

Government Rejects Opposition-Initiated Draft Resolution Against Russian Naval Base in Ochamchire

By Liza Mchedlidze

Deputy Teona Akubardia, along with members of the political group "For Georgia" including Ana Buchukuri and Mikheil Daushvili, are calling for the adoption of a resolution addressing the establishment of a permanent Russian naval base in the Russian-occupied Georgian region of Abkhazia.

According to the project, "Parliament unanimously and firmly condemns Russia's occupation, militarization, and aggressive actions aimed at annexing the sovereign regions of Georgia, including Abkhazia and the Tskhinvali region. A new expression of this aggression is the decision to open a permanent Russian military naval base in the port of Ochamchire in Abkhazia, as well as the attempt to integrate Abkhazia into the Russia-Belarus Union."

The project asserts that the decision constitutes a direct threat to Georgia's national security, territorial integrity, and sovereignty. It also presents a substantial challenge to the security of the broader Black Sea region and the Euro-Atlantic space in its entirety.

The resolution "calls on the Russian Federation, in its capacity as the occupying power, to immediately, fully, and unconditionally withdraw all its military and security forces from Georgian territory and to de-occupy the regions of Abkhazia and the Tskhinvali region.

Calls on the Government of Georgia to take timely and effective steps to reduce the increased risks arising from the decision to permanently locate the Russian military naval base in Abkhazia occupied by Russia, in particular Ochamchire, and to respond to Russia's aggressive actions, both inside the country and in the foreign political arena.

Appeals to the international community, Georgia's strategic partners, and friendly states to take a firm, united position against the policy of occupation, militarization, and annexation carried out by Russia, which is the only way for the democratic, safe, and peaceful development of Georgia and will also contribute to the strengthening of the common Euro-Atlantic security," the resolution reads.

The first vice-speaker of the parliament, Gia Volski, responded to the opposition's initiative by stating that the parliamentary majority on the opposition side would not only refrain from supporting such resolutions but also insist that these resolutions should not be discussed at all.

Volski added "In this context, such claims are not appropriate. I'd like to remind you of one crucial point: in 2009, the Russian Federation explicitly and unequivocally expressed its intention to establish a military base in Ochamchire. This process entails many years of work, starting from addressing sea depth issues and ending with infrastructure development. However, since then, no progress in this direction has been observed".

NATO Parliamentary Assembly Backs Three Resolutions Supporting Georgia's Euro-Atlantic Aspirations and Territorial Integrity

NATO PARLIAMENTARY ASSEMBLY
ASSEMBLEE PARLEMENTAIRE DE L'OTAN

By Liza Mchedlidze

The NATO Parliamentary Assembly approved several resolutions at the meeting held in Copenhagen. One resolution addresses the security challenges posed by Russia's actions in the Black Sea region and emphasizes the need for NATO member governments to support the affected countries and enhance stability and security in the area. Another resolution reaffirms its unwavering support for the territorial integrity and sovereignty of Georgia and the Republic of Moldova, as well as their Euro-Atlantic integration, along with Bosnia and Herzegovina. Additionally, there is a resolution that urges NATO member governments and parliaments to continue strengthening and developing their cooperation with Aspirant Georgia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the Republic of Moldova.

The resolution numbered 485, titled 'Strengthening Stability and Security in the Black Sea Region Following Russia's Full-Scale Military Invasion of Ukraine,' strongly denounces Russia's unjustified, unprovoked, illegal, and brutal war of aggression against Ukraine and condemns the continued illegal occupation of Georgia's Abkhazia and South Ossetia/Tskhinvali regions. It emphasizes the Russian Federation's significant and direct threat to Allies' security, as well as to peace and stability in the Euro-Atlantic area.

The resolution states its condemnation of Russia's declared intention to build a naval base in Ochamchire, a Georgian territory that is illegally occupied by Russia. This action is seen as a threat to further destabilize the Black Sea region.

The resolution expresses support for efforts to enhance the resilience and security of Black Sea region countries, including Georgia and Moldova. It also reaffirms NATO's commitment to Georgia's eventual membership in the organization, with the Membership Action Plan as an integral step in that process.

The resolution strongly encourages member governments and parliaments of the North Atlantic Alliance (NATO) to promptly implement enhanced tailored support packages for both Georgia and the Republic of Moldova. This support is intended to bolster these countries' capacities and security.

Furthermore, the resolution emphasizes the need to actively support Georgia's Euro-Atlantic integration efforts. Specifically, it calls for assistance in advancing Georgia's reform agenda, which includes vital democratic reforms. Additionally, the resolution underscores the importance of Georgia's effective utilization of its Annual National Programme, a framework designed to help prepare the country for eventual NATO membership.

"The Assembly,

Denouncing in the strongest possible terms Russia's unjustified, unprovoked, illegal and brutal war of aggression against Ukraine, as well as the continued illegal occupation of the Abkhazia and South Ossetia/Tskhinvali regions of Georgia, which demonstrate daily the Russian Federation's significant and direct threat to Allies' security and to peace and stability in the Euro-Atlantic area;

Recognising that Russia's actions highlight the increasing strategic importance of the Black Sea region to Euro-Atlantic security, as acknowledged in the 2022 Strategic Concept, and the need for the development of a comprehensive Black Sea strategy;

Condemning Russia's declared intention to build a naval base in Ochamchire, located in Georgian territory illegally occupied by Russia, threatening to further destabilise the Black Sea region;

Standing behind Allied efforts to implement the tailored support packages for NATO's Black Sea partners most vulnerable to outside interference, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Georgia and the Republic of Moldova, particularly efforts to strengthen the Republic of Moldova's resilience, and the reiteration of the 2008 Bucharest Summit decision that Georgia will become a member of NATO with the Membership Action Plan as an integral part of that process;

URGES member governments and parliaments of the North Atlantic Alliance to quickly implement the enhanced tailored support packages for Georgia and the Republic of Moldova, while continuing to actively support the Euro-Atlantic integration of Georgia, as well as support Georgia in taking steps towards eventual NATO membership through its efforts to progress its reform agenda, including key democratic reforms,
