the activity of the incompetent government.

Very often the imperfect democracy leads to the betrayal of the genuine rational patriotism.

State violence is not very effective, but sometimes it is necessary.

Depending our status in the society we are either proud or depressed in life.

Memory destruction is the same as mental destruction.

It is the responsibility of the society to prevent the chaos.

Doing job is one thing and talking about job is another. They are two different dimensions.

Public opinion is not reliable, because it changes according to the epochs and governments of the country.

The society and the democracy should not strive for universal freedom, but rather for justice and rule of law.

The wisdom should fight against the lie to prove the truth.

Any problem is seeking the way out or make others find the way out.

The sly mind is more useful for the society, than the naive.

In difference to the virtue, it is necessary to have the talent of sponsorship to be useful for a part of society rather than only for one of its members.

The wealthy criminals should not be destroyed, but rather they must be used for the benefit of the country.

The sympathy of the community is based on the impulses of the epoch.

The state system based on the whims of the upstart will collapse sooner than later.

LOVE, BEAUTY

The worst debt to repay is the debt called "I owe you love".

Love does not live long, because it turns into routine relationship and obligation, especially in case of marriage and family burden.

Love is most versatile the world, thereof: ambitious love, prudent love, illogical love, illegal love, unruly love, actual love, friendly love, unexplained love, unacceptable love, happy love, bohemian love, sincere love, selfish love, transformable love, mulish love, matchmaking love, exemplary love, unconscious love, reckless love, tense love, sibling love, dosed love, unpunished love, uninvited love, emotional love, love at first sight, variational love, obliged love, moral love, moderate love, free love, unbridled/unruly love, theatrical love, oblivious love, bold love, provident love, calm love, innovative love, compulsory love, proper love, controlled love, beautiful love, charming love, unattainable love, imaginative love, well-regarded love, restless love, irregular love, well-organized love, unacceptable love, meddlesome love, , predatory love, false love, practical love, intellectual love, voluntary love, kinship love, baptismal love, nervous love, double love, poetic love, political love, passionate love, rational love, reflexive love, spiriual love, sexy love, motivating love, symbolic love, model love, boastful love, traditional love, unselfish love, endless love, unequal love, untimely love, unbreakable love, modest love, hidden/invisible love, proud love, arrogant love, divine love, attentive love, inspiring love, striking love, unvarnished love, crazy love, perverted love, ordinary love, empty love, strong love, momentary love, imaginative love, clever love, stubborn love, genuine/real love, harmonious love, human love, etc.

The Beauty, the charm is worthless if it doesn't show human warmth.

Love can inspire different feelings in us including hatred.

Love is a temporary illness rather than chronic, but its symptoms are memorable.

The equation of love is unchanged, despite changing the order of the addends.

Love is the 'Perpetuum Mobile' of life, which doesn't care about age.

Jealous love does no good, because it causes absurd confrontation.

Love is good if it's eternal.

Great love must be regulated in a clever way to last longer.

Marriage is mainly an attempt to turn love into friendship and delicately to hide the naked feelings.

Love can be sown well without materialism, but won't be able to develop well without it.

Love is primarily mutual understanding that requires to be wise, to control nerves and to be aware of obligations.

Our heart feels depressed and our spirit feels sorry when love leaves us filling us with reproaches.

Very often love becomes the cause of confrontation, unless we teach the rival a lesson on time.

Sometimes, we may lose good sense and forget traditions because of love.

All the discoveries are the product of great love that is difficult to explain and to understand.

The beauty also requires the investment of feelings, while the investor is the loving heart.

Today, the love itself undermines the myths created about it.

At the beginning of the relationship of a couple, they just love each other and later they begin to realize their obligations.

Love means mutual respect, mutual understanding, otherwise it won't last long and will turn into an obligation.

Love causes a pleasant thrill, but it mustn't burn out.

The diagnosis of love is as follows: disruption of the rhyme of life, sharp decrease of effective skills, absent-mindedness, time imperceptions, great excitement, extraordinary actions.

Love is an infinite suffer for a decent, emotional, heartfelt person, especially if he is young.

Genuine love is always modest, because we put our soul in it and take care of it.

Love is a sorrowful pleasure that shines every now and then and comforts your soul.

Love is a kind of penalty kick, where it's upon your good luck whether you will score a goal or miss it.

Love has its duties and responsibilities, whether we like it or not.

The woman who fell in love many times is the victim of her false feelings though sometimes it has a happy end.

A failed, pointless, disappointed love often turns into hatred.

The world will turn into a paradise by means of the eternal love, which will narrow the arena for hatred.

Love knows its own parameters which are unknown for us.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, true love is also based on the materialism.

In the relationship of a couple even Platonic love can't prevent imprudence.

The pointless, uncontrolled love is unsustainable and is always ready for spiritual speculation.

You should not be afraid of the first love, even though it is uncertain and as fragile as a vase.

We all have our obligations, but we don't owe anything to anyone, except mutual love.

We should just steal love from each other rather than money - at least it sounds good.

Love can be reinforced even by business relationships.

Marriage is reinforced by children who change their silver love into gold love.

The beauty of a weak-willed is not attractive.

Depraved love also needs a kind of support, because it is also love, at any rate.

The greatest earthly delight, the beauty is ephemeral, but unforgettable.

We respect fear but resist to love because of jealousy.

Love is in our body as a delayed blast and we never know when it is going to explode.

We all need and are looking for love to have a beautiful life in this world.

If you are delighted, it's love, and if you find a common language, it's friendship. In both cases you stay together and that's the main thing.

Sometimes love appears, sometimes disappears, sometimes escapes us for some reason or another.

If you want to love humanity, first of all you must be able to love yourself.

Love does not have any parameters - you just love and that's all.

We must fight the evil intentions by loving heart.

Woman and money promise happy life but don't guarantee anything.

All kind of love, beauty, inspiration have its time.

Love is a builder by nature.

Devaluation of love parameters causes devaluation of morals.

Love is the most easily deceived and provoked.

If you don't want to be betrayed by your friends or relatives, first you must be sure that they respect you, fear you and love you.

Beauty can be a thing, a treasure or a cascade of opportunities depending on how it's used.

The love always leads us to good and makes us do good job all the time regardless of the result.

Waste of emotions is not good even in love, because it will exhaust you.

He who seeks love should know the nature and character of his partner better than her appearance and wardrobe.

The bridge between the hearts is the only thing that never requires capital repairs.

We all love life, but not everyone is capable to understand it.

The word "love" can be associated with care, charm, warmth, respect, compliment, affection, flowers, sexy and sleepless nights.

One must be witty and must be able to subdue his ambitions to maintain love.

All beauty has its own autonomy in this world.

The best entertainment is fanatically to love your job.

The women better know the language of love than the men.

There is a great difference between the ability of love and the aspiration for love because the latter involves the intellect too.

Today we need money and finances even for watching the beauty.

No love can be judged, condemned or accused, because it is very individual and incognizable.

Love has always a happy end in movies, but it is still being tested in life.

In a clever society love is always concentrated and noble, if it obeys traditions.

The strong people are always respected, but for some reason the careless ones are loved.

One must show heroism for the sake of love, rather than commit murder.

We don't know whether the passion is love or just the age-related phenomenon.

Love is a desire to live in such an euphoria, the consequences of which are quite unknown for you.

In practice, love does not obey judgment and order, but theoretically it tries to respect them.

Some warm, charming and mysterious words are enough for a boy and a girl to fall in love.

Love means to forgive rather than to revenge, because none of us is perfect or faultless today.

The betrayal can be in ambush even there where a great love is.

Very often the change of our attitude to love is caused by the change of our body with the age.

We must sacrifice a lot to love for its final triumph.

Today love is like a supermarket: if you have money, it's your mind that makes a choice rather than your heart.

Love does not guarantee happiness, because the feelings also wear out no matter whether your love is mutual or not.

One spark is enough for love to start fire, but if we don't take care of it we never know whether it starts or not.

The forms of love are changing, but its essence remains the same.

Despite their attempt to understand each other, very often the wisdom and love can't understand each other.

Love can't be built or reinforced on the basis of hatred.

It is hard to make choice between luxury and love without the help of reason.

We need love to improve life rather than to cause trouble.

Love is divine and incomprehensible to human mind and so it will be for ever because we want it to be always mystic and memorable.

Self-love is such a phenomenon that no other love can be compared with it.

Love is diverse: maternal love, obligatory love, love of talents, polite love, kind love, star love, etc. not to say anything about the love between a man and a woman.

The best doctor and healer can be the everlasting love.

Beauty should be inaccessible and rare, otherwise it will also be devaluated and become imperceptible.

Love can turn a person into a terrible-scarecrow or into an earthly deity depending on the couple and their harmony.

The age for love hasn't been defined yet, because it is of such a changeable and unique nature.

The man suffering from tortured and cheapened love will be heartbroken to the end of his life.

The strong love has no limits, especially for those who had never seriously loved before.

Hatred is also a kind of love that has a rancid smell.

The ability to love is the bestowed dignity, but sometimes we can't appreciate it.

Where there is love, there will be truth, at least we wish and believe it so.

The audience is rarely satisfied with the natural talent and beauty of the actress because we always expect much more from the divine beauty.

Love has its own rules and laws, though we don't know them at all in youth.

Love has always respected the reputation to some extent.

It is no good to recall the past if it keeps the memory of a desperate love.

Desperate love does not deserve a reproach, because its memory strengthens us and encourages us to love again, though this time the mind and consideration will also be involved.

You can escape from your love going abroad but you must throw your mobile phone away.

The blind man dreams about getting eyesight, but he who is blinded with love is against it.

Sometimes, the great love and commitment are ready for provocations.

The desperate love can be cured with a of hopeful love.

Love is so powerful that sometimes even those are not able to see who are not blind.

If love is temporary and ephemeral, then at least friendship must be stronger and longlasting.

Although sometimes love makes us blind, deaf and inconsiderate, it would be terrible to leave this country without love, without understanding the virtue of life.

Love does not obey the age, on the contrary, love makes the old man feel younger.

Today it is outmoded to look for the tomb of the old love, instead we are looking for the bedroom of the new love.

The “love-measuring” jug has never been created and will never be created.

Today neither the pyramids nor the temples are built for the sake of love, instead love is financed for some period of cohabitation.

To keep secret is good for lots of things, for example, for seized love.

Love has endured the ignorance and the cataclysms of all time, and it will endure again.

The harmony of the beauty and life require pure talent and experience not to become fed up with each other.

The desire to do good comes from the awareness of love.

It is urgent for both representatives of gender to learn the secrets of love regardless of their age.

If your love makes the other happy and makes him forget the vanity of life, then that is the genuine love.

Love is a kind of self-interest, even because you need each other.

Love never knows to select the time or the manner, it will just appear creeping and that’s all.

The main participants of the love-show are as follows: hormones, appearance, twinkling eyes, passion, career, money, spirit and sometimes even the heart.

There are lots of beverages to drink and relax, but there is nothing better than love to get drunk.

Try to love so that not to become boring; don't bother her with too much attention, don't embarrass her with your excessive emotions - very often that gives a counter-effect.

That is a lucky chance to have a desirable job, wife and children, but love and responsibility can settle everything.

The long-lasting love is the most desirable prize on the verge of dreams and reality.

To feel the beauty of the forest, first you should stay there overnight.

Love can become boring but not tiring.

In difference of approval, the parameters of love will always be undefined.

In fact, love is a kind of free feeling and voluntary obedience that should not be confused with slavery.

Love is eternal with its equations either solved or unsolved for us.

One can find love by doing a lot unselfish good.

Love and passion are the same in its sense, but they are morally different.

Love also needs material support that is good for it.

People must believe in unselfish love without thinking too much.

Motherhood is the source of true love, that becomes clear to the parent after having a child.

Sometimes love seems to be a kind of wisdom, and sometimes a silly thing.

Love can be anything except betrayal.

Love doesn't deserve reproach, whatever desperate it might seem.

Love has no boundaries and no limits. It appears without invitation and often with the help of our heart gone "astray".

We appreciate love, but we don't spend enough time for it to thrive.

Some people build a house for love and some make a cage for it.

It is strange for love to give such an advice as: “choose this, it is better than that”, because in such a choice together with considerations and feelings the hormones also participate to make love real and to reinforce it.

The greatest pleasure comes from the appreciated love.

Mostly love is a great harmony of a beautiful spirit and hormones.

A bunch of flowers given by the boyfriend makes a desperate woman forget all despairs.

We don't escape love – we care about love and are ill with it for some time.

One can fall in love several times, otherwise the world won't develop.

Love can cure anything and everything if it is sincere and true.

Apart from great pleasure and happiness, love is a great commitment and responsibility.

Unlike hatred, love is satisfied with something very little, and very often even with a kind word.

MONEY AND WEALTH

Money is a very difficult phenomenon with its well-established mechanism of regulation, and if we aren't aware of the algorithm for its consumption, we may become penniless.

Money helps us to enhance our mental capabilities.

Money is associated with all our five feelings, because without money those feelings also become weaker, faded and less intensive.

Today money has more priority than strength, education and justice, because all these can be bought.

Money has an intuitive power.

Whether we like it or not, money manipulates us, promotes us and makes a necessary person of us.

Instead of looking ahead the business is looking upwards, therefore sometimes it comes to a bad end.

To have money does not mean to be able to control justice, but it often has an influence on impregnability of the law.

In fact, the wealth, the money can change absolutely anything, and without money no development is possible.

Money and art are quite different but they cannot do without each other.

Quiet life and well being are determined by prudence, progress and money.

Money lending is a risk factor, but not for banks, because there are hundreds of good payers per slow payer.

You need good luck to earn money, but you need brain to profitably invest it.

Much money doesn't give us additional rights, but it imposes us additional obligations making us think more about the interests of the country.

Money is one of the best remedies to calm your nerves.

The image, fame and profitable investment of money leads the country to prosperity.

Justice often tends to be on the side of the money, depending on the refutability of the facts.

Laziness cannot get on with cohabitation of money and time.

Money provides plenty of opportunities, but it cannot prevent the government from reaching you at least in some illegal way.

Loyalty is your guarantee if your honesty is financed.

Money is not enough to make a serious job without hard conscientious work.

Money can change the living conditions better than the human nature.

Making a fortune also means doing good job regardless of the way you did it - with all your heart or with your mind.

It makes sense to make money as far as you enjoy it until it becomes a daily routine.

There is more money than mind in the crowd but not in the developed society.

One needs not only wisdom but also a good sense of time for rational use of his fortune.

Money spoils a man gradually depriving him of genetic nobility.

Acquisition of thorough education is the investment of money and energy, but partial education is a waste of money.

Some don't like mathematics, but never refuse arithmetic to calculate the money earned and spent.

Money also likes to have to do with prudent, busy and well-organized people.

The greatest wealth is money, career, sound mind, health and a favorite job, but for some time.

The conscience and dirty money are not friends, but sometimes they help each other if necessary.

The joy of spending money should not be more than the joy of earning money.

The up-to-date information, foresight and courage are the prerequisites for successful business gambit.

Money destroys the belief, career ideas and makes us do the job we have never done before.

If one is working for living, he is a person, and if for money he is a businessman.

It is a great art to know how to spend money, but it is a greater art to know how to earn money and successfully invest it.

As soon as the amount of money determines our place and status in society, the society is doomed to luxury and degradation.

Today the main driving force is money, rather than the aspiration, and our reason takes it into consideration.

Money does not always stink, but a bunch of money has different flavors.

History was always made by great people, today money makes history.

Sometimes money ranks higher than evil and envy, because it can put an end to both.

The greatest wealth is the knowledge that can earn money whenever it is necessary rather than just to accumulate money.

Although sometimes we make mistakes while shopping, still it is the best way to invest money.

Money spoils everyone, especially those originated from the monkey gene.

To make a fortune you need fight, courage and a good advisor.

Parsimony and generosity come from genetics and have nothing to do with money.

Who doesn't know the value of money, he can't be entrusted doing anything serious.

As soon as one gets a million, he immediately wants to increase it tenfold, i.e. his passion begins to rise, and so, he'd better do the job he has the talent for or be totally busy with earning money.

Usually, it is difficult to be patriot with no money and with no job, but some are.

If you cannot turn your knowledge into money, you won't be motivated to develop your intellect.

Thinking alone won't bring you any income unless you are able to sell your ideas.

He who rapidly comes into money is so surprised that cannot control himself and very often is getting poorer.

Money is a way of investing your mind rather than the way of arrogance, luxury and self-satisfaction.

Division of money is often the reason of mutual misunderstanding.

Mind and money are in harmony until the latter becomes million.

Money changes everyone spoiling and making them a bit more cautious despite their mentality and inherent honesty.

Money gives us an opportunity to be free, independent, charming, unless we are programmed with evil genetics and customs.

For a clever man taking a loan from the bank is the same as to put everything at stake with the difference that he can rationally reconsider his capacities rather than emotionally.

You can never take a step or do anything without money, though talking a lot of rubbish is possible without money.

You need a good income to be able to put money aside.

Lack of money causes great discomfort so that sometimes we run out of patience.

Unlike the poor, the rich never trust and forgive each other.

Money can profane many sacred things if you allow.

This is our wallet that controls our desires in the best possible way.

Materialism is nothing without money investment.

Distribution of money is the consensus of the minds between the companions that they do not have.

Money is a great power if you can use, invest and distribute it so that you don't forget to be generous.

Money does not like adventures but rather it prefers a calm life i.e. be deposited in the bank.

Money is the warrant for comfortable life, but not for happiness and love.

Number of business people is increasing compared to romantic people, because romanticism can't do without money.

Money invested in a rational way will never fail you.

Some feel uncomfortable to talk about money but actually no one is against money itself.

In young age, man has enough energy to earn the initial amount of money with his imagination and effort while in mature age he makes money from money and in the old age he invests money in a promising way.

If you do not love your loved one more than money, then almost everything will become devalued.

Never trust the man who confuses money with love.

Some gets more pleasure from collecting money than from its spending for better life.

Clever person never has the inherent lack of money.

Some have little salary that can't have a rest because their finances don't allow them to think about tiring.

If you want to make money for nothing, you must know the taste of crowd and take it into consideration.

There are lots of sober-minded people, but among them there are few who can earn money and employ others.

The lazy wastes money while the hard-working spends it in the hope to get more and spend better.

Today the big money undermines our faith, traditions, patriotism giving itself airs in the name of freedom and democracy.

Money used to solve the problem is the expense rather than bribe.

Unlike the knowledge and the achievements, money and career are always tempting and unreliable.

It is far difficult to find money than to lose it.

The lack of ideology makes us seek for easy money.

Some are so greedy for money that are ready to sell their soul to devil at a discount.

Charity is done by wealthy people as an excuse because no decent man can earn much money.

The penniless is the happiest man in his way because he has no chance to go bankrupt.

The wealthy man must treat others as equal persons, so that not to be exposed to a willy-nilly envy and treachery.

We should live for our pleasure rather than just for making money because making money should involve certain adventures and should be associated with some pleasant memories.

The phenomenon of money is that it is a warrant for independence without any obligation.

The passionate fire of love requires some money from time to time to be added, so that the feelings not to burn down and start flickering.

We are quick to get used to making money, but the generosity is a treacherous action against it.

In old age there is no better thing than money and power, but they are incomparable with the happy years of young age.

Usually, working people produce and consume revenues, but sometimes people do better and enjoy life with easy money.

Money is interesting if you have more than enough, and there is no one who can spoil your happy life.

You can't earn money unless you solve some problems and support some activities.

You'd better try to make money rather than to whine about shortage because it is more pleasant.

Love without money won't last long.

The big money doesn't know care about anything sacred including siblings.

A creative businessman likes to seek for the ways of making money, though he is also good at counting money.

Money is the source of all happiness and misfortune therefore it is essential to know the rules about how to spend and how to invest.

Wealth will also be ephemeral unless its owner knows how to use, invest and increase it.

The excess amount of money should be properly invested given the threat of a sudden bankruptcy.

One can be punished for wasting money but not for an attempt of making money.

Today money is power and not vice versa.

Neither an unemployed man nor an uninvested money is worth anything.

If you want to make money, the first thing first is to learn how to invest and spend your own self.

Money is also a kind of masterpiece, a painted paper, without which you can't do anything.

Sometimes treachery is also a way of making money.

Money does not smell but still the law feels that it stinks.

They say that money does not bring happiness, but we have never seen the poor who is full of happiness.

Sometimes we sacrifice our freedom for money, but we don't care much about that if we already have lots of money.

It is a lucrative decision to hide money in offshore because you never know, when the money kept and hidden there will be useful for you.

Theoretically, people always support idealism, but when there is an opportunity of earning money they all become materialists for a while.

Money has the power to seduce the algorithms of honesty and to find alibi.

We spend money on necessities and earn it for pleasure using the chances and opportunities by means of brainstorming and taking risks.

The high level of living makes us save money and invest it, because the desire of saving money teaches us how to invest it in a better way.

The economization means to plan life and to spend and invest money in a proper, creative and clever way.

Apparently, the beggars are also necessary for us to satisfy our desire of being good and affectionate by helping them with money, because we must spend money and finances to pretend to be good.

The sweat-shop work will dirty-up our hands, but we don't care if we can turn that dirt into money.

To better understand our existence, it is important to make investment in skills and experience rather than wealth because the latter, unlike the former, suffer devaluation and various fluctuations all the time.

Generosity is such a great inherent merit that you don't need to strive for wealth but if you are poor it will be difficult to retain it.

The desire of exposing our work often seduces us to think about earning money.

Money was always a shield in the hands of any ruler in any epoch.

Sometimes the power of money makes you do such a thing that is unacceptable to your nature.

Wealth should be used for economical and rational use of time rather than for wasting it.

Economically to spend money is more difficult than to earn it, because in the first case it is necessary to subdue some reckless ambitions.

Our goal should be to earn money through our prudence and profitable investment rather than just to make fortune.

It's easy to fall in the trap of credits, but it isn't easy to get out of it without any problem.

Money would be worthless without the joy and faith it gives us.

Money can serve us, and money can rob us depending on how we use it.

There is nothing to compete with gold so far - it is an axiom, it is a constant that doesn't subject neither to judgment nor devaluation.

Your desires will be unfulfilled forever unless you invest money and effort.

You can buy anything with much money, including immortality, but not the manly qualities.

Well-considered restrictions can provide happy life for you and much money in your pocket all the time.

Business is a profession, and the businessman is a speculator, who makes more fortune than his descendants will ever need.

Money is an accelerating mechanism for demonstration of one's intelligence and its application.

Although money has great opportunities it can't be compared with the real estate.

Money can dispel the evils of life and can sort out things, but it destroys mind.

Today money is the biggest mandatory friend of ours and very often we do all kinds of disgusting things to maintain such a kind of friendship.

Money has a great power for acquiring knowledge, for demonstration of our talent and wit.

Idolization of money causes moral degradation and discourages mental development.

Money gives us a certain freedom, but we achieve real freedom with the money earned in an honest way.

You will be respected for your money or will be scolded unless you use or invest it on time.

HEALTH

Nothing can be compared with health: neither - beauty, nor - belief, nor intellect.

The time is misleading us, because we think we will be young forever until osteochondrosis and other diseases characteristic of old age attack us.

We should try to spend every next winter without any health problems.

Laugh and joke are not considered to be waste of time because they are good for our health.

Feeling of joy is good for our health and very often it's our healer.

Labor therapy is sometimes better than any medicine or medicinal treatment.

Any disease can be cured if you have the necessary medicine.

If you mention the old age very often, its peculiar illnesses will become normal for you.

The main purpose of our organism is rationally to use all biochemical processes.

The diet should be the style of our life that means rational nutrition and hygiene.

We must inspire all the patients with optimism that they will be cured, in this case the day an hour doesn't matter.

Due to ignorance of the prophylaxis of AID, it has spread even in rural places.

The healthy soul is never sick therefore it is not afraid of anything.

If we want to be healthy and physically fit, we must be able to control our nerves, first.

Uncertain caprices are the symptoms of a human illness.

Ignorance is also a kind of illness, especially when the ignorant can't feel it.

Doctor is not afraid of the patient but is sympathetic to him, while the patient is afraid of the doctor but obeys his advice, though is not sympathetic to him.

The intensive thinking of death is peculiar to our critical age or deterioration of health.

The best medicine for health is to control yourself.

Health is the only factor that can outweigh all the other delights of life, including money and career.

Treatment should be adjusted to the patient and not vice versa.

There is no absolutely healthy person and, if any, they just have never had a serious medical examination.

There is no other doctor better than the healthy environment.

Very often the doctors, rather than patients, are more convinced that the patient will recover, because they know more about the resistance and miraculous ability of the human body than the patients.

When a person has a mental retardation, it is a symptom that he needs treatment.

Those who never trade with their age and never ask for privileges are getting better and healthier with the years.

The constant nervous excitement is a symptom of ill-perception.

A healthy lifestyle to have an uncompromising smile on your face.

We all need the course of psychotherapy no matter who will provide it – the nature, wife or the doctor-psychotherapeutic.

The main concern of a human being is health, peace and future generation, otherwise he won't be happy.

The old age is an incurable disease and its treatment for longer life is upon our own genetics.

Health is perhaps the most desirable beauty that we don't always appreciate properly.

The paradox of this world is that despite their knowledge and experience the doctors can't live longer than their patients.

If you don't have a rest in a proper time and in a proper way, you won't be able to avoid the "Diseases of Civilization" - high blood pressure, nervousness, headache etc.

You can't buy health with money but it's worth trying.

Unfortunately, sclerosis can't help us forget the diseases we don't want to remember.

We often make a choice between tasteful and distasteful foods, but very often the latter is better for our health.

The happy emotions prolong our life, give us joy and is good for our health.

Periodically any woman needs consultations of a gynecologist, mammologist, dermatologist, dentist or her know-all friends to maintain health, but she needs a male for absolute happiness and a husband for teasing her friends.

Healthy lifestyle is also transmissible if there are people around us who help us and give us an example.

Most pleasant enmity is the age and we are constantly cheating it if our health allows that.

Loveless sex can be considered just as a treatment.

Plastic surgery is a kind of self-violence, but it calms your soul, fills your heart with pride and revives the memory of your young years.

It is more important to have healthy and beautiful legs rather than to wear beautiful shoes.

Today, taking into consideration the achievements of technical progress, even a healthy person needs treatment and prophylaxis.

A healthy laughter is a healer and health-friendly, while boredom is our tireless enemy causing different diseases.

Sport is the therapy of any trouble.

We always need to maintain health, sometimes even with the simulation of illness.

Laughter can easily get rid of stressful events, nervous disorders, etc. but its healing phenomenon has not been explained yet.

MISCELLANEA

Administration means responsibility, and responsibility means accountability.

Every action, attempt, and attitudes that we use in life is politics, no matter whether we like it or not.

Your enemy is looking at your feet not to let you go, while your friend is looking into your eyes to hug you.

The frequent change of our dreams is the sign of lack of our memory.

Vacation and business trip are almost synonymous, the former is a passive vacation and the latter an active one.

If you doubt in your taste, be careful in evaluation.

The real woman is the one who makes man to commit such a heroism he doesn't quite understand himself.

The hero must love his nation first and then his supporters.

It is impossible to recognize the human being to the end because he is a micro-cosmos and the micro-cosmos is far more complex than the macro-cosmos.

Faith can turn bread into meat, and wine into blood, but it can't do anything with the ignorant.

The human mind changes like weather: sometimes cloudy, sometimes hot, you can never rely on it.

The belief can help many spiritual and physiological diseases.

In a decent society, the conscience, belief and honesty never retire.

It is far more difficult to be friend than to have a friend.

The well-grounded refuse is easier to say than the groundless consent, though eventually both are forgotten.

An angry man can say something that he shouldn't have said or didn't intend to say.

We want to know much more than we need in this world, though we know that we can't take anything with us to that world.

Talking rather than hard work takes most of our energy.

There is no other educational institution batter than life because it involves labor and learning together.

If a man is accustomed to living in a cowshed, the comfortable life will be unsuitable for him and will never be able to get used to it.

To do well is never late, no matter whether you will be appreciated or not.

Life is a pleasant headache if you can understand the virtue of your existence.

The power of the conscience is so great that sooner or later it will wake up even in the last scoundrel.

The mass is naive and credulous in its nature, but arrogant and ambitious.

You must analyze your past life to prove that you are a person.

Our memory can forget a lot of things that we don't need.

Our character is revealed through our ambitions.

The past seems wonderful if the present is not interesting.

The hero is a man whose efforts and commitment have real consequences rather than that who is just yakking.

We should respect the viewpoints of others, but we mustn't forget our own interests.

Physically our ancestors worked harder than we, but today we have more mental work to do.

There is always a way out depending upon the one who is seeking it.

Surprisingly enough, the poor, unlike the rich, are not afraid of having a lot of children, though they know that it will be difficult to bring them up.

Sometimes, such dreams come to true we had never seriously thought about - it is also a good luck.

Let's try to forgive our friends their mistakes, but the recidivists can't be forgiven.

The fight, confrontation, competition of civilizations is important for social development, but in a modest way, because anything enormous will turn the society into a mass, and soon after that into a degraded crowd.

Some are not able to learn a lesson and improve their mistakes, because they are born for making mistakes.

The time is our greatest enemy revenging for our wasted years.

A patient and clever man will always be able to avoid any threat.

It is horrible when your time's up and you are not necessary for anyone, but you don't want to move to that world and you are dragging on time.

Apparently, the evil action is the prerogative of the genetics rather than of upbringing.

Even the potential danger is potentially dangerous.

It is more difficult to teach and learn to be silent than to teach speaking.

Eyes see everything, but without hearing it would have lost much.

Failure to see and repent your own mistakes will grow into chronic hypocrisy.

The human soul is more sensitive than his mind, but the latter can find the solutions much faster.

The clever, beautiful and good women are the lot of the inexperienced men who can't appreciate them, while the shameless, fool and idiot women are the lot of those, who are trying to appreciate their relationship with them.

It is a woman's prerogative to represent a petty misdemeanor as a big one, while men try to represent a big misdemeanor as a trifle. This is the difference between the men and the women.

Sturdy beauty is always fascinating, where fear and admiration are combined.

Sometimes even the angel finds it difficult to differentiate a man from the animal due to their behavior.

Today the fight for peace should not turn into war or the world will be wiped out.

The mind must know the caprices of life and the way out of the deadlock.

Men love their lovers more than their wives, but they are forced to respect the latter as their family member and the mother of their children.

The nation, which can't learn lesson from the same mistakes made several times is genetically ill and nothing will help them except dictatorship.

Women are unpredictable creatures, and this is what that adds chic, beauty, and mysterious charm to them.

Even the secret confided to a friend must contain some hidden information to be able to verify it if the secret is revealed.

Only moral people should talk about morals.

Women are guilty of seducing men because they are so attractive and beautiful that they themselves allure men to satisfy their passions and desire.

Evil can't always overcome the obstinacy and very often obeys its will.

The joke can open our mind, the anecdote can encourage us, and both can make us feel the virtue of life.

We should know how to invest money rather than just spend it.

The fool is more prone to obedience than the clever.

All professions have their advantages, if we expose its features in a clever way in accordance to time and environment.

People are more interested in the details of the personal life of a celebrity than in his achievements.

Clearly pronounced brief ideas and broad possibilities of conscious are characteristic of the true intellectual.

The depraved soul of civilization is not subject to treatment.

Sometimes it is good to speak out to feel relief, but it is better to restrain yourself.

Not long ago, it was difficult for the ignorant young people to find a fancy woman to have sex and they used to get married in early age and to have lots of children - this was the case when ignorance gave good results.

Pointless and unreasonable talk sometimes pushes us to do something wrong.

The synonyms of hatred and obstinacy are the failure and lack of success.

It is very important to have devoted friends and loyal companions in old age.

To be environmental-friendly means to prolong our life.

If your friends and colleagues can't attend your funeral because they are not alive, it is good, on the one hand, because it means you lived longer, but on the other hand, it is bad, because nobody will be sorry for you and nobody will envy you.

The purpose allows to use different methods and it is often right for the next generations.

Appraisal is good for young people but in a reasonable way.

We must show fraudulent loyalty to the enemy, which requires great patience.

It is the imperfect knowledge that is bad for us, rather than that what we know well.

We must try to behave so that not to earn enemies.

We must fight against the old-fashioned traditions in a rational way.

Politics is basically an arena for greedy and self-interested people because they are all envious, unreliable and unsupportive people who try to achieve career.

The man must always be tactful and compromising with the woman, if he wants to be happy to the end of his life.

In difference to information, the advertisement is designed either for selling something of inferior quality or to gain much money.

Our belief relies on our attitude to reality rather than on our aspiration for wealth.

He who does not circulate and invest money in financial operations is an imbecile and will learn about it after some time.

Labor should be a demand, and democracy must be principle in business, otherwise, the country will be overwhelmed by pseudo-politicians.

Friendship saturated with money can't last longer and sometimes has a bad end.

It is useful for us to know our own dignity and to enjoy it.

Sometimes a worthless and useless man can also be good at something, if the situation and the fate are on his side.

Women are amazing creatures – they may be insulted by your activity or inactivity depending on their mood in that moment.

Experience is based on an axiom of loss and acquisition.

People have a lot of problems some may be solved with a good result though most of them remain unsolved.

You must take responsibility to achieve success rather than to rely on others.

The captivating eyes of a woman are so wonderful that no part of the male body will be able to compete with them.

Sometimes the fate plays a “tag” game with us, but it also has its good side.

Very often the political opponents and enemies become partners, because career, money and personal interests are above the interests of the country for them.

Faith, dream, ideas don't like hesitation.

Thinking, knowledge and doing a favorite job are the guarantee of career success.

Implementation of our ideas is the greatest happiness, however we can't completely realize it.

We can't avoid love, but we can be disappointed because of the circumstances.

With some rare exceptions, the expiration date of our time is determined.

We don't know whether the talent is a divine gift or given by devil, because it can do both good and evil.

Purposeful person will be able to achieve the goal that seems impossible at first sight.

Defects and recklessness can be forgiven, but the betrayal and unreliability can never be forgiven.

The problems of law and justice have always been at every stage of the social development, but this does not mean that we should try to solve them in a revolutionary way at the expense of a great sacrifice.

The patient is more likely to be treated by the hopeful words of the doctor than his prescribed medication.

Professionalism involves knowledge, enthusiasm, critical attitude, which is much better than education.

The knowledge of the ABC of life will be assessed by time and age.

Women are better aware of life than men, but somehow men are better able to use its opportunities.

Popular decisions are not always good for the state interests because there is a lot of "bluff" in them.

There is no good to be stubborn in a dispute, but rather it is better to search for a way out.

It would be difficult to live without consolation, hope and dreams.

The politician needs the most practical training of mind for economic and social development of the country.

Our faith never tries to struggle against our own feelings.

Human development depends on their natural potential and mental abilities.

All of us are in search of our self all the time.

Technical progress and the achievements of civilization are made with big money, but they shouldn't be always accepted without consideration because it is no good for human consciousness artificially to accelerate things and be ahead of time.

Whether we like it or not, we must be in step of time, epoch and circumstances so as not to be judged by next generations.

Hatred is more familiar and acceptable for envy.

Doing good job and the effective fight for justice is a kind of joy.

Equality is so attractive because it has nothing to divide.

Love is more supportive than friendship, and that is why it requires devoted relationship with no betrayal.

We must know all the existing diseases and their peculiarities to be able to cure them.

Mostly, there are penniless random people in politics, who think they are better than anyone else.

The traditions also require improvement, whether the old generation like it or not.

All attempts of an unconscientious person to obtain conscience is useless because he does not need it.

We all have the desire to be better than we are, but sometimes our nature doesn't allow us.

Every woman is silly in her own way if she wants to disclose it.

A man of astute nature pretends to be open-hearted, but he is always hiding some details.

We aren't doing and writing anything new, but rather we are just considering the ideas of others in a new way as far as our talent allows and put everything down on the paper.

Pride is not a physical power, but it is one of the strongest ways to show it.

Sympathy often finds it difficult to compete with antipathy, because no one knows when the disadvantage of the latter is disclosed.

The minority always does the work of the majority, even though they ask for and receive permission from them through the elections.

The truth is powerful in case if it finds a defender.

Never give money to those who envy you, because if he succeeds he will become arrogant and will never return your debt.

Life is valued by the ability of fight and courage, because it doesn't like idleness.

He who perceives his weaknesses and overcomes them is a strong personality.

Laziness is the most passive enemy of human progress and development.

The problem of the politics and politicians have always been economy of the country and the population feeding.

First, we need to take care of our nervous system, because it determines the nature of the human "self".

Regardless of the products the unpleasant job is boring, and people try to escape it.

Everything is good if it is pleasant to sight, if the heart desires and the stomach can digest well.

Sometimes terror is an extreme tool to fight against injustice, if the right of innocent people is violated.

There are some ideas, arguments, remarks and alibi to justify the asceticism.

A person himself must plan his life, make his life beautiful and enjoy it.

It is dangerous to have relationship with him, who has nothing to lose.

The heart seems to be the main organ for women, because they love and feel with heart.

Sometimes walking along the way of life a lot of thorns and splinters hurt our feet, but it is pleasant for us to overcome the difficulties.

Sometimes waiting for the loved one makes us stronger, the more so we expect to hear about his interesting adventures.

When the fact is evident, it will no longer help to say, "it's incredible", "it's impossible" and "he can't have done it".

Man should live a busy life working hard to be able to feel the virtue of existence in this world.

A sense of humor helps us overcome difficulties and the caprices of life relatively painlessly.

Love is in search of the desired partner all the time and in this search the main actors are the time, fate and an occasion.

Indeed, the state needs reasonable propaganda and agitation.

It is too costly to sell the soul to the devil, because the ransom is ten times more.

When a system destroys another system, which is already falling, you aren't guaranteed that you won't get into its ruins, what's more nobody can anticipate the consequences.

Yakking, chatting, and talking on the phone are the bad way of entertainment and killing time.

Sometimes the heart sees better than the eyes, and the soul speaks better than the tongue.

The enemy of poverty is education, knowledge and culture rather than the bread you bring home every day.

There is little place for friendship in politics, so unreliable and unsound is the relationship between people in this area.

Rational criticism is useful in difference to the criticism full of empty words.

Sometimes healthy laughter, but not the mockery, works better against cheating and mistakes than any other punishment.

It doesn't matter whether you apologize or not - the main thing is what will be the benefit of that.

Laughter is a peculiar therapy, and it can even cure those who never know its purpose and virtue.

Any national problem can be solved economically rather than politically.

Some are the angels in life, but if they are unsuccessful no one needs them even though they are angels.

CONTENT

Human being.....	3
General Ideas	16
Education, Knowledge.....	17
Wisdom, Genius, Education, Talent	31
Economics and Business.....	64
Law, Lawyer, Justice	75
Fortune, Luck, Hysteria, Democracy.....	87
Hope, Fear.....	95
Art, Culture, Literature	104
Advice and Wishes	105
State, Society, Government	118
Love, Beauty	125
Money and Wealth.....	142
Health.....	158
Miscellanea	164

Giorgi Kuparadze

Born on October 3, 1942 (registered on 19 March 1943), Giorgi Kuparadze is a writer, scientist, inventor, sportsman.

Profession: forest engineer.

Sport: Champion of Georgia in boxing. Founded the Rugby teams: Tbilisi "Locomotive", Kutaisi "Dynamo", Tbilisi "VV", the Trans-Caucasus Air Force team; restored the Federation of Polytechnical Institute of Tbilisi and was its first president; initiated the idea of the Rugby Faculty at Tbilisi Institute of Physical Culture; is the winner of the prize "Gold Dice" among the strongest Georgian backgammon players.

Science: Foreign Member of the Russian Academy of Sciences, professor; has number of inventions; among them some are implemented in production: alcohol drink "Georgdeva" in Tiumen; artificially fattened lean fish to produce tinned fillet and minced fish in Batumi; he patented "G. Kuparadze Ellipsoidal Cuts of Primary Use" and many other inventions and rational proposals.

Alphabet: seven different versions of international alphabet created and patented in his name for minorities who does not have writing; "The Constitution of the United Nations, as seen from the position of the 22nd c. for consideration and present application" is written in his new Georgian font.

Writer: He is the author of novels, plays, comics, aphorisms, philosophical works, culinary books and poems called "Kuparisms". He has published 81,000 own aphorisms in three books "Mzesityvaoba", "Sityvamzeoba", "Mzemtsonareoba". His "Grazhdanin" and "Vitamin Lubvy" are published in Russian language. Some of his works are translated into foreign languages.

Awards: Order of Honor, Grand Golden Medal – Rank 1 given on his 60th anniversary for the greatest contribution to the development of rugby.

Person: A man with a peculiar character, looks just ahead; respects some people and is interested in their ideas; believes that he better knows the price of himself.