

CHRONOLOGY OF GALAKTION TABIDZE LIFE AND WORK

Maia Ninidze. Natia Sikharulidze. Levan Beburishvili.
Tea Tvalavadze. Saba Metreveli.

Shota Rustaveli National Science Foundation

Ivane Javakhishvili Tbilisi State University

Shota Rustaveli Institute of Georgian Literature

This work was supported by the Shota Rustaveli National Science Foundation of Georgia under grant No. FR-21-964, “New Textual Scholarship Investigations and the Chronology of Galaktion Tabidze’s Life and Work (Bilingual Edition).” All ideas expressed herewith are those of the authors and may not represent the opinions of the Foundation itself.

www.rustaveli.org.ge

Free-of-charge edition

Editors – Doctors of Philological Sciences:
Maia Ninidze and Teimuraz Doiashvili

Translator – Ekaterine Jinoridze

SBN 978-9941-9956-3-7(PDF)

© Shota Rustaveli National Science Foundation,
Ivane Javakhishvili Tbilisi State University,
Shota Rustaveli Institute of Georgian Literature

Association for Textual and Editorial Studies and Digital Humanities

Tbilisi

2025

P r e f a c e

“The Chronology of Galaktion Tabidze’s Life and Creative Work” stands as a bio-bibliographic work, meticulously documenting all significant facts of the life and artistic contributions of the eminent Georgian poet that are accessible to the researchers. Galaktion Tabidze is the founder of modern poetic thought and modernist poetry in our country, a reformer of Georgian verse, and the greatest Georgian poet of the twentieth century, who left us a brilliant body of work and a rich documentary heritage. He was born when Georgia was annexed by the Russian Empire, lived for three years in an independent Georgia, and spent the remaining 38 years under the communist regime. This diverse socio-political situation and historical context are widely reflected in the chronology of the poet’s life and work, giving the book not only literary and biographical significance but also important historical value.

Although Galaktion Tabidze’s work is studied as an independent field of scholarship, receiving considerable academic attention – including the regular publication of the collection Galaktionology – the compilation of the chronology nonetheless required extensive textual, source-based, and biographical research. In order to compose each annotation, it was essential to verify and refine the information presented in the sources, establish the dates of undated events, identify individuals, correct mechanical errors, and prepare the scholarly apparatus, among other tasks. Since 2013, when a group of Georgian scholars connected the process of compiling the chronology to fundamental research and gave it an academic framework, a scholarly volume of textual studies has been published alongside the creation of the bio-bibliography. In the cases of the bio-bibliographies of Ilia Chavchavadze, Grigol Orbeliani, and Guram Rcheulishvili, selected studies were included within the scholarly apparatus itself; however, given that the chronology of Galaktion Tabidze exceeds those works in volume several times over, a single book could not contain all of the material. Therefore, the research component was published in full in the monograph Textual and Interdisciplinary Studies of Galaktion Tabidze’s Life and Work, and references to this source were included under a newly introduced section – “Source” – within the scholarly apparatus of the chronology. Since the fundamental research related to the annotations serves two principal aims – to establish the date of a text or event, and to clarify the information presented in the annotation – corresponding sub-sections were added to the “Source” rubric: “For Dating,” “For Clarification,” and “For Clarification and Dating.” Both volumes – the Chronology and the Studies – will be made available in the digital library Iverieli, allowing readers to consult them simultaneously without difficulty. In cases where the dating of an undated text did not require special in-depth research and a brief indication of the basis for the proposed date was deemed sufficient for the reader, that basis is provided under the “Dating” section of the scholarly apparatus. Examples include: “Dated based on the first publication,” “Dated based on the dated text preceding it in the notebook,” or “Dated based on the dated entry following it in the diary,” and so forth.

In the “Note” section, we included information such as alternative titles of the texts mentioned in the annotations, conjectures regarding errors found in the sources, the abbreviations or pseudonyms under which individuals are referred to in the sources, and similar details. Frequently, in various contexts, Galaktion Tabidze's name appears in sources alongside those of many other individuals – for instance, noting who else participated in a literary evening, or who was elected alongside him to a council or committee. These lists often include incidental figures who are not mentioned elsewhere. Since this is a chronology of Galaktion Tabidze, and in order not to overwhelm the reader with lengthy lists of names, we decided not to include such individuals in the annotations themselves. At the same time, recognizing that certain researchers might have a particular interest in this type of information, we transferred these lists – preserving them exactly as they appear in the sources – into the “Note” section. This also allows readers to observe, for example, Galaktion's position within the order of names in such lists.

The intended readership of the Chronology includes not only specialists, but also the broader public. For this reason, we made every effort to minimize the use of specialized terminology, foreign words, pseudonyms, and cryptonyms in the annotations. When such coded language or allusions appeared in the sources, we rendered them in a form accessible to the contemporary reader, while preserving the authenticity of the information by providing relevant clarification in the “Note” section of the scholarly apparatus.

In the annotations, all individuals are referred to by their full names. However, in the case of those who are more widely known by a particular pseudonym than by their given name and surname, we cite them by that pseudonym. As for Galaktion's mother – Makrine Adeishvili – and his brother, Abesalom (Prokle) Tabidze, who are mentioned frequently throughout the chronology, we often refer to them simply as “mother” and “brother,” respectively, in order to avoid overburdening the text.

When individuals in the source are referred to by surname and first initial, pseudonym, cryptonym, or by some form of allusion, but their identity is not in doubt, we present them in the annotation using their full name and surname. However, if there is any likelihood of misidentification, we indicate how the person is referred to in the source within the “Note” section. Since the Chronology reflects the life and work of Galaktion Tabidze, the vast majority of annotations would, by default, need to begin with his name as the acting subject: “Galaktion Tabidze writes...,” “Galaktion Tabidze travels...,” “Galaktion Tabidze edits...,” and so forth – something that would become tiresome through frequent repetition. Therefore, in all cases where no other individual is mentioned at the beginning of the annotation and no ambiguity would arise, we either omit his name or replace it with a pronoun. Accordingly, in every annotation where the acting subject is not explicitly named, Galaktion Tabidze is to be understood.

During the Soviet period, it was not uncommon for editorial boards of various periodicals or collections to publish the poet's works without his consent. Identifying every such instance would be exceedingly difficult. For this reason, instead of phrasing such as “publishes a poem in the newspaper Temi,” we opted for the more neutral construction: “a poem is published in the newspaper Temi”.

Processed Sources: In preparing the Chronology, researchers worked not only with archival materials housed in the major manuscript repositories, but also with 1,687 items from the private collection of the poet's nephew, Nodar Tabidze – materials that had previously been inaccessible to scholars. A digital database of this collection is preserved at the Association for Textual, Publishing Studies, and Digital Humanities, and its contents are being presented to readers for the first time through the Chronicle. In addition, for the first time, the Chronology brings together information about marginal notes and inscriptions found in the books of Galaktion's personal library, preserved at the Giorgi Leonidze Museum of Georgian Literature.

The creation of any author's bio-bibliography is a labour-intensive task, but it becomes even more demanding when the subject is a prolific, internationally renowned, and culturally significant figure who, over the course of more than half a century, was not only a prolific writer and publisher himself, but also the subject of extensive commentary by others. The present bio-bibliography could not have been produced without key reference materials, including the poet's lifetime editions, the twelve-volume collection of his works, the first five volumes of the academic fifteen-volume edition, the twenty-five-volume archival publication prepared by the Museum of Literature, and the three books compiled by Ioseb Lortkipanidze – Chronology of Galaktion Tabidze's Life, Bibliography, and Galaktion Tabidze: The Path of Life and Creative Biography. Equally foundational were Vakhtang Javakhadze's "The Unknown" and the first volume of the "Chronology of Galaktion Tabidze's Life and Work", prepared by Mamuka Shelegia. These publications laid the essential groundwork for the present Chronology.

In the course of research, valuable assistance was provided by the digital library Iverieli of the National Parliamentary Library of Georgia, as well as by the website prepared by the Giorgi Leonidze Museum of Georgian Literature, which features archival materials related to Galaktion Tabidze. The book also fully incorporates the results of textual research conducted specifically for the Chronology by the museum's staff member, Nana Kobaladze.

While working on the Chronology of the writer's life and work, we conducted a thorough examination of all publications issued during the author's lifetime and encountered significant inconsistencies in the dating of texts. It became evident that Galaktion Tabidze's editions from 1937, 1952, 1954, and 1959 are entirely unreliable in terms of dating. In numerous cases, poems were not only written but also published well before the dates indicated in these editions. For instance, the poem "Around Me", published in 1913, is dated as 1915 in the 1937 edition; "On the Cord", "Visitor of the Dusk", and "I Observe This Bottomless Sea...", all published in 1914, are dated as 1915 in the same edition. Likewise, "To the New Dawn", "Doomed", "Wind", "On the Last Day", and "Memory", all published in 1914, are dated as 1916; "By the Mirror", published in 1914, is dated as 1917; and "From Horizon to Zenith", published in 1914, is dated as 1918. The poem "Where?", published in 1913, is dated as 1914 in both the first volume of the 1937 edition and in the "Selected Works" of 1954 and 1959. Poems published in 1914, such as "Withering", "Beyond Fate!", and "Beneath Tired Eyelashes...", are dated as 1915 in the same volumes. "Cold", written in 1914, is dated as 1916, and "Closed Eyes", written in 1912, is dated as 1915. The poem “Autumn Leaf”, published in 1912, is dated as 1914 in the “Selected Works” of both the 1937 and the 1954 editions. “Flowers” (“With flowers I wove garlands...”), published in 1910, is dated as 1915 in the 1937 edition and 1911 in the 1954 edition. Similarly, “How Beautiful Was the Dew...”, also published in 1910, is dated as 1915 in the 1937 edition and 1913 in the 1954 edition. These are but a few examples among many. As these cases demonstrate, the factual evidence of a poem’s publication unequivocally proves the unreliability of the dates provided in these editions. Moreover, the discrepancies are not simply the result of mechanical repetition or copying of incorrect dates from one edition to the next. If that were the case, we could attribute all inaccuracies to the earliest of these editions – the one from 1937. However, the dates often differ from one edition to another, and in many cases, none of them is correct.

There are instances in which the dates indicated in various editions are inconsistent not only with each other but also with the actual publication timeline – some dates precede the known publication year, while others follow it. For example, the poem “Song of the Traveler”, published in 1914, is dated as 1916 in the 1937 collection of poems, the first volume of the collected works, and the 1959 edition, while in the 1954 edition, it is dated as early as 1909. Similarly, the poem “The Heart Was Renewed”, also published in 1914, is dated as 1917 in the 1937 poems and the first volume of collected works, but as 1911 in the “Selected Works” of 1954 and 1959. The poem “Sorrow, At Night...” is dated as 1915 in the 1937 and 1959 editions, yet in the 1954 edition it appears with the date 1910. In such cases, we can no longer rely on the argument that a particular poem could not have been published earlier than the date assigned to it. Nevertheless, the sheer inconsistency among the dates across different editions – and the dozens of confirmed inaccuracies concerning other poems – led us to the conclusion that the years indicated in these editions should not be relied upon at all, except in instances where all editions unanimously assign the same year, and that date does not conflict with the poem’s known publication timeline. Consequently, we were compelled to date hundreds of poems – which in Galaktion Tabidze’s lifetime editions bear specific dates – based on the year of their first publication. The unreliability of the dates given in the aforementioned editions was also recognized by the editors of the fifteen-volume academic edition of Galaktion’s collected works. In the preface to the first volume, they note Galaktion’s “free attitude toward dating,” and highlight the unreliability of the dates provided in earlier editions. Furthermore, stylistic, versification, and poetic analysis of poems bearing incorrect dates also affirms this unreliability. Thus, stylistic and versification evidence brings us to the same conclusion: that the dates in these editions cannot be used as a trustworthy basis.

Since the Chronology also includes a bibliography of Galaktion Tabidze’s works, it was essential to indicate all authentic sources of each text – both autograph manuscripts and lifetime publications. If the differences between autograph versions were not substantial enough to be treated as separate redactions of the same work, we listed all autograph versions in the annotation that discusses the poem’s composition. Each individual publication, however, was assigned a separate annotation, with the publication itself cited as the source. In cases where editorial differences between autographs were significant, we created as many annotations as there were distinct redactions available. If the precise dating of subsequent versions could not be determined, we dated them to a period following the poem's original composition and indicated the specific autograph corresponding to each stage of revision.

Given that autograph manuscripts and lifetime publications are not easily accessible to the general reader, we decided that each annotation introducing a work for the first time must also cite a reliable modern edition. Since the most comprehensive information about each text and its variants is found in the academic fifteen-volume edition of the collected works, we cited the relevant texts and pages of the scholarly apparatus from this source, where available – that is, for texts included in the five volumes published to date. For works not yet included in this edition (as they chronologically fall outside the currently published volumes), we cited either the archival edition prepared by the Museum of Literature or the twelve-volume edition.

The incipit – or opening line – of a poem is typically provided only for untitled poems or for distinguishing between works with identical titles. Initially, we adhered to this convention. However, the discovery of hundreds of previously unknown poems in Galaktion Tabidze's digital archive made it impossible to anticipate which titles might be duplicated. For this reason, we decided to take a precautionary approach and include the opening line for all such poems. The incipit also plays a crucial role in identifying poems that were published without a title as part of larger poetic cycles or within the structure of narrative poems. In such cases, the opening line becomes the only reliable means of distinguishing and cataloging the text.

Chronology: Annotations dated by a specific month within a given year are placed in the Chronology immediately after annotations with an exact date within that same month. The same principle applies at the level of the year: annotations dated only by year are positioned after those with precise dates within that year. The category “1915 or later” precedes “after 1915” – the difference being that in the first case, the year 1915 is included within the possible range, while in the second, it is excluded. When an event is dated to a broad interval, such as 1907–1909, the annotation is placed just before those entries specifically dated to the final year of the interval (in this case, 1909). There are also cases where the upper or lower bound of a date range is approximate, but the exact day and month are known. For example, “11 January 1927 or later” suggests that the event occurred on January 11 of 1927 or the same day in any subsequent year before the poet's death. Such an annotation is placed immediately after the entry dated 11 January 1927. Annotations concerning letters sent by Galaktion are placed in the Chronology according to the date of writing or sending. Letters to Galaktion, however – since they may not have reached him on the same day – are dated to the period following the stated date.

Among Galaktion Tabidze's archival materials are several thousand undated manuscripts whose dating could not be determined through analysis of their historical or biographical context.

Theoretically, these texts could have been written at virtually any stage of the poet's life – from the time he first learned to read and write to the final days before his death. Including such a vast body of undated material under speculative headings such as “at age six or seven” or “shortly before death” would have rendered the Chronology incoherent and unmanageable. Here, the results of the project “Graphematic Research and Methodology for Dating Manuscripts”, funded by the Shota Rustaveli National Science Foundation, proved immensely helpful. The project's findings were directly applied in each such difficult case. Although graphematic analysis typically yields only approximate datings, this level of precision is nonetheless of immense value for the purposes of constructing the author's biography and compiling a comprehensive bio-bibliography.

Calendar style: Dates before April 18, 1918, in the Chronology are indicated using the Old Style calendar, while dates from April 18, 1918, onward are in the New Style calendar. For instance, April 18, 1918, is listed as “May 1” and all subsequent dates follow accordingly. When processing Russian materials, it is also taken into account that a calendar change occurred in Russia from February 1918 - where February 1 was replaced by February 14, and so forth.

The following abbreviations and acronyms are used throughout the book:

Fifteen-volume works – G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes.

Twelve-volume works – G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes.

Researches – “Textual and interdisciplinary studies of the life and work of Galaktion Tabidze”.

AE – G. Tabidze, Archival Edition in 25 books.

MGL – Giorgi Leonidze State Museum of Georgian Literature.

WUF – Writers' Union Files.

GTDA – Galaktion Tabidze's Digital Archive.

Maia Ninidze

1891

1891

November 5

He is born in the village of Chkvishi. His mother is 24-year-old Makrine Adeishvili, daughter of Giorgi, and his father is Vasil Tabidze (son of Stepane), who had been deceased for six months at that time. He has an older brother, two-year-old Abesalom (Prokle).

Source: Central State Archive of Literature and Art of Georgia, Repository 303, Record №1, Case №1183; Regarding the time of his father's death: Central State Archive of Literature and Art of Georgia, Repository 303, Record №1, Case №1183; The Republican Archive of the Civil Status Acts Department of the Soviet Socialist Republic of Georgia, Vani, 21; Autobiography, GTDA, №148, p. 2; For Dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 440-441.

1892

1892

January 3

He is baptized in the Church of St. George in the village of Chkvishi. The sacrament of baptism is performed by his grandfather, Priest Stepane Tabidze, and the godfather is his aunt's husband, Priest Thaddeus Namicheishvili. According to Orthodox typikon, the godfather suggests naming the newborn after the Syrian saint, Galation, on the feast day of the saint corresponding to his birth date, November 5.

Source: The 1892 Birth Certificate issued by the St. Giorgi church in Chkvishi, Central State Archive of Literature and Art of Georgia, Repository №303, Record №1, Case №1183; The Republican Archive of the Civil Status Acts Department of the Soviet Socialist Republic of Georgia, Vani, 21; N. Agiashvili, Quietly, Past, Quietly, newspaper Literaturuli Sakartvelo, 1981, January 16, №3, p. 12-13. For clarification of information: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 145, 146.

1892

December 31

Galaktion's uncle, Iustine Tabidze's wife, Elizabeth Pkhakadze, is pregnant, has difficulty walking, and is bedridden. On New Year's Eve, the mother-in-law brings little Galaktion on purpose and puts him in her bed, saying that he brings luck.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-90; Record of February 27, 1935, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 11.

1893

1893

January 1

He begins to walk and takes his first steps independently.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-90; Record of February 27, 1935, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 11.

1894

1894 and onwards

January 1

On New Year's Day, he goes to his uncle Iustine's, where he is met with joy, as a 'first visitor after New Year' and as a present he is given silver coins (a 20-kopeck coin).

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-90; Record of February 27, 1935, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 11.

1894

November 3

His grandfather, priest Stepane Tabidze, passed away.

Source: Record of an unknown person, which is preserved with the manuscripts of Galaktion Tabidze, GTDA, №1323, p. 2.

1894

16 December

After the death of her father-in-law, Galaktion's mother requests state guardianship for the orphans. In this regard, an inventory is taken of the property of Abesalom and Galaktion Tabidze. It is determined that they currently have a small residential house, a barn, and a little more than two parcels of land, all valued at 615 roubles. Additionally, they have shared property with the father's brothers amounting to up to 1600 roubles and a debt of 222 roubles.

Source: List of immovable and movable property signed by priests: Alexandre Shanidze and Tadeoz Namicheishvili, GTDA, №397, p. 1-3.

1897

Until 1897

He learns to read and write.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 172.

Dating: In the aforementioned personal record, the poet notes that he already knew how to read and write at the age of 6.

1897

Galaktion's neighbour loses a child to tuberculosis, and Galaktion is so affected by this event that he dreams of becoming a "tuberculosis doctor".

Source: P. Nishnianidze, Galaktion's several meetings with the workers of Georgia, Tbilisi, 1960, p. 11-12.

1898

1899

1899

Until August 27

Priest Theodore Namicheishvili submits a metric extract and a request to the supervisor of the Kutaisi Theological School for Galaktion Tabidze to be admitted to the preparatory class.

Source: Kutaisi National Archives of Georgia, Repository 7, Case 1717, Sheet 86; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 23-24.

Dating: The request made by Theodore Namicheishvili on August 23, 1900, indicates that this application was submitted a year earlier and it should have taken place before the mother took Galaktion to Kutaisi.

1899

August 27

Together with his brother Prokle Tabidze, his mother Makrine Adeishvili, his aunt Anastasia Adeishvili, and his cousin Amberk Julakidze, Galaktion travels from Chkvishi to Kutaisi, where his mother rents an apartment for him.

Source: Hey you, Childhood Days, Akhali Kartuli Gazeti, 1998, №98, November 17, p. 8.

1899

Summer

He stays in the village of Dutskhuni with his aunt, Anastasia Adeishvili's family. Then, together with his aunt and his cousin, Amberk Julakidze, he returns to Chkvishi.

Source: Hey you, Childhood Days, Akhali Kartuli Gazeti, 1998, №98, November 17, p. 8.

Until September 1898-1899

He goes to the village school.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13.

1899

September 1

To prepare for admission to the preparatory department of the theological seminary, he is enrolled in Archpriest Nestor Kubaneishvili's private one-class school, located in his house near the ruins of Bagrati Cathedral in Kutaisi. Galaktion's teacher is Nadia Machitidze. To be close to her son, his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, rents an apartment near the school on Arkieli Gora in the house of nobleman Andro Tsereteli and moves there to live.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13, 18; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 23.

1899 or later

He writes a poem "At the Gate of Bagrati Temple".

Source: Ioseb Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", Tbilisi, 1968, p. 20.

1900

1900

August 23

Galaktion's guardian, Father Theodore Namicheishvili, submits an application to the superintendent of the Kutaisi Theological Seminary, requesting Galaktion Tabidze's admission to the preparatory class.

Source: Kutaisi National Archives of Georgia, Repository 7, Case 1717, Sheet 86; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 23-24.

1900

September 1

He is admitted to the first preparatory class of the Kutaisi Theological Seminary. Georgian is taught by the renowned teacher Meliton Chogovadze, his class teacher is Ivane Giorgadze, and there are 57 students in his class.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13; Kutaisi Central National Archives, Repository 7, Case 17508, Sheet 6, 11, 41; 68, 77, 84; GTDA, №338, p. 1; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 26.

1900

After September 1

He registers in the Kutaisi City Library, takes out books and reads a lot.

Source: Simon Tabidze, "Recollection of Galaktion Tabidze", Collection "Galaktionology", IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 332.

Dating: It is clear from Simon Tabidze's recollection that this took place during Galaktion's studies at the Theological School.

1900

After September 1

He sometimes asks his mother to play the four-stringed lute and sings songs together with her and his brother: "I love Megrelian Wicker Peasant House...", "Three Women Were Mowing Hay...", "Three Wolves are Going to the Hillock...", etc.

Source: Simon Tabidze, "Recollection of Galaktion Tabidze", Collection "Galaktionology", IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 334.

Dating: It is clear from Simon Tabidze's recollection that this took place during Galaktion's studies at the Theological School.

1900 or later

Galaktion sits on the balcony reading. Suddenly, his mother, who is washing clothes, tells him that the cattle have been driven in and asks him to bring them into the yard. Galaktion complies with his mother's request, but it turns out that none of the cattle he brought in are theirs. Makrine and Galaktion are forced to release the other people's cattle and bring their own into the yard. His mother reproaches Galaktion for wasting time instead of helping.

Source: Simon Tabidze, "Recollection of Galaktion Tabidze", Collection "Galaktionology", IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 336.

Dating: In his recollections, Simon Tabidze does not specify when this took place, but he mentions this fact when he tells the news of Galaktion's studies at the Theological School.

1901

1901

September 1

He moves to the second preparatory grade of the Kutaisi Theological School. The teachers are Jajanidze and P. Kvitsaridze. He lives in some Kote's house.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13; GTDA, №338, p. 1.

Note: Information about the teachers and the owner of the house could not be obtained.

1901

He writes a poem "The Secret of the Ruin".

Source: Sh. Amiranashvili, Our Galaktion, A Toast to Him, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 15.

1902

1902

From September 1

He moves to the third preparatory grade of the Kutaisi Theological School and lives in Natsvalov's house. He reads Akaki Tsereteli, Alexandre Kazbegi, Ilia Chavchavadze, Giorgi Tchaladideli, Dutu Megreli, and Irodion Evdoshvili. He begins writing poetry.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13; GTDA, №338, p. 1.

1900-1902

He lives with his mother in an apartment rented from Namicheishvili in Kutaisi.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 264, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 147.

1903

1903

Until April 22

The mother, Makrine Adeishvili, is forced to return from Kutaisi to Chkvishi to manage the household, leaving Galaktion with his brother, who is two years older than him. Accustomed to his mother's constant supervision, Galaktion is less diligent in her absence.

Source: Diary, MGL, d-29, p. 43; Autobiography, GTDA, №148, p. 2; Autobiographic record; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 278; Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 110.

1903

After April 22

In Kutaisi, he receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, sent from Chkvishi, along with three and a half roubles. His mother asks him to study well, use the sent money to pay the landlady for rent, and be sure to write her a letter in response.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter, GTDA, №830, p. 1-2.

Dating: The letter indicates that Makrine Adeishvili has already returned to the village and is no longer in Kutaisi with her children.

1903

April 22

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to their mother on behalf of himself and Galaktion, telling her about their situation and informing her that Galaktion is doing well in his studies.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1535, p. 2-4.

1903

Until summer

Makrine Adeishvili entrusts Galaktion, who is in the third preparatory class of the Kutaisi Theological School, to student Ilia Tevzadze for exam preparation. However, Galaktion does not advance to the first main class, and Makrine asks the student to return half of the payment.

Source: Ilia Tevzadze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1639, p. 1-2.

1903

Summer

Since he is unable to advance to the fourth preparatory class of the theological school, he sends a letter to his mother, requesting money for the journey home so that he can return to Chkvishi and prepare for the gymnasium.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter, GTDA, №829, p. 1-3.

Dating: Since he continued his studies in the third class of the theological school in September, this must have happened during the summer.

1903

Summer

He receives a reply letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. She writes that preparing for the gymnasium entrance exam requires money, as the studies themselves are also paid, and attending the theological seminary is not easy. They simply do not have the means for it. Therefore, the only solution is to remain in the theological school. His mother believes that Galaktion's failure to complete the course was partly due to the influence of his surroundings. Therefore, she instructs him to rent a place with good companions and to excel in his studies so that he can be admitted to the first class of the theological school at state expense the following year. His brother Abesalom and cousin Gerasime will help him prepare for the exams. She sends him 5 roubles for renting a place and writes that he should also cut his hair before going to school.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter, GTDA, №829, p. 1-3.

Dating: Since Galaktion continued his studies in the third class of the theological school in September, his mother's letter must have been written during the summer.

1903

Summer or later

A student at the Kutaisi Theological School, Ilia Tevzadze, sends a letter to Makrine Adeishvili. He explains that Galaktion was well-prepared but was not admitted to the first class of the theological school due to a lack of available places. He apologizes for not being able to return the requested amount at that time but promises to repay it.

Source: Ilia Tevzadze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1639, p. 1-2.

1903

From September 1

He once again takes the program of the third grade of the preparatory Theological School.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13.

1902-1903

He reads his poems to his closest friends from the students at the Theological School at the gate of Bagrati Temple.

Source: G. Mikhelidze, "A Few Things About Galaktion Tabidze", magazine Mnatobi, 1962, №11, p. 175.

1903

Imitating Ilia Chavchavadze, he writes a poem "Our Nation".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 124.

1903

He lives with his mother in Kutaisi on Natsvalov Hill. Their cow goes missing, and despite a long and fruitless search, it is eventually found by Galaktion's cousin, Epiphane Rusadze.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 264, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 147; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 373.

After 1903

He reads Marie Corelli's novel "The Sorrows of Satan" and makes highlights and annotations.

Source: MGL, t-707, Мария Корелли, "Скорбь Сатаны или Необыкновенное Испытание Одного Миллионера Джоффрея Темпеста", Saint-Petersburg, 1903.

1904

1904

May 19

He completes the senior preparatory grade of the Kutaisi Theological School with the following grades: Scripture - 3 ½, Russian language - 4/4 ½, Georgian language - 3 ½, Arithmetic - 4, Slavic church chant - 5, Georgian church chant - 4, Calligraphy - 4, Behaviour - 5. He has holidays until August 31 inclusive and goes to his native village Chkvishi.

Source: Certificate and School Progress Report issued by the institution, GTDA, №1059, p. 1-2.

1904

September 1

He continues his studies in the first grade of Kutaisi Theological School.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13.

1904

September 27

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter from Kutaisi to his mother, asking her to visit her children soon because Galaktion no longer has shoes and is walking barefoot.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1536, p. 1-3.

1904

Until November 5

He reads Adam Mickiewicz's poetry and likes it so much that the latter becomes his favourite poet.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-201, p. 3; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 282; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 645.

1902-1904

He recites poems to his cousin Amberk Julakidze.

Source: Hey you, Childhood Days, Akhali Kartuli Gazeti, 1998, №98, November 17, p. 8; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 620.

1903-1904

He lives in an apartment rented from the Marjanishvili in Kutaisi.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 264, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 147.

1905

1905

February 28

He receives a letter from Ivane Adeishvili. The sender inquires about him and Abesalom and writes that their relative Akaki was planning to visit them in the village.

Source: Ivane Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom and Galaktion Tabidze, GTDA, №1596, p. 1-2.

1905

July

He writes a story "Robbers".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 128.

1905

September 1

He continues his studies in the second grade of Kutaisi Theological School.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13.

1905

October 9

He begins to write a five-act tragedy “The Commandments of Christ”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 129.

1905

Until November

He translates Walt Whitman’s text “The Bravest Soldiers...” without a title.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 1.

Dating: In the entry made after this poem, November 1905 is referred to in the past tense.

1905

Until November

He writes an untitled poem “The Morning Star Is Shining...”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 1.

Dating: In the entry made after this poem, November 1905 is referred to in the past tense.

1905

Until November

He writes a poem “Picture” (“Torrential Rain Roars Down...”).

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 2.

Dating: In the entry made after this poem, November 1905 is referred to in the past tense.

1905

Until November

He writes a poem “Four” (“What Is The Country Longing For Today...”).

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 2.

Note: In the autograph, something was written after the word “four”, however, it is no longer legible. The poem is about feelings, unity, freedom and love.

Dating: In the entry made after this poem, November 1905 is referred to in the past tense.

1905

Until November

He writes a poem “To Luck” (Don’t, Don’t Torture Me, My Luck...).

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: In the entry made after this poem, November 1905 is referred to in the past tense.

1905

Until November

He writes a poem “Spring” (The Sun Flatters The Mountains Peaks...).

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: In the entry made after this poem, November 1905 is referred to in the past tense.

1905

After November

He makes a record that in November 1905, the female editors handed the youth’s magazine Nakaduli over to Pavle Tumanishvili.

Source: Record, Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Note: The first editors of the magazine Nakaduli were Elizabeth Eristavi and Nino Zurabishvili.

Dating: Since the entry mentions November 1905 in the past tense, it must be from a later date.

1905

After November

He writes a poem “Vintage” (The Ripe Grapes From Above...).

Source: Record, Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is placed on the second page of the record in which November 1905 is referred to in the past tense. Therefore, it must be of a later period.

1905

After November

He writes a poem “Christ Has Resurrected” (The Sky Gazes Cheerfully...”).

Source: Record, Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is placed on the second page of the record in which November 1905 is referred to in the past tense. Therefore, it must be of a later period.

1905

After November

He writes a poem “Swallows” (“Swallows by My Porch in the Morning...”).

Source: Record, Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is placed on the second page of the record in which November 1905 is referred to in the past tense. Therefore, it must be of a later period.

1905

After November

He makes an untitled draft for a children’s prose miniature, whose characters are Niko, Tamara and Nutsa.

Source: Record, Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is placed on the second page of the record in which November 1905 is referred to in the past tense. Therefore, it must be of a later period.

1905

After November

He writes an untitled poem “Don’t, Don’t Make Me Suffer Waiting...”.

Source: Record, Autobiography, GTDA, №28, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is placed on the second page of the record in which November 1905 is referred to in the past tense. Therefore, it must be of a later period.

1905

November-December

He finishes the second grade of the Theological School with the following grades: Scripture - 3, Russian language - 4/4, Georgian language - 4, Arithmetic - 3, Slavic church chant - 4, Georgian church chant - 3, Calligraphy - 4, Behaviour - 4.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 112.

Note: We could not find this document in the archive of Nodar Tabidze.

1905

December 23 or earlier

He translates an extract from Aleksei Koltsov’s poem “The Harvest” from the textBook “Native Word” (“Родное слово”).

Source: Record, Autograph, GTDA, №28, p. 1.

Dating: The poem in the autograph is dated 1905, and the second poem on the verso of the same page is dated December 23, 1905. Therefore, we think that this verse must have been translated either on the same day or before.

1905

December 23

He translates a poem “An Ox-Herder and a Flower” from the textBook “Native Word” (“Родное слово”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №28, p. 2.

Note: The discussion is about the textBook “Native Word” (“Родное слово”).

1904-1905

He lives in Kutaisi in an apartment rented from Natsvilishvili.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, 264, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 147.

1905

He writes a poem “Spring Morning”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 129.

1905

He writes a poem “Winter”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 129.

1905

He returns to the village of Chkvishi, because the Theological School is temporarily closed due to the agitation of the students.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 281.

1905

He writes a play about the revolution and stages it at home together with Titsian Tabidze. He himself plays the role of a robber.

Source: Record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 281.

Note: The information is based on Galaktion Tabidze’s later records, and it is difficult to determine how accurately it reflects reality.

1905

He is impressed by the sequence of events in Guria.

Source: Record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 281.

Note: The information is based on Galaktion Tabidze’s later records, and it is difficult to determine how accurately it reflects reality.

1905

He writes a poem “Tsitelashvili’s Squad” and asks the commander of this revolutionary-partisan squad operating in Samtredia-Vani – Tsitelashvili, whom he likes very much, to read it.

Source: MGL, d-659-11; Record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 281.

Note: The information is based on Galaktion Tabidze’s later records, and it is difficult to determine how accurately it reflects reality.

1905

He reads and works on the following works: “Bezhaniani”, Nikoloz Baratashvili’s “Works”, Daniel Chonkadze’s “Surami Castle”, Ilia Chavchavadze’s “Is a Man a Human?!", Akaki Tsereteli’s “Natela”, “Tornike Eristavi”, volume I of works, Iakob Gogebashvili’s “The Mysterious Adventure”, “The Battle of Aspindza”, “Harvest Watchmen”, “Because of the Icon”, Alexandre Kazbegi’s “A Confessor”, “Tsitsia”, Niko Lomouri’s “Qadjana”, “Ali”, Anton Purtseladze’s “Woe to the Righteous”, “The Adventure of the Three”, Melania’s “You, Dark”, Mose Janashvili’s “Short History of Georgia”, “Kvali” of 1893, “Don Quixote” by Cervantes.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 111.

1905

He makes short annotations about the following books read in Russian: A. Pushkin's "The Story of Pugachev", L. Tolstoy's "Easter", Alexandre Khakhanashvili's "Essays on the History of Georgian Speech", Henrik Ibsen's "Doctor Stockman", and others.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 111.

After 1905

He writes a poem "Hit", in which he forms his opinion on the purpose of the writer.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 124, 125.

1906

February

1906

February 20

The Theological Seminary of Kutaisi issues a certificate stating that he is a student of the second class at this institution.

Source: Certificate, GTDA, №447.

April

1906

Until April 25

He sends a letter to his family from Kutaisi to Chkvishi, in which he informs that Serapion received money from Epiphane.

Source: GTDA, №1283, Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 102.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter dated April 25, 1906, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1906

After April 25

He receives Abesalom Tabidze's letter, sent on April 25. The sender writes that Serapion should give him one rouble to buy shoes, and the rest of the money is for his landlady. But if he had already given all the money to the landlady, then Galaktion should take one rouble from her. He informs that they will soon arrive and settle all issues with the landlady.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 102.

1906

April

At the Kutaisi Theological Seminary, he writes an essay in Russian titled "What Do Peasants Do in Winter, Spring, Summer, and Autumn".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-642, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 126-127.

May

1906

May 27 or after

He responds to the murder of Ippolit Grekov, the overseer of the Theological Seminary of Kutaisi, with a poem.

Source: G. Mikhelidze, “A Few Things About Galaktion Tabidze”, magazine Mnatobi, 1962, №11, p. 175.

Dating: Ippolit Grekov (son of Aleksey), the supervisor of Kutaisi Theological School, was killed on May 27, 1906.

1906

After May 28

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his mother from Chkvishi, informing her that the students have been dismissed due to the murder of Ippolit Grekov, the overseer of his seminary. However, the landlady is not allowing him to leave the house because the rent has not been paid. He requests that she urgently send the money so he can return to the village.

Source: Letter’s autograph, GTDA, №1240, p. 1.

1906

May 30

He finishes the second grade of Kutaisi Theological School.

Source: Certificate issued by the school, GTDA, №1060, p. 1.

1906

May

According to legend, he writes a poem “Satan” (“Selim Could Not Sleep... Suddenly...”), whose protagonist is Lele.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №336, p. 1-14; GTDA, №366, p. 2; GTDA, №376, p. 1.

Note: The original title of the poem, “The Old Tower”, is crossed out.

June

1906

Until June

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, informing her that he and Galaktion are in great distress, have no money, and will starve if she does not visit them soon. He also mentions that a new inspector has arrived at the school, and with such worn-out clothes, Galaktion will not be allowed into the class.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1534, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 545.

1906

Until June

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, informing her that the money she left was immediately spent by Galaktion on bread. He writes that Galaktion needs a dictionary and two notebooks with hard covers. He requests that, in addition to the money, she also sends some fruit.
Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1558, p. 1-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 545.

August

1906

After August 19

The military field courts begin to operate in the Russian Empire, which hear the cases of terrorists and revolutionaries in an accelerated manner. Cossacks are rummaging the population in Chkvishi. Galaktion's elder brother Abesalom Tabidze buries the illegal literature, newspaper Brdzola and other illegal newspapers and papers in the ground, which upsets Galaktion a lot.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-201, p. 11; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 284.

Dating: We date according to the time of the adoption of the Decree on military-field courts (August 19, 1906).

September

1906

September 1

He continues his studies in the third grade of Kutaisi Theological School.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13.

1906

After September

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter to her son Abesalom, in which she inquires about his well-being, congratulates him on entering the seminary, and informs him that she has taken Galaktion to Kutaisi and left him with Serapion.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1520, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 663.

1906

September or later

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter to her nephews, Serapion Isako and Kakino Adeishvili. She apologizes for having left Galaktion in their care, explaining that she hasn't been able to visit them or send anything for a long time. She asks Kakino to mend Galaktion's clothing if necessary.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to nephews, GTDA, №1529, p. 1-3; For dating: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1520, p. 1-2.

October

1906

After October 4

He receives a letter from Abesalom Tabidze sent on October 4, who asks him to let him know whether he has received the books he sent and to inform him about his marks at school. The sender advises him to study well because he will have more difficult subjects in the third grade.

Source: GTDA, №1282, Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 103.

1906

Until October 22

He arrives in Kutaisi and settles with his relative Serapion. He is waiting for his mother to come to Kutaisi so they can move into a separate place.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №808, p. 1-2.

Dating: This is mentioned in the letter to his brother dated October 22, 1906.

1906

Until October 22

They change his Russian language teacher. The new teachers are Peradze and Kobakhidze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №808, p. 1-2.

Dating: This is mentioned in the letter to his brother dated October 22, 1906.

1906

October 22

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He informs him that their mother has not yet arrived from Kutaisi, so he is staying with Serapion. He writes that he has received books from him and requests more if available. He explains that the letter was delayed because he lost the postage stamp. He sends regards from Serapion, Kakino, and Mikhako.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №808, p. 1-2.

1906

October or earlier

He receives a letter from his mother and learns that she has been ill.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1242, p. 1-2.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his mother in October 1906.

1906

October or earlier

He learns that his brother, Abesalom, who was studying in Tbilisi, has fallen ill and spent two weeks in the hospital.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1242, p. 1-2.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his mother in October 1906.

1906

October or earlier

He receives the books sent by his brother from Tbilisi.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1242, p. 1-2.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his mother in October 1906.

1906

October

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to his mother in Chkvishi. He informs her about Abesalom's illness and recovery and mentions that he is studying at the state's expense. He also writes that their relative Kakino does not plan to leave yet.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1242, p. 1-2.

December

1906

After December 10

He receives a letter from his brother – Abesalom Tabidze, sent on December 10. The latter asks Galaktion to write him back immediately and advises him to study diligently.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 103.

1905-1906

He writes a poem "My recollections", in which he expresses great love for his mother.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 18.

Dating: According to I. Lortkipanidze, he wrote this poem when he was in the second grade of Kutaisi Theological School.

1905-1906

He lives in an apartment rented from Tsereteli in Kutaisi.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 264, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 147.

1906

He writes a poem based on the legend.

Source: Record, GTDA, №35, p. 2; Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 251.

Note: This poem written 5 years earlier is mentioned in a personal letter of 1911, its title is not specified.

1906

He publishes a handwritten magazine Dghiuri in which he publishes his own verses, poems, and short stories.

Source: MGL, d-659-11; Record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 281; G. Tabidze, autobiography, MGL, d-659, p. 11; AE, in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 467.

1906

In the house of his godfather, Andro Tsereteli, on Arkieli Gora in Kutaisi, he stages his own play “Tsitelashvili’s Squad”.

Source: MGL, d-659-11; Record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 281; Record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 467; I. Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, 1968, p. 16.

1906

On holidays, he competes with his brother Abesalom, who is going to the countryside from Kutaisi, in making up rhymes and wins in the “versification competition” for the first time.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 67.

1906

He dedicates a poem to Iakob Tsintsadze.

Source: N. Tabidze, “Fragments of Galaktionology”, “Dedicated to Ia Ekaladze”, in the anniversary collection: “Galaktion-125”, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 56.

Note: In the source, Iakob Tsintsadze is mentioned under the pseudonym “Ia Ekaladze”.

1906

The religious studies teacher, Trifon Japaridze, asks a question in class about why it is difficult for rich people to give alms. One student answers that it is generally hard for rich people to give alms, and this answer is highly praised. Galaktion doubts that the answer deserves such high praise and notes this in his diary.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 7-8.

Note: In the diary, Trifon Japaridze is mentioned by his initials.

Dating: Time is mentioned in the diary entry.

1906 or later

He reads a Russian-language Book of riddles and writes answers to some of them.

Source: MGL, t-447, Загадки-Догадки, Saint-Petersburg, 1907.

Until 1907

Samson Tsitelishvili, who is being sought by the police for the murder of the headman of Vani, Vamekh Maglakelidze, takes refuge with the family of Titsian Tabidze, as Titsian’s father, Iustine, is a priest and thus unlikely to be suspected. During this time, Titsian is on school vacation and is at home, where he talks to the guests. At dawn, the guests bid farewell to their hosts and disappear. In the morning, Galaktion visits his cousin and Titsian tells him about Tsitelishvili’s visit, which greatly excites Galaktion.

Source: G. Lezhava, cousins, newspaper Soplis Tskhovreba, 1962, April 5, №68, p. 4.

Dating: According to the article, Titsian, who was born in 1895, was 10-12 years old at that time.

1907

January

1907

From January

In his notebook, he copies Latin words and annotates them with their Russian meanings.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №71, p. 1-4.

Dating: The study of Latin at the theological seminary began in January 1907.

1907

January 7

After spending Christmas holidays in his native village, he returns to Kutaisi.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 4.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 8

It's Monday, and he goes to the seminary, but classes are not held because a large number of students have not yet returned from their holidays.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 5.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 9

He goes to the seminary, where only a mathematics lesson is conducted.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 5.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 12

It is snowing heavily in Kutaisi. The landlady tells the lodgers that if they go to the seminary, they might get sick, but they still decide to go. The first lesson is mathematics, the second lesson is a discussion led by the teacher Meliton Chogovadze on a play about the life of mountain people. The third lesson is geography, and the next Latin lesson is cancelled because the teacher, Theodor Bogolyubov, cannot make it due to the heavy snow. The fifth lesson is "Civic History", and regarding the teacher of this subject, he remembers the Georgian proverb: "It does not rain as it thunders".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 5-6.

Note: Meliton Chogovadze is mentioned in the diary with initials.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 13

His first class is “Russian Language”, the second is “Nature Studies”, the third is “Civic History”, and the fourth is “Choral Singing”. The fifth class is “Latin”, which is missed. Galaktion notes with regret that he needs to study Latin a lot, but the teacher frequently misses classes.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 8-9.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 13

Under the pseudonym G. Phazispireli, he writes a poem titled “To My Homeland” (“Georgia, I love your...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 129.

1907

After January 13

Under the pseudonym G. Phazeli, he writes a poem titled “Rise, Oppressed” (“Oppressed one, it’s time for you to awaken...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 129.

Dating: In the notebook, the poem is written on the same page as the text dated January 13.

1907

January 13

The Students’ Bureau makes an announcement that they are collecting funds for the students of the Kutaisi Gymnasium: A. Kipshidze, G. Enukidze, and Sh. Chikvinidze, who were arrested on January 10 near the city park for distributing proclamations of the Russian Social-Democratic Workers’ Party.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 9-10.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 14

He does not attend the liturgy. He learns from a student of the Seminary School, Galaktion Loria, that the students of the Kutaisi Theological Seminary - Sh. Chikvinidze, I. Makharashvili, A. Kipiani, and G. Enukidze - who were arrested for distributing proclamations, are to be exiled to the Vyatka Governorate by the local administration’s decree.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 11.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 14

In the evening, his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, visits him in Kutaisi from the village.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 11.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 15

His first lesson is “Catechism”, the second is “Georgian Language”, and the third – “Latin Language” – is not held because students loudly protest against the teacher, leave the class, and go home. They submit a petition demanding the appointment of a different teacher.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 12.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 16

Under the pseudonym G. Phazeli, he writes a poem “In Response to V. N.N.N”. (“It is precisely our life that astonishes me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 130.

1907

January 17

In the morning, Galaktion’s mother, Makrine Adeishvili, departs back to the village of Chkvishi.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 12.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 17

The first class is “Catechism”, the second is “Geography”, the third is “Georgian Language”, and the fourth is “Russian Language”. After this, during the Latin class, the school inspector Trifon Japaridze and then the supervisor Father Zinovy Drozdov enter the classroom. He asks the students what grievances they have against the Latin teacher Theodor Bogolyubov. When the students loudly express their protest and say they don’t want such a teacher, the supervisor warns that such loud protests resemble demonstrations, and that the administration will resort to repression. Galaktion writes in his diary, “let’s see what happens tomorrow”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 13-14.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 18

The first class is “Catechism”, the second is “Georgian Language”. The teacher starts reading Lavrenti Ardziani’s “Solomon Isakich Mejghanuashvili” and tells the students it is about the Armenians. The third class is “Arithmetic”, the fourth is “Ecclesiastical Slavic Chant”, and the last class is “Latin”, which, surprisingly for Galaktion, takes place in a calm environment among the students. The poet thinks that Theodor Bogolyubov’s words about not doing any harm to the students might have had an effect on his classmates. Otherwise, they would have reported the protests they organized in the classes to the administration a long time ago.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 15-16.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 19

The first class is “Russian Language”, the second is “Georgian Language”, the third is “Geography”, the fourth is “Latin Language”, and the fifth is “Civic History”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 17.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 19

He specifically buys a notebook to sketch portraits of famous writers, kings, and leaders, and that same day he draws the portraits of the writers Ivan Myatlev (a Russian) and Anton Purtseladze (a Georgian). He intends to write something in his diary but decides not to do so, as it might be offensive to someone.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 17-18.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 23

His first lesson is “Catechism”, the second is “Georgian Chant”, and the third is “Georgian Language”. The teacher continues reading and analysing “Solomon Isakich Mejghanuashvili”. For writing, they are given the topic “The Spread of Christianity in Georgia”. His fourth lesson is “Civic History”. They receive news from Tbilisi that criminals have kidnapped a gymnasium student and are demanding a ransom from the student’s parents.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 19-20.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 24

His first lesson is “Arithmetic”, the second is “Civic History”, the third is “Geography”, and the fourth is “Russian Language”, which he misses. During the Russian lesson, they read a brochure brought by one of the students titled “Who Oppresses the Peasant”. They end the reading with applause.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 20.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 25

In the morning, they read their morning prayers. The first lesson is “Catechism”, the second is “Geography”, the third is “Georgian Language”, during which they continue reading “Solomon Isakich Mejghanuashvili”. The fourth lesson is “Latin”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 21.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 25

In the evening, they begin writing an essay assigned by their Georgian language teacher, Meliton Chogovadze, titled “The Spread of Christianity in Georgia”. The deadline for submitting the assignment is January 29.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 21.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 30

After the morning church service, the supervisor Ivane Kobakhidze informs the students at the theological school which “hour” (hour prayer) they need to read during the divine service. Galaktion is assigned the sixth hour. The first lesson is “Catechism”, the second is “Geography”, the third is “Slavic Church Chant”, the fourth is “Georgian Language”, during which Galaktion submits his essay titled “The Spread of Christianity in Georgia” to the teacher. The fifth lesson is “Latin”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 22.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 30

In his diary, he writes that he has been studying at the theological school for six years, and there has never been such disorder. The students fight over almost everything, and the teachers and supervisors no longer even try to calm them down. Galaktion notes that there were ten fights just today, and a window was broken. The teachers are scared because it often happens that the unruly students of the theological school beat the teachers or even shoot at them with revolvers. Soon, the theological school will become a nest of “bandits”. The students who were arrested on January 12 are already free and will return to the school.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 23-25.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

January 30

In the evening, the inspector of the theological school, Trifon Japaridze, and the supervisor, Konstantine Matcharadze, inform Galaktion at his residence that the Brotherhood Council has allocated 5 roubles for him.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 23-25.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: In the source, individuals are mentioned only by their initials.

1907

January 30

He makes an entry in which he expresses his concern about the disorder prevailing in the school. He laments that the teachers and supervisors do not pay attention to the behaviour of the students, and the students do not respect the teachers.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 119.

1907

January 30

Galaktion and Abesalom Tabidze appeal to the school’s supervisors, requesting that they consider the difficult situation of the orphans, Abesalom and Galaktion Tabidze, and provide them with financial assistance.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 121, 122.

1907

After January 30

Based on the request, Abesalom and Galaktion Tabidze receive financial assistance of 5 roubles from the theological school.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 121, 122.

Dating: The request to the school supervisor is dated January 30.

1907

Until January 30

He receives a reply letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. She is pleased that Galaktion has been promised financial assistance from the school. She asks him to hand over the money to his housekeeper, Despina, as soon as he receives it, and if he needs anything urgently, to take a small amount. She also warns him not to mention the assistance received if Uncle Thadeos comes by to leave money with Despina.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Galaktion Tabidze, GTDA, 839, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 494.

1907

Until February 26

At the Kutaisi Theological Seminary, most children receive free clothing, but Galaktion is not among them. The news reaches Makrine Adeishvili, who hears remarks suggesting that perhaps he is not studying well or behaving properly, as even children with both parents received clothing, let alone those orphaned of their fathers. The seminary inspector also hints to Galaktion's mother that if he studies diligently and behaves properly, they will not neglect him.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-297; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 141; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", 2025, p. 494.

1907

Until February 26

In Kutaisi, he receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. The sender encloses three roubles and asks him to add this amount to the assistance received from the school and hand it over to his housekeeper, Despina. She also sends three silver coins (20 kopecks) for travel. She urges him to study diligently and, as soon as he finishes his studies, to go to the village to help her with the vodka production or any other work to help gather a little money for him. He is urged to stop reading other books, as only a year and a half remains, and there will be time to read other books later.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, MGL, Manuscript 24551/297; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 141, 142; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 663.

Note: On January 30, 1907, Galaktion received 5 roubles in assistance from the school.

February

1907

February 1

He makes a note expressing his enthusiasm for the Georgian language teacher Meliton Chogovadze's lessons, specifically for his explanation of Lavrenti Ardaziani's "Solomon Isakich Meighanuashvili".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 114.

1907

February 1

Under the pseudonym G. Phazispireli, he translates Ivan Myatlev's poem "Flowers" ("How good and beautiful the flowers were in my garden...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 131-132.

1907

February 1

Under the pseudonym G. Phazispireli, he writes a poem titled "Sorrow and Grievs...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 134.

1907

February 1

In the morning, as he enters the classroom, a student shouts, “Look, there’s a fly on the ceiling!” and when Galaktion looks up, everyone simultaneously exclaims, “Today is February 1!” They also make Father Zinobi to look back and then repeat, “Today is February 1”. The second lesson is “Arithmetic”, and Galaktion is called, but he does not know what mark the teacher is giving him. The third lesson is “Georgian Language”, where they continue studying “Solomon Isakich Mejghanuashvili”. Galaktion enjoys the Georgian lessons because he learns many new things. The fifth lesson is “Latin”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 27-28.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: It seems that, at that time, February 1 was considered a day for pranks, rather than April 1.

1907

February 1

He takes out the Book “Stories of the Heroism of Human Minds” by Nikolai Rubakin from the theological school’s library.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 28.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: In Russian, the book’s title is “Рассказы о подвигах человеческого ума” (Stories of the Heroism of Human Minds).

1907

February 3

He is ill with a fever and, after the evening prayers, goes home after receiving the blessing.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 29.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 4

Despite being ill and suffering from a severe headache, he still goes to the service.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 29.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 5

The first lesson was supposed to be “Catechism”, but the teacher is absent, so “Geography” is taught instead. The second lesson is “Georgian Language”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 30.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 5

The first lesson is “Dictation”, the second is “Nature”, the third is “Latin”, and the fourth is “Slavic Church Chant”. In his diary, he writes that he hasn’t made any entries for five days, but a lot has happened.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 30.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1904-

Until February 6, 1907

The Russian language teacher, Grigol Vashchenko, reads various literary works to the students at the theological school on Sundays, shows them paintings, and takes care of their general education.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 37.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 6

He has a new Russian language teacher – Mikhail Bistrov.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 31.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 9-10

He writes a poem titled “Before Me the City” (“Before my eyes, the whole sea appears...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 137-141.

1907

February 10

He returns Nikolai Rubakin’s Book to the library and checks out the complete works of Alexander Griboedov, which includes the author’s most famous work, the comedy “Woe from Wit”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 32.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 10

In the evening, he draws a portrait of Alexander Griboedov in his special notebook.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 32.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 11

They collect money for a trip to the zoo and give it to Inspector Trifon Japaridze. The entire school goes to the zoo except for Galaktion, which makes him upset. The first lesson is “Arithmetic”, and the second is “Russian Language”. During this lesson, they return the “Dictation” notebook s written on Saturday, and he learns that he received a 4. The Russian language teacher then asks him to recite an episode from Alexander Pushkin’s poem “Poltava”, titled “Kochubey in Prison”. He also receives a 4 for this answer.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 34.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 13

He translates Alexander Pushkin’s poem “The Monument” (“I have erected an imperishable, grand monument, sacred...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 134-136.

1907

February 14

The first lesson is “Georgian Language”, the second is “Slavic Church Chant”, the third is “Geography”, and the fourth is “Russian Language”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 35.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 16

The first lesson is “Russian Language”, the second is “Church Slavonic Chanting”, the third is “Geography”, and the fourth is “Russian Language”, during which they submit a report prepared based on several lessons’ materials.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 35-36.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 16

In his diary, he writes about the crisis in the school administration. Previously, poor students were given 10 roubles in assistance, but now both Galaktion and others receive only 5 roubles. In the harsh winter conditions, the classrooms are not heated, and many other things are disorganized.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 37.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 18

He attends the service at the cathedral of the Kutaisi Theological School.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 37.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 18

In his diary entry, he expresses concern that, unlike the previous Russian language teacher, Grigol Vashchenko, the new teacher does not pay attention to the students' general education.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 38.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 18

He reads Alexander Pushkin's novella "The Captain's Daughter".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 39.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 19

They celebrate the day of the liberation of peasants from serfdom with festivities. No classes are held, and he goes to the cathedral of the Kutaisi Classical Gymnasium but does not attend the service. Instead, he goes with a friend to the city library to read newspapers. He reads the newspaper Mitsa, which urges peasants to celebrate the day. He also reads about how the students of the Tbilisi Theological Seminary observe February 15 as the day of the first student strike and mentions that there was talk at the teachers' meeting about closing the first and second grades. After returning from the library, he goes back to the gymnasium's church, where people are gathering for the funeral of Semionov, an 8th-grade student from the gymnasium. He attends the funeral at the Sapichkhia cemetery, which is crowded with people. Back home, he shares news about the Tbilisi Seminary with his housekeeper, knowing that her son studies there, and piques her interest.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 39-42.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 20

He reads the brochure "Our Rebellion" by Priest Ermolaoz Kandelaki.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 44.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: The Book was published in Kutaisi in 1905.

1907

February 20

He writes a critical review of Ermolaoz Kandelaki's brochure "Our Rebellion".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 144-152.

1907

February 21

Under the pseudonym “Ga-va-ta”, he writes a poem titled “The Testament” (“Comrades! This is...”).

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 153.

1907

February 21

The first lesson is “Catechism”, and the teacher, who is conducting the lesson for the first time after a two-month illness, leads the class. The second lesson is “Russian Language”, the third is “Georgian Language”, where the teacher asks the students about episodes from the story “Solomon Isakich Mejghanuashvili”. The fourth lesson is “Slavic Church Chant”, and the fifth is “Latin”. The students still disobey the teacher, Theodor Bogolyubov, and shout. After the lessons, the students request Inspector Trifon Japaridze to announce the grades for the current quarter of the academic year. Galaktion writes in his diary that teachers prefer to satisfy the students’ demands.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 46.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 22

He arrives at the classroom very early and is alone. The first lesson, “Catechism”, should have been held, but since Father Zinobi is absent, Trifon Japaridze talks about how serfdom was established in Russia during the reign of Tsar Fyodor Ivanovich Rurik and Boris Godunov, and how it then spread to the Caucasus. The third lesson is “Georgian Language”, and the fourth is “Latin”. After the lessons, the grades for the second quarter are announced.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 47.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 22

He returns the volume of Alexander Griboedov’s works to the library and checks out a condensed version of Alexei Tolstoy’s novel “Prince Serebrenni”, which he reads the same day along with Vladimir Khilyak’s Book “Two Old Men”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 47-48.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: The titles of the books are: Князь Серебряный and Два старика.

1907

February 22

The school provides 5 roubles in assistance.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 47-48.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 23

The first lesson is “Russian Language”, the second is “Civic History”, the third is “Geography”, and the fourth is “Latin”. Due to a disruption during this lesson, he is left without lunch. Galaktion, along with Titsian and Ezekiel, goes to visit Polievktos. In the evening, he attends prayers and then goes with his friend Davit Demetrashvili to the city library. In the newspaper Akhali Tskhovreba, he reads an article by Irodion Evdoshvili in response to a piece in the newspaper Mitsa, which had urged peasants to celebrate February 19 as their day of freedom. Evdoshvili argues that the peasants are not yet free and that there is nothing to celebrate. In the newspaper Tsin, he reads about the murder of the renowned ataman Aprasion Merkviladze and his two friends in the village of Sveri. Merkviladze, once a simple bandit, had joined the liberating movement after it began.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 48-49.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: It is likely referring to Polievktos Karbelashvili. The name of Davit Demetrashvili is not mentioned in the source.

1907

February 23

He writes a poem titled “Lute” (“Oh Lute, your moaning...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 105-106.

1907

February 23

A wedding is held at the theological school’s cathedral, and afterward, someone, presumably a student, sneaks into the refectory unnoticed, and the priests lock the church. The person left inside takes 3 roubles, drinks wine, eats the consecrated bread, then opens the door and leaves, without touching any church valuables.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 52-54.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 24

During the service, he hears an explosion, and after the church services are over, he learns that there was an attack on the postal treasury. The first bomb killed the chief of police of Kutaisi, “Chachani Sultana”, and two guards. After the liturgy, he goes with a friend to the city library. There are many Cossacks stationed along the way. The library is crowded, and everyone is interested in the newspapers. Galaktion reads several newspapers: Tsin, Isari, Akhali Tskhovreba, Baku, and the illustrated magazine Novoie Vremya. He learns the names of the people killed along with Merkviladze: Gachechiladze and Botchorishvili.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 54-56.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

1907

February 24

He goes to the library with a friend, where he reviews both Georgian and Russian newspapers. In one of the Russian newspapers, he reads an obituary for the Austrian theatre critic Ioseb Levinson. In Russkie Vedomosti, he finds an article about Admiral Ivan Nepliev, who was stabbed and subsequently received a letter of thanks from Emperor Nikolai II. Almost every newspaper features the story of Father Grigol Petrov, who was exiled to a monastery but was still elected to the State Council. He also reads that Vikenty Lomtadze, elected as a member of the State Council from Samegrelo, has already departed for Petersburg. In addition, he comes across the obituary of Vladimir Khilyak and recalls that he read Khilyak's Book "Two Old Men" just two days earlier.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 58.

Dating: We date the fact according to the diary entry.

Note: The source only provides the initials of people's names.

1907

February 24

He writes a poem titled "Song", which features the refrain with the words of another author: "My beloved, my darling".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 56, 137-142.

1907

After February 24

Under the pseudonym G. Phazeli, he writes a poem titled "Lyre" ("You, my jingling Lyre...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 143.

1907

25 February

It is a Sunday. When he wakes up in the morning, he sees that snow has fallen. His landlady is ill and still asleep. Galaktion prepares tea himself and then goes to attend the liturgy at the Kutaisi Theological Seminary's church. The hymns are sung in Georgian. After the service, the students gather in groups. There is much discussion about the murder of Aprasion Merkviladze and his friends.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 59.

1907

25 February

He writes a poem titled "To the Sea" in imitation, with the lines: "The sea roars and bitterly rumbles...".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 154.

1907

After February 25

He makes excerpts from “From the Theory of Eloquence”, including definitions of terms such as: poem, novel, fable, idyll, ballad, ode, elegy, and others.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 155-158.

Dating: In the notebook, the poem is written following the text dated February 25, on the same page.

1907

After February 25

In the newspaper Isari, he reads the text “Rain”, translated by his brother Abesalom Tabidze, and is very pleased.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №818, p. 1-4.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his brother on March 11, 1907.

1907

February 26

The first lesson is “Georgian Church Chant”, followed by “Catechism”, “Georgian Language”, “Latin Language”, and “Civil History”. Galaktion brings Ermolaoz Kandelaki’s brochure “Our Rebellion” to the seminary, which many read and later discuss. After classes, he returns the Book “Prince Serebrenni” to the library and instead takes out the third volume of Elizaveta Vodovozova’s Book “The Life of European Peoples”. He also starts reading Margarita Yamshchikova’s story “Asan Khiz”. In the evening, at the library, he reads Russian newspapers and finds a portrait of State Council deputy Priest Grigol Petrov, who was then transferred to the Cheremenets Monastery due to a critical letter sent to Metropolitan Anton Vadkovski. In the newspaper Isari, he reads the text “Rain”, translated by his brother Abesalom Tabidze, and is very pleased.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 60-61.

Note: Margarita Yamshchikova wrote under the pseudonym “A. Altaev”.

1907

February 27

He thinks he will be dismissed and goes to the seminary without any books, but the first lesson, “Catechism”, is conducted, and only in the middle of the second lesson, “Russian Language”, he is released. Inspectors enter the classroom and hand out tickets for going home. That same day, Galaktion leaves for Chkvishi, bringing with him the third volume of Elizaveta Vodovozova’s Book “The Lives of European Peoples” to read. At 4:30, he boards the train with his friends Bolkvadze and Kokhroidze. At the Ianeti station, Kokhroidze gets off, and Bolkvadze and Galaktion walk to Chkvishi. Bolkvadze stays with the Tabidze family that night and continues his journey to Sapaichao the next morning.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 61-63.

1907

February 27

On vacation, he goes to stay with his mother in the village of Chkvishi and stops making diary entries for 14 days.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 63.

March

1907

March 6

He writes a poem “Japan” (“Oppressed by the multitude...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 103.

1907

March 7

He writes a poem “Russia” (“The Turks and Mongols...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 104.

1907

February 28 - March 10

While staying in the village, he reads the 1895 edition of Lev Tolstoy’s story “The Master and the Man”, Klavdia Lukashevich’s story “A Piece of Bread”, Voltaire’s “Candide” from the 1892 Georgian edition, and other books.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 64.

Dating: The entry is placed before the March 11 entry in the diary.

Note: In the original, the titles of the texts are “Хозяин и работник” and “Кусочек хлеба”.

1907

Until March 11

He stays in his native village of Chkvishi and takes communion.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, 818, p. 1-4.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his brother on March 11, 1907.

1907

March 11

In the morning, he departs from Chkvishi and is already in Kutaisi by the evening.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 65.

1907

March 11

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He conveys their mother’s request to find out whether Galaktion will be granted permission to enrol in the seminary in September 1908.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, 818, p. 1-4.

1907

March 12

He starts studying at the theological school. His first lesson is “Civic History”, and the teacher requests that the curriculum be reviewed from the very beginning. The second lesson is “Georgian Language”. Out of the students, 20 have still not returned from vacation.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 65.

1907

Until March 13

Galaktion Tabidze sends a letter from Kutaisi to his brother Abesalom in Tbilisi, asking for his opinion on various matters but does not mention his progress in his studies.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1548, p. 1-2.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in Abesalom Tabidze’s letter dated March 13, 1907.

1907

March 13

The Georgian language teacher, Meliton Chogovadze, assigns the topic “The Last Day of Capital Punishment” to be written based on Irodion Evdoshvili’s poem, with a deadline of March 19. Some students have already returned from vacation, but 9 are still absent. He debates with a friend about August Bebel’s Book “Christianity and Socialism”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 67-68.

1907

March 14

After a 50-minute morning service, the “Catechism” lesson lasts for 10 minutes. Following that, he has “Russian Language”, then “Georgian Language”, and finally “Geography”. After these classes, the third-grade students discuss the case of Shanidze and Kvirikadze. Shanidze accuses Kvirikadze of appropriating his Book “Georgian Writers”. The students confirmed that the Book belonged to Shanidze.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 67-68.

1907

March 16

After the morning service, he has a Russian language lesson where he is assigned to write an essay on “The Battle of Poltava”, based on Pushkin’s poem of the same title. The second lesson is Georgian, where the teacher begins reading and discussing Giorgi Tsereteli’s “The Gray Wolf”. The third lesson is Geography, and the fourth is Latin. Galaktion is deeply affected by the fact that during the Latin lesson, inspectors Zinobi Drozdov and Trifon Japaridze enter the classroom and ask the teacher, Theodor Bogolyubov, to name the students who are causing disturbances. The teacher names the most innocent students, including Meburishvili, Chakhunashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and a few others. In reality, the actual troublemakers, Gordeladze, Sirbiladze, and Uklelia, are sitting quietly, having intimidated Bogolyubov with a revolver multiple times to keep silent about their misbehaviour and to give them high marks. Galaktion believes that the Latin teacher was favourably disposed toward him and feels a terrible sense of disillusionment. He wonders how he should continue his studies, contemplating whether he should also intimidate the teachers with a revolver.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 71-72.

1907

March 16

He finishes reading another Book based on Alexei Tolstoy's novel "Prince Serebrenni", which, unlike the first 80-page book, is 248 pages long. He intends to find and read the complete version.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 73.

1907

March 16

He borrows a Book by Gustav Danilovsky from a friend, and the same friend promises to bring another Book by the same author the next day. After a long illness, he sees David Demetrashvili for the first time since February. He is very troubled by the fact that there are very bad rumours circulating about his class.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 73.

1907

March 16

He reads the story "The Fairy of Karelaant Castle" adapted by Anastasia Tumanishvili-Tsereteli, Tedo Razikashvili's "Heroes", Niko Khutsesishvili's (Khitsishvili's) "Sincere Answer", and Gotthold Lessing's fable "The Dogs of India" translated by Aleksei Barnov.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 74.

1907

March 17

During the Russian language lesson, they write a dictation. The second lesson is "Geography", the third is "Latin Language", the fourth is "Civic History", and the fifth is "Slavic Church Chant". On that day, he learns about several incidents that occurred in Kutaisi. A gymnasium student shot at a woman three times near the boulevard due to betrayal but missed each time. Near the bridge, a man named Begov was killed with a revolver while walking with his brother. On Arkieli Gora, a shopkeeper named Maksime shot a Tatar in the head with a revolver after an argument. A bomb was thrown at the director of the real school, and dynamite was placed in the wall of the building, but no one was harmed.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 75-76.

1907

March 18

He does not attend the service and goes with a relative to the Sapichkhia cemetery, then to the Motsameta monastery, and finally to Gelati.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 77.

1907

March 21

The first lesson is “Catechism”. During the second lesson, Russian, the teacher brings the corrected dictation notebooks, and Galaktion sees that he received a four. In the Georgian language lesson, the teacher finishes reading Giorgi Tsereteli’s “The Gray Wolf”. The fourth lesson is “Geography”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 78.

1907

March 23

Using the pseudonym G. Phazispireli, he writes a satirical poem titled “The Heroes of Our Class” (“Who are our heroes? – They are all donkeys...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 101-102.

1907

March 23

The first lesson is “Geography”. In the second lesson, during the Georgian language class, the teacher Meliton Chogovadze begins reading Shakespeare’s “Macbeth”, translated by Ivane Machabeli. The third lesson is “Russian Language”, and the fourth is “Latin Language”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 78-79.

1907

March 26

He notes in his diary that on this day, Simon Munjiev, the owner of a confectionery shop, was shot with a revolver. He explains the reason for the absence of diary entries for March 24-25, stating that he lent this notebook to his friend Genadi Mikhelidze.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 79.

1907

March 26

He reads Ignat Potapenko’s story “Azorka”. The Georgian language teacher brings the corrected essays on “The Spread of Christianity in Georgia”. Overall, the teacher is dissatisfied with the results, commenting that the ideas are unclear and punctuation is incorrect. Galaktion receives a grade of 5. In geography, they are assigned to write an essay titled “Tundra”. By March 31, he needs to submit an essay to his Russian teacher on “How I Spent My Christmas Holidays”. For the civil history class, he needs to present an essay on “The Establishment of the Trinity Cathedral”.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 81.

1907

March 26

Under the note “Student Observations”, he writes an essay titled “Theological Schools and Seminaries in the Caucasus”. In it, he states that no other educational institutions serve the spread of education among Georgians as effectively as theological seminaries. These institutions are accessible even to rural residents. Only Georgians study in Georgia’s theological schools, and great attention is given to the teaching of the Georgian language. These schools nurture patriots such as Noe Zhordania, Filipe Makharadze, Ia Ekaladze, and others.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 81-88.

1907

March 27

The Russian language teacher hands out the dictation notebook s, and Galaktion has a few mistakes.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 89.

1907

March 29

He writes a vaudeville titled “Chicken Pkhari”. The characters are merchants: Ivane and Petre.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 91.

Note: “Pkhari” should mean “a writing pen” here.

1907

Until March 30

He writes a play titled “Scenes from Our People’s Life”. The characters include: the wealthy merchant Gabriel, his wife Tekla, their children Tamara and Iason, servants, and bandits. The drama depicts how bandits murder the honest merchant Gabriel Makhlov for the purpose of robbery and then falsely accuse social-democrats of the crime.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 107-126.

Dating: On March 30, 1907, the poet’s friends staged the aforementioned play by Galaktion.

1907

March 30

Under the pseudonym G. Phazeli, he writes a poem titled “Critic” (“To my opponent”) (“Whoever has a tongue, though a bit long...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 127.

1907

March 30

In the rented apartment of Galaktion, the poet’s friends – Genadi Mikhelidze, Akaki Devdariani, V. Gogodze, M. Kipshidze, P. Charkviani, and others – perform his two-act play “Scenes from Our People’s Life”. Genadi Mikhelidze takes the work seriously, while the others cannot refrain from their laughter during the performance, which upsets Galaktion.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 89-90.

Note: In the source, only the initials of the participants in the performance are presented.

1907

Until March 31

In a few days, he reads the following works: Egnate Ninoshvili's stories: "Simona", "Bad Disease", and "Rebellion in Guria" (half of it), Avksenti Tsagareli's dramas: "One Step Forward", "Khanuma", "Mischievous", "The Seekers of Beautiful Helen", and Cervantes's novel "Don Quixote of La Mancha".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 91.

1907

March 31

He resumes making entries in his diary. He did not make entries from March 28 to 30 because he had lent his notebook to a fifth-grade student of the gymnasium, who was interested in reading his works.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 89.

1907

March 31

Friends once again perform Galaktion's drama "Scenes from Our Lives".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 89.

1907

March 31 or later

He writes a poem titled "To My Friends" ("Friends, to one another...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №693, p. 99-100.

Dating: In the notebook, the poem is written after the text dated March 31, using the same ink and style.

April

1907

April 2

Galaktion and his classmates receive a letter from the Tbilisi Theological Seminary and learn about the strike that took place in the first class and the beating of the student Meliton Kukhelashvili.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 91.

1907

April 2

The Georgian language teacher assigns reading Shakespeare's tragedy Macbeth. The Russian language teacher distributes dictation notebook s, and Galaktion finds that he received a 4.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 91.

1907

April 4

He notices that the first swallows have returned to Kutaisi.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 91.

1907

April 4

Galaktion's friend, Akaki Devdariani, is beaten.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 92.

1907

April 5

In the Georgian language lesson, they finish reading Shakespeare's "Macbeth".

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 92.

1907

April 5

In the diary, he writes that the students of the Noble Gymnasium and the Real School are released for Easter holidays on April 7th, while those of the Theological Seminary are released on April 13-15.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 92.

1907

April 5

The students of the Theological Seminary perform the children's comedy "The Queen of Flowers", published in the 1906 magazine Nakaduli. Akaki Devdariani is the prompter.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 92.

1907

April 12

Galaktion and the students of the Theological Seminary demand to be promoted to the next grade without exams. The strike ends when they are informed of the upcoming holidays, and they return to their homes.

Source: Diary entry, GTDA, №693, p. 92.

1907

April 12

He finishes the third quarter of the third grade at the Theological Seminary in Kutaisi with the following grades: Scripture – 4, Russian Language 3 and 4, Latin Language 3 and 3, Georgian Language 5 and 4, Geography 3 and $\frac{3}{4}$, Arithmetic 2 and 3, Slavic Chant 4 and 4, Georgian Chant

3, Orthography 4 and 2, Behaviour 5 and 4. He is granted Easter holidays until April 30 and is allowed to return to his native village, Chkvishi.

Source: Certificate and School Progress Report issued by the institution, GTDA, №1061, p. 1.

1907

April 27

He writes a story “In front of Judgement”.

Source: MGL, d-648, 1; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 218-223.

1907

April 27

He translates Leo Tolstoy’s story “Where Love Is, God Is”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №27, p. 1-17.

May

1907

May 24

The Kutaisi Theological Seminary granted students vacation before September 1, providing them with certificates and grade sheets. According to his grade sheet, Galaktion received the following marks: Behaviour - 5; Scripture, Russian language, Georgian language, Civil and Ecclesiastical History, Geography, Arithmetic, and Georgian and Russian Ecclesiastical chanting - 4; and Latin - 3. On the same day, Galaktion returned to his native village of Chkvishi.

Source: Theological Seminary Certificate, GTDA, №446, p. 1-2.

August

1907

Until August 15

He translates a part of Van Voorst’s story “Why the Teacher Forgot to Comb Her Hair”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1040, p. 26-27; GTDA, №416, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval”, “Dating Manuscripts and the Challenges of Graphematic Research”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1907

After August 30

He responds to the murder of Ilia Chavchavadze with great indignation and outrage through a poem, the manuscript of which is taken by prison doctor David Japaridze to political prisoners sitting in Kutaisi prison.

Source: I. Bakhtadze, Galaktion, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 193.

May-August

1907

May-August

He writes an untitled poem “The Peaks of the Mountain Shine with Silver...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №333, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval”, “Dating Manuscripts and the Challenges of Graphematic Research”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1907

May-August

He begins writing an untitled poem: “What Silence! Just Here, Almost...”, but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №333, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval”, “Dating Manuscripts and the Challenges of Graphematic Research”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1907

August

He writes a play featuring devils as the characters.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №629, p. 1-4.

September

1907

September 1

While traveling by train with his uncle, Iustine, he learns about the murder of Ilia Chavchavadze from a newspaper at the Rioni station.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 57.

Dating: The news of Ilia Chavchavadze’s death was published in the press on September 1st.

1907

September 1

He continues his studies in the fourth grade of the Kutaisi Theological Seminary.

Source: Autobiography, MGL, d-659-13.

1907

September 9-17

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom, sent to him from Tbilisi to Kutaisi, delivered by a seminarian student. Abesalom describes Ilia Chavchavadze’s funeral in detail and notes that Georgia has never witnessed such a grand procession. He advises him to take care of himself and try to get admitted to the seminary without having to take exams. He informs him that he will finish his exams on September 18 and return to the village.

Source: Letter’s autograph, GTDA, №1267, p. 1-5.

Dating: We date it based on the dates of Ilia Chavchavadze’s funeral and Abesalom’s exams.

1907

Until September 20

He receives a letter from a seminary student sent to him by his brother, Abesalom, from Tbilisi to Kutaisi, and learns that he is well.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1228, p. 1-2.

Dating: The fact is mentioned by Galaktion in a letter sent to his mother on September 20th.

1907

September 20

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his mother in Chkvishi through his relative Akaki. He informs her that the school has introduced the voluntary teaching of two new languages, French and German, but the lessons are paid, and he wants to know if they will be able to afford them. He writes that Despina has deceived them and raised the rent. According to Galaktion, for seven roubles, he can rent a better apartment on the hill from Mose Tevzadze's daughter, where there are fewer children and more peace. He writes that it is impossible to study in their current house, which is why he either studies in the classroom or gets up very early. He asks her to inform him of the decision soon. In addition, he requests money for shoe repairs and for buying notebook s.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1228, p. 1-2.

1907

September 22

The students of the third and fourth grades of the Kutaisi Theological Seminary go on strike.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4.

Dating: The date is mentioned in Galaktion Tabidze's letter to his brother.

1907

September 23 or later

Galaktion Tabidze and his classmates are requested to leave the seminary until a decision is made by the Synod, and the poet travels to his native village, Chkvishi.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025. p. 496-497.

1907

Until September 25

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter with regards to her son, Abesalom, and informs him that Galaktion has arrived in the village and was very disappointed that his brother was not there to greet him. She writes that if Abesalom decides to go to Chkvishi as well, he should not visit Manjgaladze, as they have smallpox in the house. She also mentions that Aunt Marta invited Galaktion to stay with her in Isriti. He initially agreed but later changed his mind because he was too lazy to go alone without Abesalom.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1516, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 496-497.

1907

September 25 and later

In the morning, unable to get out of bed, he tells his younger cousin, Simon Tabidze, who comes to see him, that he is ill. When Simon's father sees Galaktion's condition, he sends his son to fetch Remanoz Bakhtadze, a neighbour, who concludes that the child has smallpox. Since Galaktion's mother, Makrine, has not had this infectious disease, Remanoz takes it upon himself to care for Galaktion. Galaktion's uncle, Iustine, who has also had smallpox, and Remanoz entertain the sick child by playing the lute.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4; Simon Tabidze, "Recollection of Galaktion Tabidze", Collection "Galaktionology", IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 332; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 496-497.

1907

September

He writes the story "Bitchia Ugrekhelidze".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 1-36.

October

1907

October 19

After a twenty-day illness, he feels fully recovered, but scars remain on his face from the rash.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 496-497.

1907

Until October 28

During his time in the village, they harvest the crops but suffer significant losses. The livestock trample 240 sheaves of bundled straw, the sharers slip several baskets of rotten corn into the harvested corn, and each apple tree bears only a few apples.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 497.

1907

October 28

He returns from Chkvishi to Kutaisi and settles into his relative Despina's place.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 497.

1907

October 28

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He recounts the events of the strike at the theological seminary and subsequent developments. He expresses relief that his illness, smallpox, did not pass to their mother, despite her exposure. He conveys her request that Abesalom should definitely get vaccinated before going to Chkvishi. He also shares news about their family's farm and harvest.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 820, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 497.

1907

December 27

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother from Tbilisi, inquiring about Galaktion's progress in his studies. He mentions that he wanted to come home for the Christmas holidays but doesn't have the extra 5 roubles needed. He apologizes to Galaktion for not being able to bring the books as promised but assures him that he will bring them when he comes.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1547, p. 1-2.

1907

December

In the theological seminary, he writes a theological essay in Russian titled "The Inner Divine Law, or the Testimony of Conscience", which is graded by the teacher, the monk-priest Vasili, with a rating of "4.5. Very good".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-642, 3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 128-129.

1905-1907

Galaktion and his friends help deliver information from the imprisoned revolutionaries in the Kutaisi prison to their intended recipients. The revolutionaries write messages on letters and throw them out of the window wrapped in loaves of bread. Once, during Galaktion's watch, a dog grabs the bread thrown by the prisoners, and the poet has to exert great effort to retrieve the letter. In the letter, the revolutionary prisoners instruct their comrades to send weapons and discuss breaking out of the prison. Galaktion stays up all night to ensure that the message reaches the illegal headquarters.

Source: G. Liakhvispireli, Galaktion is One, Meetings in Tskhinvali, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 342.

Note: The events described in this reflection are not corroborated by any other sources.

1907

He writes a poem "To my homeland".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 134.

1907

He writes a poem "Arise the oppressed".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 134.

1907

He writes a poem “Lyre”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 134.

1907

He writes a poem “Japan”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 134.

1907

He writes a poem “Russia”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 134.

1907

He writes a long poem “Sixty Heroes”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Soul is Purer than the Azure Sky”, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 217.

Note: Galaktion himself refers to this 102-verse work as a poem in one of his lists.

1907

He translates Leo Tolstoy’s story “Where love is, God is”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №27, p. 1-17.

Note: “Где любовь, там и Бог” is the name in the original of the story.

1907

In the notebook, he sketches with a pencil the portraits of Anton Purtseladze, Ivan Krylov, Mikhail Lermontov, Charles Dickens, Napoleon Bonaparte, Nikolai Karamzin, Kote Meskhi, Ilia Chavchavadze, Mamia Gurieli, Alexander Pushkin, Charles Darwin, and David Giorgi Meskhi, and Davit Batonishvili son of Giorgi III.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №274, p. 1-11.

1907

In the notebook, he writes a poem “On Mount Gordi” by Giorgi Chaladideli (Kochakidze) (“High above, there is peaceful silence...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №274, p. 12.

1907

In the theological seminary, he writes an essay titled “The Volga River and Its Importance for Russia”. The work receives a positive evaluation from the teacher. In the brief comment attached to the paper, the teacher notes that the student has the ability to express his thoughts poetically.

Source: MGL, d-642, 4; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 129-130.

1907

He writes a poem titled “On New Year’s Eve” (“With a candle, I lit up my sorrowful room...”) dedicated to “N” and precedes it with a phrase from Ivan Bunin: “In the dark night, the weary heart struggles terribly”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 4.

1907 or later

He reads a collection of materials about the geographical points of the Caucasus and the tribes living there, making underlines and notes.

Source: MGL, t-412, Сборникъ Материаловъ для описания Местностей и племеньъ Кавказа, Tbilisi, 1907.

1908

January

1908

Until January 1

In Russian, he writes a plan for the topic “New Year in the countryside” and makes a sketch at the bottom of the page. A man with a moustache and a top hat, whose image is marked “New Year”, is persecuting a bent double and head bowed figure, whose image is marked “Envy”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №160, p. 1.

Dating: Since the poem “New Year”, dated January 1, is crossed out, and this manuscript is corrected, it must be a later one.

1908

January 1

He writes a poem “New Year” (“With a smile on the face, with a laugh...”).

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №160, p. 2.

1908

After January 7

He sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze.

Source: MGL, №24551-6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 9.

Dating: In a letter sent on January 28, 1908, it is mentioned that it was written after the Christmas.

1908

Until January 13

He rents an apartment in Nestor Kubaneishvili’s house, pays half a month’s rent, 4 roubles, and doesn’t have any money left to buy overshoes.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his mother on January 13.

1908

January 13 or earlier

He thinks that he will be drafted into the army. Therefore, he decides to stay in Kutaisi and undergo military training to prepare as a “free soldier”, about which he informs his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in writing.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his mother on January 13.

1908

January 13

He sends a letter to his mother, writing that he has moved to Nestor Kubaneishvili’s house and asks her to send three and a half roubles to pay the landlady.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7.

1908

Until January 20

He submits an application requesting to be appointed as a third teacher.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 107.

Note: The source does not mention which school he applied to for the teaching position.

Dating: The fact can be dated based on a letter from Abesalom Tabidze to Galaktion, which is dated by us to a period before February 1, 1908.

1908

January 28

He sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, stating that there is interest at the school regarding who plans to continue their studies at the seminary. He informs him of the teachers’ comments that two brothers should not expect to both receive state funding for their education.

Source: MGL, №24551-6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 9.

1908

January

He writes a poem titled “On the Barricade”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 138.

1908

January

He writes a New Year’s etude titled “Tomorrow I Will Turn Eighty”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 37-40.

February

1908

February 1

He writes a poem “At Midnight” (“I was calling the muse... lost in the distance...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 624, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28.

1908

January 28 - February 2

He receives a reply letter from Abesalom Tabidze. Abesalom disapproves of Galaktion's plan to stay in Kutaisi and undergo military training. He writes that even if he is drafted into the army by a vote, there are several ways to obtain exemption. He expresses hope that Galaktion will find a teaching position by September and, if not, will prepare for the seminary. He promises to visit in the evening of February 1st to discuss everything in detail.

Source: Mamuka Shelegia, "Chronology of the Life and Works of Galaktion Tabidze", Tbilisi, 2020, p. 48; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 273.

1908

After February 6

He receives a letter from Abesalom Tabidze, dated February 6. In the letter, Abesalom informs him that the claim made by his teachers – that two brothers cannot both study at the seminary at state expense – is not true. He requests that Galaktion try to obtain a recommendation from the school for admission to the seminary.

Source: Prokle Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1997, p. 106.

1908

February 11

He writes a play titled "The Poet", featuring the following characters: the poet Akaki Geniosidze, Officer Mikhail Ivanich, his companion Leto, and a servant.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 43-52.

1908

February 16

Mikheil Botchorishvili, under the pseudonym "M. Dachagruli", dedicates the poem "It Is Every Young Man's Duty..."..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №429, p. 1-2.

1908

Until February 21

He finishes the first semester of the fourth grade at the Kutaisi Theological School with the following grades: "Excellent" in behaviour and Georgian language; "Good" in Theology, Catechism, Russian language, History, Geography, Natural Sciences, and Georgian Chant; and "Satisfactory" in Arithmetic and Latin language.

Source: Notice regarding leave, GTDA, №317, p. 1-4.

Dating: The information is dated February 21, 1908.

1908

February 21

During the Easter holidays, the Kutaisi Theological School grants permission to return to his native village of Chkvishi until March 3 of the current year. According to the school's rules, he is required to attend divine services, make a confession, and receive communion during the holidays.

Source: Notice regarding leave, GTDA, №317, p. 1-4.

1908

After February 23

He receives a letter sent by Titsian Tabidze on February 23. The sender asks him to find out the price of the previous year's issues of the pedagogical magazine Ganatleba. He also talks about the evening organized by students of the Kutaisi Classical Gymnasium on January 8 in honour of Akaki Tsereteli's literary and public activities. During the event, students Iovel Zhordania and Akaki Shanidze gave presentations. He also writes that Akaki Shanidze's presentation displeased the administration.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Soul is Purer than the Azure Sky", Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 27.

March

1908

Until March 2

He is in his native village of Chkvishi and receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. Abesalom requests that he writes back about the progress of the house roofing and the news of his studies.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №806, p. 1-4.

Dating: The envelope is dated 1908, but the letter itself indicates that it is March 2.

1908

March 2

He returns to Kutaisi from Chkvishi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №806, p. 1-4.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter to his brother dated March 2, 1908.

1908

March 2

He learns that a new inspector has been appointed at the theological school.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №806, p. 1-4.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter to his brother dated March 2, 1908.

1908

March 2

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He writes that his academic situation is very disorganized. Trifon Japaridze has been transferred elsewhere, which has left other teachers to run their classes as they please, often missing lessons. As a result, the fourth-grade students have turned to excessive partying. Galaktion avoids drinking with them. He also informs that roofing laths have already been brought in for the house renovation.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №806, p. 1-4.

Dating: The envelope is dated 1908, but the letter itself indicates that it is March 2.

1908

Until March 3

He spends the Easter holidays in his native village of Chkvishi.

Source: Notice regarding leave, GTDA, №317, p. 1-4.

Dating: The probable timeframe is indicated by a certificate issued by the Kutaisi Theological School on February 21, 1908.

1908

March 20

He, along with his classmates, attends a literary evening celebrating Nikolai Gogol, which is conducted by the Russian literature teacher V. Preobrazhensky. The students read excerpts from Gogol's works, including "The overcoat", "The Inspector General", and "Dead Souls".

Source: P. Khmaladze, Galaktion's classmate, newspaper Kutaisi, 1973, March 17, №54, p. 3.

Dating: The date is not specified in the source, but it was likely held on Gogol's birthday.

1908

Until March 29

He finishes the fourth grade at the Kutaisi Theological School with the following grades: "Excellent" in behaviour and Georgian language; 4/5 in Russian language; "Good" in Catechism, History, Geography, Arithmetic, and Georgian chant; and "Satisfactory" in Latin language and Natural Sciences. He is recommended for admission to the Theological Seminary in Tbilisi.

Source: Notice regarding leave, GTDA, №318, p. 1-4.

Dating: The certificate is dated March 29, 1908.

1908

March 29

He returns to his native village of Chkvishi. He has vacation from the seminary until April 23.

Source: Notice regarding leave, GTDA, №318, p. 1-4.

Dating: The probable timeframe is indicated by a certificate issued by the Kutaisi Theological School on March 29, 1908.

1908

March

He writes a poem "The Pen" ("When it is necessary...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 53-54.

1908

March

He writes a poem titled “Nobody Will Tell Me That Our Writing Should Not Wait For The Dawn...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 55.

1908

March

He writes a poem titled “At the Sound of the Lute”, which begins with “The string trembled, and the lute sounded again...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 56.

1908

March

He writes a poem titled “Verses from the Intellectual’s Diary”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 655, p. 57-62.

1908

Until April

He writes an untitled poem: “In the orchestra’s sound, there is the edge of the forest...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №603, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “Alaverdi” (“Fill my cup... fill it with wine...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes the title “By the Ruins of Bagrati Cathedral”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes the title “With Books” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Cloud” (“A cloud descended upon the mountain...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Dream” (“I dreamed that I was gazing down into an abyss from a high cliff...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes the title “To the Homeland” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes the title “Winter” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №546, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “Dawn” (“The sky cast off its black veil...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №51, p.1; GTDA, №416, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem about the homeland: “What spark of love ignites my heart, my homeland...” but repeatedly revises and crosses out the beginning.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №461, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “The Warrior” (“It is dark... rain and storm...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №418, p. 3.1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “Epitaph” (“What a grand sun will set...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №418, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes an untitled poem: “I love the dawn, when the lark...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №418, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a story about Princess Margarita, the king’s daughter, about whom it was prophesied that if she smelled a rose, touched a butterfly, or heard a nightingale’s song, she would die.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №243, p. 1-4, 244, p. 2-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a sketch about school life.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №245; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He translates the essay “Tuberculosis and Its Causes”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №244, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “Alaverdi” (“Brothers, to those who in the harsh battle...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №583, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “To the Muse” (“I desire neither wealth in this world nor...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №583, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “Confession of the Condemned” (“Comrades, my final confession...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №583, p. 4-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes an excerpt from his own poem: (“What do we await next? Only torment...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №583, p. 5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

Under the note “An Idea from the Russian” and the pseudonym “To the Lark”, he writes a poem “The Merciless” (“Some giant was born far away, in Russia...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 415, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem "Elegy" ("I love the dawn when spring...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №583, p. 6-7; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem "Nana" ("Hush, hush... Nana, my little wild one...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №583, p. 8; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem "The Breeze" ("The rocky mountain is somber...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 7-9; MGL, №8418; №8784; Copy, GTDA, №598, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 20; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

Note: In the autograph, the initial title of the poem was "Thought".

1908

Until April

Under the pseudonym "To the Lark" and with the note "An Idea from the Russian", he writes a poem "The Merciless" ("Some giant was born far away, in Russia...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 415, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a story titled "The Knight".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №694, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem "The Innocent Soul" ("When silence reigns over the world...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 5; GTDA, №516, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

Note: In the autograph, the initial title options for the poem were “The Demon” and “Is It Justice?”. Alternative beginnings include “A star glimmered in the sky...” and “What darkness covered the earth...”..

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Phantom” (“The sun levelled with the mountain...”).

Source: Autograph, №516, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

Note: The title “He Hated” is crossed out.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “S” (“Oh, I can no longer endure this conversation...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Fir on the Grave” (“It is midnight... the earth is shrouded...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 7; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Cloud” (“On the clear sky, a cloud...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 10; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “Thought” (“The restless one will not pity you...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 13-14; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

Note: In the autograph, the initial title option for the poem was “At Dawn”.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Prisoner” (“What bird will soar in the forest...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “Romance” (“What in this world brings joy...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 17; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem titled “The Prisoner’s Song” (“Dawn has broken... quietly it illuminated...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 18; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a memoir about his childhood. An orphan from his father’s side and surrounded by stern-faced people, he always longed to meet, even once in his life, someone as kind as the figure depicted on a paper hung on the wall. It was an image of Jesus Christ blessing a gathering of children. When the poet shared this wish with his mother, she would embrace him and say, “I know you don’t have a father, and you lack warmth, but one day, when you grow up and go to school, you’ll find someone who will care for you like a father”. Galaktion often imagined kind teachers, but he completed the preparatory division of the theological school without encountering even one such teacher.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1130, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

With the note “Dedicated to My Compatriots”, he writes a poem “Alaverdi” (“Oh, Toastmaster, you do not suit us...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1130, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He jots down individual notes related to human anatomy on a piece of paper and writes in Russian about various diseases and epidemics.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №107, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes a poem “The Dying One” (“The sun leaned westward...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №183, p. 1-2; Copy, GTDA, №598, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He translates Frank Wedekind’s play “Spring Awakening”. The characters include Mrs. Bergmann, Ina Müller, Dr. Bräusepulver, Wendla, Elfriede von Witzleben, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №255, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

Note: The source does not specify the author or title of the play, and the characters’ surnames are listed as “Bräusepulver” and “Witzleben”.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a poem “Cloud” (“I long for you, cloud...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №778, p. 20; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He begins writing a story dedicated to Meliton Chogovadze – “The Stepmother”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №20, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

Note: In the autograph, the addressee of the poem is represented by the initials “M. Ch”.

1908

Until April

He begins translating Mikhail Lermontov’s poem “Demon” but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №20, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

1908

Until April

He writes an untitled poem “You were sobbing – I was listening...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №408, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 97-112.

April

1908

April 8

He writes an untitled poem “My homeland, I love you with madness...”.

Source: GTDA, №161, p. 1.

1908

Until April 13

He sends a letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1514, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 546.

1908

April 20

He writes a poem “Thus”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 139.

May

1908

Until May 3

He sends a letter to Mr. Taras and Mrs. Eprasi, informing them that Natalia is ill and, according to Trifon Japaridze and Nestor Kubaneishvili, she should have smallpox. He also informs his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, that the exams will last from May 3 to June 10 and asks that she pay the rent for the rented room to the landlady promptly.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №791, p. 1-2.

Dating: From the letter, it is evident that Galaktion is still a student, is in Kutaisi, and that the exams start on May 3.

Note: Nestor Kubaneishvili is mentioned only by his first name.

1908

May 3

He writes a poem “Evening”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 139.

1908

After May 7

He receives Abesalom Tabidze’s letter sent on May 7, stating that the seminary cannot be opened in Kutaisi. Therefore, they should focus on Tbilisi again. Abesalom asks him to inform when he is going to finish the exams. He advises Galaktion to study hard.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 105.

Dating: The letter is dated May 7.

1908

May 9-10

He begins writing a poem titled “Child of Nature” (“Oh, my friend, I never long for freedom as much as...”) and signs it with the pseudonym “Accordi”. Then, he starts anew, crosses out the old title, and writes a new one, “Once” (“I lost my mother, that beloved comfort, my protector...”) with a dedication underneath: “Dedicated to the brilliant luminary of our poetry, Vazha-Pshavela”. In the same notebook, he continues with an episode titled “Oh, mischievous breeze...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 8-15, 18-23.

1908

Until May 31

While walking between the desks, the teacher of the Kutaisi Theological School, Phakadze, dislikes the writing of Alexander Ukleba and slaps him. Later, noticing Galaktion’s indignation, he also hits him and expels him from the classroom.

Source: N. Papuashvili, Galaktion and Kutaisi, newspaper Kutaisi, 1982, December 4, №232, p. 2-3.

Dating: We date this to the period before the completion of the Kutaisi Theological School.

1908

May 3-31

He takes the final exams at the Kutaisi Theological School.

Source: Kutaisi National Archives of Georgia, Repository 440, Case 2098, Sheet 36; I. Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, 1968, p. 41.

1908

May 31

He graduates from the Kutaisi Theological School and, along with other graduates, acknowledges receipt of the Tbilisi Theological Seminary's May 16, 1908, notice regarding admission procedures by signing the document. Out of the 34 students who graduate with him, 25 receive recommendations for continuing their studies at the Tbilisi Seminary, besides him. Galaktion and four others have a first-class certificate.

Source: G. Mikhelidze, "A Few Things About Galaktion Tabidze", magazine Mnatobi, 1962, №11, p. 176; Kutaisi National Archives of Georgia, Repository 440, Case 2098, Sheet 36; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 41.

1908

Until Summer

Together with his friend, Elene Godabrelidze, on the road from Kutaisi to Ukimerioni, he visits a gymnasium student girl, Paradova, who secretly loves Galaktion.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 264, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 142

Note: The source mentions "Eliko", but in the notes, "Elene Godabrelidze" is referenced.

1908

Until Summer

He writes a short poem for Elene Godabrelidze: "Rarely do black beauty spots suit you...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №487-4, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 142

Note: The source mentions "Eliko", but in the notes, "Elene Godabrelidze" is referenced.

1908

Until Summer

On the day before the final exam, he talks to his classmate Genadi Mikhelidze. He expresses his joy about the fact that soon they will graduate from the Theological School and go to Tbilisi.

Source: G. Mikhelidze, "A Few Things About Galaktion Tabidze", magazine Mnatobi, 1962, №11, p. 176.

June

1908

Until Summer

The teacher, Anthimos Gorgadze, takes students once a month to the "Radium" cinema to watch films with heroic themes.

Source: P. Khmaladze, Galaktion's classmate, newspaper Kutaisi, 1973, March 17, №54, p. 3.

1908

Until Summer

He checks out extracurricular literature from the Kutaisi Theological School library so frequently that the librarian and Russian language teacher, Pavlov, become curious about whether he is really reading all these books or if there is another reason for borrowing them. Once, when Galaktion returns Nikolai Gogol's Taras Bulba to the library, Pavlov asks him about its content. Galaktion succinctly and accurately summarizes the plot, which convinces Pavlov and allows Galaktion to continue borrowing books from the library with the same intensity.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, Galaktion Tabidze at the Kutaisi Theological Seminary, magazine Mnatobi, 1973, №9, p. 125.

Dating: We date this to the period of his studies at the Kutaisi Theological School.

1908

Until Summer

The Georgian language teacher, Meliton Chogovadze, asks about a lesson. Although Galaktion is unprepared, the teacher does not give him a negative mark. When the students express their surprise, he responds that Galaktion has nearly read the entirety of ancient and modern Georgian literature, has almost memorized "The Knight in the Panther's Skin", and writes such beautiful poetry. He then reads Galaktion's poem "When the leaves rustle...".

Source: P. Khmaladze, Galaktion's classmate, newspaper Kutaisi, 1973, March 17, №54, p. 3.

Dating: We date this to the period of his studies at the Kutaisi Theological School.

1908

June 17 or later

He receives a certificate from the administration of the Kutaisi Theological School confirming that Galaktion Tabidze completed the school in 1908. The certificate lists the poet's birthdate as November 5, 1891.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-402, p. 1-2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 528.

1908

June 12

He completes the translation of Van Voorst's story "Why the Teacher Forgot to Comb Her Hair".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №416, p. 1; GTDA №1040, p. 2-30.

1908

June 21

He writes a poem in Russian "Why I Do Not..."

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №122, p. 1.

August

1908

August 20

He writes a patriotic poem "Song".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 139.

September

1908

Until September 1

He writes a statement in Russian addressed to Innokentiy Belyaev, Archbishop of Kartli-Kakheti and Exarch, requesting an exemption from tuition fees as a first-year student of the Tbilisi Orthodox Theological Seminary.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №647, p. 1.

Note: The autograph is fragmented, and the tuition fee is not mentioned directly, but it is known that at that time Galaktion was facing the issue of seeking exemption from the tuition fee.

1908

Until September 1

He moves to Tbilisi to continue his studies at the seminary. He lives with a distant relative who works as a railroad worker and has a small hut in Nadzaladevi.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 142.

1908

Until September 1

While in Kutaisi, he meets an acquaintance from the seminary, who tells him that he will not be alone in Tbilisi and that a poet, Kuchu Kavtaradze, also known as “Demon”, will greet him there. Galaktion eagerly anticipates meeting him.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-641, 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 116.

Dating: The poet specifies that the event occurred before he began studying at the Tbilisi Seminary.

1908

Until September 1

The teacher of Russian literature and the theory of rhetoric at the Tbilisi Theological Seminary, Ipolite Vartagava, has candidates for admission write an essay titled “Vintage in Georgia” during the Russian language examination. He is particularly impressed with Galaktion Tabidze’s essay, noting its beautiful literary style.

Source: Ipolite Vartagava, Letters and Recollections, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 285, 286.

1908

September 1

In the seminary’s chancery, an elderly teacher informs him that he has been admitted at the state’s expense. He moves into the dormitory, known as the “bursa”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s recollection, G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 246; G. Tabidze’s archive, №021371-18; Georgian SSR National Archives, Repository 440, Case 2139, Sheet 1; I. Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, 1968, p. 49.

1908

1908

September 1 or later

After leaving the school, he notices seminarians gathered around a richly dressed young man, listening intently to his passionate discussion about Georgian literature. Galaktion immediately realizes that this must be the young poet Kuchu Kavtaradze, also known as “Demon”. He learns that Demon had been held back in class because of Latin.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-641, 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117-118.

1908

After September 1

Together with the seminarians, he attends a church service. His attention is drawn to the seminarian Kuchu Kavtaradze, who appears utterly captivated by the ecclesiastical hymns. During the service, Kavtaradze leans against the wall, leading to a disagreement between him and the supervisor. Galaktion watches the incident closely, observing every detail.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-641, 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 118.

1908

After September 1

Ipolite Vartagava personally meets the author of the essay he liked most on the Russian language exam. Galaktion Tabidze makes an impression of a polite and shy young man who feels awkward during the conversation with the teacher, unable to relax and unsure where to put his hands, but he expresses his thoughts in a refined and complete manner.

Source: Ipolite Vartagava, Letters and Recollections, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 285, 286.

September 1 or later

In the seminary’s reading room, the seminarians introduce Galaktion to Kuchu Kavtaradze. “Demon” mentions that he has heard of Galaktion before. When the seminarians curiously ask how, Kavtaradze replies that he has read Galaktion’s handwritten poems. Feeling awkward, Galaktion tries to shift the conversation to another topic. The discussion turns to Akaki’s jubilee. Kavtaradze asserts that the seminary must participate in the celebration.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-641, 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 119;

1908

September 5

Abesalom Tabidze writes to his mother from Tbilisi, informing her that he has bought Galaktion low boots, but his trousers are too tight, and he does not have a hat. He requests her to send two pairs of underpants, towels, a woollen shirt, and money for purchasing trousers. Although they do not have overcoats or jackets, they will somehow manage to get through the winter. He expresses concern that the state has only provided half of the tuition fees for the brothers and plans to request full funding, though he is unsure of the outcome.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1555, p. 1-2.

1908

September 24

Abesalom Tabidze writes a letter to his mother, stating that Galaktion's trousers are too tight and that he no longer has any shirts. He requests her to send money for Galaktion's trousers and shirts, as well as 3 roubles for expenses.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1546, p. 1-2.

1908

Until September 28

He writes an untitled poem "The Moon Shines Brightly..."

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8784; GTDA, №377, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 15.

Dating: It is dated according to the date of the first publication.

1908

Until September 28

He goes to the editorial office of the newspaper Amirani, where Dominika Eristavi reads the notebook of poems he submitted for publication. She is amazed that such a young poet writes such beautiful poems. She tells him that the poem "The Moon Shines Brightly" will definitely be published but asks for permission to replace the word "twilight" with "mist" in it.

Source: G. Tabidze, "Gandegili (of Dominika Eristavi)", G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 239, 240;

Dating: The record indicates that this took place before the poem's publication.

1908

September 28

The magazine Chveni Kvali publishes an untitled poem "A thick cloud..." with the signature Gal. Tabidze.

Source: Magazine Chveni Kvali, 1908, №19, September 28, p. 298.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles: "Clouds" and "Black Cloud".

1908

September 28

The newspaper Amirani publishes an untitled poem "The Moon Shines Brightly..." with the signature "G. T-b-dze".

Source: Newspaper Amirani, 1908, №169, p. 2.

1908

Until September 28

He writes a poem “A thick cloud”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №1249; №2823; №3265; №5552. №5943; №8852. №133-d, p. 1; №8784; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34-35; GTDA, №547, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 16.

Dating: It is dated according to the first publication.

1908

September 28

It is Sunday. Galaktion finds the newspapers Amirani and Chveni Kvali, in which his poems are published for the first time and shows them to students of the seminary. After the service, his classmates: Pilipe Shavgulidze, Irodion Surguladze, Vano Chlaidze and Genadi Mikhelidze have a small ceremonial meeting with Galaktion at the fountain in the courtyard of the seminary.

Source: G. Mikhelidze, “A Few Things About Galaktion Tabidze”, magazine Mnatobi, 1962, №11, p. 176, 177.

1908

After September 28

The editor of the magazine Akhali Kvali, Vladimir Darchiashvili, warmly welcomes Galaktion to the editorial office and introduces him to the magazine’s staff as the “rising star of Georgia”.

Source: G. Tabidze, “The First Poem”, G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 210;

Dating: It is logical that such an introduction in the editorial office would have occurred after the publication of the poem.

1908

September 30

He receives a reply letter from his friend, Mikhail Botchorishvili, sent from Tkibuli to the address of the Theological Seminary in Tbilisi. The sender thanks him for remembering. He expresses regret for not being able to continue his studies at the seminary and for having lost touch with friends. He is distressed by the difficulty of finding books to read and deeply desires to go to Russia to continue his education, but he is uncertain if he will be able to do so.

Source: GTDA, №848, p. 1-2.

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Tbilisi post office.

1908

September or later

He is in Alexandre’s Garden together with other seminarians, (present-day April 9), there are ten of them in total. They notice a tap on the uphill and thirsty young people decide to drink water. Galaktion opens the faucet, water flows out with such force that no one can stop it. After a long struggle, the seminarians leave the loose faucet and leave, and Galaktion will remember this story forever, because he turned on the faucet himself and felt embarrassed about it.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-398, p. 55-56; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 520.

Note: In the source, the Alexandre's Garden is referred to as Alexandrov's Garden.

1908

September or later

Under the pseudonym "Tsremli" ("Tear"), he prepares the first issue of the handwritten brochure My Library. The cycle aims to characterize the types of students at the seminary. The first text in the series is titled "Our Gela". On the last page of the brochure, it is noted that the next issue will feature "The Victorious Pumpkin".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №430, p. 1-7.

1908

September or later

He meets Ioseb Grishashvili, who comes out from the editorial office of the satirical magazine Nishaduri, in front of the Georgian Society for the Spread of Literacy bookshop. Grishashvili, who is on his way to meet him, introduces himself, talks about his work, mentioning that he assists Valerian Gunia and Mikhail Gachechiladze, and shows his writings.

Source: MGL, d-244, p. 19; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 545.

Dating: It is dated according to the start of Galaktion's studies at the Tbilisi Theological Seminary.

Note: In the source, Ioseb Grishashvili is mentioned by his last name, and Mikheil Gachechiladze is mentioned by part of his first name and last name.

October

1908

October 8

For the theological seminary, he writes an essay titled "The Christianization of the Georgians".

Source: Certificate regarding leave, GTDA, №318, p. 1-6.

1908

October 8

The theological seminary teacher, Onipante Gamzardia, reviews the essay "The Christianization of the Georgians" and gives it a grade of 4 points.

Source: Certificate regarding leave, GTDA, №318, p. 1-6.

November

1908

Until November 2

He writes a poem "Romance" ("Do you remember nature blooming...").

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8784; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 17.

Dating: The magazine in which the poem was first published was released on November 2, 1908.

1908

November 2

He publishes the poem “Romance” under a signature “Tabi” in the magazine Sakartvelo.

Source: Magazine Sakartvelo, 1908, №7, p. 16.

1908

November 8

Abesalom Tabidze writes a letter from Tbilisi to his mother in Chkvishi, informing her that he was ill but is now recovering. He requests that she send underwear for Galaktion. He also notes that Galaktion’s low boots were made of rotten leather and have fallen apart. He is unsure of what to do and plans to appeal to the government for assistance with purchasing clothing.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1571, p. 1-2.

1908

Until November 9

He establishes a weekly handwritten magazine Shuki and begins to collect materials.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 143, 144; G. Mikhelidze, “A Few Things About Galaktion Tabidze”, magazine Mnatobi, 1962, №11, p. 177.

Dating: The magazine was already released on November 9.

1908

Until November 9

He writes a poem “Light”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №8409; №6398; №8784; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 19.

Dating: The magazine with this poem was published on November 9, 1908.

1908

November 9

He publishes the poems “Light” and “Breeze” in the handwritten magazine Shuki under the signature “GA”, as well as letters: “Tbilisi, November 9”, “When will the light reach us” and “Akaki’s anniversary”. The magazine is completely copied by his hand.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 143, 144; Shuki, 1908, №1, November 9, the manuscript magazine of the Tbilisi Theological Seminary.

1908

November 15

In the handwritten magazine Shuki he publishes poems: “His Heart is Young” and “I look at him (dedicated to Akaki)” and articles under the signature “GA”. The magazine is completely copied by his hand.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 143, 148, 151.

1908

April-November

He writes an untitled poem: (“Do not, do not forbid me to express my feelings...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №52, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

1908

April-November

He writes a prose sketch titled “Could It Be?” (“Do not, do not entangle yourself in life’s journey...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №261, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

1908

April-November

He writes a poem “The Star” (“It is night... the moon shines brightly in the sky...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №182, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

Note: The poem’s original title was “The Dawn”.

1908

April-November

He writes an untitled poem: (“Do not, do not forbid me to express my feelings...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №52, p. 2; №784, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

1908

April-November

He writes a poem “Epitaph” (“For those who lived for the well-being of the people...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №52, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

Note: In the autograph, the poem’s alternative title is “Song”.

1908

April-November

He writes an excerpt from a poem titled “The Star”, whose main character is Tamar.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №182, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

Notes: The excerpt titled “The Star” should have been part of the poem “In the Monastery”.

1908

April-November

He begins writing an untitled poem: (“The sky cast off its black veil...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №416, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

1908

April-November

He writes a poem “Autumn” (“Here the grapes have ripened...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №731, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-118.

1908

November

From Tbilisi Theological Seminary, Galaktion secretly leaves for Chkvishi with the intention of surprising his mother with his poems “The Moon Shines Brightly” and “Black Cloud”, which were published on September 29th in the magazine Kvali and newspaper Amirani. Initially, he had planned to travel with Kuchu Kavtaradze, but due to illness, Kavtaradze is unable to join him.

Source: N. Agiashvili, Quietly, Past, Quietly, newspaper Literaturuli Sakartvelo, 1981, January 16, №3, p. 12.

1908

End of November

He is trying to get a ticket to attend the 50th anniversary of Akaki Tsereteli’s literary and public work at the Opera-House in Tbilisi but fails.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s recollection, G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 231.

December

1908

December 7

In connection with the 50th anniversary of Akaki Tsereteli’s literary and public work, the streets of Tbilisi are full of people. The jubilee is first taken to the Sioni Cathedral to attend the mass, and then to the Opera-House to attend the jubilee evening. Galaktion goes to Sioni and to the Opera-House and tries to see his beloved poet somewhere, but there are so many people that he fails.

Source: G. Tabidze's archive, p. 021371-19; Galaktion Tabidze's recollection, G. Tabidze, Akaki, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 231.

Dating: The 50th anniversary of Akaki Tsereteli's literary and public work was held in Tbilisi on December 7, 1908.

1908

December 12

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her son Abesalom. She informs him that she has received a letter from the seminary regarding Galaktion. The letter indicates that Galaktion has received a grade "three" in Georgian and History, and "two" in other subjects. The mother reproaches Abesalom for not checking his brother's grades sooner and for not helping him with any difficulties he might have faced or arranging for others to assist. She also scolds him for not providing proper clothing, suggesting that this may have contributed to Galaktion's academic struggles. She asks Abesalom to buy either a coat or a jacket for Galaktion. She is puzzled about what is wrong with Galaktion, why he is so disappointed, and why he is wasting his talent.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1523, p. 1-4.

1908

Until December 13

In Tbilisi, he receives a letter sent by his mother from Chkvishi, which expresses reproach over Galaktion's poor grades.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1241, p. 1-3.

Dating: The fact is discussed in a reply letter sent to his mother on December 13, 1908.

1908

December 13

He sends a letter from Tbilisi to his mother in Chkvishi, describing the unbearable conditions at the seminary and the boarding house. They are criticized for everything. He notes that especially those coming from the Kutaisi Seminary, like himself, are in a particularly bad situation. He is surprised that they do not even have a single grade "one", let alone "twos".

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1241, p. 1-3.

Note: From Tbilisi, Galaktion sent letters addressed to his mother in Chkvishi through Ioseb Gogodze in Samtredia, who was supposed to forward them to Makrine Tabidze.

1908

Until December 21

He writes a poem "Like a swan".

Source: Newspaper Droeba, 1908, №29, December 21; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 21.

Dating: The newspaper in which the poem was first published was released on December 21, 1908.

1908

December 21

He publishes an untitled poem “Like a swan in the sea...” in the newspaper Droeba under the signature “Gal. T-b-dze”.

Source: Newspaper Droeba, 1908, №29, p. 2;

1908

December 22

Makrine Adeishvili writes a letter to her son Abesalom in Tbilisi, informing him that she has sent Galaktion underclothes and 13 roubles. She instructs him to buy his brother a pair of trousers and either a coat or a jacket. She also asks him to tutor Galaktion and help him improve his poor grades but advises him not to be too harsh or embarrass him in front of his peers. Instead, she suggests giving him advice privately when they are alone.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1687, p. 1-4.

1908

December 28

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother in Chkvishi from Tbilisi, informing her that they are fine. He reports that Galaktion is studying better, has improved his grades, and the risk of losing state funding has been avoided. However, his shirt, trousers, and shoes were all worn out, so he has bought new ones.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1545, p. 1-3.

1908

Until December 30

He writes a poem “When the Nightingale at Dawn”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №8725; №8781; №8784; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 18.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Thirst for Freedom”.

Dating: The magazine in which the poem was first published was issued on December 30, 1908.

1908

December 30

His untitled poem “When the Nightingale at Dawn...” is published in the magazine Sakartvelo under the signature of “Tabi”. Ioseb Grishashvili, the secretary of the magazine, takes the ten-stanza poem to 10 lines and adds two stanzas at the end. Grishashvili does not like Galaktion’s name and indicates only the shortened form of his last name – “Tabi”.

Source: Magazine Sakartvelo, 1908, №11, p. 12; I. Grishashvili, “My Recollection of Galaktion”, Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1933, №15, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 1996, p. 370.

1908

December

He writes a poem “She Comes” (“She comes, like the beauty of the night...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №211; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-116.

1908

December

He writes a poem “Even in Heaven” (“Even in heaven, the soul preserves...”) but stops after the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №211; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-116.

1908

December

He writes a poem “Oh Star” (“Oh, sun of the sleepless...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №211; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-116.

1908

December

He begins translating George Byron’s “The Prisoner of Chillon”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №211; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113-116.

1907-1908

He lives in an apartment rented from Tateishvili in Kutaisi.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, 264, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 147.

1908

He writes a poem “On the Chest of the Nature” (It has been a long time since it lost...) under the pseudonym “Tear”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №145, p. 1-38.

Note: In the autograph, the original title was “With Nature”.

1908

He writes a poem “Many had a premonition...” in which he expresses his heartache due to the failure of the revolution of 1905-1907.

Source: P. Nishnianidze, Several meetings of Galaktion with the workers of Georgia, Tbilisi, 1960, p. 9.

1908

He writes a poem “Glory of Glories” (“Neither the delicate rose, hidden under the bush...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 124; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; №970, p. 124; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 443-446.

1908

Makrine sends a letter to Serapion Adeishvili, who is living with Galaktion in a rented house in Kutaisi, provided by Makrine’s sister, Ekaterine Namicheishvili, and her husband, Thaddeus Namicheishvili. In the letter, Makrine informs Serapion that, according to the agreement with the landlords, she will supply flour and food to support Galaktion’s stay with him. The landlords, her sister and brother-in-law, will provide a certain amount of money upon collecting the rent. Serapion refuses, stating that he never agreed to such an arrangement with the Namicheishvilis and declines to let Galaktion stay with him.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Thaddeus and Ekaterine Namicheishvili, GTDA, №1526, p. 1-4.

1908

Makrine Adeishvili writes a letter to her sister Ekaterine and her husband Thaddeus Namicheishvili, informing them that Serapion Adeishvili, who lives in the rented house in Kutaisi, is refusing to let Galaktion stay with him. She explains that Serapion is supposed to receive a payment, but Galaktion is left without a place to stay. Makrine urgently requests their assistance in resolving the matter.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Thaddeus and Ekaterine Namicheishvili, GTDA, №1526, p. 1-4.

1908

He writes a poem “Why”.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, Unpublished Poems of Galaktion Tabidze, magazine Drosha, 1962, №3, p. 8.

1908

He writes a poem in Russian titled “A Note on Tacitus’s Manuscript”.

Source: MGL, d-656, 13; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 329.

Note: The poem in Russian is titled “Надпись на летопись Тацита”.

1908

He writes an untitled poem: “Do not burst into giggles...”..

Source: MGL, d-656, 13; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 329.

1908

In the September 1907 issue of the children’s magazine Jejili, he inscribes his poem dedicated to Iliia Chavchavadze in the margins and over the text: “Death passed by with its serpentine descent, it hid behind Tsitsamuri with savage intent. An eagle descended from the mountains where Aragvi's shadow lies, can't you understand, O Death? Ilia is immortal".

Source: MGL, kp-1382, magazine Jejili, 1907, September, №IX, Tbilisi, 1907, p. 58.

1908 or later

He writes the text for a newspaper article about the lamentable condition of the village of Chkvishi and recalls how in 1882 the correspondent of the newspaper Iveria praised the school there, where his father Vasil Tabidze taught.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №185, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 465.

1908 or later

Sosiko Merkviladze gifts Galaktion Tabidze Akaki Tsereteli's jubilee collection with the inscription: "To our dear poet and patriot – Galaktion Tabidze, with deepest respect".

Source: MGL, t-603, "Akaki's Jubilee Collection", Tbilisi, 1908.

1908 or later

After reading Alexandre Tsagareli's article "Akaki, Rejoice" in Akaki Tsereteli's jubilee collection, he underlines the final phrase "Misfortune should teach a man wisdom" and writes an untitled poem: "Comrades, we wish to learn from them... / For misfortune should teach a man wisdom".

Source: MGL, t-603, "Akaki's Jubilee Collection", Tbilisi, 1908.

1909

January

1909

January 1

He meets Ioseb Grishashvili, who is heading up Korghalanishvili Street for a party with young actors.

Source: MGL, d-244, p. 19; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 545.

Note: In the source, Ioseb Grishashvili is mentioned by his last name. Korghanashvili Street, also known as Korghanov Street, is now Leo Kiacheli Street.

1909

January 21

Abesalom Tabidze writes a letter to his mother in Chkvishi from Tbilisi, informing her that he received the 22 roubles she sent, but he cannot buy a coat with that money because Galaktion needs money for food and rent.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1541, p. 1-2.

1909

Until January 25

He meets and approaches the editor of the magazine Paskunji – Samson Pirtskhalava, who invites him to collaborate. Currently, well-known poets such as Akaki Tsereteli and Vazha-Pshavela are also publishing their works in the magazines.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №148, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XX, Galaktion Tabidze’s record, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 72.

Dating: In the magazine, Galaktion’s first poem was published on January 25, 1909; Therefore, the event must have occurred before this date.

1909

Until January 25

He writes a poem “Night” (“Dusk Draped the Land with the Veil of Darkness...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8784; GTDA, №51, p. 2; Copy, GTDA, №570, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 22.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1909

January 25

The poem “Night” (“Dusk Draped the Land with the Veil of Darkness...”) is published in the magazine Paskunji under the signature “G. Tabidze”.

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №4, p. 3-4.

February

1909

February 1

The poem “Breeze” is published in the magazine Paskunji under the signature “Ga”.

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №5, February 1, p. 2.

1909

After February 12

He receives the letter sent by Titsian Tabidze on February 12. The sender writes that he could not get in touch with him in time due to a long illness. He informs that he has read Galaktion’s poems in Chveni Kvali, Amirani, and Sakartvelo. He especially likes the poems published in Paskunji. Titsian also writes that Galaktion is praised by Kutaisi Theological School teacher Meliton Chogovadze and poet Parmen Tsakheli.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, A Soul Purer than the Azure, Titsian Tabidze’s Letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 184.

1909

Until February 26

He writes an untitled poem: “Then the torments suffocate my soul...”..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №185, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 465.

1909

February 26

Eighteen years after his father's death, he begins writing an essay about the situation in the village of Chkvishi. On March 21, 1892, the newspaper Iveria, in the column "Town and Village", published an article about the village of Chkvishi, which highly praised the contributions of Galaktion's father, Vasil Tabidze, a young teacher who had passed away a year earlier. This inspired the poet to depict the conditions in the village at that time.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №185, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 465.

March

1909

Until March 1

He reads the poems "Breeze" and "Mortal" to Titsian Tabidze. Titsian likes them, but at that time he could not even imagine if they would be published in the country's most prestigious magazine Paskunji.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, A Soul Purer than the Azure, Titsian Tabidze's Letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 187. Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №9, p. 2.

Dating: Titsian Tabidze's letter shows that he had heard these poems from Galaktion before they were published.

1909

March 1

The poem "Mortal" is published in the magazine Paskunji (Phoenix) under the signature "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №9, p. 2.

1909

After March 17

He receives a letter from Titsian Tabidze, who is delighted with his poem "Mortal" published in the magazine Paskunji. Titsian informs Galaktion that on March 17, Grigol Robakidze gave a lecture on the work of Vazha-Pshavela and was universally appreciated. Titsian asks Galaktion to tell him how the seminarians celebrated the anniversary of Akaki Tsereteli. He notes that he was happy to find out about the identity of "Demon". Titsian asks for information about Alexandre Shanshiashvili and assumes that he must be a student of Gymnasium. He sends his regards to their common cousin - Gerasime and Galaktion's brother - Abesalom.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, A Soul Purer than the Azure, Titsian Tabidze's Letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 187; Magazine Paskunji, № 9, p. 2.

Dating: We date according to the fact mentioned in the letter about the lecture given by Grigol Robakidze on March 17.

1909

March 20

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, informing her that Galaktion has only one bad grade “two” in mathematics. Although he initially had trouble adapting to the environment, he now feels well and is getting better grades.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1540, p. 1-3.

1909

Until March 22

He writes a poem “Thinking” (“Like a Phantom, Veil Removed...”).

Source: GTDA, №585, p. 1-2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 26; For dating: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №12, March 22, p. 2;

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1909

March 22

The poem “Thinking” (“Like a Phantom, Veil Removed...”) is published in the magazine Paskunji under the signature “G. Tabidze”.

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №12, p. 2.

April

1909

Until April 5

He writes a poem “Waiting for spring”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8777; GTDA, №476, p. -3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 28.

Dating: The magazine in which the poem was first published was released on April 5, 1909.

1909

April 5

The poem “Waiting for spring” is published in the magazine Paskunji under the signature “G. Tabidze”.

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №14, p. 3.

1909

After April 5

“The collection “New Lyre” publishes the poem “Waiting for spring”.

Source: Collection “New Lyre”, 1909, III, p. 317; For dating: Record, Autograph, GTDA, №21.

Dating: From Galaktion’s record, it is obvious that this poem was reprinted in “New Lyre” from the magazine Paskunji.

1909

Until April 11

He writes Easter epigrams dedicated to: Ivane Gomarteli, Valerian Gunia, Ioseb Grishashvili, Alexandre Shanshiashvili, Ilia Aghladze, Ipolite Vartagava, Grigol Robakidze, Petre Dadvadze, Polio Ireteli, Tskviti (Ana Khakhutashvili), Irodion Evdoshvili, Kote Makashvili, Giorgi Gvazava, and Keta Abashidze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1169, p. 2; №1151, p. 1-2. №1183, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 458.

1909

Until April 12

He writes a poem “Young, So Young!” (“Amidst the flowers, a soul so pure...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 2.

Dating: The poem is written in the notebook before the poem dated April 12.

1909

Until April 12

He writes a poem “I Will Not Be Granted” (“I await the dawn, I await the sun’s rays...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 4; List of poems, GTDA, №10, №196, p. 33.

Note: The poem has an alternative title, “Dawn in Tiflis”, with an opening line: “It is dawn. The first light falls upon the ruins of Narikala...”.

Dating: The poem is written in the notebook before a poem dated April 12.

1909

Until April 12

He writes an untitled poem: “A rose blooms for her...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 5; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is written in the notebook before a poem dated April 12.

1909

April 12

He writes the novel “Only Once” (“When I see your tormented face...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 6.

1909

April 18

He writes an untitled poem: “The moments of joy have vanished...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 7.

1909

April 18

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, informing her that they are doing well, studying hard, and that the exams for him will end on May 29, while for Galaktion, they will end on May 27. Therefore, they will not be able to return to the village until May 30.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1567, p. 1-2.

1909

After April 18

He begins writing a poem titled "If I Had Wings..." ("It is spring... the sun is shining brightly...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 11.

Dating: The poem is written in the notebook after a poem dated April 18.

1909

After April 18

He writes a satirical poem titled "Happiness" ("For Georgians, happiness does not imply drinking wine...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 9-10; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 163.

Dating: The poem is written in the notebook after a poem dated April 18.

1909

Until April 19

He writes an untitled poem "A rosebud...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №476, p. 8; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 29.

Dating: The magazine Paskunji in which the poem was first published was released until April 19, 1909.

1909

April 19

The poem "A rosebud, blossoming out..." is published in the magazine Paskunji.

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №16, p. 1.

1909

After April 20

He translates Alexander Pushkin's play "Mozart and Salieri".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №30, p. 1-10; №391, p. 1-2; GTDA, №635, p. 1.

Dating: In a note made on the paper, April 20, 1909, is mentioned in the past.

1909

After April 20

He writes a poem "The Mourning of the Homeland, Mountain and Plain" ("You have died, but you live forever...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №391, p. 2.

Dating: In a note made on the recto of the page, April 20, 1909, is mentioned in the past.

1909

Until April 26

He writes a poem “At the cemetery” (“I love evening, quiet, calm, and sad...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 30; For dating: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №17, April 26, p. 4;

Dating: The magazine in which the poem was first published was released on April 26, 1909.

1909

April 26

His poem “At the cemetery” (“I love evening, quiet, calm, and sad...”) is published in the magazine Paskunji.

Source: Magazine Paskunji, 1909, №17, p. 4.

Note: This poem is somewhat related to the poem “The ruins of the castle”.

1909

April 27

The teachers at the Tbilisi Theological Seminary, based on the examination results, decide not to promote Galaktion to the second grade.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1686, p. 1-4.

May

1909

After May 13

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter to her son, Abesalom, informing him that on May 13th she received a notification from the seminary stating that Galaktion will not be allowed to take the exams and will not be promoted to the next class. The mother does not understand why he did not come home if he was dismissed, but since Abesalom will be free soon as well, it is preferable for the brothers to travel together.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1686, p. 1-4.

Dating: The content suggests that Galaktion was not promoted to the next class at the seminary, which occurred in 1909.

1909

May 15

He writes a poem “Summer night” dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili.

Source: Autograph, MGL, a-34, p. 1; GTDA, №733, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 1996, p. 119; G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 131; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 457.

Note: The original title of the poem was “May Night”.

1909

After May 15

He writes a poem dedicated to Samson Pirtskhalava “At the Window” (“How lovely you are, my beloved...”), but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, MGL, a-34, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 457.

Note: Samson Pirtskhalava’s name is indicated only with initial.

1909

After May 15

Under the pseudonym “Tsremli” he writes a poem titled “Two Kinds of Melody” (“I loved music, and I still love it...”), which is prefaced with Dutu Megreli’s words: “I love music, but not the sweet kind”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, a-34, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909

After May 15

He writes a poem titled “Romance” (“I desire sorrowful lament...”) dedicated to Babutsi K.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №733, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 457.

Note: The text is written on the reverse side of the sheet that contains the poem dated May 15, 1909.

June

1909

June 26

He writes a poem “June 26, 1909” (“Have You Seen the Sky, With Black Clouds...”).

Source: GTDA, №154, p. 2; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31.

Dating: The work is included in the list dated August 1909, and several other titles are written after it. Therefore, we think that the title of the poem also indicates the time of its writing.

1909

After June 26

He edits the poem “June 26, 1909”.

Source: GTDA, №154, p. 2.

Dating: The title of the poem should include the time it was written. The work is included in the list dated August 1909, and several other titles are written after it.

1909

After June 26

He writes a poem “A Ship” (“The Poor Ship... Suddenly Crashed Into a Black Rock...”).

Source: GTDA, №154, p. 1, №195, p. 6. №13, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is written on the reverse side of the same sheet on which “June 26, 1909” is written. Since this text is on the verso, meaning it was written later than the text on the recto, it must also be dated after June 26, 1909.

1909

June or after

He writes a fable “The Mountain and the Cloud” as a poem.

Source: GTDA, №195, p. 5.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”.

1909

After June

He edits the fable “The Mountain and the Cloud” with a red pencil. He crosses out the title, the word written in parentheses under it (fable) and above it he writes “The sun is sometimes on the road, sometimes in the flood meadows”.

Source: GTDA, №195, p. 5.

Note: The original title in the autograph is later crossed out and the following is written in red pencil “The sun is sometimes on the road, sometimes in the flood meadows”.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”, but the change of the title could have taken place later.

1909

June or later

He writes an untitled poem “Who I swore to love...”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №195, p. 2.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”.

1909

June or later

He writes a poem “Why has the East lit up...”.

Source: GTDA, №195, p. 4.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”.

1909

June or later

He writes a fable “The Mountain and the Cloud” as a poem.

Source: GTDA, №195, p. 5.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”.

1909

June or later

He writes an untitled poem “The bright belongs to the day, while sadness – to the night...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 6.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”.

August

1909

Until August

He writes an untitled poem “Here, this heart, here, this life...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 7.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910” and the poem is placed before the text (“A Rose”), the beginning of which is recorded in the August 1909 entry.

1909

August or later

He edits the last stanza of the poem “A rose will open for...” in dark ink.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №13, p. 2; For dating: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1909

Until August

He writes a poem “A Blue Bird” (“Are You Seeking Him?” The Muse Told Me...).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 8-9.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910” and the poem is placed before the text (“A Rose”), the beginning of which is recorded in the August 1909 entry.

1909

August 8

He writes a poem about reclusiveness and ascetic life (“How Many Victims Will Again Be Sheltered...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 72, p. 1; GTDA, №347.

Note: It may be the last part of the poem “Anchorite”.

1909

Until August 24

He has to pass an exam to move to the second grade in the theological seminary. Because his teacher has gone to Ozurgeti for inspection, the rector of the seminary - Archimandrite Pimen conducts the exam. He tests Galaktion Tabidze for half an hour, with special persistence. Galaktion responds faster and better than the other students but is very stressed because he suspects that they may not want to move him to the second grade.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 155, 156; For identification of persons: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 358.

Dating: In the letter sent to his mother on August 24, passing this exam is mentioned in the past tense.

1909

August 24 or earlier

He writes a poem "The Gravedigger" ("I wish to shed a tear, but I do not know...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №342, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Dating: The poem is written on the same recto of the page as a poem dated August 24, 1909.

1909

August 24

He writes a poem "I Dedicate to N" ("Oh, gentle breeze, I have poured...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №342, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909

After August 24

He does not know whether he will be moved to the second grade of the theological seminary. The desire to commit suicide flashes across his mind. He thinks that if he loses his last hope, "one day he will finish his life in Mtkvari".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 155, 156.

Note: According to Simon Tabidze's recollections, Galaktion was picked on by the leadership of the seminary for publishing poems in an illegal student newspaper and marked his grades in Greek and Latin as unsatisfactory.

Dating: The letter sent to his mother on August 24 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1909

August 24

He sends a letter to his mother. He tells how Archimandrite Pimen tortured him during the exam, calls the situation in the seminary "hell" and says that such pressure may lead him to commit suicide.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, 1230; Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 155, 156.

1909

August 26

He writes a poem “Confession” (“I could have been immortal, my name...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №612, p. 1.

1909

August 24-31

He learns that he will not be transferred to the second grade of the seminary and will have to repeat the course of the first grade. He is depressed and drinks carbolic acid to commit suicide.

Source: Ak. Minashvili, “Suicide Among Students”, almanac “Pirveli Nabiji”, 1909, №1, p. 12.

Dating: This fact must have happened after the letter sent to his mother on August 24, and since it seems that friends visited him at home on September 1 for encouragement and support, the upper limit of time should be August 31.

1909

August or earlier

He writes an untitled poem “The darkness covers the scattered village...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, №40, p. 1.

Dating: The beginning of the poem, the phrase “The darkness covers the scattered village...” was included in the list of “Good Poems” compiled in August 1909.

1909

August or later

He edits the cleanly written untitled poem “The darkness covers the scattered village...”, which has as an epigraph the words of Alexander Pushkin “И может быть на мой закат печальный / Блеснет любовь улыбкою прощальной” with purple ink, crosses out the epigraph and writes “Saying good-bye” as the title.

Source: GTDA, №40, p. 1.

Dating: As the poem was written before August 1909, it must have been edited later.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem “Autumn” (“To orphan leaves, tender flowers...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: In the list from which we obtained this information, the beginning of the poem “Autumn” is not indicated, but the earliest published poem with this title is the one that begins with the words: “To orphan leaves, tender flowers...”..

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes poem "The Fierce Genius" ("Dawn... a collection of stars...") and dedicates it with an epigraph, quoting the French Romantic poet Alphonse de Lamartine: "The fierce genius always follows me, it takes away my comfort and peace".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1; GTDA, №593, p. 1-2.

Note: In the list compiled before September 5, 1910, the title of the translation of Lamartine's poem is indicated as "Evil Genius".

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own verses and poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "I was looking for your caress in vain...".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "I remember standing still...".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

He writes a poem "Autumn evening" ("I'm sitting by the window, sky flowers...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: The beginning of the poem is indicated in the list of 1910.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Life and death" ("I remember, on the trail...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909. The beginning of the poem is given in the list of 1910.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "The ignorant, unfathomable crowd...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1166, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem", "Let the bitter and dark life fade away".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №344, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He begins writing a poem titled "The Poet" ("To your heavenly sounds, the beating of my heart...") but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №344, p. 1.

Dating: The text is written in the autograph before the poem "Hey, Gondolier!".

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Hey, Gondolier!".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №344, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "A cloud" ("Oh, do not block the rays of the sun...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: The beginning of the poem is given in the list of 1910.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "A man from haut monde".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "My soul is restless...".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Elegy" ("My soul is restless... The dark gloom will engulf the surroundings...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №166, p. 1; №169, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Environs are silent...".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "The Bell Rang... They Are Bringing the Body".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №580, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "A crown".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Mukhammas".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "A dream" ("I will fly to a foreign country...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909. It is true, the beginning of the poem is not indicated there, but we took the beginning from the list of September 1910.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Poet" ("This is the lyre...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: The beginning of the poem is indicated in the list of 1910.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Apparition" ("It is midnight, the moon is shining brightly...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 79-81; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "A Word and a Prayer".

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "To my Ia" (dedicated to N).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Spring Songs" ("What a warm day, the sun is shining brightly...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №785, p. 1; GTDA, №199, p. 3; Autograph, GTDA, №1214, p. 1-2; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

Note: In the autograph, the initial title of the poem was "Spring Motifs", and in one instance, it was untitled.

1909

August or earlier

He translates a fragment of a poem by the Polish poet Kazimierz Tetmajer ("And hopelessly bowed his head...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1131, p. 1-2; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem titled "Fateful Thought" and dedicates it with epigraphs from Montesquieu and Nikoloz Baratashvili.

Source: GTDA, №157, p. 2; GTDA, №199, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: The epigraph from Montesquieu reads: "Science is the deepest well in the ocean", and the epigraph from Nikoloz Baratashvili includes: "What is our existence anyway..." and "But if once we must..."..

Dating: The list of the writer's own poems compiled in August 1909 is dated based on this.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem "Hyacinth" ("in trance under the bush...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He dedicates the poem “Napoleon” to Kote Meskhi (Silence is inviolable).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №323; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Note: A list of poems from 1910 shows that at that time Galaktion already had two poems entitled “Napoleon”, one of which began with the words “Silence is inviolable” and the other with “I am immortal”. As they are listed in this sequence, it is believed that the earlier one was written first.

Dating: We date it based on the list of his own poems compiled by the writer in August 1909.

1909

August or earlier

He begins writing a poem titled “Idyll” (“Oh, how wonderful it is when the surroundings...”) but stops shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №580, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1909

August or earlier

He begins writing a poem titled “Oblivion” (“Lead me, my love! There we shall find oblivion...”) but stops shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №580, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1909

August or earlier

He begins writing a poem titled “The air, heated by the day, has turned grey...” but stops shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №580, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem “Evening” (“The disk tilts to the west...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; Autograph, GTDA, №580, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1909

August or earlier

He writes a poem called “The Cup” (“Fill the cup, fill it quickly / The value of life has not yet withered...”), but then stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №580, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1909

August

On a piece of paper under the inscription “Good Poems”, he writes the titles of the following poems: “To my Ia” (dedicated to N), “Apparition”, “My soul is restless... of the dark haze...”, “I remember standing in awe”, “I was looking for your caress in vain”, an extract (from K. Tetmajer), “Hyacinth” (“in trance under the bush...”), “A song”, “A dream”, “Evil Genius” (from Lamartine), “The bell rang”, “Environs are silent... the moon from the sky”, “It does not bring you joy, my soul”, “Life and death”, “A crown”, “Mukhammas”, “Autumn”, “Autumn Evening”, “A Cloud”, “Let the bitter and dark life fade away”, “Hey, Gondolier!”.. and a poem “A fatal thought”. He writes down the titles of his poems in “Other Poems”: “Napoleon”, “The ignorant, unfathomable crowd”, “What a warm day...”, “Kolkhida”, “Poet” and “A man from haut monde”. He also mentions that he has many more published and unpublished poems in the village.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1.

Dating: The date is indicated at the bottom of the list.

1909

Summer

Galaktion has one exam left to pass at the seminary and needs to retake it in September. He spends the summer in Chkvishi, and when his mother advises him to study, he responds that he can prepare for the subject in two weeks. At the end of August, his aunt Anastasia, along with her family, Almaskhan and Amberki Julakidze, visit them and invite him to stay with them for a while. They inform Makrine that Galaktion will be tutored by Amberki and that he will also prepare better for the exam with their help.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Mikhako Adeishvili, GTDA, №1527, p. 1-4.

1909

Summer

During his stay in Chkvishi, Galaktion is invited to a wedding of Napetvaridze in the village of Shuamta, where the bride comes from the village of Dikhashkho. He is provided with a white horse, while his mother dresses him in a black coat and white kalapakhi (a traditional hat), underneath which he wears his seminary uniform. The wedding procession is accompanied by beautiful music, with Daria and the groom singing along. Galaktion also joins in with his alto voice. When passing near the Vani bazaar, the village constable Bagrat Bakuradze mistakes the wedding procession for a revolutionary squad led by Samson Tsitelishvili and blocks the road with his detachment. However, Deacon Iustine Mamphoria clarifies the situation, and they continue on their path. By the river Sulori, near the village of Sakhorkhidi (Salkhino), the procession is joined by the priest of the village of Tkelvani, Galaktion’s godfather, and his aunt Eka’s husband, Taddheus Namicheishvili, along with his sons. After crossing the river, Galaktion falls behind the procession as he plans to visit the family of the priest Theophan Nadiradze from Dikhashkho, whose sons are his classmates. While passing through a mill canal, Galaktion’s horse injures its leg and begins to limp, forcing him to dismount. Feeling embarrassed about arriving as a guest in such a state, Galaktion decides to continue on foot and rejoins the procession near Didi Mukhrani. They then proceed on foot to Dikhashkho, where the groom and bride get married. They celebrate well into the night and the next day, and it is the first time Galaktion gets drunk. On the third day, in the evening, there is dancing and fancy riding near the river Bonko, but due to his horse's injury, Galaktion cannot participate in the festivities. Feeling exhausted, he decides to return home. His uncle and cousins do not support his decision. Galaktion notices the revolutionary Samson Tsitelishvili among the guests, who is visiting Dikhashkho and plans to travel to the village of Suri via Galaktion's mother's village, Sapaicho. Tsitelishvili learns that Galaktion plans to write about him and offers to travel together and share his stories along the way. They are hosted by the miller Nektarioz Baghdavadze, who provides them with rabbit stew and brandy, but Galaktion, extremely fatigued from traveling and lack of sleep, declines the meal and rests in a haystack with a blanket. In the forest's noise, he imagines golden fairies moving around the Bondi Bridge. As they continue towards Zenobani, Galaktion's horse struggles greatly, so the poet stays with the village teacher, Davit Baghdavadze. The next morning, he crosses through the woods to reach Tkhelevani and his aunt Eka.

Source: N. Agiashvili, Quietly, Past, Quietly, newspaper Literaturuli Sakartvelo, 1981, January 16, N 3, p. 12-13.

Dating: Letter from Makrine Adeishvili to Mikhako Adeishvili, dated September 7, 1909, allows us to determine the timeframe.

September

1909

September 1

Four friends visit him in order to encourage him and he is overjoyed at their support.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 158.

1909

After September 1

He again goes through the first-grade program in the seminary; He is disappointed in his studies and rarely prepares the lessons. He doesn't have close friends, he always sits alone and if someone asks him something, he answers, but does not continue to strike up a conversation.

Source: Gigla Mebuke, "Records on Galaktion Tabidze", a recollection by Galaktion's schoolmate, Giorgi Khabazishvili, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 70.

Dating: Giorgi Khabazishvili's recollection shows that this takes place during the repeated first-grade program.

1909

September 7

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter to her nephew Mikhako. She is concerned that Galaktion continues to read various books and still has one exam left to pass. Although Galaktion himself says that two weeks will be enough to prepare and that there is no problem, Makrine is deeply troubled and asks the recipient to pay attention to him in Tbilisi. If he needs anything, she asks Mikhako to lend him money, promising to reimburse him later.

Source: Letter from Makrine Adeishvili to Mikhako Adeishvili, GTDA, №1527, p. 1-4.

1909

After September 7

He receives two letters and money sent by his brother, Abesalom Tabidze.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 106, 107.

Dating: The letter sent by the brother on September 21 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1909

September 11

He writes a poem titled “In Silence” (“The silence quivers... the harp trembles”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №738, p. 1-2; GTDA, №195, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 458.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “The Poet”, while in one list it is untitled.

1909

Until September 16

He writes a poem “Autumn” in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №287.

Note: In the source, the poem is titled “Осень” (“О, День печальный...”).

Dating: The poem is written on the recto of the same page, the verso of which contains a text dated September 16, 1909.

1909

September 16

He writes an untitled poem (“It reminds me of the grave of life...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №287, p. 2.

1909

September 16

He writes an untitled poem (“The gentle breeze plays...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №287, p. 2.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page and with the same pencil as the untitled poem dated September 16, 1909 (“It reminds me of the grave of life...”).

1909

September 17

From Tbilisi, he sends a letter to his mother in Chkvishi, informing her that he has rented an apartment with one of his friends for ten roubles, which includes a bed and tea in the morning and evening. Consequently, he urgently needs bedding and a small amount of money. He also informs her that Abesalom is receiving state funds at the seminary and has been allotted 150 roubles.

Source: Letter’s autograph, GTDA, №1239, p. 1-2.

1909

September 17

He writes a poem titled "From the Artist's Diary" ("Today marks twenty-five years...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 4-6; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909

September 18

An altercation occurs with the teacher of Russian literature theory. When the teacher, using an ironic tone, says "You must submit", the student replies that he will not submit to anyone as he has his own will. This leads to a heated argument, which is prohibited in the seminary. The enraged teacher calls him an "idiot" and expels him from the classroom.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 160.

1909

September 19

Writes a poem titled "In Solitude" (dedicated to N) and includes the epigraph with Akaki Tsereteli's words: "The withered rose and lily / Will bloom anew tomorrow...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №131, GTDA, №366, p. 1.

Note: The alternative title in the second autograph is "Loneliness".

1909

September 19

He writes a poem "No one listens to my bitter sobbing...".

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 194.

1909

September 19

He makes a record that he should soon submit an essay to the seminary: "Biblical teaching on the unity of the human race".

Note: In the source, the title is given in Russian "Библейское учение о единстве человеческого рода" ("Biblical teaching on the unity of the human race") and the work was also written in English.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 161;

1909

September 21

He writes a poem "To N" ("To the voice of your strings...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №157, p. 1.

Note: In the autograph, the poem's original title was "To the Poet" and has been crossed out.

1909

After September 21

He receives the letter sent by his brother Abesalom Tabidze on September 21. The sender reports that both he and his mother had a fever but are now better. He reassures Galaktion that staying in the class is not a problem but asks him to let them know about his decision, whether he will continue his studies at the seminary or whether they should consider moving him to the gymnasium or something else. He is interested in whether he got an apartment and whether they need to bring bed linen or not.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 106, 107.

1909

September or later

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her children, Abesalom and Galaktion. The sender asks Abesalom to help Galaktion if he struggles with any subject, citing the example of Titsian Tabidze, who is very supportive of his brother, Simon.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to her sons, GTDA, №1512, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 546.

October

1909

October 19

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother from Tbilisi, informing her that Galaktion is fine and attending classes. However, he notes that the landlady did not promise tea and sugar for breakfast, as he had thought, but only boiling water. Consequently, additional funds will be needed for both breakfast and lunch.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1593, p. 1-2.

1909

October 20

At five o’clock at night, he returns from the banquet, which was attended by young Georgians, who did not speak Georgian and had no Georgian spirit. He experiences the degeneration of the nation and writes about it in his diary.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 169.

1909

October 22

He completes the work on the poem “A Georgian Woman”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 166.

1909

October 29

He makes a record in his diary, in which he notes that the next day, a quarter of the study course ends, and marks will also be granted. Galaktion worries about expected low marks in history, singing, French and Russian verbal folklore. He regrets that even interesting subjects have been turned into endless “learning by heart”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 163.

1909

October

Almanac of young students of Tbilisi “Pirveli Nabiji” publishes information about young poet’s “G.T.’s” attempt to commit suicide. It is said that he was saved by a lucky circumstance.

Source: Ak. Minashvili, “Suicide Among Students”, almanac “Pirveli Nabiji”, 1909, №1, p. 12.

1909

October

He reads books in Russian, including Honoré de Balzac’s “Gambara” and “The Cursed Child”, Marian Gavaliyevich’s “The Silhouettes of Wives”, Maxim Gorky’s “The Blind”, Mikhail Artsybashev’s “The Meeting”, Maurice Maeterlinck’s “The Blue Bird”, Leonid Andreyev’s “The Seven Who Were Hanged”, George Byron’s works such as “Manfred”, “Cain”, “Don Juan”, “Hebrew Melodies”, “The Lament of Tasso”, Poems, “The Prisoner of Chillon”, “The Giaour”, “Corsair”, “Lara”, “Mazeppa”, “Childe Harold”, and others. He also reads Heinrich Heine’s two volumes of poetry, Mikhail Lermontov’s “The Demon”, “The Novice”, “The Song of Merchant Kalashnikov”, “The Prisoner of the Caucasus”, “The Wanted”, “The Angel of Death”, “Masquerade”, “A Hero of Our Time”, and other poems and verses, as well as the third issue of the magazine Kvelasatvis. Among the Georgian books he has read are Shio Aragvispireli’s stories published in the second and third volumes, Zakaria Chichinadze’s “Davit Eristavi”, Noe Jordania’s collection of letters “Georgian Press”, Ia Ekaladze’s first volume of works, David Karitchashvili’s “Tamar King”, Alexandre Proneli’s “Rebellion of Kakheti”, Émile Zola’s “Victory is Ours”, Irodion Evdoshvili’s “Poems and Verses”, half of the translation of Henrik Sienkiewicz’s “With Fire and Sword” by Grigol Kipshidze, Anton Purtseladze’s “The End of Our Business” and “Woe to the Righteous”, Akaki Tsereteli’s second volume, Valerian Guni’s editions of “Calendar of Georgia” for 1895-1897, Soprom Taruashvili’s three-act drama published under the pseudonym ‘S. Glakhashvili’, titled “Thirst”, Valerian Guni’s “An Only Child”, Nadezhda Lukmanova’s drama “The Death of Napoleon”, the translation of Fyodor Dostoevsky’s “Crime and Punishment” by Shalva Dadiani, Alexandre Movsesiani’s (Shirvanzade) “Namus” (A tradition of honour), Mako Safarova-Abashidze’s adaptation of the vaudeville “The Heart Feels”, and “Many, Many Others”. Some of these works he is re-reading, including Alexander Pushkin’s “The Fountain of Bakhchisaray”, which he is reading for the fifth time.

Source: Galaktion’s record titled “Books Read in October 1909”, GTDA, №970, p. 198-200.

Note: The names of the authors are not specified for the books by Henryk Sienkiewicz and Nadezhda Lukmanova, and neither the author nor the translator is indicated for the vaudeville “The Heart Feels”.

November

1909

Until November 1

He writes a poem “Fantasy” (“Sweet dream and bliss...”).

Source: GTDA, №40, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 32.

Dating: Almanac “Pirveli Nabiji” (The First Step), in which the poem was first printed, was published on November 1, 1909.

1909

November 1

He publishes his poem “Fantasy” (“Sweet dream and bliss...”) in the almanac “Pirveli Nabiji”.

Source: Almanac “Pirveli Talgha”, 1909, №1, p. 8.

1909

November 14

He publicly reads the poem “A Georgian woman” for the students of the Noble Gymnasium of the Seminary. Other interested people are also present at the discussion. The form of the poem is generally appreciated, but there are also critical remarks. According to T. Iakobashvili, this is more a verse than a poem, and Galaktion Tabidze is influenced by the poems of Ilia Chavchavadze and Akaki Tsereteli. According to Davit Turdospireli, the story of the poem is outdated. Galaktion explains the displeasure of the idea of the poem by the fact that almost all of the attendees are social democrats, and in their values, “homeland” has been replaced by “humanity”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 166.

1909

Until November 25

He writes a poem “Kolkhida” (“The stream from the slope of the mountain...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №313; №8781, GTDA, №706, p. 1-2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 42; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 34; For dating: Newspaper Droeba, 1909, №265, p. 2.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“There, where the mountains stand as sentinels...”) and with a title “In Kolkhida”.

Dating: We date based on the information in the newspaper Droeba (November 25, 1909), which states about its publishing.

1909

November 25

The newspaper Droeba publishes a notice that on November 29 the second issue of the monthly almanac “Pirveli Nabiji” will be released, in which G. Tabidze’s poem “Kolkhida” will be published.

Source: Newspaper Droeba, 1909, №265, p. 2.

1909

November 29

He publishes the poem “Kolkhida” in the Almanac “Pirveli Nabiji”.

Source: Almanac “Pirveli Nabiji”, 1909, №2, p. 2-3;

Dating: According to the reference published in the newspaper Droeba, the almanac was to be released on November 29.

Note: The poem was later published under the title “In Kolkhida”.

1909

Second Half

He writes a poem “Poetry” (“I will not put up with moaning...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 9-10.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”. This poem is on the third page from the end of the notebook.

December

1909

December 1

He writes a poem “Why?” (“Sad and sullen...”) and introduces as an epigraph the quote from Dante “Lasciate ogni speranza, voi ch’entrate”, (Let those who enter give up all hope).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №24; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 1996, p. 381, 382.

1909

Until December 6

He writes a poem “Grief” (“To the one full of life, living in a dream...”).

Source: Manuscript: Autograph, MGL, №8777; Autograph, GTDA, №934, p. 1-2; GTDA, №407, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 33.

Dating: The almanac in which the poem was first published was released on December 6, 1909.

1909

December 6

In the magazine Sakartvelos Moambe, Titsian Tabidze’s poem “A flower” is mistakenly published under the signature “G. Tabidze”. According to the recollection of the secretary of the magazine, Ioseb Grishashvili, he replaced the initial “T” with “G” because Titsian was not yet known in literary circles, and he considered the poem belonged to Galaktion.

Source: I. Grishashvili, collected works, vol. V, p. 318.

1909

December 6

He publishes the poem “Grief” (“To the one full of life, living in a dream...”) in the almanac “Pirveli Talgha”.

Source: Almanac “Pirveli Talgha”, 1909, №2, p. 5; For dating: A. Abramishvili, “Georgian Periodicals” (1819-1917), TSU (in Russian), p. 120.

1909

After December 6

He reads the sixth issue of the magazine Sakartvelos Moambe, in which he is named as the author of the unknown poem “A flower”. After that, he meets his cousin Titsian Tabidze, who scolds him for misappropriating the poem. Galaktion excuses himself and says that he has nothing to do with this case.

Source: Sh. Radiani, Our Galaktion, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 256; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 654.

Note: It turns out that Ioseb Grishashvili changed “Tite” to initial “G” because he knew the poet Galaktion Tabidze, but he did not know that there was another Tabidze who also wrote poems.

1909

December 7 or after

By the order of Archimandrite Pimen, together with other students of the theological seminary, he attends the ceremony of the appointment of Innokentiy Belyaev as the Exarch of Georgia at the Exarchate Square.

Source: G. Tabidze’s inscription, GTSM, 156, The calendar of the Georgian Church for the year 1949, p. 135.

Dating: Innokentiy Belyaev is the Archbishop of Kartli-Kakheti and the Exarch of Georgia since December 7, 1909.

1909

December 12

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, informing her that he and Galaktion are in good health but will not be able to go to the village for Christmas. He writes that he was unable to buy a coat or trousers because he had to pay the rent, and Galaktion still needs at least 12 roubles per month.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1592, p. 1-2.

1909

December 19

Abesalom Tabidze writes to his mother, informing her that despite his efforts to guide Galaktion and his good studies, he has not made much progress. This month, however, he has slightly improved his academic performance and now has only two failing grades (2). He hopes that from now on, Galaktion will study well and that the state funding will not be discontinued due to poor grades. He also mentions that he is having Galaktion's clothing sown with the money received from his mother.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1566, p. 1-3.

December 17-28

Under the title "Henry's Diary", dated December 17, 20, and 28, he writes three short poems ("Who will weaken me... there is strength within me...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №369; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Dating: Earlier titles were "Maro's Diary" and "From the Artist's Diary".

1909

He writes a poem "A shepherd" and a poetic dedication to Ioseb Grishashvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №190, p. 1-11; Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 166.

1909

Dr. Jashi examines him and advises that due to weak lungs, he should quit smoking, limit alcohol consumption, eat well, and drink one litre of milk per day.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to mother, Makrine Adeishvili, N. Tabidze "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 162.

1909

His brother, Abesalom, writes a letter to their mother, Makrine Adeishvili, informing her of Dr. Jashi's advice to Galaktion. He mentions that with the 20 roubles he received, he had trousers made for himself and Galaktion, and repaired Galaktion's torn shoes. He explains that they often cannot write letters because they usually lack the 7 kopecks needed to send them.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to mother, Makrine Adeishvili, N. Tabidze "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 162.

1909

Second Half

He writes an untitled poem "An oppressed nation under heavy burden...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 10-11.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written "from June 1909 to January 1910", and this poem is on the second page from the end.

1909

Second Half

He writes an untitled poem "Your inspiration trampled underfoot...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 10-11.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”, and this poem is on the second page from the end.

1909

Second Half

He writes an untitled poem “I love the beauty of ...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 11.

Dating: There is an inscription on the notebook in which this poem is written stating that this notebook contains texts written “from June 1909 to January 1910”, and this poem is on the second page from the end.

1909

After August

He edits the poem “A man from haut monde” with a red pencil and titles it as “A ghost from haut monde”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №195, p. 12; List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1, 2.

Dating: As the first version of the poem is included in the list of August 1909, the editing of the text must be of a later period.

1909 or later

In the notebook, he writes a catalogue of his Georgian and Russian-language books in alphabetical order and notes the prices next to them.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №73, p. 1-6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes a play whose main characters are Natela and Pirimze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №584, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes a poem “Romance” in Russian, dedicated to M. N.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №75.

Dating: The initials “M. N”. are understood to refer to the poet’s beloved Maro and appear in 1909 and subsequent years.

1909 or later

Under the pseudonym “Tsremli”, he writes an untitled poem: “It is evening... the moon, passionate with allure...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №66; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes an untitled poem “When the lute hums...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №50; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Note: In the autograph, the title “From the Motifs of the Factory” is written later.

1909 or later

He writes a poem “Firefly” (“It is night... now here, now there...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Gigantic Firefly”.

1909 or later

He translates Heinrich Heine’s poem “Spring” (“The waves of the river murmur softly...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №22; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Psyche” (“His heart beats, but in his hand...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №22, №364, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He translates poems by Heinrich Heine: “Doctrine” (“Beat the drum...”) and “The Secret” (“We do not moan...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №29; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes in Latin the opening words of the hymn to the Virgin Mary, sung on Holy Thursday and during Passion Week, which expresses the mother’s sorrow at the cross of Jesus. On the same page, he includes explanations of individual words.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №29; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes a poem “To My Ziulia” (“Look at the dawn, there on the horizon...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №33, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes a poem “The Earth Below, the Sky Above” (“When the sun crowns the hilltop...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №33, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1909 or later

He writes a poem “The Letter” in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №33, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Note: The original title is “Письмо”.

1909 or later

He writes a poem “Music” in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №33, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Note: The original title is “Музыка”.

1909 or later

He reads Gabrielle Reval’s Book “Gymnasium Schoolgirls” in Russian and makes excerpts in his notebook.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №310, p. 2.

Dating: The Book was published in Russian in 1909.

1909 or later

He reads Sergei Gusev-Orenburgsky’s short story “Children” in Russian and makes an excerpt.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №310, p. 1.

Dating: A Book published in 1909 is mentioned on the second page of the manuscript.

1909 or later

He reads Victor Hugo’s novel “Brother Against Brother” in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №310, p. 1.

Dating: A Book published in 1909 is mentioned on the second page of the manuscript.

1909 or later

He reads Anatole France’s short story “The Street Merchant” in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №310, p. 1.

Dating: A Book published in 1909 is mentioned on the second page of the manuscript.

1909 or later

In Marietta Shaginyan's Book "First Meetings", he writes word-for-word translations of the verses.

Source: MGL, t-607, Мариэта Шагинян, Первые Встречи, Москва, 1909, p. 5-24, 29, 31, 34, 37, 39-41, 43-47, 53, 55, 57, 61, 64, 72-84, 86-94, 98-107.

Note: He later uses these word-for-word translations in the poems "What Use Are Words? I Believe" and "The Tears of the Raven".

1910

Until 1910

Galaktion's poem "Thinking" is published in the 1910 Calendar.

Source: People's Calendar, 1910, p. 225.

January

The early 1910s

He is fascinated by Russian Symbolists: Konstantin Balmont, Andrei Bely and Alexander Blok.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, Fragments of Galaktionology, in the collection "Galaktion Tabidze – 125", Tbilisi, 2016, p. 58.

1910

The beginning of January or earlier

He writes an excerpt from the poem "New Year's" ("...And once again, alone, orphaned, I welcome the new year...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №220; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31.

Dating: On the verso of the page, there is a poem written before September 5, 1910.

1910

Until January 2

He writes a poem "To an actress" ("When captured by thought...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №379, p. 2; GTDA, №387, p. 1-2; GTDA, №387, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 35.

Dating: The magazine in which the poem was first published was released on January 2, 1910.

1910

January 2

Abesalom Tabidze sends a brief letter to his mother, informing her that Galaktion has decided against going to the village.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1573, p. 1-2.

1910

January 2

The poem “To an actress” (“When captured by thought...”) is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №1, January 2, p. 5.

1910

Until January 17

He writes a poem titled “To the New Wave” (“The ever-persistent thought burned...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №534, p. 2; GTDA, №197, p. 1-2. Autograph, MGL, №7294; volume I mock design, №5760, p. 36; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 36; For dating: almanac “Akhali Talgha”, 1910, №1, January, p. 3.

Note: In the manuscript, the original title of the poem was “To the First Wave”.

Dating: Since the almanac was published on January 17, 1910, the poem must have been written before this date.

1910

Until January 17

He writes a poem “Poetry: (“Ah, don’t touch the lyre’s strings”).

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №3, January 17, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 37.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on January 17, 1910.

1910

17 January

The poem “Poetry: (“Ah, don’t touch the lyre’s strings”) is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №3, January 17, p. 4-5.

1910

January 17

The poem “To a new wave” is published in the Almanac New Wave.

Source: Almanac “New Wave”, 1910, №1. p. 3; For dating: Абрамишвили А. З., Грузинская периодика: (Аннот. каталог грузинской периодики (1819-1917), Тбилиси, ТГУ, 1968, стр. 128.

1910

January 18

His closest friend, the poet Dimitri (Kuchu) Kavtaradze, commits suicide in the seminary; Galaktion suffers so much that he even thinks about committing suicide.

Source: Ioseb Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 38.

1910

After January 18

He dedicates the poem “Shanshe” to the memory of Dimitri (Kuchu) Kavtaradze.

Source: Autograph: National Centre of Manuscripts, №S 5188; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 245; For clarification of information: L. Tchrelashvili, magazine Matsne, Enisa da Literaturis Seria, 1981, №1, p. 176-177.

Dating: We date according to the time of death of the addressee.

Note: The original title of the poem was “Mirza”. The poet later changed the central character’s name and accordingly replaced “Mirza” with “Shanshe” throughout the text.

1910

Until January 25

He writes an untitled poem “I was born at dawn...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 161; For dating: Giorgi Chikobava, “Close to Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 53.

Note: Later, the poet took the beginning of the poem and made it the title “I was born at dawn” and it was published that way.

1910

January 25

At the funeral of his friend Dimitri Kavtaradze in Old Senaki, he recites the poem “I Was Born at Dawn...” The funeral takes on a protest character.

Source: Giorgi Chikobava, “Close to Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 53.

1910

After January 18

Due to Dimitri Kavtaradze’s suicide, he is so depressed that he gives up studying at the seminary and returns to the village. In this regard, he has conflict with the family members, who managed to take care of his education at the cost of great hardship. He thinks that if his mother and brother knew what suffering he went through for the past year, they would not be upset.

Source: Ioseb Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 38.

1910

After January 18

He dedicates the elegy “On the Tombstone” (“The breeze of the meadow clings to the cord...”) to the memory of his friend Kuchu Kavtaradze (Demon).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №532, p. 1-2.

Dating: We date according to the time of Kuchu Kavtaradze’s death.

1910

After January 18

He makes notes titled “Domestic Matters on Wild Affairs”, in which he discusses the “trial” of the suicide victim Kuchu Kavtaradze (pseudonym “Demon”) in the newspaper Shinauri Sakmeebi and, simultaneously, begins writing a poem on this theme: “Disturbed and stirred up, domestic affairs...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №578, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 629.

1910

After January 18

He sends a short letter to Kolau Nadiradze in Tbilisi, calling him Georgia’s greatest poet and referring to himself as a poet cast out by everyone.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-90; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 84.

1910

January 30

He makes a record in which his grave spiritual condition is reflected due to the death of Dimitri (Kuchu) Kavtaradze.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 177.

1910

January 31

Meliton Chogovadze, his beloved teacher at the Kutaisi Theological School, who encouraged Galaktion a lot and predicted a great future for him, died.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 114, 116.

1910

After January 31

He makes a record, which he dedicates to the recently deceased teacher Meliton Chogovadze. Galaktion characterizes the teacher as a deep connoisseur of native literature and a friendly person to students.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 114, 116.

1910

31 January or later

He writes a poem “On the grave” (“I have seen the grave of a sad poet...”), which he dedicates to the memory of Meliton Chogovadze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №167, p. 1, GTDA, №336, p. 1.

Note: The dedication initially read “To D. D”. Only the initial of Meliton Chogovadze’s name is indicated.

Dating: We date according to the time of Meliton Chogovadze’s death.

1910

January

For the theological seminary, he writes an essay titled “Giorgi the Brilliant”, receiving a grade of 4+. The teacher, Onifante Gamzardia, highly praises Galaktion’s abilities in the commentary, noting that the author is skilled at conveying a great deal concisely and vividly. He highlights that the language is purely literary, the description of historical realities is unique, and that reading such a composition is a pleasure.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №319, p. 1-4.

1910

January

He writes a poem titled “Hymn” (“Oh, sky, sky!..”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №324, GTDA, №611, p.1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27.

February

1910

Until February 7

He writes a poem “From the actor’s diary”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7728; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 38.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on February 7, 1910.

1910

February 7

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the poem “From the actor’s diary”.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №6, February 7, p. 9.

1910

February 12

He writes an untitled poem “I was writing quietly, with heavenly wings...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №147, p. 1.

1910

Until February 21

He writes a poem “I am looking for ... in the struggle”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5552. №7729; GTDA, №363, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 39.

Note: The title is crossed out in the autograph.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on February 21, 1910.

1910

February 21

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a poem “I am looking for ... in the struggle”.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №8, February 21, p. 13.

1910

February 21

In his notebook, he writes in Russian the text “What Is the Significance of Church Sacraments in a Christian’s Life”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №105, p. 1-16.

1910

February 21 or later

On the last page of the theological text written in Russian in his notebook, he adds the poetic phrase, “And with you, let the beloved sing carefree”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №105, p. 1-16.

1910

Until February

He writes a poem “A dream on a rock”.

Source: Volume I mock design, №5757, p. 387; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 38; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 40.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “The sky has been filled with stars...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

February

An untitled poem “The sky has been filled with stars...” is published in the almanac “Chveni Nabiji”.

Source: Almanac “Our Step” 1910, №1, p. 11.

March

1910

March 1

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her son, Abesalom. She expresses concern about Galaktion’s studies, as his certificate from the seminary shows a grade of three. She asks him not to be upset with Galaktion but suggests that it would be good if he could make him understand the importance of his studies.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1511, p. 1-3.

1910

March 6

He writes a poem “You Will Not Die” (“The bright ray of dawn...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №462, p. 2.

1910

Until March 7

He writes a poem “Only nature”.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №10, March 7, p. 5; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 41.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on March 7, 1910.

1910

7 March

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the poem “Only nature”.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, March 7, №10, p. 5.

1910

Until March 28

He writes a poem “Demon” (“In the open garden, I wanted to pick a fresh flower...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №230, p. 2, GTDA, №641, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 134; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №13, March 28, p. 2.

Note: The poem can also be found with and without a title “From Demon’s Song” and with the beginning “Beauty in Orchard”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

Until March 28

He writes a poem “Oh, who hears my sighs...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 134; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №13, March 28, p. 2.

Note: In later editions, the author combined this poem with the poem “Demon”. It was published under the title “From the Demon’s Song” and also without a title.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

March 28

The poem “Demon” (“In the open garden, I wanted to pick a fresh flower...”) and “Oh, who hears my sighs...” are published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №13, March 28, p. 2.

Note: In the following editions, these poems are combined and published without a title: “In the open garden... a fresh flower...”.

1910

March 29

In the letter “Our Critics” published in the newspaper Khalkhi under the pseudonym “Menave”, Galaktion Tabidze is named among promising young poets.

Source: Menave, “Our Critics”, newspaper Khalkhi, 1910, №13, p. 1.

1910

March 30

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her sons, Abesalom and Galaktion. She prays that her sons do not bring shame upon themselves before God or men. She apologizes for not being able to send more than 20 roubles and expresses her concern that she has written to Galaktion multiple times but has not received a reply.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to her sons, GTDA, №1513, p. 1-4.

April

1910

April 1 or after

He writes a short essay about the work of the Russian artist, Mikhail Vrubel, on the occasion of his death.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 95.

Dating: We date it according to the time of Mikhail Vrubel’s death.

1910

April 6

He makes a note about the young artist Mikhail Vrubel, who was not properly appreciated during his lifetime.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 227.

Note: Russian painter Mikhail Vrubel died on April 1, 1910.

1910

Until April 7

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her son, Abesalom Tabidze. She informs him that she was expecting Galaktion, but in vain, and has not received his letter either. She reproaches them for disregarding their mother’s sorrow and worries. She asks them to study diligently, hoping that something will eventually help the family. She sends socks for both of them and asks that half of the fruit be given to Galaktion.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1506, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 545.

1910

Until April 7

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her son, Abesalom Tabidze. She congratulates him on the resurrection of Christ and asks both him and Galaktion to study well for their exams. She sends sweet round loaves of bread and churchkheldas.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1508, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 545.

1910

Until April 7

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her children, Abesalom and Galaktion. She is interested in knowing what grades Galaktion is getting in school; she advises Galaktion to show anything he intends to publish in the newspaper to his brother first.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to her sons, GTDA, №1509, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 545.

1910

Until April 7

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of regards to her children, Abesalom and Galaktion. She regrets not being able to send them money earlier and is now only sending three roubles and two five-kopeck coins. She promises to send more if she manages to earn something.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to her sons, GTDA, №1510, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 545.

1910

April 7

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, informing her that with the 20 roubles they received from her, he and Galaktion had pants made, and in addition, he had Galaktion's torn shoes repaired. Responding to her complaints about why Galaktion hasn't been writing letters, he explains that they don't even have 7 kopecks for postage. He also writes that they won't be able to visit the village for Easter because their exams are starting soon, and they need to prepare.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1565, p. 1-3.

1910

April 8 or after

He writes a brief essay about the work of the Ukrainian theatrical figure, Marko Kropyvnytskyi, in connection with his passing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 93; GTDA, №232, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

Dating: We date it according to the time of Mark Kropyvnytskyi's death.

1910

Until April 18

He translates Henrik Ibsen's play "Brand".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1150, p. 1; Autograph, GTDA, №582, p. 1; Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 16, GTDA, №455, p. 1-4; GTDA, №582, p. 2.

Note: There is an alternative title "Ash" in one autograph.

Dating: Since on April 18, 1910, the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba published the information that Galaktion Tabidze was translating this poem, the translation must have been started before that date.

1910

Until April 18

He begins to write a poem "Ah, what a mistake I made...", but does not complete it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He begins to write a poem with the title "The sun" ("The sun is scattered in rays...") but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He begins to write a poem with the title "Why did I fall in love" but stops right there.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He writes a title "Under the bush", but he does not begin to write a poem.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 17-18; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He dedicates a poem "I am dreaming" (Do not remind me, my Deity) to Eliko Tsereteli.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 17-18; Autograph, GTDA, №420, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

Note: The title "Spruce" is crossed out.

1910

Until April 18

He writes a title "Madonna", but he does not begin to write a poem.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 17-18; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He writes a poem entitled “Desdemona” (“My song with sincere feeling...”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 17-18; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He writes a new version of the poem “Desdemona”, giving it the title “Orphaned Grave” and beginning with the words: “Like the sorrow of the sky, it shimmered upon me...”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №233; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452.

1910

Until April 18

He writes a poem “At the cemetery” (“We longed for the sun, we sighed...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 42; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №16, April 18, p. 3.

Note: The poem is published in some editions under the title: “Raise the sun up, up!”.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on April 18, 1910.

1910

April 18

The poem “At the cemetery” (“We longed for the sun, we sighed...”) is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №16, April 18, p. 3.

1910

April 18

The information is being published in the section ‘Theatre news’ of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba about the translation of Henrik Ibsen’s play ‘Brand’ by Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №16; For noting: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Raisa Chikhladze, G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 538.

Note: “M. Tabidze” is written instead of “G. Tabidze” in the magazine. However, Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Raisa Chikhladze confirms that these works were translated by Galaktion indeed.

1910

April 26

He goes to his native village Chkvishi.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 181.

May

1910

Until May 8

Near the Georgian theatre, he meets Ioseb Grishashvili, who informs him that Grigol Robakidze has invited him to participate in a literary evening at the Georgian theatre and intends to recite the poem: “Dear lamb, don’t get cold”. Galaktion is surprised by this choice because, in his opinion, it is a street poem. Grishashvili responds that he knows, and that’s exactly his intention. He explains where the phrase comes from. When a lady would walk past the idle merchants sitting in taverns, shouts would start from the taverns: “Don’t get cold, Barashkajan”. The embarrassed woman would quicken her pace, and the street would echo: “Don’t get cold, don’t get cold”. Finally, when the woman would disappear, there would be a collective raucous laughter from the taverns. Galaktion remains of his opinion, but Grishashvili says that he doesn’t care; what matters is that the people will like it and there will be applause. Galaktion realizes that Grishashvili will not change his mind and thinks, let the madman do as he wishes.

Source: MGL, d-244, p. 20-21; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 545; Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1910, May 8, №2, p. 1.

Note: In the review published in issue № 4 of the Sakhalkho Gazeti, the poem “Dear lamb, don’t get cold”, read by Ioseb Grishashvili at the evening event, is negatively reviewed.

Dating: Grigol Robakidze’s evening event at the Georgian theatre took place on May 8, 1910.

1910

Until May 9

He writes a poem “Nocturnal butterfly” dedicated to El. N.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №967, GTDA, №970, p. 94; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 44; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №18, May 9, p. 2;

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on May 9, 1910.

1910

May 9

The poem “Nocturnal butterfly” is being published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №18, May 9, p. 2.

1910

Until May 16

He is fascinated by a 17-year-old girl named Maro and dedicates the untitled poem “What a wonderful dew it was”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 120; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №19, May 16, p. 10.

Note: An early version of the poem had the title “Dew”. Maro’s surname is not known, but we found out that her father was Armenian, and her mother was Russian.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

May 16

The poem “What a wonderful dew it was” is being published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №19, May 16, p. 10.

1910

May 18

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, informing her that Galaktion is no longer staying with relatives and is now living separately. Therefore, he needs money for rent and expenses. He asks her to send 13 roubles.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1576, p. 2-3.

1910

Spring

In one of the halls located on Sapiorebi Street what is now Tabukashvili Street, Niko Sul Khanishvili tests Galaktion’s voice. He likes its velvety and clear alto quality, which he says will develop into a baritone as the person ages. He accepts the owner of this voice as a member of his choir.

Source: MGL, d-447, 1; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 158-159; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 256.

June

1910

Until June 6

He writes a poem “Morning” (“An Endless, Turbulent Lake...”).

Source: Autographs: 6630; 8715; GTDA №141, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 45.

Note: The poem is also known under the title “May morning”.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on June 6, 1910.

1910

June 6

A poem “Morning” is being published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №22, June 6, p. 4.

1910

June 6

In the letter “Fate of Georgian Young Poets” published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba under the pseudonym “Nari”, Galaktion Tabidze is named among young talented lyricists and the wish was expressed that for further development, magazines and newspapers should provide such young people with more information about the new directions of world literature.

Source: Nari, “The Fate of Young Georgian Poets”, Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №22, June 6, p. 11-12.

1910

Until June 13

He writes a poem “Flowers” (“I was twisting flowers into a wreath”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 121; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №3, June 13, p. 23;

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

June 13

A poem “Flowers” (I was twisting flowers into a wreath) is being published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №23, June 13, p. 3.

1910

Until June 20

He writes a poem “Blue sky”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 1; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №24, June 20, p. 5.

Dating: The poem “Bitter sadness does not leave me” which is written after this text in the same notebook, was already published on June 20, 1910, in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

1910

Until June 20

He writes a poem “Poet” (“Far away, on the top of the mountain, a song is heard...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 2; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №24, June 20, p. 5.

Dating: The poem “Bitter sadness does not leave me” which is written after this text in the same notebook, was already published on June 20, 1910, in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

1910

Until June 20

He writes a poem “A Song” “Bitter sadness does not leave me”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 4; GTDA №231, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 46; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №24, June 20, p. 5.

Dating: The issue of the magazine in which the poem was first published was released on June 20, 1910.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled.

1910

June 20

An untitled poem “Bitter sadness does not leave me” is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №24, June 20, p. 5.

1910

June or earlier

He writes a poem “Spring flowers” (“Embroidered with a thousand of colours...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №138, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 47; For dating: magazine Nakaduli (for adults), 1910, №8, June, p. 15.

Note: The opening line, “Do Not Touch This Flower”, is crossed out.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

June or earlier

He writes a poem “Lullaby” (“Sleep, child, peacefully...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №138, p. 2; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 47.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as another poem published in June 1910.

1910

June

An untitled poem “Embroidered with a thousand of colours...” is published in the magazine Nakaduli.

Source: Magazine Nakaduli (for adults), 1910, №8, p. 15.

July

1910

July 4

A poem “Downpour” (“When the sun... the top...”) is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №26, July 4, p. 2.

1910

July 10

Mikheil Adeishvili sends a letter to his relative, Makrine Adeishvili, writing that her son, Galaktion, borrowed 12 roubles and 25 kopeks from the addressee a long time ago and has not yet repaid it. He asks her to pay off the debt on his behalf.

Source: Mikheil Adeishvili's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1594, p. 1-2.

August

1910

August 1

He leaves Chkvishi.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 181.

1910

After August 1

He cooperates with magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba on a regular basis.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №3470-d; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 58-59.

Note: Ioseb Imedashvili is mentioned by name in the source.

Dating: A letter sent by Galaktion Tabidze to Ioseb Imedashvili after August 1, 1910, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1910

After August 1

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Tbilisi to Ioseb Imedashvili. He asks the latter to send the cooperation ticket of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba so that he can freely attend the theatre and other institutions. He informs that he has to stay in Kutaisi for a long time due to various reasons. Galaktion sends a stamp and address: Pavle Saghirashvili's house, Meskheta street turn, Kutaisi. He promises to provide reviews for the magazine if he trusts his impartiality.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №3470-d; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 58-59; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 527.

Note: Ioseb Imedashvili is mentioned by name in the source.

1910

August 26

He sends two poems and a short letter to Ioseb Imedashvili, the editor of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba in Tbilisi. He expresses his regret that fate has assigned him the role of a simple village teacher. He hopes to at least send folk poems from the village.

Source: Koba Imedashvili, "The Great Bright", magazine Tsiskari, 1976, №9, p. 104.

1910

Until August 31

He receives a letter sent by his mother from Chkvishi, in which she reproaches him for not writing letters.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1237, p. 1-2.

1910

August 31

From Tbilisi, he sends a letter to his mother through his relative Gigo from Chkvishi. He writes that he had previously sent a letter informing her that he needs 10 roubles for an exam, which will likely take place between September 1 and 15.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1237, p. 1-2.

1910

August or earlier

Under the collective title "Spring Motifs", he writes poems: "Wing-stirred, full of joy, the gentle breeze whispers to me...", "On the Flower's Heart" ("Dew trembles on the flower's heart..."), and "From the Window" ("What a warm day... the sun shines brightly...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №228, GTDA, №610, p. 2; GTDA, №624, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is included in a list compiled no later than August 1910.

1909-

1910 August

He translates a scene from Goethe's "Faust". The action takes place by the seashore and features a dialogue between Faust and Mephistopheles.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №634, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a one-act play in verse titled "Oh, Days... Days". The characters are: the official Vakhtang Mamulishvili, his wife Ketevan, their daughter Nino, and the teacher George.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem in Russian titled "At the Cemetery", dedicated to "D. K-dze" and signed as "G. T. Tsremli".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The poem starts with the words "Тихо и печально у твоей могилы" "У могилы" and "Весною".

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “The Poet” (“Soaring toward the dawn... sweet, beautiful...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the title “In Blue Eyes” but does not continue writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the title “The Breeze and the Thought” but does not continue writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the title, the word “Sorrow” is crossed out.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing an untitled poem: “I steer a boat into the raging sea...”..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №368, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem: “To the mountain peaks, the fields, and the meadows...”..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №368, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

With the dedication “To N”, he writes a poem “The Last Rays” (“I did not wish, to part...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №368, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Over the course of two days, he visits the apartment of his former teacher, Trifon Japaridze, several times but fails to meet him, so he leaves a note.

Source: Copy of the letter, autograph, GTDA, №365, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Appear to Me” (“Do you remember, so sincerely, with such admiration...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №323, p. 2; GTDA, №350, GTDA, №635, p. 3; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: One version begins with the words: “It has been a long time, quietly buried in the grave I laid...”.. The initial titles, “Waiting” and “Spring Motifs”, are crossed out. In another autograph, the title “At the Cemetery” was added later.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the miniature piece “The Letter” (“Newly blossomed...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №302; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the titles “In the Evening...” and “Tell a Tale” are crossed out.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “The Torrent” (“When the sun touches the peak...”), dedicated to his Maro.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1213, p. 2; GTDA, №198, GTDA, №321, p.1, p. 4; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 90; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: Initially, the dedication was marked with the initials “M. N”.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Homeland” (“Homeland, I love your...”) but stops shortly after.

Note: Autograph, GTDA, №321, p.1, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “On the Tombstone” (“I am a boat on the vast sea...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №3, p. 1; GTDA, №321, p. 1, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the second autograph, the poem begins with: “Here rests one who, with steadfast struggle...”..

1909-

August 1910

He begins translating Mikhail Lermontov’s poem “The Caucasus” (“And the Caucasus mountains...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №321, p. 1, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “May” (“Quiet sorrow, stirring melancholy...”) but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №321, p. 1, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

On the page, he writes a list of his lyrical poems under the title “Melodies”, which includes: “Oh, I Beg You, If Again”, “Hey, Gondolier”, “Secrets of the Night”, “I Do Not Grieve, My Beauty”, “I Remember, I Stood Motionless”, “The Cloud”, “The Brightness of Day, the Sorrow of Night”, “A Rose Blooms for Her”, “The Sun Will Rise Again in the Azure Sky”, “The Demon”, “Exhausted, Weary”, “In Blue Eyes”, “Could It Be the Shadow That the Sun Cast”, and “Above Me, the Sky Was Joyful”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №280; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the pseudonym “Tsremli”, he writes a poem “Romance” (“For the last time, the rays of the sun...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №43; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Language” (“I listened to the mysterious whispers of nature...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №213; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The original title was “Native Language”, but it was later changed to “The Hyperbolic Language of Revolution”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Evening” (“We sat by the seaside...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №213; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: Later, a second title, “By the Seaside”, is added.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “It’s Spring... It’s May...” (“Flaming strings shimmer...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №210; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an impromptu poem dedicated to his seminary friends, titled “The Walls” (“The beauty of the day no longer reaches us...”). The poem conveys the idea that the seminary walls have claimed many victims and will continue to claim more.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №207, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “To I. Evdoshvili” (“Traveler, do not dwell on misfortune...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №57, p. 1; GTDA, №201, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The revised version of the poem begins with: “Enough, do not dwell on misfortune...”..

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “My Song” (“I write... thought and sorrow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №57, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Do Not Sing” (“A song of suffering... my destiny...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №57, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem in Russian titled “Autumn Motifs”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №57, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Waiting” (“I was waiting for you, my beloved...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №7; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128..

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem without a title (“O Beauty, why are you staring at the flow of the river waves...”) but does not complete the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №3, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins translating Konstantin Balmont's poem titled "Descending Rays" ("Oh, adornment of the twilight sky...") but soon abandons the translation.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №3, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled "In the Darkness of Night" ("The distant expanse of the sky has been covered by darkness...") but soon crosses out the title and abandons the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №3, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem without a title ("The sea waves rest in silence...") but stops after the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №3, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem "I Condemn the Repressed Feeling" ("The life has already cast its arrow...") but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №3, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem "Memory" ("In the realms of memories, soaring...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №4, p. 1-2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem ("I want the wave to crash against...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №4, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He notes down the titles “Glacier” and “Buried” (to Ip. Vartagava) but does not start writing the texts themselves.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

With the inscription “Picture” beneath, he begins writing a poem titled “Summer Night” (“Look at the arc of the sky”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Idyll” (“Summer night... do you remember, beautiful”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “In the Coffin” (“Who can, in my heart”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He starts translating a poem titled “From Byron” (“Farewell!.. And if Heaven Receives...”) but stops after the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins translating a poem titled "From Byron" ("Oh, the soul is troubled...") but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem ("It frolics, sparkles, delights, and rejoices...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №16, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins translating George Byron's poem "The Gladiator" ("From the brother, ruthlessly heart-stricken..."), but does not complete it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №19, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled "Hymn" ("One solace and aspiration...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №46, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the neatly copied text of the poem "Hymn" ("One solace and aspiration..."), he adds a comment noting that he read this poem at a gathering where his basic idea was criticized. He reflects that the main message of the work might indeed be worthless to those who disregard our past.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №46, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Violets and Roses” (“If I had wings, with delight...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №133, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the titles “Spring Has Come to Us” and “It Is Spring” are crossed out.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “From the Diary” (“The day is surrounded by melancholy...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №149, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “From the Diary” (“Poor slave, your fate is...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №149, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem (“Ah, Muse, you see the fading star in the sky...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №149, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem (“For a long time I have become acquainted with the face of death...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №149, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem dedicated to Arsena Jorjashvili titled “Ar. J-shvili” (“I remember, as if standing trepid...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №152, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “Jorjiashvili”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Melody” (“Oh, I implore you, if you still honour...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №174, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “Homeland”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a play with the characters Lola and Fairy.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №181, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an episode of a fable (“Garments do not resemble the previous...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №181, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The characters in the fable are Fox, the king, his daughter, and the son-in-law.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “At Dawn” (“The morning has dawned as a trail... still with grandeur...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №184, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem (“In the blue eyes...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №280, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the pseudonym 'Гал-Лилей' (Gal-Lilei), he writes a poem in Russian titled "Осень" ("Autumn") ("О, день печальный, О, сумрачный день...") ("Oh, sorrowful day, Oh, gloomy day...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №287, p. 1; №289, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the pseudonym "Accordi", he writes a poem titled "A Georgian Woman" ("I love when with a lute in hand.") and as an epigraph, he precedes it with an entire stanza from Nikoloz Baratashvili's poem "The Fate of Kartli": "Oh, Mothers, Forever Blessed...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №339, p. 1-4; GTDA, №501, p. 3-13; №563, p. 1; №970, p. 47-61; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, he later added alternative titles to the poem: "Sorrow of Georgia", "Child and Mother", and "The Woman was Fighting the Barricades". The poem is accompanied by a footnote remarking that it is incorrect to consider the idea of the "Georgian woman" outdated.

1909-

August 1910

Under the note "Dedicated to the Great Contemporary Poet", he writes various episodes of the poem "Melody" ("I Sang a Mournful Tune...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №340, p. 1-2; GTDA, №353, p. 3-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem ("Slave, tormented by the environment...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №344, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The text was later included in the poem "Epoch".

1909-

August 1910

With the inscription "Legend" underneath, he writes two sections of the poem "Amirani" ("Do not trample down a man...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №353, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled "Sonnet" ("You, far from me, to my troubled soul...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №363, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing an untitled poem ("The sea is the heart... a single powerful wave...") but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №363, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a one-act play in verse titled "Woe, Days... Days...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The characters in the play are: the official Vakhtang Mamulashvili, his wife Ketevan, their daughter Nino, and the teacher Georges.

1909-

August 1910

Under the pseudonym 'Г. Т. Цремли' (G. T. Tsremli), he writes a poem in Russian titled "Весною" ("In Spring") "Тихо и печально у твоей могилы..." ("Quietly and sadly by your grave...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was "У могилы" ("By the Grave").

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem ("Oh, if with you too, celestial soul...") but does not complete it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №387, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Semion Nadson's style inspires him to write a poem "Life" ("Do not trust its kind face, its charm..."), but he does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №390, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem "Mother" ("What a warm day... the sun is shining brightly...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №390, p. 2; GTDA, №610, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem "To M. N". ("A black shadow, stern and cautious...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №404, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the title "From a Diary" and precedes it with an epigraph from Semyon Nadson's words: "How little we have lived, and how much we have endured".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №404, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the first scene of the dramatic work "The Feudal Lord", whose characters – a father and son – discuss the old and the new eras.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №423, p. 1-12; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the initial title options for the work were "The Ancient Feudal Lord" and "Old and New".

1909-

August 1910

With an inscription “Fantastic Fragments” underneath, he dedicates the dramatic work “Three Pictures” to the memory of Yulia T-shvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №456, p. 1-4; GTDA, №957, p. 1-2; №1192, p. 1-2; №636, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The characters are: Tamara, Amors, and Spirits.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an excerpt from a play whose characters are Adam and Eve (“Glory to the Creator of the world...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №475, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

In the introduction to the poem “A Georgian Woman”, he makes a note about Georgian women (“I cannot help but say a few things...”). He does not agree with the opinion that Georgian women are only beautiful in appearance but ideologically backward.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №501, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Young Flower” (“I lay on the meadow, sad and contemplative...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №530, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “In the Dance Perkhuli” (“When the crowd, with rapturous pleasure...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №534, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the second part of the poem without a title (“The dark is torn... the shadowed meadow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №551, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Wings” (“Give me wings, give me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №588, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Fierce Genius” (“It is dawn... the constellation of stars...”), which is prefaced by the words of Alphonse de Lamartine: “Intense genius always follows me / It takes away my solace and tranquillity”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №593, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “To the Graves” (“How captivating and enchanting is the May night...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №613, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “The Song” (“To one far from me, exiled...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №5, p. 2; №613, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 40; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In one autograph, the poem is titled “Sonnet”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Red...” (“We are weary on the path of life...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №613, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a play without a title, set in the family of a wealthy Georgian intellectual named Petre. In the play, Petre’s wife falls in love with a foreigner whom Petre has invited as a tutor for their child.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №632, p. 1-2; GTDA, №321, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “The Eagle and Love” (“Nothing can halt the surging avalanches...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №632, p. 1-2; GTDA, №321, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem “I have given my cold body to the grave...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №639, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Romance to...-s” (“I awaited you, beloved... in torment and unrest...”) inspired by Nina Grisi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №639, p. 2; GTDA, №208; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an essay titled “Vakhang VI”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №640, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a story titled "Friends". The main characters are students: Vasiko and Gigo. The action takes place in a school, where the teacher's foolish actions exacerbate the already tense relationship between the two children.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №721, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins working on a poem with the theme of sacrifice ("Do not forget his fate...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №728, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem "Spring is coming..." ("I desire to believe only in you among other gods...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №733, p. 1; GTDA, №610, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled excerpt from Chapter XI of a poem ("Every faint point, every instance...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №742, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled "Ia" (Violet) ("I will congratulate you, lovely one, on spring...") but stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №754, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled "Sonnet" ("Do you remember, my lovely, how we spoke?") but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №754, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem without a title (“You, my friend, are my sweet hope...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №754, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem dedicated to Nino S. titled “Hyacinth” (“The day’s grace no longer reaches you...”) but stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №786, p. 2; GTDA, №1127, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the second autograph, the addressee is indicated as “M. N”.

1909-

August 1910

He starts writing an untitled poem (“But I can’t forget those days...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №904, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “The Reed in the Nettle” (“Behold, the East has reddened...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №942, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem untitled (“At dawn, when the morning star...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №956, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “The Grave” (“I remember the evening... how extraordinary it was...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №405, p. 1-2; GTDA, №563, p. 1; GTDA, №458, p. 1; GTDA, №956, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In other autographs, the poem begins with the words: “Ah, if only you knew...”, “When a flower at the cemetery...”, or “The World Has Lost One Flower...”. In one autograph, the title “Passed Away” and the dedication “To N” are crossed out, and the title “Sonnet” is written instead.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Memory” dedicated to L. (“I stand alone, amidst old ruins once more...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №965, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the inscription “Legend”, he writes a poem titled “In the Monastery” (“On the mountain peak... far from the village...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 7-9; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a synopsis of a five-act dramatic poem titled “In the Monastery” and the poem itself, which consists of 26 chapters.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 10-14, 16-41, 43-45, 62-64, 67-68, 83; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The characters are: Abbot Father Ioane, monks Petre and Tornike, young monks Midia and Giorgi, Iakob, the children of Taarisa and Kaikhosro, Irakli and Nino, God, angels, a demon, peasants, and women.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Sulamith” (“Someday I will invent your precious name again...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 15; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He translates a poem from Byron without a title (“What is everlasting glory...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 46; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem “In Solitude” (“I wish to pray... in the twilight of solitude I gather...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 66; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Stream of Thoughts” (“I am a dream and you...”) and stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 66; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “The Oath of the Prophet” (“Listen to me, the voice of the past still echoes in the heart...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №96, №970, p. 70-71; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title options for the poem were “The Oath”, “Before Storm”, “Evening”, “The Prophet’s Words” and “The Swan’s Song”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem without a title (“I asked for one kiss, I asked with passion...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 73; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem without a title (“Do you love me or not, tell me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 73; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem: “Here is the heart, here is life”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 195, p. 7; Autographic list, GTDA, №970, p. 75-77; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He lists his works in a catalogue. The list includes 62 works: the poem “A Fatal Thought”, the dramatic excerpt “Three Pictures”, “Hey, Gondolier”, “Song”, “Behold This Heart, Behold Life”, “Poetry”, “The Grave”, “The Crown”, “I Remember Standing in Awe”, “To Your Grave”, “To a Friend”, “Environs are Silent... the Moon from the Sky”, “To Whom I Swore Love”, “The Poet’s Grave”, “Cloud”, “The Bell Rang”, “Life and Death”, “Excerpt from K. Tetmajer”, “Hyacinth”, “A Rose Will Open for”, “I Was Looking For Your Caress in Vain”, “Autumn Evening”, “The Soul is Restless”, “Autumn”, “Dream”, “Do Not Tell Me He is Dead”, “In Solitude”, “Autumn Storm”, “Have You Experienced the Dark Night?”, “Thick Cloud, Black and Dark”, “The Moon Shines”, “When the Nightingale at Dawn”, “Romance”, “Like a Swan”, “Night”, “Breeze”, “Mortal”, “Thought”, “In Expectation of Spring”, “Rosebuds”, “At the Cemetery”, “It Doesn’t Bring You Joy, My Soul”, “Evil Genius” by La Martine, “Sorrow”, “To the Poet”, “Moonlit Night”, “The bright belongs to the day, while sadness – to the night”, “The Ignorant, Unfathomable Crowd”, “Expectation”, “From the Artist’s Diary”, “I Asked for One Kiss”, and “Do You Love Me or Not?”.

Source: Autographic list, GTDA, №970, p. 75-77; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

With the inscription “Fantasy” underneath, he writes a poem titled “Love” (“Across the sea, far, far, on a desolate island...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 84-90; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title option for the poem was “The Warrior”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Sonnet” (“Oh, I do not want that love...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 91-92; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem “Immortal Soul” (“On the rays of the sun, on the silent mountains...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 100; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Cain” (“Cain is tormented by envy...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 101-109; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a five-act comedy titled “Sashka Prantishvili”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №58, p. 1-4, №970, p. 110-114; Autograph, GTDA, №582, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The characters are: Sashka Prantishvili, his friends Irakli, Ioseb and Datiko, the elderly Colonel Platon Feodalov, and his daughters: Maro and Ninutsa.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “In Search of Amour” (“The demon stood sad and thoughtful...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 116-123, 184-197; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The poem has a later title added as “The Lonely Soul”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem without a title on the subject of Russian church services in Georgian churches (“I was in Sioni, in Sioni. Akaki does not tell lies...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 114-115; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem without a title (“The prophet strummed the lyre with lamentation...”) and stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 127; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Melodies” (“I yearn toward you from life...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 127; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Death” (“When among the damp walls located...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 128; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

Until September 1910

He begins writing a poem “The Poet” (“To the sound and tone of your celestial lyre...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 129-130; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem from Bodenstedt (“Before us, a flower had bent...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 970, p. 133; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128..

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem without a title (“Tell me, why does the heavens not captivate you...”), but crosses out the third stanza and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 141; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem “Sonnet” (“Do not forget me, hunted by all”), but crosses it out and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 145; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem without a title (“Friends, never as...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 150; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, above the title of the poem, it initially reads “Ali Yusuf” and then “Panin”. It is unclear who these individuals are and what their connection to the text might be.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem without a title (“For the last time, I wish to test my fortune...”) and presents it in the form of a distinctly expressed graphic representation.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 153; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Poetry” (“To the child, shining with pure hope...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 154-157; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes the chapters III to X of an untitled poem. One of the main characters in the work is Maro.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 173-178; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem (“Sorrow called me, mist has obscured...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 164; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “The First Wave” (“The lake, beautiful, grew turbulent...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 165-167; Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 124; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In different versions, the poem begins in various ways: “I listened to the quiet sea’s silence, filled with sorrow...”, “My song was carried far away by the storm...”, and “When the boundless and immeasurable expanse of the sea...”.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “At Midnight” (“Oh night, night, I remember how harshly...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 170; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “In the Waves” (“Where gently the distant space...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 172; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing the poem “The Statue of Napoleon” (“With Arms Crossed, He Gazed...”), dedicated to the actor Kote Meshki.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 179, GTDA, №230, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In one autograph, the title is “Napoleon”, and in the margin, the word “Death” is written. Kote Meshki performed the role of Napoleon in the 1910s.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an essay in Russian about the ancient Athenian statesman Aristides, extensively reviewing his relationship with Themistocles.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 201-204; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Rain” (“These are tears, spilled from the eyes of the sky...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1127, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

With the inscription “On a Biblical Tune” beneath, he begins writing a poem titled “To the Celestial Tune” (“Oh, I have endured much moaning and wailing...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1127, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title option for the poem was “Everything is pointless”.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “To a Biblical Tune” (“Who appears in the desert, what is seen?”) but stops shortly after and crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №582, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: An alternative title is “My Madonna”, while the titles “Torquato Tasso” and “Praise of Praises” are crossed out.

1909-

August 1910

Under the title “Once... in the Evening”, he writes a one-act play in verse with the characters: Ketevan, her daughter Nino, the teacher Petre, and the poet Toma.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Song” (“After so many tortures and so much torment...”) but soon abandons it and crosses everything out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the subtitle “Idyll”, he writes a poem titled “Stream” (“From the depths of the mountain, it rushes...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the pseudonym G. Phazeli, he begins writing a poem titled “Romance” (“The sun scatters its rays... the wind whispers...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1166, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the note “Fable”, he begins writing a novel titled “Galia” (“The bird trapped inside pleaded with Galia.”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1166, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

Under the note “Dream”, he writes a poem titled “New Year” (“I am alone, black thoughts...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1168, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Two Flowers” (“One at the source’s edge among a bunch of flowers...”) but soon abandons it and crosses everything out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title option for the poem was “Orphaned Boat”.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “On a Biblical Tune” (“The days have passed...”) but stops right there and crosses everything out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title options for the poem were “Pharaoh”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Poet” (“On the wing of dreams, he shed tears of relief...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title option for the poem was “Smile”.

1909-

August 1910

With the note “In the Album”, he begins writing a poem titled “Ashes” but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1161, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Dedicated to Maro” (“As the days draw closer...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1168, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a sonnet titled “Cry” (“We will no longer see this evening today...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1168, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

With the note “To Our Idle Youth” beneath, he writes a poem titled “Melody” (“Let us drink, brothers, let us drink...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1169, p. 2; GTDA, №376, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title options for the poem were “Song of the Drunkard”, “Only in Wine”, and “Contemporary Song”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem dedicated to Ilia Chavchavadze titled “At the Poet’s Grave” (“Innocent child, filled with sorrow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1182, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “Poetry” (“No... it is not trampled underfoot...”) but soon abandons it and crosses everything out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1183, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Poetry” (“In the depths of the forest, I confided to the breeze...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1183, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He begins writing a poem titled “The Crowned One” (“The king did not sleep when...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1183, p. 1; GTDA, №325, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: One of the possible titles for the poem might have been “Chaos”, which is written in the middle and crossed out. One autograph begins with the words, “So, You Can’t Tell Me Anything?”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Homeland” (“Bathed and cleansed in blood...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №325, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem “Praise of Praises” (“I sit by the window, fulfilled...”), prefacing it with his own translation of a phrase by Alphonse de Lamartine as an epigraph.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №325, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: The original title of the text was “Emma”.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “In Spring, Only in Spring!” (“Ah, I love it when in the glade...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1213, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “Spring” (“Lovely meadow, carefree...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1183, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a poem titled “May” (“A gentle breeze whispers to the forest leaves, it caresses...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1213, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes an untitled poem (“You have endured the dark, gloomy night...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1217, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He writes a drama titled “My Heart is My Homeland”, with the characters being: the foreign teacher Sasha Duncan, the foreign poet Rigolius, the noble Ilia Amirjanov, his wife Tamari, and their daughter Nino.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №582, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

He starts writing a poem titled “On a Biblical Tune” (“Who is this appearing in the desert...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №582, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “The Praise of Praise”.

1909-

August 1910

Under the pseudonym G. Tskvitishvili, he writes a satirical poem titled “Georgian Nation” (“The Georgian nation desires happiness...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №612, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

August 1910

He writes an excerpt from a poem without a title (“In the morning, amidst the group of learners...”), featuring Lola as the main character. Lola is distinguished by her naturalness despite living abroad.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №770, p. 1; GTDA, №181, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

August 1910

He drafts an outline for a report on contemporary Georgian women and makes notes.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №770, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1909-

August 1910

On the page, he writes a list of his poems, which includes 91 entries, four of which are newly added: “The Black Shadow,” “A Flower Before Us,” “Cain” (an unfinished poem), and “Have You Experienced a Pitch-Black Night?” The remaining 87 are also included in a list compiled before September 5, 1910: “Hymn,” “Acute Genius” (from Lamartine), “Autumn” (dedicated to ...s), “The Sky has been filled with Stars,” “Napoleon” (“Silence is Unbroken...”), “To the Actress” (“The curtain is lifted... silence...”), “Sorrow,” “Dream” (“I will fly to foreign lands...”), “The Poet’s Grave,” “Don’t Storm, Do Not Pity Me,” “Poetry,” “Muse” (At midnight, Muse...), “I Remember, I Stood Motionless,” “The Grave” (A gentle butterfly flickers above), “In Solitude” (Once I searched, approached), “Hyacinth” (Under the bush, still and cautious), “In Vain I Sought Your Caress, Your Love,” “An Autumn Evening” (“I sit by the window, the flowers of the sky...”), “To Your Grave, Peaceful and Silent,” “I Desire” (When dreams lead to the future), “To the Poet” (Your string’s resonance), “O Patriot!” (O Patriot, Homeland has long endured trials...), “For a Long Time I Have Befriended the Face of Death, the Black Apparition), “Life and Death” (I remember on the trail), “The Autumn Storm Creeps and Howls,” “Your Soul Finds No Peace,” “Here Is the Heart, Here Is Life,” “We Buried” (A tender flower on an orphan’s grave), “The Cloud” (“Oh, do not block the sun’s rays...”), “A Man From Haut Monte,” “My Soul is Troubled by the Black Darkness,” “The Bell Rang,” “Fragment” (from K. Tetmajer), “I Await the Dawn, I Await the Sun’s Rays,” “The Vision,” “I Want Your Gentle Smile,” “When the Sky’s Expanse Spreads,” “Love” (Fantasy), “On the Words of the Poet,” “To a Friend” (Again that sorrow, again the groaning), “Amour,” “The Statue,” “Praise of Praises,” “To the Poet” (And if again into the soul’s depth), “The Clock” (Satire), “Rhymes,” “Hush Your Voices, Villains!,” “Darkness Covers the Outspread World,” “Fantasy” (Sweet Dream and Bliss), sonnet: “I Do Not Grieve, My Beauty,” “To the Sealed Sky I Do Not Ask for Aid,” “Spring Motifs,” “The Storm,” “When I Look at Another’s Grave,” “To the Memory of Chaladideli," "The Cross," "Evening," "The Poet and Sorrow," "Flying Through Memories," "The Demon" (At midnight on the lap of the sky...), "The First Wave," "Secrets of the Night," "Mukhammas," "The Wreath," "The Moon Shines Brightly," "When the Nightingale at Dawn," and "Poetry".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №108, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

September

1910

September 3

He writes a poem "Song" ("Woman, do not delight another...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №142, p. 2.

1910

September 3

He dedicates the poem "The Poet" ("It is night... mist gazes down upon...") to Alexandre Abasheli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №142, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: On the same page, there is another version of the poem that begins with the lines: "In the darkness of night, it seeks the light..."

1910

September 3

He writes a poem "Weak Leaf".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №142, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Spring Motifs" ("Ray. Necklace. Stream...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 139; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a story "The First Kiss".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the autograph, the original titles were "Nia" and "From the Window". The text is signed with the pseudonym G. T-dze.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a poem titled “Cold at the Grave” (“I awaited only torment, rebuke...”) but writes only one page and then stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the autograph, the title is crossed out, but no alternative title is written.

1910

Until September 5

He plans to write a one-act play titled “By the Bedside” but stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the autograph, the title is crossed out, but no alternative title is written.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a play without a title, starting with the lines “She is getting married today, the one I love...”. The characters are Nino and a maid.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 6-7; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He begins translating Ibsen’s play “Brand” with the line “Over-lively Stream” but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the notebook, there is only the title and a couple of phrases.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a poem titled “Sun” (“The sun scatters into rays...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the notebook, there is only the title and a couple of phrases.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem titled “Alaverdi” (“The battle and hope have vanished...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 19; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He selects pseudonyms and marks the following options: “Lag-at”, “Galakttion”, “Meli Ton”, “Ton-K-Meli”, “Ktiontgala”, and “Niagatu”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 19; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a novel titled “The Poison of the Future”. Then he crosses out the old title and writes a new one – “In the Waves. Under this title, he writes a two-page introduction about the diminishing role of women in Georgia and signs it with the pseudonym ‘G. T.’ He then includes fragments from the first and second parts of the novel and lists the characters: Andro, Mito, Babo, Tasiko, Melano, Tedo.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 19-22; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The plot of the novel might be drawn from personal biography, as it discusses the relationship between a young girl and a poet who grew up together at a village teacher’s house during their childhood.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a short poem titled “Autumn” (“Oh quietly, quietly let me be...”), which he precedes with the Russian phrase “One day I woke up and suddenly realized that I am famous...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 24; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The epigraph’s Russian text is: “Я раз проснулся и был знаменитым”.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a poem titled “What, Loneliness” (“I am alone, all alone...”) and soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 25; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Memory” (“It’s night, abundantly illuminated...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 35-36; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

Under the pseudonym “Ia Tabidze”, he writes a poem titled “For Eliko” is written (“I dream that somewhere my melody...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 15-16; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: At the top of the page, the words “I dedicate it to her” and “I dedicate it to Eliko” are crossed out. Later, the note “I Dedicate the Pen” is added (referring to Samson Pirtskhalava).

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing the poem “I Dreamed of You” (“I dreamed of you, as if in the mist...”) but soon stops and crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 38; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing the poem “Homeland” (“A strange smile on your face...”) but soon stops and crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 54; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing the poem “Raindrops” (“A drop said on the desolate field...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 39; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing the poem “The Leaf” (“To the storm, eerie, dreadful, and suspicious...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 39; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes the stanza “Nature is the mother of life...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №196, p. 40; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Summer Night” (“The playful breeze with excitement...”), dedicating it to “M. N”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №60, №196, p. 38-39; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 48; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №35, September 5, p. 9.

Note: The poem is titled “Night”, “Spring Night” in various publications.

Dating: By September 5, 1910, the poem had already been published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “The Nightingale Flew Toward the Dawn”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “To the Night’s Longing” (“The sun will rise again in the azure sky...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1028, p. 1; GTDA, №1169, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; List of poems, GTDA, №280, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the poem has the general title “Melodies” above it, while in one instance, it is untitled.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “I Write... Thought and Sorrow...”, which he first dedicates to Ioseb Grishashvili, and then to Eliko Tsereteli.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №8, p. 2, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “I Dream...” and “My Dear!” as well as with the opening line “I Write... I Long for Thought and Sorrow...”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Oh, if the delicate soul in heaven is not granted relief...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Suicides’ Flower...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem titled “Evening” (“The luminary has hidden in the mountains...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 145-147; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, a second poem with the same title “Evening” has a beginning written out, while this one does not.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “The Sailor’s Song” (“The boat drifts... we have abandoned...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “The Wind”, which is part of “The Sailor’s Song”.

Source: GTDA, №151, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “O Storm, Return to Me” (“Oh, storm, in the spring...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1219, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Evil Spirit” (“No, I Cannot Look with Peace of Mind...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №359, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “To Whomever Life’s Injustice...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Autumn” (“I am weary... the soul yearns for the longed-for rest...”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze had several poems titled “Autumn”, and in this manuscript, the beginning of the poem is not indicated, but it is noted that it is dedicated to a specific person (“I dedicate it to ...”).

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Your existence mimics the spring sun...”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Melody” (“The gentle breeze caresses...”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine’s poem “Let’s Flee, My Beloved...”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №2, p. 1, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine’s poem “Sent from the Sky in Wrath...”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №2, p. 1, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine’s poem “The Pine Tree at Their Grave...”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №2, p. 1, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine’s poem “The Prisoner’s Song”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №2, p. 1, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine's poem "Nestle Close Your Cheek to Mine..."..

Source: Record, GTDA, №2, p. 1, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine's poem "On the Pinnacle of the Southern Mountains..."..

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine's poem "I Dreamed of the Emperor's Wife..."..

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He translates Heinrich Heine's poem "Alone and Orphaned, Far in the Field and Village..."..

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "He Played Melancholic Tunes..."..

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "To Elene" ("The pine awaits the grave of the heartbreaker...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №581, p. 2. Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Oh, how enchanting, sweet, and gentle..."..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №581, p. 2. Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Colour" ("Oh, I love your enchanting colour...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №581, p. 1. Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the title is crossed out.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Farewell".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "At the Grave" ("O grave, abandoned and desolate...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Is it the shadow, cast by the sun...".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Above Me the Sky Rejoiced...".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Weary, enfeebled, turned into a shadow...".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "O, let the burning sorrow and grief spread their wings as fate decrees".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Darling, Come Closer, Do You Not Remember Me...”..

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Do Not Show Me a Cheerful Face Anymore”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Dawn” (“Look, it cooled down on the dome of the sky...”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Three Voices”: I “I Saw at the Graveyard...” II “The Melody is Heard...” III “Today at the Graveyard...”..

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “To an actress” (“The curtain was raised... Silence has fallen...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №379, p. 1-2; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: An alternative beginning is “I was listening to him...”..

1910

Until September 5

Based on Anton Kandaurov’s painting “Abraham Looking at Sodom and Gomorrah”, he sketches the biblical Abraham with a sceptre in his hand, using a pencil.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №379, p. 2.

Dating: On the same page, there is a poem written before September 5, 1910.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Napoleon" ("I am immortal").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "I was looking forward to the bright ray of dawn in vain".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "In the Album, to Shutu" ("Ah, I too wish that at this time...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He dedicates the poem "To the Memory of a Demon" ("You rest insensible in your grave...") to his deceased friend, Kucha Kavtaradze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №365, p. 2; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Sorrow" ("Enveloped in the blackened folds of the night...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "What's new?".

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Sigh" ("A crowd ignorant towards my song...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "My Portrait" ("The one to whom I swore my love is in the grave...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №738, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In one of the manuscripts, the poem is untitled.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "May Night" ("How enchanting the night is...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He dedicates the poem "To a Friend" ("Don't, storm, don't have pity on me") to "A. D"..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №368, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He dedicates the poem "A Poet's Will" to the memory of his deceased friend Kuchu Kavtaradze.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Is It Spring?!" ("My dear, I do not want...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "To I. Evdoshvili" (Passenger, do not think about misfortune).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "In the album" (Oh, friend, the whole sea is murmuring in your album...).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "New Year's thought" ("Again all alone...").

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31, GTDA, №407, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He dedicates the poem "To Life" ("Oh, let the dark, sorrowful grief...") to his friend Demon (Kuchu Kavtaradze).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 148; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the original title of the poem was "Storm".

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "A Georgian melody" (Don't wander in the depth of the forest at night).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №220; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: Later, the title "Forest Melody" is added.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Muse" (At night a muse...).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Grave" (A gentle butterfly hovers above me).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №289, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "A poet is dashing in the vortex of freedom forever free".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "To Nino".

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “The midnight is shining” (Freedom).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 42; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes an untitled poem “I wish to start a new life again!..”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №5; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 42; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The poem also appears under the title “Before a New Path” and with the opening line “Always Begin Life Anew...”..

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “He Strummed the Strings and the Melancholic Tones...”..

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №172, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 42; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the poem is later titled: “An Idle Song of a Charming Young Poet”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “In Solitude” (“I searched, I once came close...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 42; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Song” (“The sky is veiled with clouds, the wind blows from the north”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “A song” (“Opened at the edge of abyss”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “To Your Tomb, Quiet and Still...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "To a friend" ("I know, I know what you are thinking about or what you are looking forward to").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Don't tell me he is not alive".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "I wish" (When the dream towards the future).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "To the poet" (To the voice of your strings).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Patriot!" ("Patriot, the homeland has been in ordeal for a long time...").

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "I have been friends with the death, dark ghost for a long time".

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Autumn Storm Roams, Buzzing..."..

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “We Have Buried” (“A delicate flower at the lonely grave...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1165, p. 1; GTDA, №462, p. 1; GTDA, №639, p. 1; GTDA №588, p. 1; GTDA №970, p. 99; GTDA, №196, p. 28; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 28, 32, №588, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The poem can also be found with different opening lines: “It Is a Peaceful Night, a Gentle Breeze...” and “There in the West, the Sun Sets...”..

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Dew Quivers on the Flower’s Heart...”..

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Sun, when your rays fall on my heart”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1219, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “I love when the area is filled with flowers”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “A poet and a poppy”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “The Nightingale and the Poppy” (“Are you alone?... What are you dreaming of...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №343, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32.

Note: There is another title “From the Window” as well.

Dating: The poem is written on the recto of the page, which contains a poem written before September 5, 1910.

1910

Until September 5

He writes the title of a novel “In the Blue Eyes” but does not continue writing it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №343, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32.

Dating: The poem is written on the recto of the page, which contains a poem written before September 5, 1910.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Lilac!”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №343, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The original title, “The Poet”, is crossed out.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Tell ...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Night thoughts” (“The moon is shining, enchanting melodies...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “The Atomic Team, Joyful... Slightly Touches the Horizon of the Sky...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №610, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Impromptu”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Poppy” (“Tell me, the dew in the spring...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №799, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910Until September 5

He writes a poem “An eagle and love”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910Until September 5

He writes a poem “From the barren” (“The exhausted village is sleeping deeply”).

Source: GTDA, №16, p. 3; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910Until September 5

He writes a poem “A biblical tune” (“I was rich, I was a coach”).

Source: GTDA, №16, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910Until September 5

He writes a poem “A violet” (“It was looking forward to the ray of the sun, acting up, and shimmering...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the original title of the poem was “Forest Leaves”.

1910Until September 5

Under the note “Idyll”, he writes a poem “Flowers” (“I wove crowns from flowers...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №374, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33.

Note: In the manuscript, the original title options for the poem were “Among the Flowers” and “I Adore the Flowers”.

1910Until September 5

He writes a poem “Easter epigrams”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “I Was Writing Calmly with Celestial Wings of Inspiration...”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “I Swear by the Gods of the Sky, There Is No...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №19, p. 2; GTDA, №158, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 32-33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In one autograph, the poem’s title is “Do Not Touch”, and the opening is revised to begin with the words: “When It Is Not, It Truly Is Not...”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Lament” (“Where eternal time and the shimmering of the sea...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 171; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “In the album” (“The beauty of the minutes gradually fades away...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №133, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “I was asking for a kiss”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “I long for your gentle smile”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 78; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

In imitation of Konstantin Balmont, He writes a poem “O Holy God” (“When the expanse of the sky is unfolding...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 82-83; GTDA, №411, p. 1-2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In another autograph, the title is written as “From the Stage”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Love” (“Fantasy”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “About poet’s words”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “To a friend” (“That sadness again, that sighing again...”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Romances” (“Tender moon is floating calmly...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №232, p. 1-3; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem dedicated to Eliko, titled “For Her I Love” (“Where the chalice of tender feelings...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 96-98; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the original title options for the poem were “In the Homeland” and “Spring in the Homeland”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Amur” (“Beautiful virgin!.”).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Statue” (“Do not touch the statue with your hands, do not ruin it...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 125-126; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33; GTDA, №970, p. 125-126; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “To a poet” (“And if in the depth of the soul...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 131-132; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He dedicates the poem “Rhythms” (“Give me wine, I thirst for wine...”) to N.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 135; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes the satirical poem titled “The Clock” (“The progressives were debating...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 134; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Keep quiet, you traitors!”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 136; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Romance” (“I do not grieve, my beauty, for the lost hope...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 137, 78; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the manuscript, the titles for the poem were “My Crown”, “Romance”, “Sonnet”, and “The Poet”, while in one instance, it was untitled “I do not grieve, my beauty...”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "To the heaven, reserved, I do not ask for help..."

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "The Storm" ("The sky is overcast. Drizzle, drip-drip...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 140; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "When I Gaze at Someone Else's Grave..." and gives it a distinctly expressive graphic form in the autograph.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 142; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "In memory of Chaladideli" (I remember the first time in school...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 143; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem called "Cross" and gives it the graphical form of a cross (X) in the manuscript.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 144; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes an untitled poem ("Oh, friends, you do not know how much I wish to fight...") and gives it the form of a sharp graphical image.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 152. List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Your beauty and grace".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 158; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 33-34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Melody" ("Oh, I beg you if you still respect...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №174, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34 and 280, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The original title "Homeland" is crossed out, along with the opening line "Oh, Dying Soul, You Will Never Understand..."..

1910

Until September 5

He begins writing a poem titled "At Midnight" ("He will wait for me...") but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №174, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34 and 280, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the autograph, the original titles "Poetry" and "Sorrow" are crossed out.

Dating: On the reverse side of the page, there is a poem written before September 5, 1910.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "The Poet and Sorrow" ("The face of the prophet shines...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №392, p. 1-2; GTDA, №393, p. 1-3; GTDA, №970, p. 159-162; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the autograph, the initial title of the poem was "My Dream".

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Demon" ("At midnight, on the laps of the sky...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 163; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "Oh, why do I love this full night...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 168; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem "My Madonna".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 119; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 49; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Romance” (In the black-dark twilight of many days).

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “It’s a Secret” (“The moon is pale, the stars are twinkling...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №931, p. 1-2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “The Secrets of the Night”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Winter Evening” (“The soul is weary of monotony...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №209, p. 1, GTDA, №132; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: In one autograph, the original title is crossed out and replaced with “Spring”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a one-stanza poem dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili titled “Do Not Sing” (“Do not sing the melodies, the one melody that...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №8, p. 1, GTDA, №733, p. 2; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 34; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: Ioseb Grishashvili is represented with the initials ‘I.G.’ in the autograph. Alternative titles for the poem include “Thought”, “Romance”, and “The Roar of the Rotational Machine”.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Only you” (From a diary).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Evening” (“In the evening, the sun sets...”).

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He wrote the poem “To the Tormented and Troubled, Where Will You Lead...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №894, p. 1; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Crazy”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes an untitled poem “To the heaven, reserved, I do not ask for help...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №970, p. 138; Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

He writes a poem “Eyes”.

Source: Record, GTDA, №196, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

1910

Until September 5

In the notebook titled “My Poems (Published and Unpublished)”, he lists the titles of 211 poems: “The Skylark Soared Towards the Sky”, an excerpt from Ibsen’s “Brand”, “To the Night’s Longing” (melody), “Hymn” (Hey, sky, sky!), “I Write... Thought and Sorrow...”, “Oh, if the delicate soul in heaven is not granted relief...”, “Suicides’ Flower”, “Evil Genius” (from Lamartine), “Evening” (“The Disco Turning Westward...”), “A Georgian Woman” (poem), “The Sailor’s Song” (“The Boat drifts... We Have Abandoned...”), “Oh, Storm... In the Spring...”, “Evil Spirit”, “We Longed for the Sun”, “To Whomever Life’s Injustice...”, “Autumn” (Dedicated to ...), “The Sky Has Been Filled with Stars”, “Your Existence Mimics the Spring Sun” (melody), “Melody” (“The Gentle Breeze Plays...”), “At Midnight” (“I Called Out to the Lost Muse...”), “From Heine” (“Let Us Flee, Beloved...”), “From Heine” (“Sent from the Sky in Wrath...”), “The Pine Tree at Their Grave...” (from Heine), “From Heine” (The Prisoner’s Song), “Nestle Close Your Cheek to Mine” (from Heine), “From Heine” (“On the Pinnacle of the Southern Mountains...”), “From Heine” (“I Dreamt of the Emperor’s Wife...”), “From Heine” (“Alone and Orphaned, Far in the Field and Village...”),

“He Strummed the Strings and the Melancholic Tones”, “To Elene” (“The pine awaits the grave of the heartbreaker...”), “Oh, How Enchanting, Sweet, and Gentle”, “Oh, Colour... I Love Your Captivating...”, “Farewell”, “On the Grave” (“Grave, Orphaned and Abandoned...”), “Is It the Shadow Cast on the Sun...” (Melody), “Above Me the Sky Rejoiced” (Melody), “Weary, Enfeebled, Turned into a Shadow...” (Melody), “O, Let the Burning Sorrow and Grief Spread Their Wings as Fate Decrees...”, “Darling, Come Closer, Do You Not Remember Me?”, “Do Not Show Me a Cheerful Face Anymore...”, “Dawn” (“Look, it cooled down on the dome of the sky...”), “Three Voices” (1. “I Have seen at the grave...”, “The Melody is Heard...”, “Today at the Graveyard...”), “Napoleon” (“Silence Cannot Be Broken Up...”), “To an Actress” (“The Curtain Has Raised... Silence Has Fallen...”), “Napoleon” (“I Am Immortal...”), “I Was Looking Forward to the Bright Ray of Dawn in Vain”, “We Have Buried” (“It’s a Quiet Night. The Breeze is Slow...”), “In the Album, to Shutu” (“Ah, I Too Wish That at This Time...”), “To an Actress” (“When Captured by Thoughts...”), “To the Memory of the Demon” (Read the Demon’s Passing...), “Sorrow”, “A Dream” (“I Will Fly to a Foreign Country...”), “Sigh” (“A Crowd Ignorant Towards My Song...”), “Hey, Gondolier...”, “To Whom I Swore My Love...”, “The String Has Quivered, The Lyre Has Trembled...”, (The Writer’s Grave), “Why Has the East Lit Up?”, “A Song” (“You, far from me, question my troubled soul...”), “May Night” (“How Enchanting the Night Is...”), “I Am Looking For ... In The Struggle”, “Oh, Storm, Do Not Have Pity on Me”, “A Poet’s Will” (To the Memory of a Demon), “Is Spring Coming?!” (“My Dear, I Do Not Wish...”), “To I. Evdoshvili” (“Passenger, Do Not Think of Misfortune”), “A Song” (Opened at the edge of the Abyss), “In the Album” (“Oh, Friend, The Whole Sea is Murmuring in Your Album...”), “A Ship” (The Poor Ship Suddenly Crashed into a Rock), “Have You Seen the Sky with Black Clouds?”, “Lullaby...” (Sleep my Child Without Worry), “Spring Flowers” (“Adorned with a Thousand Colours...”), “A Rose Will Open for...”, “Poetry” (I Will Not Put Up With Moaning), “New Year’s Thought” (Again All Alone), “To Life” (“Oh, Let the Dark Sorrowful Grief...”), “A Georgian Melody” (“Do Not Wander in the Depths of the Forest at Night”), “Muse” (At Night, a Muse...), “Why?” (Sad and Sullen), “I Remember Standing in Awe”, “Grave” (A Gentle Butterfly Hovers Above Me), “A Poet Is Dashing In The Vortex Of Freedom Forever Free”, “To Nino”, “A Song” (The Sky Is Covered with Clouds, the Wind Blows from the North), “The Mountain and The Cloud” (Fable), “The Midnight is Shining” (Freedom), “I Wish to Start Life Anew!”..., “Kolkhida” (Where the Mountains Stand Guard), “He Strummed the Strings and the Melancholic Tones”, “In Solitude” (I searched, I once came close), “Hyacinth” (In Trace Under the Bush), “I was Looking for Your Caress in Vain”, “Autumn Evening” (“I Am Sitting by the Window, Sky Flowers...”), “I Am at Your Resting Place, Peaceful and Silent”, “To a Friend” (I Know, I Know What You Are Thinking About and What You are Looking For), “Do Not Tell Me He Is Dead”, “I Wish” (When the Dream Towards the Future), “A Blue Bird”, “Song” (The twilight of night disappears as a ghost), “To the Poet” (To the voice of your strings), “Patriot!” (Patriot, the homeland has long been in distress...), “For a long time I have become acquainted with the face of death”, “Life and Death” (I remember on the path), “Autumn Storm Roams, Buzzing”, “Let the bitter and dark life fade away, this is my desire”, “It does not bring you, joy my soul”, “Who I swore to love”, “The bright belongs to the day, while sadness – to the night”, “Behold, this heart, behold, the life”, “We have buried” (A delicate flower at the lonely grave), “A cloud” (“Oh, do not block the rays of the sun...”), “A man from haute monde”, ”My soul is worried... of the dark haze...”, ”On the flower’s heart, dew trembles”, ”Sun, when your ray touches my heart”, ”I love when the area is adorned with flowers”, ”The minstrel and the poppy”, ”Lilac”, ”Tell me”, ”Night thoughts” (The moon shines, with captivating melodies), ”Atomic team, cheerful... barely touches the sky”, ”The ignorant crowd, the uncomprehending [shivers] with its head”, ”Reveal yourself!”, ”Improvisation”, ”Poppy” (Tell me the dew in spring), ”Dew” (Dew Quivers on the Flower’s Heart...), ”Downpour” (When the sun reaches the peak), ”An Eagle and Love”, ”A Poet” (”He is the lyre that...”), ”From the barren” (The exhausted village is sleeping deeply), ”A Biblical Tune” (I was rich, I was a coach), ”A Violet” (”It was looking forward to the ray of the sun, acting up, and shimmering”), ”Flowers” (I was twisting flowers into a wreath), ”Easter Epigrams”, ”I was writing quietly, with heavenly wings...”, ”I Swear By The Gods Of The Sky, There Is No...”, ”Lament” (”Where eternal time and the shimmering of the sea”), ”In the Album” (The beauty of moments gradually fades), ”Language” (I listened to nature’s mysterious whispers), ”The Bell Rang... They Are Bringing the Body “, ”Excerpt” (From K. Tetmajer), ”I am waiting for the dawn; I am waiting for the sunrays”, ”I asked for one kiss”, ”Apparition”, ”I long for your gentle smile”, ”When the expanse of the sky is unfolding”, ”Love” (Fantasy), ”About poet’s words”, ”To a friend” (That sadness again, that sighing again), ”Romances” (”Tender moon is floating calmly”), ”For her I love”, ”Amour” (”Beautiful virgin”), ”Statue”, ”Praise of Praise”, ”To a Poet” (And if still the depth of the soul), ”The Clock” (Satire), ”Rhymes”, ”Keep quiet, you traitors!”, ”Darkness covers the scattered village”, ”Fantasy” (Sweet dream and bliss), ”I do not grieve, my beauty”, ”To the heaven, reserved, I do not ask for help”, ”Spring Motifs”, ”Storm”, ”When I gaze at someone else’s grave”, ”To the memory of Chaladideli”, ”Cross”, ”Evening”, ”Oh, friends, you do not know how much I wish to fight”, ”Your beauty and grace”, ”Oh, I beg you, if you still respect”, ”The Poet and Sorrow”, ”Kolkhida” (”The stream from the slope of the mountain...”), ”Flown in Memories”, ”Demon” (At midnight, on the laps of the sky), ”Oh, why do I love this full night”, ”To a New Wave”, ”It is spring... It is May” (The passionate strings shimmer), ”My Madonna”, ”Romance” (In the black-dark twilight of many days), ”The Secrets of the Night”, ”Winter Evening”, ”Nocturnal Butterfly”, ”Do not sing”, ”May Night” (”The wind does not stir...”), ”Mukhammas”, ”A Crown”, ”A Thick Cloud”, ”The moon is shining”, ”Like a swan”, ”When the nightingale at dawn”, ”Romance”, ”Night”, ”Breeze”, ”Mortal”, ”Thinking”, ”A rosebud”, ”Waiting for Spring”, ”At the Cemetery”, ”Grief”, ”Poetry”, ”From the Actor’s Diary”, ”Only Nature”, ”Demon”, ”Walls”, ”Only You” (From the diary), ”It is Spring”, ”Evening” (Idyll), ”In the West the day has Passed”, ”To the Tormented and Troubled, Where Will You Lead”, ”Crazy”, ”Eyes”.

Source: List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 37-49; For dating: M. Ninidze, ”Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 452-453.

Note: The title ”Autumn” probably refers to the poem dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili, ”I am tired... the soul longs for a dreamlike rest...”.

1910

September 5

The poem “Spring Night” (“A playful breeze with delight...”) is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №35, September 5, p. 9.

1910

September 15

He edits the poem “Satan”, titles it “The Old Tower”, and dedicates it to the memory of Meliton Chogovadze. The main characters are: Ioveli, the owner of the old tower, his son Yoram, and his daughter Zuleima.

Source: GTDA, №336, p. 1-14; GTDA, №424, p. 1-3; GTDA, №614, p. 1-3; GTDA, №634, p. 1-2.

Note: According to one autograph, Ioveli’s daughter is named Lela.

1910

After September 15

He edits the poem “The Old Tower”, crosses out the dedication to Meliton Chogovadze, and in the poem’s text, where the character “Selim” appears, he replaces the name with the word “Poet”.

Source: GTDA, №566, p. 1; GTDA, №140, p. 2-4.

Dating: The changes are made after the text dated September 15, 1910.

1910

September 19

He sends a letter from Tbilisi to his mother in Chkvishi, informing her that exams will begin the next day. He also notifies her that the landlady is requesting 14 roubles for the apartment and asks that the money be sent promptly. He assures her that he will do his best to perform well on the exams.

Source: Letter’s autograph, GTDA, №1238, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 493.

1910

September 19

In the article “Nature in Poetry”, published under the pseudonym “Nari” in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, high praise is given to Galaktion Tabidze’s poems – “Downpour”, “Night”, “Breeze”, “Thought”, and “At the Cemetery” (“We longed for the sun, we groaned...”) – for their artistic portrayal of nature. According to the critic, these poems exhibit a perception of nature reminiscent of Fyodor Tyutchev’s.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №37, September 19, p. 7.

1910

Until September 26

He often visits the area around Bagrati Cathedral, spending hours observing the ruins of the Kutaisi fortress. It is here that He writes a poem “In Kolkhida”, which reflects his spiritual state at that time.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 52. GTDA, №526, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 188; Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №38, September 26, p. 2.

Note: The poem also appears untitled (“To the mountain peaks, to the mountain peaks...”) and with the titles “Lament” and “The Sky Does Not Hear”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1910

September 26

The poem “In Kolkhida” is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1910, №38, September 26, p. 2.

1910

September 27

He lives in Kutaisi, in the apartment of Pavle Saghirishvili on Meskheta Street, and receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili sent from Tkibuli. He learns that the sender would be thrilled to be by his side during the exams but is so occupied that it is impossible. He earnestly requests to write a reply letter and to send the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: GTDA, №843, p. 1-2.

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Kutaisi post office.

October

1910

October 22

The Chief School Supervisor, Tedo Zhordania, approves Galaktion Tabidze’s application and appoints him as a teacher at the primary school in the village of Partskhnali, located in the Kharagauli district. He takes up residence in the home of Ladime Kharadze and teaches Georgian language and arithmetic to second graders. After lessons, he provides additional tutoring to the students in the schoolyard and reads them children’s books.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №148, p. 2; Statement, GTDA, №567, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 1996, p. 388; E. Mitatishvili, “Galaktion’s Lime-Tree”, newspaper Tsignis Samkaro, 1973, October 24, №20, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 626.

1910

After October 22

While working as a teacher in the village of Partskhnali, he takes great care of his students, sometimes even purchasing books and other educational materials for them at his own expense. For instance, he gifts Polina Birkadze a copy of “The Door to Nature” by Iakob Gogebashvili. During lessons, he uses visual aids, teaches artistic reading of texts, and encourages students to draw and sculpt with clay and local soil. Even during breaks, he stays with the students, watching them play and taking them on excursions, often to Mount Sabaduri. He shows particular care for a linden tree planted by the students in the schoolyard, which is affectionately known as “Galaktion’s Linden” because of his attention to it.

Source: A. Gorgadze, Galaktion - Teacher, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 58-59.

Dating: We date it according to the time of his appointment as a teacher in Partskhana.

1910

After October 22

He is very upset that the new newspapers in Partskhani are inaccessible to him. Therefore, he writes a letter to the Russian newspaper Kutaiskiy Listok. He informs them that he works as a teacher in Kharagauli and, if the newspaper issues are sent to him for free, he is ready to provide correspondence. He writes that he already has such an arrangement with the editorial offices of the newspapers Zakavkazie and Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №356, p. 3.

Dating: We date it according to the time of his appointment as a teacher in Partskhani.

1910

After October 22

On a day off, he makes a special trip from the village of Partskhnali to the Kharagauli station to meet an acquaintance arriving from Tbilisi and to hear local news. When the train stops and no one disembarks, suddenly one of the windows opens, and he sees Akaki Tsereteli sitting in the carriage. Galaktion cannot take his eyes off him in admiration.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 231, 232.

Dating: We date it according to the time of his appointment as a teacher in Partskhana.

1910

After October 22

He writes a poem titled “Prayer” (“On the mountain of Kakhori, ruins appear...”).

Source: Autograph, №199, p. 4, №125, p. 2.

Note: In one autograph, the poem is titled “Tamar’s Fortress” (Legend) and begins with the words: “On the Mount of Kakhori, It Still Stands...”.

1910

Until October 27

He writes an untitled poem beginning with “The land appears distant, agitated...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №155, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 453.

1910

Until October 27

He writes a poem titled “The Flower of Passion” (“I stood under the overgrown bush...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №155, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 453.

1910

Until October 27

He writes an innovative poem in form titled “In the Forest” (“Zephyr’s Leaves...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №155, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 80; For dating: newspaper Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1910, №142, October 27, p. 2.

Dating: The newspaper in which the poem was first published was released on October 27, 1910.

1910

October 27

The poem “In the Forest” is published in the newspaper “People’s Newspaper”.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1910, № 142, p. 2.

November

1910

Until November 6

He comes down from Chkvishi to Kutaisi to fulfil his mother’s request and find a teaching position.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 183.

1910

Until November 6

In the evening, he walks from his rented house on the outskirts of the city towards the theatre. He encounters an unfamiliar lady who observes him and remarks in Russian, “Ah... the poet”. Galaktion is very pleased by the stranger’s reference to him as a poet.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 184.

Dating: The entry regarding this fact is dated November 6.

1910

November 12

The poem “Autumn” (“To the fallen leaves, delicate flowers...”) is published in the newspaper Sakhalkho Gazeti.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1910, №156, p. 2.

1910

November 15

He takes his teaching certification exams.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 184.

December

1910

After December 3

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. The sender expresses joy at his appointment as a teacher and advises him not to get accustomed to drinking wine.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 108.

Dating: The letter is dated December 3.

1910

After December 15

In the village of Partskhnali, he receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, sent from Tbilisi. The sender reproaches him for not informing him of recent events and asks how he has settled into his teaching position. He inquires if he has read the December 12 newspaper, which featured an article about their cousin, Titsian Tabidze. He writes that the poem by Ioseb Grishashvili published there resembled the ending of his own poem: “I long for sorrow...”. He advises him to avoid drinking to prevent any regrettable consequences.

Source: GTDA, №1270, p. 1-2.

Note: The letter mentions the Kviris Gazeti. The Sunday before December 15 was December 12. Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Morning”, written in 1910, ends with the lines: “I long to relieve you from the sorrow!”

1910

December 24

During the Christmas holidays, he sends his pupils on holiday at the Partskhnali school and goes to Kutaisi.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1517, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 546.

1910

December 24-25

In Kutaisi, he buys a coat and a hat, meets his cousin Titsian, and they both travel to Chkvishi together.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1517, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 546.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem titled “Daughter of Iairozi”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №146, p. 1-10; №777, p. 1-2; GTDA, №955, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “Why Did You Wake Me?”.

September-December

He writes a poem titled “To Miss Olga” (“I don’t know you, but I still wish from afar...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №178, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write an untitled poem (“It is night, and darkness has spread its wings...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №146, p. 11; GTDA, №51, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: An alternative opening is “It Is Night... Darkness Envelops the Land...”.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a play titled “Flowers in the Room” (“The playful stream washes away the young flower’s tears...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №189, p. 1-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the play was “New Year’s Eve”, “A Fantastic Sketch”, “New Year’s Fantasy”, and “New Year’s Dream”.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem “The Fountain” (“Tell me why you wonder, that feeling...”). The characters are Shadrevana, Atabegi, the Student, Vasili, and Petre.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №189, p. 6-15, 17-18; GTDA, №425, p. 1-22; №449, p. 1-2; GTDA, №531, p. 1-2; GTDA, №633, p. 1-2; GTDA, №495, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In some manuscripts, the poem is titled “The Fountain” or “New Year’s Dream”.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “Someday” (“Today, I Have Put a Flower Into a Book...”), which is dedicated to Raisa.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №189, p. 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “Delight” (“A raindrop strikes my heart...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №189, p. 18; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “Angel of Silence” (“The delicate barren to the moon’s rays...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №365, p. 1; GTDA, №503, p. 2-3; GTDA, №531, p. 1-2; GTDA, №1116, p. 1-2; GTDA, №551, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the original title options for the poem were “Eliko”, “Satan”, “Orpheus”, “Autumn Fog”, “The Suicide”, “Legend”, and “Lullaby”. The characters include: the Poet, Nina, Immortality, Muse, Crowd, Demon, the Poet’s Friend Sulisi, Elpha, Nymphs, Apollo, Zephyr, and Sorrow.

1910

September-December

He begins to write an untitled poem (“Oh, reader, lend me your ear...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №380, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes down quotes from various authors about the nature of women. Among those quoted are Petr Nevezhin, Pavel Zasodimsky, Nadezhda Lukhmanova, and Olga Shapir.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №380, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem “Music” (“Through the window, the moon’s heart-chest can be seen...”), which he precedes with an epigraph from a poem by his friend “Demon” (Kuchi Kavtaradze): “Sweet music does not soothe me / It disturbs me more, it torments me...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №414, p. 1; Autographs: MGL, №8702; №8766; List of poems, №198, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 55; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autographs, the poem is signed in three different ways: G. Tabidze, Accordi, and Samshapatela.

1910

September-December

He begins writing an untitled poem dedicated to XXX in Russian but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №425, p. 23; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The poem begins with the words: “Как вольная птица в лазурной...”.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “To R” (“Drawn with sincere feeling”) but then crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №425, p. 23; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the poem was initially dedicated to “K. Abashis-Pireli” – Konstantine Gamsakhurdia.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem “The Prophet” (“I wander as an orphan... I wander alone...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №460, For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem in Russian titled “Дума” (“Спала девица у колодца...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №460, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes the name “Eliko” and next to it he writes “Elene Dgebuadze” several times in Russian. writes “Elena Dgebuadze”. He also writes the pseudonym of Tchola Lomtadze in Russian - “Spiridon Mtsirishvili”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №460, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a short story titled “Nadiko” (“It is a cold autumn day...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №468, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “Prostitute” (“It is autumn... The fierce wind...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №468, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem “Glory” (“The glory of the country seeks glory...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №468, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “Homeland”.

1910

September-December

He begins to write an untitled poem (“Illuminated In The Embers...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №503, p. 9; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes an outline for a dramatic work titled “Immortality”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №503, p. 12-14; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem titled “Memory” (“The ether of the sky, yearning for the sky, lying on the steep rock...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №564, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem titled “Memories” (“There was a time when you showed me the sky with a smile...”).

Note: Autograph, GTDA, №564, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “The Essence of Life”, which he dedicates to Ioseb Grishashvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №564, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the original title options for the poem were “Epitaph”, “Reminiscences”, “Pure Memory”, and “The Poet’s Tragedy-Comedy”.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a three-act drama titled “The Wandering Destitute Pilgrim Was Passing By...”. The characters are: Iorami and his father, Toma; the married couple, Nino and Irakli; and their daughter, Tamro.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №633, p. 3; GTDA, №189, p. 7; GTDA, №351, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The characters are: Ioram, Tomas, Keto, Irakli, and Olga.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “A Song” (“The blue mist detached from the blue sky...”), which he dedicates to Noe Zhordania but soon erases it and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №725, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, one of the title options for the poem is “The Song of the Letter Arranger”.

1910

September-December

Under the pseudonym Accordi and with the note “in the album”, he writes a poem titled “Loneliness” (“Thought is like a light...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №725, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “Mist” (“The blue mist of the blue mountains...”), which he dedicates to Giorgi Kutchishvili but soon abandons.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №725, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem titled “Before the New Road” (“The breeze with its wing...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №725, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

Under the pseudonym “Accordi”, he writes a poem titled “The Torments of Creation” (“In sorrow, I will create a face...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №725, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins to write a poem titled “The Worker’s Song” (“The blue sea’s blue mist of the sky...”) but soon abandons it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №725, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “The Song of the Quarry Worker”.

1910

September-December

He writes an untitled poem (“Joyful and desired torment has closed the doors of fate for me...”).
Source: Autograph, GTDA, №895, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He begins writing a poem titled “I Wonder When the Sun Will Rest” (“Everyone dies, everyone disappears...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №911, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes a poem “A Night Bird” (“In the night space, I pleaded for my beloved’s affection...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1181, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes an untitled poem (“It is a cozy night... The fierce cloud...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1181, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

Under the pseudonym “Tear”, he writes a poem titled “Cupid” (“Until you love – you are merely a longing...”), but he stops writing and crosses out the draft.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1181, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

September-December

He writes an untitled poem (“The moon wears the light of love gracefully...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1201, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

December

He writes New Year's epigrams addressed to: Akaki Tsereteli, Vazha-Pshavela, Domenika Eristavi, Irodion Evdoshvili, Varlam Rukhadze, Barbare Khositashvili, Alexandre Abashidze, Meliton Gobechia, Nestor Kalandadze, Dutu Megreli, Ioseb Grishashvili, and Elisabeth Orbeliani.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №866, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the source, Domenika Eristavi is referred to by the pseudonym "Gandegili" ("The Recluse"), Barbare Khositashvili as "Babilina", Nestor Kalandadze as "Eshmaki" ("The Devil"), and Elisabeth Orbeliani as "Sazandari" ("The Sorceress").

1910

December

He writes a humorous hymn titled "The Trash Bin" ("To my sacred poems...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №866, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910

December

He writes a satirical poem titled "The Thoughts of Some" ("I am a superman... There is no one like me...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №866, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1910 or earlier

He writes an analysis of Ivan Krylov's fable "Demyan's Soup".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №311, p. 1-2.

Dating: It is evident from the work that it was written in the seminary.

1910 or earlier

He writes a work in Russian titled "The Moral Qualities of a Teacher", in which he expresses his opinion on how sincerely devout, attentive, strong-willed, and warm a teacher should be, and how they should love their country in order to inspire the same love in their students.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №385, p. 1-2, 386, p. 1-2.

Dating: It is evident from the work that it was written in the seminary.

1910 or earlier

He takes Byron's poetic collection from the library of the Tbilisi Theological Seminary. While reading, he underlines certain parts and makes notes.

Source: Ts. Khetereli, My Dear Heart, My Turbulence, newspaper Komunisti, August 15, 1981, №188, p. 4.

Dating: The fact must have occurred before Galaktion left the seminary.

1910 or earlier

He writes a satirical poem titled “Mascarade” (“Today, Beso is having a grand feast himself...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №474, p. 1-2.

Note: “Ball” is a Russianism, meaning ‘dancing party’ or ‘reception’.

Dating: The fact must have occurred before Galaktion left the seminary, as the reverse side of the page contains a statement addressed to the rector of the seminary.

1909-1910

He writes a poem “To N” (“I have seen the fire, trace-marked...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №204.

1910

He writes a poem titled “Again, Tears... With the Sun’s Ray...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №31, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 140.

1910

He writes a poem titled “If I Could”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 195, 196.

1910

He writes a drama titled “Money”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 170.

1910

During a conversation with a student of the Tbilisi Theological Seminary, the rector, Archimandrite Pimeni, expresses doubt about whether Galaktion will manage to write the paper on time. He says, “You’re not Galaktion Tabidze, able to suddenly find inspiration and write the essay effortlessly, are you?”

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 178, 180; For identification of persons: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 546.

1910

He gets acquainted with Shio Aragvispireli.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, №266, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 151.

1910

Under the title “Collected Words and Phrases”, he writes various thoughts in a notebook and then marks some of them with “lect”. for use in his lecture.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №503, p. 1-11; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 114-116.

1910

He writes a poem titled “Byronic” (“Sorrow gnaws at the heart...”).

Source: GTDA, №31, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 140.

1910

He writes a poem titled “Lermontovian” (“The soul is weary, sorrow forces...”).

Source: GTDA, №31, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 140.

1911

January

1911

January 1

Galaktion is excessively melancholic, and his mother fulfils all his wishes to cheer him up – playing the lute, playing cards with him, and trying to make him a bit happier.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1517, p. 1-4.

1911

After January 6

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili, written before the New Year and sent on January 6.

Source: GTDA, №851, p. 1-5.

Note: The information is provided in a letter sent by Mikheil Botchorishvili from Tkibuli on February 12.

1911

January 10

It snows heavily in Chkvishi. Galaktion can no longer delay his departure but doesn’t have enough money to travel and asks his mother for an additional amount. Makrine Adeishvili manages to gather up to one rouble for him. That is all she has, and Galaktion, feeling disheartened, sets off.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1517, p. 1-4.

1911

After January 10

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of greetings to her son, Abesalom. She informs him that Galaktion arrived in the village with Titsian for Christmas. They had agreed to bring Abesalom for Easter as well. After the Epiphany, he returned. Due to insufficient travel funds, and with his mother unable to provide more, he had to set off despite the severe snow. He and Titsian went together. Although he promised his mother he would update her, he never wrote the letter. Makrine is deeply worried that Galaktion is feeling “downhearted”.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1517, p. 1-4.

1911

Until January 14

He works on a poem with the main character inspired by his beloved, Raisa, the daughter of Rafael Chikhladze, his former Georgian language teacher at the Theological Seminary. At that time, Raisa was a student at the Women’s Seminary in Kutaisi.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 538; N. Chikhladze, Galaktion’s Unknown Lines, magazine Komunisti, 1963, №53, p. 3.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter sent to Raisa Chikhladze on January 14.

1911

January 14

From Partskhnali to Kutaisi, he sends a letter to Raisa Chikhladze. He informs her that he is writing a poem in which one of the characters is named “Raisa”. He apologizes for not being able to visit Kutaisi and deliver on his promise. He also writes that he dedicates the translation of Henrik Ibsen’s play “Brand” to her.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 538.

1911

After January 15

In Partskhnali, he receives a letter from Konstantine Gamsakhurdia. He has heard that Ioseb Grishashvili promised to help Galaktion with the publication of his book, but he views this with scepticism. He writes to Galaktion, asking him to send his publications and assuring him that he will handle the matter with Grishashvili himself. He writes that he recently published the short story “The Flower of Sorrow” in the magazine Tskhovreba da Khelovneba and advises Galaktion to collaborate with this magazine as well. He writes that Galaktion should not worry about his studies, suggesting that he save money and continue them later. He suggests that, if Galaktion also wishes, they travel on foot across all of Georgia together in the summer. He asks him not to be led by his emotions and not to fall into depression. He confides that he has experienced similar feelings and even contemplated ending his life, but in the end, he decided to keep fighting for a little longer. At the end of the letter, he sends a thousand embraces to his friend and asks him to respond with the same sincerity to this heartfelt letter.

Source: K. Gamsakhurdia’s autograph, GTDA, №855, p. 1-2.

1911

Until January 20

Ioseb Grishashvili is interested in Galaktion's news and his address. Since Vasili Gorgadze does not know the address, he asks Titsian and Sergo Kldiashvili for it.

Source: Vasil Gorgadze's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1982, p. 230.

Dating: Vasil Gorgadze's letter dated January 20, 1911, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1911

After January 20

He receives a letter from Vasil Gorgadze. The correspondent informs him that he was impressed with his poem "The Shepherd". He believes that while there is a hint of haste, the depictions of nature are genius. He thinks that the poet is very talented and should definitely read a lot more.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1982, Vasil Gorgadze's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, p. 230.

1911

January 27

David Chkheidze, writing under the pseudonym "D. Dimitrishvili", publishes an article titled "Life and Writing (Young Writers)", in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned among the poets who are only interested in their own "selves" and are indifferent to social issues.

Source: D. Dimishvili, Life and Literature (Young Writers), newspaper Sinatle, 1911, №23, p. 2.

1911 or later

January 27

He writes an untitled poem "The narrow cell of our generation...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №214; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911

Until the end of January

He is fascinated by Christian literature and reflects on both worldly happiness and the immortality of the soul. He is in love with Raisa Chikhladze, whom he considers a "worthy Madonna", but the latter does not reply to his feelings.

Source: Mikheil Botchorishvili's Letter of February 12, GTDA, № 851, p. 1-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 648.

1911

Until the end of January

He sends a letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, in which he shares details about his activities and his unfulfilled love for Raisa Chikhladze. He advises Mikheil to read more Georgian books since Mikheil is trying to write novels.

Source: Mikheil Botchorishvili's Letter of February 12, GTDA, №851, p. 1-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 648.

February

1911

February 9

From Partskhnali, he sends a brief letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He writes that he hasn't read newspapers for three months and feels disconnected from the world. He asks his brother to write to him and promises to send a more detailed letter himself.

Source: GTDA, №819, p. 1-2.

Note: The letter was sent from Batumi. It appears that Galaktion handed it to someone traveling from the village to Batumi. It is unusual that the destination listed is Tbilisi, yet the postal stamps are from Batumi and Kutaisi.

1911

Until February 12

In the newspaper Kolkhida, he publishes a poem titled "Sorrow" ("To the one full of life, in dreams...").

Source: Almanac "Kolkhida", 1911, №1, February, p. 14.

Dating: The publication is mentioned in a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili dated February 12.

1911

After February 12

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili, sent from Tkibuli on February 12. In the letter, Mikheil describes the harsh weather he had to travel through to reach the school where he was assigned. The priest, who was in charge of the school's affairs, either pressured him to buy the previous teacher's residence or to give one-third of his salary to him. When Mikheil refused, the priest demanded 100 roubles to resolve the matter. Mikheil wanted to speak to the people during the next day's church service, but the priest intentionally did not hold the service, so Mikheil returned to Tkibuli empty-handed. He writes that he is very pleased with Galaktion's love story and is himself deeply infatuated with Raisa Chikhladze. He mentions that he would truly enjoy reading Georgian books, but he cannot afford to buy them and is forced to read whatever comes to hand. He also writes that he was very pleased with the publication of Galaktion's poem "Sorrow" in the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: GTDA, №851, p. 1-5.

Note: The letter mentions the poem "Sorrow" ("To the one full of life, in dreams...") published in the newspaper Kolkhida.

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Tkibuli post office.

1911

After February 14

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, dated February 14. In the letter, Abesalom reproaches him for not updating their mother about his affairs. He asks for details about what he is working on, what he is reading, and whether he is keeping a diary. Abesalom mentions an article by Davit Chkheidze, which contained unjust accusations against Galaktion and Titsian. He suggests organizing a public reading of his and Titsian's poems. He advises him to continue writing poetry and working towards his ideals and also recommends visiting their mother in the village during the holidays.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 109-114.

Note: The reference is to the letter titled "Life and Writing (Young Writers)" published by David Chkheidze under the pseudonym "D. Dimishvili" in the newspaper Sinatle, 1911, №23, p. 2.

1911

After February 16

He receives a letter sent by Abesalom Tabidze on February 16th. The sender is interested in whether he has adjusted to his new job. He advises that if there are no age restrictions, he should take the exam to enter the sixth grade at the gymnasium. He asks him to seek advice on this matter from Silovan Khundadze.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 114-115.

1911

February 17

In his article "Signs of a New Direction in Georgian Literary Art", Giorgi Tchumburidze mentions Galaktion Tabidze among the poets whose work exhibits elements of symbolism.

Source: G. Tchumburidze, "Signs of a New Direction in Georgian Literary Writing", newspaper Khalkhi, 1911, №9, p. 2.

1911

February 19

Galaktion gives a speech at a gathering held in honour of the 50th anniversary of the emancipation of the peasants.

Source: GTDA, №846, p. 1-5.

Note: This information is in Mikheil Botchorishvili's letter from May 9, 1911, but it does not specify exactly where Galaktion Tabidze gave the speech.

1911

Until February 26

The mother asks Abesalom to tell Galaktion that she is worried about not receiving letters from him, and if she doesn't receive a letter soon, she will go to Partskhnali to find out what's going on.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1229, p. 1-2.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter dated February 26, 1911.

1911

February 26

He sends a letter from Kharagauli to Samtredia to Mikheil Bakhtadze to be forwarded to his mother in Chkvishi. He reassures his mother that he is fine and that there is no need for her to come. He mentions that he had sent a letter earlier but did not receive a response. He promises to let her know if he needs anything and writes that he won't be able to come home before Easter.

Source: Letter's autograph, GTDA, №1229, p. 1-2.

March

1911

After March 2

He receives a letter sent by his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, sent on March 2nd. He expresses disappointment about the lack of communication and informs him that if their mother doesn't receive a letter from him within two or three days, she plans to visit Partskhnali to check on him.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 115-116.

1911

March 7

He receives a letter at the Kharagauli post office sent by Mikheil Botchorishvili from Tkibuli. In the letter, Mikheil talks about his difficult conditions at school. He is enthusiastic about Knut Hamsun's novel Hunger and wonders if Galaktion has read it. He mentions that on February 20th, he attended the 50th anniversary of the abolition of serfdom organized by the People's University in Kutaisi. Raisa Chikhladze was seated next to him, but he didn't like sitting beside her and moved to a different seat. He asks how the work on Galaktion's poem "The Fountain" is going and insists that Galaktion must write him a letter.

Source: GTDA, №844, p. 1-5.

Note: In the source, Raisa Chikhladze is referred to as "your Raisa".

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Kharagauli post office.

1911

After March 7

He receives a reply from Mikheil Botchorishvili, sent from Tkibuli. Mikheil asks him to stop drinking wine, as it brings no good. He is surprised that Galaktion told Raisa Chikhladze that if she does not love him, he will kill himself. He writes that suicide is not acceptable for anyone, as we do not belong only to ourselves. He explains how precious Galaktion is to him personally, how important their friendship is, and that it is no less significant than a woman's love.

Source: GTDA, №847, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 537.

1911

March 23

He sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. He writes that his life is flowing monotonously and boringly, he tries to live like an ordinary person, and he has abandoned his old dreams. He cannot follow the press and does not want to, as he lost his literary career along with Tbilisi. Life in the village seems to have worn him out, and if he has to stay there for another year, it will be the end of him. He yearns to find a job in the city.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №810, p. 1-2.

April

1911

April 8

From Partskhnali, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He apologizes for not being able to collect his salary in Kutaisi, explains that he returned to the village, borrowed money, and is now sending the money from there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №817, p. 1-2.

1911

After April 10

He is invited to a gathering with two gymnasium students, where they get very drunk. On their way back, Galaktion and one of his companions fall into a small river from a footbridge, and the other one helps them out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №811, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 496.

1911

After April 10

From Partskhnali, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tbilisi. He apologizes for not writing letters and explains that he is in a very bad situation. His salary is not even enough for clothes and postage for letters. He has no like-minded people around him and cannot find books to read. He writes that he is deeply pained by the interrupted education and disappointing his mother. He can no longer endure it when his mother asks for money when he visits the village. He informs his brother that although he continues to write, he cannot produce anything valuable without reading books, and none of his work is being published by any editor. He asks him to bring books when he passes his exams and returns to the village, as Galaktion will also be in Chkvishi at that time.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №811, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 496.

1911

April 13

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother and brother. He asks Galaktion not to waste money on wine and cigarettes. He informs them that he has purchased Archil Jorjadze's Book Around the National Problem and also plans to buy Gogebashvili's book, unless Galaktion has already bought it, because it is very good for teachers. He shares news about the change of rector at the theological seminary and tells a story about a teacher of liturgics and homiletics at the seminary, a certain Russian monk named Porfiry, who could not bear that Toma Chikvanaia, whom the brothers knew, read the Six Psalms in Georgian during the liturgy. Porfiry took off his ecclesiastical vestments, stormed out of the church, and fled to Saint Petersburg.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili and Galaktion Tabidze, GTDA, №1576, p. 1, 4-6.

Note: We do not know whether Galaktion was in Chkvishi at that time and whether this letter was received along with his mother's letter. Gogebashvili published three books that year, but it is likely that the letter refers to "The Door of Nature", which was republished that year with new material.

1911

April 18

He receives a letter at the Kharagauli post office from Mikheil Botchorishvili, sent from Tkibuli. His friend informs him that the newspaper Temi is holding a poetry competition on June 1st, in which only authors who have debuted in literature after 1900 can participate. He notes that detailed information about this is published in the Sakhalkho Gazeti and urges him to participate, as who else should win if not Galaktion. He is glad that Galaktion managed to meet Raisa. He asks him to write back about his thoughts on the correspondent's novel and play. Galaktion is his only advisor, and if he thinks that a writer will not emerge from him, it's better for him to timely turn to another line of work.

Source: GTDA, №845, p. 1-5.

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Kharagauli post office.

1911

April 26

In Akaki Papava's article "Our Young Poets and the Impressionistic Method", it is noted that Galaktion Tabidze is influenced by Konstantin Balmont and has an impressionistic style.

Source: A. Papava, "Our Young Poets and the Impressionist Method", Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1911, №287, p. 3.

May

1911

May 3

In Giorgi Tchumburidze's article "Symbolism of Recent Years", Galaktion Tabidze is identified as a follower of contemporary "symbolic-lyrical poetry" alongside Alexandre Shanshiashvili, Alexandre Abashidze, and Ioseb Grishashvili.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1911, №293, p. 2.

1911

May 5

In the continuation of Giorgi Tchumburidze's article "Symbolism of Recent Years", it is noted that the works of Alexandre Abashidze and Galaktion Tabidze are characterized by a rejection of the mundane, an emphasis on dreams, and the idealization of the beautiful soul.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1911, №295, p. 2.

1911

May 6

In the continuation of Giorgi Tchumburidze's article "Symbolism of Recent Years", he highlights characteristics of Galaktion Tabidze's poetry such as melancholy, spiritual orphanhood, and dissatisfaction with the existing reality. The author discusses his romantic-naturalistic and symbolic-psychological elements and writes that the new form of poetry is in conflict with the old one.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1911, №296, p. 3.

1911

Until May 7

He sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. He expresses concern about his small salary and shows a clear sense of hopelessness.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 117, 118.

Dating: The response letter from his brother is dated May 7.

1911

After May 7

He receives a reply from Abesalom Tabidze, dated May 7. His brother encourages him, assuring him that he will not be left without education and that he will take care of his future as soon as he finishes the seminary, possibly even preparing him directly for the maturity certificate. He scolds him for wasting money on drinks. He advises him to participate in the competition announced by the newspaper Temi, which is good for his reputation and offers a monetary prize. He offers to proofread and submit the poem to the newspaper's editorial office if he sends it to him. He also informs him that Giorgi Tchumburidze's article "Symbolism of Recent Years in Georgia" pertains to his work.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi 1997, p. 117, 118.

1911

May 8

From Partskhnali, he sends a letter to Raisa Chikhladze in Chiatura. He writes that he is not feeling at home and is constantly wandering in the mountains. He inquires about when she will be leaving Chiatura.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551.15; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 56.

1911

May 9

He receives a reply from Mikheil Botchorishvili, sent from Tkibuli, at the Kharagauli post office. His friend thanks him for providing detailed news and expresses deep affection, saying he would even climb a gallows with a smile for him. He asks that if he comes to Kutaisi for Easter, he should bring his poem The Fountain for him to read. He writes that a female friend of his knows Raisa Chikhladze, who read her poem dedicated to Galaktion, in which the name “Galaktion” was read acrostically. However, this woman thought Raisa was very cold and possibly incapable of love. He also mentions that the rumours about Raisa’s marriage should not be true, otherwise, he would have heard about it.

Source: GTDA, №846, p. 1-5.

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Kharagauli post office.

1911

After May 23

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili, who recounts how Tedo Zhordania conducted an inspection due to a complaint from the school priest. He had expected more severity, but it turned out that Zhordania was quite favourable. Although he was very reluctant, he was forced to reconcile with the complaining priest and even had to shake his hand. He writes that he continues working on his prose piece “Mtsukhrishvili” and has sent three roubles for the publication of a Book on hypnosis.

Source: GTDA, №853, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 538.

1911

Until May 27

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who informs him that he will arrive in Chkvishi on May 28 or 29 and is interested in knowing when Galaktion will finish tutoring the children. He is surprised that Galaktion has not sent his poem to the newspaper Temi for the competition, which has a deadline of June 1, with the best poems being awarded 50 and 30 roubles.

Source: GTDA, №1278, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 495.

1911

After May 30

He receives a letter dated May 30 from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who informs him that he has arrived from Tbilisi and thought Galaktion would be in Chkvishi. However, he learned from Aprivan Chijavadze that Galaktion would not be released from school until the end of June. He expresses hope that Galaktion will be able to save money by the summer.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 118, 119.

June

1911

Until June 1

He finishes writing a poem titled “Deer and the Woman” and sends it to the poetry competition announced by the newspaper Temi.

Source: Record, GTDA, №38, p. 2; GTDA, №967, p. 2; For dating and clarification of information: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 626.

1911

June 18

He is in Partskhnali and revises the poem “Bequest” (“Oh, don’t bury me...”) written in a forgotten notebook, which he later titles “The Poet’s Crown”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №126, p. 1.

1911

After June 18

He writes an epigram titled “A Thousand Different Rumours...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №126, p. 2.

Dating: The poem is written on the reverse side of the same page that contains a poem dated June 18, 1911.

1911

After June 18

He writes a poem titled “The Fir Tree’s Tale” (“Like the wind cutting through the mist...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №126, p. 2-3.

Dating: The poem is written on the reverse side of the same page that contains a poem dated June 18, 1911.

July

1911

July 1

In the article “Notes on Native Literature (Individualism of Our Time)”, Akaki Papava criticizes Galaktion Tabidze for having lost his connection with nature. He acknowledges that spring is coming, yet his heart remains lonely. To illustrate this, he cites excerpts from the poem “In Anticipation of Spring”. The author of the article sees the reason for the loneliness of young poets in the goals and motivations they set for themselves, which are part of their individualistic world.

Source: A. Papava, “Notes on National Literature (The Individualism of Our Time)”, newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №76, p. 2-3.

1911

July 1

Titsian Tabidze takes two of Galaktion’s poems to the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida in Kutaisi. Silovan Khundadze agrees to their publication but makes revisions to the poems.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, A Soul Purer than the Azure, Titsian Tabidze’s Letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190.

Dating: In a letter dated July 2, Titsian Tabidze writes that this happened “yesterday”.

1911

After July 2

He draws a friendly caricature. On it, Silovan Khundadze’s head, due to his baldness, looks exactly like the moon, which he gazes at with the words: “The moon reminds me of something, but what?” On the other half of the page, he depicts a lady and a clergyman sitting closely together on a long bench, with the clergyman’s hand draped around the lady. Underneath, it is inscribed in Russian: “Love all ages yield surrender”.

Source: Sketch, GTDA, №200, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 333-334.

1911

After July 2

He receives a letter from Titsian Tabidze, dated July 2, sent from Kutaisi. Titsian informs him that the editorial office of Kolkhida has agreed to publish both of his poems, but Silovan Khundadze made some corrections. He advises him not to criticize the corrections, as Silovan does not print anything without them. He offers to have more poems sent for publication and asks him to check out his own newspapers as well.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, A Soul Purer than the Azure, Titsian Tabidze’s Letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190.

1911

Until July 13

He writes an untitled poem, “It Is Midnight... In the Blessed Heart of the Sea...”.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №86, July 13, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 50; For dating: newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, July 13, №86, p. 3.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1911

July 13

His untitled poem “It Is Midnight... In the Blessed Heart of the Sea...” is published in the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №86, p. 3.

August

1911

August or earlier

He writes a poem “Tell Me, Nana” (“Soon, soon. A secret colour will shine upon the sky’s canvas...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №567, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 626.

1911

August or earlier

He writes a poem titled “Lines” (“Soon the autumn’s mournful wind will blow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №567, p. 1.

1911

Until August 7

Ioseb Grishashvili meets Vasili Gorgadze and discusses Galaktion. He inquires whether Galaktion has many poems, and upon receiving an affirmative answer, he offers to help with their publication. He expresses concern that the intellectual community does not give Galaktion’s talent the attention it deserves and asks Vasili to tell the poet that when he comes to Tbilisi, he should come to stay with him for the night.

Source: Vasil Gorgadze’s letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 231.

Dating: The fact is described in a letter dated August 7, 1911.

1911

After August 7

He receives a letter from Vasili Gorgadze, sent on August 7, detailing his meeting with Ioseb Grishashvili, Grishashvili’s opinion about Galaktion, and his willingness to help.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 231.

1911

After August 7

While in the town of Samtredia buying newspapers, Galaktion unexpectedly encounters Ioseb Grishashvili at the station, who had just held a literary evening there. They wait for the train’s arrival in the first-class buffet. Grishashvili requests tea. Galaktion observes that Grishashvili has become more arrogant since gaining popularity. After the second call for the train, Grishashvili rises with great pomp and exits the tearoom. Galaktion assumes that Grishashvili will board at least the second-class carriage, but Grishashvili goes to the freight car. Despite the good earnings from the evening’s event, he saves money by traveling in the freight car, avoiding wine, and not socializing with acquaintances. The only expense he does not regret is for inexpensive books. Galaktion notes in his diary that this is Grishashvili’s “passion”.

Source: MGL, d-244, p. 22-25; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 546.

Dating: The events are dated according to the content of Vasili Gorgadze’s letter from August 7, 1911.

1911

Until August 9

He dedicates the poem “To the Nun” to his first love, Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №8749; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 142; For dating: newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №107, p. 3.

Note: The poem is also found untitled as “Oh, How Sweetly the Night Sleeps, Silent and Pale...” or “Among the Fields It Echoes...”, and with titles such as “We Are Alone” or “To the Nun”, with the dedication marked as R.S. or ...S.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1911

August 9

In the newspaper Kolkhida, the untitled poem “Oh, How Sweetly the Night Sleeps, Silent and Pale...” is published.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №107, p. 3.

1911

After August 12

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili, sent from Kutaisi. The letter informs him that an application for a teaching position was submitted under both Galaktion’s and his own name, but there is no promise of success as they have already provided a position once. Botchorishvili is frustrated with this response, as the assigned location does not provide housing. He writes that if he could build a house, he wouldn’t need a teaching position. He informs that meetings will begin from the 15th, during which their employment issues will be decided. He advises Galaktion to come to Kutaisi to speak with the council members to ensure they do not end up without a position. He notes that he did not like the poem published in Kolkhida and suspects it was altered by the editorial office. He asks Galaktion to bring with him the manuscripts he requested to be edited when he arrives in Kutaisi. He also reminds Galaktion of the books he promised for the library. He sends regards from his cousin Titsian.

Source: GTDA, № 850, p. 1-2.

Note: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Kutaisi post office.

1911

After August 14

He begins collaborating with the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №148, p. 2.

Dating: In the autobiography, it is stated that he “took refuge” with the editorial office of this magazine, which was published from August 14, 1911 to November 30, 1911.

1911

Until August 17

He draws his own portrait with a pen on a piece of paper. He has a folder under his arm with the words “File №16” and his surname written in Russian. Nearby, he has written the phrases: “Don’t bow your head” and “Suppress your thoughts”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №165, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 629.

1911

August 17

Inspired by the vision of the fervently praying beautiful nun Mariam, he writes a poem “With the Lyre of Hamlet” in the village of Khreiti and dedicates it to her.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 8; GTDA, №165, p. 1; List of poems, №198, p. 2; Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion’s Creative Laboratory”, Tbilisi, 1993, p. 34.

Note: In the early manuscript, the initial title was “In the Monastery”. In the second manuscript, below the title, it reads “Dedicated to the Nun R”, with “R” later changed to “xx”. The old title was then crossed out, and “With the Lyre of Hamlet” was written instead.

1911

Until August 18

He arrives in Kutaisi and settles in Konstantine Museridze’s house at 37 Balakhvani Street.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 540;

Dating: The letter from Ioseb Grishashvili, dated August 18, 1911, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1911

Until August 18

He announces the collection of signatures for the Book of poems.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 540;

Dating: In the letter sent to Ioseb Grishashvili on August 18, he mentions that he announced the collection of signatures for his own book.

1911

Until August 18

While walking in Kutaisi Boulevard, the poet Akaki Margiani introduces Galaktion to Sergo Gersamia, the editor and publisher of humorous magazines.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1911

August 18

He writes a letter to Ioseb Grishashvili from Kutaisi. He informs him that, following his advice, he has decided to publish his own writings and is collecting signatures in Kutaisi for this purpose. He asks Grishashvili to speak with Mikheil Gachéchiladze about the paper and printing issues to keep the cost low. He intends for the Book to be small and sold for 10 kopecks. He provides his address and notes that he will await his reply in Kutaisi.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 540.

1911

After August 18

With young Kutaisians – Akaki Margiani, Sergo Gersamia, Prokofi Gujabidze, Archil Paradashvili, and Giorgi Bregadze – Galaktion regularly visits the Kutaisi Library-Reading Room and also attends lectures at the Kutaisi People’s University. He often spends time with the older generation writer Ia Ekaladze-Tsintsadze. The young people familiarize themselves with both local and Russian magazines and newspapers, keep track of the country’s political life, and discuss current events. Discussions often take on a pessimistic tone, and the friends try to alleviate their concerns with cigarettes and wine.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1911

After August 18

Galaktion maintains daily interactions with the youth of Kutaisi, among whom a particularly popular song is the students’ song from the play “The Days of Our Life” by the Russian playwright and dramatist Leonid Andreyev. The song begins with the line: “Our life is swift, like a wave”, as this text perfectly aligns with the spiritual mood of the new generation.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. p. 389-406.

1911

After August 18

In Kutaisi Boulevard, Galaktion is present with the young people of Kutaisi, including Akaki Margiani, Sergo Gersamia, and others. He listens to their passionate debates but does not engage in the discussion himself, opting instead to smoke a cigarette or browse through newspapers and magazines. Since this is not an uncommon occurrence, Akaki Margiani takes notice of Galaktion’s behaviour. He tries to determine whether the poet is uninterested in national issues and the future of the country, or what the reason for his silence might be. In response to Margiani’s observation, Galaktion explains that idle talk is ineffective and that, in his view, only discussing matters without action tends to irritate and distress a person who is already burdened. Therefore, he believes it is better to focus on action if possible, or, if not, to avoid pointless chatter altogether.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1911

After August 18

Galaktion is in a state of hopelessness towards everything, influenced not only by the prevailing political situation but also by his personal problems and financial hardships. Although he is always well-dressed despite his poverty, he has almost no money for daily expenses. He does not reveal his struggles to anyone, avoids discussing this issue with his friends, does not ask anyone for loans, and keeps his worries to himself.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. p. 389-406

1911

After August 18

Galaktion is captivated by the poetry of Nikolai Baratashvili and frequently reads the works of Semyon Nadson, known for expressing civil sorrow. His interest in Nadson is partly due to the fact that the contemporary youth are fascinated by the Russian poet's texts, as his poems reflect the moods and sentiments of the period following the 1905 Revolution.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, "Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1911

After August 18

In Kutaisi, near the Chain Bridge, Galaktion walks with a collection of Nikoloz Baratashvili's poetry in hand. Along the way, he encounters friends Archil Paradashvili and Sergo Gersamia. Paradashvili grabs the Book from Galaktion, looks at the author, and laughingly remarks that the young poet is once again reading Baratashvili's verses. Galaktion begins to discuss the book, explaining to his friends the significance of Nikoloz Baratashvili's poetry. He notes that the small-format collection is filled with profound thoughts. He also mentions that Baratashvili's moods and sentiments are close to him and precious. He is disheartened that such a genius as Nikoloz Baratashvili is not known to the world.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, "Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1911

After August 18

He seeks assistance in gathering signatures for his poetry collection from Isidore Kvitsaridze, Sergo Kldiashvili, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Titsian Tabidze, Paolo Iashvili, Sergo Gersamia, Mikheil Botchorishvili, and others, totalling 24 individuals. The proposed title for the collection is "The Torrent of Emotions", and he is also drafting a preface that indicates the periodicals where these texts have been published, noting that the unpublished texts were selected with the help of literary experts.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №382, p. 1.

Dating: On August 18, 1911, he had just begun contemplating the publication of the book, and all of this should have occurred afterward.

1911

Until August 27

He writes a poem "First of September"

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7143-№7149, GTDA, №198, p. 1-2; GTDA, №599, p. 1-2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 52. For dating: newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, August 27, №22.

Note: One of the titles of the poem is “The Village”.

Dating: We date on the information in relation to the first publication published in the newspaper.

1911

August 27

He writes a poem “On the Sea”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 250.

1911

Until August 27

He publishes the poem “First of September” (From the diary)” in the magazine Ganatleba.

Source: Magazine Ganatleba, 1911, №VII (September), p. 419-421; For dating: newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, August 27, №22.

Dating: The issue of the newspaper Kolkhida on August 27 states that this issue of the magazine has already been released.

1911

August 27

He writes a poem titled “On the Sea” (“On the Sea I Sail...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 5.

1911

After August 27

He writes a poem titled “The Dying Night”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 6; GTDA, №150, p. 1.

Note: The original title, “The Foam of Passion”, is crossed out.

Dating: One autograph of the poem is written in the notebook after the poem written on August 27, 1911 – “On the sea”.

1911

After August 27

He writes a poem titled “The Fir Trees” (“The sunlight on the forest of the Jakhori...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 7.

Dating: The autograph of the poem is written in the notebook after the poem “On the Sea”, dated August 27, 1911.

1911

After August

He writes a request to the management of Imereti schools for the payment of the August salary.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №567, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 626.

1911

Summer

Olya Okujava spots a tall, hunched young man in a dark shirt and a faded cap among the teachers in Kutaisi Park. She learns that this is Galaktion Tabidze, a poet who recently resigned from his teaching position at a village school. Olya notices signs of suffering on his face, thinks that he stands out from others, and develops a feeling of sympathy towards him.

Source: Olya Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 352-354; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 6647-648.

1911

Until September

He has a dispute with the school inspector Tedo Zhordania, leading to the closure of the Partskhnali village school, and Galaktion Tabidze is left without a job.

Source: Shkhamadze, "Village Partskhnali", newspaper Mnatobi, 1911, №18, p. 4; Galaktion's record, G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 278.

1911

Until September

He copies various short pieces of information from the newspaper. Among them are reports that the seminary students passed their village teaching exams two days ago, that the one-room school in the village of Chkvishi was converted into a two-room school and is being renovated, and that the school in the village of Partskhnali was closed, where the teacher was "young writer G. Tabidze".

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №266.

Dating: The teaching exams were to be held before September.

1911

Until September

He writes a letter in Russian to the Educational Council of the Imereti Diocese. He explains that he had been working at the Partskhnali school since November 1910, but due to the building's poor condition, the school was closed, and he requests to be transferred to another school with proper facilities.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №316, p. 1.

1911

Until September

He begins writing an untitled poem "Soon, soon the dawn's ray will stir, touching the sky..." but stops right there.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №316, p. 2.

September

1911

After September 5

He writes a prose text titled “The Black Banner”, in which he talks about the attack on the Chairman of the Council of Ministers, Pyotr Stolypin, at the Opera House on September 1, and his death four days later.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №254, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911

After September 5

He writes an untitled poem “In the silence, the carefree zephyr rushes...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №254, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911

September 6

In the newspaper Mnatobi, Polievktos Kalandadze, under the pseudonym “Shkhamadze”, publishes an article titled “The Village of Partskhnali”, which discusses the conflict between hostile clergy and the church’s dean, Kirile Kelenjeridze, regarding the school opened in the churchyard. This conflict led to the school’s closure. The publication notes that the school had a worthy teacher in recent years – young poet Galaktion Tabidze – and now 200 families are left without a school.

Source: Shkhamadze, “Village Partskhnali”, newspaper Mnatobi, 1911, №18, p. 4.

1911

Until September 7

He sends a letter to his brother Abesalom Tabidze in Tbilisi, asking him to find out what opportunities are available for him to continue his studies at a theological seminary or a teacher training institute.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Galaktion Tabidze, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 145.

Dating: The reply letter is dated September 7.

1911

Until September 7

He writes a poem titled “The Shepherd”, dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili.

Source: List of poems, №198, p. 2; Autographs: 1351-1380; 8718; 4788; 3551; 1909, GTDA, №176, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 259.

Dating: The poem is mentioned in Abesalom Tabidze’s letter dated September 7.

1911

After September 7

He receives a letter dated September 7 from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, which informs him that many students have already been admitted to the third and fourth classes of the seminary, and it would be better for him to try to seek a teaching position again. The letter also mentions that the poem “The Shepherd” has not yet been submitted to the editorial office of Temi.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-356; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 145.

Note: The names of the poem and the editorial office are not specified in the source.

1911

September 12 or later

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili sent from Samtredia. The letter informs him that Kotsia is leaving his position, and if he wishes to start working, he should arrive the next day. It also notes that there has not yet been any discussion about the available positions in the council.

Source: GTDA, №849; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 11.

Dating: The letter is dated according to the stamp affixed at the Kutaisi post office.

1911

Until September 13

He addresses a letter to Aristo Tchumbadze, the editor-publisher of the newspaper Kolkhida. He states that he has worked as a teacher but is currently unemployed. He mentions that he is capable of translation, writing, and proofreading, and requests to be considered for a position at the editorial office. He adds that while he is not yet well-known as a literary figure, he will make up for this shortcoming through hard work.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 231.

Dating: This fact should have occurred before starting work at the newspaper Kolkhida.

1911

September 13

He begins working at the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida. He works from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and receives a monthly salary of 20 roubles, of which 5 roubles is paid for rent.

Source: GTDA, №807, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 11.

1911

After September 16

He learns about the tragic death of the Georgian scholar and cleric, Mikheil Tamarashvili, and begins writing a poem titled “The Hero” (“Stop! The hero shouted at the waves...”), but he stops writing after the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №660; For dating and identification of persons: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 330.

1911

September 20 or later

He is in Kutaisi and receives a letter sent by his brother from Tbilisi, dated September 19.

Source: GTDA, №1281.

Note: Only the envelope remains, which bears a stamp affixed in Kutaisi dated September 20.

1911

September 20

He writes a letter from Kutaisi to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. He asks her to send more money, as the previous amount was insufficient, and he is in urgent need. However, if she cannot send any, he asks her not to worry.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7.

1911

After September 20

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, which informs him that Galaktion will not be admitted to the teacher training institute for two years because those who are to be drafted into the army are not accepted. Therefore, he thinks that he should try the seminary again. He asks him to live very frugally, rent a place, and prepare in mathematics, Latin, and German. The letter also mentions that the editorial office of Temi removed the dedication to Ioseb Grishashvili from his poem “The Shepherd” because they did not understand why it was dedicated to him. He advises him to continue looking for a teaching position.

Source: MGL, 24551/352 – 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 146, 147; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 502.

Note: The title of the poem is not specified in the source.

1911

Until September 23

He sends a very pessimistic letter from Kutaisi to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. He writes that he feels hopeless and asks for help.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi 1997, p. 122-124.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent by Abesalom Tabidze dated September 23.

1911

September 23

In the newspaper Kolkhida, he publishes a poem titled “With the Lyre of Hamlet” with the note: “Dedicated to the nun R”.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №142, p. 3.

1911

After September 23

He receives a response letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, dated September 23. The letter advises that there is no reason for despair. He recommends that the recipient eat well, as he is anaemic, and prepare for the third class of the seminary. He also suggests frequently checking for teaching positions so that, if he cannot enter the seminary, he can start working and avoid being drafted into the army. He informs him that his poem “The Shepherd” has been submitted to the editorial office and that he will receive a response in two days. Additionally, he inquires about the progress of his book’s publication.

Source: GTDA, 1277, 1-5.

1911

September 24

The newspaper Kolkhida publishes a notice stating that the previous day’s issue incorrectly printed the beginning of Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “With the Lyre of Hamlet” and offers the correct version to the readers.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №142, p. 3.

1911

September 26

He sends a poem based on a legend along with a letter to an unknown recipient, noting that he wrote the text five years ago. He asks the recipient to read it and share their opinion.

Source: GTDA, №35, p. 2

1911

After September 26

He writes a poem in Russian titled “Elegy”, which he dedicates to Madame M. N.

Source: GTDA, №35, p. 1.

Note: The poem is written on the same page as a letter dated September 26, 1911, and is later than it.

1911

After September 30

In the newspaper Kolkhida, there is a sketch by Giorgi Parkosadze published under the pseudonym Gutsa, titled “Doubt” with the subtitle “As a Tribute to ...s”. This sketch expresses the melancholic mood of a young man rejected by his beloved. Inspired by this note, He writes a poem “Doubt”.

Source: G. Parkosadze, Doubt, newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №148, p. 3; List of poems, №198, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 56.

1911

September or after

He receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. She writes that the inspector, who is responsible for securing him a teaching position, does not like young men who wear long hair. She asks him to cut his hair when he arrives in Kutaisi and not to ruin his chances over such a small detail.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №837, p. 1-2.

Dating: Galaktion was looking for a job at a school after the closure of Partskhnali School.

October

1911

October 1

The newspaper Mnatobi announces that on Wednesday, October 5, a literary evening will be held at the Kutaisi Theatre. Alongside Akaki Tsereteli, young poets will read their own poems, including Alexandre Abasheli, Varlaam Rukhadze, Noe Chkhikvadze, Giorgi Kutchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Mnatobi, 1911, №38, p. 1.

1911

Until October 5

He writes an untitled poem “At midnight, when the surroundings...”.

Source: MGL, a-1378-2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 52. For dating: “Researches”, T. Tvalavadze, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128.

1911

October 5

The newspaper Kolkhida publishes the poem “Music” (“From the window, the chest of moon can be seen...”).

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №152, p. 3.

1911

October 5

The newspaper Mnatobi reports that on the current day, a literary evening will take place at the Kutaisi Theatre. Alongside Akaki Tsereteli, young poets will read their own poems, including Alexandre Abasheli, Noe Chkhikvadze, Varlam Rukhadze, Barnab Gelazania, Giorgi Kutchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Mnatobi, 1911, №41, p. 1.

1911

October 5

A literary evening is being held at the Kutaisi Theatre, where young poets, including Galaktion Tabidze, are reading their own poems alongside Akaki Tsereteli.

Source: AD-ens, “Literary Evening”, Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №154, p. 3.

1911

October 5

At the literary evening held at the Kutaisi Theatre, Akaki Tsereteli is impressed by the melodious recitations of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems and asks if he might be from Racha. The evening’s organizer gives honorariums only to Akaki Tsereteli and his brother-in-law (his sister’s husband), Noe Chkhikvadze. After the event, Galaktion, along with Abasheli and Chkhikvadze, dines together at a restaurant.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 291, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 322.

1911

October 7

The newspaper Kolkhida publishes an article titled "Literary Evening", noting that on October 5, a literary evening took place featuring young poets including Alexandre Abasheli, Varlam Rukhadze, Noe Chkhikvadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others. The author of the article highlights Alexandre Abasheli and Giorgi Kuchishvili as particularly noteworthy among these poets.

Source: AD-ens, "Literary Evening", Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №154, p. 3.

1911

October 7

The letter is sent to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, informing him that he earns 20 roubles as a salary from the editorial office, where he works from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., and that he gives 5 roubles for rent. He inquires whether the newspaper Temi has published the poem "The Sepherd" that he submitted. He also mentions that he will soon publish the poem "Satan" in Kolkhida and notes that the cost of publishing a Book is 200 roubles, and he is unsure where to find the money.

Source: GTDA, №807, p. 1-2.

Note: The source does not specify the title of the poem, but it has been determined through research.

Dating: We date based on the postmark on the envelope from the Kutaisi post office.

1911

October 8

In the Sakhalkho Gazeti, an article under the pseudonym "Attendee" titled "Literary Evening in Kutaisi" mentions that at the event held on October 5, alongside Akaki Tsereteli, young poets including Alexandre Abasheli, Varlam Rukhadze, Noe Chkhikvadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others read their poems. The critic expresses regret that none of the poets are adept at reciting their poems; some rush through their readings, while others insert party-related accents into their poems, thereby detracting from their Georgian character.

Source: Present at occasion, "Literary Evening in Kutaisi", Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1911, №419, p. 3.

1911

October 15

Under the pseudonym 'Galashka', he writes a feuilleton titled "In Georgian Theatre" ("Forgive me, my hearing").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 3.

1911

October 15

Along with the letter, he sends the statement for collecting the signatures and receipts for the publication of his own Book to Sergo Gersamia. He asks to place the statement in the reading room and collect signatures. He informs that the volume of the Book will be 240 pages, and it will be published in two months. He expresses his hope that he will get at least forty signatories and asks him to send the money to the classical gymnasium of Kutaisi in the name of Titsian Tabidze.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 321.

1911

October 16

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, reassuring her that Galaktion is doing well. He explains that Galaktion could not have stayed in the village for long, as the editorial office will support his development, and he will be able to move on to other places afterward. With some irony, he comments on the neighbours, noting that they seem to have calmed down now that Galaktion has left.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1584, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 547.

1911

Until October 20

He writes a poem “In the Narrow Rocks of Dariali”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №61, GTDA, №144, p. 1; List of poems, №198, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 108.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1911

October 20

The poem “In the Narrow Rocks of Dariali” is published in the newspaper Mnatobi.

Source: Newspaper Mnatobi, 1911, №54, p. 2.

1911

Until October 23

He writes a poem “Doubt”.

Source: List of poems, №198, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 56; For dating: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №68, p. 3.

Dating: On October 23, 1911, the poem was already published in the newspaper Kolkhida.

1911

October 23

He publishes the poem “Doubt” with the inscription “As a tribute to Gutsa” dedicated to Giorgi Parkosadze in the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №168, p. 2.

1911

Until October 28

He writes a poem “The Angel of Silence”.

Source: List of poems, №198, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 57;

For dating: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №172, p. 2.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “The Angel of Silence” and “Sleep!..”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1911

October 28

The newspaper Kolkhida publishes the poem “The Angel of Silence”.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1911, №172, p. 2.

1911

October 31

The newspaper Temí begins the publication of the poem “The Shepherd”.

Source: Newspaper Temí, 1911, №43, p. 4.

1911

After October 31

He writes a poem “Silence” (“The breeze does not move...”).

Source: GTDA, №198, p. 5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 668.

1911

After October 31

In the notebook, he records the titles of his poems and poems published in the almanac “Akhali Talgha” and the newspapers Kolkhida, Mnatobi, and Temí. These titles are: “First of September”, “With the Lyre of Hamlet”, “Music”, “In the Narrow Rocks of Dariali”, “Doubt”, “The Angel of Silence”, and “The Shepherd”.

Source: List of poems, №198, p. 2; For dating: newspaper Temí, 1911, №43, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 668.

1911

After October 31

He begins to write a poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze under the title “White Night” (“Oh, be careful, be careful, don’t touch the heart...”), but he stops mid-way.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 668.

Note: He later designates the dedication to his deceased friend, Dimitri (Kuchu) Kavtaradze.

1911

After October 31

He begins writing a poem titled “New Year”, but he stops mid-way.

Source: List of poems, №198, p. 6; For dating: newspaper Temi, 1911, №43, p. 4.

Dating: The title is written in the notebook after the list, which we dated after October 31, 1911.

1911

After October 31

In the notebook, he makes notes in Russian for a lecture titled “A Modern Woman”.

Source: List of poems, №198, p. 3.

Dating: The title is written in the notebook after the list, which we dated after October 31, 1911.

November

1911

November 3

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter from Tbilisi to his mother in Chkvishi. He writes that he receives letters from Galaktion and that he is doing well. He mentions that he has read some information in the newspaper and is interested in the prospects of opening a school in their village. He reassures the villagers not to be worried about Galaktion starting work there.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1588, p. 1-4.

1911

Until November 4

He writes a humorous feuilleton titled “Lecture” about an event held at the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 132; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1911

Until November 4

He begins writing a poem titled “Immortal Sorrow” (“This sorrow will not give rest...”) at the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 132; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the alternative title “Sculpture” is crossed out.

1911

Until November 4

He has a disagreement with the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida, resigns from his position there, and moves to the editorial office of Mnatobi, where the salary is higher and the environment is more favourable for social-democrats.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №809, p. 1-2; Autographic record, GTDA, №682, p. 1.

Dating: The date is mentioned in the letter to his brother dated November 18, 1911.

1911

November 6

On his way from the rented house on the outskirts of Kutaisi to the theatre, he notices a young woman in a red dress (Olya Okujava) with a friend. As they pass by Galaktion, the woman looks him in the eyes and says in Russian, "Oh, the poet". Galaktion feels great pride in such an attitude towards him.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №248, p. 1.

1911

November 13

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of greetings to her son, Abesalom. She writes that Galaktion has a salary of 30 roubles, is doing well, but has not acquired any new clothes. She expresses concern that even if he had a high salary, unless he starts working at a school, this job won't protect him from military service. She informs him that Iustine Mamphoria also wants the teaching position at their village school for his daughter, so Galaktion needs to write his application promptly.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1683, p. 1-8.

1911

After November 14

He receives a letter dated November 14 from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who informs that they are going to add one class to the school in Chkvishi. He advises not to miss this opportunity and to get a position as a teacher. This is very important to save him from being drafted into the army, because his cooperation with the editors will not save him from this, and if he is taken into the army, he will lose the place in the editorial office anyway. He promises that once he's finished his studies, he'll work himself at the school of Chkvishi, and he'll help Galaktion find another job.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1997, p. 124-125.

1911

After November 14

He writes a newspaper note about converting the one-classroom school in the village of Chkvishi into a two-classroom school.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 233.

Dating: He learns from Abesalom Tabidze's letter of November 14 that they are going to convert the Chkvishi school into a two-classroom school.

1911

November 18

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, informing him of his move to the editorial office of Mnatobi. He explains that at Kolkhida, he could not endure the situation because everyone was subject to Silovan Khundadze's authority.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №809, p. 1-2.

1911

November 18 or later

He begins writing a critical article about Silovan Khundadze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №249, p. 1.

Note: Only Silovan Khundadze's first name is mentioned.

Dating: We date it according to the time of disagreement with Silovan Khundadze and his cessation of work at the Kolkhida newspaper.

1911

November 18 or later

Under the pseudonym 'Galashka', he writes a play titled "The Living Corpse". The witnesses are: Silovan Khundadze, 'Sholti', 'Kvirike', Grigol Kipshidze, 'Ulmobeli' (Unforgiving), Imnaishvili, Grigol Gvelesiani, Nino Nakashidze, and Iakob Gogebashvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 1-2.

Note: The original titles "Kutaisi Theatre" and "The Crowd" are crossed out.

Dating: We date it according to the time of disagreement with Silovan Khundadze and his cessation of work at the Kolkhida newspaper.

1911

November 20

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, informing him that he has settled into the editorial office of Kolkhida. He is interested in the status of his poem and asks Abesalom to send a detailed letter to the newspaper's editorial office to provide some reassurance, as he is feeling very pessimistic.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №816, p. 1-2.

1911

November 21

The publication of Galaktion Tabidze's poem "The Shepherd" continues in the newspaper Temi.

Source: Newspaper Temi, 1911, №46, p. 4.

1911

Until November 22

He has a disagreement with the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida and writes to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, about it.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 125-126.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter of November 22 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1911

Until November 22

He makes a note titled "My Laws" and lists the following rules: he should not talk about his poverty with anyone, he should never forget that he is a writer, he should not be too open because it resembles gossip and is shameful, when doing something, he should be fully concentrated on that task, he should not get close to bad acquaintances and should remain indifferent towards them.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №178, p. 4.

Dating: From the note on the last page of the notebook, it is evident that he should still be working at the Kolkhida editorial office, but by November 22, 1911, he had already left.

1911

Until November 22

He writes an untitled poem "The mind wanders around like mist...".

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №178, p. 2.

Dating: From the note on the last page of the notebook, it is evident that he should still have been working at the Kolkhida editorial office, but by November 22, 1911, he had already left.

1911

Until November 22

He writes a poem in Russian "Вдали сверкает Кутаис...".

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №178, p. 3.

Dating: From the note on the last page of the notebook, it is evident that he should still have been working at the Kolkhida editorial office, but by November 22, 1911, he had already left.

1911

Until November 22

He writes an untitled poem "Do not tell me that love fades away...".

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №178, p. 3.

Dating: From the note on the last page of the notebook, it is evident that he should still have been working at the Kolkhida editorial office, but by November 22, 1911, he had already left.

1911

Until November 22

He has a disagreement with the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida and writes about it to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 125-126.

1911

Until November 22

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who expresses concern about Galaktion's conflict with the editors of the newspaper Kolkhida. He regrets that on his initiative, his whole class subscribed to this newspaper because they expected Galaktion's poems to be published there. He wonders where he is publishing now. He advises him again to take care of finding a position as a teacher, it does not matter, whether it is in a theological school or school of the ministry, the most important thing is to be employed next year, when he has to go to the army. He inquires whether he signed the books of Kita Abashidze and Simon Kvariani. He promises that if a two-class school is indeed being established in the village and Galaktion secures a position there, as soon as he graduates from the seminary, Abesalom will take his place, allowing him to find a job more suitable to his preferences.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-303; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 149-150.

Note: That year, Kita Abashidze's "Essays on 19th-Century Georgian Literature" and two books by Simon Kvariani were published: "A History of Georgia (Abridged Course)" and "The Tragedy of the Georgian Nation in the 17th Century".

1911

November 23

Abesalom Tabidze sends a letter to his mother, requesting that she send money. He also informs her that he has received a letter from Galaktion, who is doing well.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1590, p. 1-4.

1911

November 28

The publication of Galaktion Tabidze's poem "The Shepherd" is completed in the newspaper Tem.

Source: Newspaper Tem, 1911, №47. p. 3-4.

December

1911

December 8

He writes a feuilleton titled "In the City Reading Room".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 14.

1911

Until December 11

He writes a poem Autumn ("I am weary... my soul longs for a dreamlike rest...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №879, p. 1-2.

Dating: The poem was already published on December 11, 1911.

1911

December 11

He publishes the poem “Autumn” (I’m tired... the soul longs for a dreamy rest...) dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili in the magazine Ganatileba.

Source: GTDA, №879, magazine Ganatileba, 1911, №X, p. 618, 619; For dating: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1911, №473.

Dating: In the December 11, 1911 issue of Sakhalkho Gazeti, there is information about the release of the tenth issue of the magazine Ganatileba.

1911

December

He writes epigrams titled “New Year’s Greetings to Kutaisi Residents”. The recipients are: Silovan Khundadze, Vasil Tsereteli, Grigol Gvelesiani, Varlam Rukhadze, Davit Meskhi (pseudonyms “Samshabatela” and “Kvirike”), Aristo Tchumbadze (pseudonym “Syndiophala”), Davit Nizharadze, Grigol Giorgadze, Davit Kldiashvili, Isidore Kvitsaridze, Lado Bzvaneli, Shalva Sharashidze (pseudonym “Taguna”), Nestor Kalandadze (pseudonym “Eshmaki”), Davit Akopashvili, Trifon Japaridze, Nino Chkheidze, Leo Natadze, Iason Nikolaishvili, Parmen Tsakheli, and Stephane Dzimistarashvili (pseudonym “Kortokha”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №565, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 458-459.

1911

End of December

He writes one-stanza poems titled “Domestic Epigrams” (“He Is Foolish, Yet Still...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 7-8; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 458-459.

Note: The title was originally “To a Friend” and “New Year’s Epigrams”.

1911

End of December

During the Christmas holidays, when Olya arrives in Kutaisi, she occasionally spots Galaktion from a distance and becomes interested in him. However, when offered the opportunity to meet him, she declines. On one occasion, she notices that Galaktion seems somewhat drunk and tells someone that he will be traveling by train that day. Olya, in love, discreetly follows him to the station and watches from a distance until the train departs.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 352-354; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 352-354.

1911

After December 31

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili dated December 31, 1911. The correspondent shares impressions gained from reading various books and confides that he did not like his play “Brand”. He requests that Galaktion speak to Niko Lortkipanidze, the editor of the magazine

Tskhovreba da Khelovneba, to whom he has sent his writings. He also informs that the Book on hypnosis he intended to order turned out to be a financial trap.

Source: GTDA, №852, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 537.

1911

December

He writes an excerpt from a poem that begins with the words: “I wish to be given to the waves of oblivion...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №124, p. 1; №125, p. 1.

Note: In the autograph, the title was initially written as “Song of the Regenerate” and then crossed out.

1911

He writes a newspaper note about Mikheil Botchorishvili’s play “Midia”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 233.

1911

He writes a newspaper note about Aguri Street and the area of Arkielis Gora.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 233.

1911

He sends a letter to Raisa Chikhladze, asking her to provide a detailed assessment of his literary works.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 56, 57.

1911

He sends a letter to Ioseb Grishashvili, inquiring whether he is indeed organizing a literary evening in Kutaisi and expressing his keen interest in participating. At the end of the letter, he refers to himself as a “devotee of your talent”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 539.

1911

He writes a poem titled “At the Grave”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 253.

1911

He writes a poem titled “The Fields Are Blooming” and includes as an epigraph a line from Heinrich Heine: “The fields are blooming, soul, calm down!”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3985; №8714; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 61.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “The Ashes of Feelings from the Arc” and “The Ashes of Feelings”. In the autograph, the author of the epigraph is incorrectly cited as “Goethe”.

Dating: The date is based on one of the autographs and the time indicated in the fifth volume of the author's lifetime edition.

1911

He writes a poem "Evening by the Lake".

Source: G. Chikobava, Galaktion and Art, Art, Tbilisi, 1959, N 4, p. 35.

1911

He gathers his manuscripts and sends them to Raisa Chikhladze. He writes that not everything is included, but it is sufficient for forming an opinion. He asks her to provide her sincere thoughts, emphasizing that he does not want either baseless praise or criticism. He hopes that someone will review his works professionally.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 57.

1911

In a letter where he discusses his love for Raisa Chikhladze, he receives an unwanted response from her. Raisa illustrates her stance by quoting Otto Weininger, which irritates Galaktion. In his reply, the poet recalls how he once saw his longed-for Raisa from a distance in Kutaisi and how a friend of Galaktion's referred to her as an angel. Galaktion writes that he cannot erase his love from his heart and can only talk to her about his feelings.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.17; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 57-58.

1911 or later

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled "Yellow Leaf" ("In my childhood, they used to call me the yellow leaf...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №68, p. 2; GTDA, №196, p. 24; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: The alternative beginning of the poem is: "I was a child, they used to call me the yellow leaf...".

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled "The Poet" ("Every word is filled with bitter tears...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №68, p. 24; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

In the notebook, he writes in Russian the verses from Dmitry Merezhkovsky's poem "Children of the Night" and also writes a Georgian poetic phrase: "I am imprisoned within myself, / loneliness is my cell".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №68, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled "Sonnet" ("Oh, to my dead body..."), with a note beneath it: "To a friend".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 12; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled "To a Friend" ("The grief sings the Lullaby...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 12; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled "Moonlight Sonata" ("I wither, wither in sorrow..."), and then, by revising this text, creates a new one titled "New Year" ("We wither, we wither in sorrow...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 14-15; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: In one autograph, the title of the poem is "Yellow Leaves".

1911 or later

Under the pseudonym 'Galashka', he writes an untitled poem "Hey, you wise ones...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 18; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "The Happy, Come to M...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 16; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "Like the wind, like the wind..." and on the same page with the same ink, he makes sketches.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 19; GTDA, №176, p. 6; GTDA, №383, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: In one autograph, the poem is titled “Resurrected”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Sonnet” (“Tell me, why did it fade away...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 20; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “In the Mountains” (“When the pale moon rests on the bed of clouds...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 23; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: In the autograph, the alternative title is “White Cloud”.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Two Countries” (“Give your soul boundless freedom...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 23; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Cry of the Tomb” (“The crowned one rests there in the grave...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 23; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “In the Album” (“What should I write in your album...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 27; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

In the notebook, he writes two lines of music and notes “Music by Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 23; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Poet” (“No, I will not say such a word...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 24; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

With the note “On D. Megreli’s picture”, he writes a poem titled “Sad Day” (“From the window, I see the carved meadow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 20; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: Dimitri Khoshtaria’s pseudonym is presented in the source by initials.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Blindness of the Night” (“The blindness of the night drifts...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 12; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Poet” (“The longing is boundless...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 11; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: In the autograph, the alternative title is “At the Sound of the Bell”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Strike the Strings...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 14; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Ashes” (“Mischievous woman, mischievous girl...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 9; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: In the autograph, the alternative titles are: “A String”, “From the Heart of the People”, “With Folk Strings”, and the subtitles – “On Ophelia’s Grave” and “I Dedicate to Ophelia”.

1911 or later

He begins writing a prose text titled “Autumn Night” but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 8; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

In the notebook, he writes a legend about how the Earth killed God and how it wanted to marry the sky.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 6; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem “The Sun’s Rays to the Silver Threads...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 3; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

In the notebook, he writes figurative expressions and word definitions in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 4-5; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem “The garden path with yellow leaves...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 4; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Hermit” (“There, where the fallen...”), but soon stops and crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 4; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes down episodes from “Abesalom and Eteri”, folk poems, and phrases on the sheet of paper.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №651, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “Youth has flown away...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №868, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: On the page, “Ashes of Emotions” is written, and we believe that he was writing the poem to include it in this cycle.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “White Night” (“Tamar lay among the flowers...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №868, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: The titles: “Oath” and “Dream” are crossed out.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Night” (“You say, doctor, that...”), but crosses it out and does not continue.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №868, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Praise of Praise” (“If the waves ever crash upon you...”) and precedes it with an epigraph from Gottfried Bürger’s poem “The Fair Züsche”, taken from Leonid Andrusson’s translation.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №867, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: The epigraph is “Я приходил, я уходил, Как в синем море вал...”. The titles: “Rustling Leaves”, “The Lyre”, and “Oblivion” are crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “La Marseillaise” (“Pale and sorrowful, the moon illuminated the vast sky...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №864, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

With the note: “In front of Aivazovsky’s painting”, he writes a poem “The Sea and the Heart” (“On the raging, stormy sea, the roaring waves crash...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №864, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: The alternative titles were: “Sea Fairies” and “Song of the Waves”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem with the Latin title “De Profundis” (“Why do they cry out, I wonder? Brothers, explain to me...”), in which he expresses his deep sorrow over critics’ unfair attitude toward poets.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №863, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a satirical play in which one of the characters is himself. Other characters include: Sandro, the Doorman, Ivane, and the Spy.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №863, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a review of Varlam Khurodze’s (Malakiashvili’s) novel “Shota Brolidze”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №878, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem From the Village (“The twilight fades, the twilight fades... The surroundings are silent, the mountains and fields are silent...”) but then stops writing and crosses out the entire text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №878, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He begins writing a novella titled Iovel but stops on the same page.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №877, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

Note: The entire text, along with the alternative title “From a Traveler’s Diary”, is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “New Year” (“Left alone and orphaned like me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №873, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes down phrases in Russian from Russian literature and translations of works by world classics.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №874, p. 2-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “Where the year slept at its dawn...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №874, p. 6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Suicide” (“Oh, if even in heaven a gentle soul finds no relief...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №874, p. 7; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “No, my friend, do not show me your sorrowful shadow...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №874, p. 7; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He begins writing a novella titled “Two Floors”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №885, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He draws a tree and writes the title “Lost Motif” but does not continue writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №885, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 128-129.

1911 or later

He translates his own poem “Sometimes in the Noise of the Restless City” into Russian.

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 12; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, “Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 153.

1911 or later

He writes down a list of Book distribution agents in Western Georgia in his notebook for the Book he plans to publish.

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 12-13; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, “Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 153.

Note: The publication of this Book was not realized.

1911 or later

He writes poems “The Forest Begins to Roar, and the Army of Leaves is Stirred...” and “Rustling”, then combines these texts to create the poem “The Rustling of Leaves (With the Gods)”.

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 2-3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 13-15; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, “Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 153.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “Be for me, be with me...”.

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 15; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, “Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 153.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Triolets” (“I carry, I carry yellow candles...”).

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 16; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, “Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 153.

1911 or later

He copies Valery Bryusov’s quotes about Fyodor Tyutchev’s work from the preface of the “Complete Works of Tyutchev”.

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 8; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 17-18; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, “Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 154.

1911 or later

He copies individual stanzas and lines from Fyodor Tyutchev's "Complete Works" that contain internal rhymes, alliteration, assonance, anaphora, and onomatopoeic language. In some places, he adds examples from Georgian poetry in the margins, specifically from the works of Nikoloz Baratashvili, Grigol Orbeliani, and Alexandre Abasheli.

Source: MGL, d-416, p. 8; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 18-20; For dating: G. Kalandadze, L. Beburishvili, "Comprehensive Study of Undated Poems and Notes Contained in Two Notebooks of Galaktion", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 154.

1911 or later

He writes a recollection: "The most beautiful woman, Mary Shervashidze...".

Source: MGL, d-626-31, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 233; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a recollection: "In Alexandrov Garden, three young people have their photo taken...".

Source: MGL, d-628-20, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 296; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem "Monument" (an imitation of Horace).

Source: MGL, d-655-3, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 307-308; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes the beginning of the play "Fire".

Source: MGL, d-655-3, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 307-308; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes scenes for an untitled play: Act I – "The married couple, Otarbegs, enter...", Act II – "Cherry-plum".

Source: MGL, d-655-4-5, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 308-310; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a prose text: “Mac-Dara felt that some misfortune was about to befall him soon...”.

Source: MGL, d-651-17, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 247-248; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “And they search for you in vain...”.

Source: MGL, a-1411, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 82; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an autobiographical fragment: “Thirty versts from Kutaisi lies my homeland, the village of Chkvishi...”.

Source: MGL, d-659-17, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 472-473; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an autobiographical fragment “I was born in 1892. Seven months after my father’s, a public teacher’s, death...”.

Source: MGL, d-659-18, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 473; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He makes notes under the titles: “Whale”, “Alps”, “Kipheronomy”.

Source: MGL, d-503-11, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 33; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a text: “The clatter of machines shakes the walls of the printing house...”.

Source: MGL, d-578-2, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 408; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He makes a note: “My brain is tired of riddles...”.

Source: MGL, d-626-30, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 232; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an article titled “Mysterious Kinship (A Pantheistic Madrigal)”.

Source: MGL, d-645-3, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160-161; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Allow me to be near you...”.

Source: MGL, d-645-3, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a plan titled “Under a Foreign Sky”.

Source: MGL, d-658-5, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 437-438; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He translates Oswald Spengler’s article “The Philosophy of Lyricism”.

Source: MGL, d-648-2, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213-214; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He translates Stewart Edward White’s short story “Greyhound”.

Source: MGL, d-648-3, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214-215; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Thorn Trees” (“Not long ago, this place...”).

Source: MGL, a-1686, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 297; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Winter, Winter...”.

Source: MGL, a-1688, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 299; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Make me understand, what is there in my past...”.

Source: MGL, a-1802, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 367; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the untitled poem “Alas, alas...”.

Source: MGL, a-2034, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 476-477; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the untitled poem “Still, what do I know...”.

Source: MGL, d-a-1967, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 549-554; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the poem “May Abroad”.

Source: MGL, d-a-2036, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 556-558; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes down quotes from “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin” in his notebook.

Source: MGL, d-445, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 148-156; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a text: “A whimsical spiritual mood...”.

Source: MGL, d-626-37, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 465-466; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Dawn” (“At your heights, Adjara...”).

Source: MGL, d-a-1679, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 290; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I spent the whole week...”.

Source: MGL, d-a-1865, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 405; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “What does the abandoned tower weep for...”.

Source: MGL, a-1771, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 347; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He makes a record “A whimsical spiritual mood...”.

Source: MGL, d-626-37, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 238; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an 8-point plan titled “Under a Foreign Sky”.

Source: MGL, d-643-5, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 437-438; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He translates the beginning of Edward White’s short story “The Smoker”.

Source: MGL, d-648-3, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214-215; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a recollection about Niko Sulkhaniashvili.

Source: MGL, d-447, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 158-159; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a recollection about the hermit (Dominika Eristavi).

Source: MGL, d-447, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 159-160; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a recollection about Lado Darchiashvili.

Source: MGL, d-447, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a recollection “The Tree in Mepistchala”.

Source: MGL, d-450, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 167; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem “You must, with all your might, overcome falsehood...”.

Source: MGL, d-450, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 168; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes materials for an autobiography.

Source: MGL, d-551-1, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 308; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes 9 speeches for an untitled play “Lozeni Asks the Emperor...”.

Source: MGL, D-557-8, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 312-313; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “You were a lion from the nine hundred...”.

Source: MGL, a-713, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 317; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Heart, oh, heart...”.

Source: MGL, a-1629, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 258; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Those who wish to have authority over me...”.

Source: MGL, a-1651, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 260; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The country has worn out like an old groschen...”.

Source: MGL, a-1632, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 261; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I despise the cozy shore...”.

Source: MGL, a-1633, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 262; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Before the rain passes...”.

Source: MGL, a-1634, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 262; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “No one will hear the call...”.

Source: MGL, a-1636, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 263; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He reads Edgar Allan Poe’s “A Descent into the Maelström” and translates the beginning.

Source: MGL, a-648-5, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 216-217; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

After reading Edgar Allan Poe's "A Descent into the Maelström", he begins writing an untitled poem "Since we reached the peak by the chasm...".

Source: MGL, a-648-5, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 217; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

Note: The poem appears under the titles "Aha, We Have Reached" and "The Old Mountaineer".

1911 or later

After reading Edgar Allan Poe's "A Descent into the Maelström", he writes an untitled poem "I could not reach the desired goal...".

Source: MGL, a-648-5, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 217; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "I often walk near the windows...".

Source: MGL, a-1638, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 264-265; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem "It Flashes, It Flashes Again" ("It will flash for a moment...").

Source: MGL, a-1637, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 264; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "The lake rustled like Chopin's...".

Source: MGL, a-1643, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 268; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "There is no more time for rambling..." and signs it with "Suicide is cowardice".

Source: MGL, a-1645, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 269; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the untitled poem “I remember Kharagauli...”.

Source: MGL, a-1646, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 270; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “You asked for my heart, I thought...”.

Source: MGL, a-1647, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 270; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “This Is It” (“When ecstasy veils the soul – this is it...”).

Source: MGL, a-1651, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 273; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “A distant ridge is visible...”.

Source: MGL, a-1660, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 281; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “In the evening, along the familiar path...”.

Source: MGL, a-1669, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 286; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the poem “From the Seminary” (“Gone into the fields from the seminary...”).

Source: MGL, a-1684, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 296; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The locomotive – freer than free...”.

Source: MGL, a-1671, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 287; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “The room. The night. The fear of rustling...”.

Source: MGL, a-1672, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 288; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Passion, why have you hidden from me...”.

Source: MGL, a-1673, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 289; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The moonlit sea is beautiful...”.

Source: MGL, a-1677, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 290; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

Note: The title “Shota Rustaveli” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The delicate dust of memory...”.

Source: MGL, a-1676, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 291; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “He cannot walk with others...”.

Source: MGL, a-1687, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 298; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “From the air or from iron...”.

Source: MGL, a-1693, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 303; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The First Meridian” (“May one heart take you along from another...”).

Source: MGL, a-1694, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 304; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “If you follow the road...”.

Source: MGL, a-1697, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 307; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Oh, my poem! When the feast...”.

Source: MGL, a-1700, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 309; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “It was a blizzard, blue and sky-coloured...”.

Source: MGL, a-1737, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 331; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “You are sick from life...”.

Source: MGL, a-1738, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 331; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “It is a bright day, a sunny grove...”.

Source: MGL, a-1772, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 374; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Existence, old nightmare of life...”.

Source: MGL, a-1723, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 322; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Oh, I too am praying...”.

Source: MGL, a-1731, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 328; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Passion, why did you come upon me...”.

Source: MGL, a-1673, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 289; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

On the back of the untitled poem “Passion, why did you come upon me...”, he writes that no verse meter fits the motive of “The Internationale” as well as the eight-syllable meter. In addition to being light and flexible, this versification is truly Georgian, as the entirety of Georgian poetry is based on the eight-syllable meter. Rustaveli combined two eight-syllable lines to create the sixteen-syllable verse form.

Source: MGL, a-1673, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 73-74; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “March 21” (“Twenty-first of March...”).

Source: MGL, a-1756, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 338; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “How could it not stand before my eyes...”.

Source: MGL, a-1757, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 338; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Principle of the Parable (to A. Kusikov)”.

Source: MGL, a-1758, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 339; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “No one can deceive death...”.

Source: MGL, a-1763, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 343; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I saw you from the fields...”.

Source: MGL, a-1764, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 343; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Before that, the sky had vanished...”.

Source: MGL, a-1765, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 344; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “It is a bright day, a sunny grove...”.

Source: MGL, a-1772, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 347; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I love May...”.

Source: MGL, a-1776, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 349; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Georgia with new paths...”.

Source: MGL, a-1783, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 355; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Epitaph on Guramishvili’s Grave” (“With turmoil, David...”).

Source: MGL, a-1785, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 356; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the untitled poem “Some chauvinists still believe...”.

Source: MGL, a-1786, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 356; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Shadow” (“Once again, the radiance of my glory shines...”).

Source: MGL, a-1803, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 368; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Something strange is happening: a natural disaster...”.

Source: MGL, a-1814, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 375; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “In the past, with some new gardens...”.

Source: MGL, a-1820, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 381; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “It’s a Star” (“Now I remembered: when everything...”).

Source: MGL, a-1831, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 390; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Clock” (“The warrior walks on land, and the sailor...”).

Source: MGL, a-1832, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 391; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The singer’s heart is different...”.

Source: MGL, a-1837, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 393; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes two versions of the poem “Old” (“When the poet is a false poet...”).

Source: MGL, a-1845, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 397; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I welcome the spring...”.

Source: MGL, a-1847, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 398; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “How happy I am, my homeland...”.

Source: MGL, a-1850, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 399; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes the beginning of the novel “The Ivy and the Poplar”.

Source: MGL, a-1850; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The morning star is born in the sky...”.

Source: MGL, a-1858, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 401; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The piano was roaring...”.

Source: MGL, a-1863, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 404; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I spent the whole week...”.

Source: MGL, a-1865, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 405; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Poet Feels New Bonfires” (“I get drunk with roses and everything...”).

Source: MGL, a-1866, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 405; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Speak, wave, endlessly flowing...”.

Source: MGL, a-1868, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 406; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Postman’s Song” (“I am the postman...”).

Source: MGL, a-1888, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 426; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Gentleman” (“The wind slightly moves the curtains...”).

Source: MGL, a-1889, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 427; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The scream of the train...”.

Source: MGL, a-1891, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 428; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Our ship no longer stands...”.

Source: MGL, a-1897, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 438-439; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I want to tell you about the poet’s moan...”.

Source: MGL, a-1899, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 439; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The sky covers me...”.

Source: MGL, a-1902, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 440; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The floods have covered the meadow...”.

Source: MGL, a-1903, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 441; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The soul was searching, to see the whole...”.

Source: MGL, a-1909, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 443; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “15 Poets” (“We together were translating Naso and Ovid’s...”).

Source: MGL, a-1913, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 445; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “In This World, Desire Alone Is Not Enough” (“He set out on the path, where the violet...”).

Source: MGL, a-1914, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 446-447; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

1911 or later

He begins writing the poem “The stars of the sky are sleeping...” but stops at the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №645, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The page is torn, and only the first word of the title, “Silence”, is visible.

1911 or later

He dedicates the poem “Gypsy Romances” (“Mist drifted over the slopes of the Bessarabian forest...”) to Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: GTDA, №478, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The dedication is written with the initials ‘To R XX’.

1911 or later

He writes a poem dedicated to N, “The blue eyes become transparent...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №638, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Only the first letters of the title remain, “ფსო” (Psy). It is likely that the title was “ფსობიჯა” (Psyché).

1911 or later

He writes a poem in Russian titled “Sorrow”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №638, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title of the poem is “Тоска” (Longing), and it begins with the words: “В скорби затаенной и в страхе немом...”.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The leaf withers with aimless thoughts...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №637, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a one-act vaudeville titled “The Second Coming”. The characters are students: Ioramik, Kato, and Toma.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №637, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the titles “I Must Explain the Eyes” and “A Sad Day” are crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a dialogue on the page, which concerns the attitude toward the Jews.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №626, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He makes a note about his attitude toward poetry and various existential issues. He writes that his personality is filled with the thoughts and principles of immortal Georgians and Romans. As much as he fits into the circle of poets, envy and criticism always accompany him; many love him, and many hate him, but personally, he holds no hostility toward anyone. When attacked, he calmly makes the sign of the cross and asks God to forgive the attackers. He believes that poetry is a riddle. If poetry does not approach the edge of an abyss, it does not deserve more attention than everything that breaks into that same abyss. According to the poet, to succeed in any field of art, one must be knowledgeable in other areas as well, because there is a very close connection between them.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №625, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a “short feuilleton” titled “With the Souls of the Dead” about Davit Meskhi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №622, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “Biographies” and the pseudonym ‘Galashka’, he writes epigrams about Silovan Khundadze, Vasil Tsereteli, who used the pseudonym ‘Unforgivable’, and Grigol Gvelesiani.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №622, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “He died at the moment when he was strangled...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №621, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “Love, brotherhood, and friendship...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №621, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “He dies, we no longer have him... what scatters us...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №621, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Thorn” (“The rose of the heart withers early...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №621, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The poem is also found untitled as “The rose of the heart withers early...”.

1911 or later

He writes a new version of the poem “Sulamith” (“Old man, your soul, purified...”), but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №620, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Song” (“The quiet stream stirs the soul...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №615, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Blue Sky” (“The blue sky calls the blue mountains, embraces...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №615, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Nirvana” (“On the sea of existence, the presence of men fades invisibly...”), but stops at the first stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №615, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Critic” (“The wheel of time has turned. A group of critics sneaks into the phase of the newspaper...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №615, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He thoroughly edits the poem “Hymn” (“Hey, sky, sky!..”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №324, GTDA, №611, p. 1; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The poem was written out fair in 1911 or later, and corrections made with a red pencil may also be from a later time.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Death” (“Down, down with that crown...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №610, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Uncle Tom,” but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №609, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Derrière l’omnibus” (“Come on, move aside... move aside, coachman...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №574, p. 1; GTDA, №646, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: “Derrière l’omnibus” is the title of a famous French melody, which was played on a mechanical instrument (physiaronica). The titles “The Passenger” and “The Passenger’s Song” are crossed out. In one autograph, the poem begins with the words: “No, I will no longer be ashamed to cry...”.

1911 or later

He writes on the page a description of a bird – the night owl, where they live, what their call is like, and notes that they are enemies of the daytime birds.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №602, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Fairy Tale,” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №574, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Winter” (“White snow...”), but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №574, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Morning,” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №574, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem: “The pale moon in the sky / gives off, who knows...” but stops at the third line.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №574, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Autumn” (“The torn sky is stitched, adorned with clouded mountains...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Moan of the Poet” (“I was destroyed after I sang the tune of sorrow...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Autumn” (“In the gorge, the caravan of mist sleeps...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Sun’s Desire” (“A light mist like hay...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “The Shepherd’s Desire (Fragment)” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Song on the Lake” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “The Poet’s Desire” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “In the Mountain Peaks” but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №568, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “At Midnight” (“The sun’s glowing, passionate rays...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №562, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Song” (“Oh, what a night... how excitedly...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №562, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Mist of Longing” (“When the sharp shadow of sorrow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №562, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Regret” (“While on the mountain peak... the moon casts light on the land...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №562, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Another version of the poem begins with the words: “The silver light of the sky, the light scattering...” The title “The Boards of the Coffin” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The poet, eternally free...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №548, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “Oh, Christ, Christ, Your temple...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №548, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an etude titled “The two of them”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №548, p. 3-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He dedicates a poem to Iakob Gogebashvili “New Year’s Eve” (“It is night... mist surrounds...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №549, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The second version has the title “New Year’s Prayer”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Homeland!” (“Mist surrounds all around...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №549, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The hermit sneaks among the dim stars of the sky...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №541, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later written titles “Found in the Mud,” “Five ten-rouble note,” and “Silver Coins” are crossed out, and “Golden Ten-rouble note” is left.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The days pass by, and a serious illness...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №541, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Secret” (“He died when the young dawn was filling under the cover of night...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №544, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the title “In the Room” is written.

1911 or later

He writes words on the page that he plans to use in his poems, and in some places, he forms phrases with them, such as: “The moon rose and stood over the mountain like a lampshade,” “The sun shone like a car’s headlight,” “The thought – memory – flashed like a car’s wheel,” and others.
Source: Autograph, GTDA, №515, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Analogy” (“The abyss of the sky attracts the mist...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №502, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “Tortured by the English,” he writes the plot of a historical novel set in 1815 in Paris, at Place Vendôme. The characters are the Duke of Danzig and his wife.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №507, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “The Tragedy of a Georgian Writer,” he notes the following topics: foreign writers in our country, whether Georgian writers’ publications have readers, whether anyone knows poet Giorgi Tumanishvili, where Ivane Machabeli is, what writing gives to writers, the burial of writers in Georgia and abroad, writing as a profession, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №502, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes words with opposing meanings: enmity and friendship, light and darkness, storm and calm day, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №502, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the note “Letter to the English Novelist,” he writes a poem “The Hyperbole of Wales” (“Mister, you have a gaze...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №490, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “May Day” (“Underground, like the fabric of a net...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №490, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title “Rivers Beneath the Earth” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He dedicates a poem to Raisa Chikhladze titled “Night Serenades” (“I love it when the constellation of stars sews the sky’s canvas...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №419, p. 1; GTDA, №478, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The titles “On the Moonbeam,” “New Year,” and “Song” are crossed out in the autograph, as well as the final title. The dedication is written only with the initial “To R”.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Gypsy Romance” (“Elila, your body shines...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 69, p. 10; GTDA, №198, p. 87; GTDA, №479, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The alternative beginnings are “At midnight, when the area...” and “Elila, your graceful body touches...”. The title initially was “Romances,” and the title written above is “Let’s Wander!”

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Blue Sky,” dedicated to “The Nun” (“The image draws near, shaping beauty to the mysterious...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №479, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He translates Henri de Régnier’s poem “By the Sea” (“Lie down by the sea and slowly gather the sand...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №472, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Winter Evening” (“The luminary is covered by clouds...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №478, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Autumn” (“I love the blue of your gentle eyes...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №472, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Beauty” (“With eyes closed, filled with the passion of the heart...”) but then crosses it out and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №472, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Will You Come?” (“Once, when I painfully felt the relentless run of my life...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №470, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title “First Love” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Raven” (“And as an epigraph, he dedicates the words of Nikoloz Baratashvili: ‘The one who is shouting behind me...’”).

Source: Autograph; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Ortheos” (“The blindness of the night surrounded the towering mountains...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №465, p. 1; GTDA, №637, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Above the poem, there is another title written, “To Ia-Ia”. In another autograph, the title is “Raven”. In one autograph, the text begins with the phrase: “In solitude, I will drink life...”.

1911 or later

Under the title “Husband and Wife,” he writes an outline for a prose text, whose protagonist is Ivane.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №451, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the phrase “The blindfolded fate blows” and then crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №451, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Last Poem” (“Quietly, the darkness of the evening settled over the fields...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №451, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The word “Flowers” is crossed out in the title.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “An Extraordinary Winter of 1911”.

Source: MGL, №1656; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 277; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “To *-s” (“We live in the mist...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №425, p. 24; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the pseudonym ‘Galaktion Imereli’, he writes a poem in Russian titled “In Colchis”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №417, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In Russian, the poem’s title is “В Колхиде” and it begins with the words “Под небом знойной Колхиды...”.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “A Riddle” (“There is a group of writers...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №417, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Snake” (“When I mingle among the people with a cheerful face...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №417, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Smile” (“I have seen many smiles in the world...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №412, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Romance” (“Sincerity completely binds me, draining my longing...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №412, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “New Year’s Album of a Young Woman with Poems by Young Poets,” he writes parodies in the names of Ioseb Grishashvili and Alexandre Shanshiashvili (“I have no desire to be in your album...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №412, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “My Lyre” (“Izida! The heart still desires fire...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №406, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem in Russian “Grave”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №406, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title of the poem is “Могила” and it begins with the words: “Звездная полночь...”.

1911 or later

He writes on the page the names of mythological, biblical, and literary characters, as well as the titles of various works.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №389; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Colour Changed” (“Ah, everything around me has changed colour...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №388, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Night on the River” (“From the high mountain, the evening shadow descended...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №388, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem in imitation of Goethe “Attacked” (“Attacked – the heart dies with torment...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №388, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title “The Artist and the Craftsman” is written later and crossed out. The starting phrase is changed to: “They say, everything is transient, everything dies...”.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “Nature, your strong hand...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №388, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the title “The Flock of Flapping Ravens” is written.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “It is evening. In the cemetery...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №388, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He plans to write a novel and writes down questions for reflection. He notes that Georgia is a path where the interests of various countries intersect. He is interested in the Middle East as the cradle of ancient civilizations, the origins of religious thought, the relationship between religion and mythology, and the perspectives on the rapprochement of the East and the West.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №384, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The day of lost youth...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №382, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Waltz of Flowers” but does not begin writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №382, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He reads a story in which a young person reproaches their family for shattering his life, “ruining” it, and recalls his feelings toward his mother and brother.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №383, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a brief review of Davit Kldiashvili’s story “In the Crowd”. He notes how the author conveys a significant message in a laconic manner.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №383, p. 1; GTDA, №426, p. 2.

1911 or later

He writes an outline for a dramatic work titled “The Cursed Son” and begins with the phrase: “Outside, the furious wind was howling...”. The outline reveals that the young man, disillusioned in love, is meant to leave his home, wander in search of wealth, face the threat of death, be enlisted in a Japanese squad, and, after passing through Persia, return home.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №383, p. 1; GTDA, №426, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The titles “Forgotten Dreams,” “Father and Son,” and “Reconciliation” are crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a play in which the characters are fourth-year students of a theological seminary: Shiuka, Tite, and Aleks, the inspector, and the overseers of the seminary. The inspector discovers that all the seminarians plan to continue their studies at the university, and he is concerned about this.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №426, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a play in which the characters are a father and a son.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №428, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Sorrow” (“Why, why do you revolve in the tortured and tormented heart...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Evening” (“Oh, if you have seen how the sun sets peacefully in the west...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Roar of the Waves” (“With a silvery beam, captivatingly transformed...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title “By the Seashore” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Evening,” but does not begin writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem in Russian titled “From the Motifs of Autumn” but does not continue.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title of the poem is “Из осенних мотивов” and it begins with the words “Любил я поле осенней порою”. The title “Песни моряков” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem in Russian titled “In the Album”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title of the poem is “В альбом” and it begins with the words “Ты вольно играешь...”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Tear of Cupid” (“Until you love – you are longing...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №378, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “In Solitude” (“Have you seen the waves of the ocean...”) but does not continue.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №377, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a memoir titled “On Akaki’s Trail”. It discusses how Baratashvili’s ring passed from one poet to another, eventually ending up in the hands of Akaki Tsereteli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №375, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a memoir about how one of his poems became popular, and how, once on his way home, someone threw a wreath of flowers from a beautiful building’s window at him.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №375, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Scatter-brained” (“Sing something... sad and boring...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Autumn” (“Descend, mist, descend like a veil...”) but then crosses it out and starts again with the title “The Poet’s Thoughts” and the beginning, “My dear, lend me your ear...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The dedication “To N,” the title “Mist,” and the word “Poet” in the title are crossed out. Later, the titles “Playful Rhythms” and “The Joy of Cruisers” are written. The alternative beginnings are: “The light-sorrow of my existence...” and “Do you tell me the sky is crying?”.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem, “Look, the door has opened...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the author writes the title “Moscow in the Expectation of Cannonade”.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem, “On the desert of the sky, the moon sadly drifts...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “New Year” (“At first, the evening darkness hadn’t yet left the window panes...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Distant Affection” (“I forgot the song I once sang long ago...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Distant Spring” (“Let me be mistaken, may my dream be deceived...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Distant Closeness” (“I have seen somewhere the face of a poet, pure and shining...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The wind blows, the calm breeze blows beyond the hill and across the hill...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №383, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “Oh, I often think, when I am alone...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №383, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes in Italian a quote from Antoine Arnauld’s poem: “I go where the wind takes me, without complaint or fear”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 4; GTDA, №383, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “It is night, deaf and dark, spread out...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “The tired night drifts with the day, heading toward release...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Inspired by the Italian poet Ada Negri’s poem “I Will Still Betray You,” he writes a poem titled “Wild Kiss” (“I love the strong embrace of a worker, a simple worker...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Have You Worked?” (“You fell in love, and love...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Tear” (“Oh, why do you stir the waves of the current...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title “Undine” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Blue Flower” (“The blue flower was blooming on the meadow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title “Undine” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “To Bashkirtseff” (“You are immortal, like a wave...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “When, before sleep, instead of praying...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Evening Flowers” (“Oh, evening flowers, oh, sunbeams...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Beautiful Ripsime” (“The army of clouds sleeps and rests...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Cursed Child” (“The day turns to meet the dark night...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The alternative titles are “Art” and “Twilight on the Aragvi”.

1911 or later

He dedicates a poem titled “Dream” (“The face of happiness, blessed...”) to the “Exiled Poet”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Aspen” but does not continue writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing the poem titled “The Wave” (“I once saw happiness...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing the poem titled “It is Midnight” (“It is midnight... with a silver ray, the landscape is veiled”) and precedes it with Lamartine’s words: “The playful breeze whispers softly...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: On the same page, the alternative title of the poem is “Silence,” with the beginning: “With a silver ray, the landscape is veiled...”.

1911 or later

He writes the title “Murmuring,” but does not continue writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “In My Love,” but does not continue writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili titled “A Small Feuilleton” with the note “To my poet friend” (“What are you saying: am I a donkey, my friend Parnassus?..”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He dedicates the poem “The Wind” to Irodion Evdoshvili (“Oh, I beg you, do not drive me away...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №364, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: On the same page, there are two more versions of the poem titled “Thought,” with the beginnings: “Oh, do not drive me away, my beloved” and “It is time to open the gates of Eden”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Karabadini” (“Oh, believe me, to a man’s beautiful soul...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №360, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem with homonymic rhymes titled “On the Ruins” (“Ha, ha, ha, ha, what are we waiting for...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №360, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title “Melody” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem with homonymic rhymes titled “Destroyed” (“It was destroyed, everything that was...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №360, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem without a title: “The fortress-courtyard hanging on an inaccessible cliff...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №360, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Dun” (“Child of Colchis, do you see there, above...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №361, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “What Will Women in Samtredia Write on the Guitar” (“No one has dedicated a poem to you...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №362; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The titles “The City That Grows Fantastically” and “Discovered By Me” are crossed out.

1911 or later

With the note “Fairy Tale,” He writes a poem “Honey” (“Young ones, lend me your ear...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №361, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title “Bread” is crossed out, with the notes “Idyll” and “Imitation” written underneath.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “To My Friends” (“Straight to the wind... straight to the wind...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №360, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The verse was later included in the poem “Epoch”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Sin,” in which the main character is “Elene”. According to the plot, she is in love with another young man, but her father marries her off to someone else.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №190, p. 1-10, GTDA, №356, p. 1-2, GTDA, №381, p. 2; GTDA, №452, p. 1-4. GTDA, №560, p. 1-2; GTDA, №561, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “Dead Elene” and “Ashes”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Do You Remember That Night... The moon cast a silver beam around...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №381, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “When the body decays beneath the stone...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №381, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

In the style of Staufpacher, he writes a poem “The Young Homeless Man” (“To blind the eye of the forest’s edge...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №382, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Staufpacher is a character from Schiller’s “William Tell”, but we could not find a poet with that surname or his poem.

1911 or later

He dedicates the poem, in which the main character is Elene, to Elene Dgebuadze with the poem: “My friend! Have you seen a leaf of a tree on a silent lake?..”

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №190, p. 1-10; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The addressee’s name is neither mentioned nor indicated in the poem, but the protagonist’s name is Elene. From one of the notes, we know that Elene whom Galaktion admired had the surname Dgebuadze. The author later titled the poem “Ashes”.

1911 or later

He edits certain stanzas of the poem “Ashes” (“The sky lit with love...”). In addition, he draws an illustration for the poem with the title “Lost Innocence”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №356, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He edits the poem “At the Cemetery” (“I love the calm evening...”) and crosses out the title.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №341; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He translates George Byron’s poem “Oscar of Alva” (“The pale sky is illuminated by the moon...”) and then writes across the first page: “This piece is dedicated by the author in infinite respect to Akaki”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №351, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the title of the poem and the author’s surname are crossed out, and it is written: “The Old Tower (Legend) G. Tabidze”. It seems that he decided to include episodes in the poem “The Old Tower”.

1911 or later

He writes a feuilleton under the pseudonym ‘Galashka’ titled “The Editor”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №348; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “Do not disturb, do not tire you...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №347, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes words and divides them into syllables: e.g., and then creates riddles based on these words.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1, 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the title “How I Got Bored,” but does not continue writing the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Song of the Students” (“Hey, you dry, dry moralists...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №346, p. 1; GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “On the soft bed, the virgin slept...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №346, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “I remember when I used to bid farewell...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №346, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the beginning is revised to: “When I was bidding farewell to the village...”.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem titled “Georgian Woman” (“The Georgian woman still cares for the Lezgians...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №346, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title ‘The Dancing Woman’ is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes an outline for his autobiography and lists 19 points with notes on various topics.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №338, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem: “The night’s blanket has covered us...” but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №338, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Songs” (“Let us fight against him...”) under the pseudonym ‘Accordi’ but later crosses out the title.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №338, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a parody announcement: “The headache doctor Serapion Tsagareishvili is accepting...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №338, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Believe, trust me, that I do not love you...”

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem “Write, write, didn’t I tell you...” but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Iris” (“The iris with its chest open...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “July” (“Nature recalls the months of roses... the breeze hums to the flowers”) but soon stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title “Winter” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem in Russian titled “Letter”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The poem is titled “Письмо” (“Letter”) and begins with the words: “Полночной скорби...” (“Of midnight sorrow...”).

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “On the Cross of Torment” (“Oh, Savior, Savior, when the village...”), but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Satirists” (“In our time, when everyone...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Resurrection Bell” (“Midnight burns, burns... midnight melts, melts!”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The beginning is transformed and used in the poem “I and the Night”.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem: “The sorrowful night is sorrowful, like a silent soul...” but completely crosses it out and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Coughing Masters” (“There is no more hearing...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №337, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, next to the title, it is written: “This patient struggles to breathe”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Let Us Follow the Sea Waves” (“It has been a long time...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №332; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The early title of the poem, “The Old and the New,” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “Greetings to the People From Kutaisi” (“Kutaisi is like this...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I never miss you as much as I do...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “Say, say, Nana...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes to Yuza Zardalishvili, stating that he will read three poems: “Like the Breeze, Like the Breeze,” “The Yellow Leaf (Elegy),” and “With Hamlet’s Lyre”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the source, only the name “Yuza” is mentioned.

1911 or later

He writes under the title “Who Desires What for Easter,” mentioning what Silovan Khundadze and Isidore Kvitsaridze desire.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poetic phrase for one of the poems: “The only hope is the life of a child...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №315, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem in Russian “Autumn” and counts the syllables in the lines.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №315, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a feuilleton titled “Letters of a Passenger”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №303, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a play (“Two young women enter the room...”), where the characters are gymnasium graduates Elene and Nino.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №304, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a prose sketch about school life titled “The Yellow Leaf”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №282, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Autumn” (“The old doors of the main gates have been taken down...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №300, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

On the paper, he writes word combinations: “Painless breeze,” “Innocent gale,” “Irreversible moments,” “Tasteless life,” “Tasteless poet,” and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №294, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a prose sketch about the East and the beautiful colourful carpets.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №291; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I see, I see, my friends...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №282, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing an untitled poem “My dear, I really want to say something joyous to you...” but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №282, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a play and describes the setting: a house located outside the city, with windows opening into a garden. The scene starts with two men crawling into the house from the balcony.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №284; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Weak” (“The heart is weak, exhausted and fatigued”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №285; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing epigrams under the title “New Year’s Greeting”. The first epigram is written under the name Ioseb Mchedlishvili: “If I were to end so bitterly, I wish I had never loved you,” and then stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №285; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a feuilleton titled “Is Another World War Still Necessary?”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №267; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Woman and the Cat” (“She buried her head in the flowers and gave in to the sin of smelling...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №267; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a text titled “Preface,” but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №259; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a brief summary of Knut Hamsun’s novel “Hunger”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №260; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes the text of an open letter addressed to Shalva Sharashidze (“Taguna”) and Nestor Kalandadze (“Devil”). The letter discusses how there are far fewer editorial errors in Mnatobi compared to the newspapers Kolkhida, Temi, and Sakhalho Gazeti.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №256; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “In the Garden,” he creates a prose sketch. The characters are the narrator, a young couple of gymnasium students, a young poet, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №258, p. 1-6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “Innocent, Young!” he writes a prose sketch about a demon, an angel, and a dying old man (“In the darkness of the night, an oak tree with twisted branches...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №257, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem with the words: “The angel appeared to the righteous Tobias...” but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №246, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes prose texts titled “The Drum Soldier” and “The Beginning of a New Era,” both featuring a character named Ioveli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №253, p. 1; GTDA, №605, p. 5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes “Correction for Publication” in the newspaper, stating that the previous day’s announcement did not mention that the authors would read “Fiction Literature”, and this was a typographical error.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №250, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

On the paper, he writes an announcement that the editorial office has received the Book “Great People”, which costs 25 kopecks. He also makes a note about the beautiful Dalisa, to whom the great people were confessing their love.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №251, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Mary of Egypt” (“And all of Alexandria knew the woman’s name...”) but stops at the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №246, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “The Sorrowful Crown Bearer,” he writes a story about the Emperor of Austria, Franz Joseph.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №242, GTDA, №246, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He searches in books and writes information about the Dioscuria in 28 sections.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №246, p. 2; CTDA, №247, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a prose sketch about a Persian song, titled “The Beautiful Song”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №239; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title was “Georgian Music”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Song” (“I wandered in the foggy grove...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №234, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “That face of yours, delicate, celestial...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №234, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “In the sky’s expanse, joyful stars gently flicker...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №234, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a dialogue between a woman and a man in a darkened room. They talk about the influence of demonic forces. The protagonist woman's name is Eva.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №237, №240; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

On the paper, he writes that Ivane Machabeli reminds him of the prophet Aegeus, who left us only one page, but it is still considered a book. However, there are writers who write many volumes, but none of them can be called a book.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №236; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the source, only the last name Machabeli is mentioned. It is likely referring to the 6th-century BC prophet Haggai.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "Kiss only... your love...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №234, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem "XXX" ("Like a meteor in the world's sky, I too will briefly appear in our poetry...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №227, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem "In the Monastery" ("A white flower glides across the sky").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №229; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The alternative title was "The Dreamer," with the beginning "The morning breeze gently stirs..." but everything is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a prose sketch titled "Greetings," in which he talks about the German city of Baden-Baden and its resident girl Henrietta.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №221, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem under the pseudonym “Galashka” - “Why do you chase me, why don’t you give me an answer...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №226; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “On the Thorny Path” (“Today I will triumph... there is no need for an oath...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №225, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, with a red pencil, the title “Song of the Victorious Love” is written.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Sonnet” (“The pine joins the pine, the orphaned fir the fir...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №225; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title “Death” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “To a Friend” (“The familiar breeze will roll me up at a high price...”) but then crosses it out and begins with the same title, but differently: ‘At times, it will settle with a dull calmness...’.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №221, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Manifesto” (“To the poet who seeks the theme...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №215, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Mist” (“The white haze has spread over the sleeping sea...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №218; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Oarsman” (“The oarsman was singing farewell songs...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №218; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes information about geographical locations from a Russian-language Book about the Caucasus in Georgian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №216; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Voice of Satan” (“I have drained the cup of torment with passion...”), with a note underneath (from the diary).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №219; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title ‘Lines,’ he translates a poem from English, which says that Robert Emmet, standing before the gallows, was adorned with a crown of flowers.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №212; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

“He writes a poem “In Autumn” (“Do not remind me of the future...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №205; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Song” (“The sky is overcast with clouds...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №206; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Swan” (“I am a swan of the azure sea...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №202; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Stone” (“On the restless sea, a massive wall of waves...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №203; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poetic phrase: “Your dream is always as delicate as an iris”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №203; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Autumn”.

Source: GTDA, №180, p. 1; G. Tabidze, Poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 20; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 162; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The poem titled “The Fields Are Spreading” was published in the 1927 anthology.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Culprit” (“The furred rose flower is guilty...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №176, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the title “Useful Thoughts and Rhymes”, he writes materials of interest to him in a notebook. Here are symbols (blue flower, withered blue flower), mythological characters (Linus, Antheos, and others), historical facts and places (Tamaris-tsikhe, the Battle of Partskhisi), as well as rhymes and rhymed phrases.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №176, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the pseudonym ‘Accordi’ for the column “A Short Felony”, he writes a poem “On Easter Day” (“Darejani grieves... a pot of beans...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №176, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Bouquet” (“Once, beautiful one, I don’t know what about...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №171; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the title “The Worker Deep in Thought by the Machine...” is written.

1911 or later

He dedicates the poem “Dawn” (“The forest is covered with a black veil...”) to Alexandre Abasheli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №168, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He draws two girls sitting on a sofa and writes their dialogue about how the archbishop of the Kharagauli district, Father Ermaloz Vepkhvadze, advised the female teachers not to wear ‘Chanticleer’s’ dresses.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №168, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The text mentions “M. Ermalozi”.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The blue chamber of immortality...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №163; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Withered Flower” (“The flower withered...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №153, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: Later, the poem is revised. It is titled “The Factory Fume” and begins with the words “The fume rises...”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Withered Flower” (“The flower withered...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №153, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem titled “The Phantom” (“Boatman, do you see... in our far and near...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №156, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, the title ‘In the Album’ is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Poet” (“In the gurgling of the spring, when the valley is sleeping...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №156, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The wind scattered the mist...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №148, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Soul of Relief” (“It is not yet asleep...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №148, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title was ‘The Fairy of the Night.’

1911 or later

He writes a text titled “Short Biographical Notes”, in which he describes his life from birth until working in the editorial offices of the newspapers Mnatobi and Tskhovreba.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №148, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: He states his year of birth as 1892.

1911 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Mysterious Land” (“My land, mysterious...”) but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №150, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The original title “Azure Face” is crossed out.

1911 or later

He writes a prose episode, in which the main character is Father Ekvtime.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №140, p. 5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

Under the pseudonym 'Accordi', he writes a poem "Georgian Songs" ("Woman, your beauty...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №135; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes an untitled poem "The team of poppies, the shielding curtain...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №136, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes rhymes on a page, some of which he uses in a poem written on the second page of the sheet.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №136, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem "Fairy Tale" ("When the sea fades away...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №125, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

In the notebook, he writes rhymes and poetic phrases: 'Where you breathe' – don't whisper to me,' 'Sadness is silent, with blue eyes' – enough of the suffering,' 'A hidden groan / is heard somewhere' – quietly... let me be!' and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №68, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He begins writing an epigram titled "The Tail of a Mouse" ("It is bad, bad...") but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №86; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes epigrams dedicated to Giorgi Parkosadze: "Your sweetheart, my Gutsa...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №87; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Ghost” (“In the middle of the night, darkness has fallen...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №62, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: On the handwritten sheet, there is an alternative beginning: “I want to tell you a fairy tale...”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Legend” (“For a long time, I bore the cross of torment...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №62, p. 1; GTDA, №130, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, there is an alternative beginning: “Oh God, God... how much torment...”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Do Not Read...” (“Do not read my diary...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №62, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Melancholy” (“Calmly, windless, calmly!...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №9; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He translates the poems of his contemporary German poets: Mariam Eschenbach’s “Little Song” and German Konrad’s “Meteor”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №21, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes down a list of 51 people who have written memories about him.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №37, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “Golden String” (“The golden string for the harp...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №37, p. 2.

Dating: We date it based on the text we dated on the other side of the page.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Poem of the Weary” (“I wanted to name this poem a quote...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №37, p. 2.

Dating: We will date it according to the text dated by us on the other side of the page.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “At the Crossroads” (“You do not love me’ – I asked quietly...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №44, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: In the autograph, there are alternative titles: ‘Silence,’ ‘Love at Noon,’ and ‘Wandering,’ with all but the last one crossed out.

1911 or later

He attempts to create a crossword using the words: Galaktion, Akaki, Vazha, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №44, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “At the Crossroads” (“Wrapped in the greyish mist...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №143, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The title is crossed out and replaced with “He Seeks God”.

1911 or later

He writes a poem “The Prophet” (“Far away, with my gaze, I break the mist...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №143, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

He writes a three-act play in verse titled “Abesalom and Eteri”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №42, p. 1-6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

1911 or later

On the sheet, he writes a phrase from Dmitri Merezhkovsky’s poem “Children of the Night” and then writes in Georgian: “I myself am imprisoned in myself / loneliness is my cell”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №68, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: The text is titled in Russian “Дети ночи” (“Children of the Night”).

1911 or after

He writes the beginning of a dramatic work titled “Living Picture”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №868, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Note: On the page, “Ashes of Emotions” is written, and we believe that he was writing the poem to include it in this cycle.

1911 or later

He writes rhymes and poetic phrases on the sheet.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №68, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

Second half of 1911 or later

He writes in Russian, specifying in which city someone is entrusted with the distribution of his book.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №620, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 634.

Note: The matter should concern the Book that was supposed to be published in 1911 but was never published.

After 1911

He works as a proofreader at the editorial offices of the newspapers Mnatobi and Tskhovreba, and occasionally publishes brief notes unsigned.

Source: Autobiographic record, Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, p. 2000, p. 233.

Dating: The entry states that this occurred after leaving the school in the village of Partskhnali.

1912

January

1912

January 1

He writes a feuilleton “Language and Proofreading”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 1.

1912

January 1

He celebrates the New Year in his hometown of Chkvishi.

Source: Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 43.

1912

January 3

He writes a feuilleton “Polemic”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 1.

1912

Until January 16

He is submitting the poem “The Invisible (In Front of Aivazovsky’s Painting)” to the literary competition organized by the newspaper Temi.

Source: Newspaper Temi, 1912, №56; Al. Abasheli, “Akaki’s Nimbus”, Mnatobi, 1935, №2, p. 90-91; Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, № 2, p. 20.

1912

January 16

In the literary competition organized by the newspaper Temi, where Galaktion Tabidze submitted his poem “The Invisible (In Front of Aivazovsky’s Painting)”, no first prize was awarded. The second prize went to Alexandre Abasheli’s poem “The Sun”, while Galaktion received the third prize. His poem received 3 positive and 5 negative votes. The jury included Akaki Tsereteli, Iakob Gogebashvili, Kita Abashidze, Iakob Nikoladze, Vladimir Bakradze, Grigol Rtskhiladze, Aleksandre Kancheli, Nikoloz Kartvelishvili, and representatives from various other organizations.

Source: Newspaper Temi, 1912, №56; Al. Abasheli, “Akaki’s Nimbus”, Mnatobi, 1935, №2, p. 90-91; Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, № 2, p. 20.

1912

Until January 25

He prepares a template for collecting signatures to publish his own collection of poems.

Source: Receipt form, GTDA, №98, p. 1.

Dating: The announcement in the press was published on January 25, 1912, and it was supposed to have occurred before that date.

1912

Until January 25

He drafts a text for an announcement in the periodical press about collecting signatures for the publication of his collection of poems. The announcement states that the Book will be published by Zakaria Tchelidze.

Source: Receipt form, GTDA, №179, p. 1; GTDA, №222.

Note: The text does not indicate where Galaktion Tabidze intended to publish this announcement.

Dating: The announcement was published in the press on January 25, 1912, and it should have been made before that date.

1912

January 25

The announcement published in the Batumis Gazeti states that signatures will be collected until February 15 for a Book of poems and verses by the young poet Galaktion Tabidze, priced at 50 kopecks. The collection points listed are: Isidore Kvitsaridze's journal and newspaper distribution centre "Imereti", Gogiberidze's bookstore, and the bookstore "Provintsiashi". It also mentions that for signing in Tkibuli, they can contact Mikheil Botchorishvili, and in Kharagauli, they can contact Sergo Rukhadze.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №20, p. 1; See the same announcement, which was published unchanged in issues №21-38 of the same newspaper.

1912

Until January 26

He begins writing a poem, writes the title "Autumn" and stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №696, p. 1.

1912

Until January 26

Under the pseudonym "Accordi", he writes a poem "To Beautiful Raisa" ("I do not want you to forget me...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №696, p. 1.

1912

Until January 26

He is eagerly anticipating the release of his first Book and writes on a piece of paper: "Published and available. G Tabidze".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №696, p. 2.

Note: The publication of this Book could not be accomplished due to insufficient funds.

1912

January 26

He writes the text of an announcement on a piece of paper. According to the note, on January 28, he is scheduled to host a literary and musical evening. At the event, a presentation on young Georgian writers will be delivered by Dimitri Uznadze, Kita Abashidze, Grigol Gvelesiani, or Romanoz Pantskhava (Khomleli). Readings of their works will be given by: Aristo Tchumbadze, Jaju Jorjikia, Ioseb Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Noe Chkhikvadze, Varlam Rukhadze, Barnab Gelazania (Gela), Giorgi Kuchishvili, Alexandre Abasheli, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia (Abashispireli), Silovan Khundadze, Parmen Tsakheli, Titsian Tabidze, Daria Akhvlediani, Vasil Tsereteli, and Davit Kldiashvili.

In the third section, the following will perform: Davit Meskhi, Mikheil Janoevi (Nemo), Vasil Urushadze, Vasil Balanchivadze, and Shalva Sharashidze (Taguna). The fourth section will feature a choir performance.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №696, p. 2.

Note: The mentioned individuals are presented in the source with only the initials of their first names and their last names or pseudonyms.

1912

January 30

The newspaper Temí announces that signatures are being collected for G. Tabidze's Book titled "Poems and Verses". The price is 50 kopecks. The collection points listed are: Isidore Kvitsaridze's journal and newspaper distribution centre "Imereti", Gogiberidze's bookstore, and the bookstore "Provintsiashi". Additionally, it is mentioned that for signing in Tkibuli, they can contact Mikheil Botchorishvili, and in Kharagauli, they can contact Sergo Rukhadze.

Source: Newspaper Temí, 1912, №56, p. 4.

1912

From January

He collaborates with the humourist almanacs edited by Sergo Gersamia: Mashkhala, Jojokhetis Mashkhala, Eshmakis Mashkhala, and Ankesi. In some issues of these periodical publications, he publishes materials under the pseudonym "G", including humorous responses to the authors of rejected texts.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, "Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

February

1912

February 2

The newspaper Tskhovreba publishes a notice that the young poet Galaktion Tabidze is completing a four-act play in verse titled "The Angel of Death".

Source: Newspaper Tskhovreba, 1912, №2, p. 2.

1912

February 2

The newspaper Tskhovreba announces that signatures are being collected for G. Tabidze's Book titled "Poems and Verses". The price is 50 kopecks. The collection points listed are: Isidore Kvitsaridze's journal and newspaper distribution centre "Imereti", Gogiberidze's bookstore, and the bookstore "Provintsiashi". It is also mentioned that for signing in Tkibuli, they can contact Mikheil Botchorishvili, and in Kharagauli, they can contact Sergo Rukhadze.

Source: Newspaper Tskhovreba, 1912, №2, p. 2.

1912

February 7

The newspaper Kolkhida announces that signatures are being collected for G. Tabidze's Book titled "Poems and Verses". The price is 50 kopecks. The collection points listed are: Isidore Kvitsaridze's journal and newspaper distribution centre "Imereti", Gogiberidze's bookstore, and the bookstore "Provintsiashi". It is also mentioned that for signing in Tkibuli, they can contact Mikheil Botchorishvili, and in Kharagauli, they can contact Sergo Rukhadze.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1912, №27, p. 2.

1912

February 8

The newspaper Tskhovreba publishes a notice stating that the journal and newspaper distribution centre "Imereti" has received the subscription receipts for Galaktion Tabidze's Book "Poems and Verses" and that the cost of each subscription is 50 kopecks.

Source: Newspaper Tskhovreba, 1912, №5, p. 2.

1912

Until February 10

He is working on a title of the work "Elements of Symbolism in Contemporary French, Russian, and Georgian Poetry".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 115, p. 1; GTDA, № 123, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 634.

1912

Until February 10

He writes an announcement in Georgian and Russian that on Friday, February 10, at 7 p.m., Galaktion Tabidze will give a lecture titled "Elements of Symbolism in Contemporary French, Russian, and Georgian Poetry" at the City Theatre.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 115, p. 1; GTDA, № 123, p. 1.

Note: In the Georgian version, the title of the lecture is "Impressionism in Foreign and Georgian Poetry".

1912

February 10

The newspaper Tskhovreba publishes an announcement that subscriptions are open for the first volume of Galaktion Tabidze's Book "Poems and Verses", and that the subscription price is 50 kopecks.

Source: Newspaper Tskhovreba, 1912, №7, p. 4.

1912

February-March

He collaborates with the newly established Social Democratic newspaper Tskhovreba.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №148, p. 2.

Dating: In his autobiography, it is mentioned that he “took refuge” in the editorial office of this newspaper, which was published only in February-March of 1912.

March

1912

March 7

Announcements are published in the newspapers Tskhovreba and Kolkhida stating that on March 11, a literary evening-banquet featuring Ioseb Grishashvili will be held in Kutaisi. Along with Ioseb Grishashvili, Akaki Tsereteli, Davit Kldiashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others will also participate.

Source: Newspaper Tskhovreba, 1912, March 7, №29, p. 2; Newspaper Kolkhida, 1912, №52, p. 1.

Note: Among the participants mentioned are: Akaki Tsereteli, Davit Kldiashvili, N. Charekovisa, A. Tchumbadze, Parmen Tsakheli, Niko Lortkipanidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Jaju Jorjikia, A. Abasheli, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Parkosadze, and Ioseb Grishashvili.

1912

17 March

He is in Kutaisi and is writing a poem titled “N-aia” (“Why do you need sadness...”).

Source: GTDA, №6.

Dating: The date on the autograph is unclear, and it’s uncertain whether the number “1” before the “7” has been erased. Therefore, we cannot rule out the possibility that it was written on “March 7th”.

1912

January – Until March 25

He is in Kutaisi and, together with Prokopi Gujabidze, is participating in the preparation of the first issue of the humour magazine Mashkhala, which is set to be published under the editorship of Sergo Gersamia.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1912

March 25

In the humour magazine Mashkhala, he publishes informational texts under the title “News”, where he humorously presents the latest developments in the cultural sphere.

Source: Mashkhala, 1912, №1, March 25, p. 11-12; Ioseb Lortkipanidze, “Galaktion Tabidze: Life Path and Creative Biographist”, Tbilisi, 1988, p. 77

April

1912

Until April 7

While spending her Easter holidays in Kutaisi, Olya Okujava would quietly follow Galaktion whenever she saw him and loudly exclaim in Russian, “Oh, this is Tabidze”.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, პს. 352-354; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

1912

April 7

At the Kutaisi Theatre, he attends a concert by the 30-year-old Polish virtuoso Bronislaw Huberman. The musician plays Paganini on the violin, and his performance elicits extraordinary admiration from Galaktion. He expresses his feelings with such intense emotion and applause that he disregards a police officer’s warning and is subsequently detained.

Source: Newspaper Закавказская речь, 1912, (№88), April 17, p. 4; V. Javakhadze, “Galaktion Again”, Literaturuli Gazeti, 2018, №9, p. 15.

1912

April 7

His mother and brother are eagerly awaiting Galaktion’s arrival in their native village from Kutaisi, but he is unable to make the trip or send travel money to Abesalom.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1585, პს. 1-4.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter sent by Abesalom to his mother before April 15, 1912.

1912

After April 7

In Kutaisi, his brother visits and asks for money to travel to Tbilisi. Galaktion has fifteen roubles to collect from the editorial office, but he struggles all day to find even 50 kopecks. When Abesalom inquires about the need for such assistance, Galaktion responds that he plans to hold a literary evening, and with the proceeds from it, he will publish a Book and quit his job at the editorial office.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1585, p. 1-4.

Dating: This is discussed in a letter sent by Abesalom to his mother before April 15, 1912.

1912

After April 7

He writes an announcement that on Sunday, at 8 p.m., a literary-dramatic evening will take place with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze. The event will feature Nadezhda Lukmanova’s play “The Death of Napoleon” and Vasil Balanchivadze’s one-act vaudevilles: “The Tailed Star” and “Unfortunate Day”.

Source: GTDA, №97, p. 1.

Dating: On the reverse side of the page where this note is recorded, the incident that occurred at Bronislaw Huberman’s concert on April 7, 1912, which led to Galaktion Tabidze’s detention is mentioned.

1912

After April 7

He writes a poem titled “At Huberman’s Concert”.

Source: GTDA, №47, p. 1.

Dating: The violinist Huberman’s concert was held on April 7, 1912, and the poem reflects the events of this concert.

1912

After April 7

He writes a poem titled “The Poet and the Policeman”.

Source: GTDA, №47, p. 1.

Dating: The violinist Guberman’s concert was held on April 7, 1912, and the poem reflects the events of this concert.

1912

After April 7

He writes a prose text titled “The Poet in the Theatre”.

Source: GTDA, №97, p. 2.

Dating: The violinist Guberman’s concert took place on April 7, 1912, and the note is a reflection of this event.

1912

Until April 8

He writes a story “Ashes”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №876.

Dating: The text was already published on April 8, 1912.

1912

After April 8

In the second issue of the humour magazine Jojokhetis Mashkhala, he publishes a story titled “Old Hat” under the pseudonym “Galashka”.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 3.

Note: This issue of the magazine is not found in libraries.

1912

From March 25 until April 8

He is in Kutaisi, participating with Prokopi Gujabidze in the preparation of the first issue of the humour magazine Jojokhetis Mashkhala, edited by Sergo Gersamia.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1912

Until April 8

He works at the editorial office and receives a very small salary. He often does not have enough money to buy tobacco and already saves the butts from smoked cigarettes to use them when he lacks money for new ones.

Source: Jokhetis Mashkhala, 1912, №1, April 8, p. 5; S. Gersamia, on Galaktion's Youth Years, newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, 1962, January 4, №2, p. 3.

1912

April 8

In the humour magazine Jokhetis Mashkhala, under the pseudonym "Galashka", he publishes a novella titled "Ashes". The novella reflects the material condition of writers, who borrow money for bread, do not discard cigarette butts, and save them for hard times.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 6; Jokhetis Mashkhala, 1912, №1, April 8, p. 5.

1912

April 8 or later

He writes a feuilleton titled "A Conversation with the Playwright".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 6.

1912

After April 8

He is with Archil Paradashvili and other young people from Kutaisi. Paradashvili recounts to his friends how his sweetheart rejected him simply because he always wore an old hat and rudely told him during a proposal that he couldn't even afford to change his hat, let alone support a family. Archil's story amused everyone, and Galaktion wrote a humorous short story titled "Old Hat" based on this incident.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, "Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1912

Until April 15

He writes an untitled poem, "Believe, Have Faith...".

Source: GTDA, №88, p. 1.

1912

Until April 15

He writes an announcement on a piece of paper for the evening he organized on April 15, in which Ivane Gomarteli will participate.

Source: GTDA, №88, p. 1.

1912

Until April 15

Abesalom Tabidze sends a lengthy letter to his mother. He writes that before Galaktion's departure from Kutaisi to Tbilisi, he had to settle the matter of the blanket and left him with underwear and a shirt. He expresses dissatisfaction with his brother's lack of cleanliness and the fact that he has not paid the housekeeper for three months.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1585, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 548.

1912

Until April 15

He writes an announcement that on Sunday, April 15, Galaktion Tabidze will host a literary evening, with the participation of the renowned Georgian writer Ivane Gomarтели.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 85, p. 1; GTDA, № 88, p. 1, GTDA, № 100, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 548.

Note: Among the participants are: P. Tsakheli, I. Grishashvili, J. Jorjikia, G. Kuchishvili, Kortokha, V. Rukhadze, Bakhtadze, G. Tabidze, Charekov's wife, Taguna, Il. Chikovani, S. Abasheli, I. Nikolaishvili, N. Lortkipanidze, V. Balanchivadze, V. Urushadze, Il. Bakhtadze, Nemo, and others.

1912

Until April 15

He writes an untitled poem "Let you believe...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 88, p. 2.

Dating: On the second page of the sheet there is a statement, which we dated to April 15, 1912, according to the date and day of the week.

1912

Until April 15

He writes a poem titled "The Unsent Letter", which he dedicates to the nobleman's daughter "N...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 22, GTDA, №100, p. 1.

Note: "Strings" was written as a title in the lower layer of the autograph and the title "Nightfall" is crossed out.

Dating: On the second page of the sheet there is a statement, which we dated to April 15, 1912 according to the date and day of the week.

1912

April 17

The newspaper Zakavkazskaya Rech reports on the incident at the violinist Huberman's concert, where a police officer arrested the audience member, presumably Galaktion Tabidze, due to excessive ovations. The newspaper criticizes this action as a gross intrusion into an individual's private life.

Source: Newspaper Закавказская речь, 1912, (№88), April 17, p. 4; Vakhtang Javakhadze, “The Unknown”, Tbilisi, 2013, p. 530.

1912

After April 17

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who has read by chance in the newspaper “Zakavkazskaya Rech” that Galaktion was arrested at the concert for applauding excessively. Abesalom inquires whether he was released on the same day and if there were any unpleasant incidents.

Source: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 1997, p. 128.

Dating: We date the letter according to the publication date of the newspaper mentioned in it.

1912

April 21

The Batumis Gazeti announces that on April 28, a Georgian evening-banquet will be held at the Shmaevsky Theatre in Batumi. The event will feature young poets, including Varlam Rukhadze, Irakli Gogoladze, Noe Zomleteli, Galaktion Tabidze, and others.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №91, p. 1; The same announcement is repeated in the newspaper the following day as well.

1912

April 26

The Batumis Gazeti announces that the evening-banquet scheduled for April 28, in which Galaktion Tabidze was also to participate, has been postponed to May 3.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №94, p. 2.

1912

April 29

The Batumis Gazeti reiterates the announcement that the evening-banquet scheduled for April 28, which was to include Galaktion Tabidze, has been postponed to May 3.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №96, p. 2.

May

1912

May 2

The Sakhalkho Gazeti publishes a notice that actor Gugushvili has been granted permission by the governor of Kutaisi to hold literary evenings in Poti on May 3 and in Lanchkhuti on May 4. The events will feature: Leo Natadze, Nestor Kalandadze, Shalva Sharashidze, Varlam Khurodze, Iliia Bakhtadze, Varlam Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Alexandre Abasheli, Barnab Gelazania, and others.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1912, №589, p. 2.

Note: In the source, Varlam Khurodze is referred to as “Malakishvili”, Shalva Sharashidze as “Taguna”, Nestor Kalandadze as “Eshmaki”, and Barnab Gelazania as “Gela”.

1912

Until May 6

He writes a promotional announcement that on Sunday, May 6, at 9:30 p.m., Galaktion Tabidze will host a literary evening at the Kutaisi Theatre. The event will feature a lecture by Ivane Gomarteli on the topic “Family and Humanity”. The following individuals will read their own works: Parmen Tsakheli, Davit Kldiashvili, Varlam Rukhadze, Iason Nikolaishvili, Shalva Sharashidze, Niko Lortkipanidze, Stephane Dzimistarashvili, Jaju Jorjikia, and Galaktion Tabidze. In the third section, participants will include: Vasil Balanchivadze, Ilia Bakhtadze, Vasil Urushadze, Platon Korisheli, Ilia Chikovani, Giorgi Parkosadze, Shalva Dadiani, and Davit Meskhi. The announcement notes that Galaktion will read the poem “Like a Breeze, Like a Breeze...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №589, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 555.

Note: Shalva Sharashidze is referred to as “Taguna”, Stephane Dzimistarashvili as “Kortokha”, and Giorgi Parkosadze as “Gutsa”. The others are listed only by their initials. The poem titled “Like a Breeze, Like a Breeze.”. may refer to the poem known by the title “The Forest Took Me Away”.

1912

Until May 6

He writes a poem titled “At midnight, When the Village...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №589, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

1912

Until May 6

He writes a statement in Russian about organizing a literary evening on May 6 at the city theatre, in which Akaki Tsereteli, Davit Kldiashvili, and other Georgian writers will participate.

Source: Record, GTDA, №59, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

Note: Among the participants mentioned are: Akaki Tsereteli, Davit Kldiashvili, Tsakheli, Malakiashvili, V. Rukhadze, D. Meskhi, I. Grishashvili, J. Jorjikia, S. Abasheli, I. Nikolaishvili, Taguna, Ilia Bakhtadze, G. Tabidze, N. Lortkipanidze, and G. Kuchishvili.

1912

Until May 6

He writes an untitled poem “Be careful, be careful, do not touch me...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №59, p. 2; G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 101; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 165; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 555.

Note: The poem is entirely crossed out in the autograph.

1912

Until May 6

He writes an untitled poem “Never have I missed so much...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №59, p. 2; G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 101; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 165; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 555.

Note: The poem also appears under the titles: “Never Do I Long for Freedom So Much” and “Never Do I Long So Much”.

1912

Until May 6

He writes an untitled poem, “The edge of the forest slumbers...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №59, p. 2; G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 101; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 165; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 555.

1912

May 6

The Batumis Gazeti announces that on May 6, a literary evening will be held in Lanchkhuti, featuring: Alexandre Abasheli, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Varlam Khurodze, Barnab Gelazania, and Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №101, p. 1.

Note: In the source, Varlam Khurodze is referred to as “Malakiashvili” and Barnab Gelazania as “Gela”.

1912

Until May 11

He receives a letter sent to him from Tbilisi to Kutaisi by his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. In the letter, he learns that he has been summoned to court on June 11th, but he cannot figure out the reason why.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 821, p. 1-2.

Dating: The information is provided in a letter sent to his brother on May 11, 1912.

1912

May 11

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, describing the difficult material and emotional state he is in. He explains that their mother has already done so much for him, and he doesn't want to turn to her for help now that she is older. Moreover, he wishes he could tell her that he is doing well, but he doesn't even have the money to send the letter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 821, p. 1-2.

1912

Until May 12

He dedicates the poem titled "In the Album" ("Tell me, what should I swear...") to Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 9-10, 42; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: Initially, the poem was titled "The Oath", but this title was crossed out. The recipient is referred to by the initial "R". One version of the poem begins with the words: "What Shall I Swear By, Explain to Me...".

1912

Until May 12

He writes a poem titled "The Poet" ("Even the storm...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 11; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: Initially, the poem was titled "Cold". In the autograph, the entire poem is crossed out.

1912

Until May 12

He writes a poem titled "Night's Lament" with a note underneath that says ("To Sad Eyes").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 11; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

Until May 12

He writes the title of a poem, "Prayer", but then stops writing immediately afterward.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 12; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

Until May 12

He writes an untitled poem "I love you, come... Do you thirst for affection and tenderness?"

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 13; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025,

Note: Underneath the poem, next to the signature, it says "Baden-Baden". p. 669.

1912

Until May 12

He begins writing a poem titled "Serenade" ("Immortal memory in immortal verses..."), but he stops writing it immediately afterward.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 13. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 62; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He translates the Austrian poet Nikolaus Lenau's poem "Reconciliation" ("Beloved of my heart, I wish to explain a secret to you, listen...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 96; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes the play "Twilight", the main actors of which are: the artist, Misan, Cupid, the passenger and the crowd. The subheadings of the acts of the first part are: "The suffering of creativity", "Creativity", "The Crowd", "Nonentity", "The Purpose of being", "Foresight of Men", "Created Fairies", "Doubt" and "The Song of Search". The title of the second part is "Grandmother Time", and the actions: "Abyss of Being" and "The song of silence".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 49-70; GTDA, №618, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The autograph also includes the original titles of the play: "Glory", "Fantastic Times" and "Fantasy", the first two of which are crossed out. The original title of the second part "God", the titles of the third part: "Nonentity" and "The song of silence" have also been crossed out. "Repentance" is written next to the title of the sixth chapter.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem titled "Comparisons" ("And Just as Before...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 71; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem titled Yellow Leaves ("It's autumn... Sad raindrops...") but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 72; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the title is crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He dedicates the poem "Flowers of youth" ("How many are there in the misty area of Eden...") under the pseudonym "Galashka" to Grigol Diasamidze, a friend of the youth.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 73; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the original titles "Gipsy Romance" and "Youth" are crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He writes an untitled poem “It’s a moonlit night...” under the pseudonym “Sisini”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 73; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the poem is crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem, the title of which he thinks first is “Night Thoughts”, and then “Silence” (“The mountain spring is singing...”), but he crosses out both titles and does not finish the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 75; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes poems: “The Wet Grave,” “You Will Not Die,” “Nanina,” “The Tempter,” “The Temple,” “Death and Life”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №326, p. 1; GTDA, №327, p. 1; A list compiled by G. Tabidze, GTDA, №297.

Dating: The list includes a poem written after May 12, 1912.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “Prayer” in Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA 327, p. 2.

Dating: On the second page of the paper, there is a poem dated by us to a period after May 12, 1912.

Note: The poem “Молитва” (“Prayer”) begins with the words: “Любовью счастьем и манила...”.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem with the words “I was waiting for you...” but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 76; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem titled Join! (“Join: the moan is heard...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 76; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem “Dream” (“On the blue meadow I built...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 77; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, both this title and the original title “Phantasma” are crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem with the words “In the silence of moans / The distant realm...” but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 77; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a play “Whose, whose is the beautiful woman?”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 78; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: All the titles: “Twilight”, “Kolkhida” and “Kolkhidian tune” are crossed out in the autograph, as well as a dedication to Trifon Japaridze.

1912

After May 12

In the form of a short feuilleton, he writes a satirical poem “Editor” (“Some editors / retreat like a mule...”) and sends it to the editor of Sakhalkho Gazeti for publication.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 79; For dating and identification of persons: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes an untitled fable in verse: “Once, the Georgian beasts held a great conversation...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 80; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He dedicates a poem titled “To Akaki” (“Old ray of light...”) to Akaki Tsereteli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 81; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The titles of the poem were originally: “First love”, “Dying rays” and “Dedication to our old poets”, but all of them and the entire text have been crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem entitled “Two sorrows” (“Blue sky ... blue mountains...”), which he dedicates to Alexandre Abasheli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №141, p. 1; GTDA, №198, p. 47; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: Alternative titles “Song of the tired”, “Yellow Leaves”, “Wailing of tunes” and “Constant Sorrow”, are written on the same page, the last three of which are crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem titled “Black Chant” (“In the darkness of night, a song is heard...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 39; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a drama in three acts and four pictures, entitled “The soul-receiving angel”. The action in the play takes place in Bursa, the actors are the 13-14-year-old girl Zuleima, Zuleima’s father Satar, the owner of the brothel – woman Khaliva – the young boy Sandro, a policeman, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 15-40, 82-83; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the initial outline of the drama, the main character was named Elene instead of Zuleima.

1912

After May 12

He writes the title “The Poet’s Song”, then crosses it out and writes a new title, “I Am the Poet” (“Odysseus Said: I Am Called a Poet...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 41; GTDA, №645, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: One version of the poem begins with the words: “With a Calm Smile, When It Illuminates...”.

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem titled “The Song of the Emigrant” (“A cold wind drives us far away from our homeland...”) but stops shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №645, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is written between two versions of the poem “The Song of the Poet,” which we have dated to a period after May 12, 1912.

1912

After May 12

He writes down the names of plants on a piece of paper.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 45; For dating and person identification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He revises the poem “In the Mountains”, written on the motifs of a Circassian romance, dedicating it to “the daughter of N. D”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 43; For dating and identification of persons: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The dedication likely refers to Nino Dadiani-Kazbegi.

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem “I Was the Sun” (“In the drowsy garden, a drowsy afternoon...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 44; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

In the notebook, he writes down the names of plants and animals, including birds.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 45; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He dedicates an untitled poem to Alexandre Abasheli “The echo of the mountain / Repeats the sounds...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 46; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He translates Gotthfried Bürger’s poem, untitled: “The wild storm blows with a mournful cry...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 47; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025,
Note: Alongside the beginning of the poem, there is an inscription “from Bürger”. p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “The Deer and the Woman” (“The deer listens, listens by the cliff...”) but crosses it out entirely.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №38, p. 2.

Note: The poem is also found with the beginning: “The deer listens to the whisper of the grass...”.

Dating: We date it based on the text provided on the second page of the paper, which we have dated.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “What will you tell me”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №38, p. 1; GTDA, №198, p. 47; GTDA, №227, p. 2; GTDA, №378, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In one autograph, the title is crossed out with no alternative provided. In another, the title is “A Song”, and in a third, it is “Elegy”. The poem is included in the larger work “The Suffering of Creation”.

1912

After May 12

He dedicates a poem entitled “Sorrow” (“If I was created as a mighty God...”) to Alexandre Abasheli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 48; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the original titles were: “Yellow Leaves”, “The Wailing of Melodies”, “Eternal Sorrow”, and “Song of the Weary”.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem titled “Candle” (“Where the carefree breeze blows across the meadow...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 84; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The title in the autograph is crossed out, and no alternative is written.

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem titled “Homeland” but then crosses out both the title and the beginning of the poem and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 85; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem titled “Zephyr” (“How enchantingly it is adorned...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 86; GTDA, №638, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The initial versions of the title were “Lines” and “Waves”, but both are crossed out.

1912

After May 12

He writes the title “The Old Temple” but then immediately stops writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 88; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem titled “Melody” (“Then sing something like...”) but then immediately stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 90; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem titled “Yellow Leaves” (“I once found a leaf in a book...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 90-91; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “Crown” (“Behold, the crown that adorns the grave...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 91; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “The Monk’s Dream” (“He fell Asleep On the open book...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 92, 94; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In one autograph, the title is “In the Monastery” (Legend).

1912

After May 12

He begins writing a poem “In the Monastery” (“Emilia was quietly dozing...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 92, 94; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

In the notebook, he writes a dedication to Noe Zhordania but does not begin writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 95; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “Autumn” (“Raindrops fall on the windowpane...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 93; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem in the form of a short feuilleton “Silovan’s Grammar” (“After Kvirikela...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 97; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a poem entitled “To Antisa” (“Dear, when I think of you...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 98; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After May 12

He writes a poem “Reconciliation” (“For a long time, I yearned for someone in the world to love me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 99; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the title is crossed out, and no alternative is written.

1912

After May 12

He begins to write a novel in verse entitled “Dalilah” (“Where even the eye cannot reach the fields lying across...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 100; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In the autograph, the title is crossed out, and no alternative is written.

1912

May 13

Batumis Gazeti publishes a notice that on Tuesday, May 22, a postponed evening-banquet will be held in the Iron Theatre.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №106, p. 2.

Note: The building, which was located on the current Baratashvili Street in Batumi, was originally a warehouse for iron goods, and therefore it was named “The Iron Theatre” after it was converted into a theatre. The hall could accommodate up to 900 spectators.

1912

May 16

Batumis Gazeti publishes a notice that on Tuesday, May 22, an evening-banquet will be held with the participation of Davit Kldiashvili, Parmen Tsakheli, Giorgi Kuchishvili and Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №107, p. 1.

1912

After May 21

He participates in a rural teachers’ conference held in Kutaisi. He criticizes the methods of working with students and the policy of removing the Georgian language from educational institutions.

Source: Al. Gorgadze, “He Was Young Back Then”, magazine Pioneri, 1963, №8, p. 19-20.

1912

After May 22

He receives a reply from his brother in Tbilisi, who expresses concern over his pessimistic outlook. He shares that he has exams and will finish his seminary in a few days. He has two realistic options to choose from: teaching in a village with a 30-rouble salary or becoming a priest, but he hasn’t decided yet. His desire is to continue studying at the theological academy, which will require some preparation. During the four years he will be studying at the seminary, Galaktion will have to work as a teacher, and when Abesalom finishes, he will take care of him as well. The addressee asks him to go to the village immediately upon receiving the letter and discuss these plans with their mother, who will know whether a two-class school will open in their village. He requests that he be informed quickly about the mother’s opinion through letter so he can decide whether to bring books for preparation or not and advises that nothing be mentioned to anyone else. He suggests spending the summer in Kutaisi.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1263; p. 1-4.

Dating: The letter is stamped with a seal from Kutaisi, dated May 22.

1912

Until May 28

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili. The addressee asks if he has finished working on the novel and shares his opinion that the prose of Galaktion reminds of the works of the Polish writer - Stanislaw Przybyszewski. Mikheil asks Galaktion to inform him how the publication of the Book is going in order to comfort the subscribers. He is also interested in whether the addressee's story "Mimosa" was delivered to the editors of the newspaper Temi.

Source: GTDA, №842, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 536.

1912

After May 28

He receives the reply letter sent on May 28 from Mikheil Botchorishvili. The addressee shares that he has begun rewriting his novel "Mtsukhrishvili" but is unsure when he will be able to finish it. He is interested in what happened to his "Mimosa", whether it was published in the newspaper Temi or not. He also informs Galaktion that on June 15th he is holding a literary evening for children, and he immediately needs Galaktion's poems: "First of September", "Demon" or something else.

Source: M. Botchorishvili's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, autograph, MGL, 24551-446; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 247, 248.

1912

Spring

He lives with Valerian Gaprindashvili on Balakhvani Street in Kutaisi and receives a letter from Olya Okujava. The sender describes scenes of nature and talks about her love and feelings. It seems she is upset with Galaktion. She writes that she loves Galaktion, whom she has created in her imagination, and ends the letter with the words "Always distant for you".

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-361; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 183-184; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 517-518.

1912

May or later

Makrine Adeishvili sends a letter of greetings to her son, Abesalom. She notifies him that she thinks a lot about his future and advises that he should be sent to higher education. If it is not possible this year, she suggests that they gather the necessary funds for the following year. She also informs that Galaktion has sold his teaching position and is planning to go for further studies himself.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1515, p. 1-4.

Note: After the closure of the Partskhnali School, Galaktion did not work at another school. It is possible that he was promised a teaching position elsewhere and gave it up for someone else.

1912

Spring or earlier

He dedicates a poem titled “Playful Rhymes” (“Ah, where is that land...”) to Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 139; GTDA, №332.

Note: The dedication is written with the initial “R,” and the poem’s original title, “The Teacher,” is crossed out.

1912

Spring or earlier

He dedicates a poem titled “The Song of the Mokhevian” (“Woman, I melt... I burn...”) to Raisa Chikhladze but stops writing shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 139.

June

1912

After June 1

He writes an untitled poem “A fly saw a spider...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 106; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He begins to write a poem titled “In Memory of I. Gogebashvili” (“I wish to turn into a tear myself...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 101; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

With the signature “Margarita Gauthier”, he writes an untitled poem “I can’t be with the wave anymore...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 102; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He revises and rewrites an untitled poem “It’s spring, the shores of the lake...” and dedicates it to Nino Dadiani.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 103; For clarification of information and dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The poem’s title, “By the Window”, is crossed out.

1912

After June 1

He writes a poem titled “On the Lake” (“Thoughts’ attire wraps around me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 104; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He writes a poem “Doubt” (“The breeze’s wish has come true...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 108; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He writes an untitled poem “Veiled in the mist”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 105; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He writes a prose text titled “Zuleima”, in which he describes the relationship between a gymnasium student and an eight-year-old Tatar girl named Zuleima.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 109-110; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He writes a poem titled “Iris – A Dream” (“Iris – the dream has passed away...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 107; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

After June 1

He begins writing a poem titled “By the Lake Shore” (“The delicate, light reeds mourn...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 113; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The initial title of the poem, “On the Sea”, is crossed out.

1912

After June 1

He begins to write a poem entitled “Woman and Art” (“The deer is listening to the whisper of the grass...”), which is prefaced by the words of the French poet Sully Prudhomme: “Poet, be afraid of the treacherous women-admirers”. Then he rewrites the title and begins with, “Where? Where did you create such a wonderful tune...”. In the end, he resumes writing this poem once more and begins with the words: “Don’t trust the sky vault that is bright and burning...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 111, 114, 131; GTDA, №626, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The epigraph in Russian is read as follows: “Страшись, поэтъ, поклонницъ, хитрыхъ дѣвъ!”. One version of the poem begins with the words: “For a Long Time, I Waited and Searched for the Sky-Coloured Violet...”.

1912

Until June 3

He writes a statement in Georgian and Russian languages that on Sunday, June 3, under the leadership of Galaktion Tabidze, a literary-drama evening will be held, during which Vasil Balanchivadze’s one-act vaudeville “The Tailed Star” will be presented and writers will participate.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 84, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 555.

Note: Among the participants are: D. Kldiashvili, Shalva Dadiani, N. Lortkipanidze, V. Malakiashvili, I. Nikolaishvili, D. Jorjikia, Ch. Umbadze, Akaki Tsereteli, P. Tsakheli, I. Grishashvili, V. Rukhadze, Ms. Charekovisa, G. Tabidze, Nemo, D. Meskhi, Taguna, V. Balanchivadze, Ap. Tsuladze, At. Tsuladze, Il. Bakhtadze, I. Zardalishvili, and others.

1912

June 3

Batumis Gazeti publishes a notice that in the near future an interesting literary evening will be held in the Kutaisi theater under the initiative of the young poet Galaktion Tabidze, in which local fiction writers, poets and humorists will participate.

Source: Batumis Gazeti, 1912, №122, p. 2.

1912

Until June 8

In Russian, he writes a request addressed to the Governor of Kutaisi, seeking permission to hold literary-dramatic evenings in Khoni on June 8 and in the Kutaisi Theatre on June 9.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №590, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 554.

1912

Until June 8

He writes words that begin with the letter “S”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №590, p. 2.

1912

June 8

To organize the evening, he first arrives in Khoni, where he is captivated by the well-maintained courtyards and is amazed by the abundance of schools.

Source: G. Mebuke, G. Tabidze in Khoni, newspaper Komunizmis Gzit, 1967, №110.

1912

June 8

The newspaper Kolkhida publishes a notice that on Saturday, June 9, Galaktion Tabidze's literary evening will be held in the city theatre, in which Akaki Tsereteli, Parmen Tsakheli, Shalva Dadiani and other poets will participate.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1912, №7, p. 2.

Note: In the source, the participants are mentioned as follows: Varlam Khurodze is referred to as "Malakiashvili", Mikheil Janoev as "Nemo", and Stephane Dzimistarashvili as "Kortokha". Other participants named are: Iason Nikoleishvili, Ioseb Grishashvili, Davit Meskhi, Jaju Jorjikia, Teophile Khuskivadze, Varlam Khurodze, Vasil Balanchivadze, and Ilia Bakhtadze.

1912

Until June 9

He writes an untitled poem: "The breeze blows... the waves stir one another...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №223;

Note: Later, the title "Urantsula Fundoti" is added.

Dating: On the other side of the paper, there is an announcement about the evening of June 9.

1912

Until June 9

He writes a notice that on Saturday, June 9, a literary evening will be held at the city theater, in which he, along with Georgian poets and writers, will participate.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №53, GTDA, №223, p. 1, GTDA, №96, p. 1.

Note: Among the participants listed in the notice are: Shalva Dadiani, V. Malakiashvili, J. Jorjikia, I. Nikoleishvili, T. Khuskivadze, Akaki Tsereteli, P. Tsakheli, V. Rukhadze, I. Grishashvili, G. Tabidze, I. Zardalishvili, D. Maiashvili, Kortokha, K. Abashipireli, D. Meskhi, V. Balanchivadze, Nemo, Ap. Tsuladze, Ilia Bakhtadze, Kalabegishvili, and Korisheli.

1912

Until June 9

On a piece of paper, he writes the text of an announcement about the literary evening-celebration to be held on June 9 at the City Theatre. The announcement states that stories, novellas, and miniatures will be read by Shalva Dadiani, Varlam Malakiashvili (Khurodze), Jaju Jorjikia, Iason Nikolaishvili, and Theophile Khuskivadze. Poems will be recited by Akaki Tsereteli, Parmen Tsakheli, Varlam Rukhadze, Ioseb Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Stepane Dzimistarashvili (Kortokha), and others. There will also be humorous performances.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №544, p. 2.

Note: Later, the title “In the Room” is added.

1912

June 9

The newspaper Kolkhida publishes a notice that today, at half past nine in the evening, a great literary evening will be held in Kutaisi theatre, in which Akaki Tsereteli, Parmen Tsakheli, Varlam Rukhadze and others will participate. It is also said that at the evening Galaktion Tabidze and Varlam Rukhadze will read their works in memory of Iakob Gogebashvili.

Source: Newspaper Kolkhida, 1912, №68, p. 1.

Note: In the source, Varlam Khurodze is referred to as “Malakiashvili”, Mikheil Janoev as “Nemo”, and Stephane Dzamistarashvili as “Kortokha”. The participants also include Shalva Dadiani, Galaktion Tabidze, Jaju Georgikia, Teophile Khuskivadze, Ioseb Grishashvili, and Iason Nikoleishvili.

1912

After June 9

He writes a poem “The Secret” (“She died as the young morning filled beneath the veil of night...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №544, p. 1.

Note: Later, the title “In the Room” is added.

Dating: On the other side of the paper, the announcement about the evening of June 9 had already been written before this text was added.

1912

After June 9

He writes a poem “Duty” (“Do not think that my love for you...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №544, p. 3.

Note: Later, the title “In the Room” is added.

Dating: On the other side of the paper, the announcement about the evening of June 9 had already been written before this text was added.

1912

Until June 10

He writes a statement in Russian that on Sunday, June 10, a literary-drama evening will be held under the leadership of Galaktion Tabidze, during which Vasil Balanchivadze’s one-act vaudeville “The Tailed Star” will be presented and writers will participate.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, № 77, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 555.

Note: In addition, there are other participants: D. Kldiashvili, Shalva Dadiani, N. Lortkipanidze, V. Malakiashvili, I. Nikolaishvili, D. Jorjikia, Ch. Umbadze, [...], Akaki Tsereteli, Tsakheli, I. Grishashvili, [...] D. Meskhi, Taguna, V. Balanchivadze, [...] S. Gersamia, I. Bakhtadze, and others.

1912

June or later

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili, who informs him that the information about the publication and distribution of the Book of Galaktion's poems. He writes that as Mikheil collected signatures for this Book for Galaktion, the subscribers came to him to receive the books. Mikheil asks Galaktion to send at least a few books, even for money. He writes that he has asked his acquaintance to pass him the letter and asks Galaktion to send the address and give his regards to Olya Okujava.

Source: GTDA, №841, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 536.

July

1912

Until July 3

He writes a poem "What shall I do?", under which he writes that it is dedicated to "Z, daughter of Tav".

Source: Newspaper Chveni Tskhovreba, 1912, №2, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 60.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

July 3

The newspaper Chveni Tskhovreba publishes the poem "What shall I do?" with the inscription: "Dedicated to Z., daughter of Tav.".

Source: Newspaper Chveni Tskhovreba, 1912, №2, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 60.

1912

July 21

He is in Kutaisi, while filming the beginning of Akaki Tsereteli's journey to Racha-Lechkhumi.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, №270, p. 68; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 197; For clarification of information and dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 661.

1912

Summer

He receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. The sender asks him to take care of himself, and if he cannot adapt to his current job, to try to find another one. If he cannot find a new job, she suggests that he come to the village and stay until September. She also writes that if Abesalom visits him, they should buy good black material for trousers.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551-300; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 142; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", 2025, p. 494.

September

1912

Until September

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava and writes a reply at the Samtredia station going from Poti to Chkvishi. He mentions that he is going to rest with his mother, and books and Olya's letters will be only his only friends there.

Source: G. Tabidze, MGL, 24551-61; AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 53; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 512.

1912

September or later

He writes a poem "Farewell!" ("So, farewell; I loved you so...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №576, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", 2025, P. 469-470.

1912

September or later

His brother, Abesalom Tabidze, sends a letter to someone named Father Tarasi, asking the recipient to assist Galaktion in finding a teaching position, specifically to advise whom to approach. He notes that a paid position would be preferable, but if that is not possible, he requests that Galaktion be appointed as a third teacher at Abesalom's school in an unpaid capacity.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №576, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", 2025, p. 469-470.

October

1912

October 20

From Samtredia, a letter sent by his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, from the village of Chokhnari in Sajavakho, is delivered to his hometown of Chkvishi. Abesalom informs him that he has not yet settled into a proper apartment but plans to move soon. He asks if the grape harvest has been completed and promises that he will definitely arrive in 8 days.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, GTDA, №1264; p. 1-2.

Dating: The letter was stamped in Samtredia on October 20th.

1912

October 21

He thinks that for happiness, he only needs a sympathetic and beautiful woman and a cozy life, even in a small hut, away from the earthly evil clamour and grumbling. With this mood, he writes a poem "Reconciliation" ("Perhaps at night the frost will touch the windows...").

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 140; First publication: magazine Tsiskari, 1962, №1; Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, Letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 546.

Note: From the letter sent to Mikheil Botchorishvili, it is also clear that Zuleima mentioned in the poem "Reconciliation" is not a real woman (I even gave her a name: Zuleima).

Dating: From the letter sent to Mikheil Botchorishvili on October 22nd, it is evident that the poem was written the previous day.

1912

Until October 22

The attempt to publish the Book ends in failure, because he cannot collect more than 15 signatures. In addition to the money taken from these subscribers, he owes the housekeeper of the rented house in Kutaisi, canteens, barber's and milk shops and is in terrible depression. Meanwhile, his brother – Abesalom Tabidze visits him and takes him to his native village Chkvishi, so that life in Kutaisi does not plunge him into even greater debts and depression. There, Galaktion calms down and writes about a hundred small poems.

Source: Letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 541-546.

Dating: This is discussed in the letter sent to Mikheil Botchorishvili on October 22nd.

1912

Until October 22

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili. The addressee is very upset with Galaktion because he collected money from subscribers to publish his book, took it away, and neither published the Book nor returned the money. He is sorry that Galaktion did not receive money from the literary evening. Mikheil requests him to write in detail what he intends to do with the subscribers, because if he (the addressee) needs to pay off the Money, he would prefer to hear about it in good time.

Source: GTDA, №854, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 587.

1912

Until October 22

He writes a mystical poem "The Almond Trees".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 546.

Dating: In the letter dated October 22nd to Mikheil Botchorishvili, he mentions that he has written the poem "The Poplar Trees".

1912

Until October 22

He writes a novel in verse titled "The Old Tower" ("At Midnight, When the Sacred Light...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №31; №140; GTDA, №451; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 541-546.

Dating: The poem is mentioned in the letter sent to Mikheil Botchorishvili on October 22, 1912.

1912

Until October 22

He writes a story “Two Friends”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 546.

Note: From the letter sent to Mikheil Botchorishvili, it is evident that the original version of the story was titled “The Old Tower”, and Galaktion had already read it to the recipient.

Dating: In the letter dated October 22nd to Mikheil Botchorishvili, he mentions that he has revised the story “Two Friends”.

1912

Until October 22

He translates one-third of Homer’s “Odyssey”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 546; Autograph, GTDA, №128, p. 2, 3; GTDA, №193, p. 1-8; GTDA, №453, p. 1-6.

Dating: In the letter dated October 22nd to Mikheil Botchorishvili, he mentions that he has already translated one-third of the “Odyssey”.

1912

Until October 22

He plans to work on a poem “Christ in the Desert” and is reading theological literature.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 541-546.

Dating: Galaktion’s intention is revealed to Mikheil Botchorishvili in the letter dated October 22, 1912.

1912

October 22

He is in his native village Chkvishi and receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili. Galaktion immediately writes a reply. He shares his heartache about feeling like an orphan in human society, he does not share the opinion that the human heart is as unrecognizable as a sphinx. He writes that in four fifths of the human heart there is “a wild game” and therefore, he does not feel so orphaned anywhere as in society. He expresses his joy about the fact that the sudden, written formation of his thoughts has been much better lately, and he writes a lot. He apologizes that the addressee fell into debt because of him and promises that he will definitely repay the money that Mikheil returned to the subscribers instead of Galaktion. He sends his own poem “Reconciliation” and speaks about the feelings that led him to write it. He writes that he will leave Mikheil’s story “Mimosa”, which he reread several times and fell in love with, in Kutaisi. He expresses his hope that Luarsab Botsvadze will definitely publish his “Mtsukhrishvili”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Mikheil Botchorishvili, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 541-546.

Note: Mikheil Botchorishvili sold the subscription receipts for Galaktion's Book and gave the money to Galaktion, but since the Book was not published, and Galaktion had no money, he had to return the money to the subscribers until Galaktion earned it.

1912

Until October 23

He writes a poem "Closed Eyes".

Source: Autograph: MGL, № 8771; collection "Grdemli", 1912, II, p. 87; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 156.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until October 23

The poem "Closed Eyes" is published in the literary collection Grdemli.

Source: collection "Grdemli", 1912, Book II, p. 87.

Dating: In the October 23 issue of Sakhalkho Gazeti, it is mentioned that the second issue of the collection Grdemli is already being sold in the Tbilisi bookstore.

1912

October 23

A notice is published in Sakhalkho Gazeti that a newly published collection Grdemli is being sold in a Tbilisi bookstore, one of whose authors is Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1912, №730, p. 1.

1912

October or later

In the second issue of the magazine Deputatis Archevani, he reads the article "Election Provocation" published under the pseudonym "Madelen" and writes in his notebook that Madelen is a talented Georgian publicist.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 116; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He begins to write a poem titled "Charm" but decides to stop and crosses out both the title and the beginning of the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 116; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes the title “Pleiades”, crosses it out and writes “Echo”, then under it he writes a new title “Traveller” (“It’s been a long time since...”) but crosses them out and stops writing the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 117; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes the title “Georgia”, then notes a new title beneath it, “To a Friend” (“A distant song...”), but decides to stop writing and crosses everything out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 118; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes the title “To a Friend”, then crosses it out and writes a new title beneath it, “In the Album” (“What will the black heavens tell you...”), but does not complete the poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 119; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He begins to write a poem titled “Exhausted” (“Ah, Henrietta! My tormentor...”) and notes beneath it “From the Diary” but does not complete the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 120; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes the title “Individualism” for a short feuilleton but does not continue with it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 121; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

In the notebook, he writes several times the surname of the character, the brave warrior Kukubenko, from Nikolai Gogol’s story “Taras Bulba”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 121; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes a poem “The Poet” (“Do you remember the evening when...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 122; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes the title of the poem “Pleasure” but does not continue writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 122; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He writes an untitled poem “With a quiet murmur, it flows...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 122; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He edits the poem “The Preacher” (“The sun sets in the west...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 123. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 224; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The original title “The Cemetery” is crossed out in the autograph, but another alternative title, “The Poet”, is left uncrossed. The final version of the poem is titled “The Invisible” and is published with the inscription: “In front of Aivazovsky’s painting”.

1912

October or later

He writes an untitled poem: “I Have a Heart Full of Unspoken Melodies of Sorrow...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 116; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

October or later

He begins writing a poem titled “May is Coming” (“Where can I find solace...”), dedicated to Trifon Japaridze, but stops writing shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 124; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

October or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Memory”, dedicated to Trifon Japaridze, but stops writing shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 124; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

October or later

He writes an untitled poem, “Oh surroundings! I could not find a home in you...”, but then immediately crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 124; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

November

1912

After November 1

He receives a letter from Mikheil Botchorishvili, who advises him to discuss teaching vacancies with the educator Stephan Dzimistarashvili from St. Nino Women’s Seminary and Averkiyev. Additionally, Botchorishvili asks him to correct the language of his story “Mimosa”. The sender shares his emotions, writing that he had only one female friend, and she has since married. He mentions that Luarsab Botsvadze plans to publish his “Mtsukhrishvili”. Mikheil informs that they are working on a new story titled “In the Waves of Passion”. He expresses deep concern over not having money to pay for Galaktion’s Book receipts.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-445; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 249 -251.

Note: The source states “Dzimestarashvili”.

1912

November 5 or later

He writes a poem titled “Birthday”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 440.

1912

Until November 12

He writes a poem titled “The Old Oak”.

Source: Autograph 7381; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 114.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “The Oak”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

November 12

He publishes the poem “The Old Oak” in the newspaper Temi.

Source: Newspaper Temi, 1912, № 97, p. 3.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled “The Moment of Creation”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №128, p. 1.

Dating: By November 15, 1912, this poem under the title “Creativity” had already been published in the magazine Ganatileba.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem “Romance” (“Standing on the seashore...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 4.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled “In the Wild Melody of Autumn...” was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem “Diana” (“The brightness of the eyes captures the orphaned soul...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 4.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled “In the Wild Melody of Autumn...” was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem “I sit by the window... soon, very soon...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 4.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled “In the Wild Melody of Autumn...” was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem Bayati (“Before the golden goblet...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 4.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled “In the Wild Melody of Autumn...” was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem Chalvadari (“The night has spread over the road, and a gentle breeze drifts by...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 1.

Note: The titles “In the Village” and “The Traveler” are crossed out.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled “In the Wild Melody of Autumn...” was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem: "The garden has yellowed, faded away...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 1.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem "The rain drizzles, moans, the plane tree sighs...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 1.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem "Sadness, pierce the dark night's mist...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 2.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem "In the wild melody of autumn, a leaf dies...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 2.

Dating: The poem was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem "By the Cradle" ("Do not cry, little one...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 2.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem "By day, we rejoiced in the flower-filled field...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 2.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem "I often dream and gaze at the sky...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 3.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumnn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem "The Cloud" ("A cloud drifts toward the sky, soon it will cover the moon...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 3.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumnn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem "Why Do I Need It?" ("Why do I need talent, my beautiful one...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №869, p. 3.

Dating: On the same page, a poem titled "In the Wild Melody of Autumnn..." was published before November 15, 1912.

Note: Later, the title "Serenade" is added.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled "Autumn Leaf".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 86; For dating: magazine Ganatileba, 1912, №9, November, p. 697.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Yellow Leaf".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled "Soon, Very Soon!".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 87; For dating: magazine Ganatileba, 1912, №9, November, p. 697.

Note: The poem is found in other sources under the title "By the Window".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

He writes an untitled poem "I often dream...".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 88; For dating: magazine Ganatileba, 1912, №9, November, p. 699.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled “The Chandelier”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 99; For dating: magazine Ganatileba, 1912, №9, November, p. 697.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem “AVE MARIA”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 100.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “What a Longing I Have” and “Bright”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled “At the Cemetery” (“A breeze blows... at the cemetery...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 105; For dating: magazine Ganatileba, 1912, №9, November, p. 698.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “It Will Not Renew, It Will Not Return”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled “Farewell” (“Glacier, what were you conceived for...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 63.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1912

Until November 15

Ten poems of Galaktion are published in the magazine Ganatileba under the general title “Ashes of Feelings: “Autumn Leaf” (“The leaf withers in the wild tune of autumn...”), “AVE MARIA”, “Soon, Very Soon!”, “At the Cemetery” (“A breeze blows... at the cemetery...”), “The Meadows Bloom”, “The House”, “Serenade”, the untitled poem (“I often dream...”), “Farewell” (“Glacier, what were you conceived for...”), and “Creation”.

Source: Magazine Ganatileba, 1912, №IX, p. 697-699.

Note: Later, the author revised some of the poems and changed their titles. For example, the poem “Soon, Very Soon!” was retitled “By the Window”, “The Meadows Bloom” became “The Ashes of Feelings”, and “Autumn Leaf” was renamed “Yellow Leaf”. The poem “Creation” was changed to

“The Moment of Creation”, and “At the Cemetery” was retitled “It Will Not Renew, It Will Not Return”.

Dating: The publication in the Sakhalkho Gazeti on November 15 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem titled “Farewell” (“Glacier, what were you conceived for...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №128, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 63.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

Note: The title “The Phantom” is crossed out in the autograph.

1912

Until November 15

He writes a poem “Rest” (“The leaf on the tree does not stir...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №128, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as another poem published on November 15, 1912.

1912

15 November

Sakhalkho Gazeti publishes a notice that the editors received the IX issue of the magazine Ganatileba, in which “Ashes of Feelings” by Galaktion Tabidze was released.

Source: Sakhalkho Gazeti, 1912, №750, p. 2.

1912

Autumn or later

He gets acquainted with Gerhart Hauptmann’s comedy “Gulp and Jau”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-213, p. 3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 363. Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 261.

Note: It is not clear how he got to know this play, perhaps he attended the performance held in the autumn of 1912 or perhaps he read the text.

December

1912

24 December

An advertisement is published in the newspaper Temj, which lists sixty-three Georgian writers who published in this newspaper in 1912, and it is mentioned that they are going to cooperate with Temj next year as well. Galaktion Tabidze is named among the authors.

Source: Newspaper Temj, 1912, №103, p. 1.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “The Setting Sun”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 134.

Dating: The poem is dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “Spring Has Come”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 135.

Dating: According to Nodar Tabidze, the poem is dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “You Ought to Weep and Shed Tears”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 136.

Dating: According to Nodar Tabidze, the poem is dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “I Do Not Know What to Write”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: According to Nodar Tabidze, the poem is dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He dedicates the poem “The Legend” (“There, on the mountain peak...”) to Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №130, p. 1-2.

Dating: The poem is dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “Spring” (“Oh, how beautiful it is from the high mountain...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №129, p. 1-2.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as another poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “Among the Graves” (“The dusk of night sweeps in, surging...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №129, p. 4.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as another poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “Sorrow”, “To R” (“The misted windowpane...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №129, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes a poem “A Letter to a Friend”, dedicated to Konstantine Gamsakhurdia (“Abashispireli”) (“Sorrow called to me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №129, p. 1-2.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as another poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1912 or earlier

He writes an untitled poem “Ah, beauty who has come out to the field...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №129, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as another poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze, whom he parted ways with in 1912.

1910-1912

He collaborates with Ilia Bakhtadze, who publishes humorous almanacs titled “We Are Looking for Ourselves” and “Kutaisi Activities”.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1911-1912

He writes poems in Russian, including “Tears of branches”, “To a Friend Akhospireli”, “Nature”, “Romance”, “Tell Him”, and others.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 253.

1912

He writes a prose miniaturist piece titled “The Old Man”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 3.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has “1912” written on its cover.

1912

He writes an untitled poem: “Youth? I remember it...” which presents a dialogue between a child and an old man.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 3-4.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has “1912” written on its cover.

1912

He begins working in an underground Bolshevik cell and starts printing proclamations.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 278.

Note: This information appears in Galaktion Tabidze's later autobiographical writings and may be a case of mystification.

1912

He begins working as a Chronologer in the editorial office of a social-democratic newspaper and participates in events held for the benefit of party organizations.

Source: Gigla Mebuke, "Records on Galaktion Tabidze", Tbilisi, 1982, p. 34.

1912

In the notebook, he writes a stanza by Grigol Orbeliani: "O life, you are vain...".

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 5.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has "1912" written on its cover.

1912

In the notebook, he makes philosophical notes.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 6-11.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has "1912" written on its cover.

1912

He records expenses, including meals, tobacco, matches, travel by horse-drawn carriage, and others.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 13.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has "1912" written on its cover.

1912

He writes an untitled poem "The breeze softly whispered...".

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 14.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has "1912" written on its cover.

1912

He writes an outline for a work titled Kinto.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 12.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has "1912" written on its cover.

1912

In the notebook, he writes in Russian a phrase from the ecclesiastical literature about the fact that Christianity tries to touch the human heart, not the mind. Its purpose is not to satisfy man's curiosity, but to direct his desires and passions to the spiritual world.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 5-6.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has "1912" written on its cover.

1912

In the notebook, he writes a phrase from the ecclesiastical literature about the fact that those who really string along with the Christian life are happy.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 5.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has “1912” written on its cover.

1912

He makes a note “People often come close to each other only because they need each other for something, and when that need is gone, they easily part ways”. The note is titled after the French comedian and singer Jean-Paul Gaultier’s short film, “Behind the Omnibus”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №177, p. 5.

Note: This short film by Georges Méliès featuring the singer Paulius (pseudonym of Jean-Paul Gabans) was shot in 1897 and has not survived.

Dating: The notebook, which contains handwritten text, has “1912” written on its cover.

1912

He writes a poem titled “I Love the Storm Alone”.

Source: G. Liakhvispireli, Galaktion Is One – Meetings in Tskhinvali, Recollection about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 346.

1912

In Kutaisi, he watches the documentary film “Akaki Tsereteli’s journey to Racha-Lechkhumi”.

Source: M. Alavidze, Galaktion’s Life and poetry, magazine Gantiadi, 1992, №11-12, p. 127.

1912

He writes a poem titled “I Loved the Melody”.

Source: FG. Chikobava, Galaktion and Art, Art, Tbilisi, 1959, №4, p. 33.

1912

He writes satirical epigrams titled “Instant Photography” and plans to send them to Grigol Diasamidze for publication in the newspaper Tem. The addressees of the poems are: Ilia Chikovani, Nestor Kalandadze, Davit Meskhi, Artem Akhnazarov, and Nikoloz Tatarashvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 1; Autograph, GTDA, №592, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

Note: The addressees mentioned in the text are referred to by their names and pseudonyms: “Ilo”, “Eshmaki”, “Kvirike”, Artem, and “Don Basilio”.

1912

He writes a poem titled “Melancholy” and includes an epigraph from Konstantin Balmont’s poem “Sing” but does not continue writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 2.

Note: The title of Balmont’s poem is “Пой” (“Sing”).

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

He writes a poem titled “From the Summit of Elbrus” (“The mountain peak sleeps, it sleeps quietly...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 1.

Note: In the autograph, the original title options for the poem were “First Sorrow” and “Homeland”.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

Under the title “Kolkhida’s Editorial Office Tours” and with the note “Telegram”, he writes that the staff of the Kolkhida editorial office travels to townships and villages, organizing literary evenings.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 3.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

He writes a feuilleton titled “The Gospel of Ivane”, Part I, in which he discusses a character named Ivan, his students, and the theme of salvation, using biblical language and style.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 3.

Note: In the autograph, the original title option for the poem was “The Gospel of Galashka”.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

He calculates that, with a print run of two thousand copies, the distribution should be as follows: 300 copies each to Tbilisi and Kutaisi, 100 to Batumi, 50 to Ozurgeti, Poti, Khoni, and Samtredia, 30 to Baku, 20 to Zugdidi, Senaki, Kvirila, Gori, Telavi, Sokhumi, and Chiatura, and 10 copies each to Surami, Lanchkhuti, Yerevan, Kars, Shorapani, and Mukhrani.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 4.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

He writes a poem titled “Cupid” (“Psyche sleeps and dreams...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 4.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

He begins writing a poem titled “Illusion” (“The twilight of night is pierced by passion...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №648, p. 4.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the unfinished epigrams dated 1912.

1912

On the Kutaisi cemetery, the artist Grigol Meskhi paints a portrait of Galaktion Tabidze. Young Galaktion is depicted with a thoughtful expression against the backdrop of the cemetery landscape.

Source: J. Tchanturia, Poet's first Artist and Illustrator, newspaper Literaturuli Sakartvelo, 1973, November 2, №43-44, p. 5.

1912

He writes a letter to Ioseb Grishashvili, expressing his concern about a recent, invisible, and dreadful affliction of loneliness that has deeply affected him, leaving him feeling spiritually orphaned and isolated.

Source: I. Grishashvili's archive, II--1535; G. Tabidze, vol. XII, p. 540.

1912

Under the pseudonym "Avec Maria," he writes a poem "Bis" ("Silence that lecturer...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 5.

1912

He writes the miniature "The Little Child" ("Who are you?").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 5.

1912

He writes a poem "The Poet and the Reader" ("Ah, sir, you ask me...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №301, p. 7.

1912

He revises the poem "On New Year's Eve", dedicated "To N"., beginning with the line: "I lit my sorrowful home with torches...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №370, p. 4.

1912 or later

He writes a review of Beglar Akhospireli's poetry collection "My Song" and simultaneously translates it into Russian.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №305.

Dating: Akhospireli's Book was published in 1912.

After 1912

Olya Okujava's parents learn that she and Galaktion are in a romantic relationship. However, they do not approve of Galaktion as a suitor and forbid their daughter from meeting him.

Source: V. Kikvadze, From Galaktion's Life, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 331-332.

1912

In his notebook, he writes down the Greek mythological story about Agamemnon's murder and Orestes' revenge, adding a note at the end that the same story appears in Homer's "Odyssey", but with differences.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 1.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1912

In his notebook, he writes down various sayings and words with their definitions.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 1-2.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1912

In his notebook, he makes a note about the interconnectedness of everything in nature.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 2.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1912

In his notebook, he makes notes on themes such as love, fear of death, the ideal woman, and other topics.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 3.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1912

In his notebook, he writes down rhymes: "სიო, მკაფიო, მსოფლიო, ავსწიო, გამოვიკვლიო" (breeze, clear, world, lift, explore) and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 5.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1912

In his notebook, he writes down phrases from folk poems and various texts.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 5-11.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1912

He writes an untitled poem: "The dusk of night has vanished...".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №6381; №4066; GTDA, №786, p. 1; GTDA, №637, p. 3; List of poems, GTDA, №196, p. 31. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 126.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles "The Dusk of Night Has Vanished" and "Song" ("The dusk of night fades away like an apparition...").

Dating: The title of the poem is included in the 1912 notebook's list.

1912

In his notebook, he lists the titles of his own works. The list includes the following poems: “The Garden of Torment,” “The Golden Fleece,” “Night Serenades,” “Fairy Sounds,” “The Moth,” “The Yellow Leaf,” “The Garden of Affection,” “The Flower of the Grave,” “The Fate of the Night Has Vanished,” “Songs,” “The Zephyr’s Kiss,” “The Mountains,” “When You Cried,” “By the Fountain,” “The Sail,” “The Leaves Are Falling,” “By the Abyss”; It also includes novellas and poems: “The Poplar Trees,” “The Seventh Sky,” “The Shepherd,” and “The Old Tower”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №450, p. 5; For clarification of information, M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 469.

Dating: The year is written on the cover of the notebook.

1937

After May 28

The State Publishing House, in the series “School Library”. “Fiction Literature” publishes Galaktion Tabidze’s collection “Poems”. The Book opens with an informational article prepared by the editorial team, introducing readers to the poet’s biographical and creative journey. The collection includes 49 poems. These are: “May Day”; “Flags, Quickly”; “The Sorrow of the People Was Intoxicating”; “I Love the Storm Alone”; “The Ship ‘Daland’”;  (“Beyond the Gates of Georgia”); “The Mountains of Guria”; “We, the Poets of Georgia”; “I Want to Start a Song”; “In Memory of a Revolutionary”; “Calmer than Calm”; “It Was”; “Murky Wind”; “Our Luminary is Fiery”; “Industrial Lullaby”; “The Poet and the Masses”; “O, Song!”; “What Was Your Childhood”; “Joy Spreads”. “To the Enthusiasm of Hope and the World’s Victory”; “With Unyielding Voices”; “Flowers Will Cover the Streets”; “With Life, With All Creation”; “Greetings to Georgia, United by a New Path”; “Rocking the Cradle of New Life”; “Play, Orchestra!”; “Follow, Listen to the Wheels”; “Tomorrow is May”;  (“Thunder, O Longing!”); “We Were Climbing the Gallows”; “How Many Nights Came to an End”; “That Time Passed Like a Dream”; “March 8”; “The City Underwater”; “Hit the Pickaxe!”; “To Revolutionary Georgia”; “Gradually, Gradually, a New Country is Being Built!”; “Song”; “Shoulder to Shoulder, Shoulder to Shoulder”; “On the Lowlands of Colchis”; “Pioneer, Be Worthy of the New Life”; “Do Not Abandon the Poem Without a Homeland”; “Press”; “Relief”; “Cherry-plum, a Seven-Year-Old Child”; “The Moon of Mtatsminda”; “Blue Horses”; “The Ghost of Akaki”; “I and the Night”.

Source: G. Tabidze, Poems, 1937, p. 86.

Note: The book’s editor is Shalva Radiani. The collection consists of 86 pages and has a print run of 10,000 copies. It was submitted for production on May 11, 1937, and approved for printing on May 28, 1937. The Book includes 49 poems. Before the publication of this collection, all of the poems had already been printed in periodical press or in other editions of the poet’s works.

1913

January

1913

Until January 1

He writes a poem titled “On New Year’s Eve”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 64; For dating: newspaper Temi, 1913, №104, p. 3.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

January 1

He publishes the poem “On New Year’s Eve” in the New Year’s issue of the newspaper Temi.

Source: Newspaper Temi, 1913, №104, p. 3.

1913

January 4

In Akaki Papava’s letter “Thoughts on Native Literature”, Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned among the writers who were known to the public even before the publications in the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: A. Papava, “Thoughts on National Literature”, newspaper Samshoblo, 1913, №3, p. 2.

1913

January 4

The priest Ivan Adeishvili sends a letter to his sister, Makrine Adeishvili, wishing her and her sons a Happy New Year.

Source: A letter sent by Priest Ivane to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1633, p. 1-2.

1913

Until January 20

He writes a poem titled “Requiescat in Pace” (Rest in Peace).

Source: Magazine Ganatileba, 1913, №1, January, p. 60; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 239.

Note: In all other sources, the poem is listed under the title “The Grave Digger”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

Until January 20

He publishes the poem “Requiescat in Pace” (Rest in Peace) in the magazine Ganatileba.

Source: Magazine Ganatileba, 1913, №1, p. 60-63.

Dating: The 20 January issue of the newspaper Sakhalkho Gazeti (№802) reported that the editors have already received the first issue of the magazine Ganatileba.

March

1913

March 30

The newspaper Dila publishes a notice that on Sunday, March 31, Ioseb Grishashvili will hold an evening-banquet in Kutaisi theatre, during which the following authors will read their works: Davit Kldiashvili, Kola Eristavi, Niko Lortkipanidze, Domenti Okreshidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Dila, 1913, №22, p. 2.

Note: In the source Domenti Okreshidze is mentioned as “D. Tomashvili”.

April

1913

April 7

He attends the lecture of Fyodor Sologub, which makes a great impression on him.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 259.

1913

Until April 14

He writes a poem “The Unsent Letter” (“Now, as I write this letter...”) and on the other side of the page, he draws a cemetery and inscribes “Christ is Risen”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №12; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, 2025, p. 475.

Note: The text is an early version of the poem “I and the Night”.

1913

April 23

The newspaper Dila publishes the information that Razhden Dateshidze has decided to publish Galaktion Tabidze’s poems as a separate book, he has acquired the official right and has already started the work. The publication also says that the Book will be sold at affordable prices.

Source: Newspaper Dila, 1913, №39, p. 2.

Note: There is an opinion that the information is partially inaccurate. Razhden Dateshidze was going to publish the works of Galaktion, but he did not take any effective steps.

1913

April 26

A notice is published in the newspaper Tanamedrove Kvekana that on Thursday, May 2, Galaktion Tabidze will hold a literary-artistic and musical evening in the Kutaisi theatre, in which the painter Grigol Meskhi and the critic Romanoz Pantskhava will take part.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Kvekana, 1913, №2, p. 2.

1913

April 30

The newspaper Tanamedrove Kvekana publishes a notice that on Thursday, May 2, at the Kutaisi Theatre, a literary-artistic and musical evening featuring Galaktion Tabidze will take place. The literary section of the event will include contributions from Apolon Tsuladze, Shalva Sharashidze, Ioseb Bakhtadze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Kvekana, 1913, №5, p. 2.

Note: The following participants of the evening are also mentioned: Romanoz Pantskhava, G. Tutberidze, violinist Karangoziani, Parmen Tvaltchrelidze, N. Charekovisa, D. Meskhi and V. Balanchivadze. Romanoz Pantskhava is referred to as “Khomle”, Parmen Tvaltchrelidze - as “Tsakhela”, Shalva Sharashidze - as “Taguna”.

May

1913

Until May

He writes a poem “Silence...” (“The garment of thoughts wraps around me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 124; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 451.

1913

Until May 5

He edits Chapters I-XVII of the poem “The Fateful Thought”, introducing it with an epigraph from Byron: “And as I ponder the mysteries of life: What am I? What remains of me? – My heart surrenders completely to dark thoughts”.

Source: Autograph, №199, p. 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13-16, 18-22; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 451.

Note: The third chapter is titled “In the Monastery”.

1913

Until May 5

He writes the meanings of the words in the notebook. The following words are explained: Cunning Delilah, Aurora, Temple of Solomon, Sardis, Hyacinth, etc.

Source: Autograph, №199, p. 23; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 451.

1913

Until May 5

He writes a poem entitled “Caiaphas” (“Angel receiving the Spirit...”) and introduces the words from the Gospel of Mark as an epigraph: “Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani” (“My God, my God, for what have you forsaken me?”).

Source: Autograph, №199, p. 23; GTDA, №176, p. 5-6; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 451.

Note: The original title was “The Cross of Torture”, which is crossed out in the autograph. One of the episodes is titled “He Has Risen”.

1913

Until May 7

He submits an application for a teacher vacancy. He makes a good impression on the commission, but they give preference to a candidate with small children.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 9-10.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in a letter sent to his brother on May 7th.

1913

May 7

He sends a letter to his brother – Abesalom Tabidze. He informs that the evening has been interrupted and will report the details later. He writes that he hopes for a fee from Razhden Dateshidze and plans evenings in Samtredia and Chiatura. He tells how he was outbid for a teacher's job by a candidate with small children, but there is another similar vacancy, and he is going to apply immediately.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.7; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 9-10.

Note: Razhden Dateshidze intended to publish Galaktion's works and, it seems, had also promised to provide an advance on the honorarium.

1913

Until May 13

He writes a poem "Laurel and thorn".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 79.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles "On the road" and "Infinite, boundless".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

May 13

The poem "On the Road" is published under the signature G. Tabidze in the newspaper Temí.

Source: Newspaper Temí, 1913, №123, p. 3.

1913

Until May 19

He writes a poem titled "Woman and Art" ("Satan Heard the Melody...").

Source: GTDA, №419, p. 2; Autograph: MGL, I Volume Mock Design, №5760, p. 96; GTDA, №198, p. 131. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 226.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

May 19

In the magazine Okros Verdzi, a poem titled "Woman and Art" is published.

Source: Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, №1, p. 5.

1913

May 19

In the Chronology of the magazine Okros Verdzi, information is published that Razhden Dateshidze began to publish the poems of the young poet Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, №1, p. 15.

Note: There is an opinion that the information is exaggerated. Razhden Dateshidze was going to publish Galaktion's works, but he did not take any effective steps.

1913

Until May 20

Galaktion Tabidze writes a letter regarding his appointment as a teacher and hopes that his request will be granted.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1591, p. 1-4.

Dating: This is mentioned in Abesalom Tabidze's letter to his mother dated May 20, 1913.

1913

May 26

In the magazine Okros Verdzi, the poem "Invisible" ("In front of Aivazovsky's picture") is published, accompanied by a note from the editors, that this poem received the most votes after Alexandre Abasheli's poem in the competition organized by the newspaper Temi the previous year and took the second place.

Source: Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, № 2, p. 20.

1913

May 26

The magazine Okros Verdzi publishes a notice that on May 26, in Samtredia, an evening with a literary program will be held in the club's hall, featuring actor Vasil Balanchivadze and young poet Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, № 2, p. 32.

Autumn 1912 -

May 1913

Galaktion's mother – Makrine Adeishvili – gives Simon Tabidze, who is going to Kutaisi, a small gift for her son. When Simon approaches the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida, he sees that the gendarmes are preparing to enter. Simon outstrips them and reports what he saw to Galaktion. He, in turn, warns the employees and they all manage to escape before the gendarmes enter the building. A search is conducted, and the editorial office is closed.

Source: Simon Tabidze, "Recollection of Galaktion Tabidze", Collection "Galaktionology", IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 341-342.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled "The Hyena" ("When Orpheus made the strings weep...") and then crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 131; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The word “Orpheus” is not clearly legible.

1913

May or later

In his notebook, he revises a humorous feuilleton titled “The Lecture” (beginning with “The Empirical Soul Creates...”), written about an event held at the editorial office of the newspaper Kolkhida.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 132; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He plans to dedicate a poem to Alexandre Shanshiashvili and writes the title “The Prince of Relief,” but does not continue writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 134; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “The Legend” (“The earth moans, it moans...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 135-136; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “Tears of Silence” (“Under the blue sky...”) but soon crosses it out and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 137; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “The Melody” (“You were not asleep...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 138; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, 1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “The Weeping Sky” (“To my orphaned god and my tent...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 140; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

In the notebook, he lists the sequence of works to be read at the evening event, organized by sections, along with a list of songs and melodies to be included.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 141; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: Although the note does not specify the purpose of this list, given that it includes melodies and works by other poets and considering that Galaktion Tabidze often organized evening events during this period, we believe it was likely prepared for one of such events.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “When” (“With a smile, the ray dies on the lake’s cheek...”) but later crosses out the title.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 142; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

In the notebook, he writes down a poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze titled “The Song of the Mokhevian” (“Woman, I melt... I burn...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 139; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The dedication is written with the initials “To R”.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “Thirst” (“Give me wings, give me...”) but later crosses out the title.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 143; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, 1913

May or later

Under the title “Melodies of Siberia,” he plans to dedicate a poem to someone named Jaba but stops writing shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 144; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

In the notebook, he writes the poetic phrase: “Everywhere alone, without kin...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 145; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Until Moon” (“On the dome of the sky, among the stars...”) and notes the rhyme.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 146; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Secrets” (“The heart entwined by the passing of time...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 146; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

In the notebook, he writes a Russian dialogue between a teacher and a student. The student explains that they had guests the previous day and could not study.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 147; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, 1913

May or later

In the notebook, he fair-copies a poem dedicated to Raisa Chikhladze titled “Playful Rhymes” (“Ah, where is that land...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 139; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The dedication is written with the initial “To R”, and the poem’s original title, “The Teacher,” is crossed out.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “The Motto” (“Night fell... a wave upon proud waves...”) but crosses it out shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 148; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He translates an untitled poem by Heinrich Heine: “In the morning, I send you a bouquet of violets...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 148; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

In the notebook, he writes the poetic phrase: “And it fades... fades like a moment / In the ocean of centuries”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 148; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He begins writing a poem in Russian: “For a moment, everything flashed...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 148; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The title in Russian is: “Все сверкнувшее мгновенно...” (“All that flashed momentarily...”).

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “Thought” (“I cast out my soul...”) and prefaces it with an epigraph from Nikoloz Baratashvili: “My heart’s desire seeks a haven beyond you”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 150; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or after

He begins writing an untitled poem with the line “Sing again if you...” but stops shortly after.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №683, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or after

He draws gravestones on a sheet of paper for three closed Kutaisi newspapers: Mnatobi, Tskhovreba, and Kolkhida.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №683, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He begins writing a poem titled “The Sorcerer” (“In Lele’s house, some force...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 125; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes an untitled poem: “Blessed are those who...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 126; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “At the Sea” (“The lake’s fairies are asleep, asleep...”) but stops shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 127; GTDA, №569, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: In one autograph, the poem is titled “The Angel”.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem titled “The Poet’s Secret” (“On the mountain peak, in stillness...”) but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 127; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes a novel with the title “Eyes”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 128; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He begins to write a poem under the title “Children and the Spring”, but suddenly he crosses out everything and stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 128; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes a poem “In the countryside” (“I parted from the sighing of the soul...”) but then crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 128; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

May or later

He writes in the notebook how much money he gave to Dimitri and how much was left to give.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 128; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The identity of Dimitri is unclear.

1913

May or later

He writes a short feuilleton about the Sakhalkho Gazeti under the title “Nose”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 130; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

June

1913

Until June 16

He writes a poem “I and the Night”.

Source: Autographs: 1085; 7382; 7784; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 232.

Note: The poem also appears untitled (“Now, as I write this line...”).

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

June 16

The magazine Okros Verdzi publishes the poem “I and the Night”.

Source: Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, №4, p. 50.

1913

After June 16

He writes a poem “The Illustrious Deceased” (“Do not dig too deeply into the warrior’s grave...”).

Source: Autograph, №594, p. 1.

Dating: The text indicates that his poem “Me and the Night” must already be known to the public.

1913

After June 16

He writes a poem “Manifesto” (“The crown of thorns, I ask you to accept...”).

Source: Autograph, №594, p. 1.

Dating: The text suggests that his poem “I and the Night” must already be familiar to the public.

1913

Until June 28

He writes a poem titled “Goldfinch” (“It is night... ‘Go away, I do not love you...’”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 150; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

June 28 or later

He begins writing a new poem titled “The Secret” (“The path has climbed the mountain...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 151; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The original title, “Recollection,” is crossed out.

1912

June 28 or later

He writes a poem “The Agony of Creation” (“The mountain shrouds the sorrowful in veils...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 49-50, 152. For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

Note: The same title was given to one of the acts in the play “Twilight,” and it is possible that this text represents an attempt to rework that material.

1912

June 28 or later

He writes an untitled poem: “Immortality is a woman...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 153; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1912

June 28 or later

He makes minor changes to an episode in the poem “The Shepherd,” which begins with the words: “The surroundings were silent in amazement...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №198, p. 154; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 669.

1913

June 30

In an anonymous review published in the magazine Okros Verdzi about Alexandre Abashidze’s “Laughter of the Sun”, Galaktion Tabidze’s poems are compared to those of Noe Zhordania and Giorgi Kuchishvili. The review states that while Tabidze’s work may not be equaled by the two mentioned poets, for the reviewer, his poems “written with drops of blood” are the most cherished.

Source: “S. Abasheli, Laughter’s Sun”, Magazine Okros Verdzi, 1913, №5, p. 79.

July

1913

Until July 14

Galaktion has doubts about Olya Okujava's loyalty, leading to a disagreement. Following this, Olya goes to Borjomi for a rest and is in a state of deep distress.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 354-356; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1913

Until July 15

He writes a poem "Around Me".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 65; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 215.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Everything Changed Colour".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

July 15

The newspaper Temi publishes the poem "Around Me".

Source: Newspaper Temi, 1913, №132, p. 3.

1913

July 22

Olya Okujava waits from the morning to receive a letter from Galaktion, but her friend Nina Gvakharia returns empty-handed from the post office. Olya feels distressed that Galaktion does not believe in her. Although she constantly addresses him in her diaries and sincerely shares everything with him, she is unable to express her feelings through a letter and deeply longs to be close to him.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 348-350; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

Note: Galaktion is referred to by the initial of his name in the source, and Nina Gvakharia is referred to as "Nutsa".

1913

July 23

Olya Okujava, along with Nina Gvakharia, is in Bakuriani and is very melancholic. When they mention betrayal during their conversation, Olya thinks of Galaktion. She deeply wishes he were there with her, to embrace her and reassure her that he still loves her. She even considers sending a telegram to explain this to him.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 350-351; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

Note: Galaktion is referred to by the initial of his name in the source, and Nina Gvakharia is referred to as “Nutsa”.

1913

July 26

Olya Okujava writes in her diary about when and how she met Galaktion.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 352-353; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

1913

July 26

Olya Okujava is in love with Galaktion and constantly yearns to be by his side. She and her friend Nina Gvakharia take a photograph, and Olya deeply wishes to send one to her beloved, but she cannot bring herself to do it. She entrusts her feelings only to her diary.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 353.

Note: Olya Okujava’s friend and later her brother Nikoloz’s wife, Nina Gvakharia, is referred to as “Nutsa” in the source.

1913

July 28

Olya Okujava is in Borjomi, where she makes an entry in her diary, reproaching Galaktion for his distrust. She writes that she misses him terribly and cries all night. For two weeks, she feels very unwell and eagerly awaits the end of the year so she can continue her activities in the social-democratic circles. Additionally, she fears whether she will live until the next year.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 354-356; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

Note: Galaktion is mentioned in the source by the initial of his name.

1913

July 28

Olya is in Bakuriani. She is going to the station with Nina Gvakharia, hoping that Galaktion will arrive, but her wish does not come true. She feels guilty and really wants to reconcile.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 354-356; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 637.

Note: Galaktion is mentioned in the source by the initial of his name, and Nina Gvakharia as ‘Nutsa’.

August

1913

Until August 1

He writes a poem “The Moment”.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №1, August 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 136.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

Until August 1

He is writing a poem titled “I Curse Love!”.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №1, August 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 137.

Note: The poem is also found under the title ‘10 Years Ago’.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

Until August 1

He is writing a poem titled “Where?”.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №1, August 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 138.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Where Will I Find Relief?”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

Until August 1

He is writing an untitled poem that begins with “Soon colour will unfold...”.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №1, August 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 139.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “My Voice”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

Until August 1

He writes a poem titled “To the Distant”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 51; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 140.

Note: The poem can also be found without a title as well as with the title “People are getting mixed, people are fussing”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

Until August 1

He is writing a poem titled “AURORA”.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №1, August 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 141.

Note: The poem is also found untitled and under the titles “Avrora” and “I Emerge”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

August 1

The newspaper Gantiadi publishes the poetic cycle “A minute of feelings”, which includes poems: “A minute”, “I curse love”, “Where?” “Soon discoloured...”, “To the distant”, “Aurora”, “We are alone (To ...S)”.

Source: Newspaper Temí, 1913, №132, p. 3; Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №1, p. 3-4.

1913

August 1-2

In connection with August Bebel’s death, he writes an untitled poem “Around, all around...” by order of the newspaper Gantiadi.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №2, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 65; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 447.

1913

August 2

The untitled poem “Around, all around...” by Galaktion is published under the portrait of August Bebel in the newspaper Gantiadi.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №2, p. 1.

1913

August 25

A collective letter of writers is published in the newspaper Gantiadi, in which it is mentioned that they stop cooperation with the newspaper Temí, because they fully share the opinion of the workers’ protest letters directed against the newspaper Temí. The statement is signed by: Noe Chkhikvadze, Varlam Khurodze, Galaktion Tabidze, Mikheil Kintsurashvili, Barnab Gelazania and Ruben Kipiani.

Source: Newspaper Gantiadi, 1913, №20, p. 3.

Note: In the publication, Varlam Khurodze is referred to as “Malakiashvili”, Barnab Gelazania as “Gela”, Mikheil Kintsurashvili as “Yasamani”, and Ruben Kipiani as “R. Lechkhumeli”.

1913

Summer

In Khoni, he visits Ilia Rukhadze and tours the district’s landmarks. At the host’s request, he participates in a literary evening and takes a photo with the other participants.

Source: G. Mebuke, Records About Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 73.

September

1913

September 2

The newspaper Temí responds with heartache to the decision of Noe Chkhikvadze, Varlam Khurodze, Galaktion Tabidze, Mikheil Kintsurashvili, Barnab Gelazania and Ruben Kipiani to stop cooperation with the newspaper and informs them that the works sent for publication will be returned.

Source: Newspaper Temí, 1913, №139, p. 4.

Note: In the publication, Varlam Khurodze is referred to as “Malakiashvili”, Barnab Gelazania - as “Gela”, Mikheil Kintsurashvili - as “Yasamani”, Ruben Kipiani – as “R. Lechkhumeli”.

1913

September 5

In the newspaper Samartlis Khma, an article titled “A Small Clarification for Temí, signed by “G. Tabidze”, is published. This article is a response to an editorial letter published in Temí on September 2, which followed the protest of its contributors and their decision to terminate their collaboration with the newspaper. The conflict centred around the treatment of Ilia Chavchavadze. The editorial letter in Temí had stated that the fact that Ilia Chavchavadze, unlike socialists, was a supporter of private property did not mean that he treated peasants poorly. It argued that claims in Mogzauri about Chavchavadze calling for troops to oppress peasants in Saguramo were false rumours. Grigol Diasamidze believed that Chavchavadze’s treatment of peasants was a separate issue that required special study and that defamatory correspondence like that published in Mogzauri would not help the public. Opponents of Temí twisted the editor’s statement to make it seem as if he was accusing socialists of the murder of Ilia Chavchavadze. This led to the newspaper’s staff, including Galaktion Tabidze, opposing it. In the Samartlis Khma, the poet expresses his disapproval of Temí’s stance in the polemic surrounding Ilia Chavchavadze. Galaktion states that he never considered himself a collaborator of Temí, despite the newspaper listing him among its staff. He adds that he has not sent any of his poems for publication there since the newspaper “disgraced itself”.

Source: G. Tabidze, A Brief Explanation to Temí, newspaper Samartlis Khma, 1913, №11, p. 3.

1913

Until September 11

He arrives in his native village, Chkvishi, and learns that he has been discharged from the military. The whole family is overjoyed, and Galaktion spends joyful times with long-unseen fellow villagers.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/25; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25-26; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 503.

1913

September 12

Giorgi Parkosadze visits him and tells him that in three days they will open a library named after Akaki Tsereteli in Mukhiani and suggests that he, along with the others, go with them. Galaktion is delighted.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 269.

1913

September 15

He goes to the house of Anastasia and Ekaterine Nikoladze, where Akaki Tsereteli stays, with his companions: Davit Kldiashvili, Varlam Rukhadze, Vasil Amashukeli and Lado Natsvlishvili. At half past eleven, seven carts travel to Mukhiani, where the library will be ceremoniously inaugurated.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary entry, MGL, d-144, p. 15; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 215; Temeli, “Cultural Event in Mukhiani”, newspaper Temi, 1913, №142, p. 3.

Note: In the publication, Lado Natsvlishvili is referred to as “L. Bzvaneli”.

1913

September 15

The newspaper Temi publishes a notice about the opening of the library named after Akaki Tsereteli in Mukhiani, and Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned among those present at the event.

Source: Temeli, “Cultural Event in Mukhiani”, newspaper Temi, 1913, №142, p. 3.

1913

September 17

The newspaper Simartlis Khma publishes an article about the opening of the library named after Akaki Tsereteli in Mukhiani. Travel, dinner and congratulations are described. It is said that Galaktion Tabidze addressed the guest of honour with a poem.

Source: Newspaper Simartlis Khma, 1913, №20, p. 3.

1913

Until September 21

In Kutaisi, he takes a photo with Olya Okujava.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 356-358.

Dating: The photo is mentioned in the diary entry of September 21, 1913.

1913

September 21

Olya Okujava waits for Galaktion’s letter from early morning but is disappointed when it doesn’t arrive. Later, she hears the sound of a train from the station and hopes to see him, but her efforts are in vain. In her diary, she reproaches her beloved and threatens never to tell him how much she loves him. She longs to see the photo they took together, as it was filled with faith, but now she no longer believes in it.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 356-358.

1913

September 22

Annoyed by not receiving a letter from Galaktion, Olya Okujava writes that he is selfish. She notes that he received her letters and does not care that others are also waiting to hear from him.
Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 358.

1913

September 23

Angry with Galaktion, Olya writes in her diary that she will never again tell him that she loves him and will always stay away from him. However, she plans to visit once a year, wherever he may be, just to see him from a distance. She believes it would be better to have Galaktion tell her directly that he does not love her, rather than remain in such uncertainty.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 358.

1913

Until September 24

He receives a notice from the military commissariat stating that he was mistakenly discharged from military service and that he must go to Kutaisi to clarify the matter.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/25; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25-26; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 503.

1913

September 24

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, informing him that he needs 100 roubles to secure his discharge. He manages to find the money but still faces the problem of covering the cost of staying at the hotel, which he will also have to borrow. He asks Abesalom for help with returning the borrowed funds and requests that his brother take care of himself as well.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №814, p. 1-2.

Note: It is possible that the discussion is about being discharged from military service in the Russian Empire's army.

1913

Until September 25

Upon arriving in Kutaisi, he stays at the "Guria" hotel and meets Olya Okujava's friend, Nina Gvakharia, who delivers Olya's letters. He learns that Olya has settled well in Chiatura but has been somewhat unwell.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/25; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25-26; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 503.

Note: Olya Okujava's friend and later her brother Nikoloz's wife, Nina Gvakharia, is referred to as "Nutsa" in the source.

1913

Until September 25

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava in Chiatura, recounting his experiences in the village and his arrival in Kutaisi. He writes that the issue of his conscription will not be resolved until at least a month and a half later. Therefore, in anticipation of the worst, he is compelled to study so that if he is drafted, he can save himself by continuing his education. He promises that if he manages to avoid conscription, he will visit Chiatura with great triumph.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/25; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25-26; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 503.

1913

September 25

At half-past eleven at night, before leaving Kutaisi, he writes a letter to Olya Okujava from a confectionery. He informs her that he is leaving the city and is overcome by a dreadful feeling. He laments his spiritual loneliness and notes that he has always believed in fate and fears his destiny. He thinks that Olya is the only person whose understanding of his misfortunes would truly pain her heart.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 13-15.

1913

Until September 27

He confesses his love to Olya Okujava.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Olya Okujava's diary, p. 359-360; V. Javakhadze, "The Lunar Eclipse of Mtatsminda" (from the cycle "Again Galaktion"), magazine Chveni Mtserlobai, November 30, 2012, №24, p. 31.

Dating: In her diary dated September 27, 1913, Olya Okujava notes that one evening, Galaktion confessed his love to her.

1913

September 27

Olya Okujava reminisces about Galaktion, their first kiss, and writes in her diary with reproach that she thought he was a person of such delicate soul and wonders why he cannot understand how much he disturbs her by not writing.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 358.

1913

September 30

In her diary, a longing Olya Okujava writes about how much she yearns to be by Galaktion's side and to receive his affection.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 358.

October

1913

October 8

Olya Okujava writes in her diary that family life is not for her. She does not want anyone's love or closeness, and she herself has no feelings at all.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 364.

1913

October 28

Olya Okujava receives a letter from her former lover, Sandro, with whom she had a 15-day relationship but parted ways over a year ago. She reflects that this love led to the death of one of her admirers, Zhenya, and fears that the same might happen with Galaktion. Olya believes that Sandro's fate will always be important to her, and she will be ready to listen to him in times of trouble, but only in those circumstances. Otherwise, she does not want any contact with him.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 368.

1913

October

He sees off Olya Okujava by train from Kutaisi to Chiatura, along with her family members.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 15-17.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava dated January 6, 1914, allows us to determine the timeframe.

November

1913

November 5

Olya Okujava continues to wait for Galaktion's arrival, but once again her hopes are dashed, and she becomes upset. She is jealous of a woman whom Galaktion reportedly referred to as an "angel". She reflects on the diagnosis given by her doctor and considers the possibility that she might not have a long life ahead.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 369.

Note: The woman referred to is likely Raisa Chikhladze.

1913

November 6

From Sajavakho, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. He writes that he is unable to go anywhere due to a lack of money. He will not be able to continue working at the editorial office for long because someone else has been promised his position in his absence. He inquires whether any documents regarding his conscription have arrived in the village.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №815, p. 1-2.

1913

November 7

In her diary, Olya Okujava expresses her deep longing to be by Galaktion's side and eagerly awaits his arrival. She later learns that Galaktion had a lover whom he referred to as an "angel" and, enraged, declares that she will forget Galaktion, go to Moscow, avoid treatment, and soon die.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 369.

1913

November 8

On November 6, he sends a letter addressed to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, from the Kutaisi post office.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №815, p. 1-2.

1913

November 9

In her diary, Olya Okujava writes that she spent the entire summer in vain. She did not expect Galaktion to be so harsh. She had envisioned their relationship as simply being close to each other and occasionally sharing kisses.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 371.

Note: In this diary entry, Galaktion's name is not mentioned, but from the subsequent entries, it becomes clear that the discussion is about him.

1913

Until November 13

He writes a poem titled "The Forest Took Me".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №322, p. 4; Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №87, November 13, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 191.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1913

November 13

Galaktion's poem "The forest took me" is published in the newspaper Mertskhali.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №87, p. 3.

1913

November 19

The newspaper Mertskhali publishes a notice that on Sunday, November 24, a musical-literary and dramatic evening will be held with the participation of a singer, G. Tutberidze. Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, №92, p. 2.

Note: The following are named among the participants in the source: I. Tsintsadze, I. Nikolaishvili, V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, B. Gelazania, Ilia Rukhadze, and others.

1913

Until November 24

Together with Akaki Gabrichidze and Galaktion Tabidze, Tengiz Zhghenti goes to Ia Ekaladze to agree to participate in the musical-literary-drama evening scheduled for November 24 in the Kutaisi theatre and reveals that the purpose of the evening is to gather social democrats. Ia Ekaladze answers that he is not a supporter of social democrats, but she respects Galaktion and therefore she will participate in the evening.

Source: T. Zhghenti, "Some Episodes from Party Work After 1905", "Chronology of the Revolution", 1928, №2 (19), p. 134-135; For dating: Newspaper Mertskhali, November 24, №96, p. 2.

1913

November 24

A notice is published in the newspaper Mertskhali that today, at 8 pm, a musical-literary-dramatic evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, and Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, №96, p. 2.

Note: In the source, the participants listed include: I. Tsintsadze, I. Nikolaishvili, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, I. Rukhadze, N. Chkhikvadze, G. Kuchishvili, and others.

1913

November 24

He participates in the musical-literary evening held at the Kutaisi Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №96, p. 2; Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №97, p. 4.

1913

Until November 26

He writes a plan for the poem "Shuaneta".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №328, p. 2.

Dating: The plan is written on the second page of the poem's autograph.

1913

Until November 26

He writes a poem "Shuaneta" ("Weary, Pale, a Woman Lay on the Bed..."). The protagonists are Shuaneta and Amilbari.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №328, p. 1; GTDA, №329, p. 1-2; GTDA, №333, p. 1-2.

Dating: In the notice published in the newspaper Mertskhali, it is stated that G. Tabidze read the poem "Shuaneta" in the circle of friends on November 26.

1913

November 26

The newspaper Mertskhali publishes a notice that on Sunday, November 24, a musical-literary and dramatic evening was held in the city theatre. Galaktion Tabidze is also named among the participants, and it is said that his poems were interesting in terms of content, but he read them poorly.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №97, p. 4.

1913

November 26

He reads the poem “Shuaneta” in a circle of friends.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №99, p. 2.

Dating: In the November 28 issue of the newspaper Mertskhali, a notice was published that G. Tabidze wrote the poem “Shuaneta”, which he read in the circle of friends “the day before yesterday”, that is, on November 26.

1913

November 28

The newspaper Mertskhali reports that Galaktion Tabidze publicly read his new poem “Shuaneta”, which received great acclaim for both its content and form, as well as the richness of its emotions.

Source: Newspaper Mertskhali, 1913, №99, p. 2.

December

1913

December 2

Olya Okujava recalls the summer spent with Galaktion. She misses being with him very much and is angry that he neither comes to Chiatura nor keeps in touch.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 372.

1913

December 4 or earlier

He sends a letter to Olya Okujava in Chiatura, writing that he was feeling very pessimistic and even thinking about suicide.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 373.

Dating: This is mentioned in Olya Okujava’s diary entry dated December 4th.

1913

December 4

Olya Okujava receives a letter from Galaktion, filled with hopelessness. Previously, she had attributed the delay in his letters to neglect and lack of love. Learning that Galaktion himself is in despair causes the opposite reaction in her. She feels encouraged, as her lover’s suffering makes her think that she is not alone.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 373.

1913

December 5

In her diary, Olya Okujava addresses Galaktion, saying that she was eagerly waiting for him to come from Kutaisi to Chiatura, but was disappointed and is suffering terribly. She is angry about Galaktion's neglect of her and thinks she won't be able to endure the pain.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 373.

1913

December 8

A notice is published in the newspaper Sitkva that on December 12, a literary-musical evening will be held in Chiatura with the guidance of the People's University Administration. Lecturer Grigol Giorgadze will give a lecture: "Maxim Gorky as a seeker of truth". Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants of the literary section.

Source: Newspaper Sitkva, 1913, №7, p. 2.

Note: The source lists the following participants: Iakob Tsintsadze, V. Rukhadze, N. Chkhikvadze, G. Tabidze, Barnab Gelazania, and Giorgi Kuchishvili.

1913

December 12

The newspaper Sitkva published a notice that an evening was to be held in Chiatura on December 12, at which Grigol Giorgadze was supposed to give a lecture, but the event was postponed due to his arrest.

Source: Newspaper Sitkva, 1913, №10, p. 2.

1913

He writes a poem "It Seems the Storm is Near".

Source: G. Liakhvispireli, There is Only One Galaktion: Meetings in Tskhinvali, Recollections About Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 346.

Note: Ioseb Lortkipanidze dates the poem to 1909 (Magazine Drosha, 1962, №3, p. 8).

1913 or later

In Ivane Javakhishvili's Book "The History of the Georgian Nation", he provides annotations and highlights key points.

Source: MGL, t-237, Iv. A. Javakhishvili, "The History of the Georgian Nation", Book One and Two, Tbilisi, 1913; p. I-IV, 3-9, 11-25, 30-32, 35-57, 61-71, 75-81, 84-89, 102-107, 110-118, 122-125, 229-237, 243-247, 266-269, 273-281, 316-317.

1913 or later

He reads the complete collection of Fyodor Tyutchev's poems, making highlights and annotations.

Source: MGL, t-429, Полное Собрание Сочинений Ф. И. Тютчева, Saint-Petersburg, 1913.

1913 or later

He writes an autobiographical fragment: “I was born in 1892”. “I worked in journals and newspapers, but by nature, I remained a poet...”.

Source: MGL, d-659-13, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 469-470; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129.

After 1913

Agronomist Ilia Tkeshelashvili gifts him the Book “Culture of Orchids” by Ivan Troyanovskyi.

Source: G. Tabidze’s inscription, GTSM, №559, И. Трояновский, “Культура орхидей: руководство для любителей”, Moscow, 1913.

1914

January

1914

Until January 6

From Kutaisi, he sends a short letter to Olya Okujava, expressing gratitude for the notebook s. He writes that he is just about to light a fire in the stove and begin transcribing.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, №24551/58; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 29; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 506.

1914

Until January 6

From Chkvishi, he receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, in Kutaisi. For four and a half years, Galaktion has been upset with her and his brother due to mistrust and interference in his life. His mother asks for forgiveness and reconciliation. While Galaktion feels sympathy for her, he still cannot forget the lack of support he experienced from her in recent years.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 15-17; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 506.

1914

Until January 6

He sees off Olya Okujava, who takes the train from Kutaisi to Chiatura. The latter’s family members are also there, but Galaktion does not feel any closeness to them. He knows that he will not meet them at all until Olya’s arrival, because they seem to be “aliens” to each other.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 15-17.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava dated January 6, 1914, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

January 6

He writes a letter from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava in Chiatura, sharing his feelings of emptiness caused by her departure, the mocking attitude of her relatives, and the alienation he feels from them. He expresses his reluctance to interact with Olya's family because he finds her mother unpleasant and feels no spiritual connection with the others. As a result, he constantly feels like he has to keep up a façade while being around them.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 15-17.

Dating: The date is determined according to the postmark on the letter.

1914

Until January 15

In Kutaisi, Galaktion receives a telegram sent by Olya Okujava from Chiatura, urgently requesting him to come immediately. In his haste, he leaves his poem "Shuaneta" at the printing house.

Source: Olya Okujava's January 15 Letter to Galaktion Tabidze, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/357; G. Tabidze, AE, Book 24, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 182; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 516.

Note: The poet is unable to find the poem "Shuaneta", which he left at the printing house.

1914

January 15

In Chiatura, he is with Olya Okujava and reads his poems to her late into the night. Olya feels that previously she was only captivated by him, but now she is experiencing true love.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, Olya Okujava's diary №9, O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-357; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 373-375.

Dating: Olya Okujava's diary entry from January 16 allows us to determine the timeline.

1914

January 15

He is with Olya Okujava in Chiatura, reading his poems to her. Olya feels that previously she was only infatuated with him, but now she truly loves him.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 374-375.

1914

January 16

Galaktion leaves Chiatura early in the morning, and Olya feels an extraordinary emptiness. She searches the room, hoping to find even a single sheet of paper that might remind her of his presence. She regrets having hesitated the previous day when he offered to write and leave her a poem if she wanted.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 376-377; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

After January 16

He receives Olya Okujava's letter from Chiatura in Kutaisi. The addressee reports that after listening to his poems, she felt the hidden sadness of the poet and saw better his inner self. She regrets that, despite the offer, she did not keep the manuscript of Galaktion's poem. She feels awful and asks him to inform her how and where his poem "Shuaneta" was 'detained'.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/357; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 182; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

January 17

Olya Okujava is awakened in the morning by the chirping of sparrows, which reminds her of Galaktion and brings tears to her eyes. She wishes she could instantly fly to him like a butterfly to a flower. She imagines that they could be together always, eventually transforming into a stone flower and a stone butterfly – a symbol of eternal love.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 378-379; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 640.

1914

January 19

A notice is published in the newspaper Eri under the signature "From the Teachers". The author requests that the Imereti office of journals and newspapers inform whether they have received the books by Galaktion Tabidze and Noe Zhordania, which were published in 1912.

Source: Newspaper Eri, 1914, №14, p. 4.

Note: In the source, Galaktion Tabidze and Noe Zhordania are referred to by the initials of their names and their surnames, while "From the Teachers" is a pseudonym.

1914

January 20

Olya Okujava is upset with Galaktion. In her diary, she writes that she is drawn to spiritual relationships, while Galaktion demands physical ones and is not as delicate as she thought. She is frustrated that he does not write to her. She contemplates the idea of going abroad and returning only after a few years, imagining that Galaktion might be married by then, which makes her unable to hold back her tears.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 379-381.

1914

January 24

In the newspaper Eri, Isidore Kvitsaridze publishes an announcement stating that in 1912, Razhden Dateshidze planned to publish a collection of Galaktion Tabidze's poems. If the Book is not published for any reason, the Imereti office of journals and newspapers will return the funds.

Source: Isidore Kvitsaridze, "Due to the Publication of Books by Subscription", newspaper Eri, 1914, January 24, №18, p. 4.

1914

January 27

The newspaper Eri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili are weak, powerless and ridiculous declaimers.

Source: Newspaper Eri, 1914, January 27, №21, p. 3.

Note: In the source, Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili are referred to by their surnames.

February

1914

Until February 13

He arrives in Kutaisi and rents an apartment in Andro Tcheishvili's house on Pushkin Street. It doesn't have bed linen and that's why he has to spend a lot of money.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to his mother - Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №804, p. 1-5.

1914

February 13

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to the village of Chkvishi to his mother – Makrine Adeishvili. He writes that she should consider herself a happy woman and walk with her head held high, because she raised both children honestly. It's true that Galaktion can't send money, but he really doesn't have it, and he knows that his mother is not in as much trouble as he is. His mother may think him silly, but others consider him a talented man and respect him. The doctors advised him to rest, but he has nowhere to go, and if he arrives in the village, after three or four days, he will be forced to run away again. He reprimands her that she has not delivered the bed linen so far. He asks her to send the bed linen from Samtredia if she doesn't find anyone through whom to send it to him. He writes the address and asks her to put the receipt of the luggage shipment in the letter and deliver it to the named address.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to his mother - Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №804, p. 1-5.

1914

Until February 18

From Chiatura, he receives a letter from Olya Okujava in Kutaisi. She writes that she is unhappy and ill, troubled by lost hopes and unfulfilled goals.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 17-19.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's February 18 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

February 18

He writes a letter to Olya Okujava from Kutaisi in Chiatura. Galaktion advises to forget about pain and worry and consult a doctor; To live the way she wants and not to rely on fate, because she is loved, and she loves him. They are young. This is the best age that makes them beautiful, and it is crazy to lose it. He thinks that sorrow and bitterness distort life, they should not miss a single moment that can give them happiness. He promises that they will definitely be together, if not in the summer, then in Moscow, and if not in Moscow, then somewhere else. He notes that he has no hope of a scholarship and his heart will be filled with envy when students from Russia and abroad gather in Kutaisi in the summer.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 17-19.

Note: In the source, Olya Okujava is mentioned by her name, while Galaktion Tabidze signs with the initial "G".

1914

February 18

The newspaper Simartlis Gza, in the "News" section, announces that in Kutaisi, as well as in other cities and villages, subscribing is being collected for the first volume of Galaktion Tabidze's works, which will be published by Tutku Gvaramia. It is noted that the Book will include the author's photo, unpublished poems, biography, and critical review, and that the subscribed edition will cost 50 kopecks.

Source: Newspaper Simartlis Khma, 1914, February 18, №39, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is referred to by the initial of the name and a surname, Tutku Gvaramia - by the initials of the name and surname.

1914

February 26

Mikheil Tsulukidze approves Tutku Gvaramia's intention to publish Galaktion Tabidze's Book and agrees to write the critical review of the poems.

Source: L. Nutsubidze, "New Materials About Galaktion", newspaper Kutaisi, 1970, December 11, №246, p. 3.

Note: Mikheil Tsulukidze is referred to by the initials of his name and his last name.

1914

Until February 28

From Chiatura to Kutaisi, he receives a reply letter from Olya Okujava. To Galaktion's advice to forget her sadness and be cheerful, she replies that only a fool, blind and deaf can be cheerful all the time.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/22; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 17-19.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's February 28 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

Note: Olya Okujava is mentioned by first name in the source, Galaktion Tabidze signs the letter with the initial "G".

1914

Until February 28

Ivane Gomarteli writes a review for Galaktion Tabidze's first collection of poetry, which the poet likes very much.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/22; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 19-20.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's February 28 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

February 28

He sends a letter to Chiatura from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava. He explains that he is trying to organize his life according to his wishes. Everyone has sorrows, but the one who sees nothing, but one's own sorrows is a fool. He wants to get lost away from Kutaisi in the summer and never come back, because there are evil people around him. He writes that they sent Vano to Tuapse, they spent one night with him and Nino Gvakharia sang like a nightingale. He informs Olya that the work of publishing the Book is going great and Ivane Gomarteli has written a wonderful critical letter about it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/22; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 19-20.

Dating: The date is determined according to the postmark on the letter.

Note: Olya Okujava is mentioned by the first name in the source, Nino Gvakharia – as "Nutsa". Galaktion Tabidze signs the letter with the initial "G". "Vano" may mean Vano Ioseliani.

March

1914

Until March

He sends a letter to Olya Okujava, mentioning that the approaching spring brings him a very good mood and fills him with hope. However, he does not understand the reason for Olya's anger, as he believes there was nothing irritating in his letters.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 512.

1914

Until the beginning of March

He receives a letter sent from Chiatura to Kutaisi from Olya Okujava, who scolds that Galaktion misinterpreted her feelings, attributed a lot of bad things to her, and after that it is difficult to talk to him honestly.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/39; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 29-30.

Dating: The letter to Olya Okujava, dated at the beginning of March 1914, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

Beginning of March

He sends a letter to Chiatura from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava. Galaktion shares a mysterious and joyful mood due to the arrival of spring. He feels that something new has happened or should happen in his life, which is why he loves the whole country. He asks for forgiveness that he was sincere and did not want to offend her. He just wants Olya to be healthy and happy. He gradually becomes convinced that he cannot have a sincere conversation or write a letter to anyone on the face of the earth, which is his deep tragedy. He wants to say and write what he thinks, but it comes out in such a way that no one likes it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/39; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

Until March 3

On a sheet of paper, he lists 24 entries specifying the institutions and the names of agents who will be involved in the distribution of his book.

Source: List of agents, GTDA, №618.

1914

Until March 3

Under the pseudonym "The Young Poet," he writes a poetic pamphlet dedicated to Davit Meskhi titled "A Question to Samshabatela" ("Greetings to Samshabatela... I am writing you two quick words..."), in which he accuses the addressee of plagiarism.

Source: List of agents, GTDA, №619, p. 1.

1914

Until March 3

On a sheet of paper, he lists 174 entries of his poems.

Source: List of agents, GTDA, №618, №619, p. 2.

1914

March 3

The newspaper Shroma publishes the announcement about the subscription of Galaktion Tabidze's first book. It is noted that the Book will be 200-250 pages long, it will contain the author's unpublished poems, autobiography, photograph and Ivane Gomarteli's critical letter. The Book can be ordered in all towns and cities of the Caucasus and subscription can be obtained from other agents as well, the cost of the subscription is 50 kopecks, and correspondence is conducted at Tutku Gvaramia's house on Alexandre Street in Kutaisi.

Source: Newspaper Shroma, 1914, March 3, №1, p. 1.

1914

Until March 7

He asks his mother to send the bed linen.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1521, p. 1-4.

1914

March 7

Galaktion Tabidze's mother, Makrine Adeishvili, sends a letter to her elder son, Abesalom, in the village of Tchoknari, expressing great dissatisfaction with Galaktion for not writing to her. She is also concerned because she was asked to send the bed linen but does not know where to send them.

Source: Makrine Adeishvili's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1521, p. 1-4.

1914

Until March 8

He sends letters to Olya Okujava expressing doubts about the sincerity of her feelings. He believes it is not worth defending himself against pointless gossip and chooses not to respond.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 382-384; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

March 8

Olya Okujava is upset with Galaktion due to his recent letters, feeling that she does not deserve such treatment. She is unintentionally reminded of Zhenia, who was hopelessly in love with her and who loved her with elevated feelings, and who committed suicide two years ago.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 382-384; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

Until March 9

He sends a letter to Olya Okujava in Chiatura, inquiring about how she spends her time and who she is spending it with.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 385; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

March 9

Olya Okujava feels terribly alone in Chiatura and is surprised by Galaktion's question about whom she is spending time with. She writes in her diary that she does not socialize with anyone because she is not interested in pointless gossip. She is frustrated with Galaktion for often misinterpreting her words.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 385; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 638.

1914

March 9

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that a great literary, musical and dramatic evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre on March 23 with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze and Davit Akopashvili.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, March 9, №8, p. 1.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze and Varlam Rukhadze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and surnames, Davit Akopashvili – with his last name.

1914

March 9

The newspaper Azri publishes the announcement of the subscription of Galaktion Tabidze's first book. It is mentioned that the Book contains 200-250 pages, the author's unpublished poems, biography, photograph, as well as critical letters of Ivane Gomarteli and Mikheil Tsulukidze; The price of subscription will be 50 kopecks.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, №8, March 9, p. 4.

1914

March 11

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze brought the poem "Shuaneta" to one of the printing houses, which he left in the printing house due to an urgent call to Chiatura. He informed the editors about this from the station, but they did not manage to find the poem. After returning to Kutaisi, Galaktion Tabidze began to look for it, but to no avail. The editorial office asks the finder to bring the poem to the editorial office, for which the latter will receive a reward.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, March 11, №9, p. 4.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the last name.

1914

Until March 13

Galaktion Tabidze writes the poem "Christ" ("In the bitter fire of the struggle...").

Source: Newspaper Azri, №11, March 13, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 206.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

March 13

The poem "Christ" ("In the bitter fire of the struggle...") is published in the newspaper Azri.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, March 13, №11, p. 3.

Note: There is an inscription next to the poem "Kutaisi. 1914. March".

1914

Until March 13-18

He goes to visit Barnab Gelazania at the hospital at night by carriage but falls out of the carriage on the way back. Due to the injuries sustained, he remains bedridden and does not leave the house.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 30-31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 509-510.

1914

March 16-21

After falling from the carriage, Galaktion Tabidze gets out of bed for the first time. Since his face is still marked by the injuries, he only ventures out at night. He unexpectedly encounters Nino Gvakharia, who inquires about his condition, and Galaktion tells her what happened.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 30-31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 509-510.

Note: Nino Gvakharia is referred to as "Nutsa" in the source.

1914

March 17-22

He sends a letter to Chiatura from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava. He apologizes for not writing letters, which is due to reasons beyond his control. He informs that he will not be able to visit her because of the work on his book, editorial work and a big literary evening to be held at the theatre on Sunday.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 30-31; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 509-510.

1914

March 23

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes an announcement that a great literary, musical and dramatic evening is being held in Kutaisi with the participation of Varlam Rukhadze, Davit Akopashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, March 23, №3, p. 15; Newspaper Azri, 1914, March 23, №20, p. 1.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze, and Davit Akopashvili are mentioned in the source by the initials of their names and their last names.

1914

March 23

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that an evening with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze and Ioseb Grishashvili will be held in Chiatura shortly.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, March 23, №20, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of participants: “Singers - Basharina, Sarajishvili, V. Lortkipanidze; Poets: G. and I. Grishashvili”.

April

1914

Until April 6

He writes a poem “In the Garden of Gethsemane”.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, №22, April 6, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 234.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Night of Gethsemane” and “Silence”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

April 6

The poem “In the Garden of Gethsemane” is published in the newspaper Azri with the signature “G. Tabidze”.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, April 6, №22, p. 3.

1914

April 6

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze and others, evenings will be held in Chokhatauri and Khidistavi on April 8, Ozurgeti - April 9, Lanchkhuti - April 10, Samtredia - April 11, Zugdidi - April 12, Kvirila - April 13, etc.

Source: Newspaper Azri, №22, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants: “Galaktion Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, cellist Khachaturov, Nioradze, Urushadze, and others”.

1914

April 6

Galaktion Tabidze and Gigla Mebuké visit Ia Ekaladze for Easter, where they meet Shio Mghvimeli, who has arrived from Tbilisi. On their way back, due to a lack of money for the carriage fare, Galaktion pretends to damage the carriage’s lamps. The coachman, seeing this, runs away, allowing them to avoid paying the fare.

Source: Gigla Mebuke, “Records about Galaktion Tabidze”, Merani, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 9, 10.

1914

April 10

He participates in the evening dedicated to Iakob Gogebashvili held in the town of Lanchkhuti. He and Giorgi Kuchishvili make a great impression on the audience.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, April 16, №22, p. 3.

Note: “G. Nioradze, G. Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, S. Urushadze”.

1914

Until April 20

He participates in literary and musical evenings held in the towns and villages of Guria, where people everywhere greet him with enthusiasm.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, April 20, №7, p. 16.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evenings: “G. Nioradze gave lectures: “Iakob Gogebashvili and his pedagogical ideals”; G. Tabidze, S. Urushadze and G. Kuchishvili read their own poems”.

Dating: The April 20 issue of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

April 21

The newspaper “Shroma”, under the “News” section, announces that Galaktion Tabidze’s first Book is being printed and will soon be distributed to subscribers.

Source: Newspaper Shroma, 1914, April 21, №8, p. 3.

1914

April 25

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that the police arrested and searched the poet Galaktion Tabidze on Saturday night, but they did not find anything against him.

Source: Newspaper Azri, April 29, №39, p. 2.

Dating: Information from the April 29 issue of the newspaper Azri and the permanent calendar, according to which the Saturday before April 29 is April 25, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

April 27

The newspaper “Azri” announces that Galaktion Tabidze’s first Book is being printed and will soon be distributed to subscribers.

Source: Newspaper Azri, April 27, №38, p. 1.

May

1914

Until May 3

He writes a poem “Mountains of Guria”.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, №43, May 3, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 235.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

May 3

The poem “Mountains of Guria” is published in the newspaper Azri.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 3, №43, p. 3.

1914

After May 3

He goes to Kutaisi in a carriage to visit Ksenia Bibineishvili's family, where he recites the poem "Mountains of Guria" at the request of the hosts and enthralled the people there. In the same evening, he gets acquainted with Olya Okujava's cousin, Vasil Kikvadze.

Source: V. Kikvadze, From Galaktion's Life, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 322-324.

Dating: The date is determined based on the time the poem was written.

1914

May 7

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze's first Book is being printed and will soon be distributed to the subscribers.

Source: Newspaper Azri, May 7, №46, p. 1.

1914

Until May 11

He sends a parcel with a letter and materials prepared for his first Book to Ipolite Vartagava from Kutaisi to Tbilisi. Galaktion asks his former teacher to carefully read everything and write a foreword for this book.

Source: Ip. Vartagava, Days from the Past, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 208; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 652.

1914

After May 11

Ipolite Vartagava is impressed with Galaktion's poems but does not manage to fulfil his request to write a preface to the book.

Source: Ip. Vartagava, Days from the Past, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 208-209.

1914

May 11

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that the first Book of Galaktion Tabidze's writings is being printed and will soon be distributed to the subscribers. It will contain the author's photo, autobiography, unpublished poems and critical letters of Ivane Gomarteli, Mikheil Tsulukidze and Ipolite Vartagava. The Book will be 200-250 pages long and will be printed on good paper. The edition with subscription will cost 50 kopecks. Subscriptions are accepted in all university cities, in all cities and towns of the Caucasus. Tutku Gvaramia is the publisher.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 11, №50, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Ivane Gomarteli, Mikheil Tsulukidze and Tutku Gvaramia are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and their surnames.

1914

May 14

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze's first Book is being printed and will soon be distributed to the subscribers.

Source: Newspaper Azri, May 14, №52, p. 1.

1914

May 18

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze's first Book is being printed and will soon be distributed to the subscribers.

Source: Newspaper Azri, May 18, №55, p. 1.

1914

May 20

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze's first Book is being printed and will soon be distributed to the subscribers.

Source: Newspaper Azri, May 20, №58, p. 1.

1914

Until May 25

He writes a poem "Nowhere, Never".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, №12, May 25, p. 8; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 218.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

May 25

The poem "Nowhere, never" is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba under the signature "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, May 25, №12, p. 8.

1914

May 25

He participates in the literary morning held in Kutaisi theatre to celebrate the 20th anniversary of Egnate Ninoshvili's death. He recites the poem best and the society rewards him with long applause.

Source: Narin, "Ninoshvili's Morning", newspaper Azri, 1914, May 29, №63, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the literary morning: "Daughter of Chito Sharashidze, B.B. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze and Khoro B. D., conducted by Chaduneli".

1914

May 26

The newspaper Temi publishes an article by Ilia Rukhadze under the pseudonym “Ru-II”. The author notes that Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chkheidze, and Kote Makashvili’s works are being printed, which contain an abundance of critical writings. According to the author, Galaktion Tabidze’s poems will be accompanied by three critical reviews, which will prevent readers from forming their own opinions. The article’s author believes that the publisher is doing this for “advertising purposes” and is hindering readers from seeing the true worth of the writer they are encountering for the first time.

Source: Ru-II, “Excerpts”, newspaper Temi, 1914, May 26, №177, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chkhikvadze and Kote Makashvili are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and their surnames.

1914

May 28

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that a literary drama-musical evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre on May 29, and Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 28, №62, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “Akaki, V. Rukhadze, Iason Nikolaishvili, G. Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, Gela”.

1914

May 29

The newspaper Azri, under the “News” column, publishes an announcement that writers and singers, including Galaktion Tabidze, will travel to different parts of Georgia: Guria, Samegrelo, Imereti, Kakheti and Black Sea Coast and hold evenings.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 29, №63, p. 2.

Note: The following are named among the participants of the evenings: “Mikheil Tsulukidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, S. Abasheli, Polio Ireteli, Noe Chkhikvadze, Balalaika Player Saghirashvili and others”.

1914

May 29

The newspaper Azri publishes “Narin’s” article “Ninoshvili’s morning”, which talks about the literary morning held on May 25 to celebrate the 20th anniversary of Egnate Ninoshvili’s death in the Kutaisi theatre, where Galaktion Tabidze performed best.

Source: Narin, “Ninoshvili’s Morning”, Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 29, №63, p. 2.

1914

May 29

Together with Akaki Tsereteli, he participates in the literary-concert drama evening held in Kutaisi theatre.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 29, №63, p. 1, 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “Akaki, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, I. Bakhtadze, I. Nikolaishvili”.

1914

May 29 or later

At a literary evening in Kutaisi, Akaki Tsereteli listens to the poem “Yellow Leaf” read by Galaktion; Akaki likes his recitation very much, he claps his hands and invites the young poet to join him. The grey-haired poet asks Galaktion if he sings in any choir or if he is a Rachvelian, because Rachvelian people like to speak like a song, and they used to recite poems by singing like that.

Source: Sh. Radiani, Our Galaktion, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 259; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 654-655.

1914

May 30

The day after the literary evening, he poses for a photograph with Akaki Tsereteli and other participants. After the photo session, before sitting down for dinner, Lado Darchiashvili discusses the young poets and asks Akaki for his opinion about them. Akaki responds that he places the greatest hope in Galaktion Tabidze. He repeats this sentiment in his conversation with Daria Akhvlediani as well.

Source: I. Bakhtadze, Galaktion, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 194.

1914

May 31

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that the participants of the literary evening held in Kutaisi on May 29 had their photo taken in the “Family Garden” on May 30 at the initiative of Isidore Kvitsaridze, the head of the office of magazines and newspapers. In the photo are: Akaki Tsereteli, Davit Kldiashvili, Ia Ekaladze, Irodion Evdoshvili, Varlam Rukhadze, Davit Mebuke and Akaki Margiani.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 31, №65, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of writers shown in the photo: Akaki, D. Kldiashvili, I. Ekaladze, I. Evdoshvili, Jaju Jorjikia, Var. Rukhadze, Lado Darchiashvili, Gal. Tabidze, Tite Tabidze, Akaki Svani, Tsvarnami, and others”.

1914

May 31

The newspaper Azri announces that Galaktion Tabidze’s first Book will be published and distributed to subscribers shortly.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, May 31, №65, p. 1.

June

1914

Until June 4

He translates a fragment from Byron's dramatic poem "Manfred".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №8688; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 645.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "By the mirror" ("Yesterday, the whole day...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 83; For dating: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 11;

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Yesterday, All day".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "The Virgin's Dream".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №65; Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 63; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 233.

Note: The title in the autograph is "That Dream", which we think is more of a shortened title rather than an alternative title.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "The Heart laments" ("The heart laments and laments...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №64; Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 46; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 155.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "At Night, in the Evening...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 85; For dating: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 13;

Note: The poem is also found under the title "At Night the Wind Was Blowing".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Concern" ("When the Sun Ray...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 89; For dating: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 17;

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Every Morning” (“I Remember a Woman Coming...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 1.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem that begins with “The sun rests in the west...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 2.

Note: In some sources, the poem is listed under the title “The Heart and the Sun”.

1914

Until June 4

He begins writing a poem “After the Storm” (“In the Mountains, Surrounded by Peace...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 2, №63, p. 1-3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 110.

Note: The autograph indicates that the author had originally conceived this text as a poem. Alternative beginning is “Where Sorrow Still Remains...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “An old fairy-tale” (“There Was, Lived...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 2.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “Oh, how you wish...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 1.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “My Lyre” (“When in the Bustle of the Crowds...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №49, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 89.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “My song” and “When I get lost in the crowd”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “On Mtatsminda” (“I Remember, in My Wretched Youth...”) and as an epigraph, he introduces Nikoloz Baratashvili’s phrase from the poem “Getting dark on Mtatsminda”: “Saddened and frustrated like me”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 2; Autograph, MGL, №8688; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 96.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Getting dark on Mtatsminda” and “I remember”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Doom” (“Beyond One Wall...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 2; G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 18; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 90.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “The sound of a grand piano upstairs...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Close to Life” (“I Had a Crown...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 1.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “At the edge of the forest”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 1; Autographs: MGL, №8704; №28897-50, p. 61; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 119.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Sing me something”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 74.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “To Worship”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 76.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “The Green Stripe of the Mountain”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Poet" ("How many times have I said for whom I want...").

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 77.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled or with the title "You, song, mute".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "On the barren".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 81.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Silence".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 82.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "At new dawn".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 84.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Desert".

Source: Autograph 8754; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 92.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Goodbye!".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Lost Eden".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 94.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Eva".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "In the Village".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 98.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "The Leaves of the Tree Greet Me with a Quiet Rustle".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Heart Has Refreshed".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8755; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 103.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles "Resurrection" and "Delight".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Last Day".

Source: Autograph 8763; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 104.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "For a Long Time".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 106.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "And There Are Many Things I Want to Tell You".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Passenger's Song".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 107.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "Search".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 109.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Oh, Where... Where is..."

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Distant Spring”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 111.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “In Reality, While Dreaming”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Distant Endearment”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 112.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Distant Proximity”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 113.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “I Have Seen It Somewhere”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “ASTRE”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 115.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Towering as sky, as if marble” and “Towering as sky”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “A Rose Leaf”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 116.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem that begins with “I Don’t Want the Word...”.

Source: Autograph 8753; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 117.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Star Arch is Shining!"

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 118.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "At the Edge of the Forest".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №8704; №28897-50, p. 61; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 119.

Note: The poem is also found untitled, beginning with "At the Edge of the Forest, to Deceive the Eye...".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "Song" (which begins with "Once, Somewhere in Solitude...").

Source: Autograph 28897-50, p. 47; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 122.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles "Once, Somewhere" and "Time Has Passed".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Regret".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 54; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 124.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "If You Wait?"

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "While You Were Far Away...".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 55; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 125.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Wind".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 56; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 126.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem that begins with “Like Ghosts...”.

Source: Autograph 28897-50, p. 47; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 127.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Like Ghosts”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “On the Last Day”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 59.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “By the Riverbank”.

Source: Autograph 28897-50, p. 42; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 129.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Waves Are Rushing”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Two Butterflies” (“It Turned Cold, Shrouded in Mist...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 61.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Two”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Beauty” (“On the height stood a naked woman...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №600, p. 2.

Dating: On the same sheet of the autograph, there is a poem that was published by the end of June 1914.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem: “I longed, woman, to hear your sweet voice again...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №600, p. 2.

Dating: On the same sheet of the autograph, there is a poem that was published by the end of June 1914.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem: “Sorrow visited me... a saddened heart...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №600, p. 3.

Dating: On the same sheet of the autograph, there is a poem that was published by the end of June 1914.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Mortal” (“Relatives and Friends...”).

Source: Autograph 28897-50, p. 51.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “By the Bedside” and “Even Afterwards, Still”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “A Memory” (“On the Wide Path of the Forest, I Remember, a Cart Was Rolling Us Along...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 66.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “By the Bedside” and “Even Afterwards, Still”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Elegy” (“Raindrops Glide on the Windowpanes...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 77.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Romance” (“The playful stream bathes the young flower’s chest...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 45; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 174.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Withering”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Kutaisi, 1914, p. 79.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Leaves”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Do You Remember?”

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 49.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Autumn Day”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 147.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “That Blissful Night...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 148.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Dream”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 49; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 149.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “At Midnight”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “The Twilight Guest”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 150.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Laura”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 49; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 151.

Note: The poem was also published under the title “In the Time of Sorrow”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "Beyond the Luck!"

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 152.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "Oh, Don't Think...".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №1247; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 153.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles "I Will Fight", "These Flowers of Mine", and "I Carry These Flowers".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes poem titled "One Moment".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 154.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "The Heart Is Aching..."

Source: Autograph: MGL, № 28897-50, p. 46; GTDA, №64; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 155.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Incessantly".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "I am looking closely at the bottomless sea...".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 157.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "New Year" ("And a new year begins again...").

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 46; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 158.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “In times of loneliness...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 159

Note: The poem is also found under the title “The Mysterious Second Face”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem that begins with “On a Cozy Shore...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 160.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “What Is This Feeling?”

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Eyes”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, № 28897-50, p. 46; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 162.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “To Your Blue Eyes”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Fantasy” (“If I Were Given Wings, I Would Soar...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 164.

Note: The poem is also found untitled (“If I Were Given Wings, I Would Soar...”) and under the titles “Dream in Shackles” and “If I Were Given Wings...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “The edge of the forest is dozing...”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 45; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 166.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “The edge of the forest is dozing...” and “A tender garden has fallen asleep”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Two Bells”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 167.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “On the Ship”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 169.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914Until June 4

He writes a poem “Poet” (“I have seen a poet standing at the sea...”).

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 45; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 170.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Standing by the Sea”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “Under tired eyelashes...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 171.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Under the tired eyelashes...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “Sometimes in the sound of tumultuous city...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 172.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Sometimes in the sound of a tumultuous city” and “Consolation”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914Until June 4

He writes a poem “Cross”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 173.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“The boat will break on the stormy sea...”) and with a title “To the Sailor”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Without love”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 175.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “From Horizon to Zenith”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 177.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Oh, how I wished!”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 179.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “The moon hid behind the mountain barren...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 180.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The moon hid behind the mountain”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “It left me like a dream...”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 181.

Note: The poem can also be found under the headings “It left me like a dream” and “The sky had a different colour then”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Music” (“Yesterday, when the environs were lit by the moon from the sky...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 182.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Music – Sudden” and “Symphony of the Sea”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “I saw it in a dream...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 185.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Flowers – Minutes”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Like a dream”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 186.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“I was going, I was coming...”) and titled “It’s Autumn”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “I do not long for the star in the sky...”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 187.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “I love only the storm” and “I love the storm”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “The horizon is slightly agitated...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 189.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The horizon is slightly agitated...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “No One Is Here”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “At Dawn”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 193.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Evening”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 194.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Evening by the Lake”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem that begins with “Everything is over...”

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 195.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “As the meadow and woodland”, “The meadow and woodland after whirlwind” and “Awaiting waves again”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “And It Turned Pale...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 196.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “The Woman’s Ghost”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3351, №7278; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 197.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“When the pink light...”) and titled “A ghost – unworldly”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “I and the Iris”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 198.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “Cold”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 199.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Lamented by the Wind”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “My star...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “My Star”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “On a May Night”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “A Sketch”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 202.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “What For?”

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “A Vain Call”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, № 6429; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 203.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “A Secret”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 204.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Be Careful”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem “To the ghost of life...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 205.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Other... Everything...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Gentle Autumn is coming".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 207.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "What a torture...".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 58; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 208.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Instead of hopes".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "Under the white snow...".

Source: Autograph: MGL, I Volume Mock Design, №5760, p. 148; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 209.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Where has it disappeared?".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "Rage, the sea of life...".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №1245; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 210.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Rage" and "Rage, the sea of life".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "A night of torture".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 211.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Regret".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "In the album" ("On the snow-covered ice of the glacier...").

Source: Manuscript: 28897-50, p. 58; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 212.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Words of the Poet” and “From Songs”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “To the poet”.

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 62; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 213.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “You Are Not Alone”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “A Virgin”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 216.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “In the Homeland”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 217.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Return My Homeland to Me”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “A strange Recollection”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 219.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Eyes”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “You Try in Vain”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 220.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Futile Attempt”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem “Once...”

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Death".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "It Appeared to Him at the Time of Death".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "At the Door of Eden".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 223.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "A Sorrowful Soul".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Mimosa Itself".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 225.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem "When wandering as light...".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 227.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "As the light-wanderer".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Ideal".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 228.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Of Days Gone By".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "Redness".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 229.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Night Met Today".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "I Am Dreaming".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 59; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 230.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Love and Art".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 64; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 231.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Oh, I Have Found You".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled "The Virgin's Dream".

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 63; GTDA, №65; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 233.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled ("When the body of the poplar is silvered by the gentle light of the moon...").

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Getera".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "A Black Raven".

Source: Autograph 8818; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 75.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled "I have passed the road... I want to look back...".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem "Art".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 73.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes a poem titled “The Display” (“From the dark, shadowy expanse...”).

Source: Autograph: MGL, №28897-50, p. 50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 184.

Note: The poem is also found under the title “Word and Prayer”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

Until June 4

He writes an impromptu titled “To Tutku”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 297.

Dating: The content suggests that it was written before the publication of the poet’s first Book and is related to both the addressee and Galaktion Tabidze’s significant shared work.

1914

June 4

The newspaper Imereti publishes a statement that the printing of Galaktion Tabidze’s Book has been completed and will be distributed to the subscribers soon.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, June 4, №70, p. 2.

1914

Until June 7

Irodion Evdoshvili asks Galaktion to participate in his literary evening. Galaktion happily agrees, but doubts that his name might not attract much of an audience. Irodion Evdoshvili disagrees with Galaktion and tells him that the youth is crazy about him and the theatre will be crowded.

Source: MGL, d-127, 14; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 608; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 139.

1914

June 7

He participates in the literary evening dedicated to Irodion Evdoshvili held in Kutaisi theatre with the support of Akaki Tsereteli and Davit Kldiashvili.

Source: D. Shughliashvili, “Ir. Evdoshvili in Kutaisi”, newspaper Kutaisi, 1973, May 19, №95, p. 4.

Note: The following are named among the participants of the evening in the source: “Akaki Tsereteli, Davit Kldiashvili, Ia Ekaladze, Galaktion Tabidze, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Titsian Tabidze, Ilia Bakhtadze and others”.

1914

June 7

After the literary evening dedicated to Irodion Evdoshvili held in the Kutaisi theatre, Galaktion, along with Akaki Tsereteli and other participants, is in Isidore Kvitsaridze's magazine-newspaper office "Imereti" and listens to Akaki Tsereteli's conversation with fascination. At that moment, gendarmes enter the room. Akaki seems to beckon Galaktion with his eyes to escape, but the young poet does not even think to save himself and leave the grey-haired poet with the gendarmes. Everything ends peacefully, because the defenders of order themselves are embarrassed to search or arrest anyone in the presence of Akaki Tsereteli. The ashamed gendarme points to Akaki Tsereteli and asks Galaktion who the latter is, and when he gets an answer from Galaktion, he leaves the building together with other gendarmes. After they leave, Akaki tells Nino Tsereteli about Galaktion's newly published book, which depicts a woman with a harp, and asks her to read the first line. Nino reads: "Who has seen the black book, the Book with red letters, written with a drop of blood, written in awe?" and Akaki makes her to repeat it several times, and then continues the conversation that was interrupted by the gendarmes. On the same day, the community gathered in the office have a joint photo taken.

Source: MGL, d-150, 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 275-277.

1914

After June 7

Galaktion is saddened that in the group photo taken with Akaki Tsereteli, they are far apart from each other. Akaki is sitting in the middle of the front row, while Galaktion is standing first from the left in the back row. Therefore, he cuts out his and Akaki's images from the photo, places them next to each other, has the photographer enlarge them, and glues them onto cardboard.

Source: MGL, d-150, 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 275-277.

1914

June 14

The newspaper Imereti publishes a statement that on Friday, June 20, a literary and musical evening of Ioseb Mchedlishvili will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, June 14, №79, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: "Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, Dia Chianeli, Tsvarnami...".

1914

June 19

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that on Sunday, June 22, Moliere's comedy "The Impostures of Scapin" will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, Galaktion Tabidze will take part in the divertissement along with others.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, June 19, №76, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of participants in the evening event: "V. Rukhadze, P. Tsakheli, G. Tabidze".

1914

June 22

He participates in the divertissement of the performance “The Impostures of Scapin” held in Kutaisi theater.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, June 24, №87, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, N. Chkhikvadze, Il. Bakhtadze”.

1914

June 22

He participates in the literary evening of Egnate Ninoshvili held in Chiatura.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, June 24, №87, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “G. Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, Var. Rukhadze”.

1914

June 27

The newspaper Imereti publishes an announcement that on Saturday, June 28, Noe Chkhikvadze’s evening will be held, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with other writers and will read his new works.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, June 27, №90, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the event: “V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, S. Kldiashvili, Tsvarnami, T. Tabidze, Dia Chianelli, G. Tabidze”.

1914

June or later

Makrine Adeishvili, an aunt of Simon Tabidze, who came from Kutaisi to Chkvishi, asks the latter how Galaktion is doing. Simon answers that Galaktion has a creative evening at the Kutaisi Theatre on Sunday. Macrine asks him to take her with him and attend his evening so that Galaktion stays unaware. Simon fulfils the request. He asks Galaktion for a ticket to the evening. Galaktion doesn’t have an extra ticket, but when Simon tells him that he wants the ticket for his poor fan, Galaktion gives him a letter to the theatre cashier and Simon gets the ticket. After the successful completion of the evening, Simon Tabidze takes Makrine Adeishvili to Galaktion, and the poet is very happy that she attended his evening.

Source: Simon Tabidze, “Recollection of Galaktion Tabidze”, Collection “Galaktionology”, IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 339.

1914

End of June

The first Book of Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry is published, illustrated by the young artist Grigol Meskhi. The collection includes 157 poems: “Art”, “Sing Something”, “Black Raven”, “When They Bow”, “Poet”, “Autumn”, “On the Road”, “In the Forest”, “On the Barren”, “Silence”, “By the Mirror”, “At New Dawn”, “Yesterday, at Night”, “Yellow Leaf”, “By the Window”, “I Often Dream...”, “Grief”, “Doom”, “Downpour”, “Desert”, “Lost Eden”, “On Mtatsminda”, “In the Village”, “The Chandelier”, “AVE MARIA”, “My Lyre”, “The Heart Has Refreshed”, “The Last Day”, “At the Cemetery”, “For a Long Time”, “The Passenger’s Song”, “In the Narrow Cliffs of Dariali”, “Search”, “After the Storm”, “Distant Spring”, “Distant Caress”, “Distant Closeness”, “Oak”, “ASTRE”, “Rose Leaf”, “I Don’t Want Words...”, “Starry Dome Shines!”, “At the Edge of the Forest”, “What a Beautiful Dew It Was”, “Flowers”, “Song”, “Sorrow”, “Repentance”, “While You Were Far”, “Wind”, “Like Shadows...”, “On the Last Day”, “On the Riverbank”, “Two Butterflies”, “Immortal”, “Recollection”, “Demon”, “The Moment of Creation”, “A Minute”, “I Curse Love!”, “Where?”, “Soon Colour will Unfold...”, “To the Distant”, “AURORA”, “We Are Alone!”, “Elegy”, “Withering”, “Do You Remember?”, “Autumn Day”, “On that Blessed Night...”, “Dream”, “Twilight Guest”, “Laura”, “Beyond the Luck!”, “Oh, Don’t Think...”, “One Minute”, “The Heart Grieves and Grieves...”, “Closed Eyes”, “I am Looking Closely at the Bottomless Sea...”, “New Year”, “In Solitude...”, “On the Cozy Shore...”, “I Was Born at Dawn...”, “Eyes”, “Happiness”, “Fantasy”, “Never Have I Missed So Much...”, “The Edge of the Forest is Dosing...”, “Two Chimes”, “On the Ship”, “Poet”, “Under the Tired Eyelids...”, “Sometimes in the Sound of a Tumultuous City...”, “Cross”, “Romance”, “Without Love”, “From the Horizon to the Zenith”, “Oh, How I Longed”, “The Moon Hid Behind the Mountain Barren...”, “She Left Me Like a Dream...”, “Music”, “Revelation”, “I Saw in a Dream...”, “Like a Dream”, “I Do Not Covet the Star of the Sky...”, “Moan”, “The Horizon Slightly Quivers...”, “No One Is”, “The Forest Took Me”, “At Dawn”, “Evening”, “Everything Is Over!”, “And It Faded”, “The Woman’s Ghost”, “I and Iris”, “Cold”, “My Star...”, “On May Night”, “Sketch”, “A Vain Cry”, “Secret”, “To the Shadow of Life...”, “Christ”, “Gentle Autumn Is Coming”, “What a Torture...”, “Under the White Snow...”, “Rage, the Sea of Life...”, “Night of Torture”, “In the Album”, “To the Poet”, “Around Me”, “Virgin”, “In the Homeland”, “Nowhere, Never”, “A Strange Recollection”, “A Futile Attempt”, “Once...”, “Death”, “At the Door of Eden”, “Invisible”, “The Mimosa Itself”, “Woman and Art”, “When Wandering as Light...”, “Ideal”, “Redness”, “I Dream”, “Love and Art”, “I and the Night”, “The Virgin’s Dream”, “Night of Gethsemane”, “Mountains of Guria”, “Getera”, and “The Gravedigger”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 73–242, 316–380; For dating: V. Kipiani, “G. Tabidze’s Poems”, magazine Tskhovreba da Metsniereba, August, №1, p. 10-11

Dating: The publication date of the Book is mentioned in the article by Ivane Kipiani.

Note: 15 poems: “Christ”, “Concern”, “The last day”, “For a long time”, “Distant endearment”, “A rose leaf”, “No words”, “On that blissful night”, “Happiness”, “Oh, how I wished”, “There is no-one”, “At dawn”, “And turned pale”, “May night”, “The mimosa itself” were not published in the author’s lifetime after publication of the first book.

1914

June or later

Galaktion Tabidze personally presented his first Book of poems to Akaki Tsereteli in Skhvitiori.

Source: Newspaper Tribunai, 1923, №492.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

June or later

On the sheet, he writes down Babilina Khositashvili's translations of his poems "Romance" ("The playful stream bathes the young flower's chest...") and "The Moon Beneath the Clouds at Midnight...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 45; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 174.

Dating: Based on the time of writing the poem "Romance".

1914

After June

He is in Kutaisi and meets Varden Kipiani, who scolds him that the first volume of his poems is pessimistic, and he does not understand why young people talk about "The gravedigger" and "I and Night" all the time. He adds that shedding so many tears spoils eyesight. At the same time, Varden has in his hands the first volume of Ilia Chavchavadze's writings published by Mikheil Gedevanishvili. Galaktion asks him to read Ilia's poem, which is on page one hundred and twenty-one: "Why is a brave man moved to tears? / Iron also breaks, when is beaten by an anvil / In order to distinguish between man and cattle / God created only a tear". Varden reads and immediately retreats, if Ilya writes like that, I cannot say anything more.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-633-21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 395.

Note: Varden Kipiani wrote under the pseudonym "Ghvankiteli".

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's first Book was published at the end of June 1914.

1914

After June

He is in Kutaisi, at Isidore Kvitsaridze's kiosk, where he meets the young poet Grigol Tsetskhladze. Grigol tells him that he is thrilled by his poems but does not reveal that he also writes poetry himself. The young men continue their conversation about education. It turns out that Grigol is preparing to receive his diploma. Galaktion advises him to go to Moscow and study at Shanyavsky University as an auditor, just as he plans to do. He also explains that presenting a high school diploma is not required for admission to this university.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, "Recollections about Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 407-425.

July

1914

July 2

The newspaper Imereti publishes a statement that young writers, including Galaktion Tabidze, will hold literary evenings in various provinces of Western Georgia.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, July 2, №94, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evenings: “Vl. Bakradze, Mikh. Tsulukidze, P. Ireteli, G. Kuchishvili, N. Chkhikvadze, N. Zomleteli, G. Tabidze, and others”.

1914

July 2

Together with young writers, he travels to regions of Georgia to hold literary evenings.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, July 3, №96, p. 2.

1914

July 3

The newspaper Azri publishes a statement that the editorial office has received the collection of poems by Galaktion Tabidze published by Tutku Gvaramia.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, July 3, №89, p. 1.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze and Tutku Gvaramia are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and the surnames.

1914

July 4

The newspaper Azri publishes an announcement under the “News” column that young writers will hold literary evenings on July 4 in Ozurgeti, July 5 in Chokhatauri, July 6 in Khidistavi, and July 7 in Lanchkhuti.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, July 4, №88, p. 1.

1914

July 4

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a statement that the literary evening of Georgian poets scheduled for July 4 in the New Theater of Ozurgeti, in which Galaktion Tabidze was supposed to participate, did not take place due to the absence of some participants.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, 13 July, №19, p. 16.

Note: The source presents a list of participants: “G. Kuchishvili, N. Chkhikvadze, G. Tabidze, P. Ireteli, V. Bakradze, M. Tsulukidze”.

1914

July 6

With the note beneath, “To One Punished by Fate Like Me” – Giorgi Kuchishvili, he translates Edgar Poe’s poem “The Raven” (“I Moaned, I Lamented...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1181, p. 1-2, GTDA, №345; Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, №24551/59; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 506.

1914

July 6

He is in Kutaisi and sends a letter to Olya Okujava. He informs that he is in a very good mood, but he will not be at home in the evening, because he has to meet Tutku Gvaramia to discuss the book's royalty, and the next day he is going to a literary evening in Lanchkhuti. He asks her to come to him in the morning. He writes that he is translating "The Raven" by Edgar Poe.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/59; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 506.

1914

July 7

The newspaper Shroma publishes an announcement that the editors have received the first volume of the collection of poems by young poet, Galaktion Tabidze, published by Tutku Gvaramia. It is noted that the Book is in an enlarged format and costs 60 kopecks.

Source: Newspaper Shroma, 1914, July 7, №19, p. 3.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze and Tutku Gvaramia are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and the surnames.

1914

July 8

The newspaper Azri, under the "News" column, publishes an announcement that Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chkhikvadze and Galaktion Tabidze will soon hold an evening in Poti.

Source: Newspaper Azri, 1914, July 8, №91, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze and Tutku Gvaramia are mentioned in the source with their initials and surnames. Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chkhikvadze and Galaktion Tabidze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and the surnames.

1914

Until July 13

He writes an untitled poem: "From distant lands come heart-piercing news..."

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №623, p. 1.

1914

Until July 13

On the sheet, he drafts an announcement indicating that on July 13, he, along with Giorgi Kuchishvili and Noe Chkhikvadze, will participate in a literary and dramatic evening planned in the city of Poti, which will also feature Avksenti Tsagareli's vaudeville "Neither Here Nor There".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №623, p. 1.

1914

July 13

The newspaper Imereti publishes an announcement that an evening event featuring Galaktion Tabidze is being held in Poti.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, July 13, №104, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, N. Chkhikvadze, G. Tabidze, and B. Pelashvili”.

1914

July 12-13

Together with Giorgi Kuchishvili, he is in Poti, where the workers tour the city, the surroundings of Paliastomi lake and spend the night in the apartment of a worker. Galaktion stays awake all night and he writes a poem “Song of the Dying Swan”, which he reads at the meeting held the next day.

Source: Autographs: MGL, № 618; №1086; №1916; №3348; №7441; №7767; №24361; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 98. G. Chikobava, Close to Galaktion, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 11-15; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 456-457.

Note: The poem is known under the title “The Moon of Mtatsminda”, and its untitled versions begin with the words: “There has never been...” or “There has never born...”.

1914

Until July 14

He writes a poem “Conversation during Waltz”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3996; №4159; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 66.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “To the woman from the mountains”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

July 14

The poem “To a woman from the mountains” is published in the newspaper Shroma.

Source: Newspaper Shroma, 1914, July 14, №20, p. 3.

1914

July 14

The newspaper Shroma publishes Akaki Papava’s article “Galaktion Tabidze’s Poems”. The author writes that the poet’s Book creates a gentle and sad mood, but it does not have the uncertainty of other poets’ works, which combine extreme cheerfulness and terrible despair. Despite the deep sorrow, one does not feel the curse of fate and the furious condemnation of life. His sadness is dear to everyone, because the reader’s pain dissolves in the artificially created mood. He calls the poet the living son of the era, the face and mirror of the soul of the Georgian intelligentsia. He notes that Galaktion ponders the eternal and the mystery of life, it’s a gentle chord of musical poetry, and anyone who loves the beautiful agony of grief will love this book.

Source: Akaki Papava, “Galaktion Tabidze’s Poems”, newspaper Shroma, 1914, July 14, №20, p. 3.

1914

July 18

The newspaper Imereti publishes the announcement that the agency of magazines and newspapers, Imereti, has received a Book of poems by Galaktion Tabidze, the price of which is 60 kopecks, for distribution to the subscribers and sale.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, July 18, №108, p. 2.

1914

Until July 21

He departs from Kutaisi and travels to Chkvishi.

Source: Correspondence from the Kutaisi Governorate Gendarmerie Administration to the Head of the Tbilisi Gendarmerie Administration, July 21, №4909 (National Archives of Georgia, Repository 153, Case 3390, Sheets 186-187); Works in twelve volumes, vol. 12, 1975, p. 681.

Dating: It is stated in the correspondence that he departed from Kutaisi several days earlier.

1914

July 21

The Gendarmerie Division of Kutaisi Governorate sends a secret letter to the head of the Tbilisi Gendarmerie Division, in which it is stated that Galaktion Tabidze, the chief editor of the newspaper Akhali Azri, left Kutaisi a few days ago, he is under surveillance and will be arrested upon his return. The same document states that he is subject to military conscription.

Source: Correspondence from the Kutaisi Governorate Gendarmerie Administration to the Head of the Tbilisi Gendarmerie Administration, July 21, №4909 (National Archives of Georgia, Repository 153, Case 3390, Sheets 186-187); Works in twelve volumes, vol. 12, 1975, p. 681.

1914

July 24

From Chkvishi, he goes to Samtredia, where he learns that the war is starting, the train service is stopped, and he returns to Chkvishi.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/23; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 21-22.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's July 24 letter to Olya Okujava, in which he tells the story of that day, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

July 24

He is staying in Chkvishi and sends a letter to Olya Okujava from Chiatura. He describes the enchanting nature of Chkorotsku and informs her that he feels comfortably and happily distanced from the city's clamour. He spends time reading books with Titsian Tabidze, engaging in conversations, swimming in the river, sailing, and fishing. Sometimes children steal the caught fish, which makes Titsian very angry, but Galaktion finds it amusing. Titsian shares news from Moscow, while Galaktion recounts events from Kutaisi. His mother, overjoyed at his return, wanted to hold a grand celebration, but Galaktion preferred not to disturb the tranquillity of the village.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/23; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 21-22.

Note: Olya Okujava is referred to in the source by the nickname "Olol", and Titsian Tabidze by the name "Tite".

1914

July or later

He meets Grigol Tsetskhladze and tells him that he has read his poem "By the Sea". Galaktion, who had recently met Grigol, praises this poem and reproaches him for not mentioning earlier that he wrote poems. Then, he reads his own new, yet unpublished poems and invites Grigol to share his works as well.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, "Recollections about Galaktion", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p.

August

1914

Until August 10

The newspaper Imereti mistakenly publishes the statement that the editors have received the first volume of poems by Titsian Tabidze (should be "Galaktion Tabidze"), which is accompanied by a picture of the author, a short biography and a critical letter by Ivane Gomarteli. The Book is high quality, consists of 192 pages and costs 60 kopecks.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, August 10, №126, p. 3.

Note: Titsian Tabidze and Ivane Gomarteli are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and the surnames.

1914

Until August 10

Tutku Gvaramia gives two copies of the first collection of Galaktion's poems, including one for Ia Ekaladze, to the editors of the newspaper Imereti.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze, "A Brief Explanation", MGL, d-641-8, G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121.

1914

August 12

The newspaper Imereti publishes a statement that the editors received the first volume of Galaktion Tabidze's poems and not Titsian Tabidze's, as was mistakenly stated in the newspaper's August 10 statement.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, August 10, №127, p. 3.

Note: Titsian Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname.

1914

After August 14

Returning to Kutaisi, Ia Ekaladze asks Galaktion several times to give a collection of his poems as a gift, and despite the fact that the publisher of the Book had left the Book for her in the editorial office, the poet gives it to her again and on top of it he writes a poem “An inscription on the book” (“When you without aim, without meaning...”).

Source: Galaktion Tabidze, “A Brief Explanation”, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-641-8. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 122-123.

Dating: The source shows that at least 4 days have passed since the Imereti newspaper editorial office received the Book and presented the Book with the inscription to Ia Ekaladze.

1914

After August 14

He writes a poem “Letters from the tower”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-641-8; MGL, a-88.

Dating: The autograph of the text is written in a notebook after a “small explanation”.

1914

August 15

The publisher of Galaktion Tabidze’s first Book – Tutku Gvaramia appeals to the editor of the newspaper Imereti and apologizes for not being able to distribute the Book to the subscribers on time because he was arrested. He asks subscription-collecting agents to let him know the addresses and amount paid to send books.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1914, August 10, №130, p. 4.

Note: Tutku Gvaramia is mentioned in the source with the initial of the first name and his surname.

1914

After August 16

He meets Ia Ekaladze, who tells him that he has decided to respond to his Book with a letter and asks for permission to begin the letter with the poem Galaktion dedicated to him. The poet initially agrees, but shortly afterward, he sends a note to Ekaladze requesting that he not publish his poem, explaining that it is weak, holds no public value, and its publication would add nothing to the author.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze, “A Brief Explanation”, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-641-8. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 122-123.

Dating: The source indicates that at least 4 days had passed between the receipt of the Book by the editorial office of the newspaper “Imereti” and the gift of an inscribed copy to Ia Ekaladze, and another 2 days had elapsed between the gifting of the Book and the meeting between Galaktion and Ekaladze.

1914

August 30

In the evening, Galsakhtion Tabidze goes to the theatre in Kutaisi to participate in a literary and dramatic evening organized by David Charkviani for the benefit of the ailing Tamar Ivanidze. In the hall, he meets Olya's brother, Mikheil Okujhava, who asks Galaktion who is participating in the evening and whether he himself is taking part. Galaktion replies that all the participants are fools and that he is one of them. Mikheil responds that he stands out from the others. Although Galaktion is not in the mood to go on stage, he does not refuse since he has already given his consent. He begins reciting the poem "I and the Night" but forgets it and finds a solution by reading someone else's poem that is lying on the lectern. The audience realizes that he has forgotten his own poem and demands his return to the stage with loud applause, but he does not go back out. Upon leaving the theatre, he is presented with a lot of flowers.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 505.

1914

August 30

After the conclusion of the literary and dramatic evening, Galaktion Tabidze has dinner with another participant, Lado Matchavariani, at a restaurant and then heads towards the apartment Galaktion has rented on the Kutaisi Gora. They find the house locked, and the landlord does not open the door. After waiting for half an hour, they return to the city. They are unable to find a cheap hotel room and are left outside, pondering what to do. As they stand there, five students from the gymnasium pass by with two young women. One of the students rudely pushes Galaktion, and instead of apologizing, mocks him. Angry, Galaktion strikes the student with the walking stick that Olya had given him and fends off the others who come to help with the same stick. The fleeing students are then chased by Lado Matchavariani. Eventually, Galaktion and the accompanying women manage to rescue them. After this, Galaktion and Lado return to the Gora, where they spend the night. Galaktion sleeps for two hours in his room, and upon waking, he is tormented by loneliness and goes down to the city to write a letter to Olya.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 505.

Dating: This incident is described in a letter from Galaktion Tabidze to Olya Okujava, dated August 31, 1914.

1914

August 30

He sees off Olya Okujava to Chiatura from Kutaisi and then returns home to prepare for moving to a new apartment. Despite the help of his mother and brother, they are unable to complete packing and moving since they are late for the train.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 505.

1914

August 31

From Kutaisi, a letter is sent to Olya Okujava in Chiatura, detailing the events of the evening at the Kutaisi theatre on August 30th, and the subsequent altercation with the gymnasium students. He expresses deep distress over having been beaten with a stick and laments that such an incident would not have happened if Olya had been with him. He writes that he loves Olya immensely and cannot live without her but doubts whether Olya still loves him in return. He wonders if Olya would cry if he were to die. He acknowledges that he has caused a lot of hurt but pleads that Olya not think badly of him, as he means no harm to anyone. He sends greetings to Olya's friend Vera Khalvashi and apologizes for a harmless lie. He mentions that when Mikheil Botchorishvili arrived in Kutaisi and heard about his recent fight, he was very critical, but Galaktion did not protest, as he now feels ashamed. He asks Olya to take care of herself, not to become ill, and to stay well.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 505.

1914

August

The magazine Tskhovreba da Metsniereba publishes an article by Ivane Kipiani. The author discusses Galaktion Tabidze's first collection of poems. In his view, the poems are influenced by Nikoloz Baratashvili, characterized by pessimism, and reflect physical and spiritual suffering, with a yearning for death. The author also notes that the young poet writes on other themes as well and holds promise for the future.

Source: V. Kipiani, "G. Tabidze's Poems", magazine Tskhovreba da Metsniereba, August, №1, p. 10-11.

Note: Ivane (Vano) Kipiani is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and his surname.

1914

August or later

He meets Grigol Tsetskhladze. They begin discussing writers and literature. During their conversation, Galaktion recites works by Nikoloz Baratashvili and Akaki Tsereteli from memory. He also shares his unpublished poems with his friend. They discuss contemporary poetry as well. Grigol notes that Galaktion seems displeased with the mention and praise of contemporary poets, such as Ioseb Grishashvili and Alexandre Shanshiashvili. He also observes Galaktion's protective attitude towards Varlam Rukhadze, Noe Chkhikvadze, and Giorgi Kuchishvili, even though Galaktion does not consider them as his peers.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, "Recollections about Galaktion", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p.

September

1914

Until September 5

From Chiatura, he receives a letter from Olya Okujava in Kutaisi, who reproaches him for his relationship with Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/28; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 27-28; For dating: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/28; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's September 5 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1914

September 5

He sends a short letter to Chiatura from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava. He assures that he loves only her and asks her not to listen to the rumours.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/24-h; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25.

Dating: We date according to the postmark.

1914

After September 5

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to Olya Okujava in Chiatura. He informs her that he is very upset by the letter he received from her. He explains that she should not pay attention to rumours or believe fabricated stories that have been fed to her since childhood. He clarifies that he has never loved and will never love Raisa Chikhladze. He asks her to reveal the identity of the rumour spreader so that he can demand an explanation. He is terribly bored with life and the endless intrigues in Kutaisi, and if things continue like this, he might end up harming himself. He does not wish to commit suicide but notes that others do not either, despite the many occasions he has provided for it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/28; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 27-28; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 512.

1914

September or later

He is in the Kutaisi Boulevard with Lado Matchavariani, Nikandro Asatiani, and Grigol Tsetskhladze. The young people are browsing through magazines and newspapers. Galaktion's attention is drawn to the periodical publication of the Socialist-Federalist party, Sakhalkho Gazeti and its Sunday literary supplement, which is beautifully printed on high-quality paper. Although he sympathizes with the Social-Democrats at the time and does not collaborate with the Sakhalkho Gazeti, he seems to be upset about it and contemptuously remarks that the supplement constantly features texts by Siko Pashalishvili and Ioseb Mtchedlishvili.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, "Recollections about Galaktion", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p.

October

1914

Until October 5

He writes a poem “Candles”.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, №31, October 5, p. 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 68.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

October 5

The poem “Candles” is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, October 5, №31, p. 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 68.

1914

Until October 20

Abesalom Tabidze writes a letter to his mother, informing her that he will arrive in Kutaisi on October 21st to see his brother. He mentions that Galaktion’s stay in Chkvishi is dangerous because he is due for military conscription and could be reported by someone.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1581, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 547.

November

1914

November 2

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze is holding a literary-musical-drama evening today.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 2, №30, p. 3.

1914

November 2

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the announcement that they have received the first volume of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems, published by Tutku Gvaramia, with a picture of the author, a short biography and a letter from Ivane Gomarteli, “A poet of Sorrow”. The announcement also states that the original price of the Book was 60 kopecks, but is being sold for 50 kopecks, and that the editors are also preparing a special review of this edition.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1914, November 2, №35, p. 16.

1914

November 8

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that a literary evening will be held in the Kutaisi Theatre on November 19 for the benefit of Galaktion Tabidze’s continuing education.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 8, №33, p. 3.

1914

November 16

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that on November 19, Galaktion Tabidze will host a great literary-musical dramatic evening in the Kutaisi theatre, in which famous writers and declaimers, violin and cello players will participate; The one-act vaudeville “Ghost” will be performed, and Grigol Meskhi will stage living pictures.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 16, №39, p. 3.

1914

November 18

The newspaper Akhali Iveria reminds the public that on November 19, a great literary-musical-artistic-dramatic evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre in favour of Galaktion Tabidze, who is the best among young writers. The editors hope that many people will attend the evening and respect the talent of the poet.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 18, №40, p. 2.

1914

November 19

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes a statement that on November 19, Galaktion Tabidze will hold a great literary-musical-dramatic evening in Kutaisi theatre.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 19, №41, p. 3.

1914

Until November 20

He writes a poem “Elegy” (“Through the window I gaze, if the white snow...”).

Source: Newspaper Akhali Azri, 1914, №75, November 20, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 69.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1914

November 20

The poem “Elegy” (“Through the window I gaze, if the white snow...”) is published in the newspaper Akhali Azri with the signature “G. Tabidze”.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Azri, 1914, November 20, №75, p. 3.

1914

November 21

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes a statement that the evening of Galaktion Tabidze, which did not take place on November 19, will be held on November 24 and Sergo Kavtaradze will give a lecture.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 21, №43, p. 3.

1914

November 23

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that on November 24, the evening of Galaktion Tabidze with the participation of famous writers will be held in Kutaisi theatre with an extensive program. Artist Grigol Meskhi will stage “living pictures” from the current war.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 23, №44, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the event: “I. Nikolaishvili, V. Rukhadze, Theod. Khuskivadze, D. Tomashvili, G. Tabidze, Shota Dadiani, V. Rukhadze, Sh. Dadiani, Tsvar-Nami, G. Tabidze, Soso, V. Kipiani; and Nemo and NN will sing to the sound of “woe”.

1914

November 24

A literary evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze is held at the Kutaisi Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, November 26, №46, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “I. Nikolaishvili, V. Rukhadze, D. Tomashvili, Sh. Dadiani, Tsvar-Nami, G. Tabidze, L. Matchavariani, V. Kipiani, T. Khuskivadze, and others”.

1914

November 30

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the cliché of the cover of Galaktion Tabidze’s first book, made by Grigol Meskhi - a woman playing the lyre is depicted in the frame of a wreath of roses.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, №39, back cover.

December

1914

December 4

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that on December 9, a literary and musical evening will be held in Kutaisi theatre with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, December 4, №53 p. 1;

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “Aradeli-Ishkhneli, Ia Ekaladze, Tsvarnami, G. Tabidze, Sh. Dadiani”.

1914

December 5

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that on December 9, a literary and musical evening will be held in Kutaisi theatre with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, December 5, №54, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “Aradeli-Ishkhneli, Ia Ekaladze, Tsvarnami, G. Tabidze, Sh. Dadiani”.

1914

December 6

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that on December 9, a literary and musical evening will be held in Kutaisi theatre with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, December 6, №55, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “Aradeli-Ishkhneli, Ia Ekaladze, Tsvarnami, G. Tabidze, Sh. Dadiani”.

1914

December 9

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes an announcement that a literary and musical evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre today with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, December 9, №56, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “Aradeli-Ishkhneli, Ia Ekaladze, Tsvarnami, G. Tabidze, Sh. Dadiani”.

1914

December 16

The newspaper Akhali Iveria publishes a note that Galaktion Tabidze, named as one of the participants of the literary evening of December 9, did not participate in this evening and therefore it could not be held at a proper level. Therefore, the organizers of the evenings are requested not to mislead the public.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Iveria, 1914, December 16, №58, p. 4.

1914

December 20 or later

In the distribution organization of the Kutaisi newspapers and magazines Imereti, he receives a letter from his brother from Sajavakho. He suggests that they both travel to their mother together on December 22. He requests that the basket, which was sent from the village previously, be brought along.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1266; p. 1-2.

Dating: The letter was stamped in Samtredia on October 20th.

1914

December 28

There is panic in Kutaisi because of the situation created by the First World War. Announcements posted by the governor in the city call on the population to leave the city immediately, the wealthy population flees, only the poor citizens remain. Some people are sure that the Turks are already standing on Gabashvili Hill.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 9-11.

1914

December 28

He attends the performance of "King Lear" in Kutaisi theatre. The play also includes members of the squad gathered by the leader of the nobility due to the threat of enemy invasion, who instead of maintaining order, themselves behave disorderly. One of them harasses a lady. Galaktion warns him to stop his misbehaviour. The young man takes a dagger to frighten him and pulls him out of the carcass, but Galaktion suddenly holds his hand and tells him that if he is so brave, he should use his strength against the Turks. These words quickly bring the boy to his senses, but the other members of the squad come to his aid and threaten Galaktion. They ask what the matter is and Galaktion calmly answers: "Nothing, peace and virtue among men", and leaves them with a smile.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 9-11.

1911-1914

He writes a statement about the literary evening, in which he himself takes part along with Varlam Rukhadze, Davit Meskhi, Vasil Balanchivadze and Mikheil Janoev. The announcement states that the "trial" will be held in the first section, in which Dimitri Uznadze, Vladimir Bakradze, Grigol Giorgadze and Karpez Dondua will take part. It is said that magazines will be distributed to the audience in which they will express their opinion about the trial and then a panel of judges will sum it up.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №89, p. 1.

Note: Dimitri Uznadze is referred to as "Dito Uznadze", while the names of other persons are written with the initials of the first names and surnames. Since the participants of the evening are mainly writers, it is probably meant to judge some literary character.

1914

He writes a satirical poem "Mouse" ("A Certain Long-Tailed Mouse...") with the note underneath: "To X" and sends it to the editor of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba – Ioseb Imedashvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №169, p. 1; Information for clarification and dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 455.

Note: The poem should refer to Shalva Sharashidze, who wrote under the pseudonym "Taguna". In the source, Ioseb Imedashvili is referred to only by his first name.

1914

He writes a poem whose first stanza ends with the lines: "A gentle breeze sings a lullaby / To the beautiful land, the motherland".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №169, p. 2.

Dating: The poem is written on the second side of the sheet, which we have dated to 1914.

1914

He sees an airplane for the first time in Kutaisi. The device flies for a total of 30 minutes and makes a great impression on the young people there, especially Konstantine Gamsakhurdia. While watching the flying device, Galaktion meets former high school student Lortkipanidze, who was drafted into the army due to his expulsion from high school.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-201, p. 13; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 285.

Note: Konstantine Gamsakhurdia is mentioned by his surname in the source.

1914

He reads the poem "Yellow Leaf" at the great literary evening held in Kutaisi. He is met with admiration by the public and deserves the praise of Akaki Tsereteli.

Source: M. Alavidze, Galaktion's Life and Poetry, magazine Gantiadi, 1992, №11-12, p. 122.

1914

He writes a poem titled "A Poet is a Warrior".

Source: F.G. Chikobava, Galaktion and Art, Art, Tbilisi, 1959, №4, p. 31.

1914 or later

For the first time in Kutaisi, he meets Davit Kasradze, who is visiting Ia Ekaladze, and they both are invited to the famous Dianoz Koberidze restaurant located on top of the Chain Bridge. After dinner, they go to Bagrat temple and talk about poetry on the way. Ia Ekaladze thinks of Paul Verlaine's words "music is the most important thing in poetry" and scolds Galaktion for forgetting this and putting forward the idea. The poet answers: The idea is the music, is not it?

Source: D. Kasradze, First Meeting, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 202.

Dating: We date according to the time of Davit Kasradze's return to Georgia.

1914 or later

Galaktion's room is cleaned by an elderly woman next door, and knowing his love for roses, she puts a bouquet of red roses on the desk. Arriving at the house with Ia Ekaladze and Davit Kasradze, Galaktion kisses the flowers and tells the guests that roses are his highest pleasure, bliss and poetry, and then he reads to them the newly written poem "Roses". Ia Ekaladze notes that the poem is overloaded with the names of famous writers and poets and does not add anything to its poetry. Galaktion evasively listens to his former teacher's remark. Then they all discuss decadence for a long time.

Source: D. Kasradze, First Meeting, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 223-224.

Dating: We date according to the time of Davit Kasradze's return to Georgia.

1914 or later

He accompanies Davit Kasradze, who is in Kutaisi for the first time, to see the historical districts of the city.

Source: D. Kasradze, First Meeting, A Toast to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 225-226.

Dating: We date according to the time of Davit Kasradze's return to Georgia.

1914 or later

In the notebook, he copies eleven pages from the Russian translation of Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Gray".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №309, p. 1-11.

Dating: We date it based on the earliest mention of Oscar Wilde in the notes.

1914 or later

Under the pseudonym "The New Scribe," he writes a review of Jaju Jorjikia's collected works. In the note, he describes Jorjikia as a "faceless" and "entirely devoid of pretension" writer. Galaktion disagrees with Kita Abashidze's opinion that Jorjikia writes in the style of Oscar Wilde and reproaches the critic for superficial thinking. According to the poet, Jaju Jorjikia lacks depth of thought and creative inspiration. As for the introductory essay by Mikheil Tsulukidze attached to Jorjikia's collection, Galaktion considers it a curiosity.

Source: MGL, d-643, 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 134-135.

Dating: The mentioned Book by Jaju Jorjikia was published in 1914.

1914 or later

He makes highlights and annotations in Giorgi Kuchishvili's poetry collection.

Source: MGL, t-215, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Book one, Tbilisi, 1921, p. IX-XII, XIX, XX, XXIII-XXXI, 10, 17, 20, 22, 27-28, 31, 44, 49, 58, 67, 69, 71-73, 90, 101-102, 109, 112, 118, 121, 125, 127.

1914 or later

In Nikolai Gumilyov's Russian translation of Théophile Gautier's poetry collection Émaux et Camées ("Enamels and Cameos"), he underlines and numbers the lines.

Source: MGL, t-293, Теофиль Готье, "Эмали и камеи", пер. Н. Гумилева, Saint-Petersburg, 1914.

1914 or later

He translates Théophile Gautier's poem "Mysterious Kinship" (A Pantheistic Madrigal) into prose.

Source: MGL, d-643-5, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160-161; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 480.

1914 or later

He writes an untitled poem "Allow me to be near you...".

Source: MGL, d-643-5, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 480.

1915

Until 1915

He writes on a piece of paper that Solomon Zurgielidze is a man who has always survived.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №91, p. 1.

Dating: We date it to the period before Solomon Zurgielidze's death.

January

1915

Until January

He writes a poem titled "Destiny".

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, №2, January, p. 26; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 8.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

After January 1

He plans to write a review of the newspapers from 1914 and begins with a general discussion about what types of information should and should not be published in newspapers. For comparison, he provides two examples: one where the newspaper reports Akaki Tsereteli's arrival in Kutaisi, and another where it reports the movement of an unknown individual to the public. He writes that the information published in newspapers should be of interest to the broad public.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-1, p. 7, 8; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 15, 16.

1915

Until January 4

He writes an untitled poem "What a sad tale the wind tells...".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №1, January 4, p. 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 70.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "What a sad lullaby is told".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

January 4

The poem "What a sad tale the wind tells..." is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba with facsimile "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, January 4, №1, p. 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 70.

1915

January 5

The newspaper Shadrevani publishes Mikheil Tsulukidze's article "Poems of G. Tabidze". The author criticizes the poet's first Book for extreme pessimism. He writes that the author of these poems does not know who to turn to, to whom to sing the "sad" song, and for him "everything is in vain". According to Mikheil Tsulukidze, the reason for this is that the poet appeared on the literary scene in 1908 during the period of reaction, but he still believes that such hopelessness does not suit the young poet.

Source: Newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, January 5, №3, p. 3-4.

1915

January 5

The newspaper Shadrevani publishes the cover cliché of Galaktion Tabidze's first Book made by Grigol Meskhi.

Source: Newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, January 5, №3, p. 4.

1915

January 6

In Chiatura, he says goodbye to Olya Okujava. Later, while strolling through a garden with a priest, he notices Olya's brother, Nikoloz Okujava, and his fiancée, Nina Gvakharia, sitting on a bench in the garden, deeply engrossed in a serious discussion.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/29; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 32-34.

Dating: The January 11 extract of Galaktion Tabidze's letter allows us to determine the time, in which the poet remembers this day ("the day you left (wasn't it the day of baptism?").

Note: Olya Okujava's brother and his fiancée are mentioned by their first names in the source.

1915

January 8

The weather is unusual in Kutaisi and after breakfast he decides to go for a walk outside the city. After a long walk, he comes to the church of Kvitiri village, looks at the gravestones scattered in its yard and lies on one of them for a long time. He thinks about the review published by Mikheil Tsulukidze about his first book, about people, heaven and hell. Then he suddenly smiles, gets up quickly and returns home, where he finds two letters sent by Olya Okujava.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/29; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 32-34.

Dating: The extract of the letter states it is January 8th.

1915

January 8

Returning from the cemetery, he begins to write a reply letter to Olya Okujava and describes in a humorous style the story of his stay at the cemetery, where he allegedly argued with the dead about poetry, and one of them, to prove that he is not a poet, took out the newspaper Shadrevani and pointed to the article by Mikheil Tsulukidze. He cannot finish writing the letter, because the housekeeper's son borrows an inkpot and a pen from him.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/29; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 32-34.

Dating: The January 8 extract of Galaktion Tabidze's letter allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

Until January 11

In the evening, he goes for a walk in the garden, buys violets and walks thoughtfully. Suddenly, he hears the voice of Olya's younger sister, Mania, he looks at her and sees other members of Olya's family: mother – Elizabeth Peremusheva, aunt, brothers: Shalva and Vasil, and others. He realizes that Olya's relatives would not invite him to join, if not for Olya's sister who noticed violets in his hand. He gives flowers to Mania, shakes everyone's hand and soon leaves.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/29; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 32-34.

Dating: The January 11 extract of Galaktion Tabidze's letter allows us to determine the timeframe, in which the poet remembers this day (“the day you left (wasn't it the day of baptism?)”).

Note: Olya's brother and sister are mentioned by their first names in the source. The name of her aunt is not mentioned (she had two aunts: Makrine and Fedosia), but Olya's aunt Makrine regularly came from Batumi to her mother's family - Salome in Kutaisi.

1915

Until January 11

He writes a poem titled “Art Poetique” (“As Boundless Are Passion and Wind...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №67; Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №2, January 11, p. 6; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 7.

Note: The poem is also found untitled and under the title “I Loved the Tune”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

January 11

He finishes writing a letter to be sent to Olya Okujava in Kutaisi. He says that he doesn't go anywhere and nobody comes to visit him either. He saw his own brother only once, and he may have already gone to the village. Also, once the evening he went for a long walk and met Olya's relatives.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/29; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 32-34.

Dating: “1915, 11/I” is written in pencil on the first page of the letter's autograph.

1915

January 11

The poem “Art Poétique” is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, with a facsimile of “G. Tabidze”. Galaktion Tabidze’s photo and Ioseb Imedashvili’s article “Georgian writers – Galaktion Tabidze (due to the publication of his poems)” are published in the same issue. The author of the article points out that the poet is completely isolated and with his poetry he is similar to the world lamenters of sorrow and to Nikoloz Baratashvili from Georgians. Ioseb Imedashvili considers the young poet worthy of great attention and advises readers to enjoy his beautiful poems.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №2, p. 5-6. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 7.

Note: The poem was later printed without a title (“I loved the tune...”). Ioseb Imedashvili is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym “Ioseb Arimatieli”.

1915

January 12

The newspaper Shadrevani prints the cover cliché of Galaktion Tabidze’s first book, made by Grigol Meskhi.

Source: Newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, January 12, №4, p. 4.

1915

January 14

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze’s Book is sold in the office of magazines and newspapers Gantiadi and a bookstore located on Marine Avenue in Batumi.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, January 14, №117, p. 1.

1915

Until January 15

He takes his poem “Destiny” to Romanos Pantskhava, the editor of the magazine Gantiadi. The editor receives it courteously, reads the text, warmly embraces him, says that he is a genius, and generously hosts him.

Source: S. Pantskhava, Galaktion, Alazani Dawn, 1982, December 7, №144, p. 4; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 657.

1915

January 15

The poem “Destiny” is published in the magazine Gantiadi, accompanied by the editor’s note that the poem should have been placed on page 4, but was mistakenly printed on page 26.

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, January 15, №2, p. 26.

1915

January 19

Sandro Abasheli's article "Yellow Leaf" is published in the newspaper Shadrevani. The author notes that many people are fascinated by the amazing number of poets, but there are very few real poets. He gives the first place among these chosen ones to the young poet, Galaktion Tabidze. His poetry is endowed with divine fire, his sadness is universal world sadness. The poem "Yellow Leaf" is an emblem of the poet's lyrics. The simplicity of the composition of the poems illuminates the tender strings of sincere feelings. He has appeared to Georgian writing like an unexpected song.

Source: S. Ab-eli, "Yellow Leaf", newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, January 19, №5, p. 2-3.

Note: In the source, Sandro Abashidze is mentioned under the pseudonym "S. Ab-li".

1915

January 22

The second issue of Gantiadi magazine is published, in which Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Destiny" is published.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1915, January 22, №13, p. 3.

Dating: The time is indicated in the January 22, 1915, issue of the newspaper Imereti.

1915

January 22

The newspaper Imereti publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Destiny" is published in the second issue of the magazine Gantiadi.

Source: Newspaper Imereti, 1915, January 22, №13, p. 3.

1915

Until January 26

He writes the names of Georgian writers and poets on a piece of paper.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №162, p. 2.

Note: "F. Makharadze" is also written at the bottom of the list and a caricature is drawn, possibly of Filipe Makharadze.

Dating: The given list should include writers who were alive at the time. Since Akaki Tsereteli died the earliest of those listed - on January 26, 1915, the list must have been compiled before that time.

1915

Until January 26

He writes a poem "On the sea" ("Obscure fog is seen from afar...").

Source: GTDA, №162, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is written on the recto side of the sheet, on the verso of which Akaki Tsereteli, who died on January 26, 1915, is mentioned among the living.

1915

Until January 26

In Russian, he writes a list of speakers for a creative evening. Among them are Akaki Tsereteli, Parmen Tsakheli, Ioseb Grishashvili, Davit Kldiashvili, Shalva Dadiani, Varlam Khurodze (Malakishvili), Jaju Jorjikia, Shalva Sharashidze, Theophile Khuskivadze, Giorgi Parkosadze (“Gutsa”), Davit Meskhi, Vasil Balanchivadze, and others.

Source: GTDA, №53, p. 2.

Dating: Akaki Tsereteli, who passed away on January 26, 1915, is mentioned as though he were still alive.

1915

Until January 26

In his notebook, under the title “You Will Be Amused in Georgia,” he writes down Akaki Tsereteli’s jokes in Russian.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, GTDA, №188.

Dating: According to the note, Akaki Tsereteli must have been alive at the time.

1915

Until January 26

He lists the participants of a literary evening. Giorgi Tchumburidze will deliver a lecture titled “What Is New in Our Poetry”. Among the participants are Akaki Tsereteli, Parmen Tsakheli, Giorgi Parkosadze (Gutsa), Davit Kldiashvili, Ioseb Grishashvili, Vasil Malakishvili, Niko Lortkipanidze, Jaju Jorjikia, Davit Meskhi, Taguna, Vasil Balanchivadze, Valerian Urushadze, Mikheil Janoev (Nemo), Shalva Sharashidze, and others.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, GTDA, №424, p. 4.

Dating: According to the note, Akaki Tsereteli must have been alive at the time.

1915

Until January 26

In a diary entry, Olya Okujava addresses Galaktion and confesses how she suffers from her love for him and her loneliness. She writes that she is afraid to touch Galaktion’s notebooks and letters, fearing that the writings might suddenly disappear. She imagines finding Galaktion dead on the street, drunk. She pleads with nature to protect his life.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 386-389.

1915

26 January

The newspaper Temi publishes G.R.’s article “A role model”. The author praises the article “Yellow Leaf” published by Sandro Abasheli in Shadrevani and notes that the poet felt well the poetry of the second poet – Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: G.R., “A Role Model”, newspaper Temi, 1915, January 26, №204, p. 2.

Note: Sandro Abasheli is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym “S. Ab-li”. The pseudonym “G. R”. may imply Grigol Robakidze or Grigol Rtskhiladze.

1915

Until January 30

Olya Okujava envisions Galaktion's death and begs the forces of nature to protect him.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 388-390.

Dating: The entry is placed before the entry dated January 30.

1915

January 26– 31

He writes a poem "Due to Akaki's death".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №8121-8122; №8312–8316; №8696; №8712–8713; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 9; For dating: magazine Gantiadi, 1915, February 1, №3, p. 2-3.

Dating: We date according to the time of Akaki Tsereteli's death, and we take the day before publication as the upper limit.

1915

January

The poem "Destiny" is published in the magazine Gantiadi.

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, №2, January, p. 26.

1915

January

He writes a poem "In the Claws of Death".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book II, 2005, p. 361; Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 410.

February

1915

Until February 1

He writes a poem "Wagner".

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, №3, February 1, p. 6; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 11.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

February 1

The following poems – "Due to the death of Akaki" and "Wagner" – are published in the magazine Gantiadi with the signature "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, February 1, №3, p. 2-3, 6.

1915

February 2

The newspaper Shadrevani publishes the decision of the Tbilisi committee to send Galaktion Tabidze along with other young workers to decorate the body of Akaki with live flowers in Sachkhere.

Source: Newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, February 2, №7, p. 3.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the event: “S. Abasheli, A. Shanshiashvili, G. Kuchishvili, I. Grishashvili, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze”.

1915

February 3

He travels from Kutaisi to Skhvitore with Varlam Rukhadze and Paolo Iashvili to participate in the transfer of Akaki Tsereteli’s remains to Tbilisi.

Source: Al. Abasheli, “Akaki’s Nimbus”, magazine Mnatobi, 1935, №2, p. 97.

1915

February 4

At 10 a.m., he attends the procession and ceremonial rites for the transfer of Akaki Tsereteli’s remains from Sachkhere. The body is carried by Niko Nikoladze, Giorgi Laskhishvili, Noe Zhordania, Kita Abashidze, and young poets: Alexandre Abasheli, Ioseb Grishashvili, Varlam Rukhadze, and Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2010, p. 406; “Transfer of Akaki Tsereteli’s remains (from Sachkhere to Tbilisi)”, newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, February 4, №8, p. 3.

1915

February 4

Olya Okujava attends the ceremonial rites for Akaki Tsereteli in Skhvitore. Upon returning to Chiatara, she finds Galaktion on a train at the railway station. She has a strong desire to join the train herself but restrains herself and later writes about it in her diary.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 393; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 639.

1915

February 7

The newspaper Shroma publishes Samson Pirtskhalava’s article “Akaki’s funeral from Sachkhere”, in which the author mentions that Galaktion Tabidze, along with other writers and figures, took part in bringing Akaki’s body from Sachkhere to Tbilisi.

Source: Informational Bulletin “Akaki’s Funeral Procession from Sachkhere”, newspaper Shroma, 1915, February 7, №29, p. 1-2.

Note: The source presents a list of writers and figures: “N. Nikoladze, G. Laskhishvili, N. Zhordania, K. Abashidze, Iak. Pantskhava, Ev. Gegechkori, Gr. Gvelesiani, S. Pirtskhalava, A. Abasheli, San. Shanshiashvili, G. Kuchishvili, I. Gedevanishvili, I. Grishashvili, G. Tabidze, V. Rukhadze, Gr. Diasamidze, V. Ghambashidze, and others”.

1915

February 8

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that on February 10, Pavle Prangishvili's evening-banquet will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with other writers.

Source: Magazine Samshoblo, 1915, February 8, №7, p. 4.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "Ia Ekaladze, A. Paghava, G. Tabidze, V. Rukhadze, Sh. Dadiani, A. Paghava, G. Laghidze, P. Prangishvili".

1915

February 10

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that the evening-banquet of Pavle Prangishvili will be held in Kutaisi theatre today, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with other writers.

Source: Magazine Samshoblo, 1915, February 10, №8, p. 1, 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "G. Tabidze, V. Rukhadze, Sh. Dadiani, L. Matchavariani, and others".

1915

February 15

The magazine Gantiadi publishes the announcement that the editors have received the first Book of Galaktion Tabidze's poems.

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, February 15, №4, p. 32.

1915

February 15

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a statement that Galaktion Tabidze is writing a big novel.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, February 15, №7, p. 15.

March

1915

Until March 1

He writes a poem "Phantasy" ("If I were given wings, I would fly up...").

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №9, March 1, p. 6; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 12.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

March 1

The poem "Phantasy" ("If I were given wings, I would fly up...") is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba with facsimile "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, March 1, №9, p. 6; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 12.

Note: The poem was later published under the title “Dream in shackles”.

1915

March 1

In the newspaper Samshoblo, under the signature “G”., an announcement regarding the publication of Jaju Jorjikia’s Book is published, titled “Jaju Jorjikia”. Galaktion praises the young, educated author, who passionately loves literature and Georgia. He hopes that Jorjikia will secure a prominent place in Georgian literature.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, March 1, №24, p. 4.

1915

Until March 4

Paolo Iashvili advises Ioseb Grishashvili to list Galaktion Tabidze as a participant in the poster for his evening event scheduled to take place in Kutaisi on March 5.

Source: Paolo Iashvili’s letter to Ioseb Grishashvili, Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 27; Clarification of information and dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 527-528.

1915

Until March 4

He dispatches a letter from Chiatura to Kutaisi, addressing Ioseb Grishashvili and expressing profound apologies for the embarrassment caused by his unfortunate illness during the journey from Kutaisi to Chiatura. Currently recuperating in his friend’s apartment, he assures Grishashvili of his commitment to promptly return to Kutaisi and fulfil all his commitments.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, №24551/86; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 29-30; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 527.

Note: Ioseb Grishashvili is mentioned in the source as “Soso”, Olya Okujava - as a friend.

1915

March 4

The newspaper Samshoblo announces that on March 5th, a soirée in honour of Ioseb Grishashvili will be held at the Kutaisi Theatre, featuring Galaktion Tabidze among other writers.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, March 4, №26, p. 2.

Note: The source presents a list of participants: “I. Grishashvili, P. Iashvili, Sh. Dadiani, G. Tabidze”.

1915

March 5

He reads his name and the information that he is taking part in a big literary evening on the posters in the street of a small town. There is no limit to his surprise, because he did not promise anyone. He attends the evening incognito, where a person unknown to him announces that Galaktion Tabidze cannot participate in the evening due to illness.

Source: G. Tabidze, Letter to the Editorial Staff, newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, March 18, №15, p. 4.

Dating: Since it was published in the newspaper Samshoblo on March 4 that the evening was held on March 5, this fact should have happened on March 5.

1915

March 18

In the section “Letters to the Editor” of the newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, he publishes a statement in which he explains that he often finds his name and surname written on posters without agreement with him. He mentions the statement published in Samshoblo about Ioseb Grishashvili’s literary evening, in which he was supposed to participate. It is astonishing that Grishashvili did the same as others. As he knew that Galaktion Tabidze would not be in Kutaisi at that time, he calls his behavior blackmail. He believes that due to such an attitude, he himself is ashamed, and the society is deceived.

Source: G. Tabidze, Letter to the Editorial Staff, newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, March 18, №15, p. 4.

Note: Ioseb Grishashvili is mentioned in the source by his last name, Galaktion Tabidze by the initial of his first name and his surname.

1915

March 18-20

Ioseb Grishashvili sends a letter to Paolo Iashvili informing him that an announcement by Galaktion Tabidze was published in the newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, stating that his participation in Ioseb Grishashvili’s literary evening held in Kutaisi on March 5 was not coordinated with him and was inaccurately listed on the posters. He expresses his frustration that the addressee compelled him to take such a step and requests advice on how to respond to this statement.

Source: Paolo Iashvili’s letter to Ioseb Grishashvili, Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 27; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 527-528.

1915

March 20

In response to the statement by Galaktion Tabidze published in the March 18th issue of Tanamedrove Azri, which claimed that his participation in Ioseb Grishashvili’s literary evening on March 5 was not coordinated with him, Paolo Iashvili sends a reply to Ioseb Grishashvili. He expresses his surprise at the accusation that this is his fault and that it has caused significant trouble for Grishashvili. He explains that Tabidze’s name was included on the poster because he was a friend, but it seems Tabidze now has other friends and has taken a different path. Iashvili promises to read the statement published in the newspaper, send the text of the reply to Grishashvili, and allow him to publish it wherever he wishes.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 27.

1915

After March 20

In response to Galaktion Tabidze's statement published in the March 18th issue of Tanamedrove Azri, which claimed that his participation in Ioseb Grishashvili's literary evening on March 5 in Kutaisi was not coordinated with him, Paolo Iashvili sends Ioseb Grishashvili a text of a reply. He advises Grishashvili to have the response published unaltered in the newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli and to add that Tabidze was removed from the list of participants because they were unable to contact him to confirm his participation.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 27-28.

1915

Until March 22

Titsian Tabidze writes his address in Moscow in Russian in Galaktion's notebook and signs it as Tite T.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-2, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 17; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204-205.

1915

Until March 22

Brother Abesalom Tabidze writes in Galaktion's notebook that, as promised, he should check on a certain student, write down everything he finds out, and send the promised information to the free reading room at Sajevakho.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-2, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 19; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204-205.

1915

Until March 22

He begins to write a letter to his brother but then stops.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-2, p. 8; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 19; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204-205.

1915

Until March 22

He writes an announcement that signatures are being collected for the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze's poetry and that the book, with a subscription, will cost four 20 kopecks. He also lists the magazines and newspapers where he plans to publish this announcement and the names of the people who will be responsible for collecting the money for the subscribed books.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-2, p. 8, 10, 19, 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 19, 20; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204-205.

1915

Until March 22

He makes portrait sketches in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-2, p. 6, 7, 13, 14, 16, 17, 19; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204-205.

1915

Until March 22

In his notebook, he writes the first two stanzas of the poem "Mtatsminda Moon" without a title.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-2, p. 21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 20; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204-205.

1915

Until March 22

He writes a poem titled "Peach Flowers".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5535; №d-130, p. 2-3; № 5354.; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 81.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled "The old wind rages in the branches...".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

March 22

The poem "Peach flowers" is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba under the signature "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, March 22, №12, p. 9.

1915

March 22

The newspaper Shadrevani publishes the open letter sent by Alexandre Gamsakhurdia from Surakhani to Tutku Gvaramia. It is mentioned that it has been more than a year since he sent 5 roubles to receive 10 books of Galaktion Tabidze, but Tutku is silent and puts him in a terrible position in front of the subscribers. The author of the letter requests to send the books belonging to him.

Source: A. Gamsakhurdia, "Open letter to Tutku Gvaramia", newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, March 22, №14, p. 4.

1915

March 29

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes a statement that on Tuesday, March 31, Noe Chkhikvadze's literary evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, at which, along with other poets, Galaktion Tabidze will read an unpublished poem.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, March 29, №39, p. 1, 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: “V. Rukhadze, S. Abasheli, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, D. Tomashvili, N. Chkhikvadze”.

1915

March 30

The newspaper Shadrevani publishes Tutku Gvaramia’s address to the editor. He notes that Alexandre Gamsakhurdia did not send money to his name, and Tutku sent books to the person to whom he sent the money for already more than four months. He demands from the agents, if they have not yet sent books to subscribers, to refund them because the publisher no longer has the books.

Source: Newspaper Shadrevani, 1915, March 30, №15, p. 4.

Note: Alexandre Gamsakhurdia and Galaktion Tabidze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and their surnames.

1915

March 31

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes a statement that on Tuesday, March 31, Noe Chkhikvadze’s literary evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, where Galaktion Tabidze will read an unpublished poem along with other poets.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, March 31, №23, p. 1; Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, March 31, №44, p. 1, 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: “V. Rukhadze, S. Abasheli, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, D. Tomashvili, N. Chkhikvadze”.

1915

Until March 31

He writes a poem “Akaki’s Ghost”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №1627; №5528; №5555; №6574; №2-d, p. 6; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 110.

Note: Two autographs of the poem are untitled, and one has the title “Dream” crossed out.

Dating: The poem was read by the poet on the evening of March 31.

1915

March 31

He reads the poem “Akaki’s Ghost” at the literary evening held in the Kutaisi theatre.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Kvali, 1915, May 4, №1, p. 3.

1915

After March 31

In the notebook, he makes sketches titled “Newspaper Carriers”, “Old House”, and “Portrait”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-1, p. 5, 8, 9; For dating: N. Kobaladze, Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204.

1915

March

He reads the Russian translations of the French poet Sully Prudhomme's works and begins to translate the poem "Будь я творцом" translated by Ivan Tkhorzhevsky into Georgian. He titles it "Were I a God" and then shifts to translating a different poem titled "Ideas and Forms" from Olga Chiumina's text, but uses the first line of the poem, "I Consider Myself a Poet", as the title. Under the title, he notes that the poem belongs to Sully Prudhomme.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-1, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 11; Information for clarification and dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 202-204.

April

1915

After April 1

He receives a letter from Abesalom Tabidze. His brother jokes that since magazines and newspapers do not pay royalties, he will set a fee himself. However, he adds that as soon as he reads this, he should send a letter to their mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and make her happy with a visit.

Source: Pr. Tabidze, "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1997, p. 134.

1915

April 3

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes Varlam Rukhadze's poem "To G. Tabidze".

Source: V. Rukhadze, "To G. Tabidze", newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, April 3, №26, p. 3.

Note: Varlam Rukhadze is mentioned in the source with the initials of his first name and the surname.

1915

Until April 5

Olya Okujava writes a letter in Russian under the pseudonym "Kalami" ("Пепо") to the Society for Spreading Literacy Among Georgians, requesting that a young talented poet, Galaktion Tabidze, who already has his second Book ready for publication but is often hungry and weakened due to poverty, be awarded a stipend for 3-4 years to pursue education in Russia.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 394.

Dating: On May 25, 1915, Galaktion himself addresses the same society with a statement.

1915

April 5

A meeting of the Kutaisi branch of the Society for Spreading Literacy is held, during which the issue of granting a stipend to Galaktion Tabidze for continuing his education is discussed, and his request is not granted.

Source: Olya Okujava's diary entry, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-13, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111; Information for clarification and dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 204.

1915

After April 5

In response to the rejection of his request for a stipend from the Society for Spreading Literacy to continue his education, he writes a poem "Were I a King" (a tribute to Sully Prudhomme).

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, a-2085; Information for clarification and dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 202-204.

1915

April 9

The statement of Paolo Iashvili and Ioseb Grishashvili is published in the section "Letters to the Editor" of the newspaper Tanamedrove Azri. Paolo Iashvili explains that he advised Ioseb Grishashvili to include the name of Galaktion Tabidze among the speakers at the evening of March 5, because he knew Ioseb Grishashvili's opinion about him, and Galaktion Tabidze always read poems with pleasure at his evening. Galaktion Tabidze claims that his name is often announced among the participants at various evenings without his agreement, he compares the last case with other cases and calls it blackmail. The author of the letter notes that Galaktion Tabidze was invited with only one idea, that he should be respected, and blackmail has nothing to do with it. Ioseb Grishashvili adds that when Galaktion Tabidze was no longer seen, his name was removed from the newspaper announcement and the young poet Konstantine Chichinadze was invited instead.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, April 9, №31, p. 4.

Person Identification: Galaktion Tabidze, Ioseb Grishashvili and Konstantine Chichinadze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and their surnames.

1915

Until April 11

He moves to live in Kutaisi at number 3 of Alexandrov Street, a house rented from Grigol Khachaturov.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, 24551/38; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 339.

1915

Until April 11

From Chiatura to Kutaisi, he receives Olya Okujava's two letters one week late, because the address on the envelope was written incorrectly.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 35; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 339.

1915

Until April 11

He writes a poem “Mary” (You were walking along the seaside, Mary...”).

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, №8, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 13.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “You along the seaside” and “You by the seaside”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

Until April 11

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to Chiatura to Olya Okujava and specifies that his address is Alexandrov street number three, Grigol Khachaturov’s house. He reports that he has written a small poem to dedicate to her.

Source: MGL, 24551/38; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 35; For dating: For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 339.

1915

15 April

He publishes the poem “Mary” (“You were walking along the seaside, Mary...”) in the magazine Gantiadi with the signature “G. Tabidze”.

Source: Magazine Gantiadi, 1915, April 15, №8, p. 1.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “You along the seaside” and “You by the seaside”.

1915

Until April 16

He writes an untitled poem “Every white night...”.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, №37, April 16; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 125.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Primitive”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

April 16

He publishes the poem “Every white night...” in the newspaper Tanamedrove Azri.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, №37, April 16.

1915

April 25

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Tbilisi to Kote Makashvili. He apologizes for not being able to come to Tbilisi to talk in person due to many reasons, and he has to ask him in writing as a completely unknown person. He informs that he is going to go to Moscow to study at the Shanyavsky University from September, but he is the son of the poorest family and wants to apply for a scholarship to the Bank of Nobility of Tbilisi. He needs advice on the following issues: whether there is a free scholarship, to whom to apply, when to submit and whether the young writer's request will be accepted; And, despite the fact whether they give a scholarship or not, if they can at least help him. He asks not to delay the answer and to send the message to the address: Kutaisi, Alexandrov street number three, Khachaturov's house.

Source: MGL, Kote Makashvili's archive, №5587-h; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 59-60.

Note: Kote Makashvili is mentioned by name in the source.

1915

April 28

At the literary-musical-drama evening held in the Kutaisi theatre, he reads the poem "I and the Night" in an original and emotional way, and the audience throws bouquets.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, April 28, №52, p. 4.

May

1915

May 4

The poem "Akaki's ghost" is published in the newspaper Akhali Kvali.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Kvali, 1915, May 4, №1, p. 3.

1915

May 7

Galaktion's brother Abesalom Tabidze visits him in the house rented from the Khachaturovs in Kutaisi, but learns that he is not in the city and is worried. After some time, the housekeeper, Maria Khachaturova, informs by letter that he is with Olya Okujava in Chiatura and is fine.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 414.

1915

Until May 11

Petre Geleishvili informs him that he will not hold an evening in Samtredia until June, and in June he will earn 150 roubles in one evening.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/30; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 34.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's May 11 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

May 11

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Batumi to Olya Okujava, who lives in the family of her aunt Makrine Okujava Kikvadze. He informs that his evening will not be organized until June. Therefore, he had to borrow money. He has not received a reply to any letter from Tbilisi, and if he ever has the strength, he will teach shameless people a lesson, but now he is in their hands and will not be able to do anything. He asks about the sea.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/30; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 34.

1915

May 11

The newspaper Akhali Kvali publishes the correction of a mistake in one strophe of the poem "Akaki's ghost": Instead of "He will light a day for us, he will light the night for us..." it should be: "He will light a day for us, he will stay awake all night".

Source: "Correction of mistakes", newspaper Akhali Kvali, 1915, May 11, №2, p. 2.

1915

May 15

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that a literary drama evening will be held in the Kutaisi theatre on May 16 with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, May 15, №79, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "T.N. Lortkipanidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze, and Noe Chkhikvadze".

1915

Until May 16

He receives a letter from Romanoz Pantskhava, who informs him that his evening will be held on May 16 at the Georgian Theatre and asks him to participate.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1982, p. 231; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 274.

1915

May 24

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes a statement that a literary-dramatic-musical evening will be held in the Kutaisi theater today, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with others.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, 24 May, №68, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "Mikh. Tsulukidze, V. Rukhadze, N. Chkhikvadze, G. Tabidze, Tsvar-Nami, S. Abasheli".

1915

May 24

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes a statement that a literary morning will be held in the Kutaisi theatre today, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, May 24, №86, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in ‘Dila’ (Morning): “Mikh. Tsulukidze, I. Nikolaishvili, G. Tabidze, Tsvan-Nami, G. Kuchishvili, Noe Chkhikvadze, V. Rukhadze”.

1915

May 25

He sends a request to the Kutaisi branch of the Society for Spreading Literacy among Georgians. He writes that many young writers suffer from financial hardship, but his situation is completely different, because he is the son of the poorest parents and cannot get any help from his family and friends to get out of this situation. He has been wishing to get higher education since childhood. He believes that the only way is to appoint a scholarship for him from Society for Spreading Literacy among Georgians, which will enable him to acquire an education at the Shanyavsky University in Moscow. He requests that the Kutaisi department of the National Academy of Sciences of Georgia take into account his situation and contact the Board of the Tbilisi Literacy Society regarding the appointment of a scholarship.

Source: National Archives of Georgia, Repository 483, Case 1679, Sheet 71; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. 12, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 554-555.

June

1915

Until June 6

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his brother – Abesalom Tabidze in Chkvishi, informing about his financial hardship and asking for help.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter to Galaktion Tabidze, Pr. Tabidze, “Narratives, Letters to Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 1997, p. 134.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze’s June 6 letter to Galaktion Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

June 7

He receives a letter sent from Chkvishi to Kutaisi by his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, informing him that his peculiar note has upset everyone. His brother advises him to take care of himself and find a path in life. Their mother insistently asks him to return to the village with his belongings.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-304; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 149-150.

Dating: The date is indicated on the envelope.

1915

Until June 13

On a sheet of paper, he writes an announcement about an “Evening Celebration” to be held on June 13 at the City Theatre. The participants mentioned include Akaki Tsereteli, Parmen Tsakheli, Davit Kldiashvili, Shalva Dadiani, Shalva Sharashidze, Vasil Malakiashvili, Jaju Jorjikia, Theophile Khuskivadze, Varlam Rukhadze, Ioseb Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Davit Meskhi, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №96, p. 1.

Dating: June 13 falls on a Saturday in 1915.

1915

June 17

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that a literary performance will be held in the village of Shrosha on Sunday, June 21, under the leadership of Zaliko Chikhladze, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, June 17, №106, p. 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: “Ia Ekaladze, G. Tabidze, Noe Chkhikvadze, V. Gorgadze, Sim. Tseveli”.

1915

June 21

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that, on June 21, Akaki Tsereteli’s library-reading room has been opened in Shrosha village. Writers came from Kutaisi, but Galaktion Tabidze was not among them. Raisa Chikhladze congratulated her neighbours on a happy day.

Source: Z. Chikhladze, Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №121, p. 3.

Note: It is stated in the newspaper letter that Raisa Chikhladze gave a speech at the opening of the reading room. Maybe Galaktion was afraid of meeting his old love and that’s why he didn’t come to Shrosha.

1915

June 24

He travels from Kutaisi to Bakuriani.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1235, p. 1-3.

Dating: The time is indicated in Galaktion Tabidze’s letter of July 2, 1915.

1915

After June 24

He walks from Bakuriani to Tsaghveri, watches the sunrise from Tskhratskaro mountain, rides a horse, plays bowls, lawn tennis and lotto in the park, but he is still in such a pessimistic mood that nothing entertains him. He was thinking of moving to Tsaghveri, but there is a very official environment. Everyone walks around dressed in such a way that it doesn’t look like they are on vacation. He meets Innokentiy Skhirtladze, a friend of his brother Abesalom, who serves as a priest there. During his stay in Bakuriani, several families from Kutaisi also arrived, but Galaktion did not like to interact with them in Kutaisi either.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 10; For dating: A letter by Galaktion Tabidze to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1235, p. 1-3.

Dating: We date according to the time of Galaktion’s arrival in Bakuriani.

1915

July

In Bakuriani, he writes a poem “What do poplars say”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6570; MGL, a-102-1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 92.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Poplars”.

Dating: We date according to the autograph.

1915

After June 24

He is in Tsaghveri and he writes a poem “With white Ghosts”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 15; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 450.

1916

After June 24

He writes an untitled poem “Night... a pile of silver threads...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 6552. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 90; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 450.

Note: The poem can also be found in publications with titles “It” and “Nocturne”.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a poem “The Poet” (“Show me happiness in this world...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a recollection about how he toasted Vazha-Pshavela at a gathering, whose path, according to him, is a shrine for the youth, and how he passed the toast (Alaverdi) to Ioseb Grishashvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a stanza of a poem without a title: “Sunbeams... sunbeams quietly die on the sea...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a poem “A Poet” (“Show me happiness in the world...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 1 For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a poem “Two Feelings” (“In autumn, only in my eyes...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a poem “So quietly they sleep, so quietly, the proud oaks on the mountain slope...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1915

Until June 27

He writes a poem “Eyes” (“Once, when hopeless, worn by the wheel of fate...”) and includes an epigraph from Alexandre Chavchavadze’s words: “The eye changes the heart, the heart changes the feeling, and feeling is infused with love...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №587, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

July

1915

July 1

He suddenly learns that there were floods in Imereti and writes a letter to be sent to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. He mentions that there are no newspapers in Bakuriani and there are not many holiday-makers and he heard about the flood by chance. He begs, in whatever way they can, to send a reply as soon as the letter is received, and to write about themselves.

Source: GTDA, №1235, p. 1-3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 493.

1915

July 2

From Bakuriani, he sends a letter written to his mother and brother.

Source: GTDA, №1235, p. 1-3.

1915

After July 3

In Bakuriani, he receives two letters from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Abesalom Tabidze, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 10.

Dating: The letter, after which he received these responses, arrived in Samtredia on July 3.

1915

July 12

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the beginning of the article “Night Poet (Galaktion Tabidze’s poems)” by Mikheil Abramishvili. The author notes that no one has felt and protected the freedom of art in young poets as much as Galaktion Tabidze. He stands apart from everyone and is interested in worldly affairs.

Source: Mikh. Abramishvili, “The Night Poet”, magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №28, p. 6-7.

1915

Until mid-July

He sends a letter from Bakuriani to his brother – Abesalom Tabidze. He informs that due to spiritual anxiety, apathy and usual melancholy, he could not take a pen in his hand and send him a letter for a long time. He tells about Bakuriani and his meeting with his friend Innokenti Skhirtladze, who became a priest, but looks very comical.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 10; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 496.

1915

July 19

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the continuation of Mikheil Abramishvili’s article “Night Poet (Galaktion Tabidze’s poems)”. The author points out that in the poet’s soul there is a battle between the rationalist and the mystic, however, the former wins.

Source: Mikh. Abramishvili, “The Night Poet”, Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, July 19, 1915, №29, p. 7.

1915

July 11-21

In Sachkhere, he writes an untitled poem about a Georgian woman’s devotion to her homeland.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №431, p. 1-7.

1915

July 26

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the continuation of Mikheil Abramishvili’s “Night Poet (Galaktion Tabidze’s poems)”. The author points out that the poet presents life as change and transformation. He believes that his tragedy is the unknowability of life and volume of mist.

Source: Mikh. Abramishvili, “The Night Poet”, Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, July 26, 1915, №30, p. 7-8.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname.

August

1915

August 9

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the continuation of Mikheil Abramishvili's article "Night Poet (Galaktion Tabidze's poems)". The author notes that the poet, who is excluded from life, creates poems full of tears to console himself.

Source: Mikh. Abramishvili, "The Night Poet", Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №32, p. 13-14.

1915

August 22

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the end of the article "Night Poet (Galaktion Tabidze's poems)" by Mikheil Abramishvili. The author notes that Nikoloz Baratashvili and Galaktion Tabidze are completely different in temperament. The first is a titan, moving and fighting, and the second – standing like a pilgrim of the desert and offering a melodious prayer. Defeated by empirical reality, the poet creates a new world with his mind, which represents reality for him.

Source: Mikh. Abramishvili, "The Night Poet", Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №34, p. 12-13.

1915

August 29

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes a statement that today Mikheil Tsulukidze will give a lecture "Vazha-Pshavela" in the Kutaisi theatre. Galaktion Tabidze will take part in the literary part along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №164, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of participating writers: J. Jorjikia, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, N. Chkhikvadze.

1915

August 30

Before the beginning of the literary evening in the Kutaisi theatre, he sees Olya Okujava's brother, Mikheil, in the lobby, who is wondering who is taking part in the evening. Galaktion humorously replies that all fools, including himself, are taking part in the evening. Mikheil, who genuinely likes his poetry, tells him that he is not like everyone else, he is special.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, dated August 31, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 220.

1915

August 30

Actor Davit Charkviani holds a literary-drama evening in Kutaisi for the benefit of sick Tamar Ivanidze, with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze, along with other writers. Galaktion recites the poem “I and the night”, which he forgets. Suddenly, he catches sight of someone else’s poem left on the chair and reads it. The public remains enthralled, showering him with rapturous applause and bouquets of flowers.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, September 4, №85, p. 3; newspaper Samshoblo, №164, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 220.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: “D. Tomashvili, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, Tsvlar-Nami, Lado Matchavariani, M. Anashvili, and others”.

1915

August 30

After leaving the Kutaisi theatre, Galaktion Tabidze has dinner in a restaurant with Lado Matchavariani, and then they go to his apartment, but find the door closed. They try to wake up the landlady for half an hour but fail. They are forced to return to Kutaisi to spend the night in a hotel, but they cannot find a cheap hotel, and when they are standing and thinking about what to do, 5 students of the Gymnasium of Nobility with two women pass in front of them. One of the students pushes Galaktion and does not apologize. Galaktion is annoyed by his sarcastic look and hits him with the stick that Olya has presented him. A fight breaks out. Lado Matchavariani chases after the fugitives and does not let go, but in the end, Galaktion and the accompanying women stop him. By the time Galaktion reaches his home on the hill, it has already got dark, and he barely falls asleep.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, dated August 31, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24.

Dating: The August 31 letter of Galaktion Tabidze to Olya Okujava, which we dated to 1915, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

August 30

He sees Olya Okujava off on the train going to Chiatura. Then he goes home and with the help of his mother and brother packs his luggage to move to another rented apartment. Because the family members are late for the train, they do not have time to move their luggage. They go to the station and Galaktion to the theatre.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, dated August 31, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24.

Dating: The August 31 letter of Galaktion Tabidze to Olya Okujava, which we dated to 1915, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

August 31

Mikheil Botchorishvili, who has just arrived in Kutaisi from the village, learns the story of the previous night’s fight in which Galaktion participated and scolds his friend.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, dated August 31, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24.

Note: Mikheil Botchorishvili is referred to as “Michelle” in the source.

Dating: The August 31 letter of Galaktion Tabidze to Olya Okujava, which we dated to 1915, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

August 31

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava in Chiatura. He shares the feelings caused by forgetting a poem at the theatre evening and then by fighting in the street. He asks to come to Kutaisi soon. He asks if she still loves him. He knows that if he were Lermontov, Byron or Goethe, she would fall in love, but is it possible to fall in love with Galaktion? He wonders if Olya will cry if he dies. He asks not to trust everyone, to take good care of herself, to eat normally and not to lose weight.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, h-24551/26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 22-24; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 220.

Note: Olya Okujava is referred to as “Olkin” in the source, as Mikheil Okujava, Mikheil Botchorishvili as “Michelle”. Signature: “Gal”.

September

1915

Until September 1

He finishes writing the poem “A yellow leaf” (“During my childhood, I was called a yellow leaf...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №69, p. 21; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 14; For dating: newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1915, №370, p. 3.

Dating: The September 1st announcement of the newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli allows us to determine the date; The announcement mentions that this poem by Galaktion Tabidze is published in the September issue of the magazine Ganatileba.

1915

September 1

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli reports that the poem “Yellow flower” by Galaktion Tabidze is published in the September issue of the magazine Ganatileba along with the works of other authors.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1915, №370, p. 3.

Note: There is a mistake in the newspaper, the poem is called “A yellow leaf” and it was published in 1912 under the title “Autumn Leaf”.

1915

After September 1

The poem “A yellow leaf”, signed “G. Tabidze”, is published in the magazine Ganatileba.

Source: Magazine Ganatileba, 1915, September, VII, p. 485; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 14.

Dated: The September 1st announcement of the newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli allows us to determine the date; The announcement mentions that this poem by Galaktion Tabidze is published in the September issue of the magazine Ganatileba.

1915

Until September 5

He writes an untitled poem “You were getting married that night, Mary...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №2308; №7629; №8941; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 68.

Note: The poem can be found in publications under the titles “MARY” and “MERI”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1915

September 5

The poem “Mary” (“You were getting married that night, Mary...”), signed “G. Tabidze”, is being published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №36, September 5, p. 2.

1915

September 6

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that there is a literary circle in Kutaisi under the leadership of Galaktion Tabidze, in which famous writers will work. For this purpose, they are moving a petition to the governor of Kutaisi. Also, in a short time, Galaktion Tabidze will hold a literary-musical-drama-humorous evening.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №170, p. 3.

1915

September 8

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in Kutaisi theatre on September 10.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №171, p. 3.

1915

September 10

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that the evening of Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the theatre of Kutaisi today.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №172, p. 3.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname.

1915

September 10

Together with Varlam Rukhadze, Shalva Dadiani and Mikheil Tsulukidze, he participates in the evening held in Kutaisi theatre.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №174, p. 1.

Note: Varlam Rukhadze, Shalva Dadiani and Mikheil Tsulukidze are mentioned in the source by the initials of their names and their surnames.

1915

September 13

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that Galaktion Tabidze's evening will be held in Kutaisi theatre on Sunday, September 20.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №175, p. 1.

1915

September 16

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the article "Let's help the Poet" by Ia Ekaladze, who points out that she cannot convey the power of Galaktion Tabidze's talent in words, while he is in helpless position, he is forced to hold a literary evening in Kutaisi theatre on September 20 for his benefit. She urges the public to come to the theatre and, by paying pennies, at least for a while help the poet forget about hardship.

Source: Ia Ekalade, "Let's Help the Poet", Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №176, p. 3.

1915

September 16

The newspaper Samshoblo reports that the artist Grigol Meskhi painted a big portrait of Galaktion Tabidze, which was to be exhibited along with other pictures at the autumn exhibition, but due to the lack of support from the ethnographic society, the exhibition will not take place.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №176, p. 4.

Note: Grigol Meskhi is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname.

1915

September 17

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that on September 19, singer Varden Lortkipanidze will hold a concert in five sections. Galaktion Tabidze will participate in the literary section along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №177, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "Ms. Charekovisa, D. Tomashvili, P. Iashvili, Gutsa, G. Tabidze, Ia Ekaladze V. Rukhadze, Shalva Dadiani, Shota Dadiani, Il. Bakhtadze, Al. Zhghenti".

1915

September 17

The newspaper Samshoblo corrects the mistake in Ia Ekaladze's article "Let's help the Poet" – the phrase "I can't convey the power and tenderness of Tabidze's poetry with words either" should have been published instead of "I cannot convey the power of Galaktion Tabidze in words. It is the invisible love of the burning heart".

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №177, p. 3.

1915

September 19

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that a singer, Varden Lortkipanidze, will hold a concert in five sections with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №179, p. 1, 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "Ms. Charekovisa, D. Tomashvili, P. Iashvili, Gutsa, G. Tabidze, Ia Ekaladze V. Rukhadze, Shalva Dadiani, Shota Dadiani, Il. Bakhtadze, Al. Zhghenti".

1915

September 19

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the announcement that Galaktion Tabidze's evening "Flowers of Georgia" will be held in Kutaisi theatre on Sunday, September 20. The evening will include: Paolo Iashvili's report "Away from homeland during the war ... Impressionist impressions"; Drama in one act "Death of Napoleon"; Poetry and music.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, September 19, №179, p. 1, 3.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening in alphabetical order: "V. Gaprindashvili, Elene Dariani, Shalva Dadiani, P. Iashvili, Kato Mikeladze, Var. Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Akaki Paghava; Music: Ms. Tsitsishvili-Andronikashvili, B. Varden Lortkipanidze".

1915

September 20

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes Shalva Amirejibi's article "Beautiful Pipits", in which it is mentioned that Galaktion Tabidze manages the evening for his own benefit and that the tragedy of all young writers is poverty, which is a heavy shame for the society. He urges journalists to express deep and sincere respect for the poet's talent by writing articles.

Source: Sh. Amirejibi, "To Beautiful Pipits", newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №180, p. 3-4.

1915

Until September 20

He receives Olya Okujava's letter from Chiatura in Kutaisi.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/27-h; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 26-27.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, which mentions that there is an evening on September 20, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

Until September 20

In Kutaisi, he has lunch with Olya's brother, Vasil Okujava, and learns that Vasil Tsivtsivadze's court case, scheduled for October 12th, will be defended by Olya's second brother, Mikheil, marking his professional debut. Galaktion plans to attend the trial and wants Olya to come from Chiatura as well.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/27-h; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 26-27.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, which mentions that there is an evening on September 20, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

Until September 20

At the Kutaisi library, he examines the newly received books, which include works by Dmitry Merezhkovsky, Konstantin Balmont, Valery Bryusov, and Vyacheslav Ivanov.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №24551/27-h; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 26-27.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, which mentions that there is an evening on September 20, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1915

Until September 20

He sends a letter to Chiatura from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava. He informs that he could not move to another apartment, he has an evening on September 20 and if it goes well, he will be provided for a long time. He advises her to leave black and sunless Chiatura, where he would not stay even for an hour, and go to Kutaisi, where she will soon have a meaningful and beautiful life. He writes that an actors' association was founded under the direction of Shalva Dadiani, which is starting to hold performances. In a short time, elections to the State Duma will be held, a literary circle will be established, and a magazine will be published. Ironically, he asks if Rebeka Vashadze received a letter from Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, because he used to read these letters aloud to his girlfriends. He tells the story of the meeting with the poet Simon Tseveli and gives her his regards.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/27; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 26-27; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 340.

Note: Olya Okujava is mentioned in the source as "Olkin", Konstantine Gamsakhurdia – by his surname, Rebeka Vashadze - as "Reveka".

1915

September 20

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the announcement that Galaktion Tabidze's evening is to be held today.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №180, p. 1.

1915

September 20

He hosts the evening 'Flowers of Georgia' in Kutaisi theatre, which is attended by many people. He is given a lot of flowers.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, September 26, 1915, №39, p. 16.

1915

September 20

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes an announcement that a group of young writers from Kutaisi, led by Galaktion Tabidze, wants to establish a circle of amateurs of fiction.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1915, №385, p. 3.

1915

September 26

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the information that Galaktion Tabidze's evening 'Flowers of Georgia' has attracted a lot of people, and a lot of bouquets have been presented to the poet.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №39, p. 16.

October

1915

October 3

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes information that on September 20, Galaktion Tabidze's evening "Flowers of Georgia" was held in the Kutaisi theatre. The theatre was full of people, the public met all the participants with applause, and flowers were presented to Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1915, №40, p. 14-15.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the evening: "P. Iashvili read a report about impressions from abroad during the war... Participants in the literary section: Shalva Dadiani, Var. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, Sh. Dadani, Ak. Paghava... P. Iashvili read the poems of the Georgian woman Elena Dariani, who surprised the public with their wonder and courage. During the reading of these poems, several women left the theatre".

1915

October 4

The newspaper Megobari publishes information that they are waiting for Konstantin Balmont with great joy in Kutaisi. A committee has been formed to meet him, which included several writers, including Galaktion Tabidze and one representative of various cultural institutions.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1915, №3, p. 3; N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 369.

Note: The source presents the list of committee members: "Sh. Dadiani, J. Jorjikia, Sh. Amirejibi, G. Tabidze, Shota Dadiani, P. Iashvili, Al. Arsenishvili".

1915

October 5

Famous Russian writer Konstantin Balmont arrives in Kutaisi on Monday at 12 o'clock. The public meets him with applause, while Galaktion Tabidze, Paolo Iashvili, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Shota Dadiani greet him in the buffet of the station.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, October 7, 1915, №5, p. 1.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Paolo Iashvili and Valerian Gaprindashvili are mentioned in the source by the initials of their first names and the surnames.

1915

October 7

Together with Konstantin Balmont and the distinguished society of Kutaisi, he visits the Bagrat Temple. They have a photo taken. After visiting the Bagrat Temple, he has a photo taken with Balmont and Varlam Rukhadze in the magazine-newspapers office 'Imereti'. The guest mentions that he is satisfied with the photos taken and that they will remain as a recollection not only for him, but also for history.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, D-219, p. 1-2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 412, 413; "K. Balmont in Bagrat Temple", newspaper Megobari, October 10, 1915, №8, p. 3.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Konstantin Balmont and Varlam Rukhadze are mentioned in the source by the initials of their first names and the surnames.

1915

After October 7

With Ivane Kipiani, he visits Sergo Gersamia at the Kutaisi gubernatorial prison. The young men tell their imprisoned friend the latest news, primarily discussing the arrival of the Russian poet and translator Konstantin Balmont in Georgia. Ivane Kipiani is enthusiastic about Balmont, while Galaktion initially refrains from expressing his opinion but later says that Konstantin Balmont has a great reputation, is undoubtedly a talented poet, and is also a highly developed individual with a peculiar character, showing signs of eccentricity. However, he adds that Georgians have nothing to do with his character and that what is important now is for him to translate "The Knight in the Panther's Skin" well, so that as many people as possible become acquainted with the poem. Sergo Gersamia asks Galaktion and Ivane if they have heard fragments of Balmont's translation and requests their opinion on it. Both friends give the same answer, considering Balmont's translation to be significantly different from the original, thus categorizing it as a free translation.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, "Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

1915

October 13

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes an announcement that the Book of poems by Galaktion Tabidze is being sold in the magazine-newspaper office 'Gantiadi' along with books by Akaki Tsereteli and Ilia Chavchavadze.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, №182, p. 1.

1915

October 25

Abesalom Tabidze sends a short letter to his mother in Chkvishi. He informs her that he is in Kutaisi for a week, visits Galaktion often, and is well.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1575, p. 1-2.

1915

October 27

An announcement is published in the newspapers Samshoblo and Megobari that today, an evening of Ilia Chavchavadze with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the Kutaisi theatre.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1915, №207, p. 3; Newspaper Megobari, 1915, №22, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of participating writers: "A. Tsereteli, Ia Ekaladze, D. Meskhi, N. Lortkipanidze, Paolo Iashvili, G. Tabidze".

November

1915

November 7

From Kutaisi, he sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Tchokhnari. He writes that the project they have planned will come to fruition. He does not have much hope for "I", but "K" will return from Tbilisi on Monday and will definitely discuss it. He also mentions that he has paid the housekeeper and asks him to wait for his next letter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №813, p. 1-2.

Note: This letter was sent to Vladimir Ramishvili at the Sajavakho station, and before it reached Abesalom, who was working as a teacher in Tchokhnari, it passed through the hands of several people. Therefore, the names of those individuals who were supposed to assist the brothers with the matter are mentioned in the letter using initials.

1915

November 8

Together with Giorgi Kuchishvili, he is invited to take part in a literary evening in the settlement Kvirila, which is held for the benefit of local cultural societies.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1915, №33, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname, Giorgi Chkheidze - with the pseudonym "G. Kuchishvili".

1915

November 13

Together with Giorgi Kuchishvili, he manages an evening in Zestafoni, which is attended by many people and ends with dinner.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1915, №37, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname, Giorgi Chkheidze - with the pseudonym “G. Kuchishvili”.

1915

November 15

The magazine Tskhovreba publishes information that Isidore Kvitsaridze had the photo of Konstantin Balmont taken with Varlam Rukhadze and Galaktion Tabidze in addition to individual photos of poets taken by photographer Nikoloz Sagaradze for his magazine-newspaper office ‘Imereti’. Photos will be sent to the magazines and newspapers of the capital city for printing.

Source: Scribe from Kutaisi, magazine Tskhovreba, 1915, №1, p. 32.

Note: Isidore Kvitsaridze and Nikoloz Sagaradze are mentioned in the source by the initials of their first names and the surnames, Konstantine Balmont - by his surname.

December

1915

December 20

The newspaper Megobari publishes an announcement that after the New Year, the subscription for the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems will begin throughout Georgia and in all university cities of Russia. The Book will contain many unpublished poems. 3,000 copies of the first volume printed a year ago sold out quickly.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1915, №68, p. 3.

1915

December 22

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes the announcement that after the New Year, the subscription for the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems will begin throughout Georgia and in all university cities of Russia.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, №174, p. 2.

1915

December 26

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes an announcement that after the New Year, the subscription for the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems will begin throughout Georgia and in all university cities of Russia. 3,000 copies of the first volume printed a year earlier sold out quickly.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, December 26, 1915, №52, p. 16.

1915

December 31

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes an announcement that the 1916 wall calendar compiled by Konstantine Tavartkiladze and published by the office Ganatleba is sold in bookstores and newsstands, in which Galaktion Tabidze's poems are placed together with the works of other authors.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1915, №247, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of authors of poems: "N. Baratashvili, Akaki, An. Purtseladze, M. Gurieli, Il. Tchkhonia, I. Evdoshvili, B. Akhospireli, S. Abasheli, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, B. Pelashvili, Heine Ch. Olya's translations".

1910-1915

1910-1915

He writes a poem "Constellation" ("I do not know which god I was singing about...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №646, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He draws a temple and writes: "I wonder who built it, what talent created it...".

Source: MGL, t-717, Лермонтов, М. Ю. Сочинения, под ред. П. А. Ефремова, 4-е изд., т. I, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 9.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem "The morning's blueness fades away...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, t-717, Лермонтов, М. Ю. Сочинения, под ред. П. А. Ефремова, 4-е изд., т. I, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 576.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "Song" ("I have heard a song in the misty forest...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №646, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "I Learned Late..." ("Time has erased my sincere passion...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №646, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "Thought" ("Countrymen! To your sorrowful sleep...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №646, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem: “Let not the rain and wind disturb you...”

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №646, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He begins writing a poem titled “The Fairy Tale Flower,” but stops right there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №644, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “The Genius of Creation” (“Forgotten by all and...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №644, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The title “The Ghost” is crossed out.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem: “When I see you with a smile on your lips...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №644, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem: “Nowhere do I feel so orphaned...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №644, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Why Do You Flee From Youthful Passion...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №644, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The title “Sonnets” is crossed out.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Fantasy” (“I see, the mountain has risen in the sky...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №469; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: In the autograph, the titles “Desire” and “Dream” are crossed out.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Winter Night” (“The night continued... it no longer dawns...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №164, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Lullaby” (“Sleep has been granted to the vast sky above...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №164, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Tell Me, Nana” (“The boat glides aimlessly, without a course...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №359, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Go... Walk!” (“I know, that boat will break somewhere...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №359, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem: “Moon, why are you so pale...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №173, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: Later, the poem is edited, and the title “The Power Station of the Sun” is written.

1910-1915

On the paper, he writes a legend about the wise Yukoli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №173, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “By the Lake” (“I often walk by the edge of the lake...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №170; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “The Satire of Juvenal” (“When poets stand before me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №127, p. 3; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Tsinino” (“The village is still not asleep...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №127, p. 4; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The original title “Night’s Embrace” is crossed out in the autograph.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “In the Desert” (“Ah, no longer expect prayers and supplications from me...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №137, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Midnight” (“A star is burning... a star is shining...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №137, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem: “Spring of the days that have passed...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №137, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Recollection” (“On the wide road of the forest, I remember, a cart used to take us...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №127, p. 4; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes an untitled poem: "Early in the morning, until the mountains..."

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №127, p. 6; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "From the Diary" ("How I got bored! Yesterday, I met him...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №127, p. 6; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "The Sign of Life" ("Do not answer the hearts of all men...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №127, p. 7; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

In the notebook, he writes the program for the creative evening, where the first section will feature Lado Alexi-Meskhishvili's "Letters of the Madman," and in the second section, Enrico Broggi and others will sing with the symphony orchestra.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №81, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: It is not stated in the note, but it is likely that Galaktion himself would have performed at this evening as well.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "Yesterday Night".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №48, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem "Elegy" ("The autumn wind is blowing...").

Source: GTDA, №11; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The phrase “the wind is blowing” is repeated side by side. Therefore, this might be an early version of the poem “The Wind is Blowing...”.

1910-1915

He translates one stanza of the following poems by Heinrich Heine: “When I pass by in front of this house...” and “Agnès, I love you”.

Source: GTDA, №18, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a two-stanza poem, “I have thought more than once, why is it like this...” and draws the image of a man.

Source: GTDA, №18, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

Under the pseudonym “Galashka,” he writes poems in Russian: “Tell Her” (excerpts from an unsent letter) and “Romance” (dedicated to A. L., daughter of master).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №32; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The titles of the poems in the source are: “Скажите ей” and “Романс”

1910-1915

He writes a poem “I Will Drift Away” (“Oh, I wander! What are you waiting for...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №39, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: In the autograph, this title is also crossed out, and another one is written: “Being, Non-being”.

1910-1915

He writes a prose text in Russian, which tells the story of a young man living by the banks of the Rioni River and his dog, Gishera.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №39, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “At the Grave” (“The garden path and the dew...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №41, p. 1, GTDA, №139; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1910-1915

He writes a poem “Dull Sounds” (“Hey, who are you...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №45, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He begins writing a novel titled “The Younger Generation,” whose protagonist is the Imeretian nobleman Ioram Tserelidze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №81, p. 1; GTDA, №448, p. 1; GTDA, №539, p. 1-2; GTDA, №540, p. 1-2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a poem “Vampire” (“A memory haunts me, coming from the side of a dream...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №547, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a poem “New Year” (“At midnight, I heard a song...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №547, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He dedicates the poem “At the Time of Parting” (“My soul cannot be broken, nor the darkness of my longing...”) to M. N.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №547, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The addressee of the poem should be Maro, to whom the poet dedicated several other poems.

1911-1915

He draws caricatures of Russian writers on the paper. Among them are: Aleksandr Pushkin, Mikhail Lermontov, Lev Tolstoy, Igor Severyanin, Mikhail Artsybashev, Nikolai Gogol, Konstantin Balmont, Maxim Gorky, Arkady Averchenko, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №448, p. 1.

Dating: The text written on the reverse side of the paper dates from 1911-1915.

1911-1915

He writes a play, where the characters are an artist and a painting (“They will not understand that blessed command...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №586, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a poem “Ia” (“This is ‘Ini’, this is ‘Ani’! The whole word? Ia...”)

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №586, p. 2; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He reads Volume I of Mikhail Lermontov’s works, making underlines, comments, and sketches.

Source: MGL, t-717, Лермонтов, М. Ю. Сочинения, под ред. П. А. Ефремова, 4-е изд., т. I, Saint-Petersburg, 1880; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by analysis of facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

In the first volume of Mikhail Lermontov’s works, he draws a temple and writes: “I wonder who built it, what talent created it...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, t-717, Лермонтов, М. Ю. Сочинения, под ред. П. А. Ефремова, 4-е изд., т. I, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 9; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by analysis of facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

At the end of the first volume of Mikhail Lermontov’s works, he writes an untitled poem “The blueness of dawn is fading...”

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, t-717, Лермонтов, М. Ю. Сочинения, под ред. П. А. Ефремова, 4-е изд., т. I, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 576; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by analysis of facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes the satirical poem “The Donkey’s Fable” (“There was Ivane in Colchis...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №627, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He reads Volume I of Mikhail Lermontov's works, making underlines, comments, and sketches.
Source: MGL, t-717, Лермонтов, М. Ю. Сочинения, под ред. П. А. Ефремова, 4-е изд., т. I, Saint-Petersburg, 1880.

1911-1915

He writes a poem "The Mask" ("The whole room was illuminated by torches...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №871, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The title "The Glove" is crossed out.

1911-1915

He writes a poem "Father and Son" ("Outside, the wind flies furiously...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №871, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: The title "In the Room" is crossed out.

1911-1915

He writes a poem Leaf ("The wind blew, shaking the tree's top...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №871, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Note: Later, the title "October Leaves" is added.

1911-1915

He writes a poem "Song" ("I don't even know why I sing...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №871, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a poem "To the Portrait of N. Baratashvili" ("Baratashvili! As in the past, so in our time...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №871, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a poem "Even If You Die" ("Even if you die, like...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №871, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a poem "Oh, Not a Day Passes" ("Oh, not a day passes without me falling in love...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №649, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, "Dating by analysis of facsimiles", in the Book "Graphematic Research", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He begins writing an untitled poem “Blessed is the one who sees as paradise...” but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №649, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by analysis of facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes a prose sketch about the love between a man and a woman. Zuleima is the name of the woman.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №649, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by analysis of facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1911-1915

He writes an untitled poem starting with “My dear, when I love...”

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №649, p. 1; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by analysis of facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

1915 or earlier

He writes a poem “Morning” (“The mist of the Black Sea...”) and on the reverse side of the paper, he draws a postman holding dispatches.

Source: The notebook №394, preserved in Galaktion’s Tbilisi House Museum.

1915

Ioseb Imedashvili dedicates a small essay under the title “The Eternal Seeker”, in which it is mentioned that Galaktion is the secret of the soul of man and nature, it evokes the sadness of the world and stands completely apart with its creation.

Source: I. Imedashvili, forever a seeker, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 64.

1915

In a cafe in Kutaisi, he talks with Iona Meunargia, who tells him that Grigol Orbeliani was the greatest poet among his contemporaries, which everyone will soon be convinced of. Galaktion disagrees with his opinion.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-216, p. 32; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 403.

1915

He writes a poem “Night in the Valley”.

Source: G. Chikobava, Galaktion and Art, “Art”, Tbilisi, 1959, №4, p. 35.

1915

At the invitation of the international organization of the Kutaisi province, he participates in the census of the population in Baghdati district. Galaktion gets to know the plight of the peasants there and sympathizes. Locals get used to him so much that it is difficult to part with him.

Source: P. Nishnianidze, from Galaktion's life, Tbilisi, 1964, p. 30.

1915

He gifts Olya Okujava a collection of selected Russian translations of Nikolaus Lenau's poems with the inscription: "To unforgettable Olkin from Galon".

Source: MGL, т-350, Николаусъ Ленау, Избранныя Стихотворения въ переводахъ русскихъ поэтовъ, Saint Petersburg, 1910.

1916

January

1916

Until January

Olya Okujava begins writing a story addressed to Galaktion with the words: "To the quiet but wild child of love, my Galon". The protagonist of the story is an immensely loving woman named "Lia".

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 405-410.

Note: The dedication in Russian reads: Безумные бесчисленные объятия и поцелуи шлю бесценному, тихому, но дикому сыну любви, моему Галону!

1916

Until January

He dedicates the poem "The Almond Tree" to Olya Okujava.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5390; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 70; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 344.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles: "The Almonds in the Snow" and "The Almond Tree in the Snow".

1916

January 1

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes Grigol Robakidze's article "Fragments", in which the author talks about Galaktion Tabidze's first book. He notes that only four or five verses are truly poetic, but this is enough to appreciate the talent. According to him, the qualities of Galaktion are: immediacy, open-heartedness and nervous poetic temperament, a keen sense of beauty and leniency. He praises the last poem "Mary".

Source: Gr. Robakidze, "Fragments", Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1916, №469, p. 4-5.

1916

January 1

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that the literary-artistic collection “A Ray” with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze will be published in Kutaisi at the end of January by the personnel of the newspaper Shroma.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №254, p. 6.

Note: In the source, the list of authors is presented: ‘Mikh. Botchorishvili, Ia Ekaladze, Nik. Mitsishvili, G. Mumladze, Ilya Nakashidze, G. Natadze, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, Leo Shengelaia, and others.

1916

January 5

The newspaper Sakartvelo prints the beginning of Titsian Tabidze’s article “A Knight of the Order of Solitude (Galaktion Tabidze)”. The author notes that after the first knights of loneliness – Nikoloz Baratashvili and Mamia Gurieli, a new knight appeared – Galaktion Tabidze, who timidly set foot in Georgian literature. He is interesting not only for his poetic talent, but also for his writing style and literary influence. The author writes that symbolism is on the point of entering the Georgian literature and this change is clearly visible in the poet’s work.

Source: T. Tabidze, “The Cavalier of the Order of Solitude”, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1916, №3, p. 2.

1916

January 5

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes an announcement that on January 6, a literary-drama evening will be held in Kvirila district, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, №3, p. 2.

Note: The source presents the list of participants: V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, N. Chkhikvadze, Giorgi Nozadze.

1916

January 6

He participates in a literary-drama evening in the settlement of Kvirila and has his photo taken with Giorgi Kuchishvili.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, №3, p. 2; magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1916, №9, p. 8.

Dating: The time is indicated in the newspaper publication, and the photo was published in the magazine.

1916

January 6

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes the end of Titsian Tabidze’s article “A Knight of the Order of Solitude (Galaktion Tabidze)”. He notes that the poem “Desert” is unusual, it has some magic, the colours shine in it, the words dance rhythmically, and the astonishing music is naturally evoked. He compares the poem “In the Forest” with Verlaine’s poetry. He writes that the poet has a whole cycle of romantic plays from the past of Georgia, he thinks that Georgia can only give suffering and torture to the poet, but this is a great gift, because his poetry should make this suffering sing, and then the sad suffering will lead to glory.

Source: T. Tabidze, “The Cavalier of the Order of Solitude”, newspaper Sakartvelo, 1916, №4, p. 2.

1916

January 6

The newspaper Megobari publishes an announcement that the literary-artistic collection “A ray” will be published in Kutaisi, with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze, along with other authors.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1916, №79, p. 4.

Note: The source presents a list of authors: “Mikh. Botchorishvili, Ia Ekaladze, Nik. Mitsishvili, G. Mumladze, G. Tabidze”.

1916

January 6

In the newspaper Kutaiskiye Vesti, under the section “Young Georgian Poets,” Galaktion’s poem “The Cross” is published in a Russian translation by Arkadi Belovolenko.

Source: Newspaper Kutaiskiye Vesti, January 6, 1916, №126, p. 3; Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 209-211.

1916

January 3-8

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes the announcement in various issues that the 1916 wall calendar compiled by Konstantine Tavartkiladze and published by the office Ganatileba is sold in bookstores and newsstands, in which the poems of Galaktion Tabidze are placed together with the works of other authors.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, January 3, 1916, №2, p. 1; January 5, №3, p. 1; January 6, №4, p. 1; January 8, №5, p. 1.

Note: The source presents the list of authors of poems: “N. Baratashvili, Akaki, An. Purtseladze, M. Gurieli, Il. Chkonia, I. Evdoshvili, B. Akhospireli, S. Abasheli, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, B. Pelashvili, Heine Tch. Olya’s translations”.

1916

January 15

The magazine Tskhovreba publishes Romanoz Pantskhava’s review “Georgian Literature 1915”, in which it is noted that Galaktion Tabidze and Ioseb Grishashvili attracted public attention the previous year. He considers Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Due to Akaki’s death” to be the best, which the poet uses to comfort the Georgians who are heartbroken by the national tragedy.

Source: Khomleli, “Georgian Literature of 1915”, magazine Tskhovreba, 1916, №2, p. 26.

Note: Romanoz Pantskhava is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym “Khomleli”.

1916

January 17

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement about the poet's evening to be held in the Kutaisi Public Council on January 26 in order to celebrate the anniversary of Akaki Tsereteli's death, at which Galaktion Tabidze will read the poem "Akaki's ghost".

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №262, p. 2.

1916

January 19

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes an announcement that on January 26, an evening dedicated to the anniversary of the death of Akaki Tsereteli will be held in the Kutaisi Public Council, where Galaktion Tabidze will read the poem "Akaki's ghost".

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, January 19, 1916, №14, p. 3.

1916

January 23

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that on Sunday, January 24, the women's circle will hold a lecture at the Georgian Theatre in Kutaisi, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate in the literary section along with others.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, №269, 1916, p. 3.

1916

January 24

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that today, at 12 o'clock, the women's circle will hold a lecture with a literary section in the Kutaisi theatre, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, №270, 1916, p. 3.

Note: The source presents the list of participants: "Ms. Eph. Meskhi, Ek. Mikeladze, B.B. G. Tabidze and I. Zhghenti".

1916

From the end of January

Ia Ekaladze invites Galaktion to collaborate in her daily newspaper Samshoblo, which features a weekly illustrated supplement. Galaktion handles technical work, corrects proofs, and translates dispatches.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, "Galaktion Tabidze", collection "Galaktionology", X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406.

February

1916

February 5

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the announcement that the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi has started to be printed under the editorship of Paolo Iashvili, and that Galaktion Tabidze participates in the almanac along with other authors.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, №278, 1916, p. 3.

Note: The source presents a list of authors: “Galaktion Tabidze, V. Gaprindashvili, I. Grishashvili, Gr. Robakidze...”.

1916

February 7

Olya Okujava discovers the poem “The Poplar Tree” in Galaktion’s notebook, with the inscription “To O. Lya”. By writing Olya’s name this way, Galaktion is making an allusion to “Lia”, a prose character created by Olya herself. Delighted, Olya writes about this in her diary.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 433.

1916

February 8

Olya Okujava is deeply troubled by the fact that Galaktion is unfaithful to her with other women. She wonders if Galaktion truly deserves the love and youth she is sacrificing for him. These heavy emotions leave her questioning her commitment and the worthiness of her devotion to him.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 433-434.

1916

February 9

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the announcement that the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi will be published on February 14. Grigol Robakidze, Ioseb Grishashvili, Elene Dariani, Galaktion Tabidze and others take part in the almanac.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, №281, 1916, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of authors: “Gr. Robakidze, I. Grishashvili, Elene Dariani, G. Tabidze...”.

1916

February 10

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the announcement that on February 14, the local drama society in Chiatura, for the benefit of the same society, will hold a literary evening, to which the talented poet Galaktion Tabidze is invited.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №282, p. 3.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname.

1916

February 10

Olya Okujava writes in her diary about how she is waiting for spring and changes. She imagines herself as a statue that Galaktion will bring to life with his poetry.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 435-436.

1916

Until February 11

He writes a poem "Blue Horses".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5387; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 55.

Dating: Information about the poem is given in the statement published in the newspaper Samshoblo on February 11, 1916.

1916

February 11

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the announcement that the almanac Tsisperi Kantsebi will be published on February 14.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №283, p. 1.

1916

February 15

On the invitation card of the evening of "Tsisperkantselis" he makes a note that the issues of announcements, posters, theatre rental and ticket sales need to be resolved for the upcoming evenings and he writes down the meeting schedule: Tuesday, February 29 in Kutaisi. Thursday, March 2 – in Khoni. Saturday, March 4 – in Kvirila. Sunday, March 5 – in Chiatura. Tuesday, March 7 – in Samtredia. Thursday, March 9 – in Lanchkhuti. Sunday, March 12 – in Ozurgeti. Thursday, March 16 – in Akhalsenaki. Sunday, March 19 – in Poti. Sunday, March 26 – in Tbilisi.

Source: MGL, d-617-3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, 2008, p. 507; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 269.

1916

February 15

He meets his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who has arrived in Kutaisi.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to mother, Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1561, p. 1-2.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter dated February 16 states that this happened the day before.

1916

February 16

Abesalom Tabidze writes a letter to his mother, recounting his meeting with Galaktion the previous day.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Makrine Adeishvili, GTDA, №1561, p. 1-5.

Dating: Abesalom's letter, sent the following day, is dated February 16, 1916.

1916

February 16

The newspaper Megobari publishes a statement that the Almanac Tsisperi Kantsebi could not be sent to the province, it will be released for sale and will be sent to the province on February 21.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1916, №111, p. 3.

1916

February 17

Olya Okujava writes in her diary, addressing Galaktion, inviting him to come to her and asking him to love her. She describes how she awaits his visit and how her wish comes true.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 436-437.

1916

February 17

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that the literary almanac "Akhali Tsiskari" will be published on February 20, in which Ia Ekaladze, Galaktion Tabidze and Valerian Gaprindashvili participate. Kote Makashvili's critical article about Galaktion Tabidze's poetry will be included in the almanac.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №288, p. 2.

Note: Valerian Gaprindashvili is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname, while Kote Makashvili is mentioned with the initials of his first and last names – "K. M-li".

1916

February 17

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the information that the anniversary morning event of Shio Mghvimeli to celebrate 30 years of his literary work was held in Kutaisi, in the organization of which Galaktion Tabidze took an active part.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №288, p. 3.

1916

Until February 18

Four poems are printed in the collection "Skhivi" under the common title "Shadows of the moon": "With white shadows", "Poplars in the snow", "Aspen" and "Nocturne".

Source: Collection "Skhivi", 1916, p. 84.

Dating: The February 18, 1916 issue of the newspaper Megobari states that the collection has been already released.

1916

February 18

The newspaper Megobari publishes an announcement that the literary-artistic collection "Skhivi" published by the editorial office 'Shroma' has been released and is on sale, in which Galaktion

Tabidze's poems under the common title "Shadows of the moon" have been published: "With white shadows", "Poplars in the snow", "Aspen" and "Nocturne".

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1916, №113, p. 3.

Note: Later the poem "Poplar tree in the snow" was called "Poplars in the snow" and "Nocturne" – "It".

1916

February 20

Olya Okujava describes in her diary a dream from the previous night, in which she and Galaktion were sitting on a swing of moonlight and how the sky was showering them with flowers.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 436-437.

1916

February 23

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that the almanac "Akhali Tsiskari" will be published soon, in which Galaktion Tabidze's poem "A tower" and Kote Makashvili's critical article "Galaktion Tabidze's Poetry" will be published.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №292, p. 2.

Note: Kote Makashvili is mentioned with the initials of his name and surname – "K. M-li".

1916

February 26

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that on February 28, the almanac "Akhali Tsiskari" will be published, in which the poem "A tower" by Galaktion Tabidze will be included.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №295, p. 1.

1916

February 27

The newspaper Megobari publishes an announcement that it has been printed and on Sunday, February 28, the almanac "Tsisperi Kantsebi" will be published, in which Paolo Iashvili's "Pirveltqma", poems of Grigol Robakidze, Ioseb Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Elene Dariani are released.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1916, №120, p. 1.

1916

Until February 26

He writes a poem titled "A Tower".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 16.

Dating: The poem is mentioned in the February 26 issue of the newspaper Samshoblo.

1916

February 28

The poem “The Tower” is published in the magazine Akhali Tsiskari.

Source: Magazine Akhali Tsiskari, 1916, №1, February 28, p. 1.

1916

February 28

The newspaper Megobari publishes an announcement that the almanac “Tsisperi Kantsebi” has been published, in which Paolo Iashvili’s “Pirveltqma”, as well as Grigol Robakidze, Ioseb Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and Elene Dariani’s poems have been released.

Source: Newspaper Megobari, 1916, №121, p. 1, 3.

1916

February 28

Galaktion Tabidze’s poems: “The moon of Mtatsminda” and “Blue Horses” are published in the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi.

Source: Magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, 1916, №1, p. 6; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 98, 55-56.

1916

February 28

Titsian Tabidze’s article “With blue goblets” is published in the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, in which the author mentions about Galaktion Tabidze that his first Book “it seems that he will grow a poisonous flower of symbolism”. According to the author of the article, no matter how highly this Book is rated, it is felt that more is expected from this poet.

Source: Magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, 1916, №1, p. 19-23.

1916

February 28

A photo of Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili taken by the artist S. Goladze during the literary evening held in Kvirila on January 6, 1916, is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1916, №9, p. 8.

March

1916

March 1

Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “A tower” is published in the Almanac Akhali Tsiskari under the signature “Galaktion Tabidze”. There is the notice from the editors that due to reasons independent of them, not all materials could be included in the issue and publishing of the K. Mill’s article “G. Tabidze’s creative works” was postponed for the future.

Source: Magazine Akhali Tsiskari, 1916, №1, p. 3, 15.

Note: It is unknown who is referred to by the pseudonym “K. Mill”.

1916

March 1

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes a statement that the editorial office has received two almanacs: “Akhali Tsiskari”, which costs 10 kopecks, and Tsisperi Kantsebi”. It is noted that the latter is expensive, but its content does not match the external side. It is also said that a list of the material included in this almanac will be published in the newspaper in the future.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №298, p. 2, 15.

1916

March 1

Alexandre Abasheli’s article “Poetics” is published in the Almanac “Akhali Tsiskari”, in which it is noted that Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Art Poetique”, similar to Paul Verlaine’s call, was the first manifesto - a call to music and beauty. According to the author of the article, after the publication of the first book, Galaktion had the right to such a call. In recent years, no writer has written as much as Galaktion Tabidze, but his writing style and other aspects are still not covered. Poetics is completely new, and every poet can benefit from this novelty.

Source: Saturn, “Poetics”, Magazine Akhali Tsiskari, 1916, №1, p. 11-12.

Note: Alexandre Abasheli (Chochia) is mentioned in the source under another pseudonym “Saturn”.

1916

March 9

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes Mikheil Asatiani’s statement that the society expresses its heartache towards Galaktion Tabidze for participating in such a groundless and depraved magazine as “Tsisperi Kantsebi”.

Source: “Student”, “Again due to Kantselis”, Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №305, p. 2-3.

Note: Mikheil Asatiani is referred to under the pseudonym “Student” in the source.

1916

March 9

He participates in the evening held at the Kutaisi confectionery “Pinjani Chai”, where Kita Abashidze delivers a speech. He mentions about “Tsisperi Kantsebi” that a new direction has appeared in Georgian literature and a part of the society protests against it. He reminds the eyewitnesses that the appearance of Ilia Chavchavadze and Akaki Tsereteli in the literary arena was met with similar controversy by the contemporary society. Kita Abashidze’s speech is greeted with silence by the public, but they throw their punches at Paolo Iashvili. Women demand the expulsion of Paolo Iashvili, while Valerian Gaprindashvili is not allowed to read a poem. The attendees wish to take down the portrait of Shota Rustaveli painted by Lado Japaridze from Tsisperkantselis, because they consider it an insult to Shota. They demand that Noe Chkhikvadze, Galaktion Tabidze and Lado Matchavariani read poems, which they reward with a heavy round of applause.

Source: “Ras-ini”, “Kita Abashidze in the Role of Defender of Pornographers”, Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, March 13, №59, p. 3; I., “Defender of “Tsisperi Kantsis” – Kita Abashidze”, Newspaper Akhali Kvali, 1916, №44, p. 3.

Note: Paolo Iashvili, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Lado Japaridze, Noe Chkhikvadze, Galaktion Tabidze and Lado Matchavariani are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and the surnames, Ilia Chavchavadze and Akaki Tsereteli - with their first names, “Ras-ini” with the pseudonym, Ioseb Grishashvili - with the cryptonym “I”.

1916

March 10

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes Filipe Makharadze’s article “The Pitiful”. The author notes that Galaktion Tabidze’s pessimistic poetry has nothing in common with drunkards’ Bacchanalia. He believes that “The moon of Mtatsminda” and “Blue Horses” are dissonance, and an obvious contradiction of the poems placed in the magazine “Tsisperi Kantsebi”. He does not think that Galaktion Tabidze feels good next to Elene Dariani and Grigol Robakidze, and he is sure that he will follow his chosen path to the end.

Source: F. M-dze, “The Pitiful”, newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, №56, p. 1-2.

Note: Filipe Makharadze is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym “F. M-dze”, Paolo Iashvili - under the pseudonym “Elene Dariani”.

1916

March 12

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes a statement that on March 13, the Kutaisi “Women’s Society” board will hold a literary evening in the theatre, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate along with others.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1916, №58, p. 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participants: “Kato Mikeladze and Alexandra, I. Nikolaishvili, N. Chkhikvadze, G. Tabidze, M. Anashvili”.

1916

March 14

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes a statement that the conscious part of the society unanimously condemned and hung “Tsisperkantselebi” on a shameful pole.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1916, №526, p. 2.

1916

March 14

The newspaper Akhali Kvali publishes Tsatsa Darakhvelidze’s statement that intelligent women consider the extensive discussion of “Tsisperi Kantsebi” humiliating for a Georgian woman. They would have met this depravity in silence if the woman’s name had not been in the magazine. They find it unbelievable that a Georgian woman has lost her shame. They doubt that she is really Elene, so they appeal to those authors of “Tsisperi Kantsebi” - Niko Lortkipanidze, Galaktion

Tabidze, Ivane Kipiani and Akaki Paghava - who still believe in humanity, to unmask Elene Dariani and show her true face. They write that otherwise they are allowed to call others the same name as Paolo Iashvili.

Source: Tsatsa D-dze, Newspaper Akhali Kvali, 1916, №14, p. 3.

Note: Tsatsa Darakhvelidze is mentioned in the source as Tsatsa “D-dze”, Galaktion Tabidze - by the initial and surname, Niko Lortkipanidze, Ivane Kipiani, Akaki Paghava, Paolo Iashvili - by surnames, Paolo Iashvili - by pseudonym “Elene Dariani”.

1916

March 15-16

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the beginning of Ia Ekaladze’s article “Three magazines: “Skhivi”, “Tsisperi Kantsebi”, “Akhali Tsiskari”, in which the author points out that nothing is demanded from a displaced person and a hungry-thirsty man beyond what he provides to the society and that Galaktion Tabidze and Noe Chkhikvadze live only on dreams, tears and air. He wonders how they have the joy of writing and thinks that the fate has given them the power of magic.

Source: Ia Ekaladze-Tsintsadze, three magazines: Skhivi, Tsisperi Kantsebi, Akhali Tsiskari, newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №311, p. 2; №310, p. 3.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze and Noe Chkhikvadze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and the surnames, Iakob Tsintsadze - with his surname and pseudonym “Ia Ekaladze”.

1916

March 18

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the continuation of Ia Ekaladze’s article “Three Magazines: Skhivi, Tsisperi Kantsebi, Akhali Tsiskari, in which the latter states that articles should be written daily about Sandro Shanshiashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Niko Lortkipanidze, and others, and their works should be distributed to the public at affordable prices.

Source: Ia Ekaladze-Tsintsadze, three magazines: Skhivi, Tsisperi Kantsebi, Akhali Tsiskari, newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №313, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Sandro Shanshiashvili and Niko Lortkipanidze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and their surnames, Iakob Tsintsadze - with his surname and pseudonym “Ia Ekaladze”.

1916

March

He is in Kutaisi, at the Imereti magazine and newspaper office, where he meets Sergo Gersamia. During their conversation, Galaktion tells Sergo that he has grown tired of working at the newspaper Samshoblo under Ia Ekaladze’s editorship, translating dispatches, proofreading texts, and editing style. This is why he recently left the editorial office.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406

April

1916

After April 4

He receives Titsian Tabidze's letter sent from Moscow to Kutaisi. He wonders what is happening in Kutaisi and reprimands him for not writing. The addressee informs that an event is being arranged for Galaktion in Moscow, but it is necessary that he, as an esthete and poet, be alone. He asks Galaktion if Paolo Iashvili cannot settle the military tribute, to help him.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Soul Purer than the Azure", Tbilisi, 2008, p. 191.

Note: Titsian Tabidze is mentioned in the source by the name - Tite, Paolo Iashvili - by the name.

1916

April 9

In response to the statement published by Paolo Iashvili and Ioseb Grishashvili in the newspaper Tanamedrove Azri on April 9, 1915, a year later, he pens a critical rejoinder in the newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli. In his writing, he deems it superfluous to reiterate an obvious truth yet feels compelled to do so due to external pressures. He questions how Ioseb Grishashvili and Paolo Iashvili could assert that unforeseen circumstances would not hinder his participation in the evening of March 5, unless they had consulted Galaktion himself beforehand, having already publicized his name among the participants before securing his consent. He finds Ioseb Grishashvili's justifications for substituting Konstantine Chichinadze's name in his absence, citing the inability to reach Galaktion, as absurd, because both the last names of Konstantine Chichinadze and Galaktion Tabidze are mentioned together in the announcement of March 4, 1915, as well as in the news.

Source: G. Tabidze, "A Response to a Delayed Answer", Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1916, №40, p. 4.

Note: Paolo Iashvili, Ioseb Grishashvili and Konstantine Chichinadze are mentioned in the source by their last names.

1916

April 10

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the article "Gr. Robakidze's lecture" under the pseudonym Jafar-Pasha. The article mentions that in order to alleviate the trouble surrounding the "Tsisperi Kantsebi", Grigol Robakidze, as one of the participants of this magazine, was forced to hold a public lecture and address the public of Kutaisi with a defensive speech. The lecturer described the symbolism and by distinguishing the works of Niko Lortkipanidze, Galaktion Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, Aristo Tchumbadze, Valerian Gaprindashvili and others, showed their talent and value.

Source: Jafar-Pasha, "Gr. Robakidze's Lecture", Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №330, p. 3.

Note: Niko Lortkipanidze, Galaktion and Titsian Tabidze, Aristo Tchumbadze, Niko Lortkipanidze and Valerian Gaprindashvili are mentioned in the source by their surnames, Grigol Robakidze by the initial of his name and a surname, Alexandre or Niko Japaridze - by the pseudonym "Jafar-Pasha".

1916

April 10

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the article “Skhivi”, a literary-artistic collection by Siko Leonidze, who is in Kazan. The author notes that each line of Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Moon Shadows” printed in “Skhivi” is an embodiment of beauty, and power and tenderness can be felt in each word. He believes that it is not a big flaw, but it was better for the poet to use rich and abundant native language words, because such “Europeanisms” as “page”, “princess” and “silhouettes” leave a bad impression on the reader.

Source: Siko Leonidze, Skhivi, literary-artistic collection, magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1916, №15, p. 14-15.

1916

April 16

He writes an untitled poem (“Your Smile, Leonardo da Vinci’s Hand...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №59; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 17; For dating: collection “Galaktionology”, №1, 2002, p. 234.

Note: The poem was also published under the title “Your Smile”.

1916

April 16

The poem “Every White Night” is published in the newspaper Tanamedrove Azri.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, №37, p. 3.

Note: Later the author called the poem “Primitive”.

1916

April 16

The newspaper Chveni Megobari publishes “Kira’s” article “Grigol Robakidze’s lecture”. The author notes that the hostility of many towards the “Tsisperi Kantsebi” frightened some contributors to the almanac, and they were ready to refuse to cooperate. That is why Grigol Robakidze’s lecture was very interesting to the public. Grigol Robakidze claimed that all the participants of “Tsisperi Kantsebi” have many things in common and their separation hurts the new Georgian art. He distinguished the poems, spoke about the virtuosity of Ioseb Grishashvili and the mysticism of Galaktion Tabidze, which often goes as deep as it can be seen in his poem “Blue Horses”. Robakidze names the lack of harmony as his main shortcoming.

Source: Kira, “Grigol Robakidze’s Lecture”, newspaper Chveni Megobari, №37, p. 6.

Note: It is unclear who is meant by the pseudonym “Kira”.

1916

April 26

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an article “Lecture by B. Robakidze’s, apologist of the “Tsisperi Kantsebi”, under the pseudonym “One of many”. Grigol Robakidze’s words are quoted:

“Galaktion Tabidze will undoubtedly follow the path of Symbolists, his poem “Blue horses” is mystical, he only lacks harmony of form and content”.

Source: “One of many”, “Lecture by B. Robakidze’s, apologist of the “Tsisperi Kantsebi”, Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №340, p. 2-3.

Note: Grigol Robakidze is mentioned in the source by his last name, “one of many” - by a pseudonym.

1916

April 27

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes the continuation of Ia Ekaladze’s article “Three magazines: Skhivi, Tsisperi Kantsebi, Akhali Tsiskari. The author notes that Galaktion Tabidze’s lyre is sad, gentle and pristine. He is a poet of exalted spirit and oppressed pride. His poems are experienced only by himself and consciously suffering and enlightened reader. Therefore, Galaktion Tabidze is less understandable for the average reader. He regrets that Galaktion Tabidze and Niko Lortkipanidze also appeared in the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, which, according to the author of the article, is neither “futurism”, nor “symbolism” nor any other new direction, but is “poetry” of sexually ill people.

Source: Ia Ekaladze-Tsintsadze, three magazines: Skhivi, Tsisperi Kantsebi, Akhali Tsiskari, newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №341, p. 3-4.

Note: Iakob Tsintsadze is mentioned in the source with his last name and pseudonym “Ia Ekaladze”, Niko Lortkipanidze - with the initial of his first name and the surname.

1916

April 28

The newspaper Samshoblo, in the “News” section, publishes an announcement that the young lecturer Grigol Khaindrava will hold a literary evening on May 1 in Poti, in the hall of the local council, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №342, p. 2.

Note: The source presents a list of participants: “I. Nikolaishvili, Gal. Tabidze, J. Jorjikia, M. Anashvili, Lado Matchavariani”.

1916

April 28

The newspaper Samshoblo prints the statement of the board of the women’s society regarding their decision to organize the women’s day and publish an almanac for this day. It is also stated in the statement that they should apply for materials to prominent writers, including Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №342, p. 4.

Note: The source presents a list of authors: “K. Abashidze, G. Zdanovich, S. Khundadze, G. Tabidze, N. Chkhikvadze, I. Kakabadze, S. Kvariani, Gr. Gvelesiani”.

1916

March-April

David Kasradze, along with several other writers, invites Galaktion to collaborate with the newly established literary newspaper Mtsvervali, and Galaktion agrees.

Source: Sergo Gersamia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 389-406

May

1916

May 1

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes a statement that, under the leadership of Grigol Khaindrava, the literary morning scheduled for May 1 in Poti, in which Galaktion Tabidze was supposed to participate, was postponed to May 8 for various reasons and will be held in Lanchkhuti on May 9 with the same program.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, 1916, №345, p. 3.

Note: Grigol Khaindrava is referred to by the initial of his first name and a surname. Galaktion Tabidze is not mentioned in this statement, but we know from the April 28 statement that he should have participated.

1916

May 18

He writes a brief essay about Shio Aragvispireli and Alexandre Kazbegi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №431, p. 9.

1916

May 22

Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili read their poems at the meeting held in the hall of the Kutaisi City Council.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, May 28, 1916, №118, p. 3.

Note: Giorgi Kuchishvili and Galaktion Tabidze are referred to by their initials and surnames.

1916

May 28

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes a statement about the meeting held in the Kutaisi City Council. It states that Davit Oniashvili gave a lecture “Ethnicity in the Caucasus”, and Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili read poems.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, May 28, 1916, №118, p. 3.

Note: Giorgi Kuchishvili and Galaktion Tabidze are referred to by their initials and surnames.

June

1916

June 17

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes a statement that the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze's poems will be published in the near future.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1916, №133, p. 2.

1916

June 24

From Kutaisi, Galaktion Tabidze sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, requesting that he send his certificate of poverty in two copies within two days. He writes that this document is needed for an important matter, which he will inform him about in a subsequent sealed letter. He also mentions that he will be going on vacation for a month and a half in the near future.

Source: GTDA, №812; p. 1-2.

Note: The letter does not specify where Galaktion Tabidze is going or for what purpose, but this information becomes clear from his subsequent letters.

1916

After June 24

He is on vacation in Bakuriani and buys Vladimir Rantsov's Book "Chronology of World and Russian History" and writes on it: "G. Tabidze. Bakuriani. 1916. 'Tibatve' (June)".

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 403.

Note: It is likely that the annotation refers to the 1911 edition of the Book Хронология всеобщей и русской истории.

July

1916

After July 13

He writes a poem "15 Poets".

Source: Autograph 362; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 445; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 431.

1916

Until July 25

He writes a poem "While on the road".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 156.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "On the way".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1916

July 25

He publishes the poem "While on the road" in the newspaper Akhali Kvali.

Source: Newspaper Akhali Kvali, 1916, №33, p. 2.

August

1916

August 19

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Varlam Burjanadze. Galaktion reminds him that they once knew each other but does not know if the addressee remembers and feels uncomfortable because of this. He writes that due to his dire situation, he has applied to the Kutaisi branch of the Society for Spreading Literacy in order to intercede with the main administration regarding the appointment of a scholarship for him. The board accepted the request and sent the petition along with his request to Tbilisi. He asks Varlam to help him to let everyone know how terrible it is to live in poverty. Galaktion informs that he is going to go to Moscow to study at the Shanyavsky University and it would be unfair not to get a scholarship because he does not know anyone.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 554.

1916

August 20

Young people go to see Galaktion Tabidze in the editorial office of the newspaper Samshoblo. They tell him that they have learned of his intention to go to Moscow, wish him luck and present him with a silver pen. The happy poet hugs the young men.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 417.

1916

August 24

He sends a letter to the Kutaisi branch of the Society for Spreading Literacy among Georgians. He asks them to understand his situation and give him a scholarship to continue his studies at Shanyavsky University in Moscow. All of Georgia knows his unbearable conditions and what he can do and has full hope that the Board of the Society for Spreading Literacy will sympathise and allow him to finish his studies.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 555.

1916

August 26

He goes to his native village Chkvishi for one day and says goodbye to his mother and brother. Abesalom gives him 30 roubles.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 417.

September

1916

Until September 2

He participates in the agricultural survey of the Caucasus organized by the Kutaisi gubernatorial agricultural organization. His assigned area is the Baghdati district. He visits the region twice, and the local residents greet him exceptionally well.

Source: Ilia Bakhtadze, newspaper Stalineli (Kutaisi), 1960, №21; P. Nishnianidze, From Galaktion's Life, Tbilisi, 1964, p. 30.

Dating: We date according to the time of his departure for Moscow.

1916

September 2

He departs for Moscow with Olya Okujava. He meets his brother at the Rioni station at 2 o'clock in the morning. Abesalom blesses him on his way and gives 5 roubles for small expenses.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 418.

1916

After September 2

During the train journey to Moscow, a soldier shows excessive attention towards Olya, who also seems captivated by him. Galaktion meets the soldier separately and warns him that if he doesn't disappear from their carriage, he will regret it. The frightened soldier indeed disappears and is no longer seen. Olya is surprised and pleased by this event. She sincerely tells Galaktion that she might have betrayed him, but she was fortunate to avoid making that mistake.

Source: Autographic record of May 25, 1921, GTDA, №559, p. 1.

Dating: We date according to the period of the train journey to Moscow.

1916

September 3

In a letter to Valerian Gaprindashvili, Grigol Robakidze compares Galaktion Tabidze's poetry to the river Ganges, on which boats full of phantoms drift at midnight. He notes that he loves Tabidze's moonlit dream, in which the poet is wrapped in a single phantom among a thousand.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 57.

1916

September 14

He arrives in Moscow and settles in the Arbatsky district, on Povarskaya Street, now known as Vatslav Vorovsky Street.

Source: V. Javakhadze, Two Episodes for the Book "The Unknown", collection "Galaktionology", I, Tbilisi, 2002, p. 92.

1916

After September 14

He writes an untitled poem ("Tell me the poem again...").

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 453; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 459.

1916

After September 14

In Moscow, while Galaktion is with Olya, she meets a man on the street and brings him to their apartment. They talk with such enthusiasm for a long time that Galaktion feels neglected. His patience runs out, and he grabs the man by the arm, warning him to leave the room immediately.

Olya stands between them, frightened. The scared stranger leaves, and Galaktion soon calms down.

Source: Autographic record of May 25, 1921, GTDA, №559, p. 1.

Dating: We date according to the period following the arrival in Moscow.

October

1916

After October 1

In Moscow, he receives a letter from a familiar worker, Akaki Gabrichidze, which was sent to him there by Tutku Gvaramia. The sender writes that Tutku Gvaramia provided him with Galaktion's collection of poems, and he was deeply impressed. Although critics also recognize Galaktion's high creative mastery, Akaki Gabrichidze believes that it is equally important how ordinary workers perceive his poetry.

Source: A. Gabrichidze's letter, GTDA, №856, p. 1-2.

1916

Until October 9

In Moscow, he receives two letters from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №805, p. 1-2; N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 419.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 9 letter to Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

October 9

From Moscow, he dispatches a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, detailing his unsettled circumstances. He reveals his imminent return to Kutaisi in January to address conscription matters. Amidst his transient academic pursuits, alternating between Shanyavsky University and elsewhere, he laments the loss of valuable time that should have been dedicated to scholarly pursuits. He paints a bleak picture of his current reality: dwindling finances, deteriorating spiritual well-being, and waning enthusiasm amidst the encroaching winter. Despite grappling with the overwhelming urban landscape, he persists in his literary endeavours. Urgently, he appeals for financial assistance, uncertain of what lies ahead. Reflecting on his decision to journey to Moscow, he acknowledges the challenges but remains determined to persevere. He implores Abesalom to reassure their mother, Makrine Adeishvili, of his well-being and eagerly anticipates her correspondence. He advises not to be heartbroken and to fight.

Source: GTDA, №805, p. 1-2; N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 419.

1916

October 13

The newspaper Tanamedrove Azri publishes an announcement that the Book of poems of Galaktion Tabidze is being sold in the office of magazines and newspapers Gantiadi located on Mikheil's Avenue.

Source: Newspaper Tanamedrove Azri, 1916, №182, p. 1.

1918

October 23

In Moscow, Olya Okujava reflects on Galaktion at night and writes in her diary that it is a blessing to be a poet, to write poems, and to attract hearts with the flowers of one's poetry.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 453.

November

1916

November 3

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes the article "Creativity and Criticism" by Leo Kiacheli. The author notes that Galaktion Tabidze makes readers cry, and they feel this gentle sadness more than they understand. While reading his emotional poems, readers feel an intimate kinship of soul with the author. The poet only opens his own heartache, he does not look into the heart of others, and this is his strength and weakness at the same time.

Source: Leo Shengelaia, "Creativity and Criticism", newspaper Sakartvelo, 1916, №475, p. 3-4.

Note: Leo Kiacheli is referred to by his first and last name.

1916

Until November 6

He receives letters from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in Moscow.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 11.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's November 6th letter to Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

November 6

He sends a reply letter from Moscow to his brother – Abesalom Tabidze. He informs that he receives his letters and answers them, but he does not know whether Abesalom receives them or not. He asks him to send the money he needs as soon as possible. He explains to his brother that he does not know the difficulties of Moscow - somewhere he will either freeze or starve to death and no one will feel sorry for him. Every second he feels what a terrible curse it is for a man to be born poor. Galaktion doesn't like to talk about himself, but he had a lot of fire, a lot of life, a lot of spiritual lightning in him. And now he feels that he is gradually getting cold, growing old, his heart freezes and he wants to cry when he sees that what belonged to his youth is disappearing in his eyes. If Abesalom had known what suffering his brother had gone through, he would have sent money even now, because poverty in Moscow is unimaginable. He is more concerned about spiritual suffering than poverty. For years, he instinctively feels as if he has neither relatives and nor protector.

Source: MGL, 24551-8; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 11.

1916

November 8

A meeting of deputies and leaders of the nobility is held with the participation of representatives of Georgian institutions, at which 300 roubles each will be allocated from the money set aside by the public meeting of the nobility to Ioseb Grishashvili, Mikheil Chiaureli, Dimitri Shevardnadze and Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, November 9, 1916, №718, p. 3.

Note: Ioseb Grishashvili, Mikheil Chiaureli, Dimitri Shevardnadze and Galaktion Tabidze are mentioned in the source by the initials of their names and surnames.

1916

November 9

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes information about the meeting of deputies and leaders of the nobility the day before, at which it was decided to allocate financial aid to the Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, November 9, 1916, №718, p. 3.

1916

Until November 17

He conducts three-hour lessons, for which he earns 50 roubles per month.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

He unexpectedly learns that the Georgian community in Moscow is awarding him a scholarship of 30 roubles per month.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

In Moscow, he learns from a newspaper that Tbilisi Bank of Nobility has decided to send him 300 roubles. As far as he did not apply directly to the bank, he thinks that this is the merit of Kote Makashvili.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Note: It is likely that the information of the newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli of November 9 is implied.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

He has a second Book ready, with which, according to him, he will "bristle up the people" of all of Georgia.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

In Moscow, he visits the Tretyakov Gallery, the Alexander III Museum, the Rumyantsev Ethnographic Museum, the Art Theatre, the Kremlin, and is impressed by what he sees.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

He buys a magazine titled Ugheltekhili, which has been extraordinarily published by Russian Symbolists, for roubles.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Note: The magazine referred to is "Перевал".

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

In Moscow, he meets his cousin Titsian Tabidze several times, who does not like the local environment and the constant complaints of Georgian students about poverty.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until November 17

He receives letters and money sent by his brother Abesalom Tabidze in Moscow.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's letter sent to Abesalom Tabidze on November 17 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

November 17

He sends a letter from Moscow to his brother – Abesalom Tabidze. He informs that the money received from him arrived on time and things are going very well. It is possible that the scholarship appointed by the Georgian Society of Moscow will be increased from 30 roubles to 50 roubles, and he will also receive a simple job with a salary in the amount of 110 roubles per month. He worries that he works from 9 to 4 and does not have time to study. He informs that the society treats him well, he became close friends with the Georgian doctor who appointed him a scholarship and if he wants, they will extend it for five or six years. The doctor also found him another job – three-hour lessons. As a result, he can spend the whole summer in Crimea with his child. But he has to come to Georgia in the spring in connection with the army recruitment. He has little free time, however, he manages to work and read. He is waiting for the end of the war to travel around the whole earth. He intends to hold a big Georgian evening in Moscow, which will make all of Moscow talk about him and, possibly, even become a world-famous man.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 420-423.

1916

November 24

He is traveling from Moscow to Kutaisi.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 88.

1916

November 29

He arrives in Kutaisi in the morning and writes a letter on a postcard to be sent to Olya Okujava in Moscow. He reports that he is happy because, as soon as he passed Rostov, he saw the blue sky and felt the hot sun. It is spring and warm in Kutaisi; As soon as he arrived, he went to the restaurant to drink wine and write a letter. He promises that he will arrive soon, but he does not know how he will endure the Moscow cold. In Kutaisi, he feels that he is God. He asks her to live like a woman who befits poet's favourite, that is, like a "princess".

Source: MGL, 24551-36; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 35.

Note: This postcard, together with three similar letters written the next day, was sent by Galaktion to Moscow on November 30.

1916

November 29

He visits Olya Okujava's parents in Kutaisi. Everyone – Olya's mother - Elizabeth Peremusheva-Okujava, father - Stepane Okujava, sister - Mariam, sister-in-law Nina Gvakharia and Olya's brothers: Shalva and Vasili – meet him with warmth. Olya's younger sister presents him a pen so as not to interfere with his writing. Deprived of warmth and attention, Galaktion feels happy and loves everyone around him, but he is so tired that he wakes up at night after lying down in the morning.

Source: MGL, 24551-36; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 35.

Dating: The letter to Olya Okujava dated November 29 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

November 30

In Kutaisi, he writes a letter to Olya Okujava in Moscow. He describes how warmly her family welcomed him and how happy it made him, but at the same time, he felt like a miserable, cursed street boy.

Source: MGL, 24551-31, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 36-37.

Dating: We date according to the date of the postmark stamped in Kutaisi.

Note: In the letter, Stephane Okujava is referred to as Olya's "Papa", Mariam is called "Mania", and others are mentioned by their names.

1916

November 30

He is in Kutaisi and writes the second letter to Olya Okujava to be sent to Moscow on a postcard. He writes that if he manages to be released from the army, he will soon hold his own evening and make money. He is admired by the amazingly warm weather. He wants to pick violets and bring them to her. He wonders if they will bring him flowers at his event.

Source: MGL, 24551-33, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37.

Dating: We date according to the date of the postmark stamped in Kutaisi.

1916

November 30

He sits in a cafe and writes another letter to be sent to Olya Okujava in Moscow. He has been in Kutaisi for the second day and has not seen anyone from his entourage. Grigol Laghidze suddenly enters the cafe, greets everyone, but does not notice him. Galaktion is in such a mood that it seems he doesn't love Olya or anyone else anymore, he wants to die, but he knows he won't die yet because he has a lot to do. That's why he gets angry and "challenges the whole earth to a duel". He writes all these stories and moods in a letter and sends it to Olya along with three other letters.

Source: MGL, 24551-32; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 36.

Dating: We date according to the date of the postmark stamped in Kutaisi.

1916

Until December

He is standing in the foyer of the Kutaisi Theatre with Paolo Iashvili. As Davit Kebabze approaches them, he gives Paolo an ironic look and says, "Pavle, when you get drunk, where are your goblets?" This remark hints at the delay in the release of the second issue of the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi. Galaktion is not pleased with this comment.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-624, 6; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 181; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 139.

December

1916

December 11

The poem "My Madonna!" is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, with a facsimile "G. Tabidze" and the date "1910".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1916, №50, p. 8; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 49.

Note: The publication is accompanied by an editorial note: "This poem was received in 1910."

1916

Until December 15

The artist Vasiliy Krotkov visits the house of artist Teodor Chudetsky, where Galaktion Tabidze lives at that time, and draws a profile portrait of Galaktion on a large piece of paper, and then Theodore Chudetsky also begins to draw Galaktion's portrait.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; Galaktion Tabidze's December 15 letter to Olya Okujava; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37-38.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's December 15 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

Note: Teodor Chudetsky and Vasiliy Krotkov are mentioned in the source by their last names.

1916

Until December 15

He learns that Titsian Tabidze mentions him ironically in the letters sent to Kutaisi and feels that this will lead to the end of their relationship.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37-38.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's December 15 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

Until December 15

He has an unpleasant confrontation with Valerian Gaprindashvili and Paolo Iashvili. They say such hurtful things to each other that it will be difficult for them to get close again in the future, but Galaktion has no regrets.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37-38.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's December 15 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

December 15

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Moscow to his wife - Olya Okujava. He informs that he has no news yet, but he will let her know when things are finished. Life goes on normally, colourless and joyless. On December 23, there is a literary evening in the Kutaisi theatre, and they make it difficult for him to organize it. He reports that the matter of conscription is still uncertain, and he is afraid to turn up. He thinks that he has become nervous, and his life is quite bitter. He longs to be with Olya in Moscow. He asks her to take care and pray for him to win during the planned evening. He is sure that no one will bring flowers, but on that day Olya's dream will be with him and it will cheer him up. He believes that everyone in Kutaisi is hostile; He hopes to come to Moscow and live together in a nice room away from everyone.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37-38.

1916

December 16

The newspaper Chveni Megobari publishes an announcement that on Friday, December 23, a literary evening of Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the Kutaisi Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Chveni Megobari, December 16, 1916, №234, p. 3.

1916

December 21

The newspaper Samshoblo publishes an announcement that on Friday, December 23, a literary evening of Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the Kutaisi theatre, where the poet will read unpublished poems. The newspaper also reports that the artist Vasiliy Krotov painted a portrait of the poet.

Source: Newspaper Samshoblo, December 21, 1916, №238, p. 3.

Note: Vasiliy Krotkov is mentioned by his last name in the source.

1916

December 23

Galaktion Tabidze's evening is held in Kutaisi theatre. The event begins with a lecture by Alexandre Tsereteli. Three women in white robes, a woman with a Georgian viol in her hand and a poet in a felt cloak leaning on a white pillar are represented as a living image. Against the background of Georgian viol, Paolo Iashvili reads the poem "Mary" from the loge so loudly that the poem loses its tone. Leli Japaridze and Valerian Gaprindashvili read poems: "I and Night", "Aspens" and others. In the last section, Galaktion Tabidze reads his own poems. Sisters Ishkhneli sing his poems accompanied by a guitar. Society rewards the poet with warm applause.

Source: NN, "Galaktion Tabidze's evening", newspaper Chveni Megobari, December 25, 1916, №242, p. 3.

Note: The newspaper publication was likely written by Galaktion himself, as he used the pseudonym NN. Alexandre Tsereteli, Paolo Iashvili, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Leli Japaridze, and the Ishkhneli sisters—Nino, Tamar, Zinaida, and Alexandra – are all mentioned by their surnames in the source.

1916

December 25

The newspaper Chveni Megobari publishes information that on December 23, the traditional evening of Galaktion Tabidze was held in Kutaisi theater. It is mentioned that they thought that poet's name would be a guarantee of public respect and that many people would attend the interesting evening, but there were not those people in the theater who are verbally proud of the name of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: NN, "Galaktion Tabidze's evening", newspaper Chveni Megobari, December 25, 1916, №242, p. 3.

Note: It is likely that the newspaper publication was authored by Galaktion himself, as he used the pseudonym NN.

1916

December 25

In the second issue of the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi Grigol Robakidze's poem dedicated to "Prayer Sonnet" is published: "To new knights: V. Gaprindashvili, P. Iashvili, T. Tabidze, G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, 1916, №2, p. 15.

1916

December 23-28

He receives letters sent by Olya Okujava from Moscow. He tears up the letters he had prepared to send to her and writes a new, a reply letter. He informs that the evening was poor, no one came and he is ashamed. The issue of conscription into the army is also unclear. He writes that he will arrive in Moscow soon. He feels very bad in Kutaisi and is partying all the time.

Source: MGL, 24551-34; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 39.

Dating: We date according to the date of the evening and the dates printed on the postmark in Kutaisi.

1916

December 25-28

He writes a holiday card wishing Merry Christmas and Epiphany to Olya Okujava to be sent to Moscow.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 39.

Dating: We date according to the date of the evening and the dates printed on the postmark in Kutaisi.

1916

December 28

He writes a letter to send to Olya Okujava in Moscow. He announces his decision that when he arrives in Moscow, they must live together. He plans to buy some clothes for his "queen" before he leaves. He dreams of being with her and having a child. He wonders if it is possible to enrol in Shaniavsky University from January, without which he will not be granted the scholarship. He sends this letter to Moscow together with the two previously written letters.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 38; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 529.

1916

Until December 29

He receives Olya Okujava’s letter from Moscow to Kutaisi.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, MGL, 24551-35; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 39.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s December 29 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1916

December 29

He visits Olya Okujava’s parents to take Olya’s letter and Titsian’s photo. They give the letter, but they cannot find Titsian’s photo. On the spot, he learns that Olya’s brother - Mikheil and his wife Ekaterine Khalvashi have given birth to a child. He sees the newborn and congratulates the parents, but he cannot stay for long because the carriage is waiting for him. After leaving them, he describes the news and sends the letter to Olya.

Source: MGL, 24551-35; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 39.

Note: The matter concerns Givi Okujava, the son of Mikheil. In the letter, Ekaterine is referred to as “Katya”, Mary - as “Mania”, and Titsian as “Tite”.

Dating: We date according to the time indicated on the stamp in the Kutaisi post office.

1916

December

He lives in Kutaisi with the artist Theodore Chudetsky and meets Akaki Vasadze, who came to visit him and who is passionate about painting. Galaktion asks to make a sketch of him. The poet wears a black satin robe, a cape draped over his shoulders, and a black Belgian hat. Vasadze tries to draw him for twenty minutes, but he is convinced that drawing the infinitely moving face of the poet is beyond his abilities.

Source: MGL, 24551-37; Galaktion Tabidze’s December 15 letter to Olya Okujava; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37-38; A. Vasadze, With Life and Death, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 214;

For dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Olya Okujava, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 35-37.

Dating: From the letter written to Olya Okujava on December 15, 1916, it can be seen that at that time the poet lived with Theodore Chudetsky, but we do not know when he moved in with him. Therefore, we tentatively date it as December.

1916

December

He writes a poem “Four Seasons”, and the autograph is dated “Winter 1916”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. I, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 362.

1916

He writes a poem titled “The Ten Virgins”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №975; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 206.

Note: In the autograph, the original title of the poem was “From the Gospels”, which has been crossed out.

1916

He writes a poem “My heartfelt wish”.

Source: G. Liakhvispireli, Galaktion is One - Encounters in Tskhinvali, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 346.

1916

Inspired by the Book written in Nuskhuri script, which was gifted to him by a monk, he begins writing the poem “The Book of Peace”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze’s record, GTDA, №1435, p. 1-2.

Dating: The time is mentioned in Nodar Tabidze’s notes.

1916

End of year

He asks Konstantine Gamsakhurdia for assistance in arranging a position at the Kutaisi Noble Gymnasium. Gamsakhurdia intercedes with the gymnasium’s director, Petre Otskheli, and Silovan Khundadze. They are willing to admit Galaktion into the seventh grade without an exam, and Konstantine informs him of this, but Galaktion changes his mind.

Source: K. Gamsakhurdia, Our Galaktion, Mamukelashvili, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 421.

Dating: In the source, the fact is dated to 1916, but it is known from Konstantine Gamsakhurdia’s biography that he returned from Berlin only at the end of 1916.

1916 or later

He begins writing a four-act play titled “Mourning Seraphim”. According to the plan, the action is supposed to unfold according to the seasons, but he soon abandons the writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №536, p. 1-3.

Note: The titles “Wind,” “Legend,” “Angels and Children,” and “Blue Seraphim” are crossed out.

1916 or later

In the anthology “Changi” compiled by Mikheil Gachechiladze, under the section “Young Georgian Poets,” he reads the poems of Alexandre Abasheli and writes rhymes. He notes that in the three lines of “correcting mistakes,” ten mistakes have been made.

Source: MGL, t-241, anthology “Changi”, volume II, compiled by M. Gachechiladze, Tbilisi, 1916, p. 128, 553.

1916 or later

He reads Vladimir Nevsky’s poetry collection “Tbilisi” and writes a memory triggered by one of the poems. In the note in the book, it is mentioned that in 1915-1916, when Galaktion was conducting a census of the population, he was accompanied by a teacher named ZhorzhOlyani. He would search for marriageable women with dowries in every village. He carried a chest with a coat and a felt cape. He would go to see the woman with a matchmaker and several companions. The family would greet him grandly, and the groom would inspect the bride like a commodity. Upon departure, the matchmaker would inform the family that the groom had rejected the woman. Galaktion notes that this was terribly degrading commerce for the woman.

Source: MGL, t-361, “Тифлисъ”, сборникъ стихотворений Л. В. Невского, Tbilisi, 1885.

1916 or later

He begins writing a poem titled “Letters from Afar” (“All the splendour of this world has been in vain...”) but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №672.

Note: He attributes the name “Shalva” to the text. The fragment reveals a resemblance to the poem “Heart, what is happening to you?”.

After 1916

He writes a recollection about Tsisperkantselis: “Here, Ali Arsenishvili, in his sincere speech...”.

Source: MGL, d-629-210, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 312-314; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130.

After 1916

He writes a poem “The Era of Galaktion” (“In Georgia today, every poet...”).

Source: MGL, a-1825, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 385; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130.

1917

January

1917

January or earlier

In his native village, he receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom. Abesalom warns that they have been accused of evading military service. He advises that staying at home is not safe and suggests moving in with a relative. Additionally, he instructs that if asked, he should say that both brothers were discharged from the military due to health reasons.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, GTDA, №1262; p. 1-3.

1917

Until January 1

He writes an untitled poem "Mother of God, Queen Holy Mary..."

Source: Autograph, MGL, №36; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 72.

For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, January 1, 1917, №1, p. 4-5.

Note: The poem was published under the titles "Azure or rose in sand" and "Mother of God!".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1917

January 1

In the New Year's issue of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, the poem "Mother of God!" is published under the facsimile "G. Tabidze".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, January 1, 1917, №1, p. 7.

1917

January 2

Titsian Tabidze writes to Valerian Gaprindashvili from Moscow, expressing interest in how Galaktion Tabidze's evening on December 23 in Kutaisi went, about which he read a review in the newspaper Chveni Megobari. The publication states that it was an interesting evening, but in his opinion, apart from the guitar romances, it was both provincial and unacceptable.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 70; For clarification of information: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 116.

1917

January 11

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes the beginning of Akaki Papava's article "Extracts of the Year". The author notes that Aleksandre Shanshiashvili, who was carried away by writing poems, had a very good student in lyric poetry. Galaktion Tabidze decently processed this direction of new poetry and gave it an original look. He is a very remarkable poet, and his delicate works are characterized by great sincerity, gentle music and charming foreign melodies.

Source: A. Papava, "Extracts of the Year", Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, January 11, 1917, №768, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze and Akaki Papava are referred to by the initials of their first names and their surnames, Sandro Shanshiashvili – by his surname.

1917

January 12

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes the end of Akaki Papava's article "Extracts of the Year". The author notes that the poetry of Siko Pashalishvili, like the poetry of Galaktion Tabidze, is characterized by musical, powerful tones and mysterious feelings.

Source: A. Papava, "Extracts of the Year", Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, January 12, 1917, №769, p. 2.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Akaki Papava and Siko Pashalishvili are referred to by the initials of their names and their surnames.

1917

After January 17

Olya Okujava writes a preface for Galaktion's poetry Book in a literary-essay style in Russian.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 447-449.

Dating: The preface is discussed in Galaktion's letter dated January 17, 1917.

1917

January 24

In the newspaper Kutaiskiye Vesti, under the section "Pages of Georgian Literature," Galaktion's poem "Godmother!" is published in a Russian translation by Arkadi Belovolenko, titled "The Poet's Confession".

Source: Newspaper Kutaiskiye Vesti, January 24, 1916, №426, p. 3; Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, 209-211.

1917

Until January 29

He meets Igor Severyanin upon his arrival in Kutaisi, who makes a good impression on him.

Source: MGL, 24551-42; Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Olya Okujava, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 40.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's January 29 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1917

Until January 29

He unexpectedly encounters Olya's mother, Elizabeth Peremusheva-Okujava, who is very upset and scolds him for not writing letters to Olya.

Source: MGL, 24551-42; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 40.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's January 29 letter to Olya Okujava allows us to determine the timeframe.

1917

January 29

He sends a letter to Olya Okujava from Kutaisi to Moscow. He informs that he is going to publish the Russian translations of his poems as a book, and therefore Olya should write an introductory letter to him before that. He promises to notify the date of his departure to Moscow by telegram.

Source: MGL, 24551-42; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 40.

Dating: We date according to the date of the postmark of the letter.

1917

January 29

He sends another letter to Olya Okujava from Kutaisi to Moscow. He informs that his work is very messy, he is bored with everything, he could not do anything in terms of enlisting in the army, he did not even show up. According to him, he doesn't do anything because he doesn't even know if it is worth sacrificing himself for Georgians. He promises that if he solves the issue of the army, he will arrive in Moscow in triumph. He expresses his happiness about her finding a job and asks her to take care of herself.

Source: MGL, 24551-40; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 40.

Dating: We date according to the date of the postmark of the letter.

1917

January

He attends the performance of Tbilisi actors in the Kutaisi theatre and notices that the prompter Beglar Akhospireli, who always dictated to the actors very loud and deserved the anger of the audience, this time dictates in such a weak voice that the participants of the performance can hardly hear him. Galaktion thinks that Beglar has lost his voice from hunger and, despite not knowing him personally, decides to invite him to dinner after the performance. At 12'clock at night, they go from the theatre to the restaurant, where they order the best wine, cold drinks, ghomi, sulguni and barbecue. Beglar tells him that he also wanted to meet Galaktion, but because he was sometimes in Tbilisi, sometimes in Petrograd, Moscow and Kiev, he could not fulfil his wish. Since they started to talk about travelling, Beglar recites his own poem about a lost friend who wandered without a trace. After the feast, the tipsy come to a disagreement with the policeman, whose epaulet Beglar pulls off. Galaktion and his guest continue on their way, but when they pass by the police station, suddenly that policeman appears again from somewhere, arrests both of them and makes them spend the night in prison. In the morning, the same policeman draws up a protocol to present to the governor and temporarily releases the detainees. In the department of Gubernia, the protocol falls into the hands of someone Dadiani, who knows Galaktion from afar and does not want to arrest him. Instead of presenting this protocol to the governor, he hides it under a pile of papers to delay the matter. A week and a half later, the policeman informs the governor himself that such a report should be presented to him, and Dadiani is forced to reveal the hidden document. Galaktion and Beglar Akhospirelli are sentenced to prison, but Dadiani warns Galaktion in time that they will visit him at the apartment. That's why he moves in with his friend, the artist Theodore Chudetsky, and avoids going out into the street. Akhospireli is also hiding.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-150, 21-23; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 292-294; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 392.

Note: Beglar Aghaiani is referred to by the pseudonym "Akhospireli".

February

1917

February 27

He meets Olya Okujava's father, Stephan Okujava, and they greet each other warmly.

Source: MGL, 24551-41; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 40-41.

Dating: We date according to the postmark date of the postcard.

Note: Stepane Okujava is referred to as Olya's "papa".

1917

February 27

He sends a letter to Olya Okujava from Kutaisi to Moscow. He informs that he cannot come to Moscow yet, because things are going badly in Kutaisi. He is going to publish a Book and asks her to send manuscripts as soon as she receives the letter.

Source: MGL, 24551-41; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, 2008, p. 40-41.

Dating: We date according to the postmark date of the postcard.

1917

Until February 25

He lives in Kutaisi, together with the artist Teodor Chudetsky, in the house of Paolo Iashvili's father – Jibo Iashvili, and for inspiration there is a stone ornament on his desk taken from the ruins of the Bagrat temple. He is in a bad financial condition. If he earns money, he spends time in restaurants, and the next day he is in nightmares and complete hopelessness. He does not work, he has no connection with his family, because they have nothing and cannot help him in any way. Things are also going badly in the editorial offices.

Source: G. Tabidze, "One February Day in Kutaisi", G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 216-217; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 23.

Dating: The record indicates that this occurred before the February Revolution.

1917

February 25

With the onset of the bourgeois-democratic revolution in Russia, there is unrest in Kutaisi as well, and the police chief, Lavrenti Makharadze, who was supposed to arrest Galaktion, is himself detained.

Source: G. Tabidze, "One February Day in Kutaisi", G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 216-217.

Dating: The record indicates that this occurred on the day of the February Revolution.

1917

After February 25

He sends a letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, from Kutaisi. He apologizes for not being able to come to the village, because great things do not allow him to leave Kutaisi. He advises to be strong and cheerful, because the whole country is happy with freedom.

Source: MGL, 24551-4; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 492.

Dating: The letter is undated, but based on its mood, it must have been written after the February 25, 1917 revolution.

1917

February 26

He meets Olya Okujava's father, Stepane Okujava, in the street, and they have a warm conversation.

Source: Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/41; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 41.

Dating: From the letter sent to Olya Okujava on February 27, 1917, it is evident that this encounter took place the day before.

Note: Stepane Okujava is referred to with the Russian word "Papa".

1917

February 27

He sends a letter from Kutaisi to Olya Okujava in Moscow, stating that he is currently unable to travel to Moscow because things are not going well. He might need to publish a Book and may require sending the manuscripts left in Moscow. If that happens, he will inform her.

Source: Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, h-24551/41; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 41.

1917

Until February 28

Olya Okujava writes in her diary that she is searching for a fairy tale in life, but Galaktion cannot provide it. She is astonished at how a poet can be so naturally coarse, with letters that resemble a merchant's correspondence.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 439.

Dating: The diary entry is made before the entry dated February 28.

1917

February 28

In her diary, Olya Okujava, who is in Moscow, describes her enthusiastic participation with the revolutionaries. She recounts how she addressed the officers who joined the rebels with the Georgian words "Shen genatsvale" (Bless you), which she usually reserves only for her beloved, Galaktion.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 440-441.

March

1917

March 1

Romanoz Pantskhava sends a letter to Abesalom Tabidze, informing him that during the New Year, Galaktion told him there were rumours about his possible conscription into the army. He expresses his relief that this turned out to be untrue and adds that he will gladly pass Abesalom's stories on to the editorial board.

Source: Romanoz Pantskhava's letter to Abesalom Tabidze, GTDA, №1645, p. 1-2.

1917

March 13

He is in Kutaisi and is writing the poem "Flags, Quickly!".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3060; №6865; №6876; №6877; №7388; №6637-6638; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 18.

1917

March 14 or later

He paints a priest preaching the Gospel of Matthew, a priest with the inscription "Nikolai Nikolaevich" written in Russian over his heart.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 1; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 208-209.

Note: Nikolai Nikolaevich presumably refers to Nikolai Nikolaevich Romanov, the Viceroy of the Caucasus from 1915 to 1917.

1917

March 14 or later

In his notebook, he writes down the first stanza of Mikhail Lermontov's poem "I Wander Out Alone on the Road," in which the lyrical hero walks alone on a mist-shrouded rocky road. The night is silent, the desert listens to God, and the stars converse with one another.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

March 14 or later

In his notebook, he makes a graphic sketch of a man's full-face portrait and inscribes the name Arkady Belovolenko.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33; Information for dating and clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

March 14 or later

In his notebook, he writes from memory lines from Alexei Tolstoy's poem "John of Damascus" – "While I sleep in eternal slumber, my love does not die" — and mistakenly attributes them to Lermontov.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

March 14 or later

He sketches a man wearing a cap in profile twice.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 3, 4; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

March 14 or later

He sketches a square with a fence, a bench, and a tree, behind which the dome of a church is visible.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 5; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

March 14 or later

In his notebook, he writes in Russian that flowers should not be carried by someone who does not love them. Nearby, he sketches the face of a bearded man with large ears wearing a cap.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

March 19

Under the initiative of Galaktion Tabidze, an artists' meeting is convened in Kutaisi, where there is an artists' society, and the board of this society sends a greeting telegram to the temporary committee of the Russian State Council, which declared itself the governing body of the Russian Empire.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, March 26, 1917, №13, p. 16; Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, №827, p. 3.

1917

March 21

The newspaper Chveni Megobari publishes information that a meeting of Georgian artists was held in Kutaisi, in the Bank of Nobility, regarding what attitude artists should have to the new situation and how desirable it is to establish a community of Georgian artists. The organization bureau of the society was elected - Nino Chkheidze, Akaki Paghava, Jaju Jorjikia, Galaktion Tabidze, Kote Potsverashvili and Grigol Meskhi.

Source: Newspaper Chveni Megobari, March 21, 1917, №307, p. 4.

Note: Akaki Paghava, Jaju Jorjikia, Galaktion Tabidze, Kote Potsverashvili and Grigol Meskhi are mentioned in the source by the initials of their names and their surnames.

1917

March 23

The poem “Flags Quickly!” is published in the newly established newspaper Sotsial-Demokrati under the signature “Galaktion”.

Source: Newspaper Sotsial-Demokrati, March 23, 1917, №1, p. 3.

1917

March 24

He writes a poem “Nikoloz II”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 7388; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 19.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled: (“He was drunk with the sorrow of people”) and with the titles: “He was drunk with the sorrow of people” and “The royalty was overthrown”.

1917

March 25

The poem “Nikoloz II (Sonnet)” is published in the newspaper Sotsial-Demokrati under the signature “Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: Newspaper Sotsial-Demokrati, March 24, 1917, №3, p. 3.

1917

March 25

It’s Annunciation Day, and Olya Okujava is in Moscow, suffering from a cough and visiting a doctor, but the latter is not available. She feels lonely and eagerly awaits a letter from Galaktion or his arrival, but in vain. The streets of Moscow are filled with people celebrating the holidays. Olya goes into a movie theatre where the film “Lower the Curtain” is playing. She compares the young violinist in the film to Galaktion and empathizes with him.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 444-445; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 640.

Note: The film’s title is “Давайте занавес.”

1917

March 26

Olya Okujava learns from Titsian Tabidze that Galaktion is in Kutaisi and becomes very upset that he is not responding to her letters. In her diary, she hypothetically threatens him, saying that she will become an actress, play roles exceptionally well, and make him and others like him cry, laugh, and feel remorse as she pleases, taking revenge in this way. She accuses him of thinking only about his own affairs and calls him a careerist.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 446; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 640.

1917

March

From Kutaisi, he writes a letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. He asks for forgiveness for the delay in his visit. He explains that he has significant matters to attend to in Kutaisi and will come as soon as he has the opportunity. He writes that the entire country is rejoicing in freedom and that his mother should also be happy.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.4; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7-8.

April

1917

After April 5

In his notebook, he writes that Gigla Mebuke and Nikolo Mitsishvili collaborate with the newspaper Shroma, 'Irdi' publishes articles in the newspaper Samshoblo, and Arkady Belovolenko collaborates with the Russian newspaper Kutaiskie Vesti.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 7; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 34; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

Note: Nikolo Mitsishvili is referred to in the source by his real name and surname, Nik. Sirbiladze. It is unknown who wrote articles in the newspaper Samshoblo under the pseudonym 'Irdi'. Arkady Belovolenko is mentioned by his initials.

1917

After April 5

In his notebook, he writes the names of periodicals published in Kutaisi: Sotsial-Demokrati, Chveni Megobari, Samshoblo, Shroma, Khma Kartveli Kalisa, Golos Soldata, Pravdivoye Slovo, the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, and a list of institutions that existed at the time: Workers' Council, Executive Committee, Artists' Bureau, Soldiers' Council.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 7; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 34; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

Note: The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba is referred to in the source as Tskhovreba.

1917

After April 5

He works on a poem titled "Sleeping Chaos".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 35; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

Note: The poem is a variant of the poem "The Miracle," which was first published in 1919 in the collection "Grâne aux fleurs artistiques" ("The Skull with Artistic Flowers").

1917

Until April 27

Photographer Davit Mkheidze takes his photo leaning on the table with his elbow.

Source: Нацашвили С., Редкий снимок поэта, Вечерний Тбилиси, 1973, 17 авг. №192, p. 3.

Dating: The photo was likely taken before Galaktion's departure to Russia and his subsequent relocation to Tbilisi.

1917

Until April 27

He departs from Kutaisi to Moscow.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to mother, Makrine Adeishvili, N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 430.

Dating: From the letter sent to Makrine Adeishvili on April 30, 1917, it appears that he had been in Elizavetpol for the third day.

1917

April 28

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes an announcement that on May 1, a new Georgian socio-political and literary Social-Democratic newspaper Alioni will be launched, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate alongside other authors.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, April 28, 1917, №852, p. 1.

Note: The source presents a list of authors: "S. Abasheli, V. Burjanadze, D. Turdospireli, D. Likheli, V. Rukhadze, G. Tabidze, L. Kiacheli, K. Kavtaradze, P. Kavtaradze, N. Kartsivadze, G. Kuchishvili, Sh. Sharashidze (Taguna), Kr. Sharashidze, N. Chkhikvadze, S. Tchanturishvili, I. Japaridze, I. Kheladze, and others".

1917

Until April 29

He writes a list of periodicals and individuals to whom he plans to send letters before departing for Moscow. These include the editorial offices of the newspapers Sotsial-Demokrati, Ertoba, Chveni Kvekana, Alioni, and the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, as well as private individuals: Khariton Vardoshvili, Grigol Uratadze, Makrine Adeishvili, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Theodore Chudetsky, Kote Makashvili, and Ioseb Kakabadze.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 36; Information for dating and clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

Note: Khariton Vardoshvili, Grigol Uratadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Theodore Chudetsky, Kote Makashvili, and Ioseb Kakabadze are mentioned in the source by the initials of the first names and their surnames, while Makrine Adeishvili is referred to as "my mother".

1917

Until April 29

He writes an action plan and a list of items to purchase. He notes that he needs to find housing and send letters. He plans to visit the bathhouse and wants to buy shaving supplies, a shirt, several collars and cuffs, notebooks, a Book of epithets, several ties, shoes, galoshes, business cards, and a dining subscription.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 36; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

Until April 29

He drafts a telegram addressed to Olya Okujava, informing her that he is well, sending kisses, and requesting that nothing be sent in the name of Gaprindashvili.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 36; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

Until April 29

He writes in the notebook that when a Toastmaster is selected, the latter is notified one week in advance.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 36; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

Until April 29

In his notebook, he writes that when Edgar Poe was dying, a cat warmed his heart along with an old raincoat, while Verlaine died in an old hotel.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 36; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

Until April 29

In his notebook, he writes down details about the final days in the lives of Edgar Poe, Paul Verlaine, and Karl Marx.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 37; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 207-208.

1917

April 29

He participates in the evening dedicated to the 35th anniversary of Valerian Gunia's theatrical career.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, 1917 №849.

1917

End of April – Beginning of May

In his notebook, he sketches various abstract drawings and portraits.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-4, p. 10, 14, 15; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, 207-208.

1917

End of April – Beginning of May

He sends a letter to his mother – Makrine Adeishvili, from Elizavetpol, current Ganja. He informs that he left Kutaisi for a long time, but he got sick on the way and could not travel by train. It is the third day, he is in Elizavetpol and is going to leave for Moscow at night. There is great news in Moscow and he is very happy to go there. He promises that soon he will shake the whole earth with the thunder and destroy his enemies, because he is not a flippant man.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", p. 430.

1917

End of April – Beginning of May

While traveling by train toward Moscow, he sees numerous soldiers. The Cossacks apologize to the other soldiers for their participation in suppressing the 1905 uprising. The soldiers wear red insignias on their chests. There is a palpable sense of shared enthusiasm and mutual trust.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №461, p. 1.

1917

End of April – Beginning of May

He begins drafting a petition addressed to the Supervisory Committee and Board of the Kutaisi Nobility Land Bank, requesting a scholarship to support his journey to Moscow.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №461, p. 3.

Note: The purpose of the petition is not evident from the note, but in 1916-1917, Galaktion attempted to obtain funding from banks for his studies in Moscow.

May

1917

Until May

He begins writing an essay about Italian painters. Initially, he discusses Luigi Gali, a less-known 19th-century painter and a student of Karl Bryullov, whose two paintings were sold at the time for 18,000 francs.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №579, p. 1.

Dating: The poem written on the same page mentions the newspaper Samshoblo, which was published until May 1917.

1917

Until May

He writes a satirical poem titled "In Winter, Mud Never Leaves Our City...".

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №579, p. 1.

Dating: The poem mentions the newspaper Samshoblo, which was published until May 1917.

1917

Until May

He is writing a play featuring characters such as Ivane, his daughter Keto, a doorkeeper, and others.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №579, p. 2.

Dating: The poem written on the same page mentions the newspaper Samshoblo, which was published until May 1917.

1917

May 1

Under the editorial direction of Pavle Sakvarelidze, the new Georgian political and literary, social-democratic newspaper Alioni is published, featuring contributions from Sandro Abasheli, Varlam Burjanadze, Davit Turdospireli, Galaktion Tabidze, Leo Kiacheli, and others.

Source: Newspaper Alioni, May 01, 1917, №1, p. 1.

Note: The list of participating authors in the source includes: S. Abasheli, V. Burjanadze, D. Turdospireli, D. Likheli, V. Rukhadze, P. Rushaveli, Il. Rukhadze, N. Sakareli, G. Tabidze, L. Kiacheli, K. Kavtaradze, P. Kavtaradze, N. Kartsivadze, G. Kuchishvili, Sh. Sharashidze (Taguna), Kr. Sharashidze, N. Chkhikvadze, S. Chanturishvili, I. Japaridze, I. Kheladze, P. Ingorokva, M. Mgaloblishvili, D. Sharashidze, Sevdiani, Ap. Tsuladze, V. Malakiashvili, T. Ianeli, Alburioni, and others.

1917

After May 5

He writes an article in Russian titled “Akaki Tsereteli – The Great Georgian Poet”. The article presents Akaki’s personal and literary portrait. Galaktion emphasizes that Akaki was a truly national poet, surrounded by immense popular love throughout his life. He created a new literary language and, together with his like-minded peers – Ilia Chavchavadze, Giorgi Tsereteli, and others – played a significant role in the national liberation movement.

Source: MGL, d-643, 3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 136-137; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 603.

1917

May 10

Titsian Tabidze writes to Elene Bakradze that Galaktion Tabidze has arrived in Moscow and, as always, is telling bad news about Georgia.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 77.

1917

May 11

He attends a meeting organized by Maxim Gorky in the hall of the Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow, where he supports the creation of a free association for the development and dissemination of positive sciences. At this event, Galaktion meets Maxim Gorky for the first time.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-98, 132; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 296-297; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 650.

1917

May 20

A literary evening is held for the benefit of the Professional Union of Printing Workers, at which Varlam Khurodze gives a lecture on Georgian literature and places puts Noe Zomleteli, Varlam Rukhadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chhikvadze, Galaktion Tabidze and others in the first line, and Sandro Shanshiashvili, Ioseb Grishashvili and futurists in the second line.

Source: G. Bukistsikheli, newspaper Alioni, May 28, №3, p. 3.

Note: Varlam Khurodze, Varlam Rukhadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chkhikvishvili and Galaktion Tabidze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first names and their surnames, Sandro Shanshiashvili and Ioseb Grishashvili - with their surnames, "Bukistsikheli" – with the pseudonym.

1917

May 25

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes the announcement that in a short time the periodical artistic and literary magazine Amirani will be published in Tbilisi, and Galaktion Tabidze will be among the specially invited writers.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, May 25, 1917, №871, p. 2; May 31, №876, p. 2

Note: The source presents a list of authors: editors - Kote Makashvili, Ioseb Grishashvili, Kotsia Abashipireli. The following writers and artists are invited: S. Abasheli, K. Abashipireli, I. Grishashvili Special invitations will be sent to: A. Shanshiashvili, G. and T. Tabidze, Niko Lortkipanidze, and others".

1917

May or later

On the back of a postcard depicting Vicente de Paredes' painting "Byron and Shelley on Lake Geneva", he writes "Impromptu" ("Two seas met each other...") dedicated to Olya Okujava ("To OI-OI").

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 4035; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 21; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 455.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled ("Two seas met each other...") and titled "Two seas met each other".

1917

May or later

He visits Elene Kartvelishvili-Bakradze with Irakli Amirejibi, until midnight they sip cognac imported from Tbilisi, reminisce about the past and read poems. Then they say goodbye to the young, lively and educated housewife and go home. On the way, they stop at the Gogol monument and stare for a long time, because they both like it. At that time, a shot was heard from somewhere. Source: MGL, d-208, p. 23, 24. AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 335. For noting: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 168-170.

June

1917

June 8

Olya Okujava writes in her diary that she and Galaktion feel a sense of duty toward each other, which is why they are together.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 442.

Note: Galaktion’s name is not mentioned, but at this time, both he and Olya Okujava are in Moscow.

1917

After June 8

He recalls and writes down in his notebook the first written responses to his work. Mentioned are Ivane Gomarteli’s review of the poet’s first Book and the articles: Akaki Papava’s “Galaktion Tabidze’s Poems”, Ivane Kipiani’s “G. Tabidze’s Poems”, and Giorgi Chumburidze’s “Symbolism of Recent Years”. Galaktion notes that Akaki Papava considered his poems to be “a true expression of modernity”, while Ivane Kipiani largely echoed Ivane Gomarteli’s views, adding only that Galaktion had gone further than Nikoloz Baratashvili in his pessimism.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 443.

Dating: The entry was made in Olya Okujava’s writings after the June 8, 1917 entry.

1917

June 17

The newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli publishes an announcement that the Council of the Georgian Literary Writing Society and the Special Commission of Writers are inviting a congress of the Georgian Literary Writing Society in Tbilisi on Sunday, July 9. The bureau calls on the participants, including Galaktion Tabidze, to get invitations to attend the congress.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Purtseli, June 17, 1917, №891, p. 4.

Note: The poet is not in Georgia at this time.

1917

June 18

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a statement that on Sunday, July 9, at 12 o’clock in the hall of the new club, a meeting of Georgian writers will be held, and on behalf of the Council of the Georgian Literary Writing Society and the Special Commission of Writers, it asks the invited persons to pick up the invitations to attend the meeting on time. Galaktion Tabidze is also named in the list of invitees.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, June 18, 1917, №131, p. 4.

Note: “June 9” instead of “July 9” is written in the announcement, but the congress would not have published June 9 invitation on June 18, and this year “July 9” falls on a Sunday. Galaktion Tabidze could not participate in this congress because he was in Moscow and probably did not know about it.

1917

June 18

A free library-reading room named after Galaktion Tabidze is opened in Chkvishi.

Source: Ivane Tabidze’s letter to Galaktion Tabidze, MGL, 24551/445-a, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 252.

Dating: Ivane Tabidze’s letter sent to Galaktion Tabidze on June 19 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1917

After June 19

He receives a letter from his fellow villager, Ivane Tabidze. The letter mentions that on June 18, a free library-reading room was opened in their village, and everyone wished to name it after Galaktion. Ivane expresses regret that they could not inform him in advance. He writes that the reading room will operate independently, but the Society for the Spreading of Literacy Among Georgians has promised to provide support.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-445-a; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 253.

1917

June 21

He is in Moscow and at 10 o’clock in the evening he writes a poem with the title “Heart”, then crosses out the title and writes “Preludes”. Finally, he crosses it out as well and titles it “Swans, Roses”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №021371-41; №196; №1098; №5391; №6151; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 59.

Note: The poem can also be found in other editions without a title (“A distant woman’s enchantment...”) and with the titles: “She will come... but when?” and “Marie Antoinette”.

1917

Until July 11

He receives a letter sent by his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and brother – Abesalom Tabidze – from Chkvishi to Moscow.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter to Makrine Adeishvili and Abesalom Tabidze, N. Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 432.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's July 11 letter to Makrine Adeishvili and Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1917

July 11

He sends a letter from Moscow to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and brother – Abesalom Tabidze in Chkvishi. He informs that he is very well, he won't be able to participate in public life until November, because he is preparing the second Book and correcting his writings all day and night. He thinks that no one will dislike the content of the book, even though there will be few poems. He plans to publish the Book by January, even if it costs him his life, but he is keeping it a secret for now. He knows that everything will be resolved with the second book. He thinks that he won't be able to write such a Book again, but if they don't appreciate it, he won't be too upset about it either, the most important thing for him is to pay his debt to art.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 432.

1917

Until July 28

He has prepared many interesting historical studies and letters on art – sculpture, poetry, etc. In the museums of Moscow, he finds many materials to cover the past of Georgia. He reads many books that no one has used yet.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 432-433.

Dating: The July 28 letter of Galaktion Tabidze to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and brother - Abesalom Tabidze – allows us to determine the timeframe.

1917

Until July 28

Ivane Tabidze sends a letter to Galaktion's family to be sent to Galaktion, informing the poet that they could not get in touch with him and therefore they opened the reading room named after him without his consent. The Society for Spreading Literacy among Georgians has also pledged its support to this reading room. He asks for approval and support, as it is the decision of the people that the reading room should bear the name of Galaktion.

Source: MGL, 24551/445-a, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 252.

Dating: The letter reaches us without an envelope and the information conveyed in it is discussed in the July 28 letter sent by Galaktion to his family.

1917

July 28

He sends a letter from Moscow to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, and brother – Abesalom Tabidze. He apologizes that the letter is late, but it is not his fault, Moscow was in a fire of excitement and now has calmed down in anticipation of a terrible fate. He hopes that his Book will be published. He has material for many interesting letters and historical researches. He asks not to tell anyone about this, because he does not want anyone to know his intentions. It takes time to arrange everything and he will not be able to arrive in Georgia until June next year. By September, he plans to study French, German and English at university, but everything depends on how his second Book of poems is received. He informs that he learned about the opening of the reading room named after him from their letters and from the four Georgian newspapers that he receives: Sotsial-Democrati, Ertoba, Alioni, and Chveni Kvekana. He asks them not to embarrass him and not to close the reading room due to lack of funds, because they will not name the reading room after him for the second and third time. He wonders where Titsian Tabidze is and what he is doing, whom he is eagerly waiting for in Moscow.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 432-433.

Note: Titsian Tabidze is mentioned in the source by the name - Tite.

August

1917

August 20

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the melodrama "The gravedigger" written by Isak Khinveli based on the poem by Galaktion Tabidze in three live pictures.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, August 20, 1917, №33, p. 9-13.

Note: Isak Khinveli is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname.

September

October

1917

Until October 28

In Moscow, Olya Okujava makes a note in Galaktion Tabidze's notebook that she once visited him in Kutaisi. Blue curtains hung on the windows of the spacious room. Books were scattered on the writing table, with poems by Persian, French, Greek, Georgian, and other poets. There was a pen with an inkpot and a thick, green-covered notebook with newly written fantastic poems in Georgian.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 1-3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 23, 24; For noting: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 205-206.

Dating: We date this entry based on the next dated entry in the diary.

Note: It is possible that this text was intended for the preface of a collection of Galaktion's poems translated into Russian, which Olya was writing.

1917

Until October 28

He begins to write a novel titled Eva. The story takes place in Kutaisi. Near the ruins of Bagrati Cathedral, students from the Kutaisi Women's Gymnasium meet an elderly teacher who urges them never to forget their long-suffering homeland. He tells them that they don't truly know what it means to love their country, as this feeling has been taken from them. The teacher laments that his students are not prepared for the future. A young woman disagrees with him, quoting

Akaki Tsereteli's poem that the teacher himself had taught them: "I will fight against the world, lion-hearted... What will it give me, or what will it take, that my heart should break over it?" However, she is deeply troubled that she cannot speak Georgian fluently and cannot fully express herself in the language. The teacher curses those who have extinguished the fire in the youth's eyes. The text reflects on how the government stifles the talented youth and blocks access to education. All opportunities, it argues, are open only to renegades.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 1-3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 21-23.

Dating: We date the novel based on the next dated entry in the diary.

Note: The novel is unfinished, but later Galaktion uses this theme in his poem "Evening".

1917

October 28-29

He writes an untitled poem in Russian "Привет тебе мой давний гений" ("Greetings, my old genius").

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 24.

Dating: The entry is dated October 28 and 29.

1917

October 29 or later

In the notebook, he writes the unfinished line from the Siberian poet Dmitri Davidov's poem, which has been turned into a song: "Славное море, священный...", the title of the Marseillaise, and revolutionary calls heard from groups of people.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 24.

Dating: We date this entry based on the previous dated entry in the diary.

1917

After October 29

In the notebook, he writes excerpts from the stenographic notes of Rudolf Steiner's lecture "Basics of the Arts", delivered on October 23, 1909, along with Olya Okujava.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 8-12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 26-30.

Dating: We date this entry based on the previous dated entry in the diary.

1917

After October 29

In the notebook, he makes a note about Charles Baudelaire's funeral. The note states that Baudelaire died in the autumn. His body was laid to rest at the Mont-Parnasse Cemetery, in a grave that seemed to mirror the poet's life, which was as filled with melancholy as the autumn sky filled with sorrowful clouds. The burial was attended by two or three friends, a few relatives, and members of the press.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 15; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 31.

Dating: We date this entry based on the previous dated entry in the diary.

1917

After October 29

He writes the first stanza of the untitled poem "I wonder where such beauty grows" but does not complete it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 31.

Dating: We date this entry based on the previous dated entry in the diary.

1917

After October 29

He begins to work on a play with a fairy-tale plot and characters who are fairies, but he does not continue the work.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 19, 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 31, 32.

Dating: We date this entry based on the previous dated entry in the diary.

November

1917

November 28

Galaktion's grand evening is held at the Kutaisi Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Chemo Kvekana, 1917, №117; Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1917, №849; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 134.

1917

November

He writes a poem "A few days in Petrograd".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 151; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 435.

December

1917

He writes a poem "Statue of a woman".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 20; For dating: Magazine Mziuri Sakartvelo, 1920, №1, p. 13.

1918

January

1918

January 25

He begins his studies at the first five-month directing courses of the League of Amateur Actors in Moscow.

Source: The diploma of the first directing course of the League of Theatre Enthusiasts; MGL, №021373-2-h., p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 646.

1918

From January

There is terrible poverty in Russia, and it is difficult to make ends meet. In order to earn a living, Galaktion Tabidze works in the commission tasked with censusing the population of Moscow, and the extreme poverty of local residents makes a strong impression on him.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, №337-5-d; AE, XIX, p. 101.

Note: In 1918, the All-Russian Industrial and Demographic-Professional Census was conducted in the Moscow Governorate, as well as in the entire Russian Federation, which ended on August 31.

1918

From January

He writes a poem “How the bells fought against the bells” under the impression of the misery seen in different districts of Moscow during the population census.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 114; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 435.

February

1918

February 27

He attends the election of the King of Poets in the Great Hall of the Moscow Polytechnic Museum and congratulates Igor Severyanin, the winner of the competition.

Source: N. Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 561.

Annotation of persons: Igor Severyanin (1887-1941) - Russian poet of the “Silver Age”.

1918

January-February

He writes a poem “The winter gardens are covered with whiteness”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6553; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 77.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The winter gardens are covered with snow”.

Dating: As the title of the poem in this autograph is “The winter gardens of the Palace are covered with whiteness”, it must have been written during the poet’s stay in St. Petersburg, that is, in January-February 1918.

1918

January-February

He writes an untitled poem in the country house in Tsarskoe Selo near St. Petersburg (“A sleigh is dashing in the snow...”). As the title, he first writes a phrase: “Meeting the wind in the deaf distance”, then the word “In the snow”, but crosses it out the latter.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №312; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 22; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 448.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Etching”.

1918

January-February

On the blank spaces of advertising leaflets from a commercial house in Petersburg, he writes 322 rhymed lines.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №575, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 627.

1918

February

The magazine Aisi organizes the “Rhymes Tournament”, in which the poems of 15 Georgian poets participate and publishes distinguished, author’s rhymes. Rhymes are selected from Galaktion Tabidze’s poems: “Asoebi – Sasoebit” and “Silashi Vardi – Silazhvarde”.

Source: Magazine Aisi, February 1918, №1, p. 14.

Note: The following poets participated in the rhymes tournament: Valerian Gaprindashvili, Gvetadze Razhden, I. Grishashvili, Dariani Elene, Iashvili Paolo, Karmeli Shalva, Leonidze G., Lado Matchavariani, Megrelishvili G., Nadiradze Kollau, Robakidze Grigol, Tabidze Galaktion, Tabidze Tite, Tsetskhladze Grigol, Japaridze Leli”. The editor of the magazine was Lado Matchavariani, and the rhymes were selected from Galaktion’s poems “Art” and “Azure or a rose in sand”.

March

1918

March 7

At dusk, he paints a flower vase in water-colour in a twelve-page notebook with Olya Okujava. Underneath, they write in Russian that the artists are Oli and Galli and indicate the time.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 50; Olya Okujava’s diary, 24, p. 4.

1918

After March 31

He writes a poem “A broken off balcony”, which is an echo of the occupation of Batumi by the Ottomans.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 108; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 436.

April

1918

After April 17

The monthly Russian-language magazine of art and literature Ars publishes Grigol Robakidze's article "Georgian Modernism", in which it is mentioned that in 1915, young beginner poets: Paolo Iashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, Valerian Gaprindashvili and Leli Japaridze revitalized Kutaisi by establishing a new literary movement. He writes that their support pillar became "the modernist style of experiencing life in the realization of the artistic word". Robakidze notes that Galaktion Tabidze left this group of modernists later, but he left the group and not symbolism, because his separation from symbolism is impossible without "creative suicide". The article states that "Blue Horses" is one of the great poems in Georgian poetry, completely symbolic. According to the critic, this poem is influenced by the famous Russian Symbolist - Konstantine Balmont but is in no way inferior to him.

Source: Гр. Робакидзе, Грузинский модернизм, magazine ARS, 1918, №1, p. 46-51.

Note: The matter concerns Balmont's poem "Созвучия".

Dating: The magazine's timeline ends on April 17.

1918

April

He writes a poem "Your smile (excerpt from the album)".

Source: Magazine Ligeia, 1918, №а, p. 1.

June

1918

Until June 1

In a notebook, he drafts an invitation card in Russian for attending a Georgian evening performance organized by Galaktion Tabidze at the hall of the Georgian Society in Moscow on Saturday, June 1.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 22; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33.

Dating: The perpetual calendar allows us to determine that June 1 was a Saturday in 1918.

1918

Until June 1

He is preparing a Georgian evening performance at the hall of the Georgian Society in Moscow.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-3, p. 22; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33.

Dating: The perpetual calendar allows us to determine that June 1 was a Saturday in 1918.

1918

Until June 1

He paints a fox sitting on the upper step of a staircase, turned sideways, and writes in Georgian beside it: “Tite Tabidze”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-3, p. 23; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 33.

Dating: The perpetual calendar allows us to determine that June 1 was a Saturday in 1918.

1918

Until June 14

He lives in the Georgian community of Moscow, in the 18th apartment of 29 Povarskaya Street.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1256, p. 1-2 r.v; N. Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 486-487; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 270.

1918

Until June 14

The postal connection between Georgia and Russia is interrupted. Galaktion, who is in Moscow, looks at the newspapers every day to at least find out what is happening in his homeland, but the information is very little, and even what is there does not seem to him to be reliable. He is especially worried about whether the enemy has reached his village or whether his brother Abesalom has been drafted into the army.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1256, p. 1-2 r.v;

Dating: The letter sent by Galaktion Tabidze to his mother on June 14, 1918, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1918

Until June 14

While in Moscow, he works in the Commissariat of Justice and, despite the high costs, he earns enough for a living.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1256,1-2 r.v;

Dating: The letter sent by Galaktion Tabidze to his mother on June 14, 1918, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1918

Until June 14

Being in Moscow he hears about the victory of the Ottomans and is afraid of the invasion of the Turks in Georgia. If he leaves Russia due to political unrest, he may not reach home. That’s why he thinks to stay there for a few months and return to Georgia before autumn.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1-2r.v; MGL, № 337-5-d; AE, XIX, p. 101; N. Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 486-487.

Dating: The letter sent by Galaktion Tabidze to his mother on June 14, 1918, allows us to determine the timeframe.

1918

June 14

He sends a letter from Moscow to his mother – Makrine Adeishvili, in the village of Chkvishi, through his acquaintance. He writes that he has had a lot of trouble during his stay in Russia, but now he is fine. He knows that his mother and her relatives in Georgia will not be happy, but he hopes that they will get through all this peacefully. He writes that due to the political situation, he cannot send letters home and cannot receive news about the country or his family. About a thousand Georgians have come to Moscow, who sell alcohol, get rich and behave so unworthy that they embarrass others. He asks his mother to inform him about her and Abesalom by telegram as soon as she receives the letter. It is true that a telegram can also be late, but it is more reliable than a letter. He writes that “this storm will pass”, the situation will change, with the help of God and the family, everyone will survive and be happy.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1256, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 271.

1918

June 25

He finishes the first five-month directing courses established by the League of Amateur Actors of Moscow and receives a certificate, stating the passing of the following subjects: directing, stage arrangement and architecture, history of behaviour and dress style, theory and practice of grime, history of theatre, history of artistic reading and diction, and organization of public theatres.

Source: The diploma of the first directing course of the League of Theatre Enthusiasts; MGL, №021373-2-h.

Note: His lecturers on the courses were: Nikoloz Aksagarsky, Yevgeny Kamzolkin, D.E. Garina-Vindgina, an actress of the People’s Theatre, Vladimir Filippov, actor O. V. Rakhmaninov and teacher Chetyrkina.

1918

June

In Moscow, he reads Niko Marr’s “History of Georgia”, published in Russian, and makes highlights throughout the text.

Source: MGL, t-637, “Къ Грузинскому Вопросу”, Проф. Н. Марръ, “История Грузии” (Культурно-исторический набросокъ), Saint-Petersburg, 1906.

Dating: According to the inscription in the book: “G. Tabidze, Moscow, 1918, June”.

July

1918

July 2

He participates in the “Literary Morning” organized by the Georgian Artistic-Literary Circle of Moscow at the “Grotesque” Theatre.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, 1968, p. 137.

1918

July 4

He goes to the opening of the Fifth Congress of All-Russian Soviets in the Great Theatre in Moscow in a terrible rain. There is such a torrent near the exhibition hall “Manezh” that Galaktion Tabidze takes off his shoes, hangs them on his back and continues walking in water up to his knees.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-626-1, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 250.

Dating: We date according to the opening time of the Fifth Congress.

1918

July 6

He goes to the Academic Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow to attend the session of the Fifth Congress of All-Russian Soviets, but the congress does not take place. The Left Socialist-Revolutionaries, in order to provoke a war with Germany, kill their ambassador to Russia, Count Wilhelm Mirbach. The leader of the Left Socialist-Revolutionaries, Maria Spiridonova, climbs on the chair and announces that they will all be arrested. She and her supporters sing revolutionary songs. The theatre is surrounded by five circles of Red Army men, but Galaktion passes freely.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-626-1, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 250.

Dating: We date according to the time of Wilhelm Mirbach’s murder.

1918

After July 6

Moscow society organizes a grand farewell evening, at which Vladimir Alexi-Meskhishvili delivers a speech.

Source: Autobiography 20, d-659-20; AE, XXIII, p. 459.

Dating: As far as we know, on July 6, 1918, Galaktion Tabidze was still in Moscow, and this evening was held before his departure, it must have happened after July 6.

1918

Until Mid-July

Together with Vladimir Alexi-Meskhishvili, he wants to publish a Georgian newspaper in Moscow, but the Armenian owner of the printing press, who is a member of the Dashnak Party, refuses on the pretext of not having a Georgian font.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-438. AE, XX, p. 130; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 24.

1918

Until Mid-July

In Moscow, at a cinema on Tverskaya Street, a beautiful unknown woman sits next to him. When the lights go down in the theatre, she grabs Galaktion’s hand and holds it for a long time. The poet imagines this woman as Théophile Gautier’s character Madeleine de Maupin, as Eve, or as the “Unknown Woman” in Alexander Blok’s poem. When he tells his cousin Titsian Tabidze about the encounter, his cousin cools his romantic feelings with the comment that the woman might have been a prostitute.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-223, p. 14-15; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 431, 432; For dating: We date it based on the time spent in Moscow in 1918.

1918

Mid-July or later

He travels from Moscow to Odessa together with newly released Georgian prisoners on their way from Germany to Georgia.

Source: Autobiography 20, d-659-20; AE, XXIII, p. 459; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 436-437.

1918

Mid-July or later

The echelon in which Galaktion Tabidze is traveling from Moscow to Georgia with the newly freed Georgian prisoners faces terrible difficulties on the way, and at the station of the German-occupied city of Nezhin, they witness how Haydamaks shoot wounded partisans.

Source: Autobiography 21, d-659-21; AE, XXIII, p. 481; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 436-437.

1918

July 19

He returns to Georgia.

Source: G. Tabidze's archive, p. 4316; I. Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", 1968, p. 140.

1918

July 22 or earlier

He writes a poem "At the sea" ("On the sea I will cast a fateful net..."), dedicated to N. Chartoriavska and Zina daughter of Odoevsk. Then he changes the title and writes a new one – "A sailing ship".

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 4316; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 131; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 439.

Note: The poem can be found in various sources also without a title ("On the sea I will cast a fateful net...") and with the titles: "Ars Vivendi" and "The flag of poetry is waving there".

1918

July 22 or earlier

He sails from Odessa to Georgia on the ship "Daland".

Source: G. Tabidze, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919, p. 112; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 154; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 439-440.

Note: The name of the ship is not indicated in the source, but it is known from the poem “Ship “Daland”.

1918

After July 22

He writes a poem “Ship “Daland”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 154.

1918

24 July or earlier

He arrives to Batumi on the ship “Daland”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-659-21. AE, XXIII, p. 481; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 439.

1918

24 July

In Batumi, he writes an untitled poem “There is no end to the midday heat...”.

Source: MGL, 4321, 6434; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 138; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 439.

Note: The poem can be found in different editions under the title: “Afternoon Dilligence”.

August

1918

After August 3

The literary supplement Ligeia of the newspaper Shroma is released, on the first page of which Galaktion’s poem “Your smile (excerpt from the album)” is published.

Source: Magazine Ligeia, 1918, №a, p. 1.

For dating: Ligeia is a supplement to the newspaper Shroma, and since Shroma started to be published on August 3, 1918, it is natural that its supplement would come out later.

October

1918

Until October 1

He returns to Tbilisi.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1918, №209-210, p. 1; ibid., №211-213, p. 4.

1918

October 1-5

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement that on Saturday, October 5, in the hall of the conservatory at 8 Griboedov street, in Tbilisi, Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry evening will be held, tickets can be purchased at the bookstore of the Society for Spreading Literacy.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1918, №209-210, p. 1; ibid., №211-213, p. 4;

Note: A total of 5 announcements were published in the lower right corner of the newspaper announcements page.

1918

Until October 5

He lives in the hotel “Prima” in Tbilisi, at dawn a policeman knocks on his door, who is tasked with organizing a search, because there is a rumour in the city that a “Bolshevik” has arrived from Russia, although he knows that Galaktion is a poet. He looks through the manuscripts in Galaktion’s suitcases and reads Galaktion’s poem “The return” for a long time. He asks what the “The ship “Daland” is and what the name of Lenin should mean in this poem.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-213, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 373-374; For dating: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 176-178.

1918

Until October 5

He writes a poem “Snow” (“I love purple snow...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919, p. 17; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 61; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 448.

1918

October 5

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement in the “News” section that today, October 5, at 8 o’clock in the evening, in the hall of the conservatory at 8 Griboedov Street, Tbilisi, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held, during which many new poems of the poet will be read, speeches will be delivered, etc. It is noted that tickets can be purchased at the conservatory.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1918, №213, p. 2.

Note: The second announcement is placed in the same issue of the newspaper as well.

1918

October 5

Galaktion Tabidze’s evening is held, which consists of two sections. In the first section, Grigol Robakidze, Vakhtang Kotetishvili, Titsian Tabidze and Ali Arsenishvili will speak about his work. In the second section, Galaktion Tabidze reads the poems “Blue Horses”, “Snow”, “The moon of Mtatsminda”, “A rose in sand...”, and others in a peculiar manner. After that, the following poets read their poems: Titsian Tabidze, Grigol Robakidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Grigol Tsetskhladze and Leli Japaridze.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, October 8, 1918, №352, p. 3; P. Nishnianidze, From Galaktion’s Life, Tbilisi, 1964, p. 32.

Note: The participants of the evening are: “Gr. Robakidze, V. Kotetishvili, Al. Arsenishvili, Gal. Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tsetskhladze, L. Japaridze”.

1918

October 5

At his own evening event held in the Conservatory's Hall, he meets the poet and playwright Archil Korinteli.

Source: A. Korinteli, "One Recollection of a Great Poet", newspaper Akhali Komunisti, 1973, №115, p. 3.

1918

October 7

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a critical review of the Galaktion Tabidze's evening held in the conservatory hall. The author of the article notes that the evening started an hour and a half late with the "Eastern tradition" and it was more of a "Tsisperi Kantsebi's evening", as the rest of the speakers, except for Galaktion, Giorgi Kuchishvili and Vakhtang Kotetishvili, demonstrated the poetry of the "Tsisperi Kantsebi". He writes that Ali Arsenishvili, Titsian Tabidze and Vakhtang Kotetishvili tried to clarify and describe the essence of Galaktion's poetry, but they could not even show the greatness of the motives buried in his poetry and they could not say anything new, because they were wandering around the thoughts of Ivane Gomarteli. Ali Arsenishvili's speech was boring because he confused the listeners by mentioning some party-membership. Grigol Robakidze's short speech was more significant, in which he talked about the poet's "Meskhuri look" and diligently linked the "fragments of healthy culture" woven into his poetry. At the evening, Galaktion's "friends and kinship" with the "Tsisper Kantselebi" were noted, who unfortunately have had one big flaw - a mania for glorification, however, according to the author of the letter, the difference between them is more than the similarity. The author believes that Titsian Tabidze is right in this regard, who called Galaktion "A Knight of the Order of Solitude". According to the author of the review, Galaktion and Nikoloz Baratashvili are related to loneliness, and he does not agree with Vakhtang Kotetishvili, who denies this. He notes that Galaktion's last poem is the pearl of Georgian poetry, and "Blue Horses" is the masterpiece of his youthful creativity. At the evening, it was also said that despite the many shortcomings of the event, the new poems of Galaktion Tabidze and other speakers recover this shortcoming.

Source: M., "Galaktion Tabidze's evening", newspaper Ertoba, October 07, 1918, №215, p. 3.

Note: The author of the article is unknown, the pseudonym "M" of the author of the letter has not been revealed. The participants of the evening are: G. Kuchishvili, V. Kotetishvili, Al. Arsenishvili, N. B., Gr. Robakidze, Galaktion Tabidze, G. Tabidze. "The last poem" probably refers to the poem "Snow" ("I love purple snow..."), which the poet read on the same evening.

1918

October 8

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement in the "Theatre and Art" column that Galaktion Tabidze's evening was held in the conservatory hall in Tbilisi.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, October 8, 1918, №352, p. 3.

Note: The participants of the evening are: "Gr. Robakidze, V. Kotetishvili, Al. Arsenishvili, Gal. Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tsetskhladze, L. Japaridze".

1918

After October 28

He begins writing an untitled poem: “In a fierce assault launched...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №396; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 468.

1918

After October 28

He writes the title “The Pessimism of the German Press,” but does not proceed to write the text.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №396; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 468.

1918

After October 28

He writes a poem “At the Security Commission Session” (“Many Belgiums, Chiles, Canadas...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №396; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 468.

November

1918

November 10

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes Grigol Robakidze’s letter “Sonnet in Georgia”, at the end of which it is mentioned that the sonnets of Titsian and Galaktion Tabidze before the publication of the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, i.e. before 1916, were not classical sonnets and, according to Grigol Robakidze, the authors themselves are aware of this.

Source: Gr. Robakidze, “Sonnet in Georgia”, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1918, №214, p. 3.

1918

Until November 11

In his notebook, he notes a statement by an unnamed critic, who remarks that today’s society is more interested in the latest news about the war than in a monumental novel about contemporary life. The critic suggests that it feels as if nothing has been written in our country except Vazha’s poems – neither poetry, nor prose, nor criticism, nor drama.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №278.

Dating: According to the content, World War I should not have been concluded.

December

1918

Until December 19

At the invitation of Noe Zhordania, Galaktion Tabidze is appointed as the Secretary of the Government of the Republic of Georgia.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, “Chronology”, 1918, №243, p. 3.

1918

December 19

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a notice that Galaktion Tabidze has been invited as the secretary of the government of the Republic of Georgia, who has already started to fulfil his duties.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, “Chronology”, 1918, №243, p. 3.

1918

December

He meets Kote Ratishvili (Ksnispireli) and frequently visits him at his home on Orjonikidze Street in Tbilisi. He reads his own poems to Ratishvili and shows interest in his work.

Source: G. Mebuke, records about Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 74.

1918

December

He, along with Olya Okujava, attends an evening of Kote Ratishvili’s work organized at the Railwaymen’s Club. He reads his poems “Mary” and “I and the Night”. The event ends late, so he escorts his wife home and then goes alone to the dinner organized by the hosts.

Source: G. Mebuke, records about Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 1982, p. 74.

1918

The poem “Your Smile” is published in the magazine Ligeia under the signature “Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: Magazine Ligeia 1918, №a, p. 1.

1918

He writes an untitled poem “With cold, black flashing eyes...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №874; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 23.

Note: The poem was published under the title “Revolver”.

1918

He writes a poem “A letter to friends”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 24; For dating: works in twelve volumes, vol. 2, p. 313.

1919

The poem “Blue Horses” is published in the collection “Anthology of New Poetry”.

Source: “Anthology of New Poetry”, Kutaisi, 1919, p. 17.

1918

He writes an untitled poem “Swimming in the sea like a chip...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №677; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 202.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Swimming in the sea like a chip”.

1918

He writes a poem “A ship”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №401; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 238.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The Land Appeared”.

1918 or later

He underlines passages from the introduction “The Art of the Poet” and lines from poems in Valery Bryusov’s Book “Experiments in Metrics and Rhythmics, Euphony and Sound Harmony, Strophic and Forms”. Next to the poem “Реет тень,” he writes the titles of his own poems: “Peach Blossoms” and “Mary”. Next to the poem “Лесные Тропинки,” he writes a passage of his poems. He numbers 24 lines in the poem “Треугольник” and adds the note: “Oh, it’s high time”.

Source: MGL, т-350, В. Брюсов, Опыты по метрике и ритмике, по евфонии и созвучиям, по строфике и формам, Moscow, 1918, p. 97, 105, 160.

1919

January

1919

January 23

As the Secretary of the Government of the Democratic Republic of Georgia, he confirms with his signature the extract made from the journal of the session of the Government of the Democratic Republic of Georgia about the issue of the temporary currency of Transcaucasia - Bon.

Source: <https://archive.gov.ge/ge/galaktioni-1> <https://archive.gov.ge/ge/galaktioni-1>

Note: Transcaucasia bon was a temporary banknote before the introduction of Georgian, Armenian and Azerbaijani banknotes.

1919

January 29

Since morning, he has been waiting for Anastasia Tsitsishvili to get the government palace pass, but in vain. Later, he sends a letter, asks the reason for her absence and adds that the addressee does not even need a ticket, because the guards “bewitched” by her will let her in anyway.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 26082-1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, p. 60-61; For identification of persons: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 334.

February

1919

February 20

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes an announcement that on Sunday, February 23, an artistic and literary evening will be held in the Georgian club for the benefit of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, and Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1919, №39, p. 4.

Note: According to the review published in the same newspaper on February 27, Galaktion did not participate in the evening.

March

1919

March 2

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a notice that from the middle of March, the monthly magazine Teatri da Musika will be published in Kutaisi, with which Galaktion Tabidze will collaborate with other authors.

Source: Art Chronology, newspaper Sakartvelo, 1919, №48, p. 2.

1919

March 17.

He visits Simon Chkheidze in Kutaisi and writes a folk poem in the album: “Bring it in and out, pretending to be a viol...”.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Soul is Purer than the Azure Sky”, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 141.

1919

March 18

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a statement that it is intended to organize a “tent of poets”, which will be led by Galaktion Tabidze, Razhden Gogokhia and Simon Gachechiladze. The tent will have an academic character and will not belong to any literary school.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №482, p. 3.

Note: Simon Gachechiladze is referred to by the pseudonym “Tseveli”.

1919

March 18

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a statement that on Monday, March 24, the traditional evening of Ioseb Grishashvili will be held in the State Theatre, in the third part – “Family of Poets” – of which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with others.

Source: Art Chronology, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1919, №60, p. 2.

Note: It is mentioned in the text that the following will participate in the third section: “Ov. Tumanian, K. Makashvili, G. Tabidze, S. Abasheli, V. Rukhadze, Marijan, Taguna and Grishashvili”.

1919

March 24

At the traditional evening held by Ioseb Grishashvili in the State Theatre, he reads his own poems and after the event, together with other participants, makes a commemorative signature on the reverse of the evening’s program.

Source: Damtsre (Ioseb Grishashvili), “Grishashvili’s Evening”, Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №490, p. 3; Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Collection “Saistorio Moambe” (Historical Review), 1993/1994; №65-66, p. 159.

1919

March 27

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a notice that on Saturday, March 29, a literary and musical evening will be held in the theatre hall of the post office for the benefit of the library and reading room of the post and telegraph employees. Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants.

Source: News, Newspaper Ertoba, 1919, №69, p. 2.

Note: The statement mentions that the following will participate in the evening: “D. Oniashvili (lecture), G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, Kh. Vardoshvili, I. Mtchedlishvili, Knari, Tsetskhladze, itinerant musician I. Kurkhuli, singer choir under the leadership of Ch. Kurtishvili, and others”.

1919

March 28

The newspaper Sakartvelo announces that the Book of the poet Galaktion Tabidze is being printed and will be published soon.

Source: Art Chronology, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1919, №69, p. 2.

Annotation of persons: Galaktion Tabidze.

1919

Until March 30

He writes a poem “Autumn in the Fathers’ Monastery of “Immaculate Conception””.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 53; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 455.

Note: The Fathers’ Monastery of Immaculate Conception is located on the coast of the Black Sea, near New Athos.

1919

March 30

Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Autumn in the Fathers’ Monastery of “Immaculate Conception” is published in the magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli.

Source: Magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli, April 1919, №1, p. 3 (The magazine is without pagination); For dating: Newspaper Sakartvelo, March 30, 1919, №70, p. 3.

Dating: It can be seen from the March 30 issue of the newspaper Sakartvelo that the magazine has already been published.

1919

March 30

The magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli publishes information that the second Book of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems is being published.

Source: Magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli, April 1919, №1, In The End, the inside of the cover; For dating: Newspaper Sakartvelo, March 30, 1919, №70, p. 3.

Dating: It can be seen from the March 30 issue of the newspaper Sakartvelo that the magazine has already been published.

1919

March 30

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes the announcement that the magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli has been published. Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned among the published authors.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, March 30, 1919, №70, p. 3.

Note: The statement mentions that the following participate in the magazine: “G. Tabidze, G. Leonidze, R. Gvetadze, Sh. Karmeli, L. Matchavariani, R. Gogokhia, Gr. Tsetskhladze, K. Ebralidze, G. Megrelishvili, Sh. Londeli, Liena Lani, and others”.

1919

March

He writes a small play: “Theatres” (Polemics of the director, Hamlet and Ophelia).

Source: “Theatres”, magazine Teatri da Musika, 1919, №1, p. 19-20.

Dating: Date is indicated in first publication.

1919

March

A short play by Galaktion Tabidze: “Theatres” (Polemics of the director, Hamlet and Ophelia) is published in the magazine Teatri da Musika.

Source: “Theatres”, magazine Teatri da Musika, 1919, №1, p. 19-20.

1919

After March

He translates Valery Bryusov’s poem “To Comrade to Intellectuals” untitled (“Yesterday, on your head again...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book II, 2005, p. 361; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 441.

1919

After March

On the page, he writes an approximate phrase from Valery Bryusov’s poem “To Comrade Intellectuals” and a Georgian translation of a quote by Lev Trotsky about the vulgar language of some writer.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №102; For clarification of information and dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 441.

Note: The writer’s last name and work are not mentioned.

April

1919

April 1

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme reports that the magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli has been published. Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned among the published authors.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №494, p. 3.

Note: G. Tabidze, G. Leonidze, R. Gvetadze, Sh. Karmeli, L. Matchavariani, R. Gogokhia, Gr. Tsetskhladze, K. Ebralidze, G. Megrelishvili, Sh. Lordeli, Liena Lani.

1919

April 10

The newspaper Chveni Kvekana publishes Vasil Gorgadze's review of the first issue of the magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli with the author paying special attention to Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Autumn in the Fathers' Monastery of "Immaculate Conception".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, Options and notes, p. 305-306; Newspaper Chveni Kvekana, 1919, №62.

1919

April 11

In the newspaper Chveni Kvekana, a review of the first issue of the magazine Tolabulisis Sartkeli is published under the pseudonym "Marinetti". Regarding Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Autumn in the Fathers' Monastery of "Immaculate Conception", the author notes that the date "1917" is likely incorrect, as the poem appears to have been written just a couple of months earlier.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, Options and notes, p. 305-306; Newspaper Chveni Kvekana, 1919, № 63.

1919

April 12

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a statement that on April 17, Titsian Tabidze's evening will be held in the hall of the conservatory. Galaktion Tabidze is named among the participants.

Source: Art Chronology, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1919, №81, p. 2.

Note: The statement mentions that the following will participate in the evening: "... Geronti Kikodze... Grigol Robakidze, Paolo Iashvili, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Ilia Zhdanevich, G. Tabidze, Leli Japaridze, Shalva Amirejibi, Kolau Nadiradze, Sandro Kancheli, Shota Dadiani, G. Leonidze, N. Mitsishvili, Kara-Dervish, Sergey Raphaelovich, D. Kopali, Alexandre Chachikashvili, and others".

1919

April 13

Olya Okujava performs her role exceptionally well in the school's production, and when praised, she remembers Galaktion and longs for his visit to Moscow.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 463.

1919

April 18

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes an announcement that the next, fourth issue of Teatri da Tskhovreba magazine will be published on Easter, and in this issue, Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Clouds with Golden Amurs" is included.

Source: Art Chronology, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1919, №86, p. 2.

1919

April 13

The teachers are very impressed with Olya Okujava's performance on stage. Olya is worried because Easter is just a week away, and Galaktion is not by her side.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 463.

1919

April 20

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a photo of Galaktion with the inscription: "Poet Galaktion Tabidze" and the poem "Clouds with Golden Amurs".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1919, Sunday, April 20, №4, p. 9.

1919

Until April 25

Lado Gudiashvili paints "Galaktion Tabidze's Portrait" in oil.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, №87, p. 1; For clarification of information: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206-207.

May

1919

May 4

An exhibition titled "Contemporary Georgian Painting and Sculpture" opens at the Temple of Glory, featuring Lado Gudiashvili's painting "Galaktion Tabidze's Portrait".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, №95, p. 1; For clarification of information: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206-207.

1919

May 9

In the newspaper Sakartvelo, Grigol Robakidze's article "Exhibition of Paintings by Georgian Artists" is published. The writer gives high praise to Lado Gudiashvili's work but believes that Gudiashvili is weak as a portraitist. He states that his portraits of Galaktion Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, and Paolo Iashvili leave less of an impression.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, №99, p. 2, 3; For clarification of information: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206-207.

1919

May 11

Vladimir Bakradze’s article under the title “Our Symbolists” is published in the “Critical Notes” section, in which he sharply criticizes the Tsisperkantselis, and separates Galaktion Tabidze from them. The author writes: “Along with Robakidze’s lame and pretentious poems, you will encounter such an artistic masterpiece as, for example, Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “The moon of Mtatsminda”, he quotes one line from the poem and emotionally adds “Here is where real poetry is! More than that, real music”. According to the critic, despite the fact that Galaktion also moves in the circle of Tsisperkantselis, thanks to his natural talent, poetic temperament, artistic tact, aesthetic taste and sense of moderation, he initially avoids their influence, remains free and individual.

Source: News, Newspaper Ertoba, 1919, №102, p. 4.

1919

Until May 24

Inspired by Edgar Poe’s poetry, he writes a poem “Conversation about Edgar”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7390; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 58.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “A very tender manuscript”.

Source: G. Tabidze, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919, p. 19; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 63.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem “March taken by branches during the wind”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8832; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 64.

Note: The poem was also published under the title “Reconciliation”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Poet in the crowd”.

Source: G. Tabidze, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919, p. 21; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 65.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Shadow of leaves”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Pirimze”.

Source: G. Tabidze, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919, p. 22; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 66.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “VOILES”.

Source: G. Tabidze, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919, p. 23; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 67.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Gradation”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 71.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “With hidden pains”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Autumn fragment”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 74.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “A raven”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 76.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Bell tower in the desert”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 78.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Heart".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 79.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem "Follow the stairs - where the Sphinx hides behind the stones...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5389; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 80.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Pink Steps", "Marmalilo" and "Marble".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Clouds with Golden Amurs".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 83.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Clouds inhabited by golden Amurs".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Georgian viols".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 84.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem "To the crazy mountain streams...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6442-6448; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 86.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles "Ancient Ornament" and "Evening".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem "A blur horse flew me over clefts...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2689; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 88.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Who is this woman?”

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Death from the moon”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 89.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Death due to the moon”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “About veils and violies”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 91.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Contrasts”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 5386; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 93.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Parallel”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “The rustling of the curtains”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 94.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Our century”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 96.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Shadows of the past”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Tapestry”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 99.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Naked”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 100.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “The memory of the diseased”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 101.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “A fairy tale”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 102.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Orchids”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 103.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Mourning seraphim”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 104.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Under the marble”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “In expectation of bad weather”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 105.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “In expectation of bad weather”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Non-return”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 107.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Her eyes remained open”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 112.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “I.A”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 116.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Old age”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 117.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

Inspired by Edgar Poe’s poetry, he writes a poem “For the third time Edgar”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 118.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “You and the demon”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 119.

Note: The poem can also be found without a title “Evening, I know, you will enter the garden from the church...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “New population”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 120.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “June has passed”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 121.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Aragvi”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 122.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “For four-string lute”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №2556; №8190; №2558; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 123.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The house at the edge of the forest”, and in one autograph it is untitled “Even now it is in front of my eyes...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Saying good-bye”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 124.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “A toast to you”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 126.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “You are thirteen years old”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 127.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem titled “By the boulder”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 128.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “A candle” (“In the light of the night, in the dust, in the moon...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 130.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Guardian sails”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 131.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Comfort”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 132.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “From the pool”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 133.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Dream to set off”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 28897-50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 134.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Getting ready to set off”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “A strange palace”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 135.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Estate" ("If I didn't walk barefoot on the dewy grass, what is the estate...").

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 137.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Grieving about you".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 138.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "You at least one".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 139.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem "It has gotten dark. I will go there...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5539; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 140.

Note: The poem is published under the title "Dreams".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem "Dear, dear! Fate is killing my body...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5539; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 141.

Note: The poem is published under the title "I will come".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem "As a prayer - the evening falls on the slopes of the mountain...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5539; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 142.

Note: In the author's only publication during his lifetime, the poem is title "For Prayer".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem “Forgive, forgive, forgive the sinful...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5539; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 143.

Note: The poem can be found in the sources under the titles “Miracle” and “Forgive Lucifer”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes an untitled poem “The black gysher of Asia’s scattered hair...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, № 5388; № 6140; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 144.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Time”, “Arrows in the wind”, “Flying with Pegasus” and “Prologue”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “Lying down”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 145.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “St. Giorgi”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 7385; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 146.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Old Mill”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “The sound of gunfire in the mountains”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 147.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “From an old notebook ”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 149.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Sunset".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 150.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Hands".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 153.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Return".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №28897-50, p. 167; №6477-6480; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 155.

Note: One of the autographs is untitled.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Fear".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №178; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 159.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem "Domino".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 163.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

Galaktion Tabidze's second collection, titled "Gräne aux fleurs artistiques" (artistic flowers) is published in Tbilisi, in which 86 poems written by the poet in 1914-1919 are published: "Autumn in the Fathers' Monastery of "Immaculate Conception"", "Blue horses", "The angel was holding a long piece of parchment", "Conversation about Edgar", "Marie Antoinette", "Snow", "A very tender manuscript", "Reconciliation", "Poet in the Crowd", "Pirimze", "Voiles", "Mary" ("You were getting married that night, Mary!...", "Poplars in the snow", "Gradation", "Azure or a rose in sand", "Autumn Fragment", "A raven", "The winter gardens are covered with snow", "Bell tower in the desert", "Heart", "Marble", "Peach flowers", "Clouds with golden amurs", "Georgian viols”, “Evening”, “Who is this woman?”, “Death from the moon”, “It”, “About veils and violies”, “Aspen”, “Parallel”, “The rustling of the curtains”, “Our century”, “The moon of Mtatsminda”, “Tapestry”, “Naked”, “The memory of the deceased”, “A fairy tale”, “Orchids”, “Mourning seraphim”, “In expectation of bad weather”, “Non-return”, “A broken off balcony”, “Akaki’s ghost”, “Her eyes remained open”, “How the bells fought against the bells”, “I.A”., Old age”, “For the third time Edgar”, “You and the demon”, “New population”, “June has passed”, “Aragvi”, “House at the edge of the forest”, “Saying good-bye”, “Primitive”, “A toast to you”, “You are thirteen years old”, “At the boulder”, “Late dream”, “A candle”, “Guardian sails”, “Comfort”, “From the pool”, “Getting ready to set off”, “A strange palace”, “Estate”, “Grieving about you”, “You at least one”, “Dreams”, “I will come”, “For prayer”, “To the miracle”, “Time”, “Lying down”, “St. Giorgi”, “The sound of gunfire in the mountain”, “From an old notebook”, “Sunset”, “A few days in Petrograd”, “Hands”, “Ship “Daland””, “Return to Georgia”, “While on the road”, “Fear of Cholera”, “Domino”.

Source: Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919.

Dating: In the magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli there is information that this Book has been printed, and the announcement about the release of this issue of the magazine was published in the May 24 issue of the newspaper Ertoba.

1919

Until May 24

He writes a poem “An angel with a parchment”.

Source: MGL, 7389; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 57; For dating: Magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli, 1919, №2, May, p. 3.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “An angel holding a long parchment” and “Farewell”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

Until May 24

Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “An angel with a parchment” is published in the magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli.

Source: Magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli, 1919, №2, p. 1. (The magazine is without pagination).

Dating: An announcement about the publication of the second issue of the magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli was printed in the newspaper Ertoba in the issue of May 24, 1919.

1919

Until May 24

The magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli publishes the notice that the second Book of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems: “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919)” has been released and is on sale.

Source: Magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli, 1919, №2, the inside (back) of the cover.

Dating: An announcement about the publication of the second issue of the magazine Tolabulis Sartkeli was printed in the newspaper Ertoba in the issue of May 24, 1919.

1919

After May 24

He makes Russian word-for-word translations of his poems “Autumn in the Monastery of the Innocent Conception,” “Blue Horses,” and “The Angel Held a Long Parchment...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №70, p. 1-3; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, I. Ghadua, G. Kalandadze, “Dating by Analysis of Facsimiles”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132-140.

Dating: Here is the title of the poem “Conversation about Edgar,” and we date it based on the time of its writing.

1919

May 25

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement that the Tbilisi District Board of the Union of Post-Telegraph Employees of Georgia will hold a big festive family evening-cabaret, in which the following figures will take part: Vano Sarajishvili, itinerant musician Iliko Kurkhuli and poets: Ioseb Grishashvili, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Marijani, Galaktion Tabidze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №535, p. 1.

1919

May 26

In the newspaper “Georgian Republic”, Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “The Return” (“Have you seen the colour of a dimmed plum...”) is published for the first time.

Source: G. Tabidze, return, newspaper Sakrtvelos Respublika, May 26, 1919, №114.

June

1919

June 4

The exhibition of Georgian artists, which featured Lado Gudiashvili’s painting “Galaktion Tabidze’s Portrait”, comes to a close.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, №115, p. 2; For clarification of information: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206-207.

1919

June 11

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a notice that a big literary evening will be held in the People’s House today, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part along with others.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №546, p. 3.

Note: The statement mentions that the following figures will participate in the evening: “Chairman of the Founding Assembly Aleksandre Lomtadidze, Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Simon Tseveli, Noe Chkhikvadze, Khariton Vardoshvili, I. Barveli, Gr. Tsetskhladze, Lyre... Niko Gotsiridze”.

1919

June 11

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement in the “News” section that today a literary evening will be held in the Public House, in the second part of which poems will be read by Galaktion Tabidze and other poets.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1919, №126, p. 1.

Note: It is mentioned in the statement that the following figures will participate in the evening: “Chairman of the Founding Assembly Aleksandre Lomtadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Noe Chkhikvadze, Khariton Vardoshvili, Gr. Tsetskhladze, Knari, Simon Tseveli, and others... Niko Gotsiridze, Iliko Kurkhuli, I. Barveli will read the poems of “Taguna”.

1919

After June 11

Terenti Graneli and Archil Korinteli run into Galaktion Tabidze on Pushkin Street, and Korinteli invites both poets to his home. Galaktion is captivated by the blooming flowers in the host’s yard and can’t take his eyes off them. During the conversation at the table, Galaktion learns that Valerian Gaprindashvili, Irakli Kancheli, Archil Korinteli, and Terenti Graneli had planned to publish an illustrated literary magazine. They had rented the Artisans’ Club on Plekhanov Avenue and planned to Repository the endeavor by organizing evening concerts, even selling tickets – but no one came. Galaktion sympathizes with their situation and promises to help. He tells them that he, along with Giorgi Kuchishvili, will hold an evening event at the Zubalashvili People’s House and will contribute financially from the proceeds. The mood lifts, and everyone feels better. Galaktion then requests a guitar and begins to sing melodies based on poems he had written on the theme of flowers.

Source: A. Korinteli, One Recollection about Great Poet, newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, 1973, №115, p. 3.

1919

June 13

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a notice that the editors have received the collection of Galaktion Tabidze: “Cräne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919)”, which is beautifully decorated, contains 126 pages and costs 25 roubles.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №548, p. 3.

1919

June 13

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a notice in its news section that on Saturday, June 14, in the Avlabari club located at number 1 of Kakheti Street, the collective of the Social Democratic Workers’ Party of Georgia will hold a big evening to reinforce the Repository for cultural purposes. Ivane Gomarteli will make a report on the modern situation, Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili will read poems in the literary section. The third act from the play “Matiko” and the play “Unfortunate Debut” will be presented. The choir will sing, there will be dinner, Sazanda, mail and auction.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, June 13, 1919, №128, p. 3.

1919

June 14

In the “News” section of the newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, an event will be held in the tea-room “Brotherly Comfort” today for the benefit of the Tbilisi Committee of Socialist-Federalists of Georgia. The orchestra will play in the morning, and in the evening, poems will be read by poets: Siko Pashalishvili, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, Titsian Tabidze, Galaktion Tabidze, Leli Japaridze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №549, p. 3.

1919

June 16 or after

To support the magazine Kronosis Sarke, a creative evening event is organized. With Galaktion Tabidze’s help, the organizers rent the hall of the People’s House. Posters announcing the literary-musical evening are printed and displayed prominently around the city. Half an hour before the event begins, even standing-room-only tickets are sold out at the box office. Galaktion is the first to take the stage, greeted with ovations and shouts of “Long live Galaktion!” and “Glory to our Galaktion!” He reads his poems in his characteristic style, captivating the audience. Giorgi Kuchishvili also performs successfully, and the audience asks the Giorgi Maisuradze choir to repeat their musical numbers several times. The evening is a grand success.

Source: A. Korinteli, One Recollection about Great Poet, newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, 1973, №115, p. 3.

1919

June 8-17

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement that the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems will be sold in the treasury department of the Government Palace and in the editorial offices of the newspapers Ertoba and Sakartvelos Respublika.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1919, №125, p. 2-3; ibid., №126, 127, 129, 130, 131, p. 1.

1919

Until June 18

Sandro Tsirekidze’s collection “Anthology of New Poetry” published in Kutaisi includes three poems by Galaktion Tabidze: “I and Night”, “Blue Horses” and “Mother of God”.

Source: “Anthology of New Poetry”, 1919, Kutaisi, Publisher Kirchkhivi; For dating: Newspaper Ertoba, June 18, 1919, №128, p. 4.

Dating: The information was printed in the June 18, 1919 issue of the newspaper Ertoba.

1919

June 22

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a statement that Meskheti-Javakheti Day will be held in the Georgian club today, and a big open-air celebrations and concert are planned in the evening. Poems will be read by: Paolo Iashvili, Leli Japaridze, Galaktion Tabidze, and Shalva Sharashidze.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №556, p. 1.

Note: Shalva Sharashidze is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym “Taguna”.

1919

June 28

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes the statement of the Support Committee for the families of Ortachala Guardsmen, that in the summer club of Ortachala workers, on Sunday, June 29, at 5 o'clock in the evening, a big open-air celebrations and evening will be held for the benefit of the families of the frontline guardsmen, the entertainment of the third part of which will be performed by Galaktion Tabidze and other poets.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №561, p. 3.

Note: The statement mentions that the following figures will participate in entertainment: “V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, S. Oboli-Musha, I. Grishashvili, G. Shinatekheli, Saatashvili, Kh. Vardoshvili, G. Tsetskhladze, Ap. Tsuladze, N. Gotsiridze, R. Salakaia, I. Kurkhuli.

1919

June 29

The newspaper Ertoba publishes the statement of the Ortachala Guardsmen’s Support Committee that today, at 5:00 p.m. in the Ortachala summer workers’ club, a big open-air celebrations and evening will be held for the benefit of the families of the frontline guardsmen, the entertainment of the third part of which will be performed by Galaktion Tabidze and other poets.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, June 29, 1919, №142, p. 4.

Note: The statement mentions that the following figures will participate in entertainment: “V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, S. Oboli-Musha, I. Grishashvili, G. Shinatekheli, Saatashvili, Kh. Vardoshvili, G. Tsetskhladze, Ap. Tsuladze, N. Gotsiridze, R. Salakaia, I. Kurkhuli.

1919

June or later

Together with Grigol Tsetskhladze, Nikolo Mitsishvili, Sergo Kldiashvili, Lado Matchavariani, Ivane Kipiani, and Alexandre Lordeli, he is at the home of Davit Mebuki. The group has already had quite a bit to drink when the toastmaster proposes a toast to Mitsishvili. Galaktion raises his glass and praises Nikolo as an extraordinarily talented, wonderful, and incomparable poet. Mitsishvili, however, interprets the excessive praise as sarcasm, since he had only recently begun publishing poetry after primarily writing short stories. Annoyed, Nikolo angrily tells Galaktion that no one needs his flattery, and he’d prefer Galaktion to speak the truth and say what he really thinks. This response infuriates the already inebriated Galaktion, who responds harshly, saying that he wouldn’t speak the truth to a man like Mitsishvili. If he wanted to speak truthfully, he would find an honest man. As an example of such a person, he points to Alexandre Lordeli, who is also present. The heated exchange escalates, and both Galaktion and Mitsishvili move toward each other, ready to fight, but their fellow guests manage to intervene and separate them before the situation gets worse.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, “Recollections about Galaktion”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 407-425.

July

1919

July 9

In the “Bibliography” section of the newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, Raud Gogokhia’s review is published regarding the second Book of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems: “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919)”. The critic writes that Galaktion Tabidze’s second Book is the most important event in new Georgian poetry. It is a “straightening up”, masterpiece of modern Georgian lyric and its author is a great talent. However, he compares this Book with the first volume of Galaktion’s poems and concludes that the simplicity of the content of the first Book prevents Galaktion from being recognized as a giant. He believes that the work of the poet is so different that he did not have an ancestor, and “Baudelaire’s raw opium and Galaktion’s wine” emerged from different soil, because he will never be able to tolerate the “decay” of Galaktion’s spiritual purity. The critic especially notes the high “technique” of Galaktion’s poem. At the end, Raud Gogokhia expresses his heartache that the Book has not been published in series. He hates the cover and the paper, and he also doesn’t like that the title and the name of the author of the Book are repeated on every page.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №570, p. 3-4.

1919

July 15

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a portrait of Galaktion with the inscription: “Poet Galaktion Tabidze, due to the publication of the second volume of his poems”.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1919, Sunday, June 15, №7, p. 9.

1919

July or earlier

He writes a poem “Bridge ‘Rialto’ over the mountain river”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 25; For dating: magazine Smaragdi, 1919, №1, July, p. 3.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1919

July

The magazine Smaragdi publishes Vasil Gorgadze's review of Galaktion Tabidze's second book: "Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919)". The author writes that appreciation of Galaktion Tabidze as a poet and artist is a matter of the future. The author of the article believes that the latest Georgian poetry is in search of new ways, and Galaktion's work testifies that the new poetry has in a way reached its goal and will soon be firmly established on the national soil. According to the critic, all works of art should be characterized by eternal novelty, without which the work loses its value, so he avoids talking about the "unfinished profiles" appearing on the "unfinished space of poetry" in order not to repeat the mistakes of those critics who saw the giants of future poetry in the creative works of Grishashvili, Shanshiashvili, Mtchedlishvili, Rukhadze and Kuchishvili. Vasil Gorgadze writes that some poets are obsessed with journalism, they use poetry for prose, and after Rustaveli, Georgian poetry deviated from the poetic path, and new poetry is an attempt to renew this path. The critic notes that Galaktion Tabidze's Book is a big step forward in new poetry, he uses a line by Andrey Bely to describe Galaktion's poetry and writes that in this book, Galaktion appears as a talented artist, whose artistic prism magically gathers the spirit "broken into the colors of the rainbow" and that Galaktion's work is multi-stringed and is free. The critic points out that the Book contains selected poems written in 1914 and earlier: "Blue Horses", "Mary", "Azure or a rose in the sand" and "The moon of Mtatsminda". In his opinion, among the new poems, the following ones are worth mentioning: "How the bells fought the bells", "Autumn in the Fathers' Monastery of "Immaculate Conception" and "A few days in Petrograd". The critic notes that in the first verse of the named poems there is "Verhaeren's lifting up of the proud head and the iron wings of a powerful dream", "the hardness of bronze and the wetness of the swamp". The critic notes that it is impossible to say more in the bibliographic letter and promises the reader to get to know Galaktion Tabidze's poetry and improve his poetic portrait in the future.

Source: V. G. "Crâne aux fleurs artistiques". Gal. Tabidze, magazine Smaragdi, №1, p. 11-12.

Note: In the publication, the French title of Galaktion's Book is given incorrectly.

Note: Vaso Gorgadze is mentioned in the publication with the initials "V. C".

1919

July

The magazine Smaragdi publishes a notice in the "Artistic Chronology" column that the second issue of Lado Matchavariani's magazine Aisi will be published in Tbilisi in August, in which Galaktion Tabidze's poems will be printed.

Source: Magazine Smaragdi, №1, p. 12.

Note: The publication mentions that the following figures will participate in the magazine: "Gr. Tsetskhladze, I. Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Vaso Gorgadze, Ak. Berekashvili, Raud Gogokhia, Shalva Karmeli, Lado Matchavariani, and others".

1919

July

The magazine Smaragdi publishes the poem "Bridge 'Rialto' over the mountain river".

Source: Magazine Smaragdi, №1, p. 3.

Note: The magazine opens with a poem by Galaktion. In the table of contents, Galaktion's name is written in full: Galaktion Tabidze, while at the top of the publication – abbreviated: Gal. Tabidze.

August

1919

August 8

Olya Okujava is receiving treatment at a sanatorium near Moscow and writes farewell words to her loved ones in her diary. She asks Galaktion to honour her memory by erecting a poetic monument – a lasting tribute in the form of a poem.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 462.

1919

August 20

In her diary, Olya Okujava addresses Galaktion directly, accusing him of using his poems like flowers to attract people's hearts.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 454.

1919

August 24 –27

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that all bookstores sell a new Book – the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze's poems (1914-1919). The price of the Book is 25 roubles. Those who want it will be sent to the province, for which they should contact the editorial office of Ertoba.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, August 24, 1919, №189, p. 1; ibid., №190, August 26, p. 1; ibid., № 191, August 27, p. 1.

Note: The issue 190 of the newspaper is mistakenly written as Tuesday, August 24. This issue of the newspaper was released on August 26.

1919

August 28

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes 6 poems from Galaktion Tabidze's latest Book "Crane aux fleurs artistiques": "The moon of Mtatsminda", "Snow", "Peach Flowers", "Naked", "Death from the moon", "You at least one".

Source: "Galaktion Tabidze's poems from his Book "Crane aux fleurs", Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, № 612, p. 3.

1919

August 28

The newspaper Ertoba publishes two poems from his new Book "Crane aux fleurs" under the title "Poems of Galaktion Tabidze": "Her eyes remained open" and "A few days in Petrograd".

Source: “Galaktion Tabidze’s poems from his Book “Crane aux fleurs”; Newspaper Ertoba, 1919, № 192, p. 2.

1919

August 29

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that all bookstores sell a new Book – the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems (1914-1919). The price of the Book is 25 roubles. Those who want it will be sent to the province, for which they should contact the editorial office of Ertoba.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, August 29, 1919, № 193, p. 1.

1919

August 29

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement in the “News” section that today, Friday, August 29, a concert of Professor Henry Broji, a report by Akaki Papava on art and an evening of poetry will be held in the workshop club, in which: Siko Pashalishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili will take part.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, № 612, p. 3.

Note: The evening was postponed due to heavy rain.

1919

August 31

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a statement in the “News” column that the concert of Henry Broji, Akaki Papava’s report on art and the evening of poetry with the participation of Siko Pashalishvili, Galaktion Tabidze and Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, which were supposed to be held in the workshop club on August 29, have been postponed to September 3.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №615, p. 3.

1919

Summer or later

At Tbilisi Station Square, he is preparing to travel to Telavi by the Kakheti train when he accidentally meets Ioseb Pantskhava, newly returned from Moscow, along with a friend. They persuade Galaktion to change his plans and not go to Kakheti. Instead, they first invite him to the “Moscow” restaurant located in Kharpukhi, and then take him to the sulphur baths, which Galaktion visits for the first time.

Source: S. Pantskhava, Galaktion, newspaper Alaznis Gantiadi, December 07, 1982, №144, p. 4.

1919

Galaktion Tabidze’s wife - Olya Okujava, injured her right hand while participating in ‘Subbotnik’. This causes blood poisoning and, although she refuses amputation and keeps her hand, she has no sensation in it and cannot move it.

Source: Ioseb Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 51.

September

1919

September 3

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement in the “News” section that the concert of Professor Enrico Broji and poetry evening will be held today. Akaki Papava will give a speech: “Talking about art”. Poems will be read by poets: Galaktion Tabidze, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, Siko Pashalishvili, Giorgi Leonidze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №618, p. 3.

Note: The source states the following participants among others: Galaktion Tabidze, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, Siko Pashalishvili, Giorgi Leonidze, S. Guruli, R. Gabunia, G. Tsetskhladze, Vaso Gorgadze, Marijani, and others. Participants in the concert: Enrico Broji, Akopashvili, Valeri Jvaridze, Vanin, Volini, Buti, Meskhishvili-Serdanikovisa.

1919

September 16-25

An announcement is published in the newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, according to which, on September 16-25, literary mornings and evenings with the participation of Galaktion Tabidze will be held in Khashuri, Kutaisi, Khoni, Samtredia, Akhal-Senaki and Ozurgeti.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №618, p. 3.

1919

August-September

Olya Okujava is undergoing treatment at a sanatorium located in the silver-fir forest park of the Moscow region.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 453.

October

1919

October 8

Olya Okujava is ill, thinking about death, and in her diary, she addresses Galaktion, asking him to build her a monument by writing a poem in her memory.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 462.

1919

October 23

Olya Okujava’s script is considered the best in her course by her teachers. Upon returning home, she writes in her diary, addressing Galaktion, expressing her longing to be by his side, as even joy feels dull without him.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 463.

1919

October 26

He is in Kutaisi, and in the evening, he feels the desire to look over Kutaisi from Arkieli Hill. After climbing the hill with Simon Chkheidze, he returns to his family, where after dinner he makes a record of their eternal friendship in the family album.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Soul is Purer than the Azure Sky”, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 142.

1919

October

In the magazine Shvidi Mnatobi a review of Galaktion Tabidze’s Book ““Crâne aux fleurs artistiques”. Poems. Book Two. (1914-1919)” is published under the pseudonym of “V. Ch”.. The critic points out that despite the recent changes in the life of mankind, which inevitably put a limit between the old and the new, Georgian poets could not sense these changes, and Georgia does not have a “modern” poet. He writes that Galaktion Tabidze’s new collection, based on the title and epigraphs, tells us about the “white swans” and “blue birds” of the past, which have already become history. He believes that Galaktion Tabidze is “famous for the melancholy of a solitary soul”, that he is “always full of memories” and does not want to change the existing. A critic examines Galaktion’s poems “Blue Horses” and “An angel is holding a long parchment” and notes that although “the dream and the romance have been shattered” and Galaktion says goodbye to them, he is unable to “turn away and forget them”. The author writes that Galaktion is “a pure romanticist”. In his poetry, modernism and its latest superstructures are covered in the colours of new romanticism. Even his futurism is highly romantic”. A critic believes that Galaktion’s element is a “deeply personal feeling” and that this is both his strength and his weakness. He writes that the poet’s main problem is that he cannot understand modern life, he evaluates the revolution and its stages from the position of “obivatel” (Philistine), which “physically blocked the author’s course of life”. To illustrate this point, the critic examines the poems: “How the bells fought the bells”, “The ship “Daland”, “A few days in Petrograd”. V. Ch. writes that the poet describes nature with the same “melancholy feeling”, although he notes that when describing nature, he “breaks the shackles of the narrow school” and uncovers images imprinted with the spirit of true poetry, such as “Peach flowers”, “Poplars”, “The moon of Mtatsminda”. He criticizes the poem “Clouds with golden amurs”, believes that such poems “stir turbid water” in the wine of poetry, and not including them in the collection would raise his dignity. He believes that the calls: “Georgia, you are a debtor” cannot attract the attention of the hungry population, the market is silent, and other ways of advertising poetry should be sought. The critic points out that the collection contains 128 pages and contains 86 poems written in the last 5 years, that the Book is not published in a good way and unfortunately the proofreading is lame, which is intolerable for a collection of poems. However, he notes that for those who follow Georgian poetry, it is necessary to purchase this collection.

Source: V. Ch. “Criticism and Bibliography”: “Galaktion Tabidze: “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques” poems; Book II, (1914-1919)”, magazine Shvidi Mnatobi, Tbilisi, 1919, №2, October, p. 451-454.

Note: Some attribute the pseudonym “V. Ch”. to Vladimir Chkhaidze and others to Vasil Chkhenkeli.

November

1919

Until November 9

Valeriane Jvarsheishvili creates a romance on Galaktion's poem "Mary" and performs it himself at various meetings. Galaktion Tabidze rudely hears the musician's long and difficult to pronounce name and surname and advises him to use a pseudonym. Ioseb Imedashvili offers an abbreviated form – "Valeri Javaridze" and presents the young composer under this pseudonym in his magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

Source: Valeriane Jvarsheishvili's recollection; N. Agiashvili, personal, Tbilisi, 1986, p. 142; For dating: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, November 09, 1919, №12, p. 8.

Dating: This pseudonym appears for the first time in the November 9, 1919 issue of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba.

1919

November 9

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a portrait of Galaktion made by artist Davit Kakabadze with the inscription: Poet G. Tabidze, the author of the words of the new romance – "Mary" and a photo of Valeriane Jvarsheishvili with the inscription: "Valeri Jvaridze, a young talented singer, performer of "Mary".

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, November 09, 1919, №12, p. 8.

Note: In the source, Davit Kakabadze is mentioned with the initials of the name and surname "D. K". Valeriane Jvarsheishvili, the author and singer of the G. Tabidze's poem "Mary" based on the music of composer Massenet, is mentioned as "Valeri Jvaridze".

December

1919

Until December 6

Sergei Sudeikin paints a portrait of Galaktion in the café "Khimeryon".

Source: MGL, d-244, p. 3-5; AE, Book XVII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 542.

Dating: The date is based on the opening period of the café "Khimeryon".

1919

Until December 12

Vasily Krotkov paints a portrait of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, №95, p. 1; Catalogue: Society of Georgian Artists. Second Autumn Exhibition of Paintings. Tbilisi, State Printing House, 1919, p. 18-19.

1919

December 12

An exhibition titled "Contemporary Georgian Painting and Sculpture" opens at the Temple of Glory, featuring Vasily Krotkov's "Galaktion Tabidze's Portrait".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, №95, p. 1; Catalogue: Society of Georgian Artists. Second Autumn Exhibition of Paintings. Tbilisi, State Printing House, 1919, p. 18-19.

1919

December 21

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a statement that at 12 o'clock today, a literary morning will be held in the Georgian club for the benefit of the students' literary circle. Akaki Papava, Dutu Megreli, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, and Siko Pashalishvili will participate.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №710, p. 3.

Note: The event will be cancelled and moved to December 28.

1919

December 26

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement that the scientific literary circle of the State University will hold a literary morning at the Georgian club on Sunday, December 28 at 10 o'clock in the morning. Spectators will be allowed to enter with tickets sold by December 21. Akaki Papava, Dutu Megreli, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili and Siko Pashalishvili will participate.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №714, p. 3.

1919

December 28

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement in the "News" column that today, Sunday, December 28, at 10 a.m., a literary morning will be held in the Georgian club for the benefit of students at the state university. Akaki Papava, Davit Kldiashvili, Dutu Megreli and Galaktion Tabidze will participate.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1919, №716, p. 3.

1919

He works on an essay about Georgian writers and their burial places, discusses the works and merits of Shota Rustaveli, Nikoloz Baratashvili, Ilia Chavchavadze, Akaki Tsereteli, Vazha-Pshavela, Mamia Gurieli, Egnate Ninoshvili, and others, and then briefly talks about the new literary trend that "started in 1908" and "tried to pursue unfulfilled ideas from the past". According to the poet, they introduced a new style "more profound, more complex, full of artistical features and searches".

Source: MGL, d-644, p. 1-9; AE, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 138-155; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 660.

Note: In the twelfth volume of the writer's twelve-volume works, the text is included under the title "Precious Graves".

1919

Galaktion is present in one of the auditoriums at Tbilisi University, along with Lado Matchavariani, Vaso Gorgadze, Andro Shilakadze, Savle Abuladze, and others. The group, which numbers over twenty, plans to establish the society “White Giorgi”, with the goal of publishing a literary journal and organizing literary evenings. Galaktion is unanimously elected as the chairman of the society. The poet thanks everyone and delivers a speech about the work of “White Giorgi”, noting that the society will accomplish many useful things. The attendees are stunned by Galaktion’s opinion that there is no need to elect members for the board, vice-chairman, or secretary, as the society can be managed solely by the chairman. Galaktion’s position stems from his dissatisfaction with the candidates proposed for the positions by the assembled members. Since the members of “White Giorgi” cannot agree on key issues, the society disbands immediately upon its establishment.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, “Recollections about Galaktion”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 407-425.

1919

Galaktion attempts to establish a revolutionary journal and gathers like-minded individuals around him, but Sandro Abasheli undermines the effort by reminding everyone of Lenin’s mention in Galaktion’s poem “Ship Daland”. This turns those opposed to the Bolsheviks against Galaktion and leads Abasheli to establish his own Menshevik magazine Tsisartkela.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, 291, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 322.

1919 or later

He underlines passages from the Book “Creative Theatre”, written by the Russian revolutionary and diplomat Platon Krezhentsev under the pseudonym “V. Krezhentsev”.

Source: MGL, t-323, В. Креженцев, Творческий Театр, Пути социалистического театра, Moscow, 1919.

1919 or later

He writes a text: “From childhood, my extraordinary love for flowers...”.

Source: MGL, d-629-15, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 319; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130.

1919 or later

He reads the Russian translation of Ernst Meiman’s Book “Aesthetics”. He makes underlines and annotations.

Source: GTSM, 212, Эрнст Мейман, “Эстетика”, Часть II, Система Эстетики, Перевод с немецкого Самсонов Н. В., Moscow, 1919.

After 1919

He notes that there is an uproar over conferences and lectures supposedly held at Café “Kimerioni,” which, in reality, never took place. Because of this commotion, he concludes that Georgia is full of philistines.

Source: MGL, d-640, 18; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 18; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 610.

1920

January

1920

January 1

The magazine Tbilisi prints Galaktion’s poem “Tiflis” (“A slow flame burst out in the city...”).

Source: Magazine Tbilisi, 1920, January, №1, p. 9; For dating: I. Grishashvili’s library-museum catalogue, vol. 2, part 1, p. 96.

Dating: On the copy of this issue of the magazine Tbilisi preserved in Ioseb Grishashvili’s library, there is an inscription from the employee of the magazine, Artem Gabunia, that it was published on January 1, 1920.

1920

January 1

The magazine Tbilisi publishes Ivane Ioseliani’s article “Genius Galaktion” under the pseudonym “I. I-ani”. The author cannot hide his excitement for the second Book of Galaktion. He believes that with this book, the era of patrimonial and programmatic poetry has ended, as well as the period of imitating Akaki Tsereteli, era which lost many talents, and the new Georgian poetry, which until now could not go beyond the template and colourless simplicity and could not fully share with the new culture, is celebrating its transformation. The first direct confession of this renewal is the Book “Crane aux fleurs” by Galaktion Tabidze. The critic notes that “a great writer is coming to Georgia, and the nation’s national-political freedom is welcoming him on his way”. Art will no longer be just a trumpet of battle, nor a psalm of virtue and pity. The main achievement and motto of Galaktion’s poetry is freedom from all dogmas. The author believes that it is impossible to call Galaktion’s poetry pessimism and denial of life, because the poet’s tenderest sadness is the result of great love and excess of feelings. The author notes that he created his own “sacred aesthetic” school. He writes that Galaktion with his “temperament, maddened nerves and sad dreams is the forerunner of a new culture”, he also notes Galaktion’s naturalness, aesthetic purity and literary conscientiousness, and compares his sense of rhythm to Chopin’s music.

Source: I. I-ani, “Genius Galaktion”, magazine Tbilisi, 1920, №1, p. 12-14; For dating: I. Grishashvili’s library-museum catalogue, vol. 2, part 1, p. 96.

Dating: On the copy of this issue of the magazine Tbilisi preserved in Ioseb Grishashvili’s library, there is an inscription from the employee of the magazine, Artem Gabunia, that it was published on January 1, 1920.

1920

January 1

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes Ilo Mosashvili's article "Literary Silhouettes", in which Galaktion Tabidze is characterized among modern Georgian writers as a lonely late passenger "wrapped in a blanket" who appeared on the remote road at night. The author notes that poetry should be a "purifying fire" and should be characterized by tenderness, and all of this is abundant in Galaktion's poetry. He writes that Georgian futurists have forgotten this aspect and expresses fear that if they continue like this, their poetry may die with them. The author of the article believes that Galaktion Tabidze should try to "stand on the middle path", because such a perspective can be felt in his poetry.

Source: "Literary Silhouettes", magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, № 1, p. 5, 6.

Note: Among the futurists, the author mentions the group of the magazine Kronosis Sarke and Tsisperkantselis with them. Ilo Mosashvili's name is represented in the source with initials.

1920

January 1

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes an announcement that the notes of the song based on Galaktion's poem "Mary" have been released and are being sold for 15 roubles. The music belongs to Jules Massenet, and the song is written by Valeri Jvaridze.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, №1, p. 16. N. Agiashvili, personal, Tbilisi, 1986, p. 142. Valeri Jvaridze's recollection.

1920

January 1

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a notice that the monthly magazine Shvildosani will be published in January, in which Shalva Amirejibi, Ali Arsenishvili, Shalva Apkhaidze, Galaktion Tabidze, and others will collaborate.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, № 1, p. 1.

Note: The announcement states that the participants in the magazine are: "Shalva Amirajibi, A. Arsenishvili, Sh. Apkhaidze, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Lado Gudiashvili, R. Gvetadze, Nikolai Evreinov, Paolo Iashvili, Pavle Ingorokva, Sh. Karmeli, S. Kldiashvili, G. Leonidze, N. Lortkipanidze, Nina Makashvili, Archil Mikadze, N. Mitsishvili, Kolau Nadiradze, Grigol Robakidze, Sergei Sudeikin, Galaktion Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, I. Kipiani, Sandro Tsirekidze and Leli Japaridze".

1920

January 3

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a critical review of Ivane Gomarteli's "Our literary writing, 1919", in which the author gives a high evaluation to the works of Galaktion Tabidze. According to the author, "authentic talent" and spiritual kinship with Baratashvili was visible from his very first book. The critic expresses concern that after the first Book published in 1914, the poet's second Book was delayed. In his opinion, in the second book, Galaktion grew incredibly, and such a big step is a rare event in Georgian writing. Ivane Gomarteli believes that Galaktion Tabidze's second Book is filled with amazing lyricism and is "one of the best" in new poetry. This Book is a mirror of the poet's soul, and after Baratashvili, no one has expressed his feelings in such fullness. The author of the article separately mentions the variety of rhymes and assonances and the poetic techniques characteristic only of Galaktion's poetry. According to him, the second Book of Galaktion is somewhat influenced by the Symbolists, but it is not organic to him, it would be great to get rid of it in time and follow only his own gentle, beautiful, "sadness-saturated ascent". Galaktion knows the magnitude of his talent and spiritual power, but the reality does not allow him to "spread his wings freely". Ivane Gomarteli sees in Galaktion such an exceptional talent that needs special attention and appreciation.

Source: Iv. Gomarteli, "Our Word-Crafted Literature of 1919", Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №2, p. 3.

1920

Until January 11

Ioseb Grishashvili under the pseudonym "Maruta Shuamdinareli" publishes a review of the second Book of Galaktion Tabidze: "Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919)" in the magazine Leila. He notes that Galaktion is a "great man" who stands out among the poets. The poets of Western Georgia do not know the Georgian language well and often use provincial words, but Galaktion, who is fonder of his native language, overcame this shortcoming. The reviewer praises the talent of his poetry but considers that only a few poems in both the first and second books are good and characteristic of the author. The article expresses concern that critics are silent on this Book and that they are more interested in the "low school of symbolists" (magazines: Kronosis Sarke, Smaragdi, Aisi, Tholabulisis Sartkeli, etc.) than purely genuine talent. Grishashvili is sure that no other poet is as good at assonance as Galaktion. The reviewer singles out the poems "Blue Horses", "Mary" and "Pirimze" in particular, and says that the latter, reflects the sadness of Georgia's past.

Source: Maruta Shuamdinareli, "New Books", magazine Leila, 1920, №2, p. 15 (The magazine is without pagination).

Dating: On January 11, 1920, the newspaper Sakartvelo published an announcement about the publication of the second issue of the magazine Leila, therefore it should have been published before that.

1920

January 14

On the day of his wedding, the friends of Galaktion and Titsian Tabidze take Titsian, who is sick and unconscious, from the wedding room to the hotel "Kavkaz". Titsian gets pneumonia and spends the whole honeymoon in sickness.

Source: MGL, d-628-21; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 296.

Dating: Dated according to the memories of Titsian Tabidze's daughter – Nita Tabidze.

1920

January 16

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes the first part of Akaki Papava's critical review "Thoughts on native literature (1919, at a glance)". The reviewer writes that Galaktion and his work are characterized by individuality and subjectivity. He reacts to all events in the world, but this cannot overshadow his personal “I”. His religion is sorrow, but he will never exchange it for laughter.

Source: A. Papava, “Thoughts on Native Literature (A Glimpse at 1919)”, Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, № 729, p. 2-3.

1920

January 17

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes the continuation of Akaki Papava’s critical review “Thoughts on native literature (1919, at a glance)”. He notes that Galaktion “is an aristocracy in our poetry in the deepest sense of the word”. A critic reviews Galaktion’s poems at length, noting that solitude nurtures his aristocracy, aestheticism, and extreme subjectivism.

Source: A. Papava, “Thoughts on Native Literature (A Glimpse at 1919)” (continuation), Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, № 730, p. 2-3.

1920

January 17

The newspaper Vozrozhdenie publishes a statement in Russian language that on Saturday, January 17, a banquet-cabaret will be organized in the hall of the “Artistic Society” for the benefit of the penniless students of the eighth grade of the Second Boys’ Gymnasium in Tbilisi. The announcement states that the following figures will take part in the literary section: Paolo Iashvili, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Leli Japaridze, Galaktion Tabidze, and Vasiliy Kamenskiy.

Source: Newspaper “Возрождение”, January 17, 1920, Saturday, № 12, p. 1.

Note: The participants in the statement are listed as follows: “Paolo Iashvili, Kuchishvili, Japaridze, Tabidze Galaktion, and Kamenskiy”.

1920

Until January 25

The magazine Shvildosani publishes Valerian Gaprindashvili’s article “Rhythm and Assonance”, in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned. The author notes that “whoever can come up with such a rhyme: ხილამი ვარდი – ხილამუვარდე (Galaktion), უკაცრავად – დაუკაცრავად (Paolo) - has an eloquent imagination of rhyme and a vision of rhyme”.

Source: V. Gaprindashvili, “Rhythm and Assonance”, magazine Shvildosani, №1, p. 13–15.

Dating: In the January 25 issue of the newspaper Sakartvelo, there is an announcement from which it can be seen that the first issue of the magazine Shvildosani is already out.

1920

Until January 25

The magazine Shvildosani publishes Kolau Nadiradze’s article “Georgian Poetry”, in which the author discusses the good and the bad of Galaktion Tabidze’s second collection of poems “Cräne aux fleurs artistiques (1914-1919)”. He believes that Galaktion is a true poet of high rank. He was considered a finished poet after the poems published in the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi, but this did not turn out to be the case. He writes that “Blue horses” is “a masterpiece, but it does not acquire the individuality of the work of Galaktion Tabidze”. Nadiradze writes that in the new collection there is no longer irrational poetry and the dynamics of “Blue horses”, therefore he considers that this poem was accidental for the poet, “an alcoholic nightmare, ennobled by tears and rhyme”. The reviewer notes that the Book does not preserve aesthetic culture and artistic correctness, there are also very weak, non-artistic and mockumentary places, some similes and metaphors are borrowed from Russian, but “there is singing in the book”, “if three lines are fake, you will feel a great poet in the fourth one”. Kolau Nadiradze criticizes those reviewers who positively evaluated Galaktion Tabidze’s second collection (Ivane Gomarteli, Akaki Papava), disapproves of their qualifications, and calls them “critics who are smart about the agrarian issue”. In his opinion, such praise is dangerous for Galaktion.

Source: K. Nadiradze, “Georgian Poetry (G. Tabidze, “Cräne aux fleurs artistiques”, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1919)”, magazine Shvildosani, №1, p. 18-19.

Note: The French title of the Book is given with errors in the source.

Dating: From the announcement published in the January 25, 1919 issue of the newspaper Sakartvelo, it can be seen that the first issue of the magazine Shvildosani has already been published.

1920

January 25

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement in its news column that the editors have accepted the cleanly published weekly magazine Tiflis, in which the works of Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Saganeli, and others are published. It is noted that the magazine contains 16 pages and costs 10 roubles.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, № 18, p. 3.

Note: This issue of the magazine Tiflis was already published on December 31, 1919.

1920

Until January 31

The magazine Tsisartkela publishes Varlam Khurodze’s article on the works of Galaktion Tabidze. According to the critic, both of the poet’s books are precious pearls and “well-wishers of our literature” have high hopes for him. He writes that Galaktion laments about public issues, compares his worries to the laments of Byron and Baratashvili and calls him the new Baratashvili. He notes that, in addition to pessimism, there is another side of the poet’s creativity, hopefulness, thirst for battle, although in the second Book they are no longer visible, and here Galaktion leaves Baratashvili. The critic connects all this with the revolution of 1905 and the processes developed after it. In his opinion, despite the fact that Galaktion Tabidze met the second revolution with a momentary admiration with the poem “Flags quickly”, he was not able to follow even this biggest wave, “collectivism could not overcome individualism”, he was unique from the beginning and remained so. The poet did not include the poem “Flags quickly” in the second collection of poems, because the poet himself “does not consider this poem to characterize his current spiritual state”. The critic writes that Galaktion’s musicality is at its highest peak, and the rhyme is so “plain, charming and effortless” that none of his contemporaries can be compared and shows a direct affinity with Akaki. He notes that “the crown of a great poet undoubtedly awaits” Galaktion. The critic does not agree with the philosophy of “Blue horses”, does not sympathize with symbolism, and because of this he likes the poet’s second volume less than the first, but hopes that Galaktion will overcome the mystical fog of symbolism and return to writing about worldly hardships.

Source: V. Khurodze, “Galaktion Tabidze’s Works (A Critical Attempt), magazine Tsisartkela, 1920, №2, p. 81-96.

Dating: In the January 31, 1920 issue of the newspaper Sakartvelo, there is an announcement from which it can be seen that the second issue of the magazine Tsisartkela has already been published.

February

1920

February 1

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the first part of Polikarpe Kekelia’s article “Georgian Poetry (1919)”. According to the author, there are often philosophical roots in modern poetry. He names Galaktion Tabidze, Valerian Gaprindashvili and Alexandre Abasheli among the authors who are characterized by this. At the same time, he believes that these poets are still in the process of searching, both in terms of form and content.

Source: P. Kekelia, “Georgian Poetry”, Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, №4, p. 4.

1920

February 11

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement in the “Countryside and City” column that on Thursday, February 12, an evening of itinerant musician Iliko Kurkhuli with the participation of Giorgi Kuchishvili and Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the city of Khashuri, and on Saturday, February 14, a similar evening will be held in Surami.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №750, p. 3.

1920

February 15

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes the end of the article “Georgian Poetry” by Polio Kekelia, in which the problem of suffering in poetry is discussed and it is said that life and suffering are inseparable in the work of Galaktion Tabidze. According to the critic, Theodore Dostoyevsky’s search for the causes of suffering led him to social themes, and he also sees a tendency in Galaktion Tabidze to gather social elements in a poetic system. According to the critic, Galaktion should generalize and add to the problems of sadness and suffering of the intelligentsia, which he previously described, which are radically different from the old ones, characteristic of the intelligentsia of the last decade. The poet’s second Book proves that he can do it. Galaktion does not have his own strong and important poetic school, and his talent in the above-mentioned direction should acquire special importance. According to the critic, if we do not take into account the assonances, Galaktion’s work in terms of form does not differ substantially from the works of other modern poets, and those evaluators who think that Galaktion should leave the old way and follow the new one are wrong.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, №6, p. 11-12.

1920

February 15

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a notice under the heading “Galaktion’s evening” in the news column that the Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the State Theatre shortly.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №36, p. 3.

1920

February 17

In the “News” column, the newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a notice that Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the State Theatre in a short period of time.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №755, p. 3.

1920

February 26

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes in its artistic Chronology that on Wednesday, March 3, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held at the State Theatre, in which Vasil Barnov, Ioseb Grishashvili, Shalva Dadiani, Pavle Ingorokva, Kote Makashvili, and others will take part. The opera “Aleko” will be presented and a ballet will be held with the participation of prima ballerina Bauersachs of the State Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, №43, p. 3.

Note: In the source, instead of “March 3” it is mistakenly written “March 4”. It is mentioned in the notice that the following will participate in the evening: “V. Barnov, S. Abasheli, I. Grishashvili, Sh. Dadiani, P. Ingorokva, K. Makashvili, Dutu Megreli, V. Rukhadze, T. Ramishvili, Sh. Sharashidze, N. Shiukashvili, and G. Kuchishvili”.

1920

February 29

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba publishes a portrait of Galaktion on the front page and information that his evening will be held on Wednesday, March 3 at the State Theatre.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, №8, p. 1.

1920

February 29

In the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba Ioseb Imedashvili under the pseudonym “Ioseb Arimatieli” publishes an emotional statement about Galaktion Tabidze and his evening under the title “White King”. He uses a number of figurative similes to evaluate Galaktion’s creation, comparing it to the first rays of the sun, a fresh-blossomed fragrant rose, the bottomless sea, and the best wine in the process of fermentation. The author writes that Galaktion started ten years ago in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba and today he is already a famous poet, who can only be compared to Alexandre Abasheli. The author of the article hopes that, despite the bad weather, admirers of beauty, higher feelings and loveliness will gather at his evening on March 3. At the end of the publication, the author calls Galaktion the “white king” of our feelings and welcomes him warmly.

Source: I. Arimateli, “White King. Galaktion Tabidze”, Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, №8, p. 3.

Note: In the source, Sandro Shanshiashvili is referenced with a hint: “The wandering bard, lounging in the foothills of Kiziki”.

March

1920

March 2

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes a statement that on Wednesday, March 3, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the State Theatre. Ivane Gomarteli delivers a speech about Galaktion’s poetry. The following will take part in the evening: Vasil Barnov, Ioseb Grishashvili, Shalva Dadiani, Pavle Ingorokva, Kote Makashvili, Dutu Megreli, Varlam Rukhadze, Tripon Ramishvili, Shalva Sharashidze, Niko Shiukashvili, and Giorgi Kuchishvili. The opera “Aleko” will be performed, and a ballet will be held with the participation of prima ballerina Bauersachs of the State Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, №47, p. 1.

1920

March 2

The newspaper Sakartvelos Respublika in the column “Art” with the initials “V. G”. publishes Vasil Gorgadze’s article “Galaktion Tabidze”. The author writes that the next day is Galaktion’s evening, and he has an opportunity to discuss his creative genius. According to the author, after Baratashvili, Galaktion is the greatest poet-philosopher, whose pessimistic outlook is equal to “Hamlet’s lament”. Galaktion is the “magic of rhythm” and creates a musical cascade with combinations of words. There is a minor in his rhythms, the rhythm may balk, but the rhythm is inseparably with him. Galaktion is an aesthete, a “poet of beautiful knowledge”, “the owner of a gentle and the most beautiful soul” and is unlike any other poet. According to the author of the article, Galaktion deserves more attention and will focus on his work more profoundly in the future.

Source: V.G., “Galaktion Tabidze”, newspaper Sakartvelos Respublika, 1920, №49, p. 3-4.

1920

February 21– March 3

On the front page of the newspaper Ertoba, a poster of Galaktion Tabidze’s evening is published, on which is depicted his portrait, painted by artist Davit Kakabadze, and an announcement that on Wednesday, March 3, at 8 pm, the evening of poet Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the State Theatre. The statement says that the event will be opened with a speech by Ivane Gomarteli about the poetry of Galaktion Tabidze. In addition to Galaktion, poets and writers will take part in the evening: Alexandre Abasheli, Vasil Barnov, Ioseb Grishashvili, Shalva Dadiani, Shota Dadiani, Pavle Ingorokva, Kote Makashvili, Dutu Megreli, Varlam Rukhadze, Tripon Ramishvili, Shalva Sharashidze, Niko Shiukashvili, and Giorgi Kuchishvili, who will read poems, stories and novels.

The second section will present Rachmaninov's one-act opera "Aleko" with the participation of Vano Sarajishvili. In the third section, the one-act ballet "Cavalry Camp" is announced, featuring the prima ballerina Bauersachs. Evening tickets are sold at the State Theatre box office.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №41, 44, 46, 47, 48, 50, p. 1

1920

March 3

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a poster of Galaktion Tabidze's evening with a portrait of the poet and it is said that the evening will take place on Wednesday, March 3 at 8 pm in the State Theatre, Ivane Gomarteli will give a speech about Galaktion's poetry, the following figures will take part: Vasil Barnov, Ioseb Grishashvili, Shalva Dadiani, Pavle Ingorokva, Kote Makashvili, Dutu Megreli, Varlam Rukhadze, Tripon Ramishvili, Shalva Sharashidze, Niko Shiukashvili, and Giorgi Kuchishvili. The opera "Aleko" will be performed and the ballet "Cavalry Camp" will be performed with the participation of prima ballerina of the State Theater – Bauersachs.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №50, p. 1.

1920

March 3

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a bibliographic note about the release of the artistic and literary magazine Tebervali. The works published in the publication are discussed, and the poem "Embroidery of Thoughts" by one of the young authors, Mito Javakhishvili, is said to be influenced by Galaktion Tabidze, he breathes with him, but he is completely unable to write triolets and is very weak.

Source: Bibliographical Note; Art-literary magazine Tebervali, newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №50, p. 4.

Note: The publication is published under the pseudonym "-?-".

Note: Mito Javakhishvili's name is represented by initials in the source. His poem was published in the first issue of the magazine Tebervali in 1918.

1920

March 3

Galaktion's evening is held in the State Theatre, which is attended by many people. There are even more people who wish to attend, but they cannot enter the theatre due to lack of tickets.

Source: News, Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №52, p. 3.

1920

Until March 5

The magazine Shvildosani publishes a critical review of Kolau Nadiradze: "Georgian Poetry", which discusses the materials published in 1919 in the October issue of the magazine Shvidi Mnatobi, in Mikheil Botchorishvili's Book "Etudes" and in the first issue of weekly magazine Tbilisi. The author strongly criticizes the magazine Tbilisi and its managers. He notes that Galaktion's poem Tbilisi is good, but for some reason it begins in an old manner, with a description of nature, is too long, and the first and seventh stanzas are weak. The author of the publication also criticizes the review “Genius Galaktion” published by Ivane Ioseliani in the magazine Tbilisi. Kolau Nadiradze writes that he and his associates do not share such an “awkward privilege” for Galaktion and doubts that the “patent” of genius issued by the author of the review is valid.

Source: K. Nadiradze, “Georgian Poetry”, magazine Shvildosani, 1920, №2-3, p. 21-22; For dating: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, №49, p. 1.

Note: In the source, the author of “Genius Galaktion” is “S. S-ani” instead of “I. I-ani”.

Dating: According to the March 5 issue of the newspaper Sakartvelo, this issue of the magazine Shvildosani is already out.

1920

March 5

The newspaper Ertoba publishes information in the “News” section that many people attended the Galaktion Tabidze evening held at the State Theatre and even more returned back due to lack of tickets.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №52, p. 3.

1920

March 7

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba in the column “Spectacle, Music and Painting” under the pseudonym “Ts-ri” publishes a review of Ioseb Imedashvili about the Galaktion Tabidze evening held on March 3 at the State Theatre. The author states that the hall was full, the public greeted the young poet warmly, and the evening turned into a parade of selected Georgian poets. It was opened by Ivane Gomarteli with the characterization of Galaktion Tabidze. Dutu Megreli, Varlam Rukhadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Ioseb Grishashvili, Shalva Sharashidze, Kote Makashvili, and Galaktion Tabidze read their own poems. Rurik Ivnev read his own translations of poems by Galaktion Tabidze and Nikoloz Shengelaia.

Source: Ts-ri, “Galaktion Tabidze’s evening”, Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, №9, p. 14.

Note: The names of the participants in the source are presented with initials, Shalva Sharashidze is referred to by the pseudonym “Taguna”, while Rurik Ivnev is referred to as “Russian Poet”.

1920

March 19

Olya Okujava is congratulated on successfully performing her role, embraced, and kissed, yet she longs for only one person to be with her – Galaktion.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 464.

1920

March 23

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that on Sunday, April 4, according to the resolution of the Council of the Writers’ Union of Georgia, the II Congress of Georgian Writers will be held. The statement mentions that the agenda of the congress will be published on March 28. Tabidze

Galaktion, a member of the Union of Writers, is mentioned as number 120 in the list of writers invited to the congress.

Source: “Second Congress of Georgian Writers”, Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №66, p. 5.

Note: In the list of invitees to the congress, some names, including Galaktion, have an asterisk attached to them, and it is said that these persons are members of the Union of Writers.

1920

March 24

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement in the “News” column that at the request of the public, on Wednesday, April 7, Khareba Day, the evening of Galaktion Tabidze will be held in the State Theatre for the second time and that tickets will be sold from March 24 only at the box office of the State Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №67, p. 3.

1920

March 25

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a framed announcement on its front page that on Wednesday, April 7, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the State Theatre for the second time and that tickets are sold at the theatre box office.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №68, p. 1.

1920

March 26-27

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a statement that on Sunday, March 28, at 12 o’clock in the morning, a literary morning will be held under the leadership of the State University Students’ Literary Circle, where Vakhtang Kotetishvili will give a lecture “Impassability in Modern Georgian Art”, and Georgian poets, including Galaktion Tabidze, will take part in the literary part. It is noted that the tickets are sold in the students’ canteen and the university cafeteria, and in the evening, they will be sold at the box office of the Georgian club.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №787, p. 1; ibid.; №788, p. 1.

Note: Among the participants are: Dutu Megreli, Taguna (Shalva Sharashidze), Ioseb Grishashvili, Paolo Iashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Siko Pashalishvili, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, Titsian Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Giorgi Leonidze, Oboli Musha (Solomon Tavadze), Leli Japaridze, Konstantine Tchitchinadze, Marijani (Mariam Tkemaladze), Grigol Tsetskhladze and members of the literary circle: Savle Abuladze, Ilia Sikharulidze, and Ilia Gogia.

1920

March 27

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a framed announcement on its front page that on Wednesday, April 7, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the State Theatre for the second time and that tickets are sold at the theatre box office.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №788, p. 1.

1920

March 27

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement on behalf of the Georgian club that on Sunday, March 28, at 12 o'clock in the morning, a literary morning will be held under the leadership of the students' literary circle of the state university, during which the lecture "Impassability in modern Georgian Art" will be delivered by Vakhtang Kotetishvili, and Georgian poets will take part in the literary part, including Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №70, p. 1.

Note: Among the participants are: Dutu Megreli, Taguna (Shalva Sharashidze), Ioseb Grishashvili, Paolo Iashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Siko Pashalishvili, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, Titsian Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Giorgi Leonidze, Oboli Musha (Solomon Tavadze), Leli Japaridze, Konstantine Tchitchinadze, Marijani (Mariam Tkemaladze), Grigol Tsetskhladze and members of the literary circle: Savle Abuladze, Ilia Sikharulidze, and Ilia Gogia.

1920

28 March

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a framed announcement on its front page that on Wednesday, April 7, Galaktion Tabidze's evening will be held in the State Theatre for the second time and that tickets are sold at the theatre box office.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №789, p. 1.

1920

March 28

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba prints the announcement that the second issue of the artistic and literary magazine Parnasi will be published on April 15. The editor of the magazine is Shalva Imedashvili, the artist is Moses Toidze, and Galaktion Tabidze participates in it together with other writers.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1920, 28 March, №12, p. 15.

Note: The second issue of the magazine Parnasi was not published. The source states the following a list of participants: "Gal. Tabidze, I. Mtchedlishvili, K. Ebralidze, Mikh. Botchorishvili, Khar. Vardoshvili, Ar. Gabunia, Sh. Gomarteli, M. Bronstein, K. Gergeseli, L. Dzidziguri, L. Parnaseli, Herk. Kancheli, K. Ratishvili, Akhiles, D. A., G - I, Sh. Mepandure, artist M. Toidze, and editor Shalva Mepandure".

1920

March 30

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme prints the announcement that the second issue of the artistic and literary magazine Parnasi will be published on April 15, in which Galaktion Tabidze participates along with others.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №790, p. 1.

Note: The second issue of the magazine Parnasi was not published. The list of participants in the source is arranged in alphabetical order: “Ariman (Achilles), Mikheil Botchorishvili, G. Bronstein, K. Gergeseli, G. I., Shalva Gomarteli, D. A., K. Ebralidze, Khariton Vardoshvili, Ar. Matchavariani, Sh. Mepandure, Ilo Mosashvili, Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, L. Parnaseli, K. Ratishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, P. Kancheli, L. Dzidziguri Cover – by M. Toidze, editor Shalva Mepandure”.

1920

March 31

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a framed announcement on its front page that on Wednesday, April 7, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the State Theatre for the second time and that tickets are sold at the theatre box office.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №791, p. 1.

April

1920

April 1

The newspaper Sakartvelos Respublika publishes “Bibliographic notes” compiled under the pseudonym “Aketuri” under the subtitles “Rainbow”, monthly magazine №1, 2, 3”; the literary magazine Shvildosani №1, 2 and 3 and the literary magazine Niamorebi №1, 2 and 3”. The introduction talks about the revival of literary life and among the books published in recent times, the second volume of Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned, and at the end of the letter, the author criticizes Kolau Nadiradze, who called the reviewer of the second Book of Galaktion Tabidze, Ivane Gomarteli, a clever critic on agrarian issues.

Source: Aketuri, “Bibliographic Notes”; newspaper Sakartvelos Respublika, 1920, №73, p. 3.

Note: The identity of the pseudonym “Aketuri” is unknown.

1920

April 4

The newspaper Ertoba publishes two announcements about the Galaktion Tabidze evening planned for Wednesday, April 7 at the State Theatre. The first one is a short announcement, and the second one says that Akaki Papava will read a talk on Georgian poetry, entitled “When the storm sets”. According to this statement, writers and actors will participate in the second part of the evening together with Galaktion Tabidze: Vaso Abashidze, Valerian Gunia, Nikoloz Eristavi, Ryurik Ivnev, Kara-Darvishi, Kote Makashvili, Varlam Rukhadze, Tripon Ramishvili, Akaki Paghava, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Shalva Sharashidze, Grisha Japaridze, and others. The opera “Nobleman Igor” will also be presented, the third act of which is staged by the State Theatre entrepreneur Sergo Evlakhishvili. It is also said that tickets are sold at the box office of the State Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №77, p. 1, 2.

Note: Val. Gunia, Nik. Eristavi are referred to in the source by name abbreviations and surnames. Sergo Evlakhishvili is referred to as “Evlakhov”.

1920

April 4

The newspaper Akhali Nakadi publishes Terenti Graneli's article "Because of the evening of Galaktion Tabidze". The article says that Galaktion Tabidze's evening will be held again in the State Theatre on April 7, and the author wants to briefly review some aspects of the poet's work. According to him, Galaktion Tabidze's poetry is idiosyncratic, which is the positive side of his creativity. He writes that Galaktion made his contribution to the renaissance of Georgian poetry, he is a symbolist - he paints his feelings symbolically, and the mysticism of purity and tenderness permeates his poems. At the same time, he is an individualist. His creative world is a reflection of the visible world, and assonances have a prominent place in it. Galaktion "looks beyond things for the colours scattered in the world" and likes to combine music and feeling. He cannot fit into a narrow mould and with his unrestrained spirit he strives for poetic licence. According to the author of the article, "Blue Horses" is a masterpiece, and its dynamics reach the highest peak. He believes that Galaktion Tabidze will occupy the line in which the absolute victory of poetry takes place. The article ends with a call for those interested in Galaktion Tabidze's work to show their respect for the poet by attending his evening.

Source: T. Graneli, "Because of Galaktion Tabidze's evening", newspaper Akhali Nakadi, 1920, №4, p. 2.

1920

April 7

The newspaper Sakartvelo in the column "Artistic Chronology" publishes an announcement that the evening of Galaktion Tabidze is being held in the State Theatre today.

Source: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, №74, p. 3.

1920

April 7

The newspaper Ertoba publishes two announcements in the "Announcements" and "News" sections that today, on April 7, the second evening of Galaktion Tabidze is being held at the State Theatre.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №79, p. 1; 2;

1920

April 10

It is Easter, and Olya Okujava remains hopeful that Galaktion will visit her in Moscow, but he does not appear.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 464-465.

1920

April 10

Everyone at the school praises Olya Okujava and predicts a brilliant future for her, but in her diary, she writes that the opinion of her beloved Galaktion is the most precious to her.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 464-465.

1920

April 15

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement that in the coming days, literary evenings will be held in Kakheti under the leadership of Georgian writers. Vakhtang Kotetishvili, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, and others will take part in the first evening held in Telavi.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №801, p. 3.

Note: The participants' names are presented in the source using initials.

May

1920

May 7

Akaki Papava's article "Overcoming Chaos" is published in the newspaper Poeziis Dghe. According to the author, Galaktion's dubious love, as well as Grishashvili's passionate kiss, is taken from the chaos of the fairy world of the East, which is the cradle of fantasy.

Source: A. Papava, "Overcoming Chaos", newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1920, p. 2, 3.

Note: Akaki Papava, Galaktion Tabidze are mentioned in the source with the initials of their first name and the surnames. Ioseb Grishashvili is mentioned by his last name.

1920

Spring

Together with Titsian Tabidze, he visits the school in the village of Shuamta, where Galaktion's brother, Abesalom, works as the principal. The students and teachers welcome them with love. Titsian dedicates a short impromptu speech to the gymnasium, and afterwards, they travel by carriage with Abesalom towards Chkvishi.

Source: M. Asatiani, Three Happy Encounters, newspaper Gantiadi, February 09, 1982, №17, p. 3.

June

1920

June

The magazine Meotsnebe Niamorebi under the pseudonym "Tristan Machabeli" publishes Titsian Tabidze's article "Georgian Poetry", in which the poems published in Kolau Nadiradze's Book "Baldachin" and in the newspaper Poeziis Dghe published by the Council of the Writers' Union on May 7 are discussed. The article quotes a stanza from Kolau Nadiradze's poem "Wedding journey with the moon" and it is noted that neither Sandro Shanshiashvili, nor Ioseb Grishashvili, nor Galaktion Tabidze could have written these wonderful lines.

Source: "Georgian Poetry", Tristan Machabeli, magazine Meotsnebe Niamorebi, Book 4, p. 9.

Note: Aleksandre Shanshiashvili and Ioseb Grishashvili are mentioned in the source by their last names. Titsian Tabidze is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym "Tristan Machabeli".

July

1920

July 2

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that on July 3, to celebrate the 40th anniversary of Noe Chkhikvadze's death, a charity literary evening will be held at the Mushtaidi Democratic Club for the benefit of Noe Chkhikvadze's orphans. Ia Ekaladze, Varlam Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, and others will read their works.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, July 02, 1920, №147, p. 1.

Note: V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, and Kh. Vardoshvili are mentioned in the source by their initials and last names, while Solomon Tavadze is referred to by the pseudonym "Oboli Musha" ("Orphan Worker"). Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned as Galaktion Tabidze.

1920

July 10

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement that on July 10, Giorgi Kuchishvili's evening will be held, in which the following figures will take part: Vakhtang Kotetishvili, Varlam Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Oboli Musha, Grigol Tsetskhladze, Giorgi Shinatekheli.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №153, p. 1.

Note: G. Tsetskhladze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the surname, Solomon Tavadze with the pseudonym "Oboli Musha". Giorgi Mantashov under the pseudonym "G. Shinatekheli".

1920

July 14

The newspaper Ertoba publishes an announcement that on Thursday, July 15, an evening of Lado Matchavariani will be held in the second Georgian club, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate along with other writers. The evening will last until 3 am.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №156, p. 1.

Note: Among the participants are named: Grigol Robakidze, Dutu Megreli, Varlam Rukhadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Titsian Tabidze, Khariton Vardoshvili, Ivane Kipiani, Grigol Tsetskhladze, Akaki Berekashvili, Lado Matchavariani, Taguna (Shalva Sharashidze), Nikoloz Gotsiridze and others. The newspaper mentions that the second Georgian club is located on Plekhanov Avenue.

1920

July 22

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes a statement that on Thursday, July 22, in the second Georgian club, the cultural-educational section of the special battalion and engineer team will hold an evening open-air party and diversion for the benefit of the families of the Guardsmen of the same battalion who died during the war with Azerbaijan. Participants: Varlam Rukhadze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Siko Pashalishvili, Ivane Kipiani, and Platon Lezhava.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1920, №881, p. 1.

Note: The source has the following list of participants: “V. Rukhadze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, S. Pashalishvili, I. Kipiani, Pl. Lezhava”.

August

1920

August 10

On Rustaveli Avenue, he meets Geronti Kikodze, from whom he learns that Kote Makashvili was looking for Galaktion about some case, and he goes to him the same day. Makashvili tells him that Valiko Jugheli needs a young talented writer to help publish the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli and that he recommended Galaktion.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 475-476.

1920

10 August or the following days

He goes to meet with Valiko Jugheli. The commander of the Georgian People’s Guard briefly informs about the working conditions. He tells Galaktion that he is offering the position of executive secretary of the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli. The editorial office will be next to his office, he will have a monthly salary of 7300 roubles, in addition he will receive an officer’s “gratuity” and one month’s salary will be paid in advance. Jugheli offers to start work the next day.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 475-476.

Dating: According to the source, the meeting with Kote Makashvili took place on August 10, and Valiko Jugheli was supposed to meet either on the same or the following days.

1920

Mid-August

He begins to perform the duties of the executive secretary of the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, “Galaktion”, Tbilisi, 2000, p. 475-476.

Dating: According to the source, the meeting with Kote Makashvili took place on August 10, he was supposed to meet Valiko Jugheli on the same or the following days, and he had to start work the next day.

1920

August 24

The newspaper Sakartvelo publishes Grigol Robakidze’s article “Georgian Rhythmic Stress and Rhyme”. The author expresses the opinion that it is necessary to “release the bound word”. In this regard, he considers Galaktion Tabidze’s line “so full of many feelings” to be intolerant, because here, at the junction of two words, six consonants come together “ბჰგღძწ” and “the line is completely destroyed”.

Source: Gr. Robakidze, “Georgian Rhythmic Stress and Rhyme”, Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, №82, p. 3.

September

1920

September 1

He dedicates the poem "To Gauthier" to the French poet Théophile Gauthier.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5540 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 28.

1920

September 2

The newspaper Ertoba publishes Galaktion Tabidze's poem "To Gauthier".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №199, p. 3.

1920

September 15

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that today poets Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili and a Guard troupe of actors under the leadership of Davit Abdusheli, accompanied by the member of the main staff of the People's Guard - Anania Salukvadze, are traveling from Tbilisi to the regions. They will take part in the evenings held under the auspices of the People's Guard: in Khashuri on September 16, in Chiatura on September 18, in Kutaisi on September 19, in Khoni on the 20th, in Samtredia on the 21st, in Akhalsenaki on the 22nd, in Poti on the 23rd, in Ozurgeti on the 25th, in Batumi on the 26th, etc.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №210, p. 3.

Note: Giorgi Kuchishvili is mentioned in the source by the initial of his first name and the surname. Anania Salukvadze - D. Abdusheli.

1920

September 17

The newspaper Ertoba is again publishing the announcement that Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili and the Guard troupe of actors under the leadership of David Abdusheli will participate in the evenings held under the auspices of the People's Guard in West Georgia on September 16-16.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №211, p. 4.

1920

September 18

The newspaper Ertoba is again publishing the announcement that Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili and the Guard troupe of actors under the leadership of David Abdusheli will participate in the evenings held under the auspices of the People's Guard in West Georgia on September 16-16.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №212, p. 4.

1920

Until September 21

He writes a poem “Autumn is Coming”.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №214, September 21, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 29.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1920

Until September 21

He is in Tbilisi and writes a poem “You and Autumn” (“Your youth remembers only the hum of the wind!”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 30; For dating: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №214, September 21, p. 3.

Note: The poem in the 1959 edition is untitled “Your youth remembers only the hum of the wind!”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1920

Until September 21

He is in Tbilisi and writes a poem “You and Autumn” (“There is bliss - let often imagine...”).

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 30; For dating: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №214, September 21, p. 3.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1920

September 21

The newspaper Ertoba publishes three poems by Galaktion Tabidze: “You and Autumn” (“There is bliss – let often imagine...”), “You and Autumn” (“Your youth remembers only the hum of the wind...”) and “Autumn is coming”.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №214, p. 3.

1920

September 21

He arrives in Samtredia, where he holds a poetry evening at the Railway Workers’ Club alongside Giorgi Kuchishvili. Before the event begins, photographer Shalva Phurtskhvanidze takes a picture of the poets participating in the evening. Later, they are invited to a feast at the home of journalist Noe Kalandadze. He dedicates an impromptu poem to the host’s wife, Nino Avaliani, which leaves the attendees impressed, prompting them to toast her once again.

Source: K. Kalandadze, An Episode from the Lives of Two Poets, magazine Teatraluri Moambe, 1973, №5, p. 8-9; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 656.

1920

September 24

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that a grand open-air event will be held to strengthen the Repository of the cultural and educational department of the main headquarters of the People's Guard on 16 September in Khashuri, on 17 and 18 in Chiatura, on 19 in Kutaisi, on 20 in Khoni, on 21 in Samtredia, on 22 in Akhali-Senaki, on 23 in Poti, 23 and on 25 in Ozurgeti. In the first part the reports will be read: 1. "Goals of the People's Guard in the field of culture and education". In the second part: Nikoloz Gergeseli's drama in one picture "On the Dawn of Freedom" and the fourth act of Avksenti Tsagareli's comedy "Matiko" will be presented. In the third part, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, and other writers will read their works. The evening will include an auction, table gambling "Petits-Chevaux", post, flower contest and an Asian kiosk. The big dinner will last until dawn, the band will play and there will be dancing.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №216, p. 1.

Note: The list of events was mechanically transferred from the September 15 issue of the newspaper, and all of them took place on September 25, except for the Ozurgeti evening.

1920

September 25

Together with Giorgi Kuchishvili, he takes part in the literary-creative evening held in Ozurgeti and stays in Ozurgeti for a few days. Galaktion talks to the students, reads Nikoloz Baratashvili's poem "Nightfall on Mtatsminda" and his own poems: "Poet", "You are thirteen years old", "The gravedigger", "Mary", "I and night", and "The Moon of Mtatsminda".

Source: Sh. Radiani, Our Galaktion, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 252-253; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 654.

October

1920

October 14

Shalva Karmeli writes to Kolau Nadiradze that Galaktion Tabidze's 170-page third Book is being typeset at the printing house and will be published in a month.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 100.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze's third Book was not published in 1920. After the release of his second book, "Artistic Flowers", in 1919, his poem "John Reed" was published separately as a Book in 1924.

November

1920

November 5

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that the cultural and educational section of the special battalion of the People's Guard and the engineering team will open the Theatre of the People's Guard named after Karl Kautsky on November 6. In connection with this, an evening will be held, during which Valiko Jugheli will read a report, a performance will be held, poets: Giorgi Kuchishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Solomon Tavadze, and Varlam Rukhadze will read their poems.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №252, p. 2.

Note: V. Rukhadze is mentioned in the source with the initial of his first name and the last name. Solomon Tavadze - under the pseudonym “Oboli Musha”.

1920

After November 15

The poem “Statue of a Woman” is published in the magazine Mziuri Sakartvelo. Here, the editors print a statement that K. Mill’s article “G. Tabidze’s creative work” will not be published in this issue due to reasons independent of them.

Source: Magazine Mziuri Sakartvelo, 1920, №1, p. 3.

Note: The identity of the pseudonym “K. Mill” is unknown.

Dating: Giorgi Kuchishvili’s poem “Counterfeit” was published in the magazine, with the date “November 15, 1920” written next to it.

1920

November 24

He writes a poem “Lado Meskhishvili” in the editorial office of the newspaper Ertoba.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 32; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 456.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Nine hundred and eighteen”.

1920

November 27

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement that today, in the Avlabari Workers’ Club on Kakheti Street, a big evening will be held for the benefit of the same club, in which poets Galaktion Tabidze, Khariton Vardoshvili, and Solomon Tavadze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №271, p. 1.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze, Khariton Vardoshvili are mentioned in the source with the initials of their names and the surnames. Solomon Tavadze - under the pseudonym “Oboli Musha”.

1920

November 28

The poem “Lado Meskhishvili” is published in newspaper Ertoba.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №272, p. 2.

December

1920

December 7

He writes an untitled poem “Where the pain of the forests was heard...”.

Source: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1920, №1, p. 7.

Note: The poem was also published under the title “Georgia”.

Dating: The poem is dated in the first publication “7.XII.20”

1920

December 8

The newspaper Ertoba, in the “News” section, announces that on December 12, in celebration of People’s Guard Day, the first issue of the magazine Gvardieli will be published. It will feature articles and poems by Karl Kautsky, Valiko Jugheli, Akaki Chkhenkeli, Seid Devdariani, Ivane Gomarteli, Viktor Teklateli, Iakob Tsintsadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Varlam Rukhadze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №280, p. 3.

Note: In the source, Karl Kautsky, Valiko Jugheli, Akaki Chkhenkeli, Seid Devdariani, Ivane Gomarteli, Viktor Teklateli, Iakob Tsintsadze, and Varlam Rukhadze are mentioned by their initials and last names. Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili are referred to by their last names. I. Tsintsadze is identified by profession as a “doctor”.

1920

December 11

The newspaper Ertoba publishes a statement in the “News” column that the first issue of the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli has been published, in which the letters of Valiko Jugheli, Silibistro Jibladze, Karl Kautsky, and others, poems of Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, and Varlam Rukhadze have been published.

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №283, p. 3.

Note: Valiko Jugheli, Silibistro Jibladze, Karl Kautsky, Varlam Rukhadze are mentioned in the source by the initials of their names and the surnames. Galaktion Tabidze and Giorgi Kuchishvili – by last names.

1920

December 11

Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Georgia” is published in the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli.

Source: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1920, №1, p. 7; For dating: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №283, p. 3.

Dating: In the December 11 issue of the newspaper Ertoba, there is information that the magazine has already been released.

1920

Until December 12

In connection with the third anniversary of the creation of the Georgian Guard, he is preparing three poems for publication: “Let us have the spirit of the purest snow...”, “The gentle and moonlit shadows excite the eye...” and “We are celebrating the first ears of grains...”. In all three, he includes phrases that connect him with the National Guard: “And I love the Guard. Half with it / I haven’t been seen tired on the way by anyone...”, “Forward, Guards!! Your voices / are only worries about someone else”, and “Suddenly we saw the enemy in the mountain...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8208; №5762; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 36-37; For dating: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №284, p. 2.

Note: The passages relating to the Guard have been removed from subsequent publications of these verses. Therefore, we cannot say whether they were originally created in connection with the Guards and then changed, or the poet adapted the already created poems to the theme of the Guards. In other publications, these poems are titled: “Poetry first”, “Gentle and moony to the eye” and “The first ears of grains”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1920

December 12

Three poems of Galaktion Tabidze are published in the newspaper Ertoba with the same caption “12.XII.20” and the same title: “Guard” (“Let us have the spirit of the purest snow...”), “Guard” (“The gentle and moonlit shadows excite the eye...”) and “Guard” (“We are celebrating the first ears of grains...”).

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №284, p. 2.

1920

Until December 18

He writes a poem “Black pelican”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №967; №1086; №1466; №2686; №3408; №7393; №7413; №7757; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 41.

Note: The poem can also be found without a title (“This raven is going to fly over Madatov...”) and with the titles: “White Pelican” and “Tiflis”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1920

December 18

The magazine Aisi publishes Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Black Pelican”.

Source: Magazine Aisi, 1920, №2, p. 3; For dating: Newspaper Sakartvelo, 1920, №172, p. 3; Newspaper Ertoba, 1920, №289, p. 3.

Dating: Information about the release of the second issue of the magazine Aisi is provided by the newspaper Sakartvelo and newspaper Ertoba in the December 18, 1920 issues.

1920

December or earlier

He writes an untitled poem “Where the pain of the forests was heard...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 163; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 39.

Note: The poem was published under the title “Georgia”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1920

He writes a poem “1920” (“Sun-Mother of God, Sun-Self-indulgent...”) expressing his longing and sorrow for Olya Okujava.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 42; For dating: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1921, №2, January, p. 6.

Note: In other sources, the poem is published without a title and beginning with “The sun of June, the sun of June...”.

1920

He writes a poem “In the Mud”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 43.

1920

Anania Salukvadze’s Book “Tales of the Forest” is published with an epigraph consisting of a stanza from Galaktion’s poem “On the Road”.

Source: Zhiun-Mavri, “Tales of the Forest”, Tbilisi, 1920, newspaper Stalineli, 1941, №43, p. 3.

Note: The Book is published under the pseudonym “Zhiyun-Mavr”.

1920 or later

He reads Shalva Amirejibi’s poetry collection “Enamel” and makes notes on the book.

Source: Natia Sikharulidze, The First Georgian Ritorneli and Its Addressee, collection “Galaktionology”, IX, Tbilisi, 2022, p. 66.

Dating: The collection was published in 1920.

1920 or later

He dedicates the poem “The First Snow” to Terenti Graneli.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2328; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 149.

Note: The poem can also be found without a title (“Days will become like a snowy garden...”) and with the title: “Homeless children”.

1920 or later

He reads the Russian translation of Herbert George Wells’ novel “The Time Machine”, highlights passages in the preface, and translates lines.

Source: GTSM, 352, Герберт Дж. Уэллс, Машина времени, Leningrad, 1920.

1920 or later

He begins writing an essay titled “Revolution and Georgian Art,” discussing the fateful consequences of revolution: the silencing of the affluent class due to fear and the victorious class’s ignorance of art’s significance. Galaktion mentions Balmont’s poem, which recounts how Anatoly Lunacharsky, during the days of the revolution, persuaded a hammer-wielding Russian revolutionary to spare the statue of Apollo Belvedere.

Source: Autograph, GTDA №277.

Dating: The text references Valery Bryusov's 1920 poem "To A. V. Lunacharsky".

1920 or later

He reads Giorgi Ustinov's Russian Book about Leon Trotsky, "The Tribune of the Revolution", and makes highlights throughout the text.

Source: MGL, t-580, Г. УСТИНОВ, "Трибун Револуции (Л. Д. Троцкий)", Moscow, 1920.

1921

January

1921

Until January 1

He writes a poem "Nanny".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 44.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1921

Until January 1

He writes a poem "Look, the dusk is falling".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1921, №1, January 01, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 44.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1921

Until January 1

He writes a poem "Old woman".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1921, №1, January 01, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 46.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "News of our day...".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1921

Until January 1

He writes a poem "But what can I do?".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1921, №1, January 01, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 47.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1921

Until January 1

He writes a poem "A table with alembics".

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1921, №1, January 01, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 47.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1921

January 1

The newspaper Ertoba publishes Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Nanny" (fragment).

Source: Newspaper Ertoba, 1921, №1, p. 3.

Note: In the 1927 book, this text is included as five independent verses. "Nanny", "Look, the dusk is falling", "News of our day...", "But what can I do?", and "A table with alembics".

1921

January 1

The poem "1920" is published in the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli.

Source: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1921, №2, January 01, p. 6.

1921

Until January 22

A group of poets decides to hold a competition to obtain the title "King of Poets". All participants will present a poem specially written for the competition. Galaktion presents the poem "Poetry First".

Source: Ioseb Lortkipanidze, "Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze", Tbilisi, 1968, p. 116, 117. Election Ballots, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: The first ballot is dated January 22, therefore, the planning of the contest and the delivery of materials should have taken place before that.

1921

January 22

Davit Pavliashvili publishes epigrams on Georgian poets in the newspaper Sakartvelo under the pseudonym "Pardon". Among them are Galaktion and Titsian Tabidze: "Just mention, my head, two Tabidzes, / Everyone knows their name, swear if you wish".

Source: Pardon, A Short Feuilleton "Poets", 1921, Newspaper Sakartvelo, №15, p. 3.

Note: Galaktion and Titsian are referred to by the surname "Tabidzes" in the source.

1921

January 22

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Iakob Tsintsadze writes under the pseudonym "Ia Ekaladze" that he votes for Galaktion Tabidze as a bearer of great sadness.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-285; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Terenti Granelli writes that all of Georgia is voting for Galaktion Tabidze for the poet's reign.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-290; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Grigol Oragvelidze writes that he is giving his vote to Galaktion Tabidze, who is distinguished by being diseased with poetry, and the Poet-King of Georgia.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-296; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Giorgi Saganeli writes that he is voting for Galaktion Tabidze for the reign of the poets of all of Georgia.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-293; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Gobron Tsitskishvili writes under the pseudonym "Agareli" that the King of Poets of Georgia is Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-288; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Giorgi Gamkrelidze writes under the pseudonym "Gr. Zodeli" that he votes for Galaktion Tabidze for the reign of poets of all of Georgia.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-292; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Aleksandre Kalandadze writes that he nominates Galaktion Tabidze as the King of Poets.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-291; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Note: The name is abbreviated in the signature.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Artem Gabunia writes that he is voting for our great Galaktion Tabidze for the reign of poetry in Georgia.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-294; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Irakli Kancheli, under the pseudonym “Hercules Kancheli”, votes for Galaktion Tabidze for the primacy of poets in Georgia.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-286; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, an unknown person writes that he is voting for poet Galaktion Tabidze, who should be the King of Poets of all Georgia.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-289; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Note: The text is signed, but the signature is very faint and illegible.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25 or earlier

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Grigol Oragvelidze receives a power of attorney from Polio Abramia, Mikel Rabiani and Simon Chikovani to vote for Galaktion Tabidze on their behalf.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-287; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

Note: The letter is written by Grigol Oragvelidze's hand.

Dating: Since the results of the competition were already known on January 25, this letter should have been written either on that day or earlier.

1921

January 25

In connection with the election of the King of Poets, Ioseb Imedashvili writes that no modern writer has yet reached the highest point, and therefore he considers the election of the King of Poets untimely at this stage, but since he was asked to name the best, he "hands the golden pen to Galaktion Tabidze" as the bearer of world songs. On the other hand, Imedashvili considers Aleksandre Shanshiashvili a serious competitor and thinks that he may take away the first place from Galaktion.

Source: Election Ballots, Autograph, MGL, 24551-295; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138.

1921

January 25

The results of the "King of Poets" election are being counted. Galaktion Tabidze is announced as the King of Poets and the poets present give him a loud ovation.

Source: Newspaper Борьба, January 29, 1921, №21, p. 4;

1921

After January 25

He writes a memory of the stormy nights of 1918 and returning to his homeland with a ship carrying a prepared Book for publication. He recalls how someone called out his name on the ship and how the people greeted him with ovations. He notes that no one in Georgia was loved as much as he was, because no one was stronger than him. He interrupts the memory with the story of being chosen as the king of poets.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №617, p. 1-2.

1921

From January 25

He writes a dialogue for the play: "The King of Poets" ("Galaktion Tabidze: Chimera, what are you hiding?..").

Source: MGL, d-626-18, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 221-222; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130.

1921

After January 25

Some workers are irritated by the fact that Galaktion is referred to as the “King of Poets”. The poet drafts a letter to send to the editorial office, in which he tries to clarify that this title has nothing to do with actual “kingship”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-248; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 85.

Dating: The event is dated based on the time when he was chosen as the King of Poets.

1921

January 26

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme publishes an announcement that on January 26, the traditional day of students, the student body of the State University will hold an evening-banquet... The following people participate “in the poet’s family”: Paolo Iashvili, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Siko Pashalishvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Titsian Tabidze, Shalva Sharashidze, Giorgi Leonidze.

Source: Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1921, №1036, p. 1.

Note: Shalva Sharashidze is mentioned under the pseudonym “Taguna”, while the names of other poets are written with initials.

1921

January 29

The Russian newspaper Borba in the “Chronology” column publishes a statement that on January 25, the literary youth of Georgia unanimously elected the “King of Poets”. It is noted that the worthiest of the poets, Galaktion Tabidze, who has a great influence on the entire Georgian poetry, was permanently appointed to this honorary degree, and the young poets present gave him a noisy ovation. The article also states that this tradition originates from France and that the first holder of this title was Paul Verlaine.

Source: Newspaper Борьба, January 29, 1921, №21, p. 4.

1921

January 30

On Rustaveli Avenue, at Nino Nakashidze’s café, Paolo Iashvili and Ali Arsenishvili sit together, reading the newspaper Borba, which was published the previous day, containing information about Galaktion being chosen as the King of Poets. They are furious and meet with Titsian Tabidze. Together, they go to Borba newspaper’s editor, Davit Sharashidze, and categorically demand a retraction of the published announcement. Right then and there, they write the retraction text and leave it with the editor for publication.

Source: Nodar Tabidze’s record, GTDA, №1438, p. 3.

1921

Until the end of January

From Tbilisi, he sends a letter to his brother Abesalom Tabidze in Chkvishi, congratulating him on the holidays. He informs that he could not publish the book. He writes that he works as the executive secretary of the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli and is very busy. Although he has a total of 7300 roubles and receives an officer's bonus, the amount is still barely enough. He asks him to write to him in detail about their mother and to urgently send the letter "The Story of Kaspar Hauser" printed in the Russian magazine Novoe Slovo, which he needs for writing an article. He informs that there is poverty and hunger in Tbilisi. In addition, it is snowy and frosty, and people cannot even buy firewood. He thinks that in such a situation it is better to live in the village. On the letter, he writes the editorial office Sakhalkho Gvardieli at the main headquarters of the Guard as his own address.

Source: Nodar Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 480-481; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 495. For noting: Ленотр Ж., Тайна Каспара Гаузера, Новое слово, СПб, 1911, т. 3, стр. 93-101.

1921

January

The magazine Khelovneba publishes Soso Aslanishvili's article "Georgian Poetry" – Meotsnebe Niamorebi and Shvildosani. He writes that in 1919, the magazine Meotsnebe Niamorebi was published in Kutaisi, followed by the magazine Shvildosani in 1920. These two magazines are associated with a new direction in Georgian literature – Georgian modernism – and a new generation of young poets who, in 1916, published their works in the magazine Tsisperi Kantsebi and brought significant changes. Among the listed poets, Galaktion is not mentioned; however, the researcher notes that from 1918, Paolo Iashvili, Galaktion, and Titsian Tabidze appear in the capital, where this group resurfaces. He quotes a fragment from Grigol Robakidze's article published in the magazine Ars, which mentions Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Magazine Khelovneba, 1921, №3, p. 15-19

Note: In 1921, two different magazines titled Khelovneba were published in Georgia. A monthly magazine Khelovneba was published in Kutaisi, edited and published by Ioseb (Soso) Aslanishvili, with only three issues released.

1921

January

The magazine Khelovneba, in the section "Bibliographical Notes," publishes Mikheil Botchorishvili's review of Galaktion Tabidze's second Book of poems, "Crâne aux fleurs artistiques". The critic notes that comparing Galaktion's delicately sorrowful verses in the second collection to those in the first inspires admiration, as the young poet advances with a giant stride. He describes Galaktion as a solitary wandering star in Georgian poetry, a hermit who entrusts no one with the intentions of his heart. Yet, reading his lines reveals the poet's sorrow, making it impossible not to admire this confidant of the soul's enigmatic thoughts. Comparing the two collections, the critic observes that the first was more beautifully published, attributing this to rising publication costs. He also suggests the second Book would have been improved if Galaktion had omitted certain poems, though he does not specify which ones.

Source: Magazine Khelovneba, 1921, №3, p. 28; Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 113.

February

1921

February 2

The Russian newspaper Borba publishes a statement on behalf of the editors, that in the information printed in the issue of January 29 about the election of the King of Poets, as confirmed by the Union of Writers, there were inaccuracies.

Source: Newspaper Борьба, 1921, February 02, №24, p. 4.

1921

February 6

Olya Okujava meets a man in Tbilisi, in Alexandre’s Garden, for whom she had developed feelings eight months ago. When she returns home, she feels ashamed, but the next day she plans to meet him again. She doesn’t say anything directly to Galaktion, but in her diary, she hypothetically addresses him, stating that the love and affection he gives her are not enough for her. In two or three days, the man goes to Batumi, and Olya also plans to transfer there for work, although she does not intend to marry him.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 465-466.

1921

February 6

The newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme under the pseudonym “Gansan” publishes the article “Mourning Lines” dedicated to the work of Terenti Graneli. The author writes that he enjoys Terenti Graneli’s poetry so much that he doubts whether he is reading Galaktion Tabidze. He believes that the influence of the Galaktion’s school is huge on Terenti Graneli, which speaks to the talent of the latter.

Source: Gansan, “Mourning Lines (T. Graneli)”, Newspaper Sakhalkho Sakme, 1921, №1046, p. 4.

Note: Terenti Graneli is mentioned in the source by the initial of his first name and the surname, Galaktion Tabidze with the abbreviation of the name and the surname.

1921

Until February 20

He writes an untitled poem (“Toast to him who was called in wars...”).

Source: MGL, 632, 967, 969, 1086, 3408, 7757, d-540, p. 3 (H). G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 7; For dating: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1921, №6, p. 6.

Note: The poem was also printed under the titles “Near Tiflis” and “Toast to him”, in some editions it is combined with the poems “White Pelican” and “Let tomorrow take care of tomorrow”.

1921

February 20

Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Near Tiflis" ("Toast to those who was called in wars...") is published unsigned in the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli.

Source: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1921, №6, p. 6.

December 1920 - February 1921

He lives in the rented apartment of Polikarpe Kakabadze and sometimes he accompanies the latter to visit his fiancée - Lyudmila Mikhailidi.

Source: Interview with Manana Kakabadze, magazine Tbiliselebi, 09, 07, 2010.

Dating: The publication states that this took place in the winter of 1920-1921.

1921

Until February 25

In the evening, while walking the streets of Tbilisi, he accidentally runs into Giorgi Leonidze. They enter the Blue Monastery and then observe the carved ornaments on the church door.

Source: Ts. Khetereli, The Shimmer of Memories, newspaper Komunisti, May 08, 1980, p. 4; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 656-657.

March

1921

After March 7

He writes a poem "Snow" ("The trees are covered with snow...").

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50 p. 165; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 9; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 311.

1921

Until March 12

He reads the French writer Joris-Karl Huysmans' novel "Against Nature" in Russian, noting down in his notebook interesting names, comparisons, and translating unfamiliar words using a dictionary.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-5, p. 1-4; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 38, 39; Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 289-291.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He writes an unfinished untitled poem, "Playing with Fire Again".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-5, p. 4-v; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 39.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the subsequent dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He writes a brief summary of the novel “Julius Caesar” in Russian.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 5–8, 10-11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 39-41.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He writes an untitled, unfinished poem: “Let us lock the door tightly...”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 41.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

Note: Certain verbal material is used in the poem “Beyond Mtatsminda”.

1921

Until March 12

He reads Fyodor Dostoevsky’s novella “The Village of Stepanchikovo and Its Inhabitants”, from which he notes in his notebook the pseudonym “Essbuketov” of the false poet Grigory Vidoplyasov and the sentence: “I can already hear the whistling of empty space”. He translates this into Georgian and elaborates: “Like the slithering rustle of a snake, a misty day trembles”. On the same page, he sketches labyrinths and caricatured faces. Using this line, he begins writing a poem.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 11-13; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 42.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

Note: Certain lines from this unpublished poem are used in the poem “Heart, What Is Happening to You”.

1921

Until March 12

He writes untitled poems: “Calm down, heart! Oh sea, what has happened to you” and “Burdened with many storms”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 13, 17; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 42, 44.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

Note: The poems are variations of the untitled poem “Where Someday with Dreamy Sails...” and also appear under the titles: “Where Someday with Dreamy Sails,” “Vision,” “Manifesto – Musical,” “Winter,” and “With Dreamy Sails”.

1921

Until March 12

He begins writing the poem “In Tsitsamuri, Where Ilia Was Killed,” drafting several versions, one of which is titled “From a Letter”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 13, 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 42-43.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He works on the poem “Memories of the Days When It Flashed,” in which one of the main characters is Eva.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 13, 14, 27, 29, 30; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 44, 45, 46.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He writes a poem titled “In the Rattle of Mirrors”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 44.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He plans to organize an evening for the King of Poets. He wants the event to be international.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 45.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He draws a saint wearing a cross on his chest. He signs the drawing with “G. Tabidze”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 27.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until March 12

He works on a poem titled “From Diary Prose,” writing an untitled stanza: “Whisper, a word fragment by fragment”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-5, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 48.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles “From Diary Prose” and “You, Comrade, From Diary Prose”.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the dated entry in the notebook.

1921

January 27 - March 12

He makes notes about his appearance in the literary arena, in which he refers to himself in the third person. He writes that in 1907, when Ilia Chavchavadze was killed in Tsitsamuri, an era of Georgian poetry ended and in the same year a new direction broke out in Georgian poetry. He notes that in 1908, a new era in Georgian poetry began with the appearance of young poets, including Galaktion Tabidze, in the literary arena. He mentions his melancholy voice and lists the first publications: Lado Darchiashvili's magazine Akhali Kvali and newspaper Amirani. He writes that he was soon noticed by critics and cites critics' evaluations. The article published under the pseudonym "Nari" stated that "G. T. is so amazingly different from all modern poets" that in 1909 Giorgi Tchumburidze ranked him among the first and the newspaper Khalkhis Khma mentioned him among the best poets.

Source: MGL, d-5, p. 31-32; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 47; 523; Information for clarification and dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 624.

1921

March 12

He writes a prose text in Russian about a child who carried the religion of evil deep in his heart.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-5, p. 26-28; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 47, 48.

1920

March 19

After Olya Okujava successfully performs her role, people congratulate her, embrace, and kiss her, but she longs for only one person to be with her – Galaktion.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 464.

1921

Until March 25

On the train from his native village to Tbilisi, he meets Nikoloz Shengelaia, who tells how he was going to be forced into military service and how he escaped by jumping from a bridge into the water.

Source: Notes on the pages of the desk calendar, MGL, d-201, p. 4; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 393.

Dating: Only 1921 is indicated in the source, but since this meeting took place on the train when the poet was returning to Tbilisi ("I was coming from the village"), we date it to 1921 before returning to Tbilisi.

1921

March 25

Having returned to Tbilisi from Chkvishi, they allow him to occupy one room in the “Palace of Art” building located at 13 Sergi Street and live there for a while. He is satisfied with the attitude towards him, but he thinks about the number of the building - 13.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 299; MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 49; For clarification of information: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206.

Dating: The fact is mentioned in the record dated from March 25 to April 2.

1921

March

He writes an untitled poem “Here! Here you are!..”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4060; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 156; For dating: ibid., p. 497.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Here! Here you are! The end” and “Here! Here you are!”.

April

1921

March 25 - April 2

At the Palace of Art, he meets everyone except Polikarpe Kakabadze. He learns that Baron Bibineishvili is the head of government affairs, Mikheil Okujava is the food commissar, Archil Mikadze is the assistant to the labour commissar, and Davit Tchipadze is the head of maritime communications. He also becomes acquainted with Shota Gabrichidze, the secretary of the revolutionary committee. He finds them all to be pleasant individuals. He plans to host an evening at the State Theatre, which, according to what he hears, could improve his situation and make the publication of books possible. He remains hopeful that this will come to pass. He also learns about the upcoming elections for the Artists’ Committee. He believes the government treats artists with great care and that he, too, will not face any oppression. While he is unsure of how his future endeavours will unfold, he has no doubt that a brilliant future awaits him.

Source: Galaktion’s record, MGL, d-6, p. 4; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 299.

Note: Polikarpe Kakabadze is referred to as “Polio Kakabadze,” Baron Bibineishvili as “Baron,” Mikheil Okujava as “Misha,” and Archil Mikadze as “Archil”. In the source, Gabrichidze’s name is mistakenly given with the initial “S”.

1921

April 2

In his notebook, he writes that after returning from his village, Tbilisi appears slightly changed to him, but the communists are not resorting to repression.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 49.

Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he notes in Russian that a poem about Dostoevsky could be written.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 42; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 55.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He reads Georgi Lukomski's article "New Petersburg" published in the second issue of the 1913 magazine Apoloni. The work mentions various authors who have enthusiastic responses about Petersburg. Among them, Lukomski names the artist Stepane Galaktionov. The poet notes in his notebook that "it's like when someone suddenly calls out your name".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 43; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 56.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

Note: In the source, Stepane Galaktionov is mentioned only by his surname.

1921

After April 2

He reads an article about Leo Tolstoy and notes down episodes in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 43; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 56.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He reads the poems of the French poet Émile in Russian and writes the lines of his poems written in Odessa between 1911-1915 in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 43; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 56.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He reads Valery Bryusov's translation of Edgar Poe's poem "Leonore" and writes the first stanza of the poem in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 56.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

Note: The author and translator of the poem are not mentioned in the source.

1921

After April 2

He works on an untitled poem “Desire Spins with a Petal of Roses”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 56.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

Note: The poem appears under the titles: “Drunk with Life, Drunk with Wine” and “They Think They Are Drunk with Vain Wine”.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he writes in Russian the title of the portrait: “Portrait of the Violinist Romashkov”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 55.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He borrows 5000 roubles from Nikoloz Mitsishvili.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 50.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he writes the addresses of various individuals. He notes that Misha Okujava lives at 10 Rustaveli Avenue. He writes the addresses of Vera Shaverzashvili, Babilina, Gigla Mebuki, Varlam Dzidziguri, and others. He mentions that he has met many new people.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 50.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he writes a list of tasks to accomplish the next day. He wants to retrieve books or the money for the books and plans to go with Teo Kekelidze to return them. He plans to organize an evening event at the State Theatre and intends to visit the theatre during the day to book it for the evening. He writes that if he manages to secure the evening, he will need to borrow money to hold the event. He plans a business meeting with Filipe Makharadze. He is curious whether Mikhail Okujava has arrived. He hopes that no one else will get the evening before him and considers that if booking the opera theatre doesn't work out, he should hold the event at the Palace of Arts or elsewhere. He likes the idea of an evening stroll at the Palace of Arts and believes that a stylistic evening should be held there.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 50.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He plans to borrow money from someone to buy new socks, stock up on water, visit Gabunia to collect sugar and cigarettes, wash clothes, have a chair repaired, and fix the electric switch.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 50.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he writes a humorous poem-epitaph dedicated to Giorgi Kuchishvili: "You love drinking wine a thousand times a day, life pulls you along like a talisman".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 50.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He reserves the Opera Theatre for hosting his own evening event. The editor of the newspaper Komunisti promises to assist in spreading the information. Shalva Dadiani promises to select actors for the performances at the event.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 52.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In the notebook, he sketches a rising sun and signs it as Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 21.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In the notebook, he sketches a portrait of a man in a frontal view.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 20.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In the notebook, he writes down in Russian lines from Nikolai Nekrasov's poem "The Poet and the Citizen": "You may not be a poet, but it is your duty to be a citizen".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 52.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In the notebook, he writes in Russian a line about Semyon Nadson's work: "He endlessly drills into his own soul in an excruciatingly heart-wrenching way".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 52. Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 206.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He begins writing a poem about the hand of the Venus de Milo but does not finish it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 52.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He begins writing a poem titled "The Monastery" but does not finish it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 27; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 53.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He reads Nikolai Gumilyov's critical review, "On the Anthology of Modern Poetry", published in the second issue of the 1913 magazine Apoloni. In his notebook, he writes in Russian Gumilyov's statement that in the French section, modern poetry begins with Baudelaire, despite the tradition that opened it with Théophile Gautier.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 27; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 53; Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 288-289.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He writes an untitled poem, “In the heart, night reigned; in the hair, a white lily,” but does not finish it.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 27; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 53.

Note: The poem is a variant of the untitled poem “Where someday a dreamer with sails...” and is also found under the following titles: “Where someday a dreamer with sails,” “Vision,” “Manifesto – Musical,” “Winter,” “A Dreamer with Sails,” “Oh, Every Day the Suns...,” “Calm Down, Heart! Sea, What Happened to You,” and “Loaded with Many Storms”.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He writes lists of potential participants and guests for his evening event. He considers inviting Mikheil Chiaureli as the director.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 28-32; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 53, 54.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He writes rhymes, including an assonant rhyme: “ამეტისტო - მეტისტმეტო” (“amethyst – excessive”).

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 28-32; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 53, 54.

Note: This rhyme was not used by Galaktion in his works.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He writes a two-stanza untitled poem, “The vine adorns Tsinandali,” which he concludes with a rhythmic refrain: Hey, hey, colourful-eyed, hey, hey, colourful-eyed, hey, hey, colourful-capped, forever, I bow to you.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 37; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 54.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles: “Evening,” “This Native Wind,” “Nocturne,” “Evening in Kakheti,” and “Alziora, Poems Written in Kakheti”.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

He reads Alexander Gidon's article "The Death of Oscar Wilde," published in the second issue of the 1912 magazine Apoloni, and writes the article's title in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 55; Information for clarification: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 289.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he writes the phrase: "The Georgian Pan. Vazha-Pshavela – this is the Georgian Pan".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 55.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

After April 2

In his notebook, he writes Mikheil Pataridze's words: "Let me have half a pound of bread, but may I work from morning till evening".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-6, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 55.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the previous dated entry in the notebook.

1921

April 9

He addresses the head of the Caucasus Division of the Russian Telegraph Agency, Sergey Bogdatiev, with a statement. He writes that he printed 2,000 copies of the second volume of his poems in May 1919 at his own expense and paid 25,000 roubles. Some of the books were distributed free of charge at literary evenings, while some were taken away by the agents and they neither gave money nor returned the unsold books. Therefore, if he did not receive royalties, he could not even reimburse the publishing costs. He requests to buy the remaining 500 copies for one thousand roubles each, or to return them. The document of the Main Board of Political Education of the People's Commissariat of the SSR of Georgia is attached to the statement, which talks about what may result from confiscation of books.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-102; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 90.

Note: Bogdatiev is mentioned only by his last name in the source.

1921

Until April 19

In his notebook, he writes down materials for a literary manifesto in bullet points. Among other materials, he lists Valery Bryusov's "Experiments," Grigol Robakidze's "Portraits," publications from the Russian Proletkult magazine Vzmakh, and the Gospels.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 57-58.

Dating: It is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until April 19

He envisions the establishment of an "Order of World Art" and believes that "this will be a colossal movement".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 58.

Dating: It is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until April 19

In his notebook, he briefly writes an untitled poem ("Let the toast be to those who was called in for wars...").

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 58, 59.

Dating: It is dated based on the next dated entry in the notebook.

Note: The poem was written before February 20 and was published unsigned in the magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli. It was also published under the titles "Near Tiflis" and "Let the Toast Be to Him". In some editions, it was combined with the poems "The White Pelican" and "Let Tomorrow Take Care of Tomorrow".

1921

April 19

In his notebook, he writes that Geronti Kikodze, Shalva Amirejibi, Meliton Balanchivadze, and Tamar Shaverdashvili are in Tbilisi.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 59.

1921

April 19

In his notebook, he writes that his evening event will be international and drafts a tentative plan for its organization. He anticipates that Ioseb Grishashvili will participate in the event. He also expresses a desire to create "living tableaux" based on poems published in his first book.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 4, 5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 59, 60.

1921

April 19

He attends the meeting of the Academy and writes in his diary that there was another nonsense.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 60.

1921

April 20

In the morning, he drinks a glass of cognac and sets off to attend to his tasks.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 60.

1921

April 20

While in the cadet corps to find out about the issue of his books or the refund of the corresponding money, he meets the secretary of the state commissioner of internal affairs, who recognizes him and receives him with dignity. The poet is happy that he enjoys respect in society and hopes that the case will be decided in his favour.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 60-64.

1921

April 20

In the evening, a session of the Academy is held, during which Grigol Robakidze delivers a lecture on the poetics of Novalis. In Galaktion's view, this lecture reinforces Robakidze's lack of poetic talent, prompting him to seek suitable grounds for this judgment. In his notebook, Galaktion jots down his thoughts about Novalis's life and work, lamenting that he was unable to discern Pavle Ingorokva's opinion of Robakidze's lecture. After Robakidze's presentation, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia speaks, pointing out the general absence of music in poetry, which deeply frustrates Galaktion. He feels compelled to convince everyone that poetry indeed contains music – a music that is “not of stones (Mallarmé), not of articles (German poets), not of Verlaine's nuances, but something else... talent, talent, and more talent”. Following the evening, Titsian Tabidze ironically remarks to Galaktion that when Robakidze mentioned Baratashvili, the audience glanced at Galaktion. He is affected by such attitudes toward him but senses how he should conduct himself in the future.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 6-10, 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 60-64.

Note: In the source, Grigol Robakidze is referred to by his initial and last name, Georg Philipp Friedrich Freiherr von Hardenberg as Novalis, and Paolo Iashvili and Titsian Tabidze by their first names.

1921

April 20

After Grigol Robakidze's lecture, he visits Paolo Iashvili for tea with others and feels like an orphan because they obstruct and joke badly.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 60-64.

1921

Until April 20

Fearing Bolshevik repressions, he burns ten boxes of his own writings.

Source: O. Janelidze, Executed Freedom, newspaper Literaturuli Sakartvelo, 1997, №48, November 28, p. 6.

1921

April 20

He writes in his diary that he experiences endless sadness and loneliness, because he lost everything he had written since childhood, diaries, poems, materials for a great novel, books. He writes that the past has disappeared, and the thought of the future scares him. He does not know what the future holds and who will support him.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 10, 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 63, 60-64.

Note: "Lost" should mean the fact that after the victory of the Bolsheviks, he himself burned his writings and library in despair.

1921

April 21

He is offered to participate in the Poetry Day – in May 7 newspaper and prepares a manifesto. He is happy with Shalva Karmeli's kind words that the latter thought Galaktion Tabidze was a robber and it turned out he was a very peaceful person.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 65.

1921

April 21

In the evening, at the conservatory, he attends Sergei Bogdatiev's talk about Tolstoy, and he doesn't like the great writer being degraded like that. He is surprised that during the lecture Bogdatiev only looks at him. In the evening, a beautiful lady wonderfully reads excerpts from Tolstoy's Anna Karenina. Galaktion is charmed but knows he will soon forget. Kara-Darvish introduces Galaktion to some beautiful Armenian lady with the words "the king of poets".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 15; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 65-66.

Note: Kara-Darvish is a pseudonym of the Armenian writer Hakob Genjian.

1921

April 21

He makes a note in his diary, in which he encourages himself that he is not guilty of anyone and should face everyone and everything boldly. He feels his own greatness, he is sorry that he has lost many things, but he should not be afraid, because there are many in the world who are inconsolable, and he can comfort them.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 15; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 65-66.

1921

April 22

He attends the session of the Academy. He notes that he is not certain about the identities of the members of the Academy. He believes that no one has as much hidden poetic energy as him and expects a worldwide resonance.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 67.

1921

April 22

He laments that Artem Gabunia, who knows that Galaktion has been back in Tbilisi for a month, makes no effort to meet him. He speculates that Artem sees him as a two-faced and corrupt individual, which deeply affects him. He also disapproves of Artem marrying an unattractive woman and believes that this decision has ruined him.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 17; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 67.

1921

April 22

In his notebook, he writes that he should avoid Giorgi Saganeli. He reminds himself of the need for diplomacy.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 17-18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 68.

1921

April 24

He writes in his diary that he feels great strength, talent and dignity in himself and that his "illuminated brilliance" will overshadow everything around him.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-7, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 68.

1921

After April 26

He begins writing a poem in Russian titled "My Homeland" but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №34.

Note: In the original, the title of the poem is “Родина моя”.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the one addressed to Beglar Akhospireli.

1921

After April 26

He begins writing a poem in Russian titled “Leave Me Alone” but does not finish it.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №34.

Note: In the original, the title of the poem is “Оставь меня”.

Dating: The poem is written on the same page as the one addressed to Beglar Akhospireli.

1921

After April 26

He writes a poem in Russian titled “To a Friend” dedicated to Beglar Akhospireli (Aghayan).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №34.

Note: In the original, the title of the poem is “Другу”.

Dating: We date it based on the time of Akhospireli’s death.

1921

April 28

In honour of the memory of Ekaterine Khalvashi, the deceased wife of his brother-in-law, Mikheil Okujava, he writes an untitled poem “The fog reigned around...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №471; №4257; №28897-50, p. 40; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 11.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Elegy”, “Lines”, “In Memory of a Revolutionary” and “Funeral March”.

1921

April

He writes a poem “A day turns into days”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4233; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 10; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 311.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “I wonder where she is?”, with the subtitle “Gazella”.

May

1921

Until May 1

Under the editorship of Sandro Euli, a Georgian-Russian literary collection titled “First of May” is being prepared. Grigol Tsetskhladze, a key contributor to the Georgian section of the journal, asks Galaktion to submit a poem for publication in the collection. The poet promises to bring the poem and even agrees with Grigol that his work should be printed on the first page. Despite their agreement, Galaktion never submits the poem, as, after the occupation of Georgia, he generally refrains from actively publishing his works.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, “Recollections about Galaktion”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 407-425.

1921

May 4

He publishes the poem “Lines” dedicated to Ekaterine Khalvashi-Okujava in the newspaper Komunisti with the initials “N. N”.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1921, №50, May 04.

1921

May 18

Olya Okujava returns to Tbilisi but does not inform Galaktion.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 1.

1921

Until May 22

He intends to hold an evening of poetry, music, drama and painting at the State Theatre on May 22 and set his own prices. In his diary, he writes an outline of the statement on the name of the main department of art.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 88.

Note: It is likely that this intention was realized on June 12.

1921

Until May 22

He reads the works by Russian proletarian poets: Vladimir Kirillov, Alexei Gastev, Vasily Alexandrovsky, and Sergey Malashkin. He writes down excerpts from these texts in his notebook. He believes that the most important thing is to find a form for creative expression, while proletarian poets still lack such a form.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-9, p. 1-6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 76-81.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

He reads the second 1918 edition of Sergei Yesenin’s Book “Radunitsa”, writing down an excerpt from the preface and a stanza from Yesenin’s poem “Transfiguration”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-9, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 81.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

He writes down a fragment of a play in his notebook, featuring characters named Panioli and Godfather Mate.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 82.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

In his notebook, he writes about adapting the poem "Memories of Those Days When It Flashed" into a play. The protagonist of the work is Eva.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 8-12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 82-87.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

He makes a portrait sketch of Don Juan in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 13; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 88.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

He works on lines titled "The Echo of Rhymes" in his notebook.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 13; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 87, 88.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

He writes in his notebook that he should not forget what is most important in life: youth, beauty, wealth, fame, women, wine, flowers, and intellect.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 88.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

Until May 22

He writes a poem titled "Nocturnes", as well as "Seventh of May" ("The night brings the fear of murder..."), and on the same page, he writes various rhyming pairs.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 23; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 92.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

Note: The poem was not published during the poet's lifetime. There exists an untitled version of the same poem: "(The room. The night. The fear of rustling...).

1921

May 22 or earlier

He writes in his notebook that he discovered something interesting: if you speak in the first person as an object or a living being, it results in something fascinating. He provides an example with a stanza from Boris Sadovsky's poem "The White Flower", noting that the poem does not fully convey what he aims to express. He writes that the poet should speak on behalf of the flower itself. He thinks that to realize this idea, he can use various books, including descriptions from natural science, zoology, pathology, and others. To develop the idea, he lists the names of various precious stones, their properties, and origins. He plans to write twelve sonnets.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 16, 17; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 89.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

May 22

In the morning, he learns that Olya Okujava has been back in Tbilisi for a week and that Titsian Tabidze saw her and her brother sitting in a car. Galaktion plans to meet her.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 1.

1921

May 22

In the evening, Olya Okujava's younger brother, Vasili, visits Galaktion, informing him that Olya has returned and inviting him to their home. Galaktion soon goes to the Okujavas'. Olya appears very changed, weakened by illness. When Galaktion greets her with a kiss, she feels uncomfortable. Olya tells the poet that she lived abroad with another man, from whom she had a child and contracted a contagious disease, and she blames Galaktion for leaving her alone in Moscow. Galaktion does not believe her words. Olya adds that doctors have advised her to go to Crimea for mud baths, but she prefers Pyatigorsk, as it is not as far.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 1.

1921

May 22 or after

He works in his notebook on a poem that says the proletariat shattered the monarchy and destroyed the king's crown, while awarding Galaktion Tabidze, the chosen bard, a laurel crown as the king of poets.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 89.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

Note: The poem remains unfinished.

1921

May 22 or after

He writes in his notebook that he should engage society with what interests him personally.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 89.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

1921

May 22 or after

He writes the plan for the "Evening of the King of Poets". He assumes that the evening will open with his "Hymn to Poetry", with music composed by Meliton Balanchivadze and conducted by Valerian Mizandari. The lecture on Galaktion Tabidze's poetry will be delivered by Geronti Kikodze.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-9, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 90.

Dating: The record is dated based on the following dated entry in the notebook.

Note: In the "Hymn to Poetry", the poem "Poetry First and Foremost" is likely implied.

1921

May 23

Olya visits Galaktion, and the poet learns that the story about having a child and contracting a contagious disease was made up. However, Olya does have a serious issue with her hand. While working on a Saturday labour project, she cut her hand with a rusty saw, which led to an infection. The wound became so complicated that she faced the possibility of having her hand amputated. She refused the amputation and underwent a long treatment to save her hand, though without sensation.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 2.

1921

May 23

He meets Teo Kekelidze, who has recently returned from Moscow, and learns from him that Olya Okujava was living with a Latvian man in Moscow. This news is a devastating blow to Galaktion, but he decides that, due to Olya's illness, he cannot confront her or reveal that he knows about her betrayal.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 3.

1921

May 24

Olya visits Galaktion again. They talk about the seven years they spent together, confess their love for each other once more, and plan to live together again.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 3.

1921

May 25

Galaktion, shaken by Olya's betrayal, recalls and writes in his notebook about the times Olya had flirted with other men. He reflects that, had it not been for his intervention, she might have betrayed him even then. He thinks it would have been better for Olya to kill him than to betray him.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №559, p. 5.

1921

After May 27

He receives a letter sent by his brother Abesalom Tabidze from Chkvishi to Tbilisi. The addressee is sorry that they did not receive a letter from Galaktion after his return to Tbilisi. He writes that, as promised, they were waiting for him to come on the holidays. Their mother asks Galaktion to bring laundry with him when he arrives.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-305; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 150.

1921

May or later

He receives an informational letter from Mikheil Abramishvili. The sender informs him that the Literary Department's Publishing Section has begun publishing the weekly magazine Khelobneba and invites him to collaborate. The letter mentions that the honorarium rates will be announced soon.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-445-b; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 253-254.

1921

Spring

He writes a poem "Look into my eye".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №3406; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 10; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 312.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled in "Look into my eye...".

June

1921

Beginning of June or later

He sends a brief note to the State Publishing House's printing office, requesting that the tickets for his evening event be handed over to the bearer of the letter.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-242; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 136; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, 2025, p. 552-553.

1921

June 11

The fortnightly art and information magazine Khelovneba publishes a notice that on Sunday, June 12, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held at the State Theatre.

Source: Magazine Khelovneba, 1921, №1, p. 16.

1921

Until June 11

On June 12, Galaktion writes a draft of his evening announcement for the State Opera Theatre. In Russian, the text is titled “Evening of the King of Poets”. It states that a lecture on Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry will be delivered by Aleksandre Tsereteli. In addition to the participants whose names were published in the official announcement on June 11, the draft mentions Sergei Rafalovich, Nikolai Khodotov, Ovanes Tumanyan, Kara-Darvish, Alexandre Abasheli, Alexandre Imedashvili, and Shalva Dadiani.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №517, p. 1-2.

1921

June 11

The newspaper Komunisti publishes two announcements, the first one states that Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held at the State Opera Theatre on Sunday, June 12, and that the evening’s program is meaningful and interesting. The second extensive announcement is published in the “Art” column under the heading “Galaktion Tabidze’s evening”. The publication states that on Sunday, June 12, Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry evening will be held in the State Opera Theatre, in which the best representatives of art, Georgian and foreign writers will take part. Aleksandre Tsereteli will make the report “Poetry of Galaktion Tabidze”. Actors of the State Drama Theatre will read Galaktion Tabidze’s poems from his books, including: “Mary”, “The moon of Mtatsminda”, “Blue Horses”, “I and Night”, “To Vl. Alexi-Meshkhisvili’s memory”, “Revolution”, “Due to the proclamation of the poets as king” and others. Poems from the second and third books will be read by the poet himself. Singers from the State Opera Theatre will take part in the evening. Several poems by Galaktion Tabidze will be staged as live pictures. Free copies of the poet’s latest Book “Crane aux fleurs” will be distributed. It is noted that the price of tickets for this evening has been reduced and some of them have been kept for free distribution to those who wish.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1921, № 81, p. 3; Information for clarification and dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 13.

1921

June 11

The newspaper Sotsialist-Federalisti publishes a statement in the “News” column that on Sunday, June 12, Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry evening will be held in the State Drama Theatre, in which the best representatives of art, Georgian and foreign writers will take part. Alexandre Tsereteli will make the report “Poetry of Galaktion Tabidze”. Actors of the State Drama Theatre will read Galaktion Tabidze’s poems from his books, including: “Mary”, “The moon of Mtatsminda”, “Blue Horses”, “I and Night”, “To Vl. Alexi-Meshkhisvili’s memory”, “Revolution”, “Due to the proclamation of the poets as king” and others. The poet will read his own poems. Singers from the State Opera Theatre will take part in the evening. Several poems by Galaktion Tabidze will be staged as live pictures. Free copies of the poet’s latest Book “Crane aux fleurs” will be distributed. The statement mentions that the price of tickets has been reduced and some of the tickets will be distributed free of charge.

Source: Newspaper Sotsialist-Federalisti, 1921, №83, p. 2; Information for clarification and dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 13.

1921

June 12

The newspaper Komunisti publishes an announcement in the “Art” column that on Sunday, June 12, Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry evening will be held in the State Opera Theatre, the content of which is varied and interesting.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1921, №82, p. 3.

1921

June 15

An article is published in the newspaper Komunisti under the pseudonym “Sandro”, which states that the revolutionary government of Georgia patronizes Georgian art and takes every measure to improve the lives of artists, but instead of writers, poets and actors helping the revolution and strengthening the workers’ state, the authorities of Soviet Georgia are being severely beaten in the back. He writes that this is proved by the poems of Ioseb Mtchedlishvili, the evenings of Ioseb Grishashvili and Galaktion Tabidze. He notes that “these gentlemen” want to cover up “dark intentions” with the phraseology of love for the motherland. The author writes that: “Grishashvili’s speech at Tabidze’s evening with his poem, in which he replaced the phrase “beautiful legs” with “Russian boots” and made the audience laugh, is an indication that his poetry is decaying”.

Source: Sandro, “Poetry without Poetry”, Newspaper Komunisti, 1921, №84, p. 3; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 7.

1921

June 21

He sends a letter to Borjomi from Tbilisi to Olya Okujava. He promises to come soon and send the poems with the next letter. He informs that he has written many poems and misses her very much. He signs the letter in Russian: Galaktion Tabidze, the King of Poets of Georgia.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 41.

1921

June 22

Razhden Kaladze under the pseudonym of “R.K”. publishes an article in the newspaper Komunisti, in which it is said that the enemies of the Workers’ and Peasants’ Republic won’t calm down. The author is indignant, because the revolutionary government of Soviet Georgia provided meritorious artists and useful intellectuals in every way, but “what is bred in the bone will not come of the flesh”. He notes that there is a chauvinist bacchanalia in Georgian nationalist poetry. He writes that “Betrayal” and “Homeland” are staged in theatres, “Kote and Keto”, “Arshin-Mal-Alan” and other perverse music are heard in the opera. He notes that the nationalists are “grumbling” about their homeland, the “immortal” evenings of Grishashvili and Galaktion excite and control the “idle” part of the society. He writes that this is the agitation which is beneficial for the enemies. He notes that traitors and incorrigible hunchbacks will plunge into the abyss.

Source: R.K., “They have lost control”, Newspaper Komunisti, 1921, №89, p. 1.

1921

June 26

The fortnightly art and information magazine Khelovneba under the pseudonym “Oboli Musha” publishes Solomon Tavadze’s poem “Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: Magazine Khelovneba, 1921, №2, p. 8.

July

1921

July 10

The newspaper Sotsialist-Federalisti publishes an announcement that on July 12, an interesting evening of reporter Davit Pavliashvili will be held in the summer garden of the Georgian Club. The following will take part in the literary section: Paolo Iashvili, Titsian Tabidze, Vakhtang Kotetishvili, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Iakob Tsintsadze, Galaktion Tabidze, and others.

Source: Newspaper Sotsialist-Federalisti, 1921, №107, p. 3.

Note: “June 12” is mistakenly written in the text of the announcement.

1921

July 17

Giorgi Kuchishvili publishes a long poem “My Will” in the column “A small feuilleton” in the newspaper Socialist-Federalist newspaper, in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned as “with the title King-Poet”.

Source: G. Kuchishvili, “My Will”, Newspaper Sotsialist-Federalisti, 1921, №113, p. 3.

1921

July 21

In 1919, he presents the second collection of poems, “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques” (translated as “Skull with Artistic Flowers”), to Giorgi Kuchishvili with the inscription: “To dear Giorgi, Galaktion Tabidze – 1921, Tbilisi, July 21”.

Source: MGL, Fk-2808, Galaktion Tabidze, II, “Cräne aux fleurs artistiques” (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919.

1921

July 31

In Alexander’s garden, he writes the untitled poem “The day has passed...” dedicated to his young friend, Mikheil Botchorishvili, in which he reminds the addressee of the time when he was in love with his Lola, and Galaktion was in love with Raisa Chikhladze.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 344; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 315; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 334.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The day has passed...” and “Alexander’s garden”.

1921

July or earlier

In the People’s Commissariat of Education, the position of head of the literature department is being vacated, with a salary of 500,000 roubles and a meal coupon, which provides customers with a large number of different foods free of charge. A total of three artists in Georgia benefit from such a privilege: Grigol Robakidze, Meliton Balanchivadze and Shalva Dadiani. The commissariat asked the main board of the Union of Writers to nominate three candidates for this position, and the following people were named them: Valerian Gaprindashvili, Alexandre Abasheli and Akaki Papava. Galaktion is attracted more by the multifaceted possibilities of developing his literary work than the salary and benefits, but as far as the case of hiring him to this position is decided by A. Tumanov, whom he does not know personally, he is trying to get Mariam Orakhelashvili and others to intervene in the case to get this place, through the intercession of Olya Okujava’s sister – Mariam, and sister-in-law - Nina Gvakharia.

Source: MGL, 24551/47 G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 45, 46; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 510.

Note: It is not known what happened with regards to this position, but Galaktion did not hold it.

1921

July or earlier

Based on his request, the editorial office of the newspaper Komunisti returns the remaining 500 copies of the Book of poems published by him in 1919.

Source: MGL, 24551/47 G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 45, 46; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 510.

1921

July or earlier

He sends a reply letter to Borjomi from Tbilisi to Olya Okujava. He writes that he is fascinated by her writing style and “poetic temperament”. He recommends writing novels. He asks her to take care of her health so that she can fully recover in the fall and start a new life together. He tells about the vacancy in the Commissariat of Education and asks her to ask her sister and sister-in-law to actively intervene in this case.

Source: MGL, 24551/47 G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 45, 46; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 510.

August

1921

Until August 2

He writes a presentation on his views regarding art. He notes that being a poet is as much an innate talent as having physical beauty or a unique voice. He distinguishes between the creative and technical aspects of poetry, emphasizing that the former is a natural gift that cannot be taught. He discusses contemporary attitudes toward language and cites Oswald Spengler, who referred to European verse as a “sonata”. Galaktion agrees that poets, like practitioners of other art forms, need proper education, lamenting the absence of a “poetry academy”. To illustrate that knowledge is essential for poets, he compares the early and later works of great Georgian poets – Nikoloz Baratashvili, Akaki Tsereteli, and Vazha-Pshavela – highlighting their creative growth over time. He believes that Georgian poets would benefit greatly from lectures on the technical aspects of poetry, such as versification and the sound quality of verse. The poet discusses traditional poetic forms like the triolet, ghazal, sestina, and others, as well as syllabic and tonal meters, and iambic verse. He notes that while these aspects have been well studied in foreign poetry, the Georgian language’s stress patterns differ, leading to challenges when rhyme and stress do not align. He explains why rhythm often breaks and criticizes certain rhymes, such as pairing “minanqari” (enamel) with “qari” (wind). He discusses Virgil’s use of sound mimicry techniques and provides examples from his own Georgian poems. Galaktion lists 15 types of rhyme and gives examples for each. He also explores anagrams, palindromes, and poetic forms like the tercet, sonnet, rondeau, ritornello, ballad, canzone, sestina, ghazal, Persian quatrains, rondeau with unfinished or repetitive rhymes, and more.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №331-1-5; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 631.

1921

After August 7

He writes a poem “There is no more flautist”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5684; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 12; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 315.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Alexander Blok”.

1921

August 10

The Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia determines that one group of writers, including Galaktion Tabidze, will be given a one-time aid of 50,000 roubles.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Collection “Saistorio Moambe” (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 159.

1921

August 19

Together with Ilia Agladze, he applies to the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia with a proposal that the artistic centre, when organizing lectures, should not be connected with the Academy of Arts, but with the Union of Writers.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 159.

1921

August 21

At the session of the Presidium of the Writers' Union of Georgia, together with Ia Ekaladze and Shalva Apkhaidze, he was elected as a member of the publishing board of ancient and modern Georgian writers.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 160-161.

1921

August 31

The Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia decides to initiate a motion to give an academic scholarship to a group of writers, including Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 161-162.

September

1921

September 9

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a statement that the boards of the artistic committee for the publication of ancient and modern Georgian literature were created, and the following were elected as members: Iakob Tsintsadze, Galaktion Tabidze, Ioseb Imedashvili, and Shalva Apkhaidze.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №7, p. 2.

1921

September 18

He attends the funeral service and mass in the military temple held by Catholicos Ambrose Khelaia to mark half a year since the death of those who died during the entry of the Bolsheviks into Georgia, and delivers a speech at the cadets' fraternal grave.

Source: Nikita Talakvadze, "From the Diary of a Citizen-Priest", Tbilisi, 2013, p. 137.

1921

September

A poetry collection titled “Georgian Poets”, edited and introduced by Nikolo Mitsishvili, includes Russian translations of poems by Paolo Iashvili, Titsian Tabidze, Giorgi Leonidze, Ivane Kipiani, and Galaktion Tabidze. Four of Galaktion’s poems, translated by Nikolai Tikhonov, are featured: “Our luminary is fiery” (“Like fire, our era revolves...”) and “You, with eyes as cold as steel” from the Book “Epoch”; “In the evening, when Mount Mtatsminda is veiled in mist...” from the Book “Revolutionary Georgia”; and “The wind blew coldly on St. George’s Day...” from the cycle “Pacifism”.

Source: G. Tabidze, “Поэты Грузии, Тбилиси, 1921, p. 117-124.

Note: The poems begin with phrases: Из книги “Эпоха” (“Словно огонь наше время стремится...”) და “С глазами холоднее стали темной...”, “Осень в траншеях” (“Осенний ветер мерил дали”), “Революционная Грузия”, (“Когда по вечерам Мтатсминдский ветер дует...”).

October

1921

After October 5

He drafts a plan for a literary manifesto, starting by emphasizing the impact brought by the outbreak of the First World War on August 1, 1914. He notes that he intends to write about the labyrinth of trenches, the unsanitary conditions of hospitals, caterpillar tanks, airplanes, searchlights, the dead, bloodied wounded, ruined cities, countless tears, and flags unfurled in trenches and cities. He reflects on the changes brought about by the times, remarking that the era of individualism is over. Everyone must now speak of what the masses experience. This war has introduced an anti-individualist worldview. “Poetry froze, stopped, and was paralyzed,” he writes. The poet lists the foreign poets whose voices were heard during this harrowing war: Paul Claudel, Francis Jammes, Edmond Rostand, André Suarès, Paul Fort, Anna de Noailles, Richard Dehmel, Ernst Lissauer, and Gabriele D’Annunzio. The final topic he plans to address is the International of Writers – a global organization of authors.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №606, p. 1-2; MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-6, p. 27; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 52. For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 633.

Note: The foreign poets are mentioned only by their last names.

1921

Until October 12

He writes the text for his speech before the Writers’ Union, emphasizing that there are factions within the union, and each of them must be represented in the council. He expresses astonishment at some individuals’ intention not to include him in the council. Galaktion notes that he actively participated in various groups, book, and magazine collectives, and it does not matter in whose name he speaks - no one can dictate that to him.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №859, p. 1.

Dating: On October 12, 1921, he was elected as a member of the council.

1921

October 12

He is elected as a member of the Council at the Writers' Conference of Georgia.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 162.

Note: Alexandre Abasheli, Solomon Tavadze, Varlam Rukhadze, Ia Ekaladze, Kote Makashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Ilia Agladze, Ioseb Grishashvili, Vakhtang Kotetishvili, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia and Titsian Tabidze were elected as members of the council.

1921

October 12

The newly elected council of Georgian writers created a presidium: chairman - Kote Makashvili, comrades of the chairman - Ioseb Grishashvili, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Leo Kiacheli, and Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: R. Kverenchkhiladze, "The Writers' Union of Georgia 1917-1982", Tbilisi, 1983, p. 39.

1921

October 12

According to the resolution of the new Council of Georgian Writers at the Writers' Conference of Georgia, an editorial commission for publications of the Writers' Union is created to purchase and publish the works of writers. Galaktion Tabidze, Leo Kiacheli, and Konstantine Gamsakhurdia are elected as members.

Source: R. Kverenchkhiladze, "The Writers' Union of Georgia 1917-1982", Tbilisi, 1983, p. 39.

1921

October 15

He delivers a presentation at a meeting of the Georgian Writers' Union Council, noting that he has been tasked with publishing the official weekly literary newspaper of the Writers' Union, The Bulletin of the Writers' Union of All Georgia. The newspaper will feature articles on contemporary poetics and the challenges of poetry and prose, with a focus on the revival of belles-lettres. It will publish poems, short stories, and novellas, while larger works will later be accommodated by a journal to be established by the Writers' Union. The newspaper will also include articles on Georgian meter, rhythm, sound, forms, rhyme, and assonance, as well as studies of the Latin Anthology, which historically influenced Georgian poetry. According to the speaker, the newspaper is expected to be launched within two weeks.

Source: The text of the presentation, GTDA, №505, p. 1-5.

1921

October 15

Galaktion Tabidze and Olya Okujava have civil marriage.

Source: Marriage certificate, <https://archive.gov.ge/ge/galaktion-i-1>.

Note: The document mentions that at the moment Galaktion lives in the Art Palace on Sergi Street (today's Machabeli Street) in Tbilisi.

1921

After October 15

He writes a poem "Art" ("If only I could forget with rhyme...").

Source: The text of the presentation, GTDA, №505, p. 6.

Dating: The poem is written on the reverse side of the page containing the October 15 presentation.

1921

October 21

At the session of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, he reads a report on the issue of publishing a literary magazine. It is decided that the magazine will be published weekly or not, at least once a month and its volume should be from 32 to 64 pages.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 162.

1921

October 26

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a statement that the Writers' Council of Georgia has started work. Kote Makashvili was elected as the chairman of the presidium, and his assistants were Ioseb Grishashvili, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Leo Kiacheli, and Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №56, p. 2.

Note: The notice mentions that the following are elected: "Kote Makashvili, I. Grishashvili, K. Gamsakhurdia, Leo Kiacheli and Galaktion Tabidze".

November

1921

November 9

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a statement that "Literary Thursday" will be held at the Palace of Arts on the initiative of the Union of Writers. During the event the reports on old and new Georgian literature will be read by: Ioseb Grishashvili, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Galaktion Tabidze, Koki Abashidze, and Akaki Shanidze. Along with this, the authors will read their own poems and stories.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №67, p. 2.

1921

November 10

At the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, Ivane Korinteli's statement on the purchase of his books for the library is discussed. Galaktion Tabidze and Ioseb Grishashvili are responsible for the selection of the books and negotiation regarding the conditions of their purchase.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 162.; R. Kverenchkhiladze, "The Writers' Union of Georgia 1917-1982", Tbilisi, 1983, p. 36-39.

1921

November 21

At the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia and Leo Kiacheli were elected as members of the editorial board of the periodical magazine, and Galaktion Tabidze was elected as the chairman. The selected persons are assigned to immediately start collecting materials, choose the name of the magazine and report to the board.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Collection "Saistorio Moambe" (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 164.

1921

After November 21

On behalf of the Georgian Writers' Union Council, he addresses a statement to the People's Commissar of Education. He writes that the Writers' Union has decided to publish a weekly magazine and has appointed Galaktion Tabidze as the responsible editor. He requests permission to print the magazine at one of the state printing houses.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-253; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 91; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", 2025, p. 535.

1921

After November 21

On behalf of the Council of All-Georgia Union of Writers, he addresses the Commissioner of Public Education with a statement, informing that the Union of Writers has decided to publish a weekly literary magazine, the materials of which will be reviewed by the censor in advance. He requests permission to publish the magazine and print it in any state printing house.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 91, 545.

Dating: This must have occurred after his election to the Soviet.

1921

November 29

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a statement that a new magazine will be published by January 1 - "Authorities of the Union of Writers", whose editorial board includes Galaktion Tabidze, Leo Kiacheli and Konstantine Gamsakhurdia.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №84, p. 1.

Note: The magazine eventually was called Lomisi.

1921

Autumn

He writes a poem “First Autumn”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №195; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 147;

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “To Finny” and “Smiling Houses”.

December

1921

December 2

In the column “Announcement” of the newspaper Komunisti, it is mentioned that from January 1, 1922, the weekly magazine Lomisi of the Union of Writers of Georgia begins to be published. In addition, in the column “Chronology” the direction of the magazine is specified and it is mentioned that the materials should be handed over to the chairman of the editorial board - Galaktion Tabidze, who can be seen every day at the Palace of Arts, number 13, Sergi Street, from 12 to 2 o'clock.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1921, №226, p. 2, 4.

Note: Until 1923, Ivane Machabeli Street bore the name of Great Prince Sergi, grandson of Nicholas I.

1921

After December 2

On the page, he writes the words “Galaktion’s Magazine,” jots down rhymes, and creates graphical sketches of human figures.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №110.

Dating: On December 2, 1921, it had not yet been decided that the magazine would be named after Galaktion.

1921

December 11

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a statement that Konstantine Gamsakhurdia requested the editors to announce that the report “I. Grishashvili and Galaktion Tabidze” will be postponed for the near future for reasons independent of him.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №95, p. 2.

1921

Until December 23

A collection of Russian translations of Georgian poets is being published, which, in addition to poems by Tsisperkantselis, includes poems by Alexandre Abasheli, Galaktion Tabidze, and Shalva Amirejibi. The translation of Galaktion Tabidze’s “I and Night” belongs to Valerian Gaprindashvili.

Source: M. Rindi, “Bibliographic Notes,” collection “Поэты Грузии”, сост. Н Мицишвили, Государственное издательство, Тифлис, about 1921, newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №105, p. 2.

Dating: From the newspaper Tribuna of December 23, it appears that the Book has already been released.

1921

December 23

In the newspaper Tribuna under the pseudonym “M. Rindi” Mikel Pataridze’s article “Bibliographic notes” is published, in which the Russian-language collection “Poets of Georgia” is discussed. The author notes that the collection mainly includes translations of the poems of Tsisperkantselis, as well as poems by Alexandre Abasheli, Galaktion Tabidze, and Shalva Amirejibi. According to the author, Valerian Gaprindashvili’s translation of Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “I and Night” is performed gently and with full respect for the music.

Source: M. Rindi, “Bibliographic Notes,” collection “Поэты Грузии”, сост. Н Мицишвили, Государственное издательство, Тифлис, about 1921, newspaper Tribuna, 1921, №105, p. 2.

1921

December

He prepares an advanced article “Poetry First” for the magazine Lomisi.

Source: Magazine Lomisi, 1922, №1. G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 346.

1921

December

In 1919, he gives the second collection of poems, “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques” (translated as “Skull with Artistic Flowers”), to Leo Kiacheli with the inscription: “To Leo Kiacheli – as a token of friendship. Galaktion Tabidze – December, 1921, Tbilisi”.

Source: MGL, Fk-862, Galaktion Tabidze, II, “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques” (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919.

1911-1921

He writes an untitled poem “Recently in Orianti...”.

Source: MGL, a-1685, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 296; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 129-130.

Dating: According to grapheme ლ2 (L2), the poem must have been written in 1911 or later. However, since the “Orianti” Hotel operated on Golovin (Rustaveli) Avenue until 1921, we date the poem within this timeframe.

1921

In his diary, he writes notes about the establishment of the Academy.

Source: Notebook is of 1921, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 69-72.

1921

He writes a poem "Peach branch, tired branch".

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 1978; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 7; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 303.

1921

He writes a poem "These sleeping mountain and valley".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №407; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 8; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 309.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled "Sorrow, like a snake...".

1921

He writes a poem "In memory".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №967; №3408; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 9; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 310.

1921

He writes an untitled poem "Oh, friends, our feast".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 39; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 18; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 320.

1921

He writes an untitled poem "Oh, suns every day...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №838; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 18; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 321.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Night, what has happened to you?".

1921

He writes an untitled poem "To autumn flowers...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №838; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 19; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 321.

Note: The poem is also found under the title "Heart, What Is Happening to You?"

1921

Dimitri Arakishvili writes the music for Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Poetry first".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary entry, MGL, d-144, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190.

1921

He writes a poem "At the cemetery" ("The farther you are...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №134; G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 141; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 19; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 22-23.

Note: The poem also appears under the titles: “The farther you are”, “The answer” and “The unsent letter”.

1921

He writes a poem and titles it with the words “Mashashvili has been pardoned with Galaktion’s hospitality” in imitation of the proverb “Avaliani has been pardoned with Ioseliani’s hospitality”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, 262, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 129-130.

1921

In the Union of Writers, he meets the novice poet Arno Oneli, talks cordially with him, reads his poems, promises to print them in his own magazine and presents the second volume of his poems with the dedication: “To my newly acquainted poet from Racha, Arno Nakeraledi, from Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: A. Oneli, Thus Began a Friendship, Let the Toast Be to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 246-247.

Note: “Nakeraledi” was the poetic pseudonym of Arno Oneli at that time.

1921 or later

In Vasil Barnovi’s monograph “Arsena”, he highlights lines and adds comments.

Source: MGL, t-24, Vasil Barnovi, “Arsena”, Tbilisi, 1921, p. 3-4, 11, 13-14.

1921 or later

He makes radical changes to the poem “You Will Not Die” (“The bright ray of dawn...”). The new version is titled “Descent into the Mine” and begins with the words: “We entered the narrow cave...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №462, p. 2.

Dating: The content of the changes suggests that the poem was written after the establishment of Soviet rule in Georgia.

1921 or later

He makes radical changes to the poem “Ortheos” (“The twilight of night enveloped the towering mountains...”). The new version is titled “The Motor” and begins with the phrase: “The motor sings with agitated and enchanting melodies...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №465, p. 1.

Dating: The content of the changes indicates that the poem was written after the establishment of Soviet rule in Georgia.

1921 or later

Together with Giorgi Kuchishvili, Sezman Ertatsmindeli and Vakhtang Pkhaladze, he visits the school of Dighomi village, where Arno Oneli works as a teacher. Arno Oneli gives an introductory speech and Vakhtang Pkhaladze makes a report. Galaktion reads the poems: “The moon of Mtatsminda”, “Mary” and “The gravedigger”, the applause in the hall does not stop. Then Giorgi

Kuchishvili reads his own revolutionary poems. At the end of the evening, the young people of the village recite their poems.

Source: A. Oneli, Thus Began a Friendship, Let the Toast Be to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 250.

Dating: Dated according to the time of getting acquainted with Arno Oneli.

1921 or later

He starts writing a letter to be sent to the editorial office. He explains that he understands the reprimand heard from the workers, as if he is proud of the title of “King of Poets”; He confirms that he is proud of this name, but not because he really feels like a king.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 84; Probable date: 1920s (see ibid., p. 543).

Dating: The content of the letter clearly seems to have been written during the Soviet period, and the poet has to justify himself because of the word “king”.

1921 or later

In Valery Bryusov’s poetry collection “In Such Days”, he highlights lines and adds comments. He translates into Georgian, line by line, the fourth stanza of the poem “To Fellow Intellectuals” (“Today is our day; therefore, from the haze of modern prose, we are hurled into the denser wonder of poetry”), the first two stanzas of “Only the Russian” (“Only the Georgian poet, who knew endless persecution from childhood, who bitterly drained the murky cup of the past, who nobly embraced the fervent dreams of his ancestors, with full awareness can take pride in many victories”), and the fourth stanza of “To Warsaw” (“The Chronology of our land... from millennia-old places fell wealthy palaces, massive cathedrals, and impenetrable cliffs. A simoom swept across Georgia”). On the second line of the poem “Rebellion”, he notes: “In Georgia today, one giant lyre thunders, dictating its will to the centuries”.

Source: MGL, t-259, Валерий Брюсов, “В такие дни”, Стихи, 1919-1920, Moscow, 1921, p. 17, 19, 21, 23.

Note: The translations of the stanzas from the poems are used in the article “Day of Poetry”, which must have been written by May 7, 1921, as it references “the Chronology of our land, who, from the previous May 7 to this year’s May 7, captures modernity in fervent verses within its mysterious folios”. In Georgia, “Day of Poetry” was first celebrated in 1920. The Russian titles of the mentioned poems: “Товарищам Интеллигентам”, “Только Русский”, “К Варшаве”, “Мятеж”.

1922

January

1922 or earlier

He writes a poem “Villanelle”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4233; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 22.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

Until January 1

He writes an untitled poem “White days are coming...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №345; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 16.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Autumn” and “Winter”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

Until January 1

He writes a poem “Wherever a Dreamer Once Soared”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №966; №7692; №7739; p. 5, p. 22; p. 14, p. 15; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 17.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “Where did you ever dream with sails...” and titles: “François Villon”, “Villon”, “Manifesto - musical”, “Winter”, “Dreamer with sails”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

Until January 1

He writes a poem “Winter”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №345; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 17.

Note: The poem can also be found without a title “The ship is followed by the Madonna of the Snow...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

January 1

He begins publication of the magazine Lomisi.

Source: Magazine Lomisi, 1922, №1, p. 2, 5; “Palace of Art 1922,” “Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine”; 1923, №5, p. 15.

Note: The name of the editor is not indicated on the magazine, but on November 21, 1921, Galaktion Tabidze was elected as the chairman of the editorial board of the Writers’ Union magazine (later renamed Lomisi), and he is mentioned as such in the statement published in the newspaper Komunisti on December 2, 1921.

1922

1 January

He publishes the poem “Winter” and the program article “Poetry First” in the magazine Lomisi.

Source: Magazine Lomisi, 1922, №1, p. 2, 5.

Note: The poem “Winter” was published by the poet as three separate works in the 1927 Book under the titles: “White Days Are Rising”, “Wherever a Dreamer Once Soared”, and “The Snow Madonna Follows the Ship”.

1922

January 1

In the magazine Lomisi, he publishes Konstantine Gamsakhurdia's letter "Impressionism or Expressionism", in which Galaktion Tabidze is also mentioned. The author writes that Alexandre Shanshiashvili and Ioseb Grishashvili are opening a new era in Georgian literature, while Galaktion Tabidze stands apart among them.

Source: Magazine Lomisi, 1922, №1, p. 6.

1922

After January 1

On both sides of the cover of a general notebook, he pastes the title of the magazine Lomisi, cut out from the publication, along with the Writers' Union logo, which features a portrait of Rustaveli. He writes his name, Galaktion, and dates it: 1922. In the notebook, he plans the work on materials to be published in Lomisi.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 1, 22; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 94.

Dating: The entry is dated according to the publication date of the magazine.

1922

After January 1

In his notebook, he writes two lines: "He was not like this in childhood, he loved Tolstoy, Herzen, the newspaper". He titles them: "Self-Portrait" and "Portrait of a Drunkard", then erases the text and draws a self-portrait, signing it with his initials and dating it 1922.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 94.; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 92.

Dating: The entry is dated according to the release date of the first issue of the magazine Lomisi.

1922

After January 1

In his notebook, he creates a modernist sketch.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 91.

Dating: The sketch is dated according to the release date of the first issue of the magazine Lomisi.

1922

After January 1

In his notebook, he translates from Russian into Georgian a passage from the French writer Joris-Karl Huysmans' novel "Against the Grain", which describes the novel's main character, Des Esseintes. On the same page, he writes down the first two stanzas of "The Knight in the Panther's Skin" about King Rostevan.

Source: Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 94.

Dating: The entry is dated according to the release date of the first issue of the magazine Lomisi.

1922

After January 1

He writes a bibliographic, review article about the first issue of the magazine Lomisi. The letter notes that the Writers' Union had not been able to establish its own publication until 1922, when it finally became possible to publish the magazine Lomisi, led by Galaktion Tabidze. It mentions that the magazine opens with three masterpieces by Galaktion Tabidze. The article notes that Galaktion Tabidze made many authors his adversaries, yet no one was able to take away his title as the foremost poet. Galaktion sets the tone for contemporary poetry; many articles have been written about him, yet critics have not even come close to fully understanding his work. It is noted that the poet astonishes the public with his restraint, which is remarkable in the age of advertisements.

Source: MGL, d-626, p. 21; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 224-225.

Dating: The record is dated based on the publication date of the first issue of the magazine Lomisi.

1922

After January 1

He makes a note about "The Knight in the Panther's Skin", expressing interest in the poem's connection to Persian poetry, Persian miniatures, and Rustaveli's portrait. Additionally, he is puzzled by the frequent use of the conjunction "and" between the verses.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №605, p. 2-3.

Dating: On the reverse side of the page, the first issue of the magazine Lomisi is mentioned.

1922

After January 1

He begins writing an untitled poem: "In a foreign land, I follow a cruiser...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №605, p. 2.

Dating: On the reverse side of the page, the first issue of the magazine Lomisi is mentioned.

1922

January 2

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers' Union of Georgia, where the agenda includes organizing a celebratory session to mark the 600th anniversary of Dante's death. Ioseb Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Oboli Musha, and Konstantine Gamsakhurdia are tasked with translating and reading samples from Dante's works.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 165.

1922

January 7

In the magazine Barrikadi, a “Bibliography” section is published that harshly criticizes the Writers’ Union magazine Lomisi, edited by Galaktion Tabidze. The author of the article refers to the magazine’s leaders as “Chichikovs,” accusing them of “trading in dead souls” because, in their view, they rely on the works of old writers. The critic mentions a poem published in the magazine by a bard who, apart from Giorgi Saganeli’s magazine Tbilisi, has never had a poem published. This particular poem is described as a mere imitation of Nadson’s motifs, appealing only to “kitchen maids,” and, despite the fact that many now fulfil the role of kitchen maids, this does nothing to enhance Galaktion Tabidze’s reputation. The critic claims that Galaktion lacks poetic concepts, imagery, and temperament, falling behind his rival Giorgi Saganeli in these aspects. The critic further asserts that Galaktion is “even more insolent when it comes to Georgian poetry,” labelling him self-taught and questioning the credibility of his “erudition”.

Source: “Bibliography”, newspaper Barrikadi, 1922, № 4, p. 4.

Note: The “Bibliography” section is unsigned, but its author is the editor of the magazine, Titsian Tabidze. In the magazine Lomisi, only one poem is published, Galaktion Tabidze’s “Winter”.

1922

After January 2

Simon Tabidze brings him a letter from Abesalom Tabidze, in which his brother asks him to definitely come to the village on weekends. He asks that if he is unable to arrive, he must inform. He should send one letter to Samtredia and one to Tobanieri and write to him what he wants to be sent.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-306; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151.

Note: Days off probably mean Christmas holidays, because it is already a new calendar style and Christmas is celebrated on January 7 in the Orthodox Church.

1922

After January 7

He makes a note in his diary about the fourth issue of the newspaper Barrikadi. He refers to the author of the letter, Titsian Tabidze, with crude language, calling him jealous and spiteful, a provocateur who cannot rest as long as Galaktion Tabidze exists.

Source: MGL, d-630, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 341; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 582.

1922

After January 7

In his notebook, he writes a response to Titsian Tabidze’s critical article, which was published on January 7 in the magazine Barrikadi. He notes that Titsian Tabidze’s enthusiasm for attacking others has turned into a pathology and that it would be better for him to stop writing ugly poems and instead dedicate himself to his true calling - speculation. He quotes a passage from Titsian Tabidze’s poem “A Horse with an Angel” and notes that this poem is a mere repetition of Nadson’s motifs and, at the same time, serves as Tite Tabidze’s self-portrait. He also remarks that Titsian’s second self-portrait is a drinking horn. He writes that Titsian Tabidze, first and foremost a “tenant”, has no right to call himself a “poet”, because he has never been and will never be one.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-10, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 94, 95; For dating: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 403.

1922

After January 7

Along with a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, their cousin Simon Tabidze delivers a request for Galaktion to write a reply on the spot and send it back with Simon. However, Galaktion still does not send a response.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, GTDA, №1261; p. 1-2.

Dating: This is mentioned in Abesalom Tabidze’s letter dated March 29, 1922.

1922

Until January 12

In his notebook, he writes a list of materials to be published in the magazine Lomisi and Chronology of Art. Among them, he notes that the seventh evening at the Writers’ Union was dedicated to Dante Alighieri.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-10, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 95.

Dating: The entry is dated according to magazine Lomisi № 3, based on the publication date in “Chronology of Art”.

1922

January 13

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers’ Union of Georgia. During the meeting, Galaktion Tabidze and Ioseb Grishashvili are instructed to vacate the rooms they are residing in at the Writers’ Palace by the following Monday, January 23.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 165, 166.

1922

After January 13

He writes a report on the activities of the Publishing Section of the Writers’ Council, noting plans to publish a 10-volume series titled “Poetry of Georgia”. The series will include samples of Georgian poetry from ancient times to the present. He describes the harsh conditions under which the books are being prepared and laments the lack of support. He is appalled that even the temporary living space allocated to him at the Writers’ Palace has been demanded to be vacated by a representative of the People’s Commissariat for Education. Among the forthcoming publications, he mentions “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin” prepared by Sargis Kakabadze, a volume of Shio Aragvispireli’s works, two books by Vasil Barnovi (“The Beauty of the Guild” and “The Bride of the Khazars”), and Mikheil Botchorishvili’s novel “Youth”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №497, p. 1-2.

1922

January 16

Mikheil Kintsurashvili, under the pseudonym “Yasamani”, writes a poem titled “The Fate of a Poet” with a dedication note underneath: “To Galaktion”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 2.

1922

Until January 29

In his notebook, he writes a list of materials to be published in Lomisi, Chronology of Art, and Bibliography. Among them, he mentions Leo Natadze’s passing, Zakaria Chichinadze’s 50th anniversary, Ioseb Grishashvili’s Book published in Russian, the murder of Tedo Razikashvili, Mikheil Botchorishvili’s new book, and other materials.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-10, p. 7-8; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 95-97.

Dating: The entry is dated according to magazine Lomisi № 5, based on the publication date in “Chronology of Art”.

1922

After January 29

In his notebook, he writes the introduction to an article about Meliton Balanchivadze, in which he discusses Georgian secular and sacred music and its stages of development.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-10, p. 9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 97.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the dates of previous entries.

1922

January 31

He submits a statement to the Presidium of the Writers’ Union of All Georgia, requesting assistance in publishing the third volume of his poems. In exchange for the required paper and other expenses, he offers to leave enough copies of the Book to cover the costs and provide a profit for the Writers’ Union. He states that he will oversee the publication himself and specifies that 25 pounds of paper and 15 million roubles are needed for typesetting, printing, and binding the book.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 166.

1922

End of January

In the magazine Khomaldi, under the pseudonym Khomaldeli, Alexandre Abasheli publishes a bibliographic review dedicated to the magazine Lomisi. The critic praises the editorial team of the Writers’ Union magazine for releasing all four issues of the weekly publication on time, without delays. He notes that the first issue opened with Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Winter", which, in the critic's opinion, is not one of Tabidze's best works. He believes the poem is filled with excessive air and water, with the fire barely flickering. The critic also disapproves of Galaktion Tabidze's programmatic essay "Poetry Above All Else", stating that he finds it unclear whether it is a review of the past year, free verse, or lyrical prose. He expresses scepticism toward the poet's claim in the essay that he can control his own intoxication. The critic feels that Tabidze writes heresies and boasts about himself, suggesting that it would have been better for the poet's prestige if a scholar of poetry had said such things about him, for example, in 1932. Additionally, the critic remarks that in the latter half of the essay, Tabidze frequently mentions the people, which reminds him of the slogans of the Political Education Main Directorate.

Source: Khomaldeli, "Bibliography. Lomisi – Weekly Publication of the Writers' Union of Georgia, №1, 2, 3, 4", magazine Khomaldi, №2, January, p. 43, 44.

Note: In the source, Alexandre Abasheli is not mentioned.

1922

January or after

On the letterhead of the Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, he writes in hurried handwriting: "If communism is publicly a deception, don't worry, Galaktion".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №664.

Note: The word "publicly" is abbreviated and has been expanded based on assumption.

Dating: The text is written on the letterhead of the "Galaktion Tabidze's Journal".

1922

January or later

He begins writing a ballad titled "The Eagle in Flames" ("The evening was ablaze, and the forest was burning, burning"), preceded by an epigraph from Vazha-Pshavela's words, "I saw a wounded eagle...". However, he stops writing shortly thereafter.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №80.

Dating: The text is written on the letterhead of "Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine".

1922

January or later

Under the title "The Confusion of Iveria", he writes a one-stanza poem: "What a dream of the sun this is...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №554, p. 1.

Dating: The text is written on the letterhead of "Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine".

1922

January or later

On the page, he writes in large letters the title of a novel, "Manifesto", and then clarifies that "Manifesto" is the name of a group.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №550, p. 1-2.

Dating: The text is written on the letterhead of “Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine”.

February

1922

February 5

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers’ Union of Georgia, where the issue of publishing his Book is discussed. The Presidium decides that the matter will be reviewed at a special Council meeting on February 7.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 166, 167.

1922

February 7

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers’ Union of Georgia. Along with Leo Kiacheli and Ilia Agladze, he is elected as a member of the editorial board. Despite Galaktion’s request, the issue of publishing the third volume of his poems is not addressed.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 167.

1922

February 10

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers’ Union of Georgia, where he listens to a report from the Publishing Commission on the issue of publishing the third collection of his poems. According to the commission, the first series should include books by Tchola Lomtadze, Noe Chkhikvadze, Kote Makashvili, and Galaktion Tabidze. A resolution is passed to publish all four books simultaneously.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 167.

1922

February 13

He writes an untitled poem (“My life...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4249; №4309; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 154.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “My life”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

Until March

He writes an untitled poem “With great creaking, yet the cart still moves on...”.

Source: MGL, a-1415, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 87; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 116.

March

1922

March 3

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers' Union of Georgia, where he is elected, along with Leo Kiacheli and Koki Abashidze, as a member of a small jubilee commission for the 50th anniversary of Zakaria Chichinadze's literary activity. The commission is tasked with organizing the celebration. Additionally, Galaktion is assigned to prepare a Book about Zakaria Chichinadze's life and work.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 168; G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-558, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 317-318; N. Tabidze, His Soul Was as Pure as Snow, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 273.

1922

After March 3

He writes the plan for the event dedicated to the 50th anniversary of Zakaria Chichinadze's literary and public service.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-588, 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 461-462; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 615.

1922

March 6

Koki Abashidze reads the report “Poetry of Galaktion Tabidze” on Literary Thursdays of All-Georgian Union of Writers.

Source: Newspaper Lomisi, 1923, №18, p. 4.

Dating: The date is given in the list of events published in 1923 newspaper Lomisi: “Literary Thursdays of the All-Georgian Union of Writers” held in 1921-1922.

1922

March 6

He is issued an order for an apartment located at 9 Belinsky Street (now Tamar Tchovelidze Street) by the Communal Department of the Tbilisi Executive Committee.

Source: V. Javakhadze, “Stranger”, 1913, p. 273.

Note: It is unknown whether the poet actually lived at this address.

1922

March 17

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers' Union of Georgia, where the issue of the magazine Lomisi is discussed. The Presidium resolves that Galaktion Tabidze be allocated one million roubles as part of his salary and honorarium.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 168.

1922

Until March 26

He writes an article about Zakaria Chichinadze titled "Open Letter" and signs it as "The Lion of Lomisi".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 13, 14, 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 98, 99.

Dating: The article was published in the magazine Lomisi, 1922, №6-7, p. 22-24.

1922

March 26

In the magazine Lomisi, an article titled "Zakaria Tchitchinadze" is published under the pseudonym N. N.

Source: Magazine Lomisi, 1922, №6-7, p. 22-24.

Note: N. N. is one of Galaktion Tabidze's pseudonyms. In Latin, nomen nescio means "name unknown".

1922

March 26

The magazine Lomisi publishes a notice stating that the third Book of Galaktion Tabidze's poems is ready for publication and that printing will begin in the near future.

Source: Magazine Lomisi, 1922, №6-7, p. 32.

1922

Until March 29

The family learns about Olya Okujava's marriage.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, GTDA, №1261, p. 1-2.

Dating: This is mentioned in Abesalom Tabidze's letter dated March 29, 1922.

1922

March

In his notebook, he writes a prose text titled "Ballad of the Crystal Tower", featuring Tinatini Bagrationi as a character, but he does not complete it.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 100.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the dates of previous entries.

1922

March

In his notebook, he writes a word-for-word translation of his poem “The Angel with Parchment” into Russian.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-10, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 100.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the dates of previous entries.

Note: The poem is also found under the following titles: “The angel held a long parchment” and “Farewell”.

1922

March or later

He recalls the intense agitation conducted by Aleksandr Kerensky among the soldiers and how, during Galaktion’s stay in Moscow in 1916, endless rallies were held at Pushkin Square, attended by a diverse crowd.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №276; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Application of Verified Characteristics Over a Short Time Interval”, in the Book “Graphematic Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 115-116.

April

1922

April 2

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a notice that on April 6, an evening event will be held at the Palace of Arts, where Koki Abashidze will deliver a lecture titled “The Poetry of Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №183, p. 4.

1922

April 7

He attends a meeting of the Presidium of the Soviet Writers’ Union of Georgia, where he delivers a report on organizing the Day of Poetry. The meeting decides that the Day of Poetry will be held at the Opera Theatre, and the venue must be reserved for May 7. Galaktion Tabidze is tasked with collecting materials for the newspaper Poeziis Dghe and overseeing its publication.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 168.

1922

April 9

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a notice announcing the establishment of a Young Writers’ Circle, which plans to hold meetings in the Conservatory Hall. At these events, they will discuss the works of old and new writers. Galaktion Tabidze is listed among the poets selected for these evenings.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №188, p. 4.

1922

April 15

He writes that the “Academy of Poetry” is being established.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №605, p. 1.

1922

April 15

He writes that nothing in poetry satisfies him anymore – neither the past evokes nostalgia, nor is the present acceptable. He is only interested in what lies ahead, wondering what will be written in the next hundred years. He believes poetry has reached a dead end and that finding a way out will require heroism.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №605, p. 1.

Dating: The note is undated, but it is evident that it was written in the year the Academy of Poetry was established.

1922

April 16

He writes an untitled poem (“Someone has come...”)

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4049; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 139.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Calypso’s old hands are breaking off”

1922

Until April 23

He writes a poem “Portrait of a Drunkard” (“Clouded eyes long for murky wine jars...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №413, p. 1.

Dating: The reverse side of the page contains a note dated April 23, 1922, written by an unknown person.

1922

April 23

Olya Okujava leaves a note at home saying that she won’t be able to return until her lectures are finished, but if Galaktion can manage, he should meet her around 10 o’clock, when the lectures end, on Sasamartlo Street.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-414; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 189-190; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 520-521.

1922

After April 23

Olya Okujava leaves a note at home saying that she is going to take an exam on the subject of pricing policy in the Soviet trade system. It starts at 5 o'clock, and she expects to be home by 8. She also asks Galaktion to return soon so they can go to the cinema. She reproaches him for not leaving her money for tobacco, forcing her to borrow some.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-415; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 520-521.

1921

April

In his notebook, he writes down materials for a literary manifesto, including a list of works. Among them are the titles of short stories by Oscar Wilde and Joris-Karl Huysmans.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-8, p. 1-3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 68, 69; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

1921

April

He attends a meeting at the Writers' Union, where discussions are held about the direction of the Academy of Poetry – whether it should be genuinely academic or rebellious, aimed against academicism itself. He is dissatisfied with the poets' debates, as many do not want to begin learning poetry from the basics. He quotes Paolo Iashvili, who stated that most poets have no understanding of versification rules, yet this does not prevent them from being poets. Galaktion believes there are no experts in prosody in Georgia with whom meaningful discussions on the subject can be held, naming Grigol Robakidze among them. He thinks the Academy should neither follow old academicism nor modern futurism. He laments the lack of any academic theoretical works in the field of poetry. He notes that the Tsisperkantselis group wants to establish the Academy under their name but do not acknowledge academicism. Gradually, it becomes clear that they know nothing about prosody and will need a poetry laboratory where they can learn the fundamentals of poetry. He considers attending such meetings, not to learn anything himself but for entertainment, as he already has a poetic laboratory at home. He writes that the meeting concluded that a unified academy cannot be established, and thus, each movement will operate independently. He notes that he does not understand the Tsisperkantselis movement but is familiar with its native tradition. He adds that advice from non-poets makes him feel unwell. Despite everything, he concludes that the work ahead will be interesting.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-8, p. 4-7; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 69-72; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

1921

April or later

In his notebook, he begins writing an untitled poem, "The Skull and the Tip of the Nose," but does not finish it. Nearby, he writes pairs of rhyming words.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-8, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 74; For dating: N. Kobaladze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

1921

April or later

In his notebook, he notes that rich rhymes were introduced into Georgian poetry by Akaki Tsereteli and cites his poem “The Secret Letter” as an example.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-8, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 75; For dating: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

1921

April or later

In his notebook, he begins writing an untitled poem, “Am I a Great Poet?”, but does not finish it. Nearby, he writes the line, “Why do my pitiful enemies make such noise?”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-8, p. 11, 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 75; For dating: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

1921

April or later

In his notebook, he begins writing an untitled poem, “Goethe left the buzzing of the wind,” but does not finish it. Above the poem, in calligraphic lettering, he writes “Galaktion Tabidze” and “Galaktion”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-8, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 75; For dating: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

1921

April or later

In his notebook, he works on an untitled poem, “Once again the storm carries away...”, but ink spills over the draft.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-8, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 75; For dating: N. Kobaladze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 401.

Note: The poem was published under the title “Storms”.

May

1922

May 3

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a notice that, for May 7, the Georgian Writers’ Council will release the traditional newspaper Poeziis Dghe, in which Galaktion Tabidze, along with other poets, will participate.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №205, p. 4.

1921

May 3

In his notebook, he writes a quote from the Gospel: “And the fruit thereof was bitter, as wormwood”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, d-7, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 68.

1922

Until May 7

Galaktion writes a poem “Storms”.

Source: Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1922, May 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 21.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

Until May 7

He lists thirty points outlining the topics to be included in an essay about Zakaria Chichinadze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №109, p. 1, 2.

Dating: The text on the same page indicates that the May 7 newspaper has not yet been published.

1922

Until May 7

On the page, he notes that the poem “Etching” should be published in the Batumi newspaper Poeziis Dghe, while “Storms” should be included in another book.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №109, p. 1.

Note: Both mentioned poems were published on May 7, 1922, in the newspaper Poeziis Dghe, which was issued in Adjara.

1922

May 7

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a notice that, for May 7, the Georgian Writers’ Council will release the traditional newspaper Poeziis Dghe, in which Galaktion Tabidze, along with other poets, will participate.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №205, p. 4.

1922

May 7

In the newspaper Poetry Day, published in Batumi by the Council of Writers of All Georgia, the poems “Storms” and “Etching” are printed.

Source: Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1922, №1, May, Batumi.

1922

May 7

In the newspaper Poeziis Dghe of the Union of Writers of All Georgia, his leading article titled “Poetry Day” is published. The article discusses the significance of poetry in Georgia and the necessity for poets to seek new forms.

Source: Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1922, №1, May, Batumi.

1922

May 7

In the Batumi newspaper Poeziis Dghe, published by the Writers’ Council of All Georgia, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia writes a literary review discussing materials published in the magazine Lomisi. He notes that “the first issue was opened by Galaktion Tabidze’s ‘Winter,’ a blue-eyed romanticism of oblique nights”. The critic spares no metaphors to describe Galaktion’s poem but is much harsher toward the essay “Poetry Above All Else”, also published in the magazine. He points out that the poet, ascending the fantastic staircase of the future, suddenly speaks to us about “approaching the people” and “engaging with the people,” which introduces a dissonance between this populist, collectivist spirit and the solipsism that permeates his poetic essay. Konstantine Gamsakhurdia argues that it is the people who should come to the writers. He notes that although Georgian society has often been indifferent to public affairs, particularly to Georgian literature, young people diligently attended lectures at the Palace of Arts. One of these lectures was dedicated to the poetry of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: K. Gamsakhurdia, “Orbis literarum” 1921-1922. May 7”, Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1922, №1, May, Batumi, p. 1.

Note: Solipsism is the belief that nothing beyond one’s own mind is certain to exist.

1922

May

Despite being very busy, he prepares and publishes a Book titled “Zakaria Chichinadze” under the pseudonym “N. N”.

Source: Zakaria Tchitchinadze, Tbilisi, The publication of the Writers’ Council of All Georgia, 1922; At the end of the text, the author is noted as N.N. (Galaktion Tabidze); N. Tabidze, His Soul Was as Pure as Snow, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 276.

Note: “N. N”. (Nomen Nescio, meaning “name unknown”).

June

1922

June 4

He participates in an evening dedicated to Ioseb Grishashvili held at the Tbilisi State Opera Theatre.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of the Life of Galaktion Tabidze”, 1968, p. 185.

1922

June 19

Lavros Dzidziguuri writes a poem titled “To Galaktion Tabidze” (“Fantastical One, Ephemeras Follow You...”).

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 3.

1922

June 24

In the newspaper Tribuna, a poem titled “Wishing”, dedicated to Galaktion by Shio Mghvimeli is published.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №228 (June 24), p. 3.

1922

June 24

In the newspaper “Tribuna”, Ia Ekaladze’s article titled “To Galaktion Tabidze as a Gift” is published. The author notes that on June 25, an evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze’s poetry will be held and expresses a desire to address the poet with warm words. Ia Ekaladze regards Galaktion as a distinguished creator, comparing him to a solitary, bowed statue. According to Ekaladze, true poetry is a psalm of the soul that elevates and frees a person from base emotions. Galaktion Tabidze creates exactly such poetry.

Source: I. Ekaladze, Dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №228 (June 24), p. 4.

1922

June 25

A creative evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze is held at the Tbilisi State Opera Theatre.

Source: I. Ekaladze, Dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №228 (June 24), p. 4.

1922

June 25

In the newspaper Tribuna, an excerpt from Giorgi Kuchishvili’s poem “A Will” is published, in which the author expresses a wish: “May my procession be adorned by Galaktion, with the surname Tabidze and the title of King-Poet”.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №229 (June 25), p. 3.

1922

June 25

In the newspaper Tribuna, Lavros Dzidziguuri’s poem titled “To Galaktion Tabidze” is published.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №229 (June 25), p. 3.

1922

June 25

In the newspaper Tribuna, Ioseb Gvantseladze’s poem titled “To Galaktion Tabidze” is published.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №229 (June 25), p. 3.

Note: The poem was published under the pseudonym 'Knari'.

1922

June 25

In the newspaper Tribuna, a poem titled "The Fate of a Poet (To Galaktion)" by Mikheil Kintsurashvili, writing under the pseudonym "Yasamani", is published.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №229 (June 25), p. 3.

1922

June 25

In the newspaper Tribuna, an essay titled "Galaktion Tabidze" by Parmen Tchanishvili, writing under the pseudonym "Omega", is published. In the essay, Galaktion is described as a "guardian of the Georgian muse", who has become isolated like a cypress on the shore of life's lake, shedding tears like pearls.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №229 (June 25), p. 3.

1922

June 25

In the newspaper Tribuna, an article titled "Galaktion Tabidze" by Romanoz Pantskhava, writing under the pseudonym "Khomleli", is published. The critic states that the revolution brought a transformation in life, replacing the rural hegemony with that of the city. Literature, too, was overtaken by the city. An example of such literature in Georgia appears in the form of Galaktion Tabidze's lyric poetry. Pantskhava considers the poet's second Book of poems a testament to his impressionistic style. According to Pantskhava, Georgian writers lack the ability to focus on a single thought or feeling for long; therefore, most contemporary Georgian poets, including Galaktion Tabidze, are impressionists. They attempt to convey brief, fleeting impressions and fragments of emotions. The critic believes that what is precious to the poet is not objective reality but rather subjective, individual impressions of that reality.

Source: Khomleli, Galaktion Tabidze, Newspaper Tribuna, 1922, №229 (June 25), p. 3.

1922

June 25

A creative evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze is held at the opera house, which is a ticketed event, and the poet expects a certain income from it. After the poet's performance and the reading of his poems, the evening's chairman begins reading congratulatory messages, among which is a humorous Russian congratulatory note from Ia Ekaladze. The content of the message is: "Congratulations, I embrace you, and I am borrowing a portion of the income from you". Galaktion reads the congratulatory message once more and responds that he cannot fulfil Mr. Ia Ekaladze's request because both he and Ekaladze know that they are not reliable in this regard; they do not repay debts and lending money would result in a loss. He adds that if anyone doubts this, they should ask Mr. Ia Ekaladze, who is present. The room erupts in applause and laughter, and Ia Ekaladze himself laughs loudly.

Source: R. Korkia, Three Recollections, newspaper Sakhalkho Ganatleba, December 3, №98, p. 4.

July

1922

July 17

He writes a poem “On the way to the road”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4065; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 135.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Summer evening” and “I hear a longing voice”. The date is crossed out in the autograph.

August

1922

August 15

Early in the morning, he gets up, takes his cholera vaccination certificate, ID card, a bottle of cognac, and sets off on foot to the station with Gogi. He notices that the statue of St. Giorgi has not yet been taken down and is holding a red flag. At the station, he observes the passengers heading to Kakheti, with whom he will be traveling. He notes that the buffet and barber shop are open, and life is returning to its usual rhythm. However, he is troubled by the fact that he does not have a single coin in his pocket.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №506, p. 4.

Note: Gogi’s last name is not mentioned, and his identity cannot be determined.

1922

Until August 16

He writes down anecdotes.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №506, p. 1.

1922

August 16

He is in Mukuzani with Kote Nakashidze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №506, p. 3.

1922

August 16 or later

He writes about the meaning of “Alziora”. It combines the names of the rivers Alazani and Iori.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №506, p. 3.

1922

Until August 30

He reads “Martin Eden” by Jack London and takes notes.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, 627 (26). G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 268, 269; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 728-729.

1922

Until August 30

He tries to find rhymes for the word "ephemera".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-11, p. 15; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 728-729.

1922

Until August 30

Inspired by Jack London's "Martin Eden", Galaktion writes a poem titled "Ephemera" ("The Final Frontier...").

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, Tbilisi, 2016, vol. 3. p. 15-16. Information for dating and clarification; M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 728-729.

1922

August

He writes a poem "Evening".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №207; №1081; №1461d. 11; №1462d. 11; №1465 d. 11; №1466 a, d. 11; №1469; №1479; №3426; № 5751; №6259; №7383; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 23; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 330-31.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "This is the native wind", "Nocturne"; "Evening in Kakheti" and "Poems written in Alziora, Kakheti".

1922

August

He writes a poem "NNN".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №465; №5530; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 26; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 330-31.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources without the title "Natela from Tsinandali..." and with the title "Natela from Tsinandali".

1922

August

He writes a poem "Moon of Kakheti".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 26; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 330-31.

1922

August

He writes a poem “At Alazani”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 8; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 27; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 330-31.

1922

August

He writes an untitled poem “Only heart...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1426; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 27; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 330-31.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “Only heart”.

1922

August

He writes an untitled poem “You are dressed in black, like an elegy...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №473; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 28; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 330-31.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “You are dressed in black, like an elegy”.

September

1922

September 1

While in Sighnaghi, he writes in his diary about the specific dates in August and September when one can hunt various animals and birds.

Source: MGL, d-499, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 380.

1922

September 1

While in Sighnaghi, he writes in his diary that there are many people afflicted with goiter in Kakheti, especially women.

Source: MGL, d-499, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 380.

1922

Until September 2

He reads the Russian translation of “Martin Eden” by Jack London and makes excerpts of individual passages in Georgian on a piece of paper.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, 627-26; AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 268, 269; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 729.

1922

Until September 2

He writes an untitled poem “The last frontier...” inspired by the episodes from Jack London’s “Martin Eden”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №405; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 15; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 729.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Ephemera”.

November

1922

November 2

He submits a statement to the head of the Tobacco Trust, stating that a weekly magazine under his editorship will begin publication the following week. He requests that announcements be provided for publication in the magazine, emphasizing that this is crucial for the magazine’s sustainability.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-104; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 92.

1922

November

He gives a speech in the Palace of Artists, in which he calls on writers and artists to present masterpieces of new art suitable for the new era.

Source: G. Liakhvispireli, Galaktion is One, Meetings in Tskhinvali, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 349.

1922

November

He writes the preface for the first issue of Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine. In it, he discusses the profound changes occurring in the world, the fall of monarchies, and the triumph of revolutions. He states that poetry, too, must align with the spirit of the epoch, facing the choice between death or renewal.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1922, №1, December 03, p. 1.

December

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, he anonymously publishes an article titled “A Sad Martyrology”, in which he points out that the years 1917-1919 and 1920-1921 proved fatal for monarchs and distinguished artists, as many of them passed away during this period.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 47; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 51.

1922

Until December 3

On the page, he writes the text of an announcement about the magazine Kartuli Satirikoni, stating that Galaktion Tabidze will be a regular contributor, and that the magazine will have collaborators in various cities, towns, and villages across Georgia.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №508, p. 1.

1922

Until December 3

He attends Vasil Barnovi's anniversary at the Opera and Ballet Theatre and likes Ipolite Vartagava's performance. After the event, he meets him and asks him to give this report to be published in "Galaktion Tabidze's magazine". Vartagava agrees without hesitation and hands over the report. Galaktion fulfils his promise and prints the former teacher's letter under the title "Vasil Barnovi" in the first issue of his magazine.

Source: I. Vartagava, Days from the Past, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 208-209.

1922

Until December 3

On the editorial page of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, he publishes his preface, in which he sets literature the goal of reflecting and aligning with the great changes of the times.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, December 03, p. 18; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 29.

1922

Until December 3

He writes an untitled poem "Neither sky, not shadow...".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, December 03, p. 18; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 29.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, he anonymously publishes an article titled "Post. Tiflis To NN.", in which he responds to a written question received by the magazine's editorial office. Galaktion fulfils the request of the letter's author and provides information about the fixed poetic form of Eastern poetry – the ghazal (qazal). In his explanation, the poet points out that this form originated in Persian poetry, with masters such as Jalaluddin Rumi, Nizami, Omar Khayyam, and Hafez. He adds that in Georgia, poets like Besik, Aleksandre Chavchavadze, and Sayat-Nova wrote poems with similar structures, though their works did not fully adhere to the strict characteristics of the form.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 18; MGL, d-645, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 163-164.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, Giorgi Kuchishvili's poem "Poem From the Testament" is published, featuring the lines: "May my procession be adorned by Galaktion / with the surname Tabidze and the title of King-Poet, / may the old Zion weep over the recitation of his poems / and let the sun's radiant light be overshadowed by sorrow".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 3.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, a poem titled "Galaktion" by Irakli Topadze is published.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 2.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, a poem titled "The Fate of a Poet" by Mikheil Kintsurashvili, writing under the pseudonym "Yasamani", is published with the dedication "To Galaktion".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 2.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, a poem titled "To Galaktion Tabidze" by Lavros Dzidziguri is published.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 3.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, a poem titled "Galaktion Tabidze" by Ioseb Gvantseladze, writing under the pseudonym "Knari", is published.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 3.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, a poem by Mikheil Kintsurashvili (under the pseudonym "Yasamani") titled "The Poet's Fate" is published, with the dedication "To Galaktion".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 2.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, his leading article is published, with the main motto being "Death or Victory".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 1.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, an article by Ia Ekaladze titled "Dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze" is published, in which the author compares the poet to a solitary weeping willow standing among fruit trees, far from any worldly filth, inviting people to dream.

Source: I. Ekaladze, Dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, December 03, №1, p. 6.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, an article by Romanoz Pantskhava titled "Galaktion Tabidze" is published under the pseudonym "Khomleli".

Source: I. Ekaladze, Dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, December 03, №1, p. 6-7.

1922

Until December 3

Under the general title "Contents", he lists on a page the texts he plans to include in the first issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine. The list includes his "Preface", poems from the cycle "Alziora", and letters by Eva Rimaneli.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №506, p. 7.

1922

Until December 3

On the page, he writes stanzas from Alfred de Musset's poem "The Chandelier" as translated by Ivan Turgenev and from a poem dedicated to Valery Bryusov. He translates individual phrases.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №506, p. 6.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, a cycle of poems titled "Alziora, Poems Written in Kakheti" is published. Among them are: "The Black Fog Covered...", "This is the Native Wind...", and "The Light Spread Out..."

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, p. 4.

1922

December 3

In Galaktion Tabidze's magazine, he publishes an untitled poem "Neither sky, nor shadow..."

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1922, №1, December 03, p. 18.

1922

December 7

He participates in Terenti Graneli's evening held on Literary Thursdays of the Union of Writers of All Georgia.

Source: Newspaper Lomisi, 1923, №18, p. 4.

Note: The following participants are named in the source: "G. Tabidze, S. Pashalishvili, Kh. Vardoshvili, D. Shengelaia".

Dating: The date is given in the list of events published in 1923 newspaper Lomisi: "Literary Thursdays of the All-Georgian Union of Writers" held in 1921-1922.

1922

Until December 10

He reads Alexander Blok's play "The Rose and the Cross".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's magazine", 1922, №2, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 284.

1922

Until December 10

Under the title "Romanticism" he writes an essay about his modern "disgraceful times", which kills the soul of Romanticism.

Source: Autograph, MGL, d-645-10; Galaktion Tabidze's magazine", 1922, №2, p. 1.

Dating: A short passage of the text was used in the second issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine published on December 10, 1922.

1922

December 10

On the editorial page of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine he publishes an open letter written in the Palace of Arts to Iakob Nikoladze "My sincere greetings to Iakob Nikoladze...", in which he talks about the intention of the Georgian sculptor to carve huge images in the rock on the seashore according to Michelangelo's idea, which will be visible from a long distance.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's magazine", 1922, №2, p. 1.

1922

Until December 17

Inspired by Jack London's novel "Martin Eden", he writes an untitled poem "At the horse race my blue horses..." in the Palace of Art.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, Tbilisi, 2016, vol. 3. p. 30; Information for dating and clarification; M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 723.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the titles "Ephemera" and "Blue horses again".

1922

December 17

He publishes the poem “Ephemera” in Galaktion Tabidze’s Journal.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1922, №3, December 17, p. 1.

1922

Until December 24

He writes an untitled poem “What moves the cypress body...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, Tbilisi, 2016, vol. 3. p. 31.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “Ephemera again”.

1922

December 24

In Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine he publishes the poem “Ephemera again”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1922, №4, December 24, p. 1.

1922

December 25

The newspaper Znamya Iskusstva publishes an essay by George Kostelansky titled “Silhouettes of Georgian Poetry”. In the essay, the author reviews the Book “Georgian Poets”, published in Russian in 1921 under the editorship and preface of Nikolo Mitsishvili. Regarding Galaktion Tabidze, Kostalensky writes that he follows the old path, is untroubled by Symbolist turmoil, delights in gazing at the moon, and “listens to the tales of the solitary wind”.

Source: G. Kostelansky, Силуэты Грузинской поэзии, Знамя Искусства, 1922, December 25, №2, p. 3-4.

1922 or later

He makes fundamental changes to the untitled poem “Look, the doors have opened...” and gives it the title “Moscow in Anticipation of Cannonade”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 4.

1922 or earlier

He begins writing an untitled poem: “Long live to those lindens, to the blossoms of those lindens...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №354.

Dating: This version of the poem must have been written earlier than “Long live those peaches, those peach flowers”.

1921-1922

He writes a poem “Long live those peaches, those peach flowers!”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №7394; №979; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 19; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 324.

1921-1922

He writes an untitled poem “Dressed in transparent blonde laces...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №849; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 20; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 324.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Dressed in transparent blonde laces”.

1922

The poem “Villanelle” is published in the magazine Kandeli.

Source: Magazine Kandeli, 1922, №1, p. 3.

1922

He writes a poem “To a friend”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4288; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 23.

Note: The poem can also be found with the title “Homeland of Black Lucifer”.

1922

He writes a poem “They didn’t hear...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 297; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 23; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 328.

1922

He writes a poem “A tiger killed near Tiflis” under the subtitle “Ballad”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №297; №7744; №137-d, p. 13; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 28.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “Ballad of the Caucasus Mountains” and untitled “Tiger at the Caspian Sea...”.

1922

He writes a poem “A child’s diary”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №406; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 29; For dating: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 335.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “Old journals”.

1922

He has an argument with Titsian Tabidze in the Palace of Arts. Nikoloz Shengelaia witnesses the conflict and Galaktion asks him not to tell anyone.

Source: Notes on desk calendar pages, MGL, d-201, p. 4; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. XII, Tbilisi, 1975, p. 393.

Note: The record shows that Nikoloz Shengelaia fulfilled his request.

1922

He writes an untitled poem “All the candles have burnt out in the candlesticks...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №873; №1461; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 40; For dating: ibid., p. 345.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources with the titles “All the candles have burnt out in the candlesticks” and “Agreement”.

1922

He writes a poem “A homeless soul”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 300; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 40; For dating: ibid., p. 345.

1922

He writes an untitled poem “Oh, today is autumn...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №d-617, p. 18; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 43; For dating: ibid., p. 345.

1922

He writes an untitled poem “The wind is blowing, the wind is blowing, the wind is blowing...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №463; №2558; №463 a; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 43; For dating: ibid., p. 347.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “The wind is blowing”.

1922

In the Union of Writers, he establishes a literary circle where young poets gather on Thursdays and listen to Galaktion’s advice.

Source: A. Oneli, Thus Began a Friendship, Let the Toast Be to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 250.

Note: The circle did not exist for long.

1922

The second Book of poems, Crâne aux fleurs artistiques (“Skull with Artistic Flowers”), published in 1919, was gifted to Koki Abashidze with the inscription: “To Koki Abashidze, as a sign of deep respect, Galaktion Tabidze. 1922, Tiflis”.

Source: MGL, Fk-2212, Galaktion Tabidze, II, “Crâne aux fleurs artistiques” (1914-1919), Tbilisi, 1919.

1922

He sends a brief letter to Lavrenti Dzidziguri, informing him that there is a very important event for him at the theatre that day and reserves four seats in the box for him and Galaktion’s loyal readers.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 11049; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 61, 538.

1922

In his notebook, he writes Shalva Asatiani’s address: Sololaki Street №14.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 100.

Dating: The entry is dated based on the dates of previous entries.

1922

In his notebook, he makes portrait sketches.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-10, p. 15-17, 20, 24; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 90.

1922 or later

The Russian magazine Znamya Iskusstva, published in Tbilisi, launches an attack against Galaktion.

Source: Autograph, GTDA №277, p. 2.

1922 or later

In his notebook, Galaktion writes in Russian a statement by Georgian students and poets condemning the attack against him by the magazine Znamya Iskusstva. The statement declares that "the mud of these envious people will never reach the sun". Among the signatories are Archil Sikharulidze, Ivane Meskhi, and Nino Tsitsishvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA №277, p. 2.

1922 or later

He makes fundamental changes to the poem "The Poet's Thoughts" ("My fairy, lend me your ear...") and gives it a new title: "The Joy of Cruisers".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 1-2.

1922 or later

He makes fundamental changes to the untitled poem "Look, the doors have opened..." and gives it the title "Moscow in Anticipation of Cannonade".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №372, p. 4.

1922 or later

In the Book "Poems, The Fate of Kartli, Letters" by Nikoloz Baratashvili, he makes emphases and comments. He counts the number of syllables in the lines of the poem "Lute" and notes that, in one instance, the rhythm is broken.

Source: MGL, t-19, Nikoloz Baratashvili, "Poems, The Fate of Kartli, Letters", Tbilisi, 1922, p. VII-IX, XX-XXI, XXIV-XXV, 3-7, 18, 30-31, 85, 167.

1922 or later

He reads a Book of articles by Vladislav Khodasevich on Russian poetry and responds to his views on Gavrila Derzhavin. He writes that the latter is not immortal, his passions are naïve and disgusting. He is completely forgotten, and if anyone shows interest in him, it is only for personal gain. Galaktion is surprised by such an article being written in 1916, against the backdrop of the tumult of the First World War and the revolutionary speeches of Vladimir Mayakovsky. After reading the article, it becomes clear how distant all the poets of that period have become, as if it were so long ago that even remembering it is difficult.

Source: MGL, t-450, Владислав Ходасевич, Статьи о Русской Поэзии, Petersburg, 1922, p. 57.

1922 or later

In the Book of articles by Vladislav Khodasevich on Russian poetry, a brief letter from Olya Okujava is included, in which she asks to have lunch together.

Source: MGL, t-450, Владислав Ходасевич, Статьи о Русской Поэзии, Petersburg, 1922.

1922 or later

He reads the fifth edition of Giorgi Kuchishvili's poems, highlights certain words, and matches them with his own rhymes.

Source: MGL, t-638, G. Kuchishvili, Book Five, Tbilisi, 1922.

1922 or later

He writes an untitled poem "The bright sun will dim..."

Source: MGL, a-1864, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 404.

1923

January

1923

Until January 1

He writes a poem "Sea ephemera".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №301-302; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 34.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title "Sea ephemera".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1923

Until January 1

He writes an untitled poem "This was at the end of October".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7395; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 41.

Note: The subtitle "Mary" is crossed out in the autograph.

Dating: On January 1, 1923, the poem was already published and is dated 1922 in all sources.

1923

January 1

The fifth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine is published, in which his poems are printed: "This was at the end of October", "New Year's ephemera" and "Sea ephemera".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's magazine", 1923, №5, p. 1-3.

1923

January 1

In the fifth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine under the pseudonym of "Mirbach" Mikheil Botchorishvili's article "1922 Review of Literary Criticism" is published. The author approves of the path outlined in Galaktion Tabidze's letter "Poetry first" and in the newspaper Poetry Day, which must be adopted by the Georgian artists in the new reality.

Source: Mirbach, "1922: A Review of Literary Criticism", Galaktion Tabidze's magazine", 1923, №5, p. 6-7.

Note: In the source, Mikheil Botchorishvili is mentioned under the pseudonym "Mirbach".

1923

January 1

The newspaper Lomisi publishes Leo Kiacheli's article "The Literary Impression of 1922" under the pseudonym "L.K.", which talks about the scale of Galaktion's influence. The author believes that his second Book - "Artistic Flowers" - is the greatest achievement of the new era.

Source: L.K. "1922: A Literary Impression", Newspaper Lomisi, 1923, №18, p. 1.

1923

January 1

The newspaper Tribuna publishes the caricatures of Vasil Pataria under the pseudonym "Don Bazil": "New Year's gozinakis, to Galaktion Tabidze" and 'New Year's greetings' by Davit Natsvlshvili under the pseudonym "Maghali": "To Bakhtrioni, Lomisi, Ilioni, and G. Tabidze's Magazine".

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, № 384, p. 3-4.

1923

January 3

Giorgi Leonidze's review "Literary Chronologies of 1923" is published in the newspaper Bakhtrioni under the pseudonym "Galli". According to the author of the article, banal miniatures and Galaktion Tabidze's "Blue Montevideo" were mixed together like a "vinaigrette" in the magazine Lomisi published in 1922. Galaktion Tabidze's magazine is severely criticized, which the columnist considers a surrogate of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba. He writes that Galaktion's newly published poems – "New Year Ephemera", "Sea Ephemera", and other poems – represent cliched writing of both his and others' old themes. The author of the article writes: "G. Tabidze has his own past, that's why he should be afraid of the proverbial 'bull'". He probably refers to the Georgian proverb "even a brave bull cannot withstand two jabs with a spear" and wants to hint that separating from Tsisperkantseli and cooperating with others will have a bad effect on his creativity. The article mentions the "Poetry Day" newspaper and the magazine Kandeli published in Batumi in May 1922 as "unfortunate" publications. Galaktion Tabidze's poems "Bad weather" and "Etching" were published in the first, and "Villanelle" and "A tower" in the second. It is true that the author of the article does not say anything about these poems, but the mocking attitude naturally extends to the authors presented in these publications as well.

Source: Newspaper Bakhtrioni, 1923, №25, p. 3.

Note: In the article title, instead of “1923”, it should say “1922”. Galaktion Tabidze was the chairman of the editorial board of the magazine Lomisi criticized in the article.

1923

Until January 7

He writes a poem “Ephemera”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4232; №8117; GTDA, №389, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 38.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources without the title “I cannot recognize my native trees anymore...” and with the titles: “Shalva Amirejibi”; “The hum of the forest”; “Solitude”, “Sorrow”, “Native ephemera”, and “Someone is moaning there”.

Dating: The date indicated on the autograph is “March 11, 1923”. It cannot be correct, because the poem was already published at that time. Therefore, it is dated according to the first publication.

1923

Until January 7

On the letterhead of one of St. Petersburg’s commercial houses, he writes 322 pairs of rhyming words. In some instances, not just two but several words are rhymed together.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №575, p. 1-4; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 632.

1923

Until January 7

He writes a poem “Ephemera” (“Look at your quiet sworn sister...”).

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine, 1923, №6, January 07, p. 1; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 39.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1923

January 7

The sixth issue of Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine is released, in which the poems: “Ephemera” (“Look at your quiet sworn sister...”) and “Native ephemera” are published.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s magazine, 1923, January 7, №6, p. 1-2.

1923

January 7

In Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine Gertsel Baazov’s poem “Messiah” is published with the inscription “Dedicated to Galaktion”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's magazine", 1923, January 7, №6, p. 2.

1923

Until January 14

He writes a poem "In the city".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4194; №5622; №8089; №28897-50, p. 173, 5; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 44.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the titles: "Georgia", "Fr. Adler" and "Meeting".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1923

January 14

He publishes the poem "In the city" in the Galaktion Tabidze's Journal.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1923, №7, January 14, p. 1.

1923

January 17

An evening dedicated to the 15th anniversary of Galaktion Tabidze's poetic work is being held in the Rustaveli Theatre, where so many people come that there are no more tickets left, and some people are waiting in the yard for the end of the evening to show their love and admiration to the poet after leaving the theatre.

Source: P. Nishnianidze, From Galaktion's Life, Tbilisi, 1964, p. 39-40.

1923

Until January 18

The magazine Ilioni publishes an article by Aleksandre Tsereteli "On the new frontier", in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned among the talented writers whose name is associated with "trying to create a new style".

Source: Magazine Ilioni, 1923, №3, p. 70.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine Ilioni is given in the newspaper Tribuna of January 18, 1923.

February

1923

Until February

He writes an untitled poem "When the night around is dark...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1911; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 45; For dating: ibid., p. 345.

1923

February 1

In the “Little Feuilleton” column of the newspaper Komunisti, under the pseudonym Diton, the satirical poem “Gvetadze’s Donkey with Titsian’s Angel” is published, in which Galaktion is mentioned: “King Galaktion, who robbed you / - Terenti, Terenti! /... may Razhden reign / may Vesenkha reign / may Tabidze (№1) get drunk...”.

Source: Diton, Gvetadze’s Donkey in Titsian’s Angel, Komunisti, №23, p. 3.

Note: “Vesenkha” refers to the Supreme Council of Public Economy (Высший Совет Народного Хозяйства). In Gvetadze’s poetry, the face of a donkey is presented with special sympathy: “For me, donkeys are better than everything”, “Seraphims fly on the shoulders of donkeys”, and others.

1923

February 2

He attends the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where together with Koki Abashidze and Varlam Rukhadze, he is elected as a member of the commission for the events dedicated to the eighth anniversary of the death of Akaki Tsereteli. It is planned to hold a literary Thursday, arrange an evening and decorate the poet’s grave with a wreath on February 18.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 172.

1923

February 4

The eighth issue of Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine is published, in which Evgeniy Sidoshvili’s poem “Ghost” (to Galaktion Tabidze) and Vakhtang Garrik’s article “Galaktion Tabidze” are published. In the article, Galaktion is mentioned as the author of new knowledge, new aesthetics, who has mastered the native culture and also partakes of Western art. According to the article, the rhythm of his poems is held by musical magic and “Blue Horses” are named as an example of virtuoso technique.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s magazine”, 1923, February 04, №8, p. 2, 8-10.

1923

February 6

He refers with a statement to Mamia Orakhelashvili, the chairman of the state publishing board, and requests that the weekly artistic and literary magazine published in the Georgian language under his editorship be given permission to publish the statements of both state and private institutions.

Source: MGL, h-24551-105; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 92.

1923

February 6 or later

In Galaktion Tabidze’s statement regarding the printing rights for announcements from state and private organizations in the magazine he edits, Mamia Orakhelashvili writes that private publications will not be allowed to print announcements from Soviet institutions. In response to this resolution, Galaktion adds that Rubikoni is a private publication, yet it still prints announcements from Soviet organizations.

Source: MGL, h-24551-105; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 92.

1923

February 11

In the humorous supplement “Satirikon” of the newspaper Tribuna, under the pseudonym of “Traditsia”, Vasil Pataraiia’s poem “Galaktion Tabidze (auto sonnet)” is published.

Source: Tra-ditsia, “Galaktion Tabidze”, newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №415.

1923

February 11

In the newspaper Rubikoni, Valerian Gaprindashvili publishes an article titled “Rhyme in 1922”, where he highlights the original rhymes used by Galaktion Tabidze that year.

Source: V. Gaprindashvili, “Rhyme in 1922”, newspaper Rubikoni, №4, p. 1.

1923

February 15

On another literary Thursday held in the Palace of Arts, he reads the poem “Akaki’s Solemn Evening”.

Source: Newspaper Lomisi, 1923, №25, p. 3.

Note: At the evening, the following participants gave a speech: “Kote Makashvili, K. Abashidze, K. Gamsakhurdia. Poems were read by: Galaktion Tabidze, Varlam Rukhadze, Terenti Graneli and I. Mtchedlishvili”.

1923

February 16

At the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, he was elected as a member of the commission for developing reports for “Literary Thursdays”.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 173.

1923

February 18

In the newspaper Aspirozi, Polio Abramia’s letter “Instead of bibliography (open arcs), Galaktion Tabidze’s magazine”, №№ 1922-1923, is published, in which both the content and technical aspects of Galaktion’s magazine are negatively evaluated.

Source: Newspaper Aspirozi, 1923, №1, February 18, p. 3.

1923

February 25

Trophime Inasaridze's "Critical Remarks" are published in the newspaper Aspirozi under the pseudonym "Inas", in which the call for "renewal or death" expressed in Galaktion's manifesto is discussed. In the opinion of the author, this call does not show how young Galaktion has presented new creative ways, he thinks that such a bold call will not have power and will remain a dry propaganda, if the poet does not become the confidant of the people.

Source: Newspaper Aspirozi, 1923, №2, p. 2-3.

1923

February 25

In the newspaper Lomisi, under the pseudonym of Maruta Shuamdinareli, Ioseb Grishashvili's article "Drifting apart with the rhymes" is published, in which the author criticizes Valerian Gaprindashvili's publication ("Rhymes in 1922"). According to Ioseb Grishashvili, better rhymes could be cited from Galaktion's poetry, and two of the cited rhymes do not belong to Galaktion.

Source: Newspaper Lomisi, №26, 1923, p. 1.

March

1923

Until March 3

He receives a letter from his brother. Abesalom asks him to somehow obtain two thousand roof tiles and two or three barrels of cement from the government for the renovation of their family home, under the condition that they will pay the amount in instalments.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-308; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151-152.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter dated March 3, 1923.

1923

Until March 3

He receives a letter from his brother, who asks if, with the help of the government, he could acquire 2,000 roof tiles and 2-3 barrels of cement for the house's tax, with the payment to be made in instalments.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-308; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151-152.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter dated March 3, 1923.

1923

After March 3

In the letter, he receives a message from his brother Abesalom. Abesalom reproaches him for not responding to the previous letter and asks him to avoid alcohol and wine. He informs him that the teachers have sent 200,000 roubles by mail for one month's copies of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, but they have not yet received the February issues. He inquires about the cause of this delay. Abesalom also sends two small sketches of his own for publication either in Galaktion's Journal or in Lomisi and requests that the subsequent issues of the magazine be sent to him. He sends his mother's greetings and asks to be informed about when he will visit.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-308; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151-152.

1923

March 6

Galaktion Tabidze's magazine owes up to one hundred million roubles after the publication of the eighth issue. Because of this, the poet submits an application to the Council of People's Commissars, in which he asks for a suitable mandate, so that, like other publications, he can publish the announcements of both state and private institutions and thus receive income.

Source: V. Javakhadze, "Stranger", Tbilisi, 2013, p. 288.

1923

March 18

The newspaper Rubikoni publishes Shalva Apkhaidze's letter "The moon in the poetry", one section of which is devoted to the aesthetics of the moon in Galaktion's work and features the poems: "Death from the Moon", "The Moon of Mtatsminda" and "Fear".

Source: Newspaper Rubikoni, 1923, №8, p. 2.

1923

After March 26

He writes a poem "Sara Bernard" with the subtitle "Actress".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5333-34; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 51.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Sarah Bernard Passed Away" and "Rumours".

Dating: Dated by Sarah Bernard's date of death.

1923

After March 26

He writes another poem with the title "Sara Bernard" and the subtitle "Actress".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5333-34; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 51.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Sarah Bernard passed away" and "The curtain is raised".

Dating: Dated by Sarah Bernard's date of death.

April

1923

Until April 2

The library-reading room of the Georgian cultural-educational society of Sokhumi subscribes to Galaktion Tabidze's magazine and pays 400 000 roubles.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 153.

1923

April 2

They give a deadline of May 6 to cover the rent of the editorial building of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine - 19 million.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 153.

1923

April 4

He gives a speech and reads poems at the evening of the young artist Shalva Shevardnadze at the State Conservatory.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №437, p. 4.

1923

April 13

He delivers a speech at the session of the fourth conference of the Union of Writers of Georgia and demands an increase in the number of council members to fifteen. At the same evening, they are elected as members of the council by secret ballot.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 173-174.

1923

April 15

He attends the meeting of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where he is elected as a member of the commission for organizing literary evenings.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 174.

1923

April 17

The newspaper Tribuna publishes the information that on April 13, Galaktion Tabidze was elected as a member of the 13-member council of the Union of Writers.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, April 17, № 446, p. 4.

1923

April 19

He writes a poem "I have had only one concern".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 100.

1923

April 22

He attends the session of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia. He is elected as a member of the five-member commission, which, together with the presidium, is responsible for developing the program for the evening in the palace, as well as organizing the consecration ceremony of Akaki Tsereteli's monument and taking pictures.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 174.

Note: According to the source, "Tskviti, I. Grishashvili, P. Sakvarelidze, G. Tabidze, Oboli Musha" were elected to the commission.

1923

April 29

He is elected as a member of the Council of the Union of Writers of All Georgia.

Source: Newspaper Lomisi, 1923, №33, p. 2.

Note: According to the source, the following were elected to the council: "Makashvili, Shiukashvili, I. Grishashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Leo Kiacheli, V. Rukhadze, Oboli Musha, Mikh. Botchorishvili, Ar. Jajanashvili, Tskviti, P. Sakvarelidze, S. Pashalishvili, Mimkrali".

1923

April 30

He attends the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where the issue of organizing "Poetry Day" is discussed. Galaktion Tabidze is chosen as one of the organizers, who should prepare the speech of the poets together with others.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 175.

Note: According to the source, the preparation of the speech of the poets was "assigned to G. Tabidze, I. Grishashvili, Oboli Musha".

May

1923

May 2

He receives a letter from his brother Abesalom Tabidze, informing him that the lands have been measured and distributed. Abesalom himself has been allocated half the norm as a servant, while Galaktion, along with his wife, has been considered as a household of two rather than separate residents. Consequently, they are threatening to take away a 3,600 square meter plot of land unless something is done. Therefore, he urgently needs to write a request to be recognized as a separate household with his mother, to retain either half the norm or a plot of land for personal use. He also asks him to take his old clothes when he visits the village, as there is a helper boy in the family who could use them. He inquires whether Galaktion has received the two small sketches sent for publication in his journal by Abesalom.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-307; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 152-153.

1923

May 3

The Council of All-Georgian Federation of Writers petitions the Presidium of the City Executive Committee to grant Galaktion Tabidze the editorial space of the magazine free of charge. The petition emphasizes the positive role of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine in the process of reviving Georgian poetry.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 175.

1923

May 7

The newspaper Poeziis Dghe publishes Ioseb Grishashvili's article "Poetry Chronology" under the pseudonym "Maruta Shuamdinareli", in which Galaktion Tabidze's magazine is mentioned in a negative context; It is said that some of the material published here is inappropriate even for a children's magazine, the technical side of the magazine is criticized, and the abundance of advertising is noted.

Source: Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1923, May 07, №1, p. 1.

1923

May 7

The newspaper Poeziis Dghe publishes a notice that the magazine Mtsvervalebi will be published under the leadership of the Union of Georgian Writers of Batumi, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate.

Source: Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1923, May 07, №1, p. 1.

1923

May 7

Union of Writers of All Georgia celebrates the traditional "Shvidmaisoba" and an evening is held in the Palace of Artists, during which the public listens to the "Hymn of Poetry" specially written for this day. The text belongs to Galaktion Tabidze, and the music to Dimitri Arakishvili. The hymn arouses the admiration of the listeners who demand for its repeated performance. Poems are read by Galaktion and other poets.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary entry, MGL, d-144, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 388-389.

1923

May 8

He reads poems at the great literary evening held in the Rustaveli Theater.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №463, p. 1.

1923

May 10

The newspaper Tribuna publishes Vano Butliashvili's article "Poetry Day", under the pseudonym "V. But-li", which talks about the evening held on May 7 in the Palace of Artists and mentions the “Poetry Hymn”, the words of which belong to Galaktion. It is also said that he, along with other poets, recited poems.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №465, p. 3.

1923

May 11

The newspaper Tribuna publishes Besarion Zhghenti’s letter “Poetry Day” in which Tsisperkantselis are reprimanded. It is said that they used the names of Galaktion Tabidze and Ioseb Grishashvili for 2-3 years.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №466, p. 2.

1923

May 13

The newspaper Lomisi publishes information about the fact that at the evening dedicated to Poetry Day held in the Palace of Artists, a hymn written by Dimitri Arakishvili was performed based on the poem “Poetry First” by Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Lomisi, 1923, May 13, № 34, p. 3.

1923

May 20

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a notice that a great literary evening will be held in Rustaveli Theatre on June 5, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №474, p. 2.

1923

May 23

He writes a poem “You treat faded faces justly”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 118.

1923

May 23

He writes a poem “It’s no time for Romancero”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 106.

1923

May

He writes a poem “Elegy (L. M.)” dedicated to Lidiya Megrelidze.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book III, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 351.

1923

Spring

While walking in Batumi, he meets Leo Turkia, who introduces him to the young Parmen Loria. Loria is enthusiastic about Galaktion's poetry and mentions that he also writes and creates poetry. When Galaktion shakes hands with Loria, he repeats these words exactly and adds: "Let him write, let him poetize", which causes disappointment in Loria.

Source: P. Loria, Recollections about Galaktion, newspaper Sabtchota Atchara, 1973, October 12, №199, p. 4.

June

1923

Until June

He writes an untitled poem "They slept sweetly in Georgia".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №864; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 45.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "It was", "There was mist" and "There was unpassable mist"; For dating: ibid., p. 350.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1923

Beginning of June or later

On the page, he writes down what needs to be done by the technical commission for the 25th anniversary of his literary career: a brochure and postcards need to be printed, announcements are to be published in the newspapers Zarya Vostoka, Komunisti, Tribuna, Musha, Lomisi, and Rubikoni, posters need to be printed and distributed, among other tasks.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №373, p. 1-2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 468.

1923

June 3

He attends the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where the issue of holding a creative evening of Galaktion Tabidze in the "Georgian Club" is discussed. He and Varlam Rukhadze are instructed to get permission to hold the event.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 176.

1923

June 10

An evening dedicated to the 15th anniversary of Galaktion Tabidze's poetic work is held in Kutaisi, which is opened by Vanion Daraseli. Dia Chianelli reviews the fifteen-year creative path of the poet and draws attention to the similarities between Galaktion's and Nikoloz Baratashvili's poetry. Ia Ekaladze addresses Galaktion, Giorgi Kuchishvili reads a poem dedicated to him and students from Kutaisi greet him.

Source: P. Nishnianidze, From Galaktion's Life, Tbilisi, 1964, p. 41- 42.

1923

June 10

The newspaper Tribuna publishes two statements. One of them states that on Sunday, June 17, a celebratory evening dedicated to the 15th anniversary of Galaktion Tabidze's work in the literary arena will be held in the Rustaveli Theater. On the third page of the same newspaper, there is a statement from the committee organizing the evening, in which Galaktion as a poet is declared an epoch-making event and it is said that an artist like him is only once a century.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №492, p. 1, 3, 4.

1923

June 15

He attends the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where the publication of "Zarya Vostoka" is discussed in connection with the anniversary of Galaktion Tabidze. It is noted that the statement placed in the newspaper Akhali Ambebi, as if the Council is celebrating the 15th anniversary of Galaktion Tabidze, causes misunderstanding among the members. They decide to write to the editorial office of Zarya Vostoka that this information not true.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 176.

1923

June 17

At the evening dedicated to the 15th anniversary of Galaktion Tabidze's appearance on the literary stage in the Rustaveli Theatre, the choir performs a hymn written by Dimitri Arakishvili based on Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Poetry First".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary entry, MGL, d-144, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190.

1923

June 17

The newspaper Tribuna publishes Vasil Pataraiia's poem "Ignited Tenderness" (dedicated to G. Tabidze).

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №498, p. 2.

1923

June 20

The newspaper Tribuna publishes information that in a short time Terenti Graneli's evening will be held in the Palace of Artists, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №500, p. 1.

1923

June 21

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who congratulates him on the fifteenth anniversary of his writing career, wishes him health and progress. He reports that he was told about his anniversary party.

Source: Pr. Tabidze, "Narratives, Letters to Galaktion", Tbilisi, 1997, p. 137.

1923

June 22

He leaves a letter of apology to Dominika Eristavi, because a poem by a female writer was accidentally added to the material given to the newspaper Tribuna, and it was published there without the agreement of the author. He asks her to attend his poetry evening at the Opera House on Tuesday and promises to deliver the invitation himself.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Soul Purer Than the Azure", Tbilisi, 2008, p. 145.

Note: Tuesday must mean June 26, but no other information is available for this evening.

July

1923

July 28

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a letter from the library-reading room manager of the Georgian Cultural-Educational Society of Sokhumi about the fact that the subscribed Georgian magazines and newspapers, including Galaktion Tabidze's Journal, are being received late.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, №533, 1923, p. 4.

August

1923

Until August 12

He writes a poem "Blue".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1923, №9, August 12, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 46.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1923

Until August 12

He writes a poem "Hurricane".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, 1923, №9, August 12, p. 3; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 47.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1923

August 12

The ninth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine is published, in which his poems are released under the signature in the issue №№: "Hurricane" (Batumi, 1923) and "Blue".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, № 9, p. 1, 3.

1923

August 12

In the ninth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Journal, his article "State Publishing House" is printed under the signature in the issue №9, in which he expresses dissatisfaction that Tbilisi and, in general, Georgia is littered with Russian books, while Georgian books are so few that they are not even visible on the market. In addition, the poet worries that the books of the state publishing house are printed out of time.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine, № 9, p. 7-9.

1923

After August 12

He makes up the text of the announcement under the title "Galaktion Tabidze magazine", in which he notes that nine issues of the magazine have already been published, only a few pieces of the ninth issue remain in the editorial office, and, in fact, the tenth issue is already ready, which will be larger in volume (126 pages) and also illustrated. The magazine will cost 500,000 roubles and will be printed with a circulation of 10,000 due to the special interest of the readers.

Source: MGL, d-579, p. 3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 412; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 579.

1923

August 29

He receives the mandate of the Council of All-Georgian Union of Writers and the membership of the same union.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 176.

1923

Summer

In Bakuriani, he meets Grigol Oragvelidze, but when leaving for Tbilisi, he is unable to see him again and leaves him the ninth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-446-a; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 254-255.

Note: The poem "Gale" and the article, which Oragvelidze refers to, were published in the ninth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine.

September

After September 1

He receives a letter from Grigol Oragvelidze, who thanks him for leaving the ninth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine. In the letter, Oragvelidze praises his poem "Gale", calling it a masterpiece, and also admires the article "Publishing House" as a pearl. However, he criticizes the materials by other authors as weak and senseless. He writes that the difference between Galaktion and other authors is as vast as the gap between the sky and the earth, or between Alexander Pushkin and Nestor Kukolnik, and advises Galaktion to distance himself from them. He believes that Galaktion should seek out talented young people. Oragvelidze mentions that during a meeting in Tskhvarishi, Ioseb Grishashvili asked for his magazine, but he could not give it to him as he no longer had any copies. He requests that interesting new books from Tbilisi be sent to him and promises to send the money immediately.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-446-a; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 254-255.

1923

September 1

He receives a letter from Grigol Oragvelidze, who admires his poem “Hurricane”. The addressee believes that Galaktion’s magazine is weak, advises him to separate himself from the rest of the authors of this publication and, as the head of a defined, established school, start training a new generation of poets.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 252-253.

1923

September 1 or later

He receives the letter sent by Grigol Gorgadze on September 1, in which the addressee shares his impressions about the ninth issue of Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine published in Batumi on August 12.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-402, p. 3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 530; For clarification of information: N. Sikharulidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 132.

Note: Grigol Gorgadze is mentioned in the source as Grisha Gorgadze.

1923

After September 1

He writes an untitled poem “There are Morgan, Rockefeller...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №209; №294; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 52.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Demons of the Underworld due to the Japan Earthquake” and “Soon”.

Dating: Dated September 1, 1923, according to the great earthquake that occurred in Japan.

1923

September 20

The editor of the newspaper Mtsvervali, Davit Kasradze, in the publication published in the newspaper Tribuna, expresses his dissatisfaction with the fact that Galaktion Tabidze and other authors published the materials purchased by him in other periodicals without his agreement.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №577, p. 4.

October

1923

October 22

He attends the meeting of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where he is elected as a member of the publishing commission.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 177.

1923

October 23

An announcement is published in the newspaper Tribuna that the tenth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine will be published, which will be large-format, illustrated, will cost 500,000 roubles and will be printed with a circulation of 10,000.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №603, p. 2.

1923

October 25

Together with other writers, he appeals to the Presidium of the All-Georgia Union of Writers to initiate a petition before the city's real estate department to allocate one residential house for homeless writers.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-246; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1923

October 27

He attends the fifth unifying conference of writers, where he is elected as a member of the Council of Writers and the Department of Publishing and Magazines.

Source: Newspaper Khomli, 1923, №1, p. 1.

1923

October 28

He attends the session of the Presidium of the Union of Writers of Georgia, where the issue of publishing the almanac is discussed and he is elected as a member of the editorial commission.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 178.

November

1923

November 1

He applies to the city's real estate department and requests to be allocated one room in the centre of the city.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66. p. 178.

1923

November 7

He informs the readers of the magazine Drosha that Galaktion Tabidze's magazine will be published with a new composition and content from January.

Source: Magazine Drosha, 1923, №1, p. 31.

1923

November 9

An announcement is published in the newspaper Tribuna that on Sunday, November 11, an evening of Terenti Graneli will be held in the institute hall of the Rustaveli Theatre, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1923, №616, p. 4.

1923

November 11

He writes an untitled poem "Goodbye for now, Goodbye!".

Source: First publication: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 122.

1923

November 11

An announcement is published in the newspaper Tribuna that the Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine will be published in January with a new composition and content.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, № 618, 1923, p. 4.

December

1923

December 4

He receives a letter from Ekaterine Gabashvili, who expresses admiration for Galaktion's talent and skills.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 401.

1923

December or later

He writes an untitled poem ("Oh, without you...").

Source: Autograph, MGL, №979; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 69; For dating: ibid., p. 374.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles "Poet" and "Glory to him".

1922-1923

In Tbilisi, he is being filmed in the garden of the Palace of Writers.

Source: G. Tabidze's diary entry, 270, p. 68; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 197.

1923

The magazine Kolkheti publishes Vasil Tsereteli's letter "Old and new (review of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine)", in which it is said that Galaktion's magazine is not worth the work and paper that is spent; The author of the review of Galaktion's "Ephemera" and "Ephemera again" published in this edition has a negative assessment, he does not like the mannerism of the first and the technique of the second.

Source: Vasil Tsereteli, "Old and new (review of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine)", magazine Kolkheti, №1, p. 50-51.

1923

He writes a poem "Very soon".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. II, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 368.

1923

He makes a note of his relationship with contemporary writers. He notes that his relations with Ioseb Grishashvili, Titsian Tabidze, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Paolo Iashvili and Grigol Robakidze have improved. He has a special relationship with Leo Kiachelli, who is going to prepare a lecture about his works. He also mentions that Konstantine Gamsakhurdia calls him a genius.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion", Tbilisi, 2000, p. 503.

1923

He writes an untitled poem "I felt it all day long".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5608; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 54.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "I felt it all day long".

1923

He often visits Arno Oneli on Vardisubani street.

Source: A. Oneli, Thus Began a Friendship, Let the Toast Be to Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 250.

1923

He writes a poem "We brought faint pastorals...".

Source: MGL, d-645, 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 167.

Note: In the manuscript, the poem was initially titled "Ephemera; To the Poets of the Past".

1923 or later

Under the rubric "Small Feuilletons", he writes a poem "Art" ("Imedashvili brings the flag of non-partisan art...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №358, p. 1.

1923 or later

He writes an untitled poem: "Go away! I hear your sorrow...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №358, p. 1.

1923 or later

He writes a poem “On the Sea” (“Barely visible...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №358, p. 1.

1923 or later

He writes an epigram: “They will win... Now, everyone, applaud me in unison...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №358, p. 1-2.

1923 or later

He translates a short passage from the work “The Philosophy of Lyricism” by the German philosopher Oswald Spengler.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-648, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213-214; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 609.

1923 or later

He reads Kornei Chukovsky’s Book “The Poetry of Future Democracy”, making highlights and comments.

Source: MGL, t-453, К. Чуковский, “Уот УИТМЭН”, Moscow-Petrograd, 1923.

1924

January

1924

Until January 16

He reads Grigol Tsetskhladze’s poem “The Poet’s Bark”. The phrase in the text, “It is nonsense to address: you, heavens, Mount Mtatsminda, Madatov!.”, somehow seems to him like an attack. Upset by this, he joins a group of young futurists and Tsetskhladze in a heated debate while he is somewhat intoxicated, opposing Tsetskhladze. Initially, Grigol tries to jokingly avoid conflict with Galaktion, and then, still in jest, suggests resolving the dispute through physical combat. Galaktion agrees. The young futurists eagerly anticipate the spectacle. Galaktion takes off his jacket and prepares for a fight, while Grigol also rolls up his sleeves. However, as Grigol approaches his friend, he says with a laugh, “I wouldn’t kill Skylark even if I had plenty of medicine” and extends a hand in friendship instead of striking. Galaktion hesitates briefly, then, amid the shared laughter, the friends embrace and make up.

Source: Grigol Tsetskhladze, “Recollections about Galaktion”, collection “Galaktionology”, X, Tbilisi, 2024, p. 407-425.

1924

January 19

The Council of the All-Georgian Union of Writers appeals to the Presidium of the Tbilisi Executive Committee to help Galaktion Tabidze, who is homeless and has to stay almost on the Street during cold winter nights, in providing an apartment.

Source: V. Javakhadze, “Stranger”, Tbilisi, 2013, p. 274.

1924

January

Varlam Rukhadze’s “Critical Notes” are published in the newspaper Kartuli Sitkva, in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned as one of those poets who made an important contribution to the renewal of Georgian poetry at the beginning of the twentieth century.

Source: Newspaper Kartuli Sitkva, 1924, №9, p. 1.

February

1924

Until February

He writes a poem “Gusty wind”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №2, p. 7; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 54.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

Until February

He writes a poem “Italian Christmas tree in Tripoli”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №d. 18, p. 65; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 55.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Fantastic Christmas Tree” and “The wind makes the Italian Christmas Tree in Tripoli sway”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

Until February

He writes a poem “Wind”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №2, p. 12; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 59.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Wind lifting the curtain”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

Until February

He writes a poem “The sea was calm”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №138 d, p. 51; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 60.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Sextina”; “Suddenly startled night”; “Unexpectedly startled night” and “Wind of memories”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

Until February

He writes a poem “Wind of memories”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №2, p. 15; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 60.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Not one or two”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

Until February

He writes a poem “With chemical subjects”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8386, p. 45; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 61.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Sextina”; “Suddenly startled night”; “Unexpectedly startled night” and “The sea was calm”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

April 25

In the second issue of the magazine Mnatobi, the following poems are printed in one cycle, under the common title “Wind”: “Gusty wind”, “The wind makes the Italian Christmas Tree in Tripoli sway”, “The wind heralding the world war”, “Wind lifting the curtain”, “The wind of memories”, “With chemical objects”. On the other hand, “The wind of memories” is in three parts and includes poems: “Warm August, south wind”, “The wind is blowing, the wind is blowing, the wind is blowing” and “Not one or two”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №2, p. 7-16.

Dating: The publication date of the magazine is indicated in the newspaper Komunisti of April 24.

March

1924

Until March

He writes a poem “Ephemera” (“It’s a fiery day for July...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №346; №856; №8795; №d-138, p. 66; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 64.

Note: The poem can also be found without a title (“It’s a fiery day for July...”) and with the title “The East”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1924

After March 9

He writes a poem “The last companion”.

Source: Manuscript, MGL, №201-d, p. 20; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 69; For dating: ibid., p. 373.

1924

March 24

With a statement, he appeals to the Commissioner of Education to contact the Chairman of the Higher Economic Council of Georgia and open a loan for clothes and shoes.

Source: V. Javakhadze, “Stranger”, Tbilisi, 2013, p. 243-244.

April

1924

April 6

Archil Jajanashvili’s “Critical Notes” are published in the newspaper Kartuli Sitkva. The author expresses dissatisfaction with the fact that the complete collection of works of Galaktion Tabidze has not been published.

Source: Newspaper Kartuli Sitkva, 1924, №21, p. 1.

May

1924

After May 15

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who informs that his mother is weak and she is looking forward to seeing him. He scolds him because he hasn’t written for a long time and he hasn’t been in Chkvishi for four years.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-309; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 153-154.

1924

May 25

He requests the Secretariat of the Union of Art Workers to give them one room in any house at their disposal.

Source: V. Javakhadze, “Stranger”, Tbilisi, 2013, p. 274.

June

1924

June 1

The magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba informs its readers that on Wednesday, June 11, the evening of this magazine will be held, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, №11, the announcement is placed on the inside second page of the magazine’s cover.

1924

June 12

He revises the poem “Ephemera” and names it “East”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №597, p. 1-3; Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №3, p. 11.

1924

June 19

Lavrosi Dzidziguri dedicates him a poem “To Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: L. Dzidziguri, To Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 3.

1924

June 22

Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “East” is published in the magazine Mnatobi and his own review “Konstantine Chichinadze – Selected Poems” under the pseudonym N°N°.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №3, p. 11, 313-314.

Dating: June 22 newspaper Komunisti reported: The magazine Mnatobi №3 has been released.

1924

June 23

He writes a letter to Olya Okujava; He is upset that he is treated negligently in the Palace of Artists. Despite the fact that they no longer have the magazines Kavkasioni and Kartuli Sitkva, they still manage to confront him. He is certain that the time has come for a fierce, irreconcilable struggle. He thanks Olya for encouraging him with her support.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 41, 42.

1924

June 23

The newspaper Tribuna publishes an announcement in the “Art Chronology” section, stating that on June 25, an evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze will be held at the Opera Theatre in Tbilisi, with the participation of the best representatives of Georgian art.

Source: Art Chronology, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 23, №227, p. 4.

1924

June 24

In the newspaper Tribuna, Ia Ekaladze publishes an article dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, titled “A Gift to Galaktion Tabidze”. The author begins by informing readers that an evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze is scheduled for June 25 at the Opera Theatre. She then recalls the poet’s creative journey and praises his talent and craftsmanship. Ia Ekaladze compares Galaktion to a fruit tree, standing alone and modestly bent, whose wondrous presence often evokes longing in people. The author urges readers to cherish this source of dreams if they do not want to sink once again into the sorrowful monotony of everyday life.

Source: I. Ekaladze, Dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, №228, p. 4.

1924

June 24

The newspaper Tribuna, under the subtitle “To Galaktion Tabidze”, publishes a poem titled “Dream” dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze by Shio Mghvimeli.

Source: Sh. Mghvimeli, Dream, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 24, №228, p. 3.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a poem by Lavrosi Dzidziguri dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, titled “To Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: L. Dzidziguri, To Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 3.

Note: The poem in the newspaper is dated June 19, 1922.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna, under the pseudonym ‘Gandegili’, publishes an untitled poem by Dominika Eristavi dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, beginning with the line “I whispered to the night’s zephyr, the beauty of your...”.

Source: Gandegili, “I whispered to the night’s zephyr, the beauty of your...”, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, N 229, p. 3.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna, under the pseudonym ‘Knari’, publishes a poem by Beglar Akhospireli (Aghayan) dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, titled “To Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: Knari, To Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 3.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna, under the pseudonym ‘Iasamani’, publishes a poem by Mikheil Kintsurashvili dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, titled “The Fate of the Poet”.

Source: Iasamani, To Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 3.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna, under the pseudonym ‘Omega’, publishes an article by Platon Kikodze dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, titled “Galaktion Tabidze”. In the article, the poet is described as the “captured and burned twin of the Georgian muse,” while his muse is likened to a solitary poplar standing by the shore of a lake, whose eyes, heavy with sadness, search the depths of the lake for the secret of life.

Source: Omega, Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna, under the pseudonym 'Khomleli', publishes an article by Iakob Phantskhava titled "Galaktion Tabidze". In the article, the author recalls a poem by Galaktion published in the magazine Gantiadi titled "Because of Akaki's Death", comparing it to the works of Akaki Tsereteli and Nikoloz Baratashvili. Iakob Phantskhava notes that for Galaktion, his own individual impressions and personal allusions hold decisive importance. He emphasizes that Galaktion's rhythm, style, writing manner, feelings, and thoughts are completely unique, creating a distinct, individual aesthetic with his masterpieces. The article concludes with another poem by Galaktion, dedicated to Akaki Tsereteli, titled "Akaki's Ghost".

Source: Khomleli, Galaktion Tabidze, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 3.

1924

June 25

The third page of the newspaper Tribuna is entirely dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze. In the centre of the page, a portrait of the poet is printed, along with poems and articles dedicated to him.

Source: Newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 4.

1924

June 25

The newspaper Tribuna publishes an excerpt from Giorgi Kuchishvili's poem dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze, titled "Will".

Source: G. Kuchishvili, Will, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 25, №229, p. 3.

1927

June 27

The newspaper Tribuna publishes a statement from the Writers' Union titled "Letter to the Editorial Board". It mentions that rumours have spread in society suggesting that an evening dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze at the Opera Theater is being organized by the initiative of the Writers' Union Council, which is not true. The publication clarifies that the event is being held through Galaktion Tabidze's personal initiative and that the Council has no connection to it.

Source: A Letter to the Editorial Board, newspaper Tribuna, 1924, June 27, №230, p. 4.

Note: The newspaper's editorial apologizes for the fact that the statement could not be published in the newspaper on Sunday, June 25, due to its untimeliness.

July

1924

July 4

The magazine H2SO4 publishes a letter in which Galaktion, Titsian Tabidze and Ioseb Grishashvili are mentioned in a negative context. It is also said that at the first stage Tsisperskantselis used the names of Galaktion and Grishashvili.

Source: “H2SO4: The Paralytics of Poetry. The Factory of Idiots”, magazine H2SO4, 1924, №1, p. 40.

Dating: A copy of this magazine is preserved in I. Grishashvili’s library, on the cover of which the poet wrote: “I. Gr. July 4, 1924” (see I. Grishashvili Library-Museum Catalogue, vol. 2, part 1, p. 46).

1924

July 7

He finishes work on the untitled poem “Children were selling cigarettes...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4258; №4258 a; №5546; №8432; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 249.

Note: The poem was published under the title “John Reed”.

Dating: Dated according to the date indicated in the first publication.

1924

After July 7

Under the title “John Reed”, he writes the plan for his upcoming poem.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №118.

Dating: On July 7, the title “John Reed” had not yet been chosen for the poem.

1924

Until July 18

He begins to rewrite his book; He plans to start printing on August 1st and finish it on the 15th.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43.

Dating: Dated July 18, 1924, based on a letter sent to Olya Okujava.

1924

Until July 18

He learns that the magazine Mnatobi, in which his poem “John Reed” is published, has already been printed and will be released in the next few days.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43.

Dating: Dated July 18, 1924, based on a letter sent to Olya Okujava.

1924

Until July 18

There are changes in the editorial office of the magazine Mnatobi, where Galaktion currently works. Valia Bakhtadze invited several futurists to become members of the editorial board. Although Galaktion is not in danger of losing his job, he is worried that these new people will mess things up.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43.

Dating: Dated July 18, 1924, based on a letter sent to Olya Okujava.

1924

Until July 18

He takes vacation money and gives part of it to Olya's sister Mania to buy a sheet and other things.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43.

Dating: Dated July 18, 1924, based on a letter sent to Olya Okujava.

1924

Until July 18

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from the Borjomi sanatorium. Olya informs him that, due to illness, she was unable to confirm, but it should not be a problem for Galaktion to stay for two or three nights at her sanatorium. She mentions that Petre Urushadze and the elderly Akopian with his daughter are in Borjomi. Olya suggests that Galaktion undergo a medical examination, as a sanitary train from Tbilisi to Borjomi will be departing in 5-6 days, and he could join it. She also asks him to visit her acquaintances and check on how her mother is doing, as she had left her in poor health.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-360; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 210; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 517.

1924

Until July 18

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from the Borjomi sanatorium. The sender describes the terrible weather of the previous night, including a storm and torrential rain that prevented her from sleeping. She asks him to provide detailed information about how her family members are doing and requests that he notify her in advance when he decides to visit. Olya advises him to definitely bring a warm coat, wear a black shirt during the journey, and take a white one to change into. She is also interested in when his vacation will start.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-430; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 216; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 517.

1924

July 18

He immediately has to leave for Kojori, where he learns that his brother-in-law, Mikheil Okujava, was appointed as the general secretary of the Communist Party.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43.

Dating: Dated July 18, 1924, according to the note made on July 20 on the letter to be sent to Olya Okujava.

1924

July 18

He writes a letter to Borjomi from Tbilisi to inform Olya Okujava that her relatives are fine, mother is gradually getting better, he also informs her about her brother - Mikheil Okujava, saying that he will recover completely in a month. He apologizes for not being able to visit her in Borjomi due to work. He writes that if a room next to her becomes available, he will rent it himself. He asks to let him know if she needs money.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 513.

1924

After July 18

He receives a letter from his brother, who is attending a teacher and administrators’ retraining course in Kutaisi. Abesalom informs him that he was compelled to go to Kutaisi for this one-month course, leaving their mother alone in the village. He asks him to go there and stay with her for at least one or two weeks.

Source: MGL, 24551/310; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 153-154.

1924

July 20

He adds new information to the letter of July 18 to be sent to Olya Okujava: informing that the addressee’s brother, Mikhail, has been appointed the general secretary of the Communist Party.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 513.

Note: Information about the promotion of Mikheil Okujava has not been confirmed.

1924

July 23

The magazine Mnatobi is released, in which the poem “John Reed” is published.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №4, p. 1-21; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, 1924, №165, p. 3.

Dating: The time of publication of the magazine is indicated in the July 23 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1924

July 24

The newspaper Komunisti under the pseudonym “Guruli” publishes a review of the third issue of the magazine Mnatobi, in which it is said about Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “East” that it represents a novelty both in terms of form and content.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, Bibliography Mnatobi, №3, 1924, №166, p. 3.

August

1924

August

Davit Kobidze gifts his Book “Metal Birds” with the inscription: “To Galaktion. Davit Kobidze”.

Source: MGL, t-64, Davit Kobidze, “Metal Birds”, Tbilisi, 1924.

1924

August or later

In Davit Kobidze's gifted Book "Metal Birds", he highlights lines from the poems and pairs words with rhymes.

Source: MGL, t-64, Davit Kobidze, "Metal Birds", Tbilisi, 1924, p. 5-15, 19, 21-24.

1924

After August 30

He writes an untitled poem called "The Witness of the Racings...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7301; №3409; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. IV, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 151; For dating: N. Sikharulidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 474.

1924

August or later

He writes a poem "The eagles had fallen asleep".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №6743; № 8711; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 71; For dating: ibid., p. 376.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled and titled "The eagles had fallen asleep".

September

1924

September 4

He writes a poem "I still deserved it".

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 128.

Dating: The date is written on the manuscript.

1924

September 13

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a statement that on Sunday, September 14, a proletarian poetry evening will be held at the club named after Lenin, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate along with other poets.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1924, №209, p. 4.

Note: The address is the 6th district of the railway service.

1924

Until September 24

He is working on an anti-Soviet poem dedicated to the August uprising titled "Memories of the Days When the Lightning Struck", writing separate passages of the text.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5549; №5654; №2713; №358; 85-d, p. 19; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 279; For dating: R. Tvaradze, "Legend about Galaktion's Life", Tbilisi, 2001, p. 264-266.

Note: Fragments of the poem are found both untitled (with beginnings such as “The wind dragged beggars across the bridge...”; “I see a long and empty street...”; “There is no cloud in the soul...”; “100%! – it dissolves...”) and with titles (“The Guillotine” and “The Third Autumn”).

1924

24 September

The newspaper Komunisti publishes an announcement that the fifth issue of the magazine Mnatobi, in which Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Memories of the Days when it glimpsed” is printed, will soon be on sale.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1924, 24 September, №218, p. 3.

1924

After September 24

The new, fifth issue of the journal Mnatobi opens with Galaktion’s anti-Soviet poem dedicated to the August 1924 uprising, titled “Memories of the Days When the Lightning Struck”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №5, p. 7-25.

Dating: According to the newspaper Kommunisti on September 24, 1924 (№218, p. 3), by this time the magazine Mnatobi has already been printed and will soon be available for sale.

1924

After September 24

Galaktion Tabidze is arrested for the publication of his anti-Soviet poem “Memories of the Days When the Lightning Struck”, dedicated to the August 1924 uprising, in the magazine Mnatobi. Almost the entire print run of the magazine is affected, with the pages containing the poem being removed.

Source: Works in fifteen volumes, vol. 3, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 604.

1924

September

As a result of the intervention of the head of the Commissariat of Internal Affairs, Kote Tsintsadze, Galaktion Tabidze was released from prison.

Source: G. Zarnadze, Galaktion, Okujavas and others, Tbilisi, 2004, p. 66.

1924

September

Due to the fact that he is not given the opportunity to participate in the affairs of the magazine Kavkasioni and his offers remain unheeded, he leaves the editorial board of the magazine.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 199-203.

October

1924

October 5

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a notice that Galaktion Tabidze's new poem "John Reed" is being printed and will be published shortly.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1924, №228, p. 4.

1924

After October 5

Galaktion Tabidze's poem "John Reed" is published as a separate book, which has the following dedication as an epigraph: "I dedicate this Book to the precious number of poets who declared me the king of poets on January 25, 1921, after returning from the revolution".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze, "John Reed", Tbilisi, 1924.

Dating: From the newspaper Komunisti of October 5, 1924, it appears that the Book had not been published yet.

1924

October 8

He writes a poem "World Orchestra", which in one of his autographs is prefaced with phrases from Lenin's words: "Brilliant victory... Potency... A year rich in historical stories... A gigantic conquest...".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №360; №1110; №3362; №3887; №5554; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 67.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled ("This poem recollects the age of the blessed...") and with the titles: "Ephemera", "This poem" and "1917".

1924

October 9

While in the editorial office of the magazine Mnatobi, he learns about Valeriy Bryusov's death.

Source: N. Tabidze, "Galaktion's Laboratory of Creativity", TSU, 1993, p. 5.

1924

After October 9

He writes a poem "The last telegram".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 115; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 70; For dating: ibid., p. 374.

1924

After October 9

He writes a poem "To the memory of Valeriy Bryusov".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5686; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 70; For dating: ibid., p. 374.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Black columns".

November

1924

November 6

The poem “1917” is printed in the magazine Mnatobi (“This poem recollects the age of the blessed...”). In the same issue, there is a statement from the editors that Galaktion Tabidze is collaborating with others in Mnatobi.

Source: 1924, Magazine Mnatobi, №6, p. 78.

Dating: Information about the release of the magazine was printed in the newspaper Komunisti on November 7.

1924

November 7

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that the sixth issue of Mnatobi has been released, in which Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “1917...” has been published.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1924, №256, p. 4.

1924

Until November 11

He has fun with Vano Sarajishvili in the inn. Suddenly, Sarajishvili’s voice is heard on the gramophone, and the singer asks his fellow drinkers if they can guess who is singing. Galaktion listens to the melody and observes the fish hung to dry swaying in the wind as if dancing.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-92, 23; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 24.

Dating: Dated according to the time of Vano Sarajishvili’s death.

1924

Until November 11

He has fun together with singer Vano Sarajishvili and journalist Datiko Pavliashvili in the restaurant “Kakheti” and they sing many songs.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-98, p. 111; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 266; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 138.

1924

Autumn

The illegal organizing committee of the Social-Democratic Party of Georgia informs Noe Zhordania in writing that the Bolsheviks referred to brutal repressions and the press is under the pressure of censorship. As a proof of this, the letter mentions the fact that the fifth issue of the magazine Mnatobi was completely confiscated, in which Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Memories of the Days when it glimpsed” was published. The letter mentions that the poem describes the excitement of foreign people, but the Bolsheviks recognized themselves in it and the author was arrested for that.

Source: Harvard Foundation Microfilms, Case №1336, Sheet 71; O. Janelidze, Executed Freedom, newspaper Literaturuli Sakartvelo, 1997, №48, November 28, p. 6.

Note: In the document, his opening words are indicated as the title of the poem “Memories of the Days When the Lightning Struck”.

December

1924

December 7

Giorgi Natadze’s article “Mnatobi №6” is published in the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba with the cryptonym “G. N”., in which it is said that the poem “1917” is a weak work compared to the historical date to which it is dedicated.

Source: Magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba, 1924, №17, p. 15.

1924

December 21

The newspaper Terenti Graneli is published, stating that several articles, including one by Apollon Kelbakiani titled “Galaktion Tabidze and Terenti Graneli”, were not printed for various reasons.

Source: Simultaneous newspaper Terenti Graneli, 1924, p. 4.

1924

December 25

He writes a poem under the title “Poem to the future chemical war”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3927; №4236; №137 d. p. 13; №28897-50, p. 29; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 72.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“He returns with the same feeling in his heart...”) and with the titles: “Simoom is coming” and “We, the poets of Georgia”.

1924

After December 25

He publishes the poem “We, poets of Georgia” in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №7-8, p. 5.

Dating: The poem was published in the magazine Mnatobi in 1924, dated December 25, 1924.

1924

December 31

On New Year’s Eve, he writes his action plan and prospects for the upcoming 1925 year. He notes that he has triumphed in the past and that the future should also belong to him. He writes that he must fight his own inertia, no longer drink wine, work with determination, and begin the grand epic of his life.

Source: Autograph, №292, p. 1.

1924

After December 31

He begins writing an untitled poem: “Fate for this snow...”.

Source: Autograph, №292, p. 2.

1924

After December 31

In his notebook, he writes about how a person is cast out or isolated.

Source: Autograph, №292, p. 2.

1924

December

He is in Daria Akhvlediani's family together with Shalva Kashmadze, Lado Matchavariani, Terenti Graneli and Mariam Garikuli. Giorgi Kuchishvili enters the room, who is shocked by what he just saw - how the tram ran over the dog. Galaktion worries, what did the dog doing there.

Source: A. Ratiani, Recollections about Galaktion, magazine Mnatobi, 1996, №9-10, p. 125-126.

1924

Mikheil Okujava is given a beautiful old two-story house at 9 Pilipe Makharadze street in Tbilisi. Mikheil himself lives in one large room on the second floor, his mother Elizabeth with her eldest son Vladimir in the second, and Galaktion and Olya in the third.

Source: Марат Гизатулин, Булат Окуджава: «...От бабушки Елизаветы к прабабушке Элисабет», 2020, HYPERLINK "http://maxima-library.org/component/maxlib/b/516722?format=read" <https://maxima-library.com/new-books-2/b/516722>

Note: Pilipe Makharadze Street has been named after Geronti Kikodze since 1990.

1924

Beglar Aghamov's article "Light" is published in the magazine Literatura da Skhva with the cryptonym "B. A"., in which Galaktion's "John Reed" is mentioned as a versified biographical material.

Source: B.A., "Light", magazine Literatura da Skhva, 1924-1925, №1, p. 103.

1924

He writes an untitled poem "The sky with the sand of stars...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №846; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 62; For dating: ibid., p. 361.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Letters from abroad" and "Suddenly darkened night".

1924

He writes a poem "Ballad of the Caucasus Mountains".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №137-d, p. 12; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 63; For dating: ibid., p. 364.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“On a desert mountain...”) and titled “Calm down, wind”.

1924

In 1924, the poem “John Reed”, published as a book, is gifted to Tedo Begiashvili with the inscription: “To Tedo Begiashvili, as a sign of old friendship. Galaktion”.

Source: MGL, Fk-2855, Galaktion Tabidze, “John Reed”, Tbilisi, 1924.

1924 or later

He makes highlights and comments in the anthology of Russian translations of Ukrainian poetry.

Source: MGL, t-250, Антология Украинской Поэзии в русских переводах, Kyiv, 1924.

1924 or later

He makes highlights in Alexander Voznesensky’s Book “The Art of the Screen”, which is intended for actors and directors.

Source: MGL, t-281, Ал. Вознесенский, “Искусство Экрана”, Kyiv, 1924.

1924 or later

In the magazine Mnatobi, one of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems is published. The editorial board deems it necessary to remove several stanzas from the text but is too hesitant to tell Galaktion. At that time, Nino Bakradze, the wife of the proofreader Razhden Gvetadze, works in the editorial office and takes on the task of resolving this issue herself, saying she will remove the stanzas in such a way that he won’t even notice. She proceeds to do so. Before the poem is printed, Galaktion does not notice anything, and when he is informed of what happened, he smiles and does not get upset.

Source: Ts. Khetereli, My Heart – My Turmoil, newspaper Komunisti, 1981, August 15, №188, p. 4.

Dating: We date the publication of the journal Mnatobi according to the time when it started being issued.

1924 or later

He writes rhyming words and pairs phrases.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №577, p. 2.

1924 or later

He reads the first volume of the magazine Tanamedrove Dasavleti published in the fields of literature, science, and art, making highlights and comments.

Source: MGL, t-401, “Современный Запад”, журнал литературы, науки и искусства, книга первая, Moscow-Leningrad, 1924.

1924 or later

He reads the Book “The Hittites and Hittite Culture” and makes highlights and annotations.

Source: MGL, t-330, Культура Востока, “Хетты и Хеттская Культура” Moscow-Leningrad, 1924.

1924 or later

He writes a poem “Sergei Yesenin” (“There was a poet in Tbilisi, Sergei Yesenin...”).

Source: MGL, a-1991, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 347.

After 1924

He is editing the poem “Through Mary’s Eyes”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4704; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 169.

After 1924

He makes a note “The Period of Illumination. The First Days of the Revolution”, where he describes in the third person how he experienced the first days of the revolution and how he responded to these events through his poems.

Source: MGL, d-640, p. 13-16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 610.

After 1924

Under the title “The Clash of Two Movements (Slogans for Literary Analysis)”, he writes a plan and then the text itself in his notebook. He separately outlines the introduction, the beginning of the struggle, the years 1908-1914, 1914-1917, 1917-1921, and 1921-1924, ongoing moods, slogans, and concludes with the question: “Who is the victor?” The analysis is interrupted on the second page.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №275.

1925

January

1925

January 18

The seventh-eighth issue of the magazine Mnatobi is published as one book, in which “We Poets of Georgia” are published.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1924, №7-8, p. 5; For dating: newspaper Komunisti, 1925, №15, p. 5.

Dating: The information about the release of this issue of the magazine Mnatobi is in the newspaper Komunisti of January 18, 1925.

1925

January 21

He writes a poem “Red Iris”

Source: Autographs: MGL, №486; №3363; №3413; №7724; №7725; №283 d, p. 12; №28897-50, p. 84; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 73.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “The excitement is gnawing...” and with the titles: “This is the hum of the entire era” and “Lenin”.

1925

After January 21

In the magazine Mnatobi he publishes the poem “This is the hum of the entire era”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №1, p. 14.

1925

January 25

In Shalva Amirejibi’s Book “Enamels”, he numbers the stanzas and lines of the poems and pairs words with rhymes. In the poem “The King’s Reward”, he adds: “He speaks who drowned. A banquet by the banks of the Mtkvari”. On the last page of the book, he writes: “Banquet by the banks of the Mtkvari – January 25, 1925. Mtatsminda, N. Baratashvili”.

Source: MGL, t-10, Shalva Amirejibi, “Enamels”, Tbilisi, 1920, p. 3-46.

Dating: The Book was published in 1920, but on the last page, page 46, there is a note dated January 25, 1925. On page 15, the same content appears as a note for the poem “The King’s Reward”. The highlights and notes are made with graphite, and it is believed that all of them belong to January 25, 1925.

1925

January

He writes a poem “What time is it?”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. 3, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 537; For dating: N. Tabidze, “Galaktion’s Laboratory of Creativity”, TSU, 1993, p. 6-7.

February

1925

February 5

He attends and presides over a meeting of the founding initiative group of the Writers’ Collective, along with Giorgi Kuchishvili, Niko Kurdghelashvili (Narkani), Polio Ireteli, Shio Mghvimeli, Lavrosi Dzidziguri, and Ivane Ioseliani. Galaktion Tabidze is entrusted with taking measures for the approval of the collective and clarifying the conditions. The next meeting is scheduled to be held on February 14 at the editorial office of Galaktion Tabidze’s Magazine.

Source: Minutes of the meeting, GTDA, №367.

1925

February 24

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that Galaktion Tabidze will participate in the gala evening held in the Red Theatre to mark the 4th anniversary of the Sovietization of Georgia.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1925, №45, p. 7.

March

1925

March 8

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that the tenth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine will be published in the next few days.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1925, №55, p. 5.

1925

March 20

The poem “This is the hum of the entire era” is published in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №1, p. 14.

Note: Since 1935, this poem has been published under the title “Lenin”.

Dating: Information about the publication of this issue of the magazine was published in the newspaper Komunisti of March 20, 1925.

1925

March 20

In the magazine Mnatobi, an article by Besarion Zhghenti titled “1924 Year in Georgian Literature” is published, which briefly reviews Galaktion Tabidze’s fifteen-year creative journey. It notes that many writers grew up under Galaktion’s influence and that he once represented the main citadel of the “Tsisperi Kantsebi”. According to the author, a new theme emerges in Galaktion’s work from 1924: revolution. However, this revolution is understood in the same way as it is by Alexander Blok, meaning it describes only the external appearance of the revolution, without showing its inner essence or pathos. In the same issue of Mnatobi, the editorial board announces that in 1924, eight issues of the magazine were published in seven volumes, which included, among other authors’ works, poems by Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: B. Zhghenti, “1924 in Georgian Literature”, Magazine Mnatobi, №1, p. 165-166, 252; G.A., Galaktion Tabidze, “John Reed”, Magazine Mnatobi, №1, p. 251.

1925

March 20

In the magazine Mnatobi, a review by Gobron Agaréli, published under the pseudonym “G. A.”, is titled “Galaktion Tabidze. John Reed”. The review discusses Galaktion Tabidze’s poem, noting that it portrays two poets in the fire of revolution, namely Galaktion Tabidze and John Reed. The poem is described as a revolutionary diary refracted through the prism of the poet’s lyrical soul. The reviewer mentions that the poem contains so many powerful episodes that quoting them all in one publication is impossible. The article also states that Galaktion managed to capture personal and collective emotions and images of destruction within the realm of fantasy, while still maintaining a sense of artistic realism.

Source: “Galaktion Tabidze, “John Reed”, Mnatobi, 1925, №1, p. 251.

April

1925

After April 5

A young proletarian poet sends a poem expressing the greatest respect for Galaktion. The author longs for a meeting with Galaktion (“If I could spend just one hour with you, how happy I would be...”) and apologizes for the hastily written poem (“This poem, written in haste, I know, does not do justice to the genius...”).

Source: Galaktion’s record, GTDA, №601, p. 1.

1925

After April 5

He makes a note about the young revolutionary poets, Ilya Ehrenburg’s novel, the 1905 Revolution, and the Paris Commune. He recalls the poems of Alexander Pushkin and Maxim Gorky, as well as John Reed’s Book “Ten Days That Shook the World”.

Source: Galaktion’s record, GTDA, №601, p. 1.

Dating: The entry mentions the magazine Prolemapi, which was being published at that time.

1925

2After April 5

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who again blames him for not going to the village and not writing letters, and reports that his mother, despite her age, feels strong. Abesalom tells his stories in detail, how tiring the daily routine of working at school is, but how pleasant the teaching process is when the children listen to you with great attention. The addressee is worried that the needs to be roofed, but he cannot not earn money to repair it or buy a new one. At the same time, he has a very emotional attitude towards the old house, on the door of one of the rooms of which there is an inscription written by a childish hand of Galaktion: “This house belongs to Galaktion”. He asks whether he has given up cooperation with the magazine Mnatobi since none of his works was printed in the last issue of Mnatobi. He wonders if it is true that he is going to publish his own magazine and asks him to send two copies. He asks about Olya and hopes that she will help Galaktion fulfil his promise to abstain from wine.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-311; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 154-155.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze’s magazine is meant in ‘his own magazine’, the publication of which was suspended, and he tried to revive it, but failed to do so.

May

1925

May 16

He submits a statement to the Cultural Union of Georgian Artists, informing them that the “Georgian Artists’ Collective” has been established. He provides a list of its members: poet Shio Mghvimeli, poet Giorgi Kuchishvili, writer N. Kurdghelashvili (Narkani), artist Kote Kavtaradze, playwright Polio Ireteli, belletrist Ivane Ioseliani, poet Galaktion Tabidze, composer Giorgi

Svanidze, actor and director Davit Charkviani, poet Lavrosi Dzidziguri, and playwright-director Shalva Dadiani.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 28985-19-20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1925

May 16

He informs the Cultural Union of Georgian Artists that the “Georgian Artists Collective” has been established, of which he is one of the members, and he encloses the list of members of this “collective” with the letter.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 92.

Note: In the source, the members of the “Georgian Artist Collective” are as follows: Shio Mghvimeli (poet), Giorgi Kuchishvili (poet), Nar-Kani (N. Kurdghelashvili, writer). Kote Kavtaradze (artist). Polio Ireteli (playwright). Iv. Ioseliani (fiction writer). Galaktion Tabidze (poet). Giorgi Svanidze (composer). Davit Charkviani (actor and director). Lavrosi Dzidziguri (poet) and Shalva Dadiani (playwright-director)”.

1925

May 16

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that on Monday, May 18, at the initiative of the New Front of Proletarian Writing, a debate on proletarian literature will be held in the Great Hall of the Workers’ Palace, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1925, №111, p. 4.

Note: According to the source, the dispute will take place under the chairmanship of Il. Vardin-Mgeladze and the following will participate: “S. Abasheli, S. Amaghlobeli, V. Bakhtadze, B. Buachidze, K. Gamsakhurdia, I. Gedevanishvili, I. Grishashvili, Sh. Duduchava, S. Devdariani, S. Euli, I. Vakeli, R. Kaladze, K. Kapanadze, V. Kotetishvili, N. Zomleteli, K. Lortkipanidze, Sh. Radiani, D. Rondeli, G. Tabidze, Javakhishvili-Adamashvili, P. Kikodze, S. Chikovani, B. Zhghenti. And the following are invited: Iv. Gomarteli, P. Iashvili, Gr. Robakidze”.

June

1925

June

Sergo Orjonikidze publishes a letter about “Art” in the magazine Drosha, in which he talks about the poem “Memories of the days when it glimpsed” by Galaktion Tabidze published in Mnatobi and calls it ‘directed against the policy of the government’. The letter also contains a warning that writing should avoid such tendencies.

Source: Magazine Drosha, 1925, №28 (June), p. 20.

July

August

1925

August

He asks the editors of the magazine Mnatobi to pay his salary in the amount of 70 roubles for August.

Source: V. Javakhadze, "Stranger", 2013, p. 290.

September

1925 or earlier

September 4

He writes a poem "May night".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4239; №181 d, p. 66; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 128.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "I still deserved it".

Dating: Dated according to the date of first publication and the date written on the autograph.

1925

September 4

He writes a poem "Tiflis sleeps in a heavy sleep".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4303; №5670; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 146.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Tiflis sleeps in a heavy sleep".

October

1925

October 16

In his notebook, he makes a note about the upcoming 14th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 23.

1925

October 17

He writes that his poem should be published in first place in both the day after tomorrow's and the next issue.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 23.

1925

Until October 16

He is surprised that the chairman of the Writers' Union is conducting negotiations without consulting the members and the Council. He believes that a meeting of the Writers' Union should be convened as soon as possible. He also thinks that, contrary to the current situation, it is possible to establish a second Writers' Union.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 22.

Dating: We date the next entry based on the timing of the following note.

1925

Until October 16

He writes that the Book materials are missing portraits of Vava Gabunia, Lado Gudiashvili, Niko Nikoladze, and Kiril Zdanevich.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 20.

Dating: We date the next entry based on the timing of the following note.

1925

Until October 16

In his notebook, he writes: “Galaktion / Mtkvari, Rioni / Mtskheta – Sioni / Bagrationi!”

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 15.

1925

Until October 16

He is interested in why Shamil’s warriors captured Davit Chavchavadze’s wife and children, and later, why they were released.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 13.

1925

Until October 16

He learns from Simon Chikovani that at the meeting of the initiating commission, the Tsisperkantselis group wanted to expel 15 people, but the meeting was cancelled and will need to be held again.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 13.

1925

Until October 16

In his notebook, he writes: “The Degradation of the Kantselis”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 8.

1925

October 21

He writes a statement to the State Publishing House, requesting the issuance of the 100 roubles owed to him.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 16.

1925

October 19

He walks in the rain and becomes ill.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 3.

1925

October 19

In his notebook, he writes: “No matter how much money you have, you will perish”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 3.

1925

Until October 19

He writes a stanza: “Like a desperate lion, I will fight the world, whatever it gives me or takes away, if my heart breaks, it will be like his”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №273, p. 2.

1925

October

In the journal Mnatobi, Galaktion Tabidze brings 100 poems for printing to Mose Gogiberidze. Gogiberidze is enthusiastic, thinking it is very original and that no one has ever printed 100 poems together in one magazine. However, he notes that it would require a hundred pages for the issue. Galaktion explains that it will only be 12 pages, as he has combined four lines into one. Mose suggests printing one poem per issue gradually, which would spread the 100 poems over 100 issues of Mnatobi. Otherwise, he warns that Galaktion would receive only the honorarium for one poem, while others might split the honorarium by printing one poem as ten, splitting it ten times for the sake of payment. The poet replies that he prefers to have all the poems printed together to avoid forgetting or losing them, and that he has many more poems to be published. He is willing to endure without honorarium, as he is concerned about his originality and wishes that his poems be properly appreciated by future generations. Paolo Iashvili happens to overhear the conversation and, upon seeing the words “one hundred poems” in the title, asks Mose Gogiberidze to show him the collection. However, Mose does not show it and hurriedly takes it to the printing house.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-141, p. 18-19; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 146.

Note: Mose Gogiberidze and Paolo Iashvili are mentioned by first names in the source.

November

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“For the dreamer, fate drew...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4297; №28897-50, p. 38; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 147.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “From Daily Prose” and “You, Comrade, From Daily Prose”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

Considering the communist conjuncture, changes are made in the poem “The houses are smiling”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №195; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 147.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “To Finny” and “First Autumn”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Fire”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 115; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 148.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Boundless night”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4051; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 139.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The memory of a deaf lane”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“The sails of the seas have been spreading...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4052. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 140.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Sisters’ peaceful song”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem “Almonds there, almonds here”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №2563; №4177; №5842; №6322; №7555; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 141.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Almonds there, almonds here”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Cherry-plum, a seven-year-old child dies on the barricades”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4064; №4264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 141.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Alucha, the seven-year-old kid” and “Alucha, the seven-year-old child”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

With the subtitle “Etching” he writes a poem “Evening”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4317; №137-d, p. 12; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 142.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “On the other side” and “Evening in the countryside”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Night leaves...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4318; №8612; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 142.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A time denier”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Mayday poster”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4241; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 143.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Historical poster” and “Poster, how”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem “Oh, let’s sink down without thinking”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №359; №4240; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 143.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Oh, let’s sink down without thinking”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “We were going via Alazani Valley”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 113; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 144.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “A woman from the province”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №305; №4322; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 144.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Flower Woman” and “A woman selling flowers”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“A distant passenger is approaching...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4176; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 145.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “More than a prayer”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “At least until dawn”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4175; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 146.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Joy in battle”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“I went through...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №3951; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 135.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Has not died”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Inscriptions”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №360; №4048; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 136.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “The colourful ceramics of the roofs”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4302; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 136.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “From autumn motifs”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Sometime”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4311; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 137.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Seconds pass by”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Kazbegi”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4319; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 137.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Guria” and “You. woman!”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“A passenger is rushing along the road...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4320; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 138.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “I am rushing along the road, passenger”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“In the evening”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4050; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 139.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The memory of our grove”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Inscriptions on Hegel’s Book”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3495; №4296; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 129.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “In the Holy Light - Says Hegel”, “Hegel”, “Inscription on Hegel’s Book” and “Inscription on the Book”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“If the lion was furious...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4312; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 129.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “If the tiger were furious”, “I will feel the greatest happiness” and “If the lion were furious”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Dandyism in the XII century”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №6167; №28897-50, p. 166; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 130.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “At the ruins” and “Our time is waiting for Rustaveli again”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “I have had wings many times”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, № 4310; №4310 a; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 131.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“I have had wings more than once...”).

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“What darkness...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4308; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 132.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “What will be – will be”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “May rain”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №412; №4313; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 132.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “One depraved man” and “Drops of stopped rain”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“August has come...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №404; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 133.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “August has come”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Fantastic Emperor”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №7734; №8334; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 133.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“The air is full of...”) and with the title “A Gathering of the Dumb and Deaf”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“It burst as a torrent...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4092; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 134.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “To a Russian poet”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “I have been a spectator since childhood”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4053; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 134.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The battle of two fierce elements”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Prologue of 500 poems”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №28897-50, p. 158; №3948; №4180; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 107.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“How wonderful the years have ended...”) and with the titles: “Prologue”, “Mayday song of salvation”, “Prologue of 100 Poems” and “Prologue to 100 Poems”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem titled “Now Georgia is Calm”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8724 (a-1418); G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 107.

Note: The poem is also found under the title: “Where Was the Hearing and Understanding?” and the subtitle: “Preface”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Children”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4266; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 108.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Children”; “Children in the cafe”; “Kids in the Cafe”

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Spring Forest”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4261; №138 d, p. 42; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 108.

Note: The poem can also be found with the titles: “A quick rain has started” and “The wind from the nest croaks as a young crow...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Relentlessly obvious...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4243; №28897-50, p. 34; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 109.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title: “Feeling and simplicity have returned”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“When there is fire and infatuation...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4263; №28897-50, p. 35; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 109.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “We went to the roads” and “We went out of chaos to the roads”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “The snow is coming slanting, sloping”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4323; №7685; Layout of volume I, 5760, p. 148; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 110.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “The snow was slanting, sloping” and “Ancient manuscript”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Is there God or not...?”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4262; №28897-50, p. 170; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 110.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A struggle with God”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “A woman who dared”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4272; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 110.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Survival of the poplar tree”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until October

He writes a poem “To Mindara’s platans”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4270; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 111.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “To platans of Shindisi”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Suspension at the peak".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4282; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 112.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Sometimes chasms, sometimes peaks". Perhaps it is correction, and it should be "Peaks".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "To the seller".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №458; №4287; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 112.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Serenade"; "To a statue"; "Nana" and "Go, you are not a man anymore".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "May clouds".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4286; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 113.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title: "Three Clouds".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem titled "A Tremor Appeared in the Tall Figure".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4271; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 113.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Facing the Village" and "Fields".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "I have had only one concern".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №766; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 114.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "I could not find another poet".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4294; №3438; №6336; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 114.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "For the Autumn Season", "For the Spring Season", "It's Autumn", "For the Autumn Season" and "Autumn".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Autumn".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4314; №7386; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 115.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Summer days have faded away".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem ("Your eyes - high").

Source: Autographs: MGL, №1428; №4295; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 116.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "From folk motifs".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Hunter".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4304; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 116.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Hunting" and "Look: Kakheti!".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "It is the day of the white lambs in the azure sky".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4298; №137 d, p. 2; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 117.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "It is the day of the white lambs in the azure sky" and "In Botanical Garden".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "To a friend".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4305; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 117.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "To the youth" and "It's not worth of a tear".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem "The mummy rises from the sarcophagus...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №25; MGL, №4315; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 118.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Cemeteries", "It's a May Day or Mummy's" and "Cemeteries of Egypt", and also with the opening lines "They Set the Mummy on a Sacred Night...".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Nine hundred and seventeen".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №189; №28897-50, p. 43; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 118.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled ("Nine hundred and seventeen...") and with the titles: "In memory of a friend", "In countless flags" and "Singers of countless flags".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Sanatorium".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 114; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 119.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "A whole century goes by".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 102; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 119.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“The night fell, the fog fell on the main road...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4982; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 120.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “What hubbub the ship was going through”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“When I loosen the reins...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4244; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 120.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “A letter to him” and “From a letter to him”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“May has brought me again...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4242; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 121.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “A sailor in Tiflis”, “May has brought me azure seas again” and “May has brought azure seas again”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“There was a cloud...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4190; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 121.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Calm Sea”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Deep is the hurt of the heart...”)

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4265; №28897-50, p. 390; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 122.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “To a friend”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “To Irakli Topadze”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №23; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 122.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The man who dared”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Faint day moon”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4256; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 123.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “When the moon shines in the daytime”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “How peacefully”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4273; №28897-50, p. 32; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 123.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “How peacefully I am watching the worries of the world”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Bad weather in the mountain”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4267; №138-d, p. 62; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 123.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “The magic valley is roaring”, “Night in the valley”, “The magic valley” and “Dark days are passing”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “They think they are drunk with wine in vain”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4269; №75 d, p. 40; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 124.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Drunk with being, drunk with fire”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Look, roses...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4268; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 124.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “To the sick”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “If there is no fight”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4259; №28897-50, p. 36; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 125.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “May promenade”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4260; №138 d, p. 64; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 125.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “In the train” and “Landscape”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“As conspirators...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6619; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 126.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Early summer”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem “I am genius Rimaneli”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4250; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 127.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “I am genius Rimaneli”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“In worn out and dusty...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4257; №4257a; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 127.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Sonnet №6” and “It’s no time for Romancero”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “May in the train”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №253; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 128.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Old city” and “Pirimze”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He edits the poem “First Snow” and writes the title: “Homeless Children”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2328; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 149.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“The days are passing...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4191; №28897-50, p. 31; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 149.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Planets collide with each other”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Interior”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4247; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 150.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “It is easy to believe”.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “When I meet”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4248; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 150.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Only full of desire to fight”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “The red rock split in two”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №4245 (beginning), №4192 (continuation); G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 151.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Clusters full...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4089; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 151.

Note The poem can also be found under the title “We crossed raging seas”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “We drink a whirlwind, a storm after that”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 159; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 152.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem (“Evening, I remember...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6430; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 152.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Autumn flowers”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “Grass”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4057; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 152.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem “The moon in the well”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 117; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 153.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Oaks".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 117; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 153.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Daredevils, women-demons, demons, etc".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, №10, p. 117; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 153.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Daredevils, women-demons, demons".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Inscription on Edgar's book".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №3543; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 155.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "The horse rushed on the road" and "Suspended monument".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem ("... is coming to the country again...").

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4056; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 155.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "From winter motifs".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

He writes an untitled poem "When Ilya was killed in Tsitsamuri...".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №117; №3545; №3952. №4299; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 156.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles "When Ilya was killed in Tsitsamuri" and "Analogies".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

Until November 10

Galaktion Tabidze's poems are published in the magazine Mnatobi under the title "One Hundred Poems": "Prologue", "There was no listening and hearing...", "Children", "A quick rain has started", "Feeling and simplicity have returned", "We went out of chaos to the roads", "The snow was slanting, sloping", "A struggle with God", "Survival of the poplar tree", "To platans of Shindisi", "Sometimes chasms, sometimes peaks", "Go, you are not a man anymore", "Three clouds", "Fields", "I have had only one concern", "It's autumn", "Summer days have faded away", "From folk motifs", "Look: Kakheti!", "It is the day of the white lambs in the azure sky", "It's not worth of a tear", "Cemetery of Egypt", "Nine hundred and seventeen", "Sanatorium", "A whole century goes by", "What hubbub the ship was going through", "A letter to", "May has brought me azure seas again", "Calm sea", "To a friend", "The man who dared", "When the moon shines in the daytime", "How peacefully I am watching the worries of the world", "Night in the valley", "Drunk with being, drunk with fire", "To the sick", "If there is no fight", "In the train" ("The mountains turned many-coloured like a giraffe..."), "Early spring", "The twilight of the night has disappeared", "I am genius Rimaneli", "It's no time for Romancero", "To pirimze", "I still deserved it", "Inscription on the book", "If the lion was furious", "Our time is still waiting for Rustaveli", "I have had wings more than once", "The poets' flag is flying there", "Whatever will be - will be", "One depraved man", "August has come", "Fantastic Emperor", "To a Russian poet", "The battle of two fierce elements", "I hear a longing voice", "Has not died", "Inscriptions", "From autumn motifs", "Seconds pass by", "Woman!", "A passenger is rushing along the road", "Afternoon diligence", "The memory of our grove", "Calypso's old hands are breaking", "The memory of a deaf lane", "Sisters' peaceful song", "Almonds there, almonds here", "Cherry-plum, a seven-year-old child", "Evening in the countryside", "A time denier", "A poster, how...", "Oh, let's sink down without thinking", "We were going via Alazani Valley", "Flower woman", "More than prayer", "Joy in battle", "Tiflis sleeps in a heavy sleep", "You, my friend, from daily prose", "The houses are smiling", "Fire", "Homeless children", "Planets collide with each other", "It is easy to believe", "Only full of desire to fight", "The red rock split in two", "We crossed raging seas", "We drink a whirlwind, a storm after that", "Autumn flowers", "Grass", "The moon in the well", "Oaks", "Dare-devils, women-demons, demons, etc.", "My life", "The horse rushed on the road", "From winter motifs", "When Ilya was killed in Tsitsamuri", "Here! Here you are! The end!".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1925, October, №10, p. 97-119; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, 1925, №258, p. 5.

Note: There are actually 98 verses. Maybe 2 verses were removed or they were counted incorrectly.

Dating: Information about the release of the tenth issue of the magazine Mnatobi was published in the November 10 issue" of the newspaper Komunisti.

1925

November 10

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that the tenth issue of the magazine Mnatobi has been released, in which Galaktion Tabidze's poems have been published.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, November 10, №258, p. 5.

1925

November 10 or earlier

After returning from Saguramo, he finds his "100 Poems" published in the journal Mnatobi. They evoke great enthusiasm among readers; young people memorize them, and poets quote lines from them. Only Paolo Iashvili seems to be resisting the general sentiment. He meets Galaktion on Rustaveli Avenue and, laughing, tells him that people are being misled because, instead of a hundred, only ninety-eight poems have been printed. He counts them and indeed finds that two poems are missing. He rushes to the printing house, requests the manuscript, and discovers that one poem has been torn out.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-141, 18-19; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 146.

1925

November 12

He writes an untitled poem "Two blessed daughters...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 5610; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 77.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Two blessed daughters".

1925

November 16

He writes an untitled poem "I was being convinced..." in Mushtaid's garden.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5681; Works in fifteen volumes, vol. 3, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 77, 387.

December

1925

December 9

He is in a restaurant with Olya Okujava, who encourages him and wishes him to publish twenty-five volumes of poems.

Source: V. Javakhadze, "Stranger", 2013, p. 58.

1925

December 28

Grigol Tsetskhladze gifts his Book "Colourful Poems to Amuse a Beloved" with the inscription: "To the beloved and eternally in love poet, Galaktion Tabidze".

Source: MGL, t-624, "Colourful Poems for the Amusement of the Beloved", a poem written by Grigol Tsetskhladze, Tbilisi, 1925.

1925

After December 28

He reads the gifted Book “Colourful Poems to Amuse a Beloved (A Poem Written by Grigol Tsetskhladze)” by the author. On the title page, he writes that this is not a poem, and within the verses, he makes highlights and comments. He notes that writing so carelessly is unacceptable and that if all books are like this, they won’t be of any use.

Source: MGL, t-624, “Colourful Poems for the Amusement of the Beloved”, a poem written by Grigol Tsetskhladze, Tbilisi, 1925.

1925

After December 28

In Grigol Tsetskhladze’s Book “Colourful Poems to Amuse a Beloved”, next to the line “I nurtured love with roses” from the poem “Marina”, he writes that this is better Georgian than Ioseb Grishashvili’s phrases - “A passionate kiss nurtured you” and “I will ease your desire”.

Source: MGL, t-624, “Colourful Poems for the Amusement of the Beloved”, a poem written by Grigol Tsetskhladze, Tbilisi, 1925, p. 5.

1925

After December 28

He reads Grigol Tsetskhladze’s Book “Colourful Poems to Amuse a Beloved” and rhymes the last two words “circle of fire” from the poem “To Friends” with “Rigoletto”. He adds a pun: “You walk like / Rigoletto... / Could it be / Grigol, this?”

Source: MGL, t-624, “Colourful Poems for the Amusement of the Beloved”, a poem written by Grigol Tsetskhladze, Tbilisi, 1925, p. 30.

1921-1925

He writes an untitled poem “The wind has calmed from its fury...”.

Source: MGL, a-1642, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 268; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 480-481.

1921-1925

He begins writing an untitled poem “The people are adorned and decorated...”.

Source: MGL, a-1642, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 268; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 480-481.

1924-1925

He writes an untitled poem (“Let’s haste the lyres of life...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №492; №981; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 75; For dating: ibid., p. 383.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Let’s haste!”.

1924-1925

With the signature “G. T”., he writes a poem “In times of sorrow”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3; №3434; №5614; №514-d, p. 19; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 75; For dating: ibid., p. 386.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“Let tomorrow take care of tomorrow...”) and with the title “Let tomorrow take care of tomorrow”. The signature “Iv. Ivanidze” is crossed out in the autograph.

1925

He writes an untitled poem (“Gem Day got pale...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №985; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 76; For dating: ibid., p. 386.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Gem Day got pale”.

1925

He translates Paul Verlaine’s poems.

Source: V. Javakhadze, “Stranger”, 2013, p. 201.

1925

He alters the poem “Toast to him who was called on in wars...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 7; For dating: Magazine Sakhalkho Gvardieli, 1921, №6, p. 6.

Note: The poem was also published with the titles “Near Tiflis” and “Toast to him”, in some editions it is combined with the poems “White Pelican” and “Let tomorrow take care of tomorrow”.

1925

He writes a poem “In the opera theatre”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №988; №7392; №28897-50, p. 178; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 78.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“There was a hurricane...”) and with the titles “In the Tbilisi theatre opera” and “Near the opera theatre”.

1925

He writes a poem “Kill me”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №7758; №463; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 78; For dating: ibid., p. 389.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“The night has changed a dazzling day...”) and with the title “Explanation”.

1925

He writes a poem “What will you say”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7384; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 79; For dating: ibid., p. 390.

1925

He writes a poem “He closed the door”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №860; №28897- 50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 81; For dating: ibid., p. 392.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“He closed the door...”) and with the title “He closed the door”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1925

He writes an untitled poem “A difficult winter...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5617; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 82; For dating: ibid., p. 393.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A difficult winter”.

1925

He writes an untitled poem “The sky - the west stirs up...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8720; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 82; For dating: ibid., p. 394.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Metekhi stood grey, steep”.

1925

He writes a poem “The end of unknown street”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8720; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 83; For dating: ibid., p. 394.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “At the end of an unknown street”.

1925

He writes a poem “Poisoned conscience”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 8720-8721; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 83; For dating: ibid., p. 395.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Beyond Mtatsminda”.

1925

He writes a poem “The sky of Tbilisi is a martyr”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8720; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 83; For dating: ibid., p. 395.

1925

He writes a poem “Both flowers and devils”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8720; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 84; For dating: ibid., p. 396.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Now, numerous strings just scream”.

1925

He writes a poem “Dreaming of resting”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 414; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 84; For dating: ibid., p. 396.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “As a song”.

1925

He writes an untitled poem (“Bitterly clashing...”)

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8721; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 85; For dating: ibid., p. 397.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Agitation”.

1925

He writes a poem “Like a dream”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8721; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 85; For dating: ibid., p. 397.

1925

He writes a poem “A feeling, which has been lost”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 315; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 85; For dating: ibid., p. 397.

1925

He writes a poem “Befriended”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 315; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 86; For dating: ibid., p. 398.

1925

He writes a poem “The death of the strings”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 261; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 86; For dating: ibid., p. 398.

1925

He writes a poem “The purity of other man makes me madder”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 316; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 87; For dating: ibid., p. 398.

1925

He writes a poem “Like an explosion”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 338; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 88; For dating: ibid., p. 399.

1925

He writes a poem “As soon as the morning dawns”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 289; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 88; For dating: ibid., p. 399.

1925

He writes a poem “Air”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 348; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 89; For dating: ibid., p. 399.

1925

He writes an untitled poem (“I see that proud deer tired”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5604; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 80; For dating: ibid., p. 390.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Dream and love again”.

1925

Niko Iashvili’s “Sketches” is published as a book, consisting of two parts: I. “Memory and Regret” and II. “The Fountain Was Laughing – Whispering”. The epigraph of the Book is introduced by two stanzas from Galaktion’s poem “Her Eyes Remained Open”.

Source: N. Iashvili, I. “Memory and Regret” and II. “The Fountain Was Laughing – Whispering (Sketches)”, Kutaisi, 1925, p. 5.

1925

He reads the Russian edition of Anatoly Nali’s “Elegies and Stanzas”. He makes underlines and annotations.

Source: GTSM, 330, Анатолий Нал, Элегии и Стансы, Moscow, 1924.

Dating: According to Galaktion Tabidze’s inscription.

1925

He makes a request to the State Publishing House to pay him 100 roubles from his owed honorarium.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-106; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1925

On the title page of the Russian translation of Paul Verlaine’s poetry collection by Fyodor Sologub, he writes his name and the year, indicates the title of the poem “Pierrot”, and on the back cover, he writes: “Despite everything”.

Source: MGL, t-284, Пол Верлен, Стихи, Petrograd-Moscow, 1923.

1925

Nikolai Shakhnazarov gifts his Book “Legends” with the inscription: “To dear Galaktion, as a keepsake!”.

Source: MGL, t-573, N. Sakhnazarov, “Legends”, Tbilisi, 1925.

1925

He reads the gifted Book “Legends” by Nikolai Shakhnazarov, making highlights and annotations.

Source: MGL, t-573, N. Sakhnazarov, “Legends”, Tbilisi, 1925.

1925

He reads a collection of articles titled “Expressionism”, making highlights, comments, and sketches. On the title page, he writes: “1925. Lenin and the Legend”. He notes that Lenin’s evening at the Opera Theatre took place on January 25, 1921.

Source: MGL, t-472, “Экспрессионизм”, Сборник Статей, Petrograd-Moscow, 1923.

1925 or later

He reads the Russian-language Book “World Economic Geography – Europe and the Soviet Union”, making highlights, sketches, and comments. At the end, he writes that he needs to review the works of Archil Giorgadze and Noe Zhordania, as well as the articles by Silovan Jibladze in the encyclopaedia and the newspaper Kvalli.

Source: MGL, t-446, “Мировая Экономическая География – Европа и СССР”, Tbilisi, 1925.

1925 or later

He reads the Book “The Monument to the Fallen Fighters of the Proletarian Revolution in 1917-1921” and makes highlights.

Source: MGL, t-382, “Памятник Борцам Пролетарской Революции погибшим в 1917-1921 г.”, Moscow-Leningrad, 1925.

1925 or later

He reads Alexander Friedrich’s Book “Henry Ford – The Automobile King and the Owner of People’s Hearts” and makes highlights. On the title page, next to the title, he writes that he is curious whether this statement is meant seriously or in jest, and whether it should be enclosed in quotation marks.

Source: MGL, t-448, Александр Фридрих, “Генри Форд – Автомобильный король и владыка человеческих душ”, Moscow, 1925.

1925 or later

He writes in pencil next to the title of the previously written poem “Shadow” (“Boatman, you see our near and far...”): “The desire to be abroad...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №159, p. 1.

1925 or later

He writes the phrase twice on the paper: “Communists have trouble breathing / they have fever and no sweat”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №159, p. 2.

1925 or later

He reads Anatoly Lunacharsky’s Book “Critical Etudes – Western European Literature”, making highlights and annotations. He notes that the author’s perspective - that literature is not only a captivating and highly artistic expression that brings intense and thrilling pleasure but also significant in terms of the beloved author and the environment reflected in the literary work - is a noteworthy proposition. He is curious whether anyone else shares this viewpoint and how it has developed over time. He acknowledges that the writer’s personality plays a significant role in the history of literature.

Source: MGL, t-577, А. В. Луначарский, Этюды Критические, Западно-Европейская литература, Moscow-Leningrad, 1925, p. 3-5.

1925 or later

In a Russian alphabetic notebook, he writes the titles of his poems’ Russian translations in alphabetical order, with the corresponding starting phrases in Georgian written beneath. Then, he lists the poems collectively with continuous numbering and notes the years of writing next to them, indicating years between 1913 and 1916.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №401, p. 1-36.

Dating: The list includes the poem “I Am a Genius, Rimaneli,” written in 1925.

1926

January

1926

Until January

He writes a poem “A poem of the Tiger”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №352, p. 1-4; MGL, №137 d, p. 58-64; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 90.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Shota Rustaveli”, “A poem about a tiger” and in one instance, he annotated it as “A Poem of One Day”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1926

January

He publishes the poem “A poem about a tiger” in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1926, №1, p. 6.

1926

January 27 or earlier

In Ivane Gomelaury's compiled textbook "Georgian Writers to Be Studied in Schools", Galaktion Tabidze's poems are published, including: "The Wind", "Akaki's Ghost", "The Moon of Mtatsminda", "I and The Night", "The Virgin's Dream", and "The Year 1917".

Source: MGL, t-572, "Georgian Writers to Be Studied in Schools", Book three, the 7th-grade school curriculum, compiled by Iv. Gomelaury, Tbilisi, 1926.

Dating: The compiler gifts the Book to Galaktion with an inscription on January 27, 1926, indicating that it was published before that date.

1926

January 27

Ivane Gomelaury gifts the textbook "Georgian Writers to Be Studied in Schools", which he compiled, with the inscription: "Dedicated to the talented poet Gal. Tabidze, from the grateful compiler".

Source: MGL, t-572, "Georgian Writers to Be Studied in Schools", Book three, the 7th-grade school curriculum, compiled by Iv. Gomelaury, Tbilisi, 1926.

February

1926

February 15

He informs the Georgian Film Industry Board that the tenth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's Magazine will be published in an enlarged format in the coming days and asks them to provide statements that they want to publish.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-109; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1926

February

On the title page of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine, he drafts a letter to be sent to the board of the Workers' Cooperative. He informs the board that the tenth issue of Galaktion Tabidze's magazine will be published soon and requests them to send an announcement for publication in the magazine.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-589, 7; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 472.

March

1926

March 9

He appeals to the Chairman of the Union of Georgian Writers, Silibistro Todria, to immediately contact the Chairman of the Central Executive Committee of All Georgia to allow him to place the statements of state institutions in the 10th issue of the Galaktion Tabidze's magazine as it happens in other periodicals, for example, in the newspaper Drouli. This will give an opportunity to publish another issue of the magazine.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-108; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

April

1926

April 4

In the bibliographic review of the first issue of the magazine Mnatobi, Galaktion is mentioned as “an old creator of Georgian poetry”.

Source: Pl. Nadaraia, “Bibliography”, newspaper Komunisti, №78.

1926

April 27

The newspaper Komunisti informs its readers that from April 30th, the subscription to the “Full Anthology of Georgian Literary Writing” will begin, which will be published in two volumes. The editor-publisher of the anthology is Ia Ekaladze, and Galaktion Tabidze’s poems will be printed in the publication, along with others.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1926, №94, April 27, p. 6.

June

1926

June 29

The newspaper Komunisti publishes Tevdore Begiashvili’s article “Profiles of our poets (Galaktion Tabidze)”, in which he compares the literary profile of the poet before the revolution and after the revolution.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1926, №146, June 29, p. 5.

1926

June

He examines the first issue of the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, reflects on contemporary Georgian literature, and writes that a number of Georgian writers are heading down a slippery path toward a precipice, where inevitable ruin awaits them. Many do not want to face this reality, continuing with self-assurance in hypocrisy, sycophancy, chatter, and vilifying others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №630, p. 1.

July

1926

Until July

He writes an untitled poem (“The world of rays and fire...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №402; №965; №3838; №5264; №5333; №6437; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 93.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Music” and “Cosmic Orchestra”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1926

July 18

The newspaper Komunisti publishes Vladimir Beradze's "Small Feuilleton (Let's help the striking miners)" under the pseudonym of Khozika, in which Georgian writers, including Galaktion Tabidze, are called to donate money to the English miners.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1926, №163, p. 5.

1926

July 20

The poem "Cosmic Orchestra" is published in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1926, №7, p. 5-8.

Dating: The date is written on the copy of the magazine preserved in the library of Ioseb Grishashvili.

1926

End of July or later

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from Tsagveri. He learns that she is resting well and has met many acquaintances there, including Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Iakinte Lisashvili, Baron Bibineishvili, and others. Olya inquires about the status of the publication of Galaktion's selected poems. She asks him to deposit money and redeem her promissory note to avoid legal issues. She advises him to buy a summer shirt and a straw hat, to swim often, avoid drinking, finish his tasks, and join her in Tsagveri. There, he can rent a well-furnished apartment in a sanatorium for an entire month for 40 roubles and undergo medical treatments. Olya urges him to distance himself from street life, and if he loves her, they should start a normal life together. She writes that from August 3 to 6, her owed money will be delivered to his house in the afternoon, and he should collect it.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-359; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 216-218.

Note: In the source, Baron Bibineishvili is referred to by his title, while Iakinte Lisashvili is mentioned by his surname.

August

1926

August 10

He is handed over a handwritten note on the letterhead of the State Publishing House of the Soviet Socialist Republic of Georgia that the printing of Galaktion Tabidze's Book has started.

Source: GTDA, №188, p. 1.

1926

August 14

The newspaper Komunisti informs readers that a literary evening will be held in Kojori on August 15, in which Galaktion Tabidze will participate.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, August 14, 1926, №184, p. 4.

Note: According to the source, the literary evening will be held with the participation of “Ia Ekaladze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, Gr. Tsetskhladze, L. Matchavariani, and others”.

1926

After August 28

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from Tsagveri. She asks him to pack his suit, linens, bedding, and, if not for a week, at least visit Tsagveri for one day. She writes that she and her relatives will return to Tbilisi soon because they have run out of money. She asks him to inform her of his arrival time via telegram.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-856; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 211.

1926

Summer

He visits Olya Okujava in Tsagveri, where she is staying at the newly acquired two-story house of her brother, Mikheil Okujava. A photograph is taken with Olya, Maria, and Shalva Okujava, along with Olya’s aunt’s husband, Maksim Kikvadze, and Shalva’s sister-in-law’s husband, Vartan Mutnikov, who is married to Silva Nalbandian.

Source: Марат Гизатулин, Булат Окуджава: «...От бабушки Елизаветы к прабабушке Элисабет», 2020, HYPERLINK “<http://maxima-library.org/component/maxlib/b/516722?format=read>” <https://maxima-library.com/new-books-2/b/516722>

October

1926

October 13

He travels by train from Tbilisi to Gori. On the way, he makes notes on the paper about the passengers and the environment.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-594-7; AE, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 511-513.

1926

October 13 or later

He writes a poem “Far away from Avchala”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 66; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 177.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Beyond Avchala”.

1926

October 13 or later

He writes a poem “Until Mtskheta”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 66; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 178.

1926

October 13 or later

He writes a poem "From Mtskheta".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 67; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 178.

1926

October 13 or later

He writes a poem "What beautiful fields".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 160; G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 70; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 179.

October 13 or later

He writes a poem "We have passed the moat".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 179.

1926

October 13 or later

He writes a poem "From Gori".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 179.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled "I did not have time".

December

1926

December 28

He sends a telegram to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, and asks about his mother's health.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-312; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 156-157.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter of December 29 states that he received Galaktion's telegram the day before.

1926

December 29

Mikheil Javakhishvili gifts his Book "The White Collar" with the inscription: "To the great poet, Galaktion Tabidze, from the author".

Source: MGL, t-238, Mikheil Javakhishvili, "The White Collar", Tbilisi, 1926.

1926

He writes a poem "The scythe is shrieking".

Source: G. Chikobava, “Galaktion and Art”, “Art”, 1959, №4, p. 35.

1926

He writes the plan for a speech to commemorate the 20th anniversary of Giorgi Kuchishvili’s literary debut, along with the text of the speech.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №371.

Dating: Giorgi Kuchishvili’s first poem was published in 1906.

1926 or later

He reads Boris Sigal’s work “The Trial of Citizens Ivan and Agafya Mitrokhinov, Who Caused a Worker’s Tuberculosis”, making highlights and annotations. He finds it interesting that students from rural areas bring Kakhetian vodka to the city, sell it cheaply in their apartments, and use the money to continue their university studies.

Source: MGL, t-579, Б. Сигал, “Суд над гражданами Иваном и Агафьей Митрохиными, по вине которых произошло заболевание рабочего туберкулезом”, Moscow, 1926.

After 1926

He makes a note about his own creative work. He notes that the significance of his poetry is highlighted by the following fact: In a recently published work in Russian on the Japhetic languages by the world-renowned scholar Niko Marr, the selected examples of Georgian literature begin with ancient writings and conclude with the poems of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-552, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 279; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 614.

1927

January

1927

After January 2

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who is wondering if the publication of Galaktion’s Book has been delayed, as there is no information about it in the press, nor has Galaktion written about it himself. Abesalom also expresses disappointment that Galaktion neither sends letters nor visits the village. However, he writes that Galaktion, “a child in life but a great poet in spirit”, remains the most precious person to him and their mother, whose eyes light up, face smiles, and heart fills with pride at the mention of his name. Abesalom informs him that he still hasn’t finished setting up his own house and hasn’t moved in yet. He has fully repaid his debt to Amberki – 1,000 roubles – but now owes 200 roubles to Polikarpe and is looking to borrow the amount.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-312; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 156-157.

Note: The printing delay mentioned in the letter likely refers to the 1927 publication of Galaktion’s “selected” poems collection.

Dating: The letter was written by Abesalom Tabidze, starting on December 29, 1926, and continued on January 2, 1927.

1927

January 3

He returns the notebook of poems to Ioseb Gogodze and writes that his poems do not need any corrections.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, № 6566, p. 178, 179.

1927

January 19

He writes an untitled poem “Like the Argonauts of old times...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №54, p. 1.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“That was fifteen years ago ...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №296; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 81.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “That was fifteen years ago ...”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Love”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №867; №5583; №8591; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 74.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“Nine October”) and with the titles: “Number nine” and “Nine-eyed”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “To the companion of my wanderings” (“A Snowflake Was Calling Me...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №839; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 53.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “They will blame the wine”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Where the end was”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 846; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 62.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “15 centuries”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 17; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 8.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “Your old age, Orbi news...” and with the title “It’s getting 15 centuries”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A blind with one eye”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 302; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 13.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Flight of the Mourning Chariots”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 313; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 13.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “It is not that sweet”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 316; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 14.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “With the sealed folio”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 301; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 14.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Very old wine”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 39; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 14.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A line of new steeds”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 389; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 15.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Laurel”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book I, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 391; G. Tabidze, “Poems”, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 121; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 528, 498.

1927

Until January 24

Inspired by Grigol Orbeliani’s poem “Iarali”, he writes a poem “At Narikala”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2710; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 53.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “My Iarali”.

1927

Until January 24

With the signature “Gaprindashvili”, he writes a poem “News”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №484; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 23.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title: “This is a whirlwind of newness”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Tercets written on the balcony of the Art Palace”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №674; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 21.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Tercet of the balcony” and “On the balcony”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Winter fairy tale”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №600; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 189.

Note: The poem was published under the title “White winds”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “To white flowers”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 134; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The closeness of your distance...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №971; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190; For dating.

Note: The poem was published under the title “Away from you”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem with an “old motif” on the motif of Aleksandre Chavchavadze’s poem “I have had your face entrusted...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №826; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190. For noting: Ir. Kentchoshvili, In the World of Galaktion Tabidze, Tbilisi, 1999, p. 65.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled and with the titles “Old motifs”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A deer’s jump has shone brightly again”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №856; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 191.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Mars”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2546; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 191.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“Is not seen on the road...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Waldhorn is moaning”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7742; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 192.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “Waldhorn is moaning”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The sky is covered with snow”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1341; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 193.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“The sky is covered with snow of stars...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The shadow - silent and marauding...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №845; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 193.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Residing in the tower”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “This dark night”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Eagle-owl”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 194.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “It was an old, familiar thought”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 194.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “He was walking down the street alone”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 180; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 195.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I was looking for you everywhere... suffocating from the heat...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №415; №871; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 195.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “To my God” and “Thirst for fight”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “It was taken by the dream...”

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 194; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 196.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Those pink peaches...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6744; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 197.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “I’ll approach, I will kiss...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №825; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 198.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Jet-black hair”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “They were worrying”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №868; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 198.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “The women were sitting”, “Women” and “They were worrying”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “You are always nice”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 211; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 198.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A beautiful woman cursed me”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 211; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 199.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “When I Am Conquered by the Moon”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5611; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

Note: The poem is also found without a title (“When I Am Conquered by the Moon...”) and under the title “When by the Moon”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Tormenting with its beauty”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 214; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The heart of the sea delighted you ...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №474; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

Note: The poem was published under the title “You have been delighted”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The poplars bend the bows and arrows” and then writes a title – “Moon”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4232; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The poplars bend the bows and arrows”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Believe, if you do not believe”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4236; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Believe, if you do not believe”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The road is not worth of trouble...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5674; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.

1927

Until January 24

With the subtitle “Legend”, he writes a poem “Inesa Di-Castro”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5603; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 202.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Inesa”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Got more surprised...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5615; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 203.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Got more surprised”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The heart of existence”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №3396; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 203.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Your eyes”, but he crosses out the title.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6431; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 204.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “Envy was struggling...” and with the title “Envy was struggling”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “One time”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 231; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 204.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The heart feels”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 231; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 205.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The one I loved...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №970; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 205.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The one I loved...”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Signs on the water".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1040; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 207.

Note: In the autograph, the original titles "Duel at Sea" and "Demonic Women" have been crossed out. The poem was printed without a title "Amazing her beauty...".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "I am getting drunk with rose for the rose season...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №303; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 207.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "With May arrow".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "All cases...".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №848; №4180; №5757 p. 153; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 208.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles "All the cases" and "May Song of Salvation".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "You are again burning with admiration...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5618; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 209.

Note: The original title "Noble Toastmaster" is crossed out in the autograph. The poem can also be found under the title "You are again burning with admiration...".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "A thousand boats reached the shore".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 244; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 209.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "Whispering of the bluest brocade...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №410; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 209.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "The city skull is open".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "It's going to rain".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 262; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 210.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Autumn Day".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 263; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 210.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Clouds are like turbulent minds".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 211.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Just a few years ago".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 211.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Elegy ("Planted roses wither...").

Source: Autographs: MGL, №855; №4232; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 212.

Note: The titles "Autumn Melancholy" and "Elegy" are crossed out in the autograph. The poem can also be found under the title: "The wind is swaying as a lyre".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "A plea of fountains".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 212.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Leaves are scattered on the road".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 266; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 212.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Autumn morning”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 267; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 213.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Autumn”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5613; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 213.

Note: The title “Cranes” has been crossed out in the autograph, and the poem was also published under the title “Mixed pages of old books”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Rustling on the road”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №850; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 214.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The straw rustles”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “A cold day of the autumn...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №855; №28897-50, p. 164; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 214.

Note: In one of the autographs, the title “A gloomy tired race” is crossed out. The poem was also published under the title “A gloomy, tired race”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I will complain about the song...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №377; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 215.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “He opens the doors like crazy”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Night will fall in the forest”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 288; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 216.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Forest”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 289; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 216.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The Raven’s Song”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 290; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 217.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Over the bridge with a horse”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 290; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 217.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “No one will protect you in an unfortunate hour...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №978; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 218.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “No one will protect you in an unfortunate hour”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I am sleepy...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №300; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 218.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “I am sleepy”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem titled “Looking Towards the Future”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 298; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 220.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “We meet again”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 299; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 220.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “This dusk...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №823; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “This dusk”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “His pathos”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 301; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “No epoch has the right”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 302; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “In dark chimeras”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 319; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 222.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Ghost in the ruins”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 334; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 222.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Solitude”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5606; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 223.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The winds started to look like winds”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Portrait”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 361; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 223.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A puddle”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 370; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 225.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “To Zhenya”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1931; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 225.

Note: The title “Self-Portrait” is crossed out in the autograph. The poem can also be found under the title “He is waiting for a whirlwind”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Bohemia”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №972; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 226.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Day”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Among the blazing furnaces...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №969; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 226.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Among the blazing furnaces”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “An automobile with children”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4714; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 227.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “An automobile”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Mine diggers".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5683; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 227.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "In the mine".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "The built is spreading there white".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5682; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 228.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "A sudden city".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "What is the street screaming?".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 384; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 228.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "A scream of posters".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 385; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 229.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Dusk".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 388; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 230.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "When everyone was sleeping".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 390; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 231.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Queen".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №822; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 233.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Raven’s tears”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 399; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 233.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Sorrow” (“Children’s days have flown away...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №678; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 234.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Children’s days” and “Childhood days”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “From the diary of homeless children”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №977; №28897-50, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 235.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “On the street”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “From the seabed...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №847; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “From the seabed”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “That ship wrecked...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №847; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “That ship wrecked”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “With the merciless wind...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5770; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Masts”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Blue ship...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5658; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Blue ship”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Aha, beauty...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5658; №6166; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 237.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “With blue wings”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Ritorneli”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4233; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 237.

Note: In the autograph, “Ritorneli” was originally a sub-title and was crossed out, just like the titles “Distant ship” and “To Veriko Anjaparidze”. The poem was published under the title “You are late”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “In trenches”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 423; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 239.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Like fiery ashes”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 423; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 239.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The string is twisting...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №268; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 240.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “On a string”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Joy”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №866; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 241.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Fire, Sword”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “There are days”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50, p. 44; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 242.,

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “It stole the fields of snow...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2741; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 243.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I your apartment...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5673; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 243.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Your apartment”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Coral islands”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5680; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 244.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “With silent hearing...”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Smoke of gunpowder and shot”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5653; №28897-50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 244.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “In a sanatorium”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The secret of the rich heir”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6436; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 245.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The winds slammed the door”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “He as a fancy-dresser”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №M7743; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 245.

Note: The title “Revolver” is crossed out in the autograph.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “- I am following a cruiser in a foreign country...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 515; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 246.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Evening”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 11; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 159.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Chronology of one day”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 12; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 159.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “May is in full colour today...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №409; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 160.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “When the envy of twilight descended...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №475; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 160.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Walnut tree on Mtatsminda”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 16; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 160.,

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “There is an alley”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 18; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 161.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “New sun”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №408; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 161., 1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “That is what a dream of the sun is”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №1427; №1482; №1918; №6343; №6878; №7701; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 162.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Palindrome”, “Iveriada” and “That is what a dream of the sun is”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Mountain”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 20; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 162.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “From fairy tales”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 21; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 163.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “By omnibus”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 28; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 164.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Beetroot”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 29; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 165.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A letter from the village”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 30; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 166.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The spirit of the tides comes floating”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 34; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 167.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Flowers and wine”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 36; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 167.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A cup of flame”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7387; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 168.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Drink a glass of wine...”)

Source: Autograph, MGL, №116-Ⓞ, p. 11; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 169.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “It’s time”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "Shrouded Forest".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №337; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 169.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Shrouded Forest".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "As the sorrow of the Aragvi bank...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №676; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 170.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "As the sorrow of the Aragvi bank".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "Will it be heard...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №851; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 170.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "It was before".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4656; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 170.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles "It was before" and "It was before".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Hay mowers".

Source: Autograph, MGL, № 1913; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 171

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "The scythe is shrieking" and "The scythe is screaming".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Greetings to the blooming fields".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 55; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 171.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled ("Greetings to the blooming fields ...") and with the title "Greeting of the sun".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “What will you say, field?”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 55; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 171.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“I cannot see with the eyes...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Distant ice of the Caucasus...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8833; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 172.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Distant ice of the Caucasus”.

1916

Until February

He writes a poem “Near the ruins of the castle”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6450-6467; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 172.

1927

Until January 24

He edits the poem “Near the ruins of the castle”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6450-6467; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 172.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “We have constructed...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6468-6469; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 174.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A high tower”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Что я живу как Галл” (“That I live like a Gallian”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №673; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 174.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“The ancestors will open doors for him ...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The times were changing...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №676; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 174.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The times were changing”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The old palace”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 63; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 175.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I am hurrying there thoughtlessly...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5611; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 175.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “They will cover you”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Do you remember? What time was that time?”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №28897-50; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 176.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The ballad was written in the ruins of Bagrat Temple”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5687; №6470-6477; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 176.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“Here, a tall marble column...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Lullaby, only lullaby...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №968; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 180.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Only lullaby”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “As if not here”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №968; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 180.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Old breeze...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №366; №28897-50, p. 160; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 180.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Breezes were blowing”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Tchiatura”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5609; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 181.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “From the tunnels”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “On the Georgian military road”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №974; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 181.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Airplane”, “Facing the village”, “A cart”, “On the military road” and “Then he sang”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “When Actaeon, son of Aristeas”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 82; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 182.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Actaeon, son of Aristeas”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The old years will pass away”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 82; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 183.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Inscription on a magazine” with the subtitle “Rondo”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №411; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 183.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Magazine” and “Our magazine”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “In a café”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 84; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 183.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The street of 30s”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 85; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 184.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Street”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Others are screeching like crows...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5605; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 185.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Street”.

1927

Until January 24

With the epigraph “Raise the monument... Ovidius”, he writes an untitled poem “I make up that Michelangelo...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №853; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 185.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Monument” and “I make up that Michelangelo”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “To the obelisk brought from the white side...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5607; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 186.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Anatomical Theatre” and “Obelisk”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Your legendary fame”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 102; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 186.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “He was leaving everyone then...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 107; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 186.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “He looked like a madman”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “That conductor”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 108; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 187.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A musical fantasy”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 108; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 187.

Note: The poem is also found untitled (“The soul gazes...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Georgian composer”.

Source: Autograph, layout of volume I, 5759, p. 145; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 188.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“The soul was crying...”) and with the title “The soul was crying to blue wines”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Laurel”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 108; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 188.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “With snow and frost”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 130; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 189.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Winter fairy tale”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №600; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 189.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “White winds”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Your palace...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №826; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Old motifs” and “With old motifs”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A deer’s jump has shone brightly again”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №856; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 191.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Cannot be seen on the road...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2546; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 191.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Mars”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Waldhorn is moaning...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №7742; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 192.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Waldhorn is moaning”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The sky is covered with snow of stars”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1341; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 193.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The sky is covered with snow”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Residing in a tower”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №845; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 193.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “The shadow - silent and marauding...”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “This dark night”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 190.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Eagle-owl”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 194.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “It was an old, familiar thought”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 172; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 194.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “He was walking down the street alone”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 180; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 195.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Thirst for fight”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №415; №871; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 195.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled “I was looking for you everywhere... suffocating from the heat” and with the title “To my God”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “It was taken by the dream...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 194; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 196.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Those pink peaches...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6744; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 197.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “You are always nice”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 211; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 198.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A beautiful woman cursed me”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 211; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 199.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Wine-coloured River!”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 213; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 199.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “You, wine-coloured river!”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “When I am possessed by the moon...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5611; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “When by the Moon” and “When I am possessed by the moon”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Tormenting with its beauty”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 214; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “You were delighted...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №474; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 200.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “You were delighted”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Moon”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4232; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The poplars bend the bows and arrows”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Believe, if you do not believe...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4236; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Believe, if you do not believe”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The road is not worth of trouble...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5674; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 201.,

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “It floats on the sea like a chip...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №677; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 202.,

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “It floats on the sea like a chip”.

1927

Until January 24

With the subtitle “Legend”, he writes a poem “Inesa Di-Castro”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5603; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 202.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Inesa”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Got more surprised...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5615; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 203.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Got more surprised”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The heart of existence”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №3396; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 203.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “One time”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 231; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 204.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The heart feels”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 231; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 205.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The one I loved...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №970; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 205.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The one I loved...”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Ten virgins”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №975; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 206.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “From the gospel”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“For this rose season...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №303; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 207.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “With May arrow”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “May is blooming”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №837; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 208.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Adam and Eve” and “May is Blooming”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “May’s eyes are intoxicating me again...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №679M; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 208.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “May’s eyes are intoxicating me again”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A thousand boats reached the shore”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 244; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 209.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “It’s going to rain”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 262; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 210.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Autumn Day”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 263; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 210.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Clouds are like turbulent minds”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 211.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Just a few years ago”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 211.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A plea of fountains”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 264; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 212.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Leaves are scattered on the road”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 266; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 212.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Autumn morning”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 267; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 213.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Autumn”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5613; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 213.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Cranes” and “Mixed pages of old books”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Rustling on the road”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №850; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 214.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The straw rustles”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Autumn Day...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №855; №28897-50, p. 164; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 214.

Note: He writes an untitled poem (“Autumn Day...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“I will complain about the song...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №377; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 215.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “He opens the doors like crazy”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Green titan...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №842; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 215.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Green titan”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Night will fall in the forest”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 288; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 216.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Forest”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 289; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 216.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “The song of the crow”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 290; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 217.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Over the bridge with a horse”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 290; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 217.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I am sleeping...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №300; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 218.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “I am sleeping”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“When did I tell you...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №454; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 218.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A bitter lullaby”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Chimera”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №675; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 219.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “Chimera of a tower” and “I stand at the door of days with sorrow”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“But he counts...”)

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5600; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 219.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “He counts every ounce”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Looking at future”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 298; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 220.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “We meet again”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 299; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 220.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “This dusk...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №823; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “This dusk”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “His pathos”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 301; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “No epoch has the right”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 302; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 221.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Invisible shackle”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5657; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 222.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Four demons”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Ghost in the ruins”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 334; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 222.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Solitude”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5606; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 223.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “The winds started to look like winds!”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "Portrait".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 361; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 223.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "A puddle".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 370; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 225.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "To Zhenya".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1931; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 225.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: "Self-portrait" and "He is waiting for a whirlwind".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem "Among the blazing furnaces".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №969; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 226.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "Among the blazing furnaces".

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem ("The built is spreading there white...").

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5682; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 228.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title "A sudden city".

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem "What is the street screaming?".

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 384; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 228.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Death of a city”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5659; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 229.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A city in the dark”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A scream of posters”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 385; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 229.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “On the square”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 386; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 230.

Note: The poem can also be found with the title “Panic”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Dusk”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 388; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 230.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “When everyone was sleeping”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 390; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 231.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “First rose...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5685; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 232.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “Emma” and “First rose”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Queen”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №822; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 233.,

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Raven’s tears”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 399; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 233.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “A child in the newspapers”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 400; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 234.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “A child in the newspapers” and “A child in the newspaper”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Calm down, why is your heart dying...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №844; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 235.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Wine will be distributed to the sailors”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem, which he later cuts into two poems: “From the bottom of the sea...” and “That ship wrecked...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №847; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Note: The first poem can also be found under the title “From the bottom of the sea”, and the second - “That ship wrecked”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “Blue ship...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5658; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 236.

Note: The poem can also be found in the sources under the title “Blue ship”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem (“Aha, beauty...”).

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5658; №6166; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 237.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “With blue wings”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Mary”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №403; №1403; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 238.

Note: In the autograph, the title “Endless Rondo” is crossed out. The poem also appears under the title “By the Sea with You” and without a title (“Evening to the Sea...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “A city on the water...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №858; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 239.,

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles “On the water” and “A city on the water”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “In trenches”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 423; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 239.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Like fiery ashes”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 423; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 239.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “What’s the use of words? I believe!..”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №3255; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 240.,

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “What’s the use of words? I believe!”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Joy”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №866; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 241.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Fire, sword”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “The most peaceful...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №299; №983; №28895-50 p. 41; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 241.

Note: The poem can also be found under the titles: “First love” and “The most peaceful”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “French revolution”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №6435; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 242.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “Fate has never been so cunning”.

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “It stole the fields of snow...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2741; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 243.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Again in the forest”.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 244.

1927

Until January 24

He writes a poem “Coral islands”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №5680; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 244.,

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“With silent hearing ...”).

1927

Until January 24

He writes an untitled poem “I am following a cruiser in a foreign country...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 515; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 246.

1927

Until January 24

The first “Selected” of Galaktion’s poems is being printed, but it is not put out for sale, because it does not have a preface.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze, “Poems”, Tbilisi, State Publishing House, 1927;

1927

January 24

He addresses the printing department of the Central Committee with a statement. He writes that the printing of his Book has been finished for a long time, but it is not available for sale due to the lack of a preface; Since no one can write a good preface in a short time, he asks to issue a decree to publish the Book without it.

Source: An Autograph, MGL, 24551-106; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93;

Note: The statement is dated “1926” instead of “1927”.

1927

January 28

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a notice that on Friday, January 28, a musical-vocal evening will be held in the hall of the State Conservatory, in which Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №19, January 26, p. 4.

Note: According to the source, the following will participate in the evening: “G. Tabidze, S. Grishashvili, V. Gaprindashvili, P. Iashvili, T. Tabidze, G. Leonidze, S. Chikovani, N. Chachava; Singers: Donadze, Kumsiashvili, Andghuladze, Epitashvili (piano)”.

1927

January 30

The newspaper Komunisti under the pseudonym “Bo...” publishes a review “Literary Year (Dispute in the Art Palace)”. According to the article, one of the participants in the dispute - Shalva Radiani - spoke about the problem of “companionship” in Georgian literature and referred to Galaktion Tabidze as a companion “standing without literary groupings”.

Source: Bo., “Literary Year (Dispute in the Art Palace)”, newspaper Komunisti, №23, p. 5.

February

1927

February 8

The writer and translator Kolau Cherniavski presents him with his newly published poetry collection, “Letters” (Poems) with the inscription: “To the King of Georgian Poets. Kolau Cherniavski. February 8, ‘27”.

Source: MGL, t-708, Колау Чернявский, “Письма” (стихи), Тифлис, 1927.

Note: Kolau Cherniavski’s dedicatory inscription is written in Russian (“Королю Грузинских поэтов...”).

1927

February 13

At night, Olya Okujava writes in her diary, addressing Galaktion, expressing her desire to talk to him. While looking through an album of photographs, she found their only picture together, which she cherished deeply. However, she also noticed a portrait of herself that she had gifted to Galaktion and was surprised that he didn't take it with him on his travels. She thought perhaps it wasn't precious to him.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 466-467.

1927

February 13

At night, he travels by train from Tbilisi to Batumi, from where he has to go by boat to a health resort in Sokhumi for rehabilitation. He has no warm clothes, and Olya offers to wear her jacket inside his coat, but he refuses and goes with an old, thin coat.

Source: Olya Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 466-467.

Dating: The time is indicated in the diary of Olya Okujava of February 13, 1927.

1927

After February 13

He makes notes under the title Sokhumi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №861, p. 1-3.

Dating: It is evident that it is winter, and the "San Remo" hotel in Sokhumi is mentioned, where Galaktion lived in the days following February 13, 1927.

1927

After February 13

He is taken by car to visit New Athos and Gudauta. Afterward, a banquet is held in his honour, where he is asked to read "The Gravedigger", and a toast is made to Georgian poetry.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №861, p. 1.

Dating: It is evident that it is winter, and the "San Remo" hotel in Sokhumi is mentioned, where Galaktion lived in the days following February 13, 1927.

1927

After February 13

In his notebook, he writes down his maternal genealogy. His mother, Makrine Adeishvili, was born in Tobanieri. His grandmother, with the surname Beridze, married in Imereti. His great-grandmother, with the surname Shervashidze, was married to a Beridze in Guria.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №888, p. 1.

Dating: From the same notebook entry, it is evident that he is in the San Remo hotel, where Galaktion lived in the days following February 13, 1927.

1927

After February 13

He writes a draft for a costumed, artistically, and musically decorated evening event, with the Abkhazian song “Charda” as the background theme.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №888, p. 1.

Dating: From the same notebook entry, it is evident that he is in the San Remo hotel, where Galaktion lived in the days following February 13, 1927.

1927

After February 13

He arrives in Sokhumi by diesel locomotive “Theodor Nette” from Batumi.

Source: N. Tabidze, “The Soul Perer than the Azure”, Universal, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 180; “Olya Okujava’s Diaries and Correspondence with Galaktion”, Tbilisi, “Science”, 1987, p. 65-67.

1927

After February 13

In honour of Galaktion Tabidze, a big evening is held in Sokhumi, where the youth of the city dedicates a golden lyre with the inscription: “To Galaktion, the king of poets!”

Source: Autobiography, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 482.

1927

After February 13

He edits the poem “Fantasy” (“You see, the mountain has risen into the sky...”) and titles it “Hotel San-Remo”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №469, p. 1.

Dating: Galaktion lived at the “San-Remo” hotel in Sokhumi during the days following February 13, 1927.

1927

After February 13

Under the title “Loneliness”, he writes an episode for a prose text, whose characters are Johannes, Arutin Mkrtchyan son of Ivane, Ioveli, and Mariami.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 7.

Dating: The preface mentions the “San-Remo” hotel, where Galaktion stayed during the days following February 13, 1927.

1927

February 14

Olya Okujava is very anxious because she and Galaktion parted on bad terms. Galaktion responds with an ironic smile whenever Olya speaks about her love for him. In her diary, Olya hypothetically addresses him, urging him to pull himself together, quit smoking and drinking, and take care of his health.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 466-468.

1927

February 16

The information is published in the column “New Edition of State Publishing House” of the newspaper Komunisti that the editorial board of the state publishing house accepted for publication and published the poems of Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №37, p. 4.

1927

February 24

Olya Okujava is in a heavy emotional state due to her strained relationship with Galaktion. She recalls their first meeting in Kutaisi, as well as memories of Chiatura, violets, snowdrops, and lilacs.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 469-470.

1927

February 25

Olya Okujava recalls the first time she saw Galaktion and how their eyes met. She writes about how she initially avoided getting to know him, wanting only to observe him from a distance, but despite her efforts, they were eventually introduced.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 470.

March

1927

Until March

He receives an anonymously typed letter from a man who is in love with her. In the letter, he insults and shames Galaktion, accusing him of neglecting his wife, excessive drinking, and involvement with women of questionable morals. The writer urgently demands that Galaktion send a letter to Olya in Tbilisi, informing her that their relationship is over and that he is releasing her from it.

Source: G. Tabidze, MGL, 24551-57; AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 535-536; 1927

March 4

In a diary entry, Olya Okujava recalls how Galaktion used to walk with a melancholy gaze, from Kamo (now Dimitri Uznadze Street) toward the typography. She remembers how meticulously he protected each of his poetic words. Even in winter, he dressed so thinly that he looked like a beggar, carrying a “perpetual, fragrant bouquet” as a gift for eternity.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 470.

1927

March 5

When Olya Okujava visits the publishing house Komunisti, she is filled with joy because they are publishing Galaktion's work. She muses that the typesetters and readers might not even realize the extent of the genius of the author behind these works.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 471.

1927

Until March 8

Galaktion Tabidze's collection under the title "Poems" is released in Tbilisi, in which 650 poems are published: "Blue Horses", "The Moon Of Mtatsminda", "This Wind Is Native", "We Were Going Via Alazani Valley", "Moon Of Kakheti", "Natela From Tsinandali", "Only Heart", "At Alazani", "Look: Kakheti!", "Tiflis", "White Pelican", "Evening", "A Candle", "Chronology Of One Day", "The Sky Of Tbilisi Is A Martyr", "Beyond Mtatsminda", "Metekhi Stood Grey, Steep", "At The End Of An Unfamiliar Street", "May Is In Full Colour Today", "On The Balcony", "When The Envy Of Twilight Descended...", "Early Spring", "Tiflis Sleeps In A Heavy Sleep", "Walnut Tree On Mtatsminda", "Tiger At The Caspian Sea", "15 Century", "There Is An Alley In Front Of The Palace. At Moonlit Night...", "Near The Opera Theatre", "Pirimze", "New Sun", "The Fields Are Spreading", "That Is What A Dream Of The Sun Is", "Mountain", "Serenade", "From Fairy Tales", "Saying Good-Bye", "To Pirimze", "A Fairy Tale", "A Very Tender Manuscript", "Estate", "Aragvi", "Evening", "The Eagles Had Fallen Asleep", "By Omnibus", "Beetroot", "A Letter From The Village", "What Will You Say", "Getting Ready To Set Off", "Almonds There, Almonds Here", "Survival Of The Poplar Tree", "To Platans Of Shindisi", "The Spirit Of The Tides Comes Floating", "A Toast To Him", "Let Tomorrow Take Care Of Tomorrow", "Flowers And Wine", "A Cup Of Flame", "Let's Go", "They Will Blame The Wine", "These Sleeping Mountain And Valley", "Very Old Wine", "Oh, Friends, Our Feast...", "It's Time", "My Iarali", "My Life", "A Broken Off Balcony", "When The Moon Shines In The Daytime", "Shrouded Forest", "As The Sorrow Of The Aragvi Bank", "Afternoon Diligence", "On The Road", "June Has Passed", "Will It Be Heard", "From An Old Notebook", "Grass", "Oaks", "Fields", "It Was Before", "Dare-Devils, Women-Demons, Demons, Etc", "The Moon In The Well", "The Scythe Is Shrieking", "Greetings To The Blooming Fields", "What Will You Say, Field?", "The Memory Of Our Grove", "To First Ears Of Grains", "Here! Here You Are!", "An Old Mill", "Woman!", "A Passenger Is Rushing Along The Road", "Distant Ice Of The Caucasus", "To The Woman From The Mountains", "Near The Ruins Of The Castle", "Gem Day Got Pale", "We Have Erected A High Tower...", "The Ancestors Will Open Doors For Him", "The Times Were Changing", "The Old Palace", "They Will Cover You", "Do You Remember? What Time Was That Time?", "Here, A Tall Marble Column...", "Until Mtskheta", "Far Away From Avchala", "At Hydroelectric Station", "From Mtskheta", "From Gori", "Return", "Nine October...", "Breezes Were Blowing", "Only Lullaby", "What Beautiful Fields", "We Have Passed The Moat", "As If Not Here", "From The Tunnels", "Where The Pain Of The Forests Was Heard...", "On The Military Road...", "Our News Of The Day – Quite Wrathful...", "Our Century", "Night In The Valley", "Native Ephemera", "Poetry Above All", "When Actaeon, Son Of Aristeas", "The Old Years Will Pass Away", "Old Magazines", "Our Magazines", "In A Café", "The Street Of 30s", "Mourning Seraphim", "Others Caw Like Crows...", "I Loved The Tune Warmed With Feeling...", "A Very Tender Manuscript", "You At Least Once", "Whether A Word

Of Morality Suits A Child...”, “It’s Not Worth Of A Tear”, “I Have Had Wings More Than Once”, “The Man Who Dared”, “Sometimes Chasms, Sometimes Peaks”, “The Poets’ Flag Is Flying There”, “Reconciliation”, “When Ilya Was Killed In Tsitsamuri”, “Akaki’s Ghost”, “A Poem About A Tiger”, “If The Lion Was Furious”, “Our Time Is Still Waiting For Rustaveli”, “Naked”, “I Make Up That Michelangelo”, “Obelisk”, “Your Legendary Fame”, “The Horse Rushed On The Road”, “Marble”, “Gossips”, “The Curtain Falls”, “Soon Discoloured”, “Wagner”, “He Looked Like A Madman”, “That Conductor”, “A Musical Fantasy”, “The Soul Was Crying To Blue Wines”, “Music – Sudden”, “Look, The Dusk Is Falling”, “Gautier”, “Two Seas Met Each Other”, “When The Night Around Is Dark”, “To A Russian Poet”, “There Is No More Flautist”, “The Last Telegram”, “Black Columns”, “Prologue Of 100 Poems”, “Parallel”, “Art”, “A Letter To Friends”, “Woman And Art”, “Laurel”, “Glory Be To Him”, “What Is This Feeling?”, “Creativity”, “In Memory”, “About Veils And Violies”, “Ephemera Again”, “Snow”, “I Really Like ... Of Purple Snow...”, “The Winter Gardens Are Covered With Whiteness”, “With Snow And Frost”, “Etching”, “Nanny”, “About Veils And Violies”, “Ephemera Again”, “Snow” (“I Love The... Of Purple Snow Indeed...”), “The Winter Gardens Are Covered With Whiteness”, “With Snow And Frost”, “Etching”, “Nanny”, “Poplars In The Snow”, “White Winds”, “To White Flowers”,  (“Under The White Snow, He Followed His Dreams Soundless Distance Of The Mountain Chain...”), “A Difficult Winter”, “White Days Are Coming”, “Madonna Of Snow Follows The Ship...”, “The Snow Was Slanting, Sloping”, “From Winter Motifs”, “Snow” (“Trees Are Covered With Snow”), “Who Is This Woman?”, “Grieving About You”, “The Further You Are”  (“And If You’re Not Who I Think You Are...”),  (“Let The Heart Burn With Strange Passion...”),  (“People Are Stirring, People Are Whispering...”), “Dreaming In Reality”, “It’s Been A While”, “Away From You”, “He”, “Comfort”, “With An Old Motif”, “Your Toast”, “Voiles”, “She Will Come... But When?”, “Mary”, “You Were Getting Married In Church That Night, Meri!”, “You By The Sea”, “Oh, Today Is Autumn”, “Non-Return”, “This Was At The End Of October”, “I And Night”, “Angel Of Silence”, “Invisible”, “The Star Arch Is Shining!”, “On The Barren”, “Silence”, “By The Mirror”, “At New Dawn”,  (“I Often Dream And Look Up At The Sky...”), “Pleiades”, “Towering As Sky, As If Marble”, “It’s Silence”, “Yesterday, All Day”, “Tender Garden Has Fallen Asleep”, “The Moon Hid Behind The Mountain Barren”, “A Deer’s Jump Has Sparkle Brightly Again”, “A Struggle With God”, “Joy In Battle”, “It Is Easy To Believe”, “Mars”, “Waldhorn Is Moaning”, “The Sky Is Covered With Snow”, “Night, What Has Happened To You?”, “The Shadow - Silent And Marauding”, “This Dark Night”, “Eagle-Owl”, “It Was An Old, Familiar Thought”, “Primitive”, “Death From The Moon”, “Desert”, “The Mysterious Second Face”, “Revolver”, “He Was Walking Down The Street Alone”, “The Leaves Of The Tree Meet Me With A Silent Rustle”, “Wandering As Light”, “By The Window”, “A Day Turns Into Days”, “Bell Tower In The Desert”, “Georgian Viols”, “In Expectation Of Bad Weather”, “Doom”, “On The Last Day”, “Old Age”, “I Was Looking For You Everywhere... Suffocating From The Heat”, “I Will Come”, “Dreams”, “The Rustling Of The Curtains”, “Where?”, “Beyond The Luck”, “It Was Taken By The Dream”, “Saying Good-Bye”, “What Time Is It?”, “Peach Flowers”, “Peach Branch, Tired Branch”, “Long Live Those Peaches, Those Peach Flowers!”, “I Will Remember Those Pink Peaches Again...”, “Domino”, “A Strange Palace”, “From The Horizon To The Zenith”, “Without Love”, “Night Met Day”,  (“There Was A Noise Among The Fields, Calm, Quiet...”), “How Thirsty I Am”, “My Star”, “Downpour”, “I’ll

Approach, I Will Kiss...”, “They Were Worrying”, “Eyes”, “You Are Always Nice”, “A Beautiful Woman Cursed Me”, “Doubt”, “Wine-Coloured River!”, “I Felt It All Day Long”, “When I Am Possessed By The Moon”, “Tormenting With Its Beauty”, “You Had Fun”, “The Poplars Bend The Bows And Arrows”, “Believe If You Do Not Believe”, “The Road Is Not Worth Of Trouble”, “It Floats On The Sea Like A Chip”, “Iniesa”, “Two Blessed Daughters”, “Got More Surprised”, “To A Gentle And Moony Eye”, “You Are Thirteen Years Old”, “The Heart Of Existence”, “Hands”, “From The Pool”, “I Hear A Longing Voice”, “Drunk With Being, Drunk With Fire”, “August Has Come”, “I Still Deserved It”, “From Folk Motifs”, “Recollection”, “Jealousies Fought”, “That Was Fifteen Years Ago”, “Nowhere, Never”, “A Ghost – Unworldly”, “One Time”, “The Heart Feels”, “The One I Loved”, “While You Were Away”, “If You Expect?”, “Ten Virgins”, “Ten Years Ago”,  (“The Sun Of June, The Sun Of June...”), “Explanation”, “Heart”, “Bridge Rialto On The Mountain River”, “Its Beauty Is Amazing”, “From A Letter To Him”, “Inscriptions”, “With May Arrow”, “May Is Blossoming”, “All Cases”, “May’s Eyes Are Intoxicating Me Again”, “Dream And Love Again”, “You Are Again Burning With Admiration”, “Lying Down”, “In The Train”, “A Thousand Boats Reached The Shore”, “Autumn In The Sanctuary Of The Fathers Of ‘Immaculate Conception”, “Autumn Fragment”, “Tapestry”, “Evening In The Countryside”, “Autumn Flowers”, “From Autumn Motifs”, “To The Sick”, “It’s Autumn”, “Summer Days Have Faded Away”, “Autumn”, “A Yellow Leaf”, “The Last Day”, “Autumn Day”, “Gentle Autumn Is Coming”, “Leaves”, “The Horizon Is Slightly Agitated”, “The Sky Had A Different Colour Then”, “Why Like This?”, “The Death Of The Strings”, “You And Autumn”, “The City Skull Is Open”, “It’s Going To Rain”, “The Last Companion”, “Autumn Day”, “Clouds Are Like Turbulent Minds”, “Just A Few Years Ago”, “The Wind Is Swaying As A Lyre”, “A Plea Of Fountains”, “Leaves Are Scattered On The Road”, “Autumn Morning”, “My Heart, What’s Going On With You”, “Mixed Pages Of Old Books”, “The Straw Rustles”, “A Gloomy, Tired Race”, “Autumn Is Coming”, “You And Autumn”, “Once...”, “Wind”, “Elegy”, “Last Night The Wind Was Blowing”, “Cried Out By The Wind”, “Dressed In Transparent Blonde Laces”, “What A Sad Lullaby Is Told”, “He Opens The Doors Like Crazy”, “Late Dream”, “The Day Has Passed!”, “The Wind From The Nest Croaks As A Young Crow...”, “Azure Or A Rose In Sand”, “A House At The Edge Of The Forest”, “Green Titan”, “In The Forest”, “Oak”, “The Forest Took Me!”, “A Green Stripe Of The Mountain”, “Night Will Fall In The Forest”, “Forest”, “As Soon As The Morning Dawns”, “The Song Is Blooming”, “Over The Bridge With A Horse”, “Aspen”, “I Am Genius Rimaneli”, “Go, You Are Not A Man Anymore”, “The Battle Of Two Fierce Elements”, “Only Full Of Desire To Fight”, “No One Will Protect You In An Unfortunate Hour”, “I Am Sleepy”, “A Bitter Lullaby”, “I Stand At The Door Of Days With Worry”, “He Counts Every Ounce”, “They Didn’t Hear...”, “Looking At Future”, “Homeland Of Black Lucifer”, “Look Into My Eye”, “We Meet Again”, “This Dusk”, “A Homeless Soul”, “With The Sealed Folio”, “His Pathos”, “No Epoch Has The Right”, “A Blind With One Eye”, “All The Candles Have Been Dipped In The Candlesticks”, “Everything Has Changed Colour”, “From The Demon’s Song”, “Sorrowful Soul”, “Other... Everything...”, “Twilight Guest”, “One Minute”, “A Futile Attempt”, “Be Careful”, “From Songs”, “It Seemed To Him At The Time Of Death”, “You And The Demon”, “Forgive Lucifer”, “A Table With Alembics”, “But What Can I Do”, “Flight Of The Mourning Chariots”, “Four Demons”, “You Are Dressed In Black, Like An Elegy”, “Befriended”, “A Feeling, Which Has Been Lost”, “The Purity Of Other Man Makes Me More

Mad", "It Is Not That Sweet", ("Life Is Completely Vain, It's A Transient World Of Melancholy..."), "Destiny", "Two Chimes", "Closed Eyes", "In Dark Chimeras", "Virgin", "It Will Not Be Renewed, Will Not Return", "And I Wish To Tell You A Lot", "On The Last Day", "Even Then, Anyway", "Orchids", "The Memory Of The Deceased", "Shadow Of Leaves", "Two", "At The Boulder", "Three Clouds", "New Population", "The Angel Was Holding A Long Piece Of Parchment", "Infinite, Boundless", "Evening" ("To The Covered In Dew Grass At The Edge Of The Sleeping Forest..."), "Clouds With Golden Cupids", "It Is The Day Of The White Lambs In The Azure Sky", "Ghost In The Ruins", "Sunset", "Conversation About Edgar", "Under Tired Eyelashes", "Regret", "Like An Explosion", "The Winds Started To Look Like Winds!", "A Raven", "For The Third Time Edgar", "Ephemera", "Where The End Was", "New Year's Ephemera", "Getera", "Air", "The Gravedigger", "One Depraved Man", "After The Hurricane", "The Heart Has Refreshed", "Passenger's Song", "A Black Raven", "Sing Me Something", "I Am Looking Closely At The Bottomless Sea", "As The Meadow And Woodland After A Gale", "Portrait", "In The Narrow Rocks Of Dariali", "The Death Of A Hero", "A Dream On A Rock", "Never Have I Missed Freedom So Much", "In The Homeland", "Dream In Shackles", ("There, A Stream Flows From The Mountainside..."), ---("Thick Cloud..."), "A Puddle", "I Am Looking For ... In The Struggle", "I Carry These Flowers", "Raise The Sun Up, Up!", "Hey, Wake Up!", "The Only Thing I Love Is Storm", "This Is A Whirlwind Of Novelty", "He Is Waiting For A Whirlwind", "Very Soon", "A Minute", "Aurora", "You, Song!", "Mountains In Guria", "Sometimes In The Sound Of The Tumultuous City", "A Day", "Suddenly Darkened Night", "Among The Blazing Furnaces", "An Automobile", "In The Mine", "A Sudden City", "What Is The Street Screaming?", "A City In The Dark", "A Scream Of Posters", "Panic", "Like A Dream", "A Poster, How...", "Dusk", "A Line Of New Steeds", "When Everyone Was Sleeping", "First Rose", "What A Wonderful Dew It Was", "Flowers", "I Was Born At Dawn", "I And Iris", "Flowers – Minutes", "Flower Woman", "Queen", "I. A.", "Raven's Tears", "The Sound Of Gunfire In The Mountains", "Childhood Days", "A Child In The Newspapers", "On The Street", "Homeless Children", "Children In The Café", "Cherry-Plum, A Seven-Year-Old Child", "Wine Will Be Distributed To The Sailors", "Rage", "A Vain Call", "Cross", "On The Ship", "From The Sea-Bed", "That Ship Wrecked", "Masts", "Blue Ship", "With Blue Wings", "Candles", "You Are Late", "The Song Dreaming Of Resting", "The Land Has Appeared", "Agitation", "You At The Edge Of The Sea", "Calm Sea", "May Has Brought Me Azure Seas Again", "What Hubbub The Ship Was Going Through", "Daland Ship", "Where Ever A Dreamer With Sails", "A City On The Water", "Guardian Sails", "Sea Ephemera", "In Trenches", "Like Fiery Ashes", "On A String", "In The Mud", "A Whole Century Goes By", "Sanatorium", "I Have Had Only One Concern", "It's No Time For Romancero", "More Than A Prayer", "Whatever Will Be - Will Be", "There Was No Listening And Hearing...", "Fire", "Time", "With Hidden Pains", "Cemetery", "Seconds Pass By", "Fear", "Flags Quickly!", ("The Sorrow Of The People Was Getting Drunk, The Pool Of Blood..."), ("What Is The Need For Words? I Believe!"), "A Few Days In Petrograd", "Her Eyes Remained Open", "How The Bells Fought The Bells", "This Poem", "Gusty Wind", "The Wind Shook The Italian Christmas Tree In Tripoli", "Wind, Harbinger Of World War", "Wind Lifting The Curtain", "A Wind Of Memories", "With Chemical Subjects", "The Wind Is Blowing, The Wind Is Blowing, The Wind Is Blowing", "Not One Or Two",  ("There Was A Dense Fog..."), "Hurricane", "John Reed", "East", "Nine Hundred And

Eighteen”, “In The City”, “The Red Rock Split In Two”, “We Drink A Whirlwind, A Storm After That”, “A Time Denier”, “Fantastic Emperor”,  (“Nine Hundred-Seventeen. The Black Pegasus Was Neighing...”), “We Crossed Raging Seas”, “Calypso’s Old Hands Are Breaking”, “The Memory Of A Deaf Lane”, “Fire, Sword”, “He Closed The Door”, “Now, Numerous Strings Just Scream”,  (“The Most Peaceful...”), “Fate Has Never Been So Cunning”, “There Are Days”,  (“It Stole The Fields Of Snow”),  (“The Fog Reigning Around...”), “Your Apartment”, “Again In The Forest”, “Sisters’ Peaceful Song”, “Has Not Died”, “The Twilight Of The Night Has Disappeared”, “To A Friend”, “You, My Friend, From Daily Prose”, “The Houses Are Smiling”, “If There Is No Fight”, “Feeling And Simplicity Have Returned”, “We Went Out Of Chaos To The Roads”,  (“With Silent Hearing...”), “In A Sanatorium”,  (“I Was Being Convinced: The Leaves Have Disappeared...”), “The Winds Slammed The Door”,  (“He As A Fancy-Dresser, Entered Dressed In Black...”),  (“I Am Following A Cruiser In A Foreign Country...”), “How Peacefully I Am Watching The Worries Of The World”, “Planets Collide With Each Other”,  (“Like A Prayer - The Evening Falls On The Slopes Of The Mountain...”), “Oh, Let’s Sink Down Without Thinking”, “We, The Poets Of Georgia”, “Cosmic Orchestra”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze, “Poems”, Tbilisi, SSSR State Publishing House, 1927; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №37, p. 4;

Dating: From the diary entry of Olya Okujava on March 8, 1927, it can be seen that the Book has already been published.

1927

March 8

Olya Okujava sees Galaktion’s new Book at an exhibition. She then makes a special effort to visit bookstores to check if it is included in their collections. She discovers that it is not available at the Caucasian Publishers’ bookstore, and in one shop, it is placed inside dusty display cases.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 471.

1927

After March 8

Tedo Begiashvili in his review of Galaktion Tabidze’s “Selected” published in 1927 talks about the popularity of this Book and the special influence of Galaktion Tabidze in Georgia.

Source: G. Tabidze, Fragments, Galaktionology collection, III, 2004, p. 10-11.

Dating: Dated based on the release time of the “Selected”.

1927

March 29

Olya Okujava calls the manager of the trade department of the state publishing house and asks if Galaktion Tabidze’s Book has been published. He confirms that the Book is released. Olya tells him that it is strange because the Book is not in the shops and the newspapers are not reporting anything about it. She has seen this Book in only one store, and that too in a dusty window. They thank her for the information and promise to consider the case.

Source: Olya Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 473.

1927

March 30

A new collection of Galaktion Tabidze's poems is being put on sale in Tbilisi stores.

Source: Olya Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 473.

1927

March 30

Olya Okujava calls the head of the Sales Department at the State Publishing House and inquires whether Galaktion Tabidze's Book has been released. Upon receiving a positive response, she scolds him, noting that it is neither visible in newspapers nor in display cases. She mentions that she has only seen it in a dusty display case at one location. The head of the department responds that he will look into the matter.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 473.

1927

March 31

Olya Okujava visits the bookstores again and this time finds that Galaktion's Book has been made available for sale everywhere and is prominently displayed.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 473.

1927

March 31

He writes on the paper that he has received 55 roubles from comrade L. Sikharulidze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №186, p. 1.

1927

March

He sends a letter to Olya Okujava in Tbilisi and describes the anonymous letter they received and asks if Olya might know who could have written it. They express that such insults are completely unacceptable and state their intention to take the letter to the Workers' and Peasants' Inspection to identify the author.

Source: G. Tabidze, MGL, 24551-57; AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 54-55;

1927

March or later

He sends a brief letter to the accountant of the State Publishing House, requesting that 100 copies of his Book be sent to him in his honorarium account.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-242; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 136;

April

1927

Until April 2

He begins writing a poem titled "From Greek" ("I have seen many castles, servants of old times..."), but stops at the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 3.

Dating: The text in the notebook is placed before the entry in which April 2 is referenced in the future tense.

1927

Until April 2

A banquet is held in his honour in Sokhumi, attended by 20-25 people.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 4.

Dating: The text in the notebook is placed before the entry in which April 2 is referenced in the future tense.

1927

Until April 2

He begins writing an untitled poem: "I was surprised before, and still, almost, I am very surprised..." but soon stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 2.

Dating: The text in the notebook is placed before the entry in which April 2 is referenced in the future tense.

1927

Until April 2

He begins writing an untitled poem: "You were walking as a wasteland – like a wine-coloured river..." but soon stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 8.

Dating: The text in the notebook is placed before the entry in which April 2 is referenced in the future tense.

1927

Until April 2

He draws a seascape with black and violet ink.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 10.

Dating: From the text written on the next page in the notebook, it appears that the evening of April 2 has not yet taken place.

1927

Until April 2

In the notebook, he writes about the planned first part of his evening for April 2, listing the greetings that will be presented by various organizations. The list includes: the Georgian Women's Society, the Sokhumi Society, the Sokhumi Drama Circle, the Sokhumi Executive Committee, the Central Committee of Abkhazia, the Sokhumi Branch of the Society of Writers, and separately, greetings in the form of poems.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 11.

Dating: From the entry, it is clear that the evening of April 2 has not yet taken place.

1927

April 2

At 9:30 PM, Galaktion's evening is held at the first academic theatre of Sokhumi. At the beginning of the event, young people read his poems, followed by a ballet performance under the direction of Gorelov and a theatrical production based on Galaktion's works. Afterward, there is another reading of his poems, and the evening concludes with songs set to his poems, including "Another Toast," "The Wind Blows," "The Peach Branch," and others. The evening is musically accompanied by a string orchestra.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 9. Evening program, GTDA, №573, p. 1.

1927

April 2

Dmitry Semyonov dedicates an untitled impromptu poem written in Russian ("Beloved Georgia, Bathed in Blood...") ["Милая Грузия, кровю облитая..."].

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №191, p. 1.

Note: No additional information about the author is available.

1927

After April 3

He receives a letter from Mikheil Javakhishvili, who is sorry that he did not have time to talk to him in detail. The addressee sends the Aripionians' declaration, asks him to sign it and send two poems with it to be printed in the almanac Aripioni. He writes that his "roaring and thundering" poems will resound as before, and his name and masterful hand will overcome everything.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-447; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 253-254.

1927

After April 5

He receives a letter from Vasil Gorgadze, who sends him the statement of Aripioni and asks him to express his opinion as soon as possible.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-476; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 254-255.

1927

April 5

Olya Okujava reflects on her relationship with Galaktion and questions whether it is worth continuing in this manner. She wonders if it is worthwhile to keep waiting for his love and attention.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 474-475.

1927

April 6

Olya Okujava plans to meet Galaktion at the cinema. She wants to cultivate an image of a free-spirited woman as a way to take revenge on Galaktion.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 475.

1927

April 6

Olya Okujava is disillusioned with Galaktion and thinks she shouldn't waste time waiting for his attention. She is invited to the cinema and considers going. In her diary, she writes that she wants to send a message to Galaktion through gossipmongers, telling him that he married an unworthy woman. She views this as a form of revenge.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 475.

1927

April 6

He confirms in writing that he has received 30 roubles from L. Sikharulidze.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №187, p. 1.

1927

After April 9

He adds a word before the title of the poem "Firefly" and creates a new, significantly different version titled "Giant Firefly".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №1;

1927

After April 9

He continues to work on the poem N-aya ("Why do you want to be sad...") written in 1912. He crosses out the title and writes a new one: "Old lantern on the hill".

Source: GTDA, №6.

Dating: "Hydroelectric station" is mentioned in the later corrections, and we date it according to the opening time of Zemo Avchala hydroelectric power station.

1927

After April 9

He begins writing a five-act play titled "Drops of the Fallen Rain". The action takes place in Moscow, near the Pushkin monument. He soon stops writing.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №616, p. 5

1927

After April 9

In the notebook, he makes excerpts from a Russian-language text. The quotes discuss how Georgian writers have always known their rightful place, understanding that each one is unique. They touch upon the need to consider the social-political and economic past of the country, among other issues.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №616, p. 6-7.

1927

After April 9

In the notebook, he writes individual poetic phrases: “The endless sea,” “The sound of the waves, one following another,” “Amidst the light clouds of batiste appeared a sequence of harsh lines,” and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №616, p. 2.

1927

After April 9

He writes a poem “At the Zemo-Avchala Hydroelectric Station”.

Source: G. Tabidze, Poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 67; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 177.

Dating: It is dated to the period following the commissioning of the Zemo-Avchala hydroelectric station.

1927

After April 9

In the autograph of the poem “At the Lake” (“I often walk along the shore of the lake...”), he adds the word “Zahesi” (Zemo-Avchala Hydroelectric Station) in red pencil before the title, changing it to “At the Zahesi Lake”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №616, p. 1.

Dating: It is dated to the period following the commissioning of the Zemo-Avchala hydroelectric station.

1927

After April 9

He adds the word “hydroelectric station” in red pencil to the autograph title of the poem “On the Lake” (“I Often Walk Along the Lake’s Edge...”) and gets the title “On the Lake of hydroelectric station”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №170, p. 1.

Dating: We date back to the period after the commissioning of the hydroelectric plant.

1927

After April 9

He writes a miniature titled “The City Underwater” in Russian.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №312.

Dating: “Zahesi” is mentioned and is dated to the period following the commissioning of the hydroelectric power station.

1927

After April 9

He writes an untitled poem: “Once, the tower of Metekhi and Narikala rose...”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №175, p. 1.

Dating: It is dated to the period following the commissioning of the Zemo-Avchala hydroelectric station.

1927

After April 9

He writes an untitled poem “Metekhi Castle and Narikala were built before...”.

Source: Autobiography, GTDA, №175, p. 1.

Dating: “Hydroelectric station” is mentioned in the poem, and we date it to the period after the launching of this hydroelectric plant.

1927

April 14

He sends a telegram from Sokhumi to Mikheil Javakhishvili in Tbilisi. He writes that he shares the literary manifesto of the Aripioneli and asks them to sign it on his behalf. He also informs him that he will return soon.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-96; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 89;

1927

After April 23

A letter written by Olya Okujava is received at the so-called Alexander Hospital one week before her surgery. In the letter, the recipient expresses concern that Galaktion, whom she loved deeply, does not respond or inquire about her well-being. However, she blames the circumstances rather than Galaktion himself. The letter also mentions that she has long since left the Communist Party and is uncertain about what the future holds, feeling anxious about the present.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 184-185;

1927

April 29

He pays the baggage fee at the Batumi station.

Source: Receipt, MGL, d-565, p. 6.

1927

April 29

Olya Okujava is being prepared for the next day’s surgery, and she writes the words of farewell in her diary. She asks the family members to treat Galaktion as a relative, because if Olya had remained alive, Galaktion would never have betrayed her and would have always loved her. She writes to Galaktion that she loved him very much, but they were never able to fully show their feelings for each other.

Source: Olya Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 477-478.

1927

April or earlier

He begins writing a poem titled "The Philosophy of Lyric" ("Britons, for whom do you have the plough and the harrow...") but soon stops.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 13.

Dating: Before this text in the notebook, there are entries made up until April 2.

1927

April or earlier

He writes an untitled poem: "You, poets, love the petals of roses...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 14.

Dating: Before this text in the notebook, there are entries made up until April 2.

1927

April or earlier

In the notebook, he makes a brief note regarding Aripioni's speech about the foundation of a new literary school.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 16.

Dating: Before this text in the notebook, there are entries made up until April 2.

1927

April or earlier

In the notebook, he writes about which act of the play "Drops of the Fallen Rain" will take place in which location. Among the listed places are the square near the Pushkin monument, the railway station, a house yard, and a theatre.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №481, p. 17.

Dating: Before this text in the notebook, there are entries made up until April 2.

May

1927

May 6

The magazine Kartuli Mtserloba publishes Besarion Zhghenti's letter "1926 in Georgian literature". In the article about Galaktion Tabidze, it is said that he published only two poems this year, which do not allow to say a new word about the author.

Source: B. Zhghenti, "1926 in Georgian Literature", magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, №2, (February), p. 61; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №100.

Dating: The May 6, 1927 issue of the newspaper Komunisti says about the release of this issue of the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba.

1927

Until May 7

A literary corporation called Aripioni is established, with members including Galaktion Tabidze, Mikheil Javakhishvili, Geronti Kikodze, Shalva Dadiani, Leo Kiacheli, Sandro Shanshiashvili, Konstantine Kapaneli, Konstantine Chichinadze, Davit Sulikashvili, Vasil Gorgadze, Ilia Mosashvili, Ioseb Tatishvili, Petre Kavtaradze, and Levan Metreveli.

Source: Mikheil Javakhishvili's statement to the Presidium of the Writers' Union, R. Kverenchkhiladze, "The Writers' Union of Georgia – 1917-1982", Tbilisi, 1983, p. 114; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 117.

1927

May 7

Mikheil Javakhishvili, as a member of the literary corporation "Aripioni", gifts his Book "Kurka's Wedding" with the inscription: "To dear friend, Galaktion Tabidze – the author, M. Javakhishvili, 7/V. 1927".

Source: MGL, t-239, M. Javakhishvili, "Kurka's Wedding", Tbilisi, 1927; For clarification of information: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 117.

1927

May 7

The magazine Mnatobi reports that Galaktion Tabidze's "Poems", a Book that includes 542 pages and costs 5 roubles, has been released and is being sold in the stores of State Publishing House.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1927, №4, p. 237; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №101.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is written in the May 7, 1927 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1927

After May 10

He receives a letter from Sergo Jintchvelashvili, who is experiencing difficult financial circumstances and wishes to organize a paid evening to earn a small income. Galaktion is asked to participate in the evening, and Sergo informs him that he will also request the participation of actors Dodo Natadze and Ushangi Chkheidze, as well as poets Solomon Tavadze and Varlam Rukhadze.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-225; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 257-258.

1927

May 11 or earlier

In the unsigned letter of the chief of the magazine Memartskheneoba, while talking about the crisis of poetry, the revival of the "degenerate hysteria of the Tabidzes" is mentioned. In the same magazine with the cryptonym “B. A”. Beglar Aghamov criticizes Konstantine Lortkipanidze because his poems are musically influenced by Galaktion. In the same issue of Memartskheneoba with the cryptonym “S. Ch”. in the article “Proletarian Writing” Simon Chikovani criticizes the influence of Galaktion on Alio Mashashvili.

Source: Magazine Memartskheneoba, №1, p. 3; B.A., Bibliography and review: “Georgian Literature”, magazine Memartskheneoba, №1, p. 267-268; S.Ch. “Proletarian Writing”, magazine Memartskheneoba, №1, p. 70-80; For dating: I. Grishashvili’s Library-Museum Catalogue, vol. 2, part 1, p. 218.

Note: The members of the editorial board of the magazine were: Besarion Zhghenti, Demna Shengelaia and Nikoloz Chachava, and the author of the letter, naturally, was one of them, perhaps Besarion Zhghenti.

Dating: Ioseb Grishashvili wrote the date – May 11 – on his own copy of the magazine.

1927

Mid-May

He visits Olya Okujava in the hospital, speaking with her as well as with the other patients and their visitors.

Source: Olya Okujava’s letter, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185-186.

1927

Mid-May or later

He receives Olya Okujava’s letter in which she reproaches him, stating that geniuses should not behave this way, that they should not torment those who love them, nor should they betray them for deceitful women of questionable morals. She criticizes his behaviour during his visit to her in the hospital, noting how he seemed to be checking out the women in her ward. She writes that she will soon depart to the land of blue horses, where she will find rest from her constant suffering.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-408; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185-186.

1927

Mid-May or later

Olya Okujava leaves a letter at home at 10 o’clock at night. She writes that she has waited for a long time and that such neglect is not what love is about. She mentions that she has borrowed some money from him for a few days because she is in urgent need. She also notes that a mutual acquaintance of Galaktion’s had come by, and when Olya mentioned that she was ill and he had never visited her, the acquaintance was surprised by how differently people can appear at first glance and how indifferent they can be in reality. Olya writes that she no longer intends to visit him again and will not even greet him on the street. She adds that Galaktion already has plenty of friends and many women with whom he enjoys himself.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-408; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 202-203.

1927

Until May 20

He receives Zakaria Tchitchinadze's letter. The addressee informs that he is leaving him a letter about young poets, in which he talks about the need to study realistic criticism (Pisarev, Chernyshevsky). In his opinion, a thorough acquaintance with realistic criticism will help symbolists and futurists to understand poetry more broadly.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-98, 128; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 294.

1927

May 30

In her diary, Olya Okujava writes that Galaktion has dealt her a poisonous blow while she was sick and in despair. She wonders if, after leaving the hospital, she will receive the attention and affection she needs, and whether Galaktion will provide that. She considers whether she should turn to Terenti Graneli for support.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 478.

Note: Galaktion's name is not mentioned.

1927

May 30 or later

Olya Okujava is anxious that she will be discharged from the hospital in two days and that Galaktion is not expecting her. In her diary, she writes in despair that if this is the case, she will offer her affection to Graneli.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 478.

Dating: The entry is placed after the entry dated May 30, 1927.

1927

After May 30

Galaktion writes a brief note to Olya Okujava, addressing her accusation that poison does not heal friends. He responds that he remembers receiving more poison from her. Regarding the lack of letters, he thinks that it is not necessary to exchange letters constantly. He adds that he never writes to anyone, and no one gets upset because of it.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 52.

1927

Until May 31

He is moving to live separately from Mikheil Okujava.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Galaktion, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 157, 158.

Dating: This fact is discussed in Abesalom Tabidze's May 31 letter.

1927

After Mat 31

He receives another letter from his brother. Abesalom is very upset because he has not received a letter from him for a year, and he has not informed him whether he will help with repaying debts or even provided his address. As a result, he has had to send letters to both the Okujava and the editorial office Mnatobi. While Galaktion previously used being occupied with his Book as an excuse, now that the Book is published and Galaktion has even been to Sokhumi, he still hasn't visited home. Abesalom asks him to send any remaining funds from the book's royalties, as he has debts up to a thousand roubles, or to let him know if he agrees to the sale of their shared family home.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-313; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 157-158.

1927

After Mat 31

He receives another letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who is very upset because he doesn't even inform him whether he is going to help pay off the debts, and he doesn't even give his address, which is why the letter is sent to the state publishing house in the name of Nikolo Mitsishvili.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-314; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 158.

1927

May or after

In the table of contents of the Book published in May 1927, he adds the titles of the poems that were omitted from the list: "With an Old Motif", "Your Toast", "Voiles", "He Will Come, But When?", "Mary", "Astre", "A Late Dream", "The Night Passed", and "The Wind Took the Crow's Nestling...".

Source: MGL, t-609, G. Tabidze, Poems, Tbilisi, 1927, p. 525-542.

1927

May

Galaktion goes to the so-called Alexander Hospital to visit Olya Okujava. There are other women in the ward, and after his departure, they gossip that he was flirting with them.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185-186.

Dating: This is mentioned in Olya Okujava's letter from May 1927.

1927

May

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from the so-called Alexander Hospital. The sender is upset with Galaktion, stating that he trampled on her love, exchanged it for prostitutes in Batumi and Sokhumi, and that all Olya is left with for consolation is to follow the "blue horses" to the "land of eternity".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185-186.

1927

Spring

He stands at the shopping booth and says to an unknown young man who came to buy cigarettes: “Do you see? The wife of the king’s former general sells tobacco today”.

Source: B. Abesadze, Three Meetings with Galaktion, newspaper Tbilisi, October 26, 1991, № 196, p. 3

June

1927

Until June

He writes an untitled poem (“On board the ship during the time of agitation...”).

Source: Autographs: GTDA, №14, №15, №17; MGL, №1115; №5541; №5547; №5556; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 98.

Note: The poem can also be found under the title “A city under the water” and with the opening line “On the Black Sea, aboard the ship ‘Theodor Nette’...”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1928

Until June 4

He writes an untitled poem: “The gardens of mandarins and tea...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №459, p. 1.

Dating: According to the poem, the Chinese statesman and political figure Zhang Zolin (“Jandzolini”) is alive, and the poem is dated based on the time of his death.

1927

June 10

The poem “A city under the water” is published in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, № 5-6, p. 1-3; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, № 130, p. 4.

Note: The author is not indicated next to the poem, but in the table of contents it is written “Galaktion Tabidze”.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is in the June 10 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1927

June 15

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a notice that on June 19, Galaktion Tabidze’s evening will be held in the summer building of the New Workers’ Club.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №134, p. 4.

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Vasil Barnovi's jubilee address "To Galaktion Tabidze" is published, in which Galaktion's poetry is described as ethereal and expressive of the sensitive Georgian soul. The address notes that his work presents a "whole host of miraculous faces". The renowned writer urges Galaktion to now crystallize his thoughts into poems.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, there is a letter by Zakaria Chichinadze titled "On the Poetry of Galaktion Tabidze". The author highly praises Galaktion Tabidze's new Book of poems, noting both its substantial length and the high quality of the poetry. Consequently, he believes that the name of this young poet should be added to the list of Georgia's greatest poets.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Valerian Gunia's essay "Temperament" is published, in which the author associates the charm of Galaktion's poetry with the young poet's exuberant temperament.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Sandro Shanshiashvili's letter "Great Lyric" is published. In the letter, the author notes that Galaktion has no equal among contemporary Georgian poets. His poetry overshadows both old and new poets. Shanshiashvili believes that Galaktion has deeply grasped the spirit of the era. He describes Galaktion's poems as resembling prayers memorized by the faithful. According to the author, Galaktion does not belong to any particular literary movement. Shanshiashvili suggests the term "bionovia" to characterize Galaktion's poetry, which he defines as representing a new life.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, David Kldiashvili's letter "The Splendour and Pride of Georgian Lyric Poetry" is published. In the letter, the author notes that Galaktion's lyricism is not only a reflection of the poet's own soul but also of the spirit of thousands of people. This, he suggests, is the mission that fate has entrusted to Galaktion Tabidze.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Shalva Dadiani's letter "Close to Galaktion" is published. The author compares Galaktion's creative process to sacerdotal work, likening the poet to a priest who astonishes readers with his divine poetry.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Dominika Eristavi's letter "Contemporary" is published. In the letter, the author notes that Galaktion is a wholly exceptional phenomenon in the history of Georgian poetry and that is why he is called the king of poets. Galaktion is not an ordinary poet, and therefore, his native country should treat him with great care and reverence.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Dominika Eristavi's letter is signed under the pseudonym "Gandegili" ("The Recluse").

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Ia Ekaladze's letter "To the Readers" is published. In the letter, the author draws attention to the crisis situation in Georgian literature and advises readers to turn to Galaktion's magical poetry during times of melancholy, which breathes with high ideals. The author describes his poems as sweet as mother's milk and producing sounds that might only be heard once every hundred years. Galaktion is described as "the godchild of poetry itself".

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Trifon Ramishvili's essay "Admirable and Highly Gifted" is published. In the essay, Galaktion is declared a prominent representative of the generation of poets who implemented the reform of Georgian poetry at the beginning of the century and expanded the scope of native literary issues.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Tedo Begiashvili's letter "The Bard of Revolution" is published. It notes that Georgian poets quickly found common ground with the revolution, and one of the first among them was Galaktion Tabidze. He accurately foresaw the prospects of the revolution and intuitively sensed its development towards the East. Thus, he became a prophet of the revolution.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalog of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Niko Kurdghelashvili's essay "Faint Portrait" is published. It presents Impressionistic observations on the poet's personality and work. The author emphasizes the melancholy that always accompanies Galaktion's creativity, considering the poet's concern for his homeland as the source of this melancholy.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Niko Kurdghelashvili's essay is signed under the pseudonym "Narkani".

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Vasil Alania's essay "My Sweet Memory" is published. In the essay, the author recalls how popular Galaktion was in the early 1910s and the impression he made on young readers. Alania also mentions that in 1917 there were rumours that Galaktion had died on the barricades of the revolution.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Vasil Alania's essay is signed under the pseudonym "Vaso Musha".

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Akaki Paghava's miniature sketch "The Abandoned Poet" is published. It presents a portrayal of Galaktion's external appearance and creative essence.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Grigol Matchavariani's letter "The Triumphant Poet" is published. The author describes Galaktion as a poet of divine talent, whose companionship many desire but no one has the strength to follow. Therefore, Galaktion walks alone on the path of poetry.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Grigol Matchavariani's letter is signed under the pseudonym "Sakarikideli".

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Vakhtang Vachnadze's letter "Guillotine and Scaffold" is published. The author notes that Georgia has always been a guillotine and scaffold for artists. To support this, he references the personal fate of Baratashvili. In the modern era, the romantic poet's heir is Galaktion Tabidze. Galaktion's lyrics are charged with astonishing contrasts, and the artistic form of his poetry is distinguished by magical musicality.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Vakhtang Vachnadze's letter is signed under the pseudonym "Vakhtang Garriki".

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, the sketch published under the pseudonym "Olympieuli" describes him as a great lyricist and a poet of deep emotions.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: The identity of the author of the article is unknown.

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, Gaoz Imedashvili's article "Galaktion Tabidze, Poet of Georgia" describes Galaktion as a pivotal figure in Georgian poetry whose artistic symbols are almost impossible to decipher. The author notes that no contemporary Georgian poet has been able to escape Galaktion's influence. Each of his poems carries the essence of the entire epoch.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Gaoz Imedashvili's letter is signed under the pseudonym "Kaius Peli".

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, several poems dedicated to Galaktion are published: Shio Mghvimeili's "Gardener", Giorgi Kuchishvili's "To Galaktion Tabidze", Noe Zomleteli's "The Poet's Passion", Daria Akhvlediani's "To Galaktion Tabidze", Lydia Megrelidze's "To Galaktion" and "To Galaktion Tabidze", Ilo Mosashvili's "Toa friend, Galaktion", Varlam Rukhadze's "The Unyielding Power of Poetry", Lavros Dzidziguri's "To Galaktion Tabidze", Shalva Janberidze's "Galaktion", and Hertsel Baazov's "Messiah". The bulletin also announces that on June 26 at 9 PM, a Galaktion Tabidze evening will be held at the Workers' New Club. Additionally, it notes that the State Publishing House has printed and is selling Galaktion Tabidze's "Poems" at a price of 5 roubles.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

Note: Lydia Megrelidze's poem is signed under the pseudonym "Nazisi".

1927

June 24

In the literary bulletin Galaktion, it is announced that on June 26 at 9 PM, a Galaktion Tabidze evening will be held at the Workers' New Club. It is also noted that the State Publishing House has printed and is now selling Galaktion Tabidze's "Poems" at a price of 5 roubles.

Source: Literary Bulletin, "Galaktion", 1927, Tbilisi, p. 1-3, 4.

Dating: In the electronic catalogue of the National Library of the Parliament of Georgia, the publication date of this bulletin is listed as: 1927, without number (24 VI).

1927

June 27

Olya Okujava, furious with Galaktion, writes in her diary that she will spend time with Terenti Graneli because she has been in the beast's captivity for 10 years and can no longer endure it.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 478-480.

1927

June 30

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that a great literary, musical and artistic evening will be held in the tram club named after Chodrishvili and Ketskhoveri, in which, together with others, Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №146, p. 4.

July

1927

July 6

In the newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, a letter of Aleksandre Sulava is published, in which the literary bulletin “Galaktion” is considered inappropriate for the honour of Galaktion. The author of the article calls this bulletin “a false crown of meddlesome, mediocre panegyrics”.

Source: Al. Sulava, “On Literary Invalids”, Newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, №52, p. 4.

1927

July 11

Due to the fact that the state publishing house ensured the printing of his Book of poems on paper, a certain part of the circulation, according to the agreement, is given to the state publishing house.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 242.

Dating: An entry dated July 21, 1927 states that this happened 10 days earlier.

1927

July 15

Varlam Rukhadze’s “Short explanation” is published in the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba. The author writes that he did not dedicate a poem to Galaktion Tabidze but simply changed the title of an ordinary poem given to him for publication and published it as if it were dedicated to him.

Source: V. Rukhadze, “Short Explanation”, magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, 1927, №5, p. 182; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, № 159;

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is in the July 15, 1927 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1927

After July 15

He writes a note on the page for the readers of the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba. He categorically states that Varlam Rukhadze knew the content of the poem and intends to send it to the editor.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №241.

Dating: It is dated based on the publication time of the magazine issue it refers to.

1927

After July 15

He begins writing an untitled poem: “Oh, my Lyre, once you were...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №241.

Dating: The statement written on the same page is a response to the publication from July 15, 1927.

1927

Until July 20

He promises his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, that he will go to Chkvishi to visit his mother.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 158.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter of July 22, 1927 shows that, as promised, he should have arrived on "20th".

1927

July 21

He makes a note that 10 days ago he met writers at the state publishing house whose images (clothes and faces) demonstrated "terrible, unbearable, dead-beat poverty". According to the poet, poverty is a humiliating and terrible thing, which sometimes makes a person hate not only the whole humanity, but also himself. This is a real curse... Man himself becomes envious, evil.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 242.

1927

After July 22

He receives a letter from Abesalom Tabidze. The brother scolds him for breaking his word and not coming to Chkvishi on July 20, as promised. He writes that his mother is very upset about this. He asks him to pack his books, newspapers with his publications and come to the village for two weeks. He advises him to travel by train to Samtredia, and from there he will arrive in Chkvishi by stagecoach soon.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-315; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 158.

1927

After July 22

He writes poems titled "Songs of Companion" under the pseudonym 'Rimaneli'.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №395, p. 1-3.

Dating: The poems are dated 1927, Tobanieri, and by July 22 of that year, he had not yet visited his brother.

1927

July

Abesalom and Galaktion see Olya Okujava off on the train to Borjomi. Although Olya does not want to go and wishes to stay with Galaktion, his cold kiss at farewell makes her feel that his feelings have faded.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 482.

1927

July

While dining at the Borjomi hotel, Olya's attention is drawn to a young man who is constantly writing something. With his pale, melancholic face, white beaver hat, grey suit, and black tie, he instantly reminds her of Galaktion.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 483.

1927

July

He sends a letter to Olya in Borjomi.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 484.

1927

July

Olya is sitting in the dining room in Borjomi and reminisces about how happy she and Galaktion were there.

Source: O. Okujava's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 484.

August

1927

Mid-August or earlier

In Tbilisi, he receives a letter from Olya Okujava sent from Borjomi, in which she asks him to visit the Workers' and Peasants' Inspection and obtain information about her salary.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43-44.

Dating: In a letter dated August 1927, it is mentioned that this happened two weeks earlier.

1927

Until August 17

In his notebook, he writes down three different methods that help a person navigate their way out of a forest: observing the direction of the river, the orientation of the mountains, and noting which side of the trees is covered with moss.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 1;

1927

Until August 17

In his notebook, he writes that Javakhishvili is well-acquainted with the lives of priests and holy fools, which deserves further study.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 5;

1927

Until August 17

In his notebook, he writes down details from a play, one of the characters of which is Agnesa.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 6.

1927

Until August 17

He begins writing an untitled poem about the use of chemical weapons in the 19th century: “The only flaw of this poem is...” but stops at the second stanza.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 7.

1927

Until August 17

He writes a critical note about Vasil Nemirovich-Danchenko’s novel “On the Road to Happiness”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 8-9.

Note: He writes a critical note about Vasil Nemirovich-Danchenko’s novel “На пути к счастью”.

1927

Until August 17

He writes a critical note about Vasil Nemirovich-Danchenko’s novel “On the Road to Happiness”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 8-9.

1927

Until August 17

He stands in Tsemi and, when the train whistles in the small Tsemi, he observes its echo.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 11.

1927

Until August 17

He is at a workers’ retreat in Kechkobi and witnesses how 30 workers living on the upper floor make noise, ignoring the request of a woman living on the lower floor, who asks for quiet because her child has a 40-degree fever.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 12-13.

1927

Until August 17

In his notebook, he makes a note about the second volume of Korneli Kekelidze’s “History of Georgian Literature”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 14-15.

1927

Until August 17

In his notebook, he writes the word “Galaktionism”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 17.

1927

August 17

He is in Tbilisi, and upon leaving the house, he feels as though he is being hunted like a wolf. There is nowhere to escape, and all that remains is to ensure that his life does not come cheaply to anyone.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 19.

1927

August 17

On Rustaveli Avenue, he accidentally witnesses a young man being hit by a car. He is deeply shaken by the incident and is astonished by the indifference of the people around. They remain so calm, as if they were watching this tragedy in a movie theatre rather than in real life.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 21.

1927

August 17

In his notebook, he writes down the names of his relatives.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 27.

1927

August 17

In his notebook, he writes down the names of his relatives.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 27.,

1927

August 17

In his notebook, he makes a note about Chiang Kai-shek's resignation.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 27.

1927

August 17 or after

In his notebook, he makes a note about a certain decision made by Benito Buachidze, Demna Shengelaia, and Nikolo Mitsishvili.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №704, p. 33.

1927

August 30

He is resting in Borjomi with Olya Okujava and they agree that they will start writing a novel from the first of September.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 320, 321.

1927

August 30

He writes a poem “I want new roads”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №467; №1781; №4403; №5277; №5330; №6339; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 101.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled (“How many rivers are ravaged...”) and with the titles “Mountains, Olya’s mountains”, “To Olya”, and “Passenger’s song”.

1927

August or earlier

Abesalom, Galaktion’s brother, is threatened with dismissal from his position by the school administration and sends a letter to Olya asking for help from his acquaintances. Since Olya is not in Tbilisi, the letter is received by Galaktion, who is in Tbilisi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43-44

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter dated August 1927.

1927

August

He sends a letter from Tbilisi to Borjomi to Olya Okujava, apologizing for the delay in obtaining the requested certificate from the inspection. He explains that he thought it wasn’t very urgent and thus didn’t rush. Along with the letter and certificate, he sends his brother Abesalom’s letter, in which Abesalom asks for help to prevent his dismissal from the position of school principal.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43-44.

1927

August

Olya Okujava is resting by the sea. Unable to sleep at night, she recalls Galaktion’s poem “I and the Night”. In a dream, her sister Mania visits her and tells her that Galaktion did not wish to come to her. That night, a terrible storm begins, with water coming into the room and the wind howling, reminiscent of the way Galaktion describes it in his poetry.

Source: O. Okujava’s diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 480-482.

1927

August

In Tbilisi, Galaktion receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from Borjomi, in which Olya reproaches him for not obtaining a certificate about her salary from the Inspection. Galaktion immediately goes to get the certificate, but he finds that the verb relating to the salary is written in the past tense (“was receiving”) and is told that it was the same in the previous certificate as well.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43-44

Dating: This is discussed in a letter dated August 1927.

September

1927

After September 10

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who reports that despite Olya's efforts and the intervention of his acquaintances, Abesalom was removed from the position of school governor and a young agronomist was appointed instead.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-316; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 158, 159.

1927

September 10

In response to Varlam Rukhadze's "Short explanation", the reply of the editorial board of Galaktion Tabidze's Newspaper publishes a reply in the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba. It turns out that the poet himself did not participate in the preparation of the newspaper dedicated to Galaktion. Varlam Rukhadze submitted a poem for publication in this newspaper to its preparers, not to the poet himself. It appeared from Varlam Rukhadze's publication that the title of his poem was changed in this newspaper as if it was dedicated to Galaktion. In fact, the editors of the newspaper added the single word "poetry" to the title of Rukhadze's poem "Unbreakable power" and the poem was published under the title "Poetry's unbreakable power".

Source: In response to V. Rukhadze's Short Explanation, magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, (June-July), p. 312-313.

Dating: According to the newspaper Komunisti, this issue of the magazine was released on September 10.

October

1927

September-October

Benito Buachidze's letter is published in the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, in which it is said regarding Galaktion Tabidze that after the revolutionary mood, he again descended to the pessimistic mood.

Source: B. Buachidze, magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, August-September, №8, p. 253; 1927

After October 7

He writes a poem "Ghosts in front of Museum of the 7 October Revolution".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №980; №1405-1408; №2551; № 3423; №4293; №5636-5637; №8710; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 2016, p. 102.

Note: The poem can also be found untitled ("A fierce orchestra...") and with the titles: "Poet's meeting with the ghosts in the Museum of the Revolution, October 7", "Long live the world revolution" and "Poet's meeting with the ghosts in front of the Museum of the Revolution on November 7, 1927".

Dating: Dated according to the title of the poem.

1927

October 22

He visits Olya Okujava. His wife feels that Galaktion does not listen to her, does not comfort her, and is not sincere with her, and writes him a letter. In the letter, she expresses her concern that her feelings and efforts have been sacrificed to Galaktion's drunkenness and orgies. She believes that such a relationship has no meaning.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185-186.

1927

After October 22

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, in which Olya describes her heavy feelings. She says that all her vital strength and desire to fight have been depleted, and the reason for this is Galaktion's bad mood, inactivity, and egoism. Galaktion has replaced everything with drunkenness, dubious friends, and orgies. Olya asks to be freed from this false relationship.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-365; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 186-187.

1927

After October 22

On the letter dated October 22 from Olya Okujava, Galaktion writes in pencil that the author of the letter is not a woman but a witch.

Source: Olya Okujava's letter, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 186-187.

November

1927

November 13

The poem "Poet's meeting with the ghosts in front of the Museum of the Revolution on November 7, 1927" is published in the magazine Mnatobi under the signature "Galaktion".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1927, №10, p. 7-8; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, November 13, №257.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is given in the newspaper Komunisti of November 13, 1927.

1927

November 13

Platon Kikodze's article "October in Georgian literature" is published in the magazine Mnatobi, in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned as the best symbolist poet "fascinated by the October Revolution". The author of the article talks about the poem "John Reed" and the poem "We are poets of Georgia".

Source: Pl. Kikodze, "October in Georgian Literature", magazine Mnatobi, 1927, №10, p. 131-139; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, November 13, №257.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is in the newspaper Komunisti of November 13, 1927.

1927

November 20

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a notice that today, at eight o'clock in the evening, a ceremonial evening celebrating the tenth anniversary of the October Revolution will be held in the Palace of Arts, in which, together with other writers, Galaktion Tabidze will take part.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1927, №263, p. 3.

Note: According to the source, the following people will read their writings at the event: Gr. Robakidze, Abasheli, Grishashvili, V. Rukhadze, Ar. Tchumbadze, G. Kuchishvili, Paolo Iashvili, Titsian Tabidze, V. Gaprindashvili, R. Gvetadze, G. Leonidze, G. Tabidze, S. Shanshiashvili, M. Javakhishvili, K. Kaladze, Al. Mashashvili, Navtlugheli, K. Peodosishvili, S. Euli, I. Vakeli, P. Samsonidze, S. Chikovani, Chachava, D. Shengelaia, Abuladze, K. Lortkipanidze”.

1927

Until December

Noe Ramishvili, who is in exile, asks Valiko Chubinidze which Georgian writer it would be desirable to bring to exile to strengthen the anti-communist movement. Chubinidze names four persons in the following order: “Galaktion Tabidze, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Davit Turdospireli (Chkheidze) and Grigol Robakidze”. Ramishvili asks what Galaktion’s national activism is manifested in, to which Chubinidze talks about the poem published by Galaktion in 1924 about the August Uprising, which was followed by the destruction of the printed material.

Source: E. Nizharadze, “Grigol Robakidze”, 2014, p. 42-43.

Dating: According to recollection, the discussion on this issue continued at the meeting of Bureau held in December.

December

1927

After December 1

He reads John Reed’s Book “Ten Days That Shook the World”. He writes down the pages that are of interest to him next to the table of contents.

Source: GTSM, 182, Джон Рид, 10 дней, которые сотрясли мир, Moscow-Leningrad, 1927.

Dating: According to the date of the inscription dedicated by Shalva Okujava to Olya Okujava.

1927

December 31

Grigol Mushishvili’s speech delivered at the 5th Congress of the Communist Party of Georgia – “Situation of Modern Literature” is published in the magazine Mnatobi, in which Galaktion Tabidze is mentioned in a positive context. According to the speaker, he was once imbued with hopeless pessimism, but now his work shows a revolution and a readiness to accept a revolution.

The author of the article considers the poem “John Reed” and the poem “East” as a prerequisite for this.

Source: G. Mushishvili, “Situation of Modern Literature”, speech delivered at the 5th Congress of the Communist Party of Georgia, magazine Mnatobi, 1927, №11-12, p. 191; For dating: I. Grishashvili’s Library-Museum Catalogue, vol. 2, p. 228.

Dating: Date “1927. 31 XII”. is written on the copy of the magazine preserved in the library of Ioseb Grishashvili.

1927

December

He begins working on a cycle of poems titled “Epoch”, which he will submit to the magazine Mnatobi in 1928 as a completed work.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-179, 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 522.

1916-1927

He writes an untitled poem “I remember my childhood...”.

Source: MGL, a-1838, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 393; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130

1916-1927

He writes a poem “Portrait” (“His life is beautiful...”).

Source: MGL, a-1838; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130.

1916-1927

He writes an untitled poem “How your dream has grown cold...”.

Source: MGL, a-1639, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 265; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130.

1916-1927

He writes an untitled poem “In my soul, brilliance and radiance swirl...”.

Source: MGL, a-1678, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 292; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, “Utilization of Confirmed Characteristics Within a Short Time Interval Based on Autographs Preserved in the Literature Museum”, in the Book “Graphematic Research”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 130

1927

He writes an untitled poem “I remember my childhood”.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze’s archive, №5612; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 393,;

1927

He sends a letter to Ioseb Gogidze. He writes that he is returning the notebook of poems, which he studied carefully. He thinks that they are good poems, and they don’t need any correction because it will hurt them more. He apologizes for not replying in time.

Source: N. Tabidze, A Glimmer of Galaktion's Soul, newspaper Sitkva Kartuli, 1994, №3, 20 April, p. 1.

1927

Benito Buachidze writes a letter dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze entitled “New, high step”.

Source: B. Buachidze, A New, Higher Level, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 30.

1927

He takes a one-room apartment on Krylov Street, №10, where he lives until the beginning of 1936.

Source: I. Lortkipanidze, “Chronology of Galaktion Tabidze’s Life”, 1968, p. 174.

1927

Galaktion’s brother, Abesalom, is appointed as the head of the educational department of the eighth secondary school of the Tbilisi Railway and moves into an apartment with Galaktion.

Source: S. Kubaneishvili, Galaktion in his native village, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi. 1973, p. 286.

1927

He writes a poem “Our light is the colour of fire”.

Source: F.G. Chikobava, Galaktion and Art, Art, Tbilisi, 1959, №4, p. 31.

1927

Ilo Mosashvili writes a poem about Galaktion, in which he compares him to Alexander Pushkin.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, 291, p. 100; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 328.

Note: The title of the poem is not indicated in the record.

1927

Lydia Megrelidze dedicates a poem to him.

Source: G. Tabidze’s diary entry, 291, p. 192; G. Tabidze, AE, in 25 books, Book XVIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 328.

Note: The title of the poem is not indicated in the record.

1927

He sends a brief letter to someone named Sandro, informing him that he has reviewed two notebooks of poems by Ioseb Gogodze and believes they could be published, as he is an uneducated person, but his condition is good, and the publication would also promote literacy.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-272; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 61, 538.

1927

He writes the word “არიპიონი” (“Aripioni”) vertically on the page and attempts to match each letter with a word that aligns with the concept of this literary corporation. For the first three letters, he writes: “სხალი, რევოლუციონური, ინდუსტრიული” (new, revolutionary, industrial), and for the following letters “ფ” and “ო,” he writes a series of words to select the appropriate lexical units.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №238.

Dating: We date the founding year of the literary corporation “Aripioni”.

1927

He is familiar with the Russian edition of “Practical Course of the French Language”, making underlines and writing words in French.

Source: GTSM, 181, Практический курс французского языка, сост.: П. Шенсель, П. Гелзер, Kharkiv, 1922.

Dating: There is a note on the flyleaf “G. Tabidze, 1927”.

1927

Kola Guliashvili gifts his Book “The Master of the House and the Lodger” with the inscription: “To the talented Georgian poet Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: MGL, t-27, Kola Guliashvili, “The Master of the House and the Lodger”, a modern comedy in one act, Tbilisi, 1927.

1927

Olya Okujava gifts Alexander Blok’s Book “Unpublished Books. The History of One Letter” with the Russian inscription: “This shore from me to you, covered with fragrant grass, lilies, thistles, and chamomiles, these stormy waves, these rainbow days, the murmur of the springs, my mad love for you, and Blok’s book”.

Source: MGL, t-272, Александр Блок, “Неизданные стихи, История одного письма”, Tbilisi, 1927, a sheet of paper pinned to the back cover.

1927 or later

He writes a text in the third person, in which his twenty-year literary career is evaluated. The text notes that over the course of twenty years, Galaktion Tabidze was a contributor to around 50 Georgian magazines and newspapers, the editor of the first periodic organ of the Writers’ Union, Lomisi, the founder and main contributor of Mnatobi, and the publisher of his own organ, Galaktion Tabidze’s Journal. The poet participated in about 300 literary evenings. Around 500 articles and responses have been published about his work, with authors including: Nikoloz (Niko)

Marr, Akaki Tsereteli, Kita Abashidze, Ivane Gomarteli, Filipe Makharadze, Shalva Dadiani, Grigol Robakidze, and other well-known representatives of Georgian intelligentsia. Recently, a 500-page Book of the poet's work was published, covering roughly a quarter of his oeuvre. According to the record, critics characterize Galaktion with epithets such as: 'King of Poets', 'White King', 'Genius Galaktion' and 'Central Figure in Contemporary Poetry'.

Source: MGL, d-488, 9; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 415-416;

1927 or later

At one of the literary evenings, Alio Mashashvili reads his own phrase: "I and Galaktion are the tiger and the whirlwind of the poem". Galaktion does not like this poet's ambition to equalize with him and ironically tells him that it is great, but you should change one letter to write "მოვარდა" instead of "მე ვარ და".

Source: A. Khintibidze, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 309.

1927 or later

In the notebook, he writes on various topics and under each, he writes the corresponding titles of the poems.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №295, p. 1-2.

Dating: The most recent among the mentioned works are the poems written in 1927.

1928

January

1928

After January 4

He writes a detailed outline for a prose text, in which the main characters are a child and a dog named Batura.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №890, p. 1.

Dating: On the same page, there is an excerpt from the January 4, 1928 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1928

After January 4

On the page, he writes down the participants of the literary society meeting. The meeting is chaired by Mariam Orakhelashvili, with Grigol Mushishvili attending from the Central Committee. Present are the full membership of Aripioni, the Tsisperkantselis, as well as representatives from the Writers' Union, newspapers, proletarian literature, State Publishing House, and the university.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №890, p. 2.

Dating: On the same page, there is an excerpt from the January 4, 1928 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1928

After January 19

He receives a letter from Vasil Gorgadze, who greets on behalf of the members of Aripioni. He writes that the previous evening he was at Mikhail Okujava's house, where he met his wife Olya Okujava and learned her address. He informs that they are starting to print the almanac Aripioni and asks for the submission of materials by January 28. He inquires about the recipient's mother and brother.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-447; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 141.

1928

After January 19

The first issue of the magazine Aripioni is released. Among others, Galaktion Tabidze signs the application for the magazine's publisher, the literary corporation.

Source: "Aripioni", collection one, Tbilisi, 1928. p. 5-6.

Dating: From Vasil Gorgadze's letter to Galaktion dated January 19, 1928, it is clear that the first issue has not yet been released.

1928

January 29

He is in his native village of Chkvishi with his mother and brother, and he is ill.

Source: GTDA, №793.

Dating: The letter sent to Vasil Gorgadze on January 29 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1928

January 29

He writes a reply letter to Vasil Gorgadze. He regrets that he could not deliver the material to the collection Aripioni in time. He advises, if they have not selected the material well, not to rush the publication. He says that their group - Aripioni has a great future, and since its members have not taken any wrong "literary step" individually, they should think more about this joint step. He writes that he intends to return to Tbilisi in ten days, but if quick action is better, not to wait for him. He sends his regards to the "brothers" - members of Aripioni, rejoices that things are going well and asks the addressee to report the situation of the case as soon as he receives the letter. He sends greetings from mother and brother to the addressee's family members.

Source: GTDA, №793.

1928

January

At the first plenum of the All-Union Proletarian Writers' Association Council, Benito Buachidze delivers a report on contemporary Georgian literature. Among other Georgian writers, he also addresses Galaktion Tabidze's work and describes the poet as a sincere companion of the proletarian revolution.

Source: B. Buachidze, The Paths of Georgian Literature, magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1929, №3-4, p. 81.

March

1928

March 1

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a notice that today, at 6 o'clock in the evening, another literary meeting of the magazine's employees will be held in the editorial office of Mnatobi, which will be attended by Galaktion Tabidze, along with others.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1928, №50, p. 5.

Note: According to the source, the meeting should be attended by: A. Abasheli, V. Gaprindashvili, V. Gorgadze, V. Gabeskiria, S. Euli, N. Zomleteli, P. Iashvili, K. Kaladze, K. Kapanelli, S. Kasradze, S. Kldiashvili, I. Lisashvili, G. Leonidze, K. Lortkipanidze, V. Malakiashvili, A. Mashashvili, V. Mrevlishvili, L. Metreveli, I. Mosashvili, K. Nadiradze, Gr. Robakidze, V. Rukhadze, L. Kiacheli, G. Kikodze, A. Kutateli, G. Kuchishvili, D. Suliashvili, G. Tabidze, T. Tabidze, I. Tatishvili. I. Polumordvinov, S. Shanshiashvili, D. Shengelaia, S. Chikovani, B. Zhghenti, K. Tchintcharadze and Mikh. Javakhishvili”.

1928

Until March 9

He writes a poem “Oh, You Slut” (“You were growing up playful and mischievous...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №306, p. 2.

Dating: From the content, it is evident that the note was made before the Writers' Congress.

1928

Until March 9

Under the title “In the Union of Writers of All of Georgia,” he describes the electoral fervour before the congress. He writes that the Tsisperkantselis group is trying to gain an advantage over the Aripionists and Futurists and gives 45 votes to proletarian literature. He notes that the 30 votes given to academic literature were essentially given to the Tsisperkantselis group. Galaktion believes that if he is not present at the congress, the Tsisperkantselis members will attempt to establish their hegemony. In fact, the Writers' Union is already theirs.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №306, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is written on the reverse side of the same sheet, which also contains a text related to the Writers' Union, written before March 9, 1928.

1928

March 9

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a review letter “The Second Congress of All Georgian Writers”, which talks about the controversy surrounding Pilipe Makharadze's report. Geronti Kikodze speaks on behalf of the group Aripioni, whose member is Galaktion Tabidze and talks about the two remarks made to this group. Regarding the idealization of the past, he says that the members of Aripioni see many flaws in the past but also know that there is a great moral force that can be used for new creations. As for being accused of scepticism, according to the speaker, they have to live in such a difficult age that it is impossible to move forward without some scepticism, but at the same time they have even more enthusiasm, which is clearly visible in their writings.

Source: “The Second Congress of the Writers of All of Georgia”, Komunisti, 1933, №57 (2100), p. 2.

1928

March 28

Galaktion Tabidze’s wife, Olya Okujava, is expelled from the Communist Party for opposition activities.

Source: V. Javakhadze, “Stranger”, Tbilisi, 2013, p. 201.

1928

March 30

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a notice that at 6 o’clock in the evening in the editorial office of Mnatobi there will be a meeting of the literary circle of the magazine’s employees, which Galaktion Tabidze will attend along with others.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1928, №74, March 30, p. 4.

April

1928

April 3

He receives a letter from Irakli Topadze. He refers to Galaktion as a high priest of poetry and describes his 1927 collection of poems as a precious treasure of Georgian poetry. He specifically discusses the formal innovations of the texts included in this ‘selected collection,’ which distinguish the recipient from other poets.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 258, 259.

1928

April 7

Platon Kikodze’s letter “One Year of Georgian Literature (1927)” is published in the magazine Mnatobi. The author talks about the poems: “City under water” and “The poet’s meeting with ghosts in front of the Revolution Museum on November 7, 1927”. He considers that the second verse is weaker than the first one, besides, he does not like that Galaktion Tabidze imitates Akaki Tsereteli and writes only his first name, without his last name.

Source: Pl. Kikodze, “One Year of Georgian Literature”, Magazine Mnatobi, №3, p. 188, 189.

Note: The poem “The poet’s meeting with ghosts in front of the Revolution Museum on November 7, 1927” was published under the signature “Galaktion”.

Dating: Ioseb Grishashvili wrote on the cover of this issue of Mnatobi: “7 IV, 1928”.

1928

April 9

Shalva Radiani, the responsible secretary of the All-Georgian Federation of Writers, sends a letter of petition to the People's Commissariat of Social Security of All-Georgia to appoint an increased pension for Galaktion Tabidze, because he has been engaged in literary work for twenty years and is ill.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, № 65-66, p. 179.

1928

April 19

He meets Terenti Graneli in Alexandre's garden and they talk.

Source: T. Graneli, Selected, Tbilisi, 1979, p. 424.

Note: The part of Alexander's Garden is now called April 9th Garden.

1928

April 23

Sandro Shanshiashvili, as a member of the literary corporation "Aripioni", gifts his Book "Shota's Ring" with the inscription: "To Arip Galaktion Tabidze".

Source: MGL, t-604, Sandro Shanshiashvili, "Shota's Ring", the Book of ballads and legends, Tbilisi, 1928.

1928

April

In the journal Kartuli Mtserloba, an article by Besarion Zhghenti titled 'Aripioni' is published, which describes the activities of this literary association. According to the critic, the aesthetic credo of the group is heterogeneous and contradictory, as it includes creators of very different types, such as Mikheil Javakhishvili, Sandro Shanshiashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Leo Khiacheli, and others.

Source: B. Zhghenti, Aripioni, magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, 1928, №4, p. 104.

May

1928

May 5

In the annual publication Poeziis Dghe of the All-Georgia Soviet Writers' Federation, a poem titled "Great Fire in Kutaisi! Up to 300 Houses Have Burned! Nearly 5,000 Residents Left Homeless!" is published.

Source: Newspaper Poeziis Dghe, 1928, №1, p. 2.

Note: Later, this poem was published under the title "Fire in Kutaisi".

1928

May 5

He is at the “Iveria” hotel for the celebration of Poetry Day and is thinking about how to celebrate his own creative evening at the Opera House in a month. He plans to exhibit the Book cover’s cliché, the Russian translations of his poems, Sudeikin’s etching, and Benito Buachidze’s letter.

Source: Record, GTDA, №265

1928

May 23

He writes a short letter to Comrade Vano, who promised to hand over the apartment on the condition that he finds an empty apartment somewhere. Galaktion informs the addressee that with the help of his friends he has found a small, two-room apartment in a Soviet house, which will be vacated by June 1. He expresses hope that they will understand his situation and give him this apartment, because he is homeless and has a lot of work.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-64; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 61.

Note: The last name is not specified in the source and identification is not possible.

June

1928

Until June

He writes “Rose” as the title of the untitled poem “A rose opens for him...” and corrects the punctuation in a couple of places.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №13, p. 2; For dating: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1;

1928

Until June

He writes a poem “You are reading Twain”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №13, p. 2; For dating: List of poems, GTDA, №13, p. 1;

Note: The poem was published with the beginning “The steamer is whistling, you are reading Twain...” and the title “In the train”.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The sky over Metekhi is being illuminated”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, №5-6.

Dating: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, the publication of which was on June 16, 1928.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem titled “Morning” (“The cheerful tremor of morning wakes up the city...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №604, p. 1.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes an untitled poem: "The factory works, the wheel turns...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, N°604, p. 1.

Note: The verse is included in the poem "Epoch".

Dating: We date the poem "Epoch" based on its first publication. The title "Epic" is written on the autograph's page, which could possibly be the original title of the poem "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes an untitled poem: "The ripe fruit seductively ripens from the leaves...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, N°604, p. 1.

Dating: The poem is written on the same sheet that contains the poems included in the work "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes a quote on the page: "O tortured by heavy slavery, / death met you with favour," and above it, he notes that this was one of Lenin's favourite songs.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, N°604, p. 1.

Dating: The record is made on the same sheet that contains the poems included in the work "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes on the page that his mother needs to be taken to the doctor because she has side and leg pain. She also needs glasses and clothes.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, N°604, p. 3.

Note: It is not explicitly stated that the person being referred to is his mother, but from the context, it is clear that it concerns an elderly woman.

Dating: The record is made on the same sheet that contains the poems included in the work "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem titled "America" ("This is why the revolution happens...").

Source: Autograph, GTDA, N°355, p. 1.

Note: Later, the title is crossed out, the poem is revised, and it is included in the work "Epoch".

Dating: We date the poem "Epoch" based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem "It was born and grew up..."

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №357, p. 1.

Note: In the poem "Epoch", this episode begins with the words "The epoch was born and grew up..."

Dating: We date the poem "Epoch" based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes untitled separate stanzas on social-political themes.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №357, p. 3.

Note: In the poem "Epoch", this episode begins with the words "The epoch was born and grew up..."

Dating: We date the poem "Epoch" based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes stanzas of the poem "Where tens of thousands of numbers..."

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №357, p. 3.

Note: This episode is included in the poem "Epoch" under the title "The Internationale".

Dating: We date the poem "Epoch" based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes on the page the name and surname of the Belarusian opera singer Irma Yaunzen, who is on tour in Tbilisi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №357, p. 1.

Dating: The record precedes the verse that the poet included in the poem "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes that he has been working for five years in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №357, p. 1.

Dating: The record precedes the verse that the poet included in the poem "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem under the title "Aripioni Greetings".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №357, p. 3.

Dating: The record is on the second page of the verse that the poet included in the poem "Epoch".

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The Woman (in the name of) of the Soft Armchair” (“In the evening, mist will cover heavy London...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №355, p. 1.

Note: Later, the words “Oscar Wilde’s” are crossed out, “London” is replaced with “Mtatsminda,” and the setting is changed. The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He revises the poem “Bunch of Flowers” (“Once, beautiful, I don’t know what about...”) and titles it “The Thinking Worker at the Machine”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №171;

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes an untitled poem (“Sleep, Alvistana...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №224, p. 1.

Note: The text was later included in the poem “Epoch”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He transforms Heinrich Heine’s poem “Spring” into an original untitled poem: “The waves of the Mtkvari river are murmuring...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №22.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “There are cement nests in Kaspi” (“There are cement nests in Kaspi...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 1.

Note: The original title was “On the Establishment of a Cement Factory in Kaspi”. The poem is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published under the title “Large Reserve”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The Metal Factory in Didube” (“In Georgia, industrial...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 1.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published untitled, starting with “It covered the roads of Georgia...”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “In the Air” (“When the weaver takes the path away from the road...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the work “Epoch”, and separately it was published together with another poem under the title “Have You Observed the Whirling Winds?”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “Electron” (“Batteries, in which the electron is...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 3.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published under the title “The Age of the Electron”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a dialogue that took place during a meeting with two acquaintances.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 2.

Dating: The verse is written on the same sheet that contains the texts included in “Epoch” and we date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The Buzzing City” (“Have you marvelled at the spinning doors?..”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published together with another poem under the title “Have You Observed the Whirling Winds?”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “From the Locked Money Drawer” (“From the locked drawer of money...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published together with another poem under the title “By Day and Night”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “Hello! Garage!” (“By day and night, the telephones...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published together with another poem under the title “By Day and Night”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “In the Hotel” (“In this life, there is much poison...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published under the title “In This Life, There Is Much Poison”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “By the Ship” (“When the stevedores load the ships...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published untitled.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “In the Wings” (“The decorator is preparing the curtains...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published under the title “The Scene – The Breath is Quickened”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “On the Roofs” (“When I will build the docks someday...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published untitled.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The Railway Workshops” (“The railway workshops awaken...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 1.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published under the title (“The railway workshops awaken...”).

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “At the Exhibition!” (“At the exhibition stood a scale...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Dating: The poet combined other poems written alongside the text into the cycle “Epoch” and published them by June 16, 1928.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The Artist of Coloured Glass” (“In these colours, there is no salvation...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published together with another poem under the title “Coloured Glass”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

He writes a poem “The Mirror Factories” (“The glass bends over the glass...”).

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №399, p. 4.

Note: The verse is included in the poem “Epoch”, and separately it was published together with another poem under the title “Coloured Glass”.

Dating: We date the poem “Epoch” based on its first publication.

1928

Until June 16

The publication of the poem “Epoch” begins in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, №5-6; For dating: Newspaper Komunisti, № 138, p. 4.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is in the June 16 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1928

June 16

The newspaper Komunisti reports that the fifth issue of the magazine Mnatobi, which contains Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Epoch”, has been published and is on sale.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, № 138, p. 4.

1928

After June 16

Akaki Vasadze includes Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Epoch" in his stage repertoire. Galaktion repeatedly attends his performance in the opera house and likes it, but the actor is not completely satisfied with himself. He does not dare to read the poet's masterpieces: "The moon of Mtatsminda", "Blue Horses" and "Mary" in public until he once hears "The moon of Mtatsminda" read by Galaktion himself and masters his approach.

Source: A. Vasadze, Both in life and in death, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 215.

1928

Until June 26

Under the note "Recollection", he begins writing the poem titled "Letter to Maxim Gorky" ("My joy will be shaken by the inspiration of the calm..."), but he stops there.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №355, p. 2.

Dating: The text should be an earlier version of the poem "Memory of Gorky" and should have been written before it.

1928

June 26

The poem "Recollection about Gorki" is published in the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba.

Source: Magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, №5, p. 5.

Note: Later, the author published this work under the title "A passenger was waiting for a tram next to the pole".

1928

After June

He reads Banovani's (Despina Gelovani's) short story "I Will Seek Justice with Blood" in the magazine Mnatobi. Next to the title, he writes Maxim Gorky's phrase: "You cannot silence an idea with blood". He makes underlines and notes. He is interested in Svanetian customs, traditions, and terminology.

Source: MGL, t-531, magazine Mnatobi, 1928, May-June, №5-6, p. 80-105.

July

1928

July 8

Shalva Kashmadze (Sileo-Rean) dedicates his Book "From Autumn to the Storm" with the inscription: "To the esteemed and beloved poet Galaktion from the author. Tbilisi, 8/VII – 28".

Source: MGL, t-704, Sileo-Rean, "From Autumn to the Storm", Tbilisi, 1928;

1928

July 8 or later

On the counter-title of Shalva Kashmadze's gifted Book "From Autumn to the Storm", he writes untitled poems: "The Eternal Night of the Wife's Quarrel..." and "To the Church of Residents of Vani...".

Source: MGL, t-704, Sileo-Rean, "From Autumn to the Storm", Tbilisi, 1928; 1928

July 24

He meets Maxim Gorky, who came to Tbilisi together with Georgian writers, and takes a group picture with him.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-98, p. 131; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 296; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 141.

1928

July 24

Together with Georgian writers, he attends a banquet held in honour of Maxim Gorky, after which he talks to Maxim, the son of the Russian writer. He hears the conversation of Gorky, who characterizes Chola Lomtadze as a very talented writer.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-98, p. 131; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 296.

1928

July 24

At a banquet held in his honour at the Writers' Palace, Maxim Gorky greets Galaktion Tabidze with a phrase from his play "At the Bottom": "The man sounds proud" and then adds that Galaktion's name also sounds proud. He gifts him a Book with the inscription: "To Galaktion Tabidze, the poet with legendary grandeur". It is noted that Maxim Gorky was always reserved in his evaluations of others, and such praise was not even expressed about Vladimir Mayakovsky.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-177, p. 3-4; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 518; For dating and clarification of information: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 249-250.

1928

July 25

At the "Intourist" hotel, he meets Maxim Gorky along with other writers.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-177, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 518.

1928

July 27

He attends a festive evening held by the Tbilisi City Council in honour of Maxim Gorky at the Ordzhonikidze Club.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-177, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XVI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 518.

1928

After July 27

He receives a letter from Abesalom Tabidze. His brother writes that Galaktion is victorious in everything and will certainly achieve victory over wine as well. He asks him not to attend any meetings or events in an intoxicated state. On the same page, Abesalom separately addresses Olya Okujava, stating that despite her busyness, since fate has connected her with such a great man, she should try to ease his life's path. He requests that they visit at the end of August.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-353; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, p. 159-160; For dating: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, Narratives, Letters to Galaktion, Tbilisi, 1997, p. 143.

1928

July 28

He writes down information on protest movements occurring in Europe, specifically in England and Poland.

Source: MGL, d-551, 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 269.

1929

After July 28

He drafts a text for an informational announcement, stating that his poem "Epoch" will soon be published as a book. He notes that the Book includes poems written by the poet over the past year. The Book cover is designed by the artist Ioseb Sharleman.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-530, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 149; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 613.

August

1928

Until August 1

He is traveling by train from Tbilisi to Moscow to attend the 6th Communist International Congress. In the carriage, he meets an Azerbaijani boy, a student at the Transcaucasian University, and a Russian border soldier. They talk on the way and treat each other with the products they have taken on the trip or bought on the way. Galaktion looks out of the window at the destroyed and burnt villages of Azerbaijan, but he also sees the tireless work of the people and thinks that Baku will soon overtake Tbilisi in everything, if it has not already overtaken it. On the way, he buys and reads the Russian newspaper Molot.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 533;

1928

August 1

Upon arriving in Moscow, he sends a telegram to his wife, who is in Borjomi, along with Olya Okujava's sister, Mania. He informs them that he arrived safely.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 46, 47;

1928

After August 1

He buys Niko Lomouri's 16-page Book "Christian Lezgians" immediately after its release but is unable to read it.

Source: G. Tabidze's inscription on the Book cover, MGL, t-678, N. Lomouri, "Christian Lezgians", Tbilisi, 1928.

1928

After August 1

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from Borjomi to Moscow, urging him to live and continue the struggle for a magnificent, beautiful life where there will be no slavery. She encourages him to create an anthem for the world revolution, to visit all the museums, and to see the mausoleum of the great genius Lenin. She asks him to remember the places they used to visit together and sends her regards to her sister, Mania, expressing how much she misses them. Olya also mentions that his portraits are being sold in the kiosks of Borjomi and requests that he brings back a small souvenir from Moscow.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-361; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 187-188.

Dating: The letter is dated according to Galaktion's arrival time in Moscow.

1928

After August 1

In Moscow, he stays at the beautiful, spacious apartment of Shalva Okujava's wife, Ashkhen Nalbandian, and visits his wife's relatives.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 533.

Dating: Dated according to the time of arrival in Moscow.

1928

Until August 4

The magazine Mnatobi continues the publication of the poem Epoch.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, №7, p. 0-8; Newspaper Komunisti, August 04, №179.

Dating: The information about the magazine's release is in the August 4 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1928

August 4

The newspaper Komunisti reports that the magazine Mnatobi has been published, in which the poem "Epoch" is printed.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, August 4, №179;

1928

August 4

On the sheet of paper, he writes about the Communist International's call to workers and peasants to prepare for the transformation of a new world war into a global socialist revolution.

Source: MGL, d-551, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 270.

1928

August 5

He writes down information that demonstrations against imperialist war are taking place in German cities, and in Paris, there have been clashes between the police and peaceful demonstrators.

Source: MGL, d-551, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 270.

1928

August 5

In his notebook, he writes about his impressions from an orchestral music evening. He notes that he was surprised by the applause given not to the orchestra, which had performed its duties well, but to a mediocre singer. He reflects that there is no place for singers at a symphonic music concert, and it was evident that the musicians were frustrated with the intrusion of a singer into their performance.

Source: MGL, d-556, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 307-308.

1928

August 11

In Moscow, on the Theatre Square, he meets Shamshe Lezhava, who invites him to his home. Shamshe mentions that almost all the workers in the buffet carriages of the railway stations from Batumi to Leningrad are Georgians because it is a lucrative job. He also says that there are 1,500 Georgians living in Moscow, many of whom are involved in theft and robbery, and asks Galaktion to help address this problem.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-26, p. 26. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 533;

Dating: In the letter sent to Olya Okujava on August 12, it is mentioned that this happened the day before.

1928

August 12

From Moscow, he sends a letter to Olya Okujava in Borjomi, describing the strong impression made on him by Derbent, North Caucasus, Grozny, Beslan, Prokhladny, and Georgievsk. He is thrilled by how close the Caucasus Mountains and even Elbrus appeared.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 533.

1928

August 14

Mikhail Kakhiani, the Secretary of the Tbilisi Committee of the Georgian Communist Party, promises that in two weeks he will appoint him as a permanent collaborator for the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 335.

1928

August 30

In Moscow, he writes an untitled poem, "Fortune Could Not Oppress Me..."

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 185.

September

1928

Until September 1

He is in Moscow and participates in the work of the Sixth Communist International Congress.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 527.

1928

September 1

He sees an amazing dream - a big room full of books.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 333.

1928

After September 1

He travels with the delegates of the Comintern of the 6th Congress to the cities of Donbass, Ukraine and the North Caucasus. During the trip, he becomes friends with the General Secretary of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia, Antonin Zapototsky, and his wife Maria, who are among the delegates. He invites them to Georgia.

Source: G. Tabidze, Autobiography, MGL, d-659, p. 3; AE, in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 452. P. Nishnianidze, Galaktion's Several Meetings with the Working People of Georgia, Tbilisi, 1960, p. 139-144.

1928

After September 1

He accompanies Antonin Zapototsky and his wife Maria, who came to Georgia at his invitation, and they visit the sights of Georgia. This fact is covered by the newspaper Zarya Vostoka.

Source: P. Nishnianidze, Galaktion's Several Meetings with the Working People of Georgia, Tbilisi, 1960, p. 144.

1928

After September 1

Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Epoch", dedicated to the delegates of the Sixth Congress of the Comintern, is published.

Source: P. Nishnianidze, Galaktion's Several Meetings with the Working People of Georgia, Tbilisi, 1960, p. 144.

1928

September

The publication of the poem "Epoch" continues in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, №8-9, p. 29.

1928

September or later

He writes a statement in the name of the secretary of the Tbilisi Committee of the Communist Party of Georgia, Mikheil Kakhiani, and reminds that during his stay in Moscow, he talked about his decision to become a permanent employee of the magazine Mnatobi due to his difficult financial situation. Although he was losing royalties on material published in the magazine by taking this step, a steady salary was vital to him.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-270; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94;

1928

After September

He makes a note that Leo Tolstoy greatly loved listening to the Fifth Symphony.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-526, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138;

1928

After September

He makes an excerpt from Ilya Chkonia's recollections about Alexandre Kazbegi, which states that the editorial board of the newspaper Droeba did not ask the writer to submit completed works. They were even willing to publish individual chapters.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-526, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 613.

October

1928

Until October

He writes an untitled poem "The story that Jack London has".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-3, 7, p. 40 (3737); G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. IV, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 123.

1928

October 2

The publication of the poem “Epoch” continues in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, №8-9, p. 29-40.

Dating: According to the newspaper Komunisti (October 2, №228), №8-9 issue of Mnatobi.

1928

October 2

Shalva Radiani’s letter “Literary companions in Georgia (Galaktion Tabidze)” is published in the magazine Mnatobi, which reviews the poet’s creative path; It is said that Galaktion’s worldview is not unified; The poet’s lyrics are divided into two parts: before and after 1917. According to the works of the last period, he notes that Galaktion is a literary companion of the proletarian revolution.

Source: Sh. Radiani, Literary Companions in Georgia (Galaktion Tabidze), Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, № 8-9, p. 195-206.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is given in the October 2 issue of the newspaper Komunisti.

1928

October 21

A meeting of the members of Aripioni is held, which is attended by: Mikheil Javakhishvili, Levan Metreveli, Sandro Shanshiashvili, Leo Kiacheli, Shalva Dadiani, Petre Kavtaradze, Ilo Mosashvili, Davit Suliashvili, Konstantine Kapaneli, Geronti Kikodze, Vaso Gorgadze and Ioseb Tatishvili. Mikheil Javakhishvili comes up with the initiative that the employees of Aripioni should develop their own spelling, which implies the restoration of the old Georgian “iota” and “m” prefix. During the voting, Galaktion abstains, while the votes of the others are split exactly down the middle. At the meeting, they also discuss what the group’s magazine should be, how strong their relations will be and what effect the existence of Aripioni will have on the general literary processes. At the end of the meeting, they agree that they will meet in Kakheti two days later.

Source: MGL, d-29, p. 1-3. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 344-345;

1928

October 23

In Kakheti, a meeting is held in the house of Ilo Mosashvili, which is attended by ten people from Aripioni and Grigol Mushishvili, in addition to the host and Galaktion Tabidze. They feast, drink Matchari and talk about literature.

Source: MGL, d-29, p. 1-3; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 344-345;

1928

October 24

He meets Leo Kiacheli in Tbilisi and shares his opinion that it would be good if Aripioni had its own newspaper. They then share this wish with Sandro Shanshiashvili, who visited them. Sandro tells them that he was thinking of the same thing. They decide to definitely raise this issue at the next meeting of Aripioni.

Source: MGL, d-29, p. 1-3. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 344-345;

November

1928

November 22

The publication of the poem “Epoch” continues in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1928, №10, p. 9-16.

Dating: I. Grishashvili had this issue of the magazine on November 22 (see I. Grishashvili’s Library-Museum Catalogue, Vol. 2. Part 1, p. 230).

December

1928

Second half of December

His brother Abesalom arrives in Tbilisi and wants to meet with Galaktion, but he does not know his current address, he cannot find it anywhere, and he leaves a letter for him with Olya Okujava.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter, h-24551-317; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze’s letter of January 25, 1929 states that this happened a month ago.

1928

Tengiz Zhghenti’s letter “Some episodes from political work after 1905” is published in the magazine Revolutsiis Matiane, which talks about how they organized a meeting of social democrats in Kutaisi, which was called Galaktion’s literary evening to disguise its real content, and a part of the income from the event was given to the latter. Most of the participants in the evening were supporters of the Social Democrats, while some, for example Ia Ekaladze, participated in the evening only due to respect for Galaktion.

Source: T. Zhghenti, “Some Episodes from Party Work After 1905”, “Revolutionary Chronology”, 1928, №2, 19 (209), p. 134-135.

1928

He gets acquainted with Ioseb Megrelidze in Tbilisi.

Source: I. Megrelidze, Galaktion’s Jubilee in Leningrad, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 234.

1928

He writes a poem “Poem is good”.

Source: G. Chikobava, Galaktion and Art, Art, Tbilisi, 1959, №4, p. 32.

1928

Varlam Khurodze’s book, The Thematic Analysis of Georgian Literature from the XIX Century to the February Revolution, is published, which includes a chapter dedicated to Galaktion Tabidze. The author notes that Galaktion differs from any contemporary Georgian poet, perceiving reality in a manner similar to Baratashvili. Khurodze points out that Galaktion could not adapt to the revolutionary reality and his melancholy intensified. Since Galaktion is still a young poet, the author does not rule out the possibility that he might transform in the future.

Source: V. Khurodze, Thematic Discussion of Georgian Literature from the XIX Century to the February Revolution, 1928, p. 207-208.

1928

He reads Giorgi Eristavi's Book "The Lawsuit". Above the title on the title page, he writes: "Capital in the hands of the feudal lord" and makes underlines.

Source: GTSM, 252, G. Eristavi, "The Lawsuit", Tbilisi, 1928.

1928

Leo Kiacheli gifts his Book "The Noble Woman Maia" with the inscription: "To Galaktion Tabidze, the author".

Source: MGL, t-201, Leo Kiacheli, "The Noble Woman Maia", Tbilisi, 1928.

1928

The poem "The moon of Mtatsminda" is printed in the collection "Little Lyre".

Source: Collection "Little Lyre", 1928, p. 92.

1928 or later

He highlights the lines of Leo Kiacheli's gift Book "The Noble Woman Maia" makes emphasis on the lines.

Source: MGL, t-201, Leo Kiacheli, "The Noble Woman Maia", Tbilisi, 1928, p. 5-7, 14-15, 22-25.

1928 or later

He writes a feuilleton "International".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №306, p. 2.

Dating: From the content, it is clear that the Soviet Union has taken a course towards industrialization, which began in 1928.

1928 or later

In Andrei Bely's Book "The Wind from the Caucasus", he highlights certain points.

Source: MGL, t-266, Андрей Белый, "Ветер с Кавказа", Moscow, 1928.

After 1928

He writes a poem "Church poems".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 393; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 414.

1928 or later

He reads a collection of poems by Grigol Orbeliani. He highlights and comments on Vakhtang Kotetishvili's introductory letter. He notes that this generation of poets was saddened not only by the loss of Georgia's political independence and the establishment of Russia's police regime but also by the looming downfall of the feudal lords, who were losing their estates, palaces, and old comforts, which was reflected in their works. He deduces Grigol Orbeliani's birth year - 1801- from the letter's claim that he wrote the poem "The Portrait of Queen Tamar in the Betania Church" at the age of 76. Using this date, he subtracts it from the years indicated in the Book for each poem and calculates how old the poet was when he wrote each one.

Source: GTSM, 216, Grigol Orbeliani, poems, Tbilisi, 1928.

Note: He miscalculates Grigol Orbeliani's birth year, as the poet was actually born in 1804.

1928 or later

He writes a poem "A Lion with an Ox in Its Teeth" ("By the fence stood a strong mule-ox...").

Source: MGL, a-1714, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 317; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 481.

1929

January

1929

Beginning of January

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, sent from Tbilisi to Tbilisi. She asks him to reflect on the years past, on what he has gained from the friends with whom he spent time and the life he lived. She advises him to return to his dear pen and continue the fight against evil. She requests that he come to see her the next day and let her know if he is ready for this, as otherwise, Olya feels she can no longer live.

Source: Olya Okujava's letter, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 188-189.

Dating: The letter shows that the year 1929 has just begun.

1929

After January 1

He begins working on the untitled poem "I am leaving for a few days...".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №134-a, p. 3754; №5567; №6555; №3320; №5492; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. VI, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 125; For dating: G. Tabidze, AE, vol. VII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 558.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles "At the Visit" and "Evening".

1929

After January 1

Olya Okujava visits Galaktion at his apartment. Finding him not at home, she leaves a letter. In the letter, she writes that in the new year, 1929, Galaktion should reflect on his life, distance himself from the society that drags him to the bottom, and rekindle his friendship with his pen, as this friendship fosters great love and fights against evil. She requests that he visit her the next day at 16 Railway Station Street and tell her about his future plans. She also mentions that she sent New Year's greetings to his brother on their behalf. She would have liked to think they were together, which would have pleased her, but in reality, Galaktion spent the New Year with others.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-367; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 188-189.

1929

January 14

The publication of the poem "Epoch" is completed in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, № 11-12 (November-December), 1928, p. 5-10.

Dating: I. Grishashvili had this issue of the magazine on January 14, 1929 (see I. Grishashvili's Library-Museum Catalogue, Vol. 2. Part 1, p. 230).

1929

After January 18

He makes a record about literary companionship. He points out that this term is a calque from Russian and that its use is entirely inappropriate when referring to literature. He considers the concept of companionship as a Trotskyist perspective, according to which the companion follows the traveller up to a certain stage and may even abandon them halfway through the journey. Galaktion believes that this term is unsuitable and, moreover, offensive to Georgian writers, whose sincerity he does not doubt.

Source: MGL, d-626, p. 28; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 230-231;

1929

After January 18

He writes an untitled poem "Comrades! The enemy has appeared!".

Source: MGL, d-626, p. 28; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 231;

1929

After January 25

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, who informs him that he got married to a woman who works with him as a teacher. He writes that he made fireplaces at home. He is interested in how Galaktion and Olya are doing and what kind of financial situation they have.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-317; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160.

1929

January 29 or later

He writes a letter to Olya Okujava, notifying her that a talented, attractive, intelligent elderly woman poet, extraordinary translator of Alexander Griboedov, Dominika Eristavi, has died. Galaktion is heartbroken when he remembers the phrases with which the deceased lauded him in her last letter: "He is a great poet, with great ordeals and most tender ability of narrating", "He is a unique phenomenon in our life", "The nation should treat him with the delicate feeling".

Galaktion reminds Olya that she knew this lady and asks her to bring flowers or a wreath with the inscription: "From Olya Okujava" to the deceased.

Source: MGL, 14551-52; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 47, 48.

Note: Dominika Eristavi is mentioned in the source under the pseudonym "Gandegili".

Dating: Dated according to the time of death of Dominika Eristavi.

1929

January 30

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 406.

1929

January 30

A literary meeting with the workers is held in the grand hall of the Workers' Palace, where Platon Kikodze in his report "Georgian Artistic Poetry and Prose in 1928" celebrates the great achievements of Galaktion Tabidze. He also praises Pridon Naroushvili and criticizes others.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 406.

1929

January 30

In his diary, he writes that he is penniless.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 406.

1929

January 31

He attends a meeting at the Writers' Palace, which is attended by around twenty writers but is held in a rather dull atmosphere. Galaktion is satisfied with the attitude others show towards him.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 406.

1929

January 31

He writes in his diary that he is still penniless.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 406.

February

1929

January 31 - February 1

He spends the whole night engrossed in reading Charles Dickens's novel Great Expectations.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary entry, MGL, d-626, 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 223-224.

1929

February 1

In the morning, still under the impression of Charles Dickens's novel Great Expectations read the previous night, the sunlight streaming through the window fills him with an indescribable joy, and he kisses the windowpane. Suddenly, this scene is witnessed by Galaktion's mother, who, concerned, asks if he has lost his mind. Galaktion can only manage to utter two words: "Great Expectations". These words convey nothing to his mother, who is momentarily relieved. Galaktion feels guilty and the sunlight no longer seems so magnificent.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary entry, MGL, d-626, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 223-224.

1929

February 1

He writes down in his diary that he bought apples, walnuts, cigarettes, matches, cheese, eggs and bread, but there was no money left. He is worried that he has no hope for anyone or anything.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 406.

1929

February 4

He appeals to the Writers' Union of All Georgia to give him a certificate of union membership and unemployment.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551-110; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 95.

1929

February 4

He appeals to the publishing house "Shroma" to publish his selected writings. He promises to present the material taken from books I, II and III for this purpose.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551-110; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 95.

1929

After February 4

He addresses a statement to the publishing house Shroma and requests that 100 roubles be added to the account of his Book submitted for publication.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551-247; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 135; 1929

February 9

He receives a membership and unemployment certificate from the Union of Writers of All Georgia.

Source: Sh. Baramidze, "In the Constellation of Genius Poets", Historical Bulletin, 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 181.

1929

February 14

He turns to the “art management” for help. In the statement, he describes in detail his achievements and merits to Georgian literature, he discusses the constant cooperation with magazines and newspapers, the volume and content of the books already published and to be published, he emphasizes that he has been recognized by critics as a first-rate poet since his appearance on the literary arena. At the same time, he notes that he spent the period of the 1917 revolution in Moscow and Petrograd, and this circumstance gave him the opportunity to take a step to create revolutionary poetry in Georgia, but the same circumstance made him physically ill; The hunger, homelessness, lack of clothing of the following years completely destroyed him, and even now he is deprived of all means of physical existence. On top of such a catastrophic situation was his illness, which does not allow him to quietly serve his beloved work. It is hoped that their care for the servants of art and, also, the 20th anniversary year of his appearance in the literary arena, will give him the opportunity to organize the last days of his life, at least a little humanely.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551-112; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 95.

Note: The statement was sent to the Chairman of the Federation of Soviet Writers - Silibistro Todria for a response.

1929

February 15

He writes a brief letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, congratulating her on the marriage of her eldest son. He informs her that he is expecting the publication of a new book, sends regards from Olya Okujava, and promises to visit soon.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №24551.5; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 8;

March

1929

March 22

He is sick and has no money, he cannot pay for water and apartment rent. He has not received a response from the “art headship” regarding the payment for the 20th anniversary of his work, nor has he received a response from the State Publishing House about the publication of “Epoch”, nor has he been informed about cooperation from Mnatobi. The publishing house “Shroma” agrees to publish selected poems, although this Book will be published after a few months, and before that he may lose his apartment due to poverty or may die of hunger. The processing of “Epoch” has begun. He sits in the reading room all day, then wanders in the streets. It’s snowing. He walks down Plekhanov Avenue to Vorontsov Bridge, meets Lau Sortel, who speaks to him and offers to drink with his acquaintances. They drink with coffin makers and gravediggers. He feels that he has reached this situation because of hunger. Returning home, intoxicated, he writes that no one respects him in this house, number 10 Krylov.

Source: MGL, d-624-1; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 164-167.

1929

After March 22

He becomes a permanent employee of the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94;

1929

After March 22

He applies to the Union of Education Workers to be elected as a member of this organization. Attached to the application is a notice about his monthly income in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94;

1929

March 23

In the morning, he goes to the art department, where he finds out that there is no answer to his application; Then he goes to the reading room for newspapers; He meets Beno Gordeziani, whom he talks to about the founding of a Georgian weekly newspaper. Beno tells him that they won't give him consent because it's a very difficult situation. He says that in Moscow the "Left-wingers" were forbidden to even write their last name under the articles. Galaktion is outraged. Gordeziani says that at such times it is necessary to be patient, because the situation will definitely change.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 167, 168.

1929

March 24

He has not eaten for two days; In the morning, he walks along Rustaveli Avenue, returns home, starts working on his chosen poems; At night, in a dream, he sees Stalin and Trotsky together, and he himself carries a huge train from the plain to the mountain with his own hands. He thinks that even this dream is better than reality. "The world is covered only with black, terrible reality" and the poor poet does not know what to do.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 168.

1929

Until March 31

The magazine Mnatobi publishes a poem written for the 5-year existence of the magazine Mnatobi. There is also a bibliography of the materials printed in this magazine from February 1924 to March 1925 and which poems of Galaktion Tabidze were published during this period. The list includes poems: "Wind", "East", "John Reed", "We, the poets of Georgia", "Memories of the days when it glimpsed", "1917", "This is the hum of the entire era", "One hundred poems", "A poem about a tiger", "Cosmic Orchestra", "The poet's meeting with the ghosts in front of the Revolutionary Museum on November 7, 1917", "Epoch", as well as the poem written to celebrate the five-year existence of Mnatobi. Gobron Agareli's review of the poem "John Reed" is also included in the list.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1929, №2-3 p. 3-4, 291-292.

Note: This poem dedicated to the magazine Mnatobi was later printed under the title “To our light”. “City under water” is missing from the list of poems published in Mnatobi.

Dating: Information about the release of this issue of the magazine is given in the March 31 newspaper Komunisti.

April

1929

April

A translation of a fragment of Galaktion’s poem “John Reed” is published in the Russian magazine Na Rubezhe Vostoka.

Source: Г. Табидзе, Джон Рид, “На рубеже востока”, №4, стр. 16-18.

Dating: This was a monthly magazine and the fourth issue was usually due out in April.

1929

April

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, Benito Buachidze’s article “Paths of Georgian Literature” is published, where the author reviews contemporary Georgian literature. According to Buachidze, contemporary Georgian literature cannot be fully classified as Soviet literature. The critic describes the literary groups existing in Georgia during the 1920s. Regarding Galaktion, Buachidze notes that he is a sincere companion of the proletarian revolution, reminiscent of Alexander Blok. Although Galaktion is less adept at reflecting the socialist construction process, the poet strives towards an organic assimilation of modernity. According to the critic, this fact already places him among the leftist companions.

Source: B. Buachidze, The Paths of Georgian Literature, Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1929 №3-4, p. 90.

1929

After April

He requests the Abkhazian SSR Writers’ Union to ensure the publication of John Reed in Russian. He informs them that the author has granted the rights for the first Russian edition of the mentioned poem to its translator, Elene Shervashidze, who was published under the pseudonym “Sheri”.

Source: MGL, h-24551-161; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 96.

Dating: This should have occurred after the publication of the poem’s excerpt in the magazine, as materials were typically published in magazines before being released as books.

May

1929

Until May 1

A neighbouring military officer requests that Galaktion move from his room with a private bathroom to the officer’s smaller room.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 169-171.

Dating: From the entry made in the diary after May 1, 1929, it can be seen that this soldier introduced his request for the exchange of rooms earlier.

1929

1 May

He attends the May Day parade and thinks that the event is carried out in a mediocre way, the demonstrators go silently, frowning, morose. This is a force-pulled mass. The head of the militia asks the singers to sing in Omakhian style, but they fail. There is no festive mood.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 169-171.

1929

After May 1

In the evening, on Krylov Street, a military man next door comes to him and categorically demands that Galaktion exchange his large room with a bathroom for a small room without a bathroom. To Galaktion's answer that Olya does not agree, the soldier replies that Olya's brother Shaliko, thanks to whom they are in this apartment, is in the know, and Olya can't do anything because she and Galaktion are not soldiers. If they do not agree willingly, they will have to move by force. The neighbour says that he has been in the military service for 6 years and deserves a better life. He warns that Galaktion and Olya's intention to add a second room at the expense of the balcony will not work, because the neighbours will support him. The military person constantly repeats that refusing on their side is a violation of communist ethics and thus tries to intimidate Galaktion.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 169-171.

Dating: The diary entry indicating this incident is dated after May 1st.

1929

After May 1

Pavle Sakvarelidze opposes the publication of Galaktion's book. Galaktion is surprised because poems by Alexander Blok, Sergey Yesenin and Nikolai Gumilyov are being published in Russia. He thinks that this is the fault of this little official. He is surprised because the academician Nikolai Marr appreciates him, the whole country appreciates him, and who is this Pavle Sakvarelidze, that in order to demonstrate his power, he says that this Book cannot be published in the Georgian language.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 169-171.

Dating: This entry is dated after May 1st in the diary.

1929

Until May 6

On May 6th, he writes a plan for a literary evening, selecting the poems to be read. He thinks the evening should be staged like a play, planning to arrange decorations and to enhance the event with musical, ballet, or pantomime performances.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-587, p. 9; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 457-458.

1929

May 7

He makes a note that in a short time, it will be 15 years since the beginning of World War I, and since then humanity has been living in trenches.

Source: MGL, d-628, p. 24; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 300; Information for clarification: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 22.

1929

May 13

At 7 o'clock in the evening, together with other representatives of the delegation of Georgian writers, he participates in the Baku radio program and reads the poem "We, Poets of Georgia" in Russian.

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Georgian Writers in Baku, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 3.

Note: The list of participants in the radio program is presented in the newspaper as follows: S. Euli, P. Iashvili, K. Lortkipanidze, T. Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze and I. Grishashvili.

1929

May 16

Galaktion Tabidze, along with a delegation of Georgian writers, is leaving for Baku in the middle of the night to attend the week of cultural unity of Transcaucasian nationalities.

Source: Georgian Writers in Baku, Newspaper Komunisti, May 17, 1929, №110, p. 3.

1929

May 17

Galaktion Tabidze, together with the delegation of Georgian writers, arrives in Baku after an eighteen-hour train journey, where they have a grand welcoming and are accommodated in the "New Europe" hotel.

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Georgian Writers in Baku, Newspaper Komunisti, June 07, 1929, №128, p. 3.

1929

May 17

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that on May 16, Galaktion Tabidze went to Baku with a delegation of Georgian writers to attend the week of cultural unity of Transcaucasian nationalities.

Source: Georgian Writers in Baku, Newspaper Komunisti, May 17, 1929, №110, p. 3.

Note: The delegation of Georgian writers is represented in the newspaper in the following order: G. Robakidze (Chairman), M. Javakhishvili, Paolo Iashvili, Titsian Tabidze, A. Tchumbadze, Galaktion Tabidze, I. Grishashvili, G. Kuchishvili, S. Shanshiashvili, N. Mitsishvili, D. Shengelaia, S. Chikovani, K. Lortkipanidze, A. Mashashvili, B. Buachidze, I. Vakeli, S. Abasheli, B. Zhghenti, Sh. Radiani (secretary of the delegation) and Aras.

1929

May 18

In the magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, Besarion Zhghenti's letter is published for "Cultural Unity of Transcaucasian Peoples", in which it is mentioned that the radio station of Baku organized a radio program with the participation of Georgian writers and Galaktion Tabidze read poems together with others.

Source: B. Zhghenti, "For the Cultural Connection of the Peoples of the South Caucasus", magazine Kartuli Mtserloba, 1929, №5 (May), p. 66.

June

1929

Until June 1

He listens to someone's forceful report on the global situation. The discussion is about class struggle in capitalist countries, and as an example, the new wave of the Bombay fakirs' uprising is mentioned.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 1; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

Until June 1

In his notebook, he writes a poetic phrase: "Proud of being Georgian...".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

Until June 1

In the garden, he overhears a 6-7-year-old girl talking to her mother. The child sees the gardener watering the garden and wishes to be grass herself.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

Until June 1

In his notebook, he makes an entry titled "Preparations for War Against the Soviet Union". The entry discusses the provocative actions of the fascists in Poland, the attack on the Soviet consulate in Harbin, China.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

In his notebook, he writes Titsian Tabidze's phrase: "What am I less than anyone?" and responds ambiguously, "No one, no one".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 2; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

He is interested in the origin of the word “clock”. He writes that Edgar Allan Poe’s “The Raven” is essentially a clock, and our entire life is a clock. He then writes various pieces of information about clocks, including references to works by Charles Baudelaire, Knut Hamsun, Marcel Proust, Edgar Poe, Théophile Gautier, and Johann Wolfgang Goethe. He recalls different clocks: Sudeykin’s painting at Café Chimera, his father’s clock, the clocks of Vazha, Ilia, and Akaki, the clock at the Kremlin, the one at Freedom Square in Yerevan, the clock at the German church, the post and telegraph building, the train station, and others.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 5-9; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

He writes an untitled poem: “Hello! – with my voice – Tbilisi is speaking...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 7-9; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

He writes information in Russian from the radio newspaper about the new radio transmission line in Tbilisi.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 8; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

He writes an untitled poem: “There were Calends, but in Calends...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 14, 16; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

He creates a plan for a literary evening, which will involve artists and musicians.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 22; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

After June 1

He writes an untitled poem: “Fate, my denial will cost you dearly...”.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 27; For dating: M. Ninidze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, 1929

After June 1

He creates a plan for an exhibition. He wants all his books, every magazine and newspaper with his publications and articles about him, as well as all portraits, to be displayed.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №272, p. 22; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 630.

1929

June 5

In the evening, together with delegations of Georgian and Azerbaijani writers, he leaves for Yerevan.

Source: Departure of the Georgian and Azerbaijani writers' delegations to Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, 1929, 6 June, №127, p. 3.

1929

June 6

The newspaper Komunisti publishes the information that Galaktion Tabidze, together with the delegations of Georgian and Azerbaijani writers, left for Yerevan on June 5. The Chronology says that after 3-4 days, the delegation of all three Transcaucasian countries will arrive together in Tbilisi, where the week of rapprochement of writers of Georgia, Azerbaijan and Armenia will be held.

Source: Departure of the Georgian and Azerbaijani writers' delegations to Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, 1929, 6 June, №127, p. 3.

Note: The delegation of Georgian writers is represented in the newspaper in the following order: G. Robakidze (Chairman), Sh. Radiani (Secretary), T. Tabidze, Nik. Mitsishvili, M. Javakhishvili, S. Abasheli, S. Shanshiashvili, Aristo Tchumbadze, L. Kiacheli, G. Kuchishvili, G. Tabidze, Demna Shengelaia, S. Chikovani, S. Euli, P. Samsonidze, I. Grishashvili, K. Lortkipanidze, I. Vakeli and Araz.

1929

June 7

He attends a cultural bonding evening and concert in the hall of the Yerevan House of Culture and then tours the factories and the university.

Source: Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 2.

1929

June 7

He attends an evening of cultural unity and a concert in the hall of the Yerevan House of Culture.

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 2.

1929

June 8

Together with a delegation of Georgian writers, he visits Yerevan's factories and the university complex.

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 2.

1929

June 9

Together with the delegation of Georgian writers, he visits the Etchmiadzin monastery, the library and the collective farms of Armenia.

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 2.

1929

June 9

In the article "Georgian Writers in Baku" published in the newspaper Komunisti, Vano Tsulukidze singles out a poem read by Galaktion Tabidze in the Baku radio program, the fundamental principle of which is conveyed in the words: "We, the poets of Georgia, sing to the whirlwinds of the revolution".

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Writers of Georgia in Baku, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 3.

1929

June 10

Together with a delegation of Georgian writers, he visits the Armenian city of Kamarliu (present-day Artashat) in the morning, and in the evening, he travels to Leninakan, where he visits a textile factory and a hydroelectric power station.

Source: V. Tsulukidze, Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 09, 1929, №130, p. 2.

1929

June 11

In the morning, together with Georgian, Azerbaijani and Armenian writers, he visits the city of Leninakan, where they hold a big meeting, and at 10 o'clock in the evening, the delegations of these three Transcaucasian countries leave for Tbilisi.

Source: Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 12, 1929, №132, p. 2.

1929

June 12

In the morning, together with the delegations of Georgian, Azerbaijani and Armenian writers, he arrives in Tbilisi, where they are given a grand welcome at the station and a rally is held.

Source: Writers of Georgia and Azerbaijan in Armenia, Newspaper Komunisti, June 12, 1929, №132, p. 2.

July

1929

July 3

Davit Gabruashvili gifts his Book “My Lyre” with the inscription: “To my dear friend Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: MGL, t-34, D. Gabruashvili, “My Lyre”, Book three, Tbilisi, 1929.

1929

July 3 or later

He makes underlines and comments on the verses in Davit Gabruashvili’s gifted Book “My Lyre”.

Source: MGL, t-34, D. Gabruashvili, “My Lyre”, Book three, Tbilisi, 1929, p. 4-10.

1929

Until July 28

He writes an untitled poem “Can no longer set a trap...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №941; №4343; №2699; №8378-8379; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. VI, Tbilisi, 1968, p. 304; For clarification of information: G. Tabidze, AE, vol. VII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 684.

Note: The poem is also found under the following titles: “The Idle Man with a Handsome Face”, “A Simple Corner of a Wealthy House”, and as an untitled version with a different opening line (“There was a wealthy house...”).

1929

July 28

In the newspaper Komunisti, Vasil Tsulukidze reads the article “Khorhudayin Hayastan”, which talks about the visit of delegations of Georgian and Azerbaijani writers to Armenia.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

1929

July 28

Shalva Apkhaidze is going to meet Machaidze in connection with the publication of Galaktion Tabidze’s “Selected Poems”. The poet thinks that the paper of the state publishing house is not of high quality, but he has no other choice.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Note: Machaidze’s name is not mentioned in the source, and it is not possible to identify him.

1929

After July 28

He submits his poem “Epoch” to the first printing house to be published as a book. Arno Oneli is appointed as the proofreader of the book. They promise that the printing will be finished in a week.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: This entry is placed after the July 28 entry in the diary.

1929

After July 28

He starts to write a statement in the name of Head of the state publishing house, to give him 100 roubles in advance from the royalties of his Book “Epoch”, which was transferred to be printed.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: This entry is recorded in the diary after the entry dated July 28.

1929

After July 28

He begins to write an application in the name of the Social Security Commissariat. He notes that he is in a very limited financial situation and does not have the means to continue the treatment. Therefore, he requests to transfer the amount of two months - July and August - together from his fee.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: The diary entry is placed after the entry dated July 28.

1929

After July 28

He writes plans for the day in a diary. It can be seen that he needs to visit the printing house, as well as the social security commissariat, the publishing house “Shroma” and the state publishing house for half an hour. In the last two, the issues of taking an advance have to be resolved.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: The diary entry is placed after the entry dated July 28.

1929

July 30

He makes a special visit to the Moscow Book Agency store for his Book released in 1927 and finds that neither it nor “John Reed” are for sale.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: In the diary, he initially wrote July 29, Monday, and later corrected the date to July 30, but forgot to delete the reference to Monday.

1929

July 30

It is written in notebook that his books have not been put up for sale either in State Publishing House, or in the Moscow agency, or in any other store, and this has been going on for 5 years.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

1929

July 30

He meets a paralyzed young worker, who works as a cleaner in the railway station for 8 roubles a month. The latter wants to become a member of the Union, and Galaktion teaches him where to go.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

1929

July 30

He goes to the state publishing house and learns that an old Imeretian man, who worked as a doorman and always treated him warmly, is paralyzed and dying. He thinks how terrible it is to be paralyzed.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

1929

July 30

He meets the head of the main literary department of Azerbaijan, who tells how the commissar of education of Azerbaijan was accused of putting his relative in the position and, in general, what is happening in Baku.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

1929

July 30

In front of the Workers' Palace, he notices a young man standing by the stairs, watching the women coming down to catch a glimpse of their bare knees. Galaktion feels sorry for his unsatisfied youth and writes about it in his diary.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

1929

July 30

Konstantine Tsivtsivadze tells him that 300 prominent scientists work on the 30-million-word encyclopaedia of Chicago, but they have a seven-year school student as an expert, and if an unfamiliar word occurs in the encyclopaedia, they immediately take it out of the book. Tsivtsivadze jokes, where can I find such an expert for Grigol Robakidze?

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Note: The source contains only the initial of Tsivtsivadze's name.

1929

After July 30

He meets people in the publishing house “Shroma” who greet him respectfully and politely like old acquaintances, but he himself does not recognize them and is nervous that his memory is betraying him.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: The entry was made in red ink after the pencil notes of July 30.

1929

After July 30

Bed bugs disturb him at night and his hands are shaking from the morning. He remembers that Vladimir Mayakovsky’s last play is “The Bug”.

Source: Diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 415, 417, 529.

Dating: The entry was made after the July 30 entries in a different colour ink.

August

1929

August

After Olya’s departure to Leningrad, the women living in the neighbourhood of Galaktion Tabidze on Krylov street become even more active. They bring their table to his window from the side of the balcony and bake bread all night, put their bed next to his door, and couples make the bed creak all night, lean on the balcony and show their bare thighs, beg for things and never return them, throw cigarette butts in a pile at his door. In addition, the neighbouring Demetradzes are conducting propaganda against Galaktion in the party organization.

Source: MGL, 24551-51. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 48, 49.

Note: Leningrad was the former name of Petrograd at the time.

1929

August

He sends a letter to Olya in Leningrad. He writes that he returned home at night the day before, found kerosene bottles fallen on the balcony and slept with a terrible smell. He also details the provocative behaviour of the ladies in his neighbourhood and their anger at the fact that Galaktion is only interested in Olya, doesn’t see them as women, and generally considers them whores.

Source: MGL, 24551-51. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 48, 49.

Note: Leningrad was the former name of Petrograd at the time.

1929

Summer

At four o’clock Olya Okujava, who lives with her mother at that time, goes to his house on Krylov Street, and wants to talk to the neighbours of Krylov Street who harass Galaktion. The poet is not at home. Olya drinks tea and eats a bit of bread so that to leave the rest for Galaktion. She wants to borrow money from her husband, but she knows that Galaktion does not have it as well. When she sees that their “noble” neighbour is coming home, she rushes out to the balcony to see him, but the neighbour avoids her.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-421; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 189.

1929

Summer

Olya Okujava leaves a short letter in the apartment on Krylov street. She writes that she has already been to his apartment four times to talk to their insolent neighbours, but they avoid her and slowly suffocate Galaktion. She tells the ‘Imeretian Noble’ to stop his cunning tricks and visit Olya at her mother’s apartment for a conversation. She encourages him that such people will definitely be defeated. She asks him to visit her the next day after 1 o’clock, and if he can’t come, Olya herself will visit him.

Source: From Olya’s records, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 188.

Note: With ‘Imeretian Noble’, Olya Okujava probably refers to the neighbour Demetradze, whom Galaktion mentions in another letter.

September

1929

September 5

He receives a letter from an unknown person from Khashuri. He seems to have heard from Olya Okujava, how Galaktion is harassed by his neighbours at ten Krylov Street. That’s why he thinks of going to the place and teaching these kulak-nobility elements a lesson.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-480-a; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 260

Note: This stranger recounts the exact details that are written in the letters sent by Galaktion to Olya and mentions going to Galaktion several times and seeing such a situation.

1929

September 14-16

He is in Gori and he writes a poem “Somewhere is heard a drunken man’s Harialale...”.

Source: Diary entry, MGL, d-37-51; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 452.

Note: The poem is included in the epic “Class Struggle” and “Where Revolutionary Georgia is Heading”.

1929

September 16

He addresses a statement to the state publishing house, requesting that 150 roubles be added to the account of his Book “Epoch”, which, due to his illness, he entrusts to his wife, Olya Okujava, for collection.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-113; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 96.

1929

Until September 17

He writes an essay on revolutionary art. He focuses on the relationship between art and craftsmanship, the spirit of Romanticism in poetry, the connection with the people, false collectivism, the rhythm of the new movement, and other issues.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №596, p. 1-2;

1929

September

He receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, who reproaches him for his absence and not writing. She informs him that Galaktion's brother, Abesalom, has had a son who was a little ill but is now recovering. She writes that they received a receipt for the road repair fee in his name and are unsure whether they need to pay it. She invites him to visit and asks if Olya can come along, to bring her as well, if possible.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-299; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94, 144;

Note: Galaktion's nephew, Vasil Tabidze, is implied.

October

1929

October 11

He is waiting for the arrival of Russian poets in Tbilisi.

Source: Diary entry, MGL, d-38; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, "Literature Chronology", 2006, p. 468.

1929

October 11

His Book "Epoch" should be published in two weeks. That is why it is necessary to take care that the printing house has paper and clichés, and cover are made on time.

Source: Diary entry, MGL, d-38; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, "Literature Chronology", 2006, p. 468.

1929

October 12

He is fascinated by Dziga Vertov's picture "A man with a film camera".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, "Literature Chronology", 2006, p. 468.

November

1929

November 14

He meets Benito Buachidze in the Palace of Arts, who informs him that the plenum of Proletarian Writers' Association is being held on Saturday and asks him to attend. Buachidze also shows Nikolo Mitsishvili's report, which, according to him, develops the point of view that all Georgian writing is counter-revolutionary. Galaktion tells him that Mitsishvili's views about him are unfair, to which Buachidze agrees and notes that Galaktion is the first companion of the revolution and not someone else. Then Benito Buachidze offers Galaktion to prepare the basis for cooperation and for this purpose advises him to submit a statement to the plenum, to which Galaktion agrees, although he notes that one day is not enough to prepare the statement.

Source: MGL, d-628, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 287; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 582.

1929

Until November 17

In his diary, he drafts an address to the plenum of the Proletarian Writers’ Association.

Source: MGL, d-628, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 287; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 582.

December

1929

Until December 28

On the day of Olya Okujava’s departure to exile in Central Asia, Galaktion goes to the station with flowers. Also present are Mikhail Okujava’s wife, Vera Khalvashi, with her mother, Fedosia; Olya’s cousins Mariam and Elene Okujava; and her cousin Vasil Kikvadze.

Source: Марат Гизатулин, Булат Окуджава: «...От бабушки Елизаветы к прабабушке Элисабет», 2020, HYPERLINK “http://maxima-library.org/component/maxlib/b/516722?format=read” <https://maxima-library.com/new-books-2/b/516722>

Dating: We date based on the date of the first letter sent from the road by Olya Okujava.

1929

After December 28

He receives two letters sent from Krasnovodsk from Olya Okujava, who has been sentenced to exile. His wife tells him that they travelled on a very small ship across the Caspian Sea, the same ship that had once been used to transport the 26 Commissars to their execution. The ship had to break through ice along the way. She feels very unwell, is sick, but asks him not to reveal this to her mother. They are heading towards Samarkand, but it is likely they will be distributed to different locations from there. She promises to inform him as soon as she finds out where she will finally be placed.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-366; Olya Okujava’s letter, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 189-191.

1929

After December 29

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava sent from Ashkhabad. She writes that the previous day, while traveling by train, they passed the place where the 26 Commissars were executed, and she had the eerie feeling as if she could hear their screams. She cannot hide her amazement that, the previous evening in the train car, someone had spoken loudly in praise of Trotsky. She writes that they are approaching Ashkhabad and will arrive in Samarkand the next day, but after that, she has no idea what will happen. She expresses concern for Galaktion, wondering if he is starving, and advises him to ration his food for the coming days. She also asks if his Book has been published yet.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-368; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 191-192.

1929

After December 30

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava sent from the small town of Chardzhou. The sender describes the beauty of the desert, comparing it to corrugated sand, and wishes that Galaktion could be there. She cannot hold back her tears. She feels deep sorrow for her mother, who was left behind at home, and her younger brother Vasya. She asks Galaktion to visit them occasionally and take them to the cinema. She also asks that if he has money, he should go see them. She writes that they are approaching New Bukhara, which will mark the end of Turkmenistan and the beginning of Uzbekistan.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-370; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 192-193.

1929

After December 30

He receives a letter from his brother. Abesalom writes that he couldn't manage to see him and is returning to the village from Tbilisi. He informs him that there is some change in his life and asks him to come to Chkvishi, even if just for a week.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-346; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 181;

1929

From October 10 to the end of year

He receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili, who inquires about her longed-for son; expresses concern that he neither sends letters nor introduces his wife; sends greetings from his daughter-in-law, Tatiana Tsintsadze, and asks him to definitely come to the village in two or three days.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-301; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 143-144;

1929

From October 10 to the end of year

He sends a reply letter to his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. He is upset by her reproach and promises that he will spend his youth without shame. He explains that four of his books are being printed right now, and as soon as they are published, he will definitely come to the village and visit her.

Source: MGL, 24551-3. from Galaktion's letter, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 8, 9;

1920-1929

After the literary evening, Galaktion Tabidze heads from Western Georgia to Tbilisi. At dawn, the train slows down and stops in the Tsipi tunnel. The poet sees a beautiful woman from Borjomi, dressed in black, standing on the tracks, with the last name Khalvashi. She is arrested and taken away, but it turns out that in the meantime, the revolutionaries have emptied a train car loaded with weapons, which was stopped. After this, Galaktion often envisions the beautiful woman standing before the steam engine in the Tsipi tunnel.

Source: P. Khalvashi, Near Galaktion, Recollections about Galaktion, Tbilisi, 2009, p. 107-108.

Dating: The recollection states that this happened in the 1920s.

1929 or earlier

He writes a poem titled "It is War".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №6338; №4170; №4055; №3950; №309; №405; №193; №194; №195; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 173.

Note: The poem appears in sources without a title and with the titles: "World Orchestra," "Autumn," and "The Golden Iconostasis Lay on the Stairs".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1929

He makes an outline of his autobiography in his diary.

Source: MGL, d-487, p. 6; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 406; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 580.

1929

He writes an untitled poem "One amazing story today".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №7740; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 430;

1929

He addresses a statement to the Writers' Union of Abkhazia. He explains that he has submitted the Russian translation of his poem "John Reed" for publication, translated by Elena Shervashidze (Sheri). He writes that he holds the rights to the first publication of the Book and requests that the Writers' Union publish it in Russian.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-161; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 96.

Until the end of 1929

With individual poetic phrases, such as: "Oh, history has the history of an entire era / as that of a single book", he expresses his emotions about the release of his new Book "Epoch".

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №217;

1929

In the Book “Arsena’s Poem with 12 Pictures,” he underlines the characters and creates a list: Piper, Arsena, Zaal, the girl, twelve boys, the governor, Kazakhs and their leader, Urians, Khakhami, the widow and the poor, brides, the Armenian, Parsadan Bodbishkheveli and his entourage, godmother, ten to twelve shepherds, boys from the entire town, Imeretians, Armenians, Ossetians, Russians, old women, the elder, the officer, the guards, tavern-keepers, wine-merchants, soldiers. He writes that this is an interesting detail for rhymes.

Source: MGL, t-8, “Arsena’s Poem with 12 Pictures”, Tbilisi, 1929, the back side of the front cover.

1929 or later

In his diary, he makes a note about Vanler Daisel’s Book “Ballad of the Tiger that Perished near Tbilisi”. He considers the merits of the Book to be its cover, design, the author’s sincerity, politeness, striving for novelty, respect for traditions, economy of words, and refined comparisons. He criticizes the rhythm and the unclear political stance.

Source: MGL, d-628, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 293; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 583.

1929 or later

He writes a prose sketch for a play titled “Send Me Money, Europe!”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-655, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 310-315; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025, p. 609.

1929 or later

On the cover illustration of Anatoly Buyski’s historical story “The Case of the Village of Kasani,” printed in the Red Army Library series, he writes that it should be described. He makes underlines and Russian annotations, noting that it is necessary to locate this village on the map and that the Russians referred to Shamil’s followers as “Uruses”.

Source: MGL, t-294, А. Буйский, “Дело в кишлаке Касан”, Moscow-Leningrad, 1929, p. 3.

1929 or later

He reads Heinrich Lenoble’s brochure “Rules for the Beginning Screenwriter” and makes underlines in the preface. In his note about the difficulty of conveying the knowledge of languages by an actress, he writes that this was the case in 1929, when there were no sound films.

Source: MGL, t-349, г. Ленобль, “Памятка Начинаящему Сценаристу”, Moscow-Leningrad, 1929.

1930

January

1930

Until January 1

The poem “Epoch” is published as a book.

Source: G. Mebuke, “Galaktion Tabidze: “Epoch”, magazine Drosha, 1933, №1, p. 14.

Dating: The first review of the Book was published on January 1, 1930.

1930

January 1

The magazine Drosha published a review of Gigla Mebuke under the title “Galaktion Tabidze: “Epoch”, in which it is said that each new Book of the poet is a step forward, which brings him closer to the working class, to the revolution. Then Galaktion’s new Book “Epoch” is discussed, which, according to Mebuke, cannot be called a poem, because it does not have a single plot, but it depicts the characteristics of the era surprisingly correctly and is virtuosic in terms of the form of the poem.

Source: “Galaktion Tabidze: “Epoch”, magazine Drosha, 1930, №1, p. 14.

1930

January 4

In the newspaper Young Communist, Dimitri Benashvili’s review of Galaktion’s Book Epoch is published. The author points out that, generally, Galaktion “was very late, but still managed to sing about the revolution”. The critic thematically examines the poem and notes that the artistic and ideological concept presented in the Book differs from the author’s earlier views. With this poem, he confronted the reactionary wing of Georgian literature. Galaktion perceives the revolution in a manner similar to Blok. Dimitri Benashvili expresses dissatisfaction with the poet’s brotherly approach to the external beauty of the revolution, describing his tone as sometimes excessively elevated and “shouting”. For the author, the revolution is interesting not because it shattered the chains of slavery, but because it is outwardly charming and grandiose. The critic disapproves of the Epoch author’s “sentimental warmth” and his liberal preaching about brotherhood and unity, which he believes is excessive in the work. Dimitri Benashvili also detects nationalist motives in Epoch. He argues that the revolution will not accept the poet’s ambition for the Georgian language to become an international language. Despite certain flaws, the critic concludes that the poem will undoubtedly enter the treasure of revolutionary literature.

Source: D. Benashvili, Galaktion Tabidze, Epoch, newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, 1930, №3 (574) p. 4.

1930

After January 8

He receives a letter sent by Olya Okujava from Samarkand on January 7. She informs him that she has sent several letters from the road and asks him to write to her at least once a week. She also inquires whether his Book has been published.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-371; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 193.

1930

January 12

In the humorous magazine Tartarozhi, in the section “Literary Domicile”, a parody of Galaktion Tabidze’s poem Epoch by Grigol Tsetskhladze is published under the pseudonym Gaioz Kirimeli.
Source: Gaioz Kirimeli, “From Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Epoch”, magazine Tartarozhi, January 12, 1930, №2, p. 11.

1930

January 15

Shalva Radiani, the responsible secretary of the Federation of Writers, is appealing to the People’s Commissariat of Social Security of Georgia to increase the pension of Galaktion Tabidze. Biographical information about his work has been submitted to the Social Security Commissariat.
Source: Sh. Baramidze, “In the Constellation of Genius Poets”, Collection “Saistorio Moambe” (Historical Review), 1993/1994, №65-66, p. 180.

1930

January 29

At the extraordinary session of the United State Political Division, Galaktion Tabidze’s wife - Olya Okujava is sentenced to exile in Central Asia for three years for her counter-revolutionary and Trotskyist activities.

Source: Постановление Особого Совещания при Коллегии ОГПУ от 29 января 1930 года, осуждена по ст. 58-10 УК ГССР к высылке через ПП ОГПУ в Среднюю Азию сроком на три года.

1930

After January 29

In the preface of Nikolai Grig’s Book “In Turksib”, he makes underlines and comments. He compares the goal of constructing the railway from Siberia to Central Asia – supplying Central Asia with cheap grain and developing industry – to the electrification of the Surami Pass with its connection to Zemo-Avchala hydroelectric station and Rioni Hydroelectric Station. He believes that the railway will lead to the intrusion of modern culture into the backward and ancient culture of Central Asia, which was predicted. He is curious about the meaning of the word “desert”. He notes a trip to Central Asia.

Source: MGL, t-294, Николай Григ, “На Турксибе”, Leningrad, 1929, p. 5-19.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze began to familiarize himself with literature on Central Asia and contemplate a journey there after his wife, Olya Okujava, was sentenced to exile in Central Asia for her counterrevolutionary activities on January 29, 1930.

1930

January

The poem “Pacifism” is published in the magazine Mnatobi. It features an epigraph with a phrase by Vladimir Lenin regarding pacifism and an excerpt from the Communist International’s sixth congress call for the world socialist revolution.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1930, January, №1, p. 7-31.

February

1930

Until February 2

He sends several messages to Olya Okujava, who has been sentenced to exile.

Source: Olya Okujava's letter, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 193-194.

Dating: This is mentioned in Olya Okujava's letter dated February 2, 1930.

1930

After February 2

He receives a message from Olya Okujava in Kokand, asking him to inform her about his health condition.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-440; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 194;

1930

After February 2

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava sent from Uzbekistan. Olya is distressed because, since leaving Baku, she has sent numerous letters to everyone but has not received any in return. She informs him that she has only received messages from him, their mother, and Misha Okujava, as well as money from her mother twice. She advises him to leave everything behind to enrich his poetry with new colours, pack his bags, come to visit, and work here. The People's Commissariat is obliged to help the talented poet get acquainted with life in Central Asia. If he decides to leave, he should inform the housing committee that he is going to visit his sick wife, so they won't take his apartment. He also mentions that she has sent a message and a sealed letter to the recipient's mother and brother and asks him to deliver his wife's letter to her brother, KOlya.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-372; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 193-194.

1930

Until February 6

Brother Abesalom Tabidze receives a telegram from Galaktion Tabidze's wife, Olya Okujava from Central Asia, in which the addressee asks about his news and location.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter to Galaktion Tabidze, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160, 161.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter of February 7, 1930 to Galaktion Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

After February 7

An acquaintance hands over a letter from his brother - Abesalom Tabidze. The addressee scolds that he neither writes to him nor goes to the village. He informs that the community of the village of Chkvishi has moved to collectivization. The teachers, including Abesalom, were left alone with their yard and house. The mother is very worried, and they are thinking of selling the house. Therefore, his arrival is necessary. If he doesn't have money for the trip, he asks to borrow it and then he will return it and save him from his mother's scolding him. He informs about the telegram and letter received from Olya and expresses dissatisfaction that his relatives do not even know his address.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-318; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 160, 161.

Note: Abesalom writes that he is sending the letter in the name of Eseb, but this person is not mentioned anywhere else.

1930

Until February 17

For February 17, he is planning a literary-thematic evening against pacifism, at which Shamshe Lezhava, Pilipe Makharadze and others will perform. They will read poems from the books "Epoch", "John Reed", "Pacifism".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 440.

Note: Information about holding such an evening was not published in newspapers on this day.

1930

Until February 26

He writes a poem "Class Struggle", consisting of 65 stanzas.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-46, p. 1, 3, 5-7, 10-11, 13-14; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 7-15; For dating: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 380.

1930

Until February 26

He is ill and cannot attend the event at the Palace of Arts.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to his brother - Abesalom Tabidze, MGL, d-46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 18, 19.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's February 26, 1930 letter to Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until February 26

He takes Pacifism for publication and is also preparing other materials for printing.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to his brother - Abesalom Tabidze, MGL, d-46; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 18, 19.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's February 26, 1930 letter to Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

February 10-26

He is considering traveling to Central Asia, where his wife, Olya Okujava, has been exiled for counter-revolutionary activities.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-46, p. 21-22; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 17-18. For dating and clarification of information: T. Tvalavadze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 227.

1930

February 26

He sends a reply letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, shares his future plans, asks him to encourage his mother and tell her that he will arrive soon. About the house, he offers to act according to his own opinion and according to the advice of his neighbours.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 18,19.

1930

February 26

He appeals to the Central Executive Committee of All Georgia with a statement to allow him to work on the Transcaucasian Railway for one year, so that he can better observe the great socialist revolution and write a book.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 18.

1930

February

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, a review by Giorgi Natroshvili is published under the pseudonym "G. N". regarding Galaktion Tabidze's new Book "Epoch". According to the author of the piece, Galaktion Tabidze emerges as one of the first companions of the revolution in Georgian literature. Natroshvili assesses that Galaktion has managed to avoid the wavering characteristic of the petty-bourgeois intelligentsia, firmly embracing a path of pessimism in the early stages of his creativity. The poet's lyricism from this period, the reviewer notes, has transformed into the "aesthetic gospel of the Georgian philistine". The poet perceives the revolution through the lens of a lyricist, which, in the critic's opinion, is the main flaw of the poem "Epoch". Natroshvili concludes that "Epoch" is a disjointed work lacking a solid composition. It features a "romanticism of the flood", suggesting that had the poet abandoned it, his message could have been condensed to ten pages, making the 200-page effort unnecessary. Despite this flaw, the critic states that "Epoch" is still a progressive event in Georgian Soviet literature, as the poet senses the immense role of October and reflects elements of socialist production and the great hardships of the European proletariat.

Source: G.N., Galaktion Tabidze, Epoch, magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1930, №2, p. 137-138.

March

1930

Until March 3

In his diary, he writes a list of Central Asian magazines, including quotes and descriptions of landscapes. He finds it necessary to familiarize himself with the autobiography of a Uzbek writer and to establish a circle dedicated to the study of Central Asia.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-47, p. 1-4, 6, 8, 10-19, 27-28; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 19-22, 25-26.

1930

Until March 3

He discusses Central Asia with the painter Gigo Gabashvili. The artist mentions that he lived there for a long time, describing it as a beautiful region, and that he has created over 500 paintings on this theme. Some of them were purchased by an American millionaire, while others are in museums in Petersburg and Moscow. Many were bought by private collectors, and no one knows their whereabouts now.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-47, 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 20.

1930

Until March 3

He visits the painter Richard Sommer and plans to go again to see works related to Central Asia, this time accompanied by the painter Nikolai Popov.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-47, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 20.

Note: Richard Sommer and Nikolai Popov are mentioned by last names in the source.

1930

Until March 3

Due to his planned trip to Central Asia, he is interested in how Johann Wolfgang Goethe, George Gordon Byron, Alexander Pushkin, and Ilia Chavchavadze travelled.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-47, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 23.

1930

Until March 3

In his diary, titled "Against Pacifism, Against War", he writes that the threat of war is imminent. He suggests that it would be beneficial to organize a thematic evening against the horrors of war, perhaps even an evening of memories from participants of the imperialist World War I.

Source: MGL, d-47, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 23.

1930

March 3

He talks with Iliodore Chkhaidze, who advises him to hold his own evening, because it is important for his name, authority and mass. Galaktion replies that for such an evening it is necessary that the composers write suitable works. Iliodore offers his help and tells him that Zakaria Paliashvili, Dimitri Arakishvili, Konstantine Potsverashvili and Konstantine Meghvinetukhutsesi - none of them will refuse to help in this. Galaktion tells him that his Book is coming out soon. When the Book sells out and he earns some money, he will get in touch with them to put together an evening program. Iliodore suggests that he refer to the editors of the magazine Teknika da Shroma. Galaktion thinks that it will be possible to hold again this evening in clubs, cinemas and schools. Iliodore says excitedly that the arrangement for the evening will be a grand affair, and Galaktion is pleased.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 24.

1930

March 3

Alexandre Abasheli informs him in the State Publishing House that the meeting is going to be held in the evening and that he is summoned to the Central Committee to see the deputy chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, Aleksandre Zhzhikashvili, to discuss magazines. Shalva Radiani informs him that he, Benito Buachidze and others will be at the meeting. He says that they really like "Pacifism" and it would be good to publish it as a separate book. Nikolo Mitsishvili meets him on the stairs and he also tells him about being summoned to the Central Committee. Galaktion thinks that Mitsishvili is going to come to Zhzhikashvili earlier to talk to him separately and get closer. When Galaktion goes to this meeting in the evening, they say "there is not enough room" because they clearly don't like him coming.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 24.

Note: In the record, all persons are referred to by their surnames and initials of their first names, and one of them - Zhzhikashvili - only by the initial of his surname "Zh".

1930

After March 3

He writes an untitled poem "Beyond the White Desert...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-47, p. 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 26-27.

Note: In this form, the poem was never published during the poet's lifetime. A different version was first printed untitled from the poet's archive in the seventh volume of the academic twelve-volume edition, under the title "Aeroplane".

1930

March 17

Shalva Radiani asks him to come to the Writers' Palace.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 28.

1930

After March 17

In the diary, he writes that old federalist and editor of the newspaper Droeba, Ilia Aghladze, supports Joseph Grishashvili, as he is a patriot of his former colleagues. He also mentions Marijani and his wife but thinks they will soon quarrel with each other.

Source: MGL, d-48, p. 4; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 28.

1930

After March 17

In the diary, he writes that it would be great to hold an evening for Gion Saganeli and revitalize his Book “Drumo”. He describes him as a man who was ridiculed and who also mocked everyone harshly. He was a good chess player and did not deserve to die.

Source: MGL, d-48, p. 10-11; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 30.

1930

After March 17

Benito Buachidze promises to remove him from the social security commission’s registry and transfer him to the People’s Education Commission, which will result in an increase of 300 roubles.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-48, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 30.

1930

After March 23

He receives a telegram sent by Olya Okujava from Belogorsk. She writes that she hasn’t received any letters from him and is curious about why.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-439; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 196.

Note: In the source, Belogorsk is referred to by its then-current name, Karasubazar.

Dating: We date it based on the time of Olya Okujava’s arrival in Belogorsk.

1930

After March 23

He writes a stanza on the telegram form sent from Belogorsk by Olya Okujava: “Forward with one goal, the main goal, international socialism”.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-438; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 196.

Dating: We date it according to the time of receiving the dispatch.

1930

After March 24

Olya Okujava sends postcards from Belogorsk featuring images of a beautiful, pensive woman sitting with a musical instrument against a backdrop of the sea, with rose petals spread on a wide marble balcony and depictions of the Bakhchisarai mosque. She writes that during the 11 days of travel, she felt unwell and spent time in bed. They passed through Central Asia by train and arrived in Moscow, where she met her sister Mania and cousin Gogi Kikvadze for just 15 minutes. Then the train continued, and two days later they arrived in Simferopol, staying at the “Leningrad” hotel. From there, on March 23, they took a bus and reached Belogorsk in an hour. She settled into a room at the peasant house, which has normal conditions. She mentions that while passing through a city, she saw a heart-shaped brooch in a shop window and bought it for Galaktion, saying she would pin it on him when he comes to visit. She writes that she used to believe she still loved Galaktion, but now she thinks he is no more interested in her news than a passerby.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-426; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 215;

Note: Belogorsk is referred to in the source by its former name, Karasubazar.

1930

After March 27

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava sent from Belogorsk. She informs him that she arrived in the city on March 23 and describes it in detail. She shares that she lives in a room rented from an elderly couple, detailing the conditions and prices. She invites him to come visit her and work there. She advises him on what to bring in terms of linens and clothing. She asks him to take his Book “Epoch”, along with photographs of Galaktion, her mother, and family members that she wants to have by her bedside. She suggests that he inform the housing committee that he is going to visit his sick wife for 2-3 months to prevent anyone from moving into their apartment. She explains that he should take the Tbilisi-Moscow-Simferopol train. During his stop in Moscow, he will be able to see Olya’s sister, Mania, and other relatives, and from there, he will be in Simferopol in two days. Upon arriving in Simferopol, he will spend the night in a hotel, and then it’s only an hour’s bus ride to Olya’s rented house. She recommends that he subscribe to the newspaper Komunisti and the magazine Mnatobi at her address. She expresses dissatisfaction that even at the Revolution Museum in Tbilisi, anti-Soviet bourgeois elements are at work.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-420; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 196-199.

Note: Belogorsk is referred to in the source by its former name, Karasubazar.

1930

Until March 29

The poem “Pacifism” is published in the first issue of the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1930, №1, p. 7-31; For dating: “New editions of the State Publishing house”, newspaper Komunisti, 1930, № 71, p. 4.

Note: Later, the author turned the texts included in this poem into a cycle of poems and titled them separately or turned their beginnings into titles: “It is falling on the ground again...” – “19-?”, “The evening was frosty...” - “Meet the pacifist”, “From one thousand eight hundred and seventy stripes...”, “The French peasants were greeted on the road...” – “Parisians complain of boredom”, “Eyes in glasses...” – “A man with glasses”, “London is silent having no feeling...” – “London is silent having no feeling”, “America’s heart beats like that...” – “America’s heart beats like that”, “Every evening the old woman...” – “The old woman”, “She came out of the opera late...” – “She came out of the opera late”, “They stare at her coldly again...” – “Uncle, who are you looking for”, “When around the river of blood...” – “Give shelter to the storm”, “Willow standing in front of Geneva...” – “Willow standing in front of Geneva!”, “Thunder, we are waiting for you!”.. – “Thunder, we are waiting for you!”, “Without haste, calmly...” – “Without haste, calmly”, “Ah, it sounds far away...” – “Ah, it sounds far away”, “When the Entente began to have a light supper...” – “When the Entente began to have a light supper”, “Pacifism has its press...” – “Pacifism has its press”, “Europe, do you remember?..” – “Europe, do you remember?”, “Europe, how do you not know...” – “Europe, how do you not know”, “Don’t get angry, Chiang Kai...” – “Don’t get angry, Chiang Kai”, “They have a lot of artists...” – “They have a lot of artists”, “The people, the nation on the tip of the tongue...” – “The people, the nation on the tip of the tongue”, “There is their life...” – “Bohemia”, “Even now a lot of people write on the side...” – “Even now a lot of people write on the side...”, “The doors of the League of Nations were removed...” – “The doors of the League of Nations were removed”, “Ksendzi also said: beyond the stars...” – “Ksendzi also said: beyond the stars”, “The earth has a heart...” – “Time looked at that heart too”, “White calls out: Hey, Russia!..” – “White calls out: Hey, Russia!”, “If a worker and merchant in Europe...” – “If a worker and merchant in Europe”, “You will see the mountains, it’s a dream...” – “Switzerland”, “There was a bitter wind...” – “And reeds where whistling”, “The mountains, shine...” – “No one is better than the Mtieli in digging the soil”, “You see how it has been cut...” – “Radio”, “The whirlwind is dashing...” – “How much more will the passing of time say?”, “How can you not remember the child in delight...” – “How can you not remember the child in delight”, “We have found more...” – “We, many edges of life”, “Bankers, sweat of the masses...” – “Clash”, “On the Barricades! The battle has begun!..” – “1927, VI Vienna”, “New Bedford...” – “5 VIII”, “Knitting Factory...” – “6 VIII”, “Bombay, the great ... of the strikers...” – “8 VIII”, “There was a rally of Indians...” – “There was a rally of Indians”, “Editor Gray gives advice...” – “Editor Gray gives advice”, “And here England and America...” – “England and the United States”, “Here England invites France...” – “Here England invites France”, “It was in nineteen twenty-six...” – “It was in nineteen twenty-six years”, “Down the League of Nations, League of War...” – “Germany, August 4”, “A demonstration was scheduled in Ivre...” – “A demonstration was scheduled in Ivre...”, “Down with pacifism!” – “Down with pacifism!”, “New Year. Let’s say London...” – “New Year. Let’s say London”, “Hit the pickaxe!..” – “Hit the pickaxe!”. The author later removed from the text four previously written and published poems - “Calm down, the wind” (1924), “East” (1924), “City under water” (1926) and “Greetings to blooming fields” (1924). The author also separated two long fragments from the “Epoch”, which were later given the form of poems: “A woman fought on the barricades” and “It is a war”.

Dating: The information of the March 29 issue of the newspaper Komunisti allows us to determine the timeframe, that the first issue of Mnatobi was published.

1930

Until March 29

He meets Mose Gogiberidze. They discuss the publication of the poem “Pacifism” in the magazine Tsiskari. He notes that such a poem, based on Lenin’s principles, has never been written even in Russia, and neither any Georgian proletarian poet – Petre Samsonidze, Alio Mashashvili, nor Sandro Euli – could write something similar. He believes he never promised to give it for publication in the magazine, as it would become a topic for discussion among the Mensheviks, and no one would defend him. In his opinion, the poem should be fully published in one issue, in the first place, to make an impact. He argues that if Mikheil Javakhishvili’s novel “Jaqo’s Dispossessed” was published in one issue, this poem should also be accommodated. He is opposed to merging the lines, recalling that he made a mistake when he agreed to it during the publication of the cycle “Epoch”. If they don’t increase the payment, he demands 35 kopecks per line, the same amount he was paid for “Epoch”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-56, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 196-197; For dating and information clarification: T. Tvalavadze, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 227-228.

Note: In the source, Mose Gogiberidze is referred to by his full name, while Petre Samsonidze, Alio Mashashvili, and Sandro Euli are mentioned by their last names and pseudonyms.

April

1930

April 4

He attends a lecture by the Ukrainian avant-garde poet and critic Valerian Polishchuk at the Writers’ House. He is irritated by the tip of a handkerchief sticking out of the Ukrainian’s jacket pocket, and when Polishchuk thanks the crowd for the large turnout, Galaktion senses the Ukrainian “imperialist’s” irony and threat. He thinks that Polishchuk is right-wing in a literary sense, like Grigol Robakidze and Mikheil Javakhishvili.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-49, p. 1-2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 35;

Note: Valeri Polishchuk, Sandro Akhmeteli, Taras Shevchenko, Mikheil Javakhishvili, and Grigol Robakidze are referred to by their last names in the source.

1930

After April 4

After being ill for two months, he barely manages to leave the house and heads to the “Orbeliani” bathhouse. The manager offers him the special room reserved for members of the Central Executive Committee, but Galaktion replies that he is alone and a small room will suffice. As he heads toward the small room, a man dressed in expensive fabric – tailored from covercoat material – rushes up to the manager and angrily demands that the room not be given. The manager explains that the well-known poet has been waiting for his turn for a long time, but the stranger responds that he knows very well that Galaktion is not a member of the Central Executive Committee and demands to see the proper credentials. Galaktion replies that he does not submit to strangers. The man threatens to find out who he is and to raise a scandal. After leaving the bathhouse, the stranger confronts him again and orders the manager to write down the poet's name and address. He then declares that he is a party member – Giorgi Sulukhia.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-49, p. 6-12; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 35-37.

1930

After April 4

In his notebook, he describes in detail the unpleasant incident at the bathhouse with Giorgi Sulukhia. He writes that Sulukhia was brandishing his party membership card like “an old inspector would a whip” and that he plans to find out which district committee Sulukhia works for, whether he is a member of the Central Executive Committee, and if he is a cultural worker. He also wonders who his friends are and what his lineage is. He questions whether Sulukhia knows who Galaktion Tabidze is, why he said with irony that he knew him, and whether any act was premeditated in this scandal, as he had done nothing illegal and had not provoked the situation.

Source: MGL, d-49, p. 14-16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 37-38;

1930

After April 4

In his diary, he writes that he noticed a brilliant technique used by Anatole France and Gustave Flaubert. Anatole France shifts an intimate conversation to a public space, such as a theater, blending it with the action and monologues happening on stage, creating a remarkable effect. Gustave Flaubert, on the other hand, moves an intimate conversation to a public exhibition, or a dull agricultural meeting, where one person tries to dominate another, and the effect is genius. He notes that a similar moment can be found in Pierre Hamp's The Gold Digger.

Source: MGL, d-49, p. 20-21; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 38;

1930

After April 4

In his diary, he writes that the library and reading room of the Workers' Central Club is a “great-power” Russian organization. It is run by Russians, and Georgy Kreytan is in charge. The focus is solely on Russian literature, it is called the “Russian Section”, and he views it as a den of chauvinism. He plans to find out who owns the library, who leads the organization of only Russians, how many Georgian readers use the library, and how many staff members are employed there. He is curious about why Aneta Kapanadze was expelled from there and thinks there is a struggle taking place, believing that this audience must be dismantled.

Source: MGL, d-49, p. 27-31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 40-41;

Note: Giorgi Sulukhia, who caused the incident at the bathhouse, and Georgy Kreytan were members of the same party organization.

1930

After April 4

In his diary, he writes that Stalin has a small forehead, just like Vazha-Pshavela and Akaki Tsereteli.

Source: MGL, d-49, p. 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 42;

1930

Until April 12

The poem “Pacifism” is published as a book.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s statement to the State Publishing House, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 96.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s April 12 statement to the State Publishing House allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

April 12

He appeals to the State Publishing House to buy 1,900 copies of his Book “Pacifism” (circulation - 2,500) for 60 kopecks each and to settle the bill upon delivery to the bookstore, as he is planning a trip to Central Asia but does not have the funds.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-114, 24551-234; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 96.

1930

Until April 14

He writes an essay titled “Mayakovsky”. He states that Mayakovsky is a futurist and contrasts Vladimir Mayakovsky with Aleksander Kruchyonykh. He writes that Kruchyonykh is entirely new with his constructivism of word and sound. Despite Kruchyonykh being a true Russian, he doesn’t emerge from anyone, whereas Mayakovsky, although seemingly trying to dethrone Pushkin, actually emerges from Pushkin himself.

Source: Autographic record, GTDA, №279.

Dating: According to the content, Vladimir Mayakovsky is alive.

1930

After April 14

In his notebook, he writes about Lavrenti Kvirikadze’s recollection of the friendship between Vladimir Mayakovsky and his fathers, as well as a meeting with young Vladimir Mayakovsky and his mother on a bus traveling from Kutaisi to Baghdati.

Source: MGL, d-449, p. 4-11; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 165-166.

L. Kvirikadze, Mayakovsky’s mother and father, newspaper Soplis Tskhovreba, April 13, 1963, №73, p. 3.

Dating: The phrase “the first and last meeting” suggests that the recollection was recorded after Mayakovsky’s death.

1930

April 26

Galaktion Tabidze's "Letter to the Federation of Soviet Writers" is published in the newspaper Komunisti, in which the poet calls on the representatives of the right wing of the Federation to face reality, condemns their weakness, which is caused by their being right-wing. He believes that through adventures and chronic compromises, they are approaching the crack that leads to their inevitable demise. Their right-wing group artificially hinders the process of unification of revolutionary-literary groups. He compares them to the Old Guard of Waterloo, who did not surrender despite mortal danger. He urges them to gather courage, put down their shields and swords, admit their own weakness and give way to others. At the end, he notes that it is the love of the people, the revolution, and hopes for a bright future as an active fighter for proletarian revolutionary ideas.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to the Soviet Writers' Union, newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №96, p. 3.

1930

April 26

Benito Buachidze's article "Enthusiast of the Revolutionary Era" is published in the newspaper Komunisti about the poem "Epoch". The author points out that despite the author's social origin from the rotten and bloodless petty-bourgeois intelligentsia, a radical transformation took place in him. The "powerful glow of the revolution captured and excited" his spirit. It is true that in some places the poet is betrayed by his artistic qualities, which is why there are weak and obscure places in "Epoch", but these defects cannot overshadow the artistic and social values of the poem. The author of the article refers to the poet as a companion of the revolution.

Source: B. Buachidze, "Enthusiast of the Revolutionary Era", newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №96, p. 3.

1930

After April 26

He goes to the editorial office of the newspaper Akhali Sopeli and finds Ilo Mosashvili reading Benito Buachidze's article about Galaktion in the newspaper Komunisti, titled "Enthusiast of the Revolutionary Era". Galaktion suggests they meet and talk, and Mosashvili agrees.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212.

1930

After April 26

On the road, he encounters D. Bakradze, a Book carrier, who asks about the reason behind the publication of his letter in the newspaper Komunisti and who the right-wingers are. When he receives a response from Galaktion, Bakradze comments that people now believe lies more readily than the truth, but in the circles of writers, Galaktion will still prevail.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212.

1930

After April 26

At the People's Commissariat of Education, he meets Polio Abramia, who mentions that he recently read Galaktion's letter. Galaktion asks Abramia which side he supports, the right-wing or the left-wing. Abramia replies that he works at Remedasi, and it is naturally clear which side he supports.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212.

1930

After April 26

In front of the opera theatre, he meets Ivane Cherkezishvili, who says that he does not read Georgian newspapers and is unsure, for example, whether Shalva Dadiani is right-wing or left-wing. However, he considers it necessary for Galaktion's letter to the Soviet Writers' Federation to be translated into Russian and sent to Literaturnaya Gazeta.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212.

1930

After April 26

On Rustaveli Avenue, he meets Shalva Radiani, who invites him to the Palace of Arts, where some events are being organized. Radiani believes that Galaktion should be at the centre of the events.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212.

1930

After April 26

He meets his brother-in-law, Nikoloz Okujava's wife, Nina (Nutsia) Gvakharia, who tells him that his article has been read.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212.

1930

After April 26

He meets Ilia Bakhtadze, who advises him to buy 10 copies of the issue of Komunisti that contains his article.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212-213.

1930

After April 26

He meets his cousin, Titsian Tabidze, and asks for his opinion on the letter he published in Komunisti to the Soviet Writers' Federation. However, Titsian replies that he knows nothing about the article.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He meets Giorgi Leonidze, and when asked whether he is right-wing or left-wing, Leonidze responds that he is a "Stalinist".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He meets Konstantine Chichinadze, who is right-wing. It seems that Chichinadze has read Galaktion's letter and reacts strangely, and opiniates.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He sees Mikheil Javakhishvili on the street, who avoids eye contact and crosses to the other side of the street.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He sees Paolo Iashvili, demonstratively driving around the streets with his friends in a car and trying to exploit Galaktion's letter for his own purposes.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He meets Alexandre (Sasha) Dzneladze, who, after reading the letter published by Galaktion in the newspaper Komunisti, thinks that Galaktion has become a Communist.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He meets Lydia Megrelidze, who, regarding the letter published by Galaktion in the newspaper Komunisti, tells him that it cannot be allowed to stand as it is.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He goes to the guesthouse, where in Pavle Sakvarelidze's room, along with Pavle, are Niko Lortkipanidze, Alexandre Abasheli, and others. They are reading Galaktion's letter published in Komunisti and show interest.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

Sandro Shanshiashvili is surprised by reading the letter published by Galaktion in Komunisti and wonders whether Galaktion wrote it himself or if someone else wrote it for him. Galaktion responds to the question with another question, asking whether Shanshiashvili is right-wing or left-wing, to which he receives the reply that Shanshiashvili is "himself".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

Hercel Baazov says that he is thrilled by the letter published in Komunisti and, although he does not belong to any faction, he is always ready to stand by Galaktion's side.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He meets Konstantine Demetradze, who expresses satisfaction with the page in Komunisti that covers the reorganization of the Writers' Federation, which includes Galaktion's letter and Benito Buachidze's article about him. Galaktion responds with satisfaction, noting that he managed to "hit" the right-wingers well. Demetradze also likes the conclusion of Benito Buachidze's article.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 213.

1930

After April 26

He meets his friend Giorgi Kuchishvili, who praises the article in Komunisti and the opening of a front against the right-wingers. Kuchishvili recounts meeting Grigol Mchavariani (Sakharideli), who calls Galaktion's speech an act of espionage. Kuchishvili had said that his own letter, published on the same page, titled "For the Renewal of the Writers' Ranks", was even worse. He adds to Galaktion that Mchavariani would likely say the same about his letter elsewhere, and then advises him to avoid drinking wine, as it might lead to various dangers. After Kuchishvili leaves, Galaktion reflects on what kind of writer Sakharideli is and what right he has to speak so and thinks that Kuchishvili is very cautious.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

After April 26

He meets Domenti Aronishidze, who says that his letter in Komunisti is wonderful because, like Akaki, the poet is a "trumpet of the environment". He believes that the most important thing is for the "group" or "movement" not to disband. Galaktion is unsure which group or movement Aronishidze considers him a part of.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

After April 26

He meets Grigol Megrelishvili, who says that he fully agrees with the views expressed in the letter published in Komunisti. He promises to follow Galaktion's lead and assures him that their fate will entirely depend on him.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

After April 26

He meets Lavros Dzidziguri, who praises Galaktion for hitting the right-wingers so effectively. Galaktion wonders how his opponent, Grigol Matchavariani (Sakharideli), will respond.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

After April 26

He meets L. Mirianashvili, who claims to aspire to be a people's poet and inquires whether the article published in Komunisti was about him. And adds: "It was alright".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

After April 26

In his diary, Galaktion notes the reactions to the letter he published in Komunisti and to Benito Buachidze's article about him.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 212-214.

1930

After April 26

He writes the phrase: "Hello, Sokhumi / Gardens and Paths...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

After April 26

"O, Tbilisian Jaqo / With a Kutaisian Dispossessed / Allow me to praise / For the purpose of humiliating".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-60; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 214.

1930

April

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, in which the sender reproaches him for neglecting their mother and for not seeing his eight-month-old nephew, Vasili. He asks that the letter be sent to Tobanieri and requests to be informed of his address.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-319; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162; For dating: Prokle (Abesalom) Tabidze, Narratives, Letters to Galaktion, Tbilisi, 1997, p. 144.

May

1930

Until May 5

In his diary, titled "Down with 'Neurasthenia Gravia'", he writes that nothing comes from nervousness. He names Maxim Gorky and Filipe Makharadze as calm and composed speakers. He doesn't like that the exhalation characteristic of young people has also affected him. He believes that neurasthenia is a legacy of the past and has a negative impact on health.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-58, 8; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 206.

1930

May 14

He goes to Sokhumi. Elene Andronikashvili travels with him and dedicates a notebook with an inscription as a souvenir of his arrival in Sokhumi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 43.

1930

May 14

He writes a poem “Glacier” in Sokhumi, which was not published during the author’s lifetime.

Source: G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. III, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 538.

Dating: This poem is written in a notebook that was given as a gift in Sokhumi on May 14, 1930.

1930

After May 14

He writes a poem “The Poet’s Diary”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, p. 3-11; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 44-53.

Note: The poem was not published during the poet’s lifetime or in subsequent collections.

1930

After May 14

He writes an untitled poem, “V. Hugo: I Sang to the November Leaves”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, 3-11; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 44-53.

1930

After May 14

He writes an untitled poem, “The Market Cries, Moves, and Turns”, while the second version is titled “Morning”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, p. 15, 32; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 56, 68.

1930

After May 14

He writes a poem titled “The Creed of a Former, Aggrieved Noble Advocate”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, 16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 56-57.

Note: The poem was included in the cycle “Where Revolutionary Georgia is Heading” and was later published untitled as “Thanks to the Certificate...”.

1930

After May 14

He writes an untitled poem: “Money has great power – to the hypocrite...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 58-59.

Note: The poem was included in the cycle “Where Revolutionary Georgia is Heading” and was later published untitled as “Thanks to the Certificate...”.

1930

After May 14

He writes an untitled poem: “Deep sorrow no longer leaves me...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, 19; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 59-60.

1930

After May 14

For the poem Class Struggle, he writes prose texts with the titles: “A Sunny Day When It’s Time to Plow”, “The Time to Harvest is Near”, and “Stake of Brood Hen”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, 21-27; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 61-65.

1930

After May 14

He meets Dodo Antadze and an unknown person, who are both drunk. They talk for two hours and tell him that the great figures of Georgian poetry are Vazha-Pshavela and Genia. He notes that he is generally known to the public.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, 30; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 66-67.

1930

After May 14

He writes an untitled poem: “From the sky, a legion of white stars...”

Source: Autographs: MGL, №122 d., p. 15; №133-a, p. 3682; №28897-50, p. 152; G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-50, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 67. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 96.

Note: The poem appears in sources both untitled and under the titles: “A Legion Drifts Across the Sky”, “The Sentinel”, “A Legion in the Sky”, and “Hail to That Fire and That Dawn!”

1930

After May 14

In the diary, he writes that being a writer in a small nation means one’s own dooming.

Source: MGL, d-50, p. 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 68.

1930

After May 14

In the diary, he writes that Ortachala, Krtsanisi, and Avchala are good places for partying.

Source: MGL, d-50, p. 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 68.

1930

After May 14

In the diary, he writes that it is necessary to determine whether Georgian poetry is losing its musicality. If it is, the reasons for this phenomenon should be investigated – such as the language of newspapers, the abundance of foreign words, the degradation of poetic culture, or the proletariat's inexperience in creating new culture. Following this, efforts should be made to establish the culture of poetry. In this regard, folk poetry is very important because it is distinguished by simplicity, straightforwardness, and musicality. It is natural and pure.

Source: MGL, d-50, p. 34; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 69.

1930

May 15 or after

He reads the magazine Teknika da Shroma, making underlines and annotations.

Source: MGL, t-688, magazine Teknika da Shroma, May 15, 1930, №10, p. 1-4, 6-7.

1930

After May 15

In his diary, he writes that the new Book “Epoch” by Galaktion Tabidze, printed by the State Publishing House, can be in demand everywhere. He plans to gift the books to Davit Kandelaki, Silibistro Todria, Shalva Radiani, and Benito Buachidze, but he hesitates regarding Sando Euli.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-56, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 190;

Note: In the source, Davit Kandelaki, Silibistro Todria, Shalva Radiani, and Benito Buachidze are mentioned by the initials of their first names and their last names, while Sandro Kuridze is referred to by the pseudonym “Euli”.

1930

After May 15

He writes an untitled poem “This life is a river...”.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-56, p. 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 189.

1930

After May 15

He writes an untitled poem “Isn't suicide foolishness...”.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-56, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 194.

1930

May 17

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information that the State Publishing House of the Georgian SSR is printing Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Epoch".

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №113, p. 4.

1930

May 18

The poem "Answer to some questions" is published in the newspaper Damkvreli Gazeti of the sole organ of the Association of Proletarian Writers of Georgia.

Source: Newspaper Damkvreli Gazeti, May 18, 1930, p. 6.

Note: Later, the poem was published without a title, "We bereave you of being poet...".

1930

May 18

In the newspaper Komunisti an announcement is published about the release of the newspaper Damkvreli Gazeti of the sole organ of the Association of Proletarian Writers of Georgia. There is the list of publications. Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Answer to some questions" is named among them.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №114, p. 4.

1930

May 18

Damkvreli Gazeti publishes Shalva Radiani's article "Companions at the new stage", in which it is said about Galaktion Tabidze that he tries to transfer the face of the new era to his work, enthusiastically paints pictures of rural collectivization, but still has "ugly traditions" of symbolism, so he considers some of his poems declarative. He notes that in the poem "Epoch" a sentimental mood is felt, which is unacceptable for modern times.

Source: Sh. Radiani, "Companions at the New Stage", newspaper Damkvreli Gazeti, May 18, 1930, p. 6.

1930

May 18

In the sole entity of proletarian writers, the Damkvreli Gazeti publishes a sarcastic report on Georgian writers who are fighting each other to gain hegemony. Galaktion is drawn aloof as sitting bored, not engaging in battle.

Source: Damkvreli Gazeti, May 18, 1930, p. 6.

1930

After May 18

He makes an entry in his diary in which he discusses his attitude towards proletarian writing. He notes that the Damkvreli Gazeti of proletarian writers treats him inconsistently. Despite the fact that his poem was published here, the newspaper also printed a very ambiguous caricature of it.

Source: MGL, d-629, p. 2; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 303; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, Tbilisi, 2025, p. 583.

1930

May or after

Shakro Navtlugheli gifts the magazine “Our Goal” with the inscription: “To my dear friend and comrade – Galaktion Tabidze”.

Source: GTSM, 262, magazine Chveni Mizani, 1930, May, №5.

1930

Spring

In Tbilisi, at the site of the Alexander Nevsky Military Church, Ivane Papiashvili is teaching his choir Niko Sulkhaniashvili’s songs, and where the symbol of Russian domination once stood, the words of Raphael Eristavi resound: “I will not trade these rocks for the tree of immortality”. Galaktion carves the initials “G. T”. into the stone.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-489, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 427; For dating: L. Beburishvili, “Researches”, 2025,

June

1930

June 3

With a statement, he appeals to the Central European Union to purchase 900 copies of his Book “Pacifism”. Due to the poverty, he gives it cheaply, instead of 60 kopecks, for 35-30 kopecks.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-161; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 96.

1930

June 9

The Culture Department of the Central Union purchases 450 copies of “Pacifism” for 45 kopecks each.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s statement to the Department of Culture of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 97.

Dating: Maghlakelidze’s June 9 letter to Galaktion Tabidze’s statement that he received 450 copies of the Book to be sent for trade allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

June 9

He applies to the Culture Department of the Central Union to pay 141 roubles and 75 kopecks for the 450 units of “pacifism” they bought.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-115; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 547.

1930

After June 10

He informs the Central Executive Committee of Georgia that the Writers' Union Presidium is petitioning for permission to travel via the Transcaucasian Railway to write a new book.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-51, 12; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 76;

1930

After June 10

He sends a telegram to Olya Okujava, who has been exiled to Central Asia in Karasubazar. He informs her that he was seriously ill but is now fully recovered. He wishes her good health as well and promises to write her a letter.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-51, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 77.

1930

After June 10

He writes an untitled poem: "You must hurry – and yet you..."

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-51, p. 19-25; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 78-81.

1930

After June 10

He writes a poem "Man-Eater".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-51, p. 21-22; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 81-82.

Note: A version of the poem was included in the cycle "Where Revolutionary Georgia is Heading" and was later published under the title "Let Us Unite as Brothers".

1930

June 20

He hands over the painting he acquired, "The Little Fisherman" by Pirosmani, to the National Gallery of Georgia.

Source: V. Javakhadze, "Stranger", Tbilisi, 2013, p. 221

Note: Vakhtang Javakhadze notices regarding this fact that some people attribute the transfer of this picture to the gallery to someone else.

July

1930

July 1

He delivers a presentation on contemporary Georgian literature in the hall of the State Conservatory.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-51, 11; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 76.

1930

July 3

An announcement is published in the newspaper Komunisti that the Proletarian Writers' Association has invited a meeting of the writer's activists in the Palace of Arts, about the results of the spring sowing campaign and the upcoming autumn campaign. Galaktion Tabidze should also attend the meeting.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №153, p. 3.

Note: The source presents the list of participants in the event: "K. Lortkipanidze, S. Chikovani, S. Shanshiashvili... G. Tabidze...".

1930

July 19

He writes a letter to the chief administrator of the Tbilisi Opera and Ballet Theatre, Vasil Pataraiia. He thanks for the kindness and informs that he suddenly has to go to Abkhazia and asks to postpone the evening planned for July 24 in the theatre until autumn.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-66; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 62; 1930

July 19

He travels in Abkhazia.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's letter to Vaso, dated July 19, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 62.

Dating: From the letter sent to Vasil Pataraiia on July 19, 1930, it can be seen that he is leaving.

1930

Until July 30

She receives 300 roubles sent by Galaktion.

Source: Olya Okujava's telegram, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 196.

1930

After July 30

He receives a letter sent by Olya Okujava from Simferopol. The sender informs him that she will be traveling to Moscow today.

Source: Olya Okujava's letter, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 199.

August

1930

After August 7

He receives a letter sent by Olya Okujava from Simferopol to Abesalom Tabidze in Tobanieri on July 30, in which the sender informs him that they will be traveling to Moscow today.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-373; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 199.

September

1930

Until September 7

In his diary, he writes that Nikolai Popov and Nikolai Verzhbitski are chauvinists and conquerors. In his view, caution is necessary, and it is important to distance oneself from spiritually worn-out people.

Source: MGL, d-52, p. 3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 83.

Note: Nikolai Popov and Nikolai Verzhbitski are mentioned by their last names in the source.

1930

Until September 7

He plans a literary Olympiad and intends to commission romances and declamations from composers: Tamar Shaverzashvili, Meliton and Andria Balanchivadze, Kote Potskhverashvili, Zakaria and Levan Paliashvili, Konstantine Meghvinetukhutsesi, and Viktor Dolidze. He considers it necessary to connect with literary figures and artists from Moscow. He compiles a list of translators for poems: Elene Shervashidze, Valerian Gaprindashvili, Vladimir Bogdanovski, Fyodor Pechalin, and Kolau Chernjavski.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-52, p. 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 83.

Note: The composers and translators are mentioned in the source by the initials of their first names and their last names, with Tamar Shaverzashvili referred to by her last name, and Elene Shervashidze by the pseudonym "Sheri".

1930

Until September 7

In his diary, he writes about what each person deserves: Paolo Iashvili deserves a kick, Grigol Robakidze deserves a reprimand, and Titsian Tabidze deserves a good whipping. He reflects that he should never forget the story of the three cigarettes.

Source: MGL, d-52, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 84.

Note: Paolo Iashvili, Grigol Robakidze, and Titsian Tabidze are mentioned by their names in the source.

1930

Until September 7

Giorgi Lomidze informs that he will give a presentation about him at the Palace of Arts in a month. Lavrosi Kalandadze also wishes to make a presentation.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-52, p. 15; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 85.

Note: Giorgi Lomidze and Lavrosi Kalandadze are mentioned by their last names in the source.

1930

Until September 7

In his diary, he writes a list of necessary books: all volumes of Avksenti Tsagareli, Alexandre Sumbatashvili-Yuzhinin's "Treachery", Vaso Abashidze's "Lyre", Ioseb Grishashvili's "Old Tiflis Bohemia", a Book about Lado Gudiashvili, Akaki Tsereteli's "Kinto", Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard", Alexandre Chavchavadze's "Oh, Time, Time!", Philippe Makharadze's letter in Komunisti, Oskar Shmerling's caricatures, Siko Pashalishvili's "Kintauri", paintings from the Municipal Museum (Tbilisi History Museum/Karvasla), Giorgi Skandarov's "Festive Sazandari", David Dondua's "The Capital of Georgia, Tiflis", and the reference Book "Old Tiflis".

Source: MGL, d-52, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 86.

1930

September 7

He meets Pridon Naroushvili and tells him that while Galaktion didn't gift his Book "Epoch", he will give him a Book of his poems. Galaktion thinks he's a good guy and seems pleased with the publication of the book.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-52, p. 23; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 87.

1930

September 7

He is in his native village Chkvishi and writes in his diary about the situation regarding the harvest. He notes that the grapes are not yet ripe, the cucumbers are running low, there are figs, nubbins, wine and vodka.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 87.

1930

After September 7

He returns to Tbilisi from his native village Chkvishi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162.

Dating: Abesalom Tabidze's letter dated October 1 shows that it has been almost a month since he returned.

1930

September 9

He attends a free evening at the Tram Workers' Club. The garden is lit up and an orchestra is playing, but there are few people. The doctor gives a lecture on the hygiene and dangers of nicotine. According to him, people should remove the curtains on the windows and let fresh air into the house. Voices are heard from the hall that it is better to close the curtains again to prevent flies from entering the rooms. Before the release of the comedy about the Red Army in the nearby cinema, they show a magazine with beautiful shots. Galaktion likes the skyscrapers of New York, Berlin, London and Paris, the armoured train seen on the screen and the submarine.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 88.

1930

September 15

The Ukrainian poet Varvara Cherednichenko presents a collection of selected poems translated into Russian by Pavlo Tychyna with the inscription: "To the esteemed comrade Galaktion Tabidze, the poems voiced by the Ukrainian singer, like the ones brought to life through verse".

Source: MGL, t-433, Павло Тычина, Избранные Стихотворения, Авторизованные переводы с украинского, Kyiv, 1927.

1930

After September 23

Mose Gogiberidze informs by letter that the printing of the poem "Revolutionary Georgia" has been decided, but there are several places that need to be corrected. He asks him to meet with Davit Demetradze, the trade union representative of the culture department of the Central Committee, who will mark the places to be corrected, after which he can hand over the poem to the printing house.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-480; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 260-261.

1930

Until September 27

He reads the fantasy genre novel "Atlantis-Trust-Company" by Heinrich Tiaden.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, MGL, d-53; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 91.

Note: The Book was published in Russian in 1928.

Dating: The novel is mentioned in Galaktion's September 27, 1930 entry.

1930

Until September 27

He writes an untitled poem: "Wings do not remain for youthful desire...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 90;

Note: The poem was later published under the title "How Much Misunderstanding Remains".

1930

September 27

In his diary he makes short notes about the sophistication of the art of dressing in Colorado, about Brett Hardt, about our air that kills Koch's bacilli, about Maxim Gorky's opinion about art, about his friendship with Mary, he writes that he remembers the resignation of Nikolai II as if it was yesterday, that he did not read Herbert Wells's "Dr. Moro Island", that nothing surprises him anymore, that his wife has a nihilistic-anarchist soul, that no one cares about the escape of revolutionaries from prison or conversation about past heroes, October failed to find its place in art, but Eva was able to do it. He writes that Tom Sawyer's adventure is more interesting than the life of a person infected with rabies. He admires the achievements of modern surgery and longs to be able to cure the heart. He writes that a person may be extraordinary in his profession but ignorant of other matters, although some people talk about a subject, they have no idea about as if they knew it well.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, MGL, d-53; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 91.

Note: In the text, the name of the American writer was written as "Kart" and "K" was changed to "G". It is unclear which "Mary" he means.

1930

September 29

He prepares the poem "Playing Poet" for publication.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1930

September 29

He brings home the materials left in the printing house.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1930

September 29

He reads the new issue of the magazine Tartaroz, in which they make fun of the magazine Mnatobi's homelessness. He connects this with the fact that Mose Gogiberidze is going to leave the editorial office of this magazine.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1930

Until September 29

In the diary, he writes the names of 19 periodical entities that are published in Georgia at the moment and plans to publish in them. He is going to write 161 poems in 16 days, because he needs 170 at the moment, and he has only 9 ready.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

Dating: The diary entry of September 29, 1930 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until September 29

He writes in his diary that he should rewrite his poem "Why do I want to be alive..." in the style of a ballad.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

Note: Only the first letter from the last word of the poetic phrase is written in the diary.

Dating: The diary entry of September 29, 1930 allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until September 29

He prepares materials for the magazines: Drosha, Sholti, Ughmerto, Tartarozi and Pioneri. He writes down the names of magazines in his diary and indicates the responsible persons next to the names: Ughmerto - Mose Gogiberidze; Drosha - Sandro Shanshiashvili; Tartarozi - Ilia Khinveli; Sholti - Pavle Sakvarelidze, Pioneri - Alio Mashashvili.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

Dating: The diary entry of September 29, 1930 allows us to determine the timeframe.

October

1930

October 1

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. The addressee scolds him for not telling his news to his family. He asks for Olya Okujava's address to send the necessary items. He wonders how he settled the coat case and whether he was given a pension or not.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-320; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162.

Note: Olya Okujava was in Uzbekistan at that time.

1930

Until October 5

The shock-brigades of writers, who have to get acquainted with the work of production, are working in the Palace of Arts. Proletarian writers consider themselves leaders, and non-proletarian writers, however famous they may be, as their companions and associates. Among such companions, all newspapers name Galaktion Tabidze first. The poet is very determined and is preparing with all his energy for the literary campaign of "Playing month".

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 5 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 5

The magazine Mnatobi starts printing the cycle of poems "Revolutionary Georgia".

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1930, №8-9, p. 1-16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 5 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 5

In Tbilisi, the 8th shock-brigades of writers is formed for the production. Galaktion is among them, but he does not particularly like the members of his brigade.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 526-527.

Note: This is mentioned in a crossed-out letter dated October 5, 1930.

1930

Until October 5

It's getting a bit chilly in Tbilisi, but Galaktion has his coat pledged, and he can't retrieve it until he receives his honorarium.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 526-527.

Note: This is mentioned in a crossed-out letter dated October 5, 1930.

1930

October 5

Upon returning from the Palace of Arts, he finds a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze, and writes a response, but ultimately crosses it out.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551.9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 526-527.

1930

October 5

He makes an entry in the diary. He mentions his own successes, believes that the leadership of the shock-brigades is intended to discredit him in favour of the group of proletarian writers, and this should be put to an end.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 93.

1930 or later

October 6

He writes an untitled poem, "Often I Come Across...".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №70-a, 1775; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 118; For dating: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 781.

1930

Until October 7

The editors of the newspaper Komunisti promise to print his poems once every two days, while Galaktion thinks that it would be better to print them every day.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He receives an offer from the editors of the magazine Pioneri to supply poems.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

Confirmation of the publication of the material has been received from seven periodical authorities. These are: Komunisti, Mnatobi, Musha, Mojamagiris Khma, Drosha, Tartarozhi and Pioneri.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

The fourth brigade of writers, which he is allocated to, is assigned to the assembly, casting and forging workshops of the Stalin Repair Factory.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Note: Eight writers unite in the fourth brigade: "S, Tsverava, Sim. Chikovani, N. Mitsishvili, Matiniani, N. Aslamazashvili, G. Tabidze, Mikh. Chikovani, B. Buachidze".

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He learns that they like the material he has brought to the editorial office of the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He reads the article "Proletarian Writers in Production" published in the newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti and realizes that proletarian writers will have a leading role in dealing with production, while others, including him and other famous writers, will be tied to them as if by tug.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

The head of the brigade assigned to the production, Mikheil Chikovani, sincerely shakes his hand and introduces him to one member unknown to him, about whom Galaktion does not even know whether he is a poet or a prose writer.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Note: In the source, only the last name of this man is indicated as "Matiniani".

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He thinks that a lot depends on his work in the brigade assigned to production, but he has to be careful. He cannot trust two or three people who lay claim to leadership. In this regard, the stanza of Théophile Gautier read in a Book that has been read casually is mentioned. It talks about the feeling of majesty created by the crowns given by “October”. In Gautier’s work, these words are addressed to chestnut trees without political subtext, and Galaktion is referred to in this context.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98; GTDA, №103, p. 1-2.

Note: The Russian text of the quoted stanza is as follows: “Я знаю, знаю! Вы велики, / Когда октябрь, что в вас влюблен, / Дарит вам красные туники / И роскошь золотых корон!”

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He thinks that he should immerse himself in the work of shock-brigade, but, since some scandal is not excluded, he should have found a way out of it in advance.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He gets to know to the list of writers from shock-brigades. He is surprised that he cannot see Giorgi Kuchishvili’s last name there. It is suggested that this is due to alcoholism and that he will be involved later.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

Leo Kiacheli tells him in a private conversation that he can get closer to the workers by living next to them, working with them in production, having breakfast together and smoking cigarettes. According to Kiacheli, in such a situation, they will open their hearts and talk, so that Galaktion will be better able to understand them and get closer to them.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

At the meeting of writers’ shock-brigades formed to engage in production, Galaktion says that for the common cause, it is necessary to involve workers in literary processes, and the members of the meeting like his opinion.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

He talks for a long time with Levan Asatiani. The topic of discussion is the revolutionary sentiments of the railway and tram workers and “working” patriotism. Galaktion likes this young critic and finds his opinion reasonable, even about the fact that it would be nice to have free train and tram tickets.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 7

Razhden Gvetadze thinks that Galaktion Tabidze did not want to join the brigade with him and managed to do so, and the poet explains that he has never thought about such a thing at all and learned from the newspaper which brigade he was assigned to.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

October 7

In the diary, it is hinted that some people did not stand up demonstratively when they saw him, but he also mentions that someday they will stand up reverently.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

1930

October 7

He writes in his diary that in order to take the path of greatness, it is necessary to get rid of many things. He thinks that communist writers look down on intelligent writers. Titsian Tabidze looks down on everyone. Aristo Tchumbadze is trying to find a common language with the leadership, Leo Kiacheli’s self-respect is hurt that he is not offered leadership. Mikheil Javakhishvili is always alone and sits in the back row, as if he is sneaking up on someone, Grigol Robakidze attended the session only once. Sergo Kldiashvili appears as a small dot in the background. All the heads of writers’ brigades are communists, and other writers seem to be dragged along, but this situation is acceptable for Galaktion. He thinks that they will be able to do more.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

1930

October 7 and later

He collects all kinds of materials about railways.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94-98.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 7 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

October 8

The Union of Writers sends a mandate that he is a member of the fourth brigade of writers and is assigned to work at the Stalin Repair Factory.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 98- 99.

1930

October 9

An informational letter titled "Proletarian Writers in Production" is published in the newspaper Komunisti, stating that the writers' active members are assigned to factories in implementation of the Central Committee's September 3 directive. It is also noted that Titsian Tabidze, Aristo Tchumbadze, Simon Chikovani, Demna Shengelaia, Galaktion Tabidze and others got into an argument regarding the report made by Simon Tsverava at the organizational meeting. They emphasized the need for teamwork and the need to assign writers to productions. The fourth brigade, which together with Galaktion Tabidze includes the following writers: Simon Tsverava, Simon Chikovani, Nikolo Mitsishvili, Matiniani, N. Aslamazishvili, Mikheil Chikovani and Benito Buachidze, are assigned to the assembly, foundry, forge and other workshops of the Stalin Steam-Wagon Repair Factory.

Source: "Proletarian Writers in Production", newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №236 (2884), p. 4.

1930

October 9

He reads in the newspaper Komunisti that the Federation of Soviet Writers, under the editorship of Kote Gordeladze, is starting to publish Saliteraturo Gazeti. The deputy will be Nikolo Mitsishvili and members: Titsian Tabidze, Shalva Radiani, Leo Kiacheli, and others. Galaktion fears that the newspaper will face problems.

Source: The composition of the writers' brigades assigned to the proletarian writers in production., newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №236 (2884), p. 4.

1930

Until October 9

At the meeting, he finds out that when assigning writers to one or another enterprise, the management took into account their "literary physiognomy", the genre in which they work and their attitude towards other members of the brigade. Galaktion is content to be assigned to the workshops of the railway workers, where steel and the will of the proletariat are hammered out. He thinks that cloth and leather factories would not really be suitable for him.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 98- 99.

1930

Until October 9

At the second meeting of the brigades assigned to productions, Demna Shengelaia critically mentions the wall newspapers and compares them to the magazine Tartarozhi. No one objects to his words and does not try to defend Tartarozhi, despite the fact that the name of this magazine was associated with the names of Silibistro Todria and Sandro Euli, who are dominant in literary circles. The fact that Demna Shengelaia accused Tartarozhi of perverting the masses and no one disputed it, Galaktion considers it a sign that a campaign is expected to be launched against this “disgusting” magazine.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 98- 99.

1930

October 9

He applies to the social security commissariat with a statement that he has neither clothes nor shoes, and to solve this problem he requests permission to exchange the bonds worth 50 roubles.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 4172; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 97-98.

1930

October 9

The State Trade Cooperative of Georgia issues an order for him to purchase one pair of shoes and one suit.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 98- 99.

1930

Until October 10

He returns from Chkvishi and falls ill with the flu during the journey.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 12.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 10 letter to Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 10

Olya Okujava returns from exile. She is unwell and lives with her mother at 9 Paskevich Street, currently Geronti Kikodze Street, and plans to go to Tskaltubo for treatment.

Source: MGL, 24551-9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 12.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 10 letter to Abesalom Tabidze allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

October 10

He sends a letter to his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. informs that the magazine Mnatobi starts printing the first 16 pages of the cycle of poems “Revolutionary Georgia”, the next part will be continued in other issues, and they promise to publish it as a Book when it is finished. He found out that the pension issue will not be resolved until January and asks him to send tobacco. He informs that he has to work in the railway workshops from the writers’ brigade. He gives his regards to his mother, sister-in-law Tatiana and nephew Vasiko.

Source: MGL, 24551-9; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 12.

1930

October 10

By chance, he witnesses a conversation about far-right writers and learns that Ioseb Grishashvili invites advanced workers to show his library. Galaktion is surprised that Ioseb attracts attention with what he thinks are riff-raff books.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

Vano Berikatsishvili, a typesetter, asks what his relationship is with Ioseb Grishashvili. Galaktion answers that he considers him to be very right-wing. In the next conversation, Berekashvili praises Galaktion's poem "What moves the body of Cypress".

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

Vaso Alania mockingly asks which brigade he is assigned to, which makes him want to punch him in the jaw.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He meets Ioseb Grishashvili in the state publishing house and asks if he is printing anything. Joseph answers in Russian that he prints translations of anything that is published.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He writes his thoughts about Russian poets Besarion Sayanov and Alexander Bezmyansky in his diary. He thinks that both of them used to be romanticists, but Sayanov still repeats the verses of the 30s of the last century, caresses and protects Mayakovsky, and Bezmyansky has become a member of the party, schemer and propagandist. They go their separate ways and their paths don't cross, and Galaktion writes that he knows what each of their problems is. It is Bezmyansky's ubiquity that prevents him from getting close to the masses, Sayanov's sentimentality, which removes the latter from the image of the age, and his sincerity. Galaktion asks himself if honesty is needed today.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He wonders who is trying to discredit his name and surname. He thinks about Simon Tsverava, Benito Buachidze and Panteleimon Chkhikvadze. He is sure that he knows the situation well enough not to let them get away with it. The main thing is to avoid wine and to have close contact with workers.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

In connection with the beginning of the theatre season, he plans to buy season tickets in opera and ballet theatres, Marjanishvili and Shota Rustaveli theatres, and all cinemas.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 12; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

In the diary, he writes down the names of the composers, singers, directors, reciters, translators and actors he will need in order to organize the evenings. He also mentions that he needs a good playwright.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 13; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He looks at the newly published magazine Chveni Mizani and thinks that such an entity of old “idiotic” workers can do a lot of harm.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 13; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He believes that the Tsisperkantselis are worried about his success and ask the party for help to prevent it. He thinks that proletariat writers will play a leading role in the Saliteraturo Gazeti and will try to negotiate with them so that they do not give up their primacy and find new ways. He tries to communicate with people and learn normal conversation to make them understand what he has to say. He laments the loss of the glorious timbre of his voice and hopes that he will certainly regain the boldness of speech, and, moreover, without wine.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

In his diary, he writes his negative attitude towards the magazine Tartarozhi. He imagines how they did not understand the meaning of his poem “Epoch” and what kind of caricature was published about him. He refers to Siko Pashalishvili as “observant” from Kiziki.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

In the Russian newspaper Stroika he reads Besarion Sayanov's publication "Letter to a Moscow Friend" and Giorgi Gorbachev's article about the poetry of Alexander Bezmyansky, who considers the author to be the first proletarian poet after Demyan Bedny.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 11; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He writes in his diary how Giorgi Kuchishvili and Arno Oneli got terribly drunk the other day at the Vera cemetery.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

In the diary, he writes the opinion of the literary circles regarding the speech of various periodicals. According to the record, Vladimer Norakidze thinks that the Georgian Literaturuli Gazeti will be a remake of the Russian periodical entity of the same name, with which Sandro Euli agrees. Ioseb Imedashvili's intention regarding the renewal of the magazine Teatri da Tskhovreba is similar to their smile. They think that Imedashvili lives in illusions and this magazine cannot survive.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

Gaioz Devdariani and Shalva Okujava have returned from exile, soon Galaktion's second wife's brother Mikheil will also return, and the poet hopes that everything will calm down.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He writes in the diary that Davit Arsenishvili is a good organizer and someday he will probably be useful in organizing a big evening.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He writes in the diary that he is an ally of proletarian writing and not a mobster, an independent poet and not someone's epigon and that this is clearly visible throughout his literary activity.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 103, 104.

1930

October 10

He writes in the diary that proletarian writers in their periodicals – Akhalgazrda Komunisti and Tartarozhi discredit Galaktion and portray him as lonely.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 105, 107.

1930

October 10

He makes a note in his diary that the Tsisperkantselis have settled very well: Titsian works in the state film production, in the Griboedov Museum, in the Saliteraturo Gazeti and in various commissions, Grigol Robakidze - in the Union of Writers and not only there, Paolo Iashvili is in Moscow and when he returns, they will be even stronger. He is heartbroken by Titsian's demeaning attitude towards him, thereby inciting others against him. He thinks that the white people only think about their own glory and that's why he will never reconcile with them. He is determined to gather loyal people around him, but he thinks that will only happen when they see him as a winner.

Source: MGL, d-53, p. 14; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 105, 107.

1930

After October 10

He receives a letter from Davit Arsenishvili, informing him that he will leave for Moscow at 10 p.m. on the current day. As soon as he finalizes the arrangements with the local Writers' Union regarding the evening event, he will notify him. Therefore, Galaktion must be prepared for departure. The letter also states that this matter needs to be completed by the end of the year.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-496; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 333;

1930

12 October and earlier

He is in dire straits, his shoes are torn, he doesn't have a coat, he can't even find money for papers and a tram, and if he leaves the house, he chooses the outer streets so as not to meet anyone. He is impatiently waiting for the royalty from the magazine Mnatobi, but the money is still missing, and the poet is angry with Moshe Gogiberidze. He feels helpless and is afraid of getting sick, but he adds that he will never surrender to poverty.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 108.

1930

October 12

He reads in the newspaper that the first volume of Sandro Euli's collection of works is on sale and makes a note about it in his diary.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 108;

Note: Sandro Euli is referred to by initials in the diary entry.

1930

October 12

He learns that he was supposed to come to the railway workshops the previous day and was not notified.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 108.

1930

October 13-15

He refrains from smoking and drinking.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 108.

Dating: The diary of October 15 states about three days.

1930

October 16

He is selected as an employee of the printed daily newspaper Manevrebis Shtabi of the repair plant.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109.

1930

October 16

The Federation of the Writers' Union receives a letter sent on October 4 from the Moscow Joint Stock Company of the Soviet Encyclopaedia, urgently requesting the birth date of Galaktion Tabidze for an article.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 90.

1930

October 16

He gives the material to Mose Gogiberidze to be published in the newspaper Religiis Tsinaaghmdog and receives from him a promise that he will publish it first.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109.

1930

October 16

He receives an official notification from the head of the mass sector of the Proletarian Writers' Association of the Federation of Writers of Georgia that a meeting of the members of the 1st-4th brigade of writers together with the correspondents of the wall newspaper of all shops of the factory will be held today in the trade union committee of the repair factory. This also applies to Galaktion Tabidze, as a member of the fourth brigade.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109.

1930

October 16

In the newspaper Izvestia, he reads Abel Enukidze's article about council elections. He learns that commissions are being formed and there is a lot of preparation.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 16; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109.

Note: Only Enukidze's last name is mentioned in the record.

1930

October 16

At 4 o'clock he goes to the trade union committee of the repair factory, where they draw up an action plan and decide to start work from the next day. They look at casting, forging, electric current and welding workshops. When he sees how noisy a huge steamer moves through the workshop, he remembers the year 1917. The deadline for publishing the newspaper is October 19.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 17; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109, 111.

1930

October 16

While at the meeting at the repair factory, Sandro Euli says that he is going to publish a special issue of the magazine Tartarozhi. Galaktion Tabidze doesn't like this magazine very much. It breaks his heart that the proletarian poets prefer Sandro Euli as their leader.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109, 111.

1930

October 16

He makes a note in his diary that he has not lagged behind in terms of working at the factory, because other writers did not go there before him. He writes that Sandro Euli, Simon Tsverava, Demna Shengelaia, Kale Bobokhidze, Niko Aslamazishvili, Georgy Kreytan, Mose Gvasalia and Mikheil Chikovani attended the meeting in the repair factory. In the form of a dictionary, the relevant vocabulary of the factory profile is written in Russian and Georgian languages. He also expressed his surprise regarding the fact that none of the people who were elected to the special commission for conducting the elections are known to the public.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109, 111;

1930

October 16

He learns that the bookstore has 400 copies of his Book “Pacifism” left and thinks about using them.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 18; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109, 111.

1930

October 16

He sends various materials for publication to magazines and newspapers: Kolektivizacia, Sotsshejbreba, Sholti and Proletaruli Studentoba. In his diary, he mentions that he has to master the following periodicals: Akhalgazrda Komunisti, Kooperatiuli Tskhovreba, Tsitelarmieli and Ganatilebis Mushaki.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 109, 111.

1930

October 17

He writes in the diary that the members of the third brigade demanded air ventilation in the enterprise for the workers of the tobacco factory in a newspaper article and received a reprimand from the management. He also mentions that the poem should be sent to the newspaper Tsiteli Armieli.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; Galaktion Tabidze’s diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

October 18

He reads in the newspapers the appeal of the Association of Proletarian Writers to the shock-brigades to allocate literary forces from their circles. Galaktion remembers that he came up with this idea at the first meeting of the writers’ brigades, and they use it in such a way that they don’t even mention his name.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

October 18

He learns that there is a special publishing house for working circles near the publishing house “Shroma”, and he will have to work there too.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

October 18

He buys a coat from a pawn shop and buys shoes with an indent and plans to buy a suit for the next day.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

October 18

He chooses a forge for work and to start work he writes down the issues that he thinks must be clarified. Among them is the discovery of people with a talent for poetry, not only among the workers of the shock-brigades, but also among the people working in the workshops in general. He thinks that this is the purpose of enlisting "shock-brigade workers" in writing. If it is possible, he wants to establish a literary circle.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

October 20

Literature is facing great changes and this revolution, according to popular opinion, is being made by the Saliteraturo Gazeti. Galaktion Tabidze learns that Titsian Tabidze and Nikolo Mitsishvili want to lead this newspaper, but others do not meet their candidacy with great enthusiasm.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

After October 21

In his diary, he writes a draft of the statement that he lives at 10 Krylov Street, on the third floor. It is not possible to install a fireplace and stove in the apartment and he freezes. He asks to allow the installation of an electric stove in order to continue his literary activities.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 183.

Dating: The statement is posted after one of the dates mentioned in the diary - October 21.

1930

October 22

He loses his coat, shoes and a small amount of money.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 20; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

October 22

The magazine Mnatobi is released, in which the first part of the poem “Revolutionary Georgia” is published.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1930, №8-9, p. 1-16; For dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 22 record, MGL, d-53, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 111.

1930

After October 22

He discovers that the cycle of poems “Revolutionary Georgia” submitted for the magazine Mnatobi has been arranged and printed, and he visits Baron Bibineishvili three times. However, on all three occasions, he is refused payment for the honorarium before the magazine’s release for distribution.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-54, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 179;

1930

After October 22

He is in an unbearable financial situation and is looking for a job.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-54, p. 10; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 179;

1930

After October 22

He writes an untitled poem “You reckoned so in your head...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-54, p. 9; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 178.

1930

After October 22

He writes two versions of the untitled poem “Then, lift the cresset...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-54, p. 11-12; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 179-180;

1930

After October 22

In his diary, he collects information about the repair shop of the Stalin Factory, where he is assigned during the fourth brigade’s distribution. He is interested in the shop’s name and the period of its existence; the number of workers during the reign of Nicholas II, the Menshevik era, and in contemporary times; the composition of the demonstration-technical personnel and the type of production tools; he wants to observe what each worker produces, from what material, the quantity of the products, the supply of repair materials, and defects. He also looks into the issues of worker promotion, labour discipline, and social competition. Additionally, he aims to study the best aspects of the factory and the workers’ jargon.

Source: MGL, d-54, p. 13, 15-16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 180-181;

1930

After October 22

In his diary, he lists the works in which he writes about the automobile: the poem cycles “Pacifism,” “Epoch,” “Revolutionary Georgia,” and the poem “John Reed”.

Source: MGL, d-54, 20; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 182.

1930

October 26

The newspaper Komunisti publishes an announcement that the Proletarian Writers’ Brigade of Georgia is organizing a literary-artistic evening at the Stalin Repair Factory on October 6, at 7 p.m., where proletarian and fellow writers, including Galaktion Tabidze, will read their works.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №251, p. 3.

Note: The source presents a list of participants: “S. Euli, G. Tabidze, G. Kuchishvili, K. Lortkipanidze, Al. Mashashvili”.

1930

October 30

His work is praised on the radio.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 115, 116.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 31 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe. The date is indicated by the word “yesterday”.

1930

Until October 22-31

Because he didn’t have a coat and shoes, he gets sick and can’t leave the house.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 115, 116.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s October 31 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 31

He learns that Paolo Iashvili is bringing Boris Pasternak to Tbilisi, which Osip Mandelshtam does not like. Titsian Tabidze, on the other hand, does not like Mandelstam.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 115, 116.

Dating: These facts are discussed in the entry of October 31, 1930.

1930

Until October 31

He has a disagreement with his neighbours regarding the living space.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 115, 116.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 31 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

Until October 31

He recounts the history of the feud that arose between the Svans and the Japaridzes from Racha in the 15th century, regarding which King Solomon the Great issued a special decree. He writes a poem on this topic titled "Peaks of the New Mountains".

Source: D. Davituliანი, Due to one of Galaktion Tabidze's poems, newspaper Kutaisi, October 31, 1979, №208, p. 3; For dating: M. Ninidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025,

Note: The poem was first published in the epic "Revolutionary Georgia".

1930

Until October 31

He receives a short letter from Shalva Radiani, who asks him to urgently deliver the continuation of his poem "Revolutionary Georgia" to the magazine Mnatobi to the Palace of Arts.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 260;

1930

After October 22

He receives a short letter from Shalva Radiani, in which he requests the urgent submission of the continuation of the poem "Revolutionary Georgia" to the Palace of Art for publication in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-463; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 262.

Dating: The printing of the poem "Revolutionary Georgia" began on October 22, 1930.

1930

October 31

A plenum of proletarian writers is held in the Palace of Arts, at which the young writer Karlo Meladze praises the poem "Pacifism" in his speech.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, p. 26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 115, 116.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze's October 31 diary entry allows us to determine the timeframe.

1930

October 31

In the diary, he describes the events of the last days: the removal of Benito Buachidze from the chairmanship of the Association of Proletarian Writers and the strengthening of the positions of the Tsisperikantselis. The fact that the publication of his material in Mnatobi for the first time faced a problem is a bad sign. It suggests that it is expected to discredit him. He is unhappy that no one protects him. He thinks that in order to raise the prestige of poetry, it would be good to establish a “Union of Poets” or a “Workshop of Poets”.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, p. 26; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 115, 116.

1930

After October 31

He receives a letter from Nino Gvetadze, who informs him that the next issue of the magazine Mnatobi is already published, and Mose Gogiberidze thinks that if he wants to print the poem, he should immediately take it to the printing house.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-480-b; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 261.

1930

After October 31

He receives a letter from Nino Gvetadze, who informs him that they cannot wait any longer. If he is not able to get to the printing house by twelve o’clock the next day, his poem will be printed in the magazine Mnatobi without author’s proofreading.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-480-g; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 260.

1930

October

He writes in his diary that “Epoch” should be sent to all members of the Council of People’s Commissars: Stalin, Philipe Makharadze, Abel Ehlukidze, Shalva Eliava and other party leaders, as well as proletarian writers: Grigol Mushishvili, Giorgi Kuchishvili, and others.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 514.

Dating: The diary mentions “October” both before and after this entry, and the context fits 1930, since “Epoch” was published as a Book around that time.

November

1930

November 3

In his diary, he makes a note that the newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti has written something wonderful about him. It states that his poem “Revolutionary Georgia” shines “like a forlorn star” against the grey background of the magazine Mnatobi. He also notes that the next issue of the magazine will be published soon.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 116.

1930

November 4

He receives a letter from Shalva Radiani, from which he learns that Kote Gordeladze, the head of the Cultural Propaganda Department of the Central Committee, asks him to deliver a poem for printing in the Saliteruro Gazeti in two or three days or, if possible, to remove a small section from the unprinted material of his poem “Revolutionary Georgia” in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-460; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 260.

1930

November 5

He buys plywood to separate his balcony from the neighbor’s balcony.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

1930

November 5

He makes a note in his diary that he received an invitation from the Federation of Writers to cooperate with the Saliteruro Gazeti and that the manager of the telephone network promises to install a telephone.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 116.

Note: In the diary, it is said that someone Kamarauli gave a letter to the manager of the telephone network.

1930

November 6

He gives Shalva Radiani a poem to be printed in the Saliteruro Gazeti.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 578.

1930

Until November 7

In the newspaper Daekhmare Invalids, the poem “The Grave of the Unknown Soldier” is published on the front page.

Source: Newspaper Daekhmare Invalids, 1930, November, p. 1; For dating: Galaktion Tabidze’s November 7 diary entry, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

Note: The poem was later published under the title “The Vision of a Thousand, the Aspect of a Thousand”.

1930

November 7

He reads the issues of newspapers dedicated to the October Revolution and does not like their composition. He writes in his diary that his poem is printed in a good place in the newspaper Daekhmare Invalids, but the magazine Mnatobi is still late. He also notes that Valerian Gunia gathers chauvinists around him.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

Note: In the source, Gunia is mentioned only by his last name.

1930

November 7

He loses his mandate to enter the workshops. They refuse to give him a new one, but he tries to somehow solve this problem.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

1930

Until November 8

He reads the story “Martel” by the German writer Oskar Maria Graf, the story of which takes place in a German village. Its protagonist is Martel, a young peasant who has served in the military. The woman’s refusal to marry him and the ridicule of his neighbours push him to shut himself up and become evil. In the story, it can be seen that the society that excluded him is also guilty of this. Galaktion thinks the Count is an interesting writer and suggests that he would be a poet as well.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze’s entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117, 118.

Note: Oscar Maria Graf indeed wrote poems.

Dating: The fact is discussed in the November 8 entry of the diary.

1930

Until November 11

He reads Gustav Eriksson’s novel “Wandering America” and he likes it very much. He thinks that in the current situation it is worth reading only foreign writers.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117,

Note: The title of the novel in the diary is written in Russian “Бродячая Америка” and it seems that it was read in Russian. The novel was published in Russian in 1929.

Dating: The fact is discussed in the diary entry of November 11.

1930

Until November 11

It is extremely hard for him in terms of finances, and he is trying very hard to start a job, but he is prevented on the one hand by the government and on the other hand by his colleague “poets”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117,

1930

November 11

He is thinking about a new work, entitled “Bohemia”. His interest in this topic is caused by foreign literature: Knut Hamsun’s novel “Hunger”, Leonid Andreev’s novel “King Hunger”, John Locke’s poem “The Poet - Wanderer”, Gustav Eriksson’s novel “Wandering America”, Oscar Maria Graf’s story “Martel” and Bruno Jasienski’s novel “I’m burning Paris...”.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

1930

November 11

Olya Okujava is sick, the neighbour woman asks them to make a bath, and Galaktion is completely penniless, has no coat, a toe is sticking out of his shoe, and is fearfully waiting for winter to come.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

1930

November 11

He makes a note in his diary that the evening dedicated to the anniversary of the October Socialist Revolution did not take place, Mnatobi or Saliteruro Gazeti were not published on time as well.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

Note: In the diary it is mistakenly written that it is the 10th anniversary of the revolution. Actually, on November 7, 1930, 13 years have passed since the October Revolution of 1917.

1930

November 11

He learns that Giorgi Kuchishvili has caused a scandal in the Proletarian Writers' Association regarding his pension, and they promise that they will contact the government directly. He thinks that he should take care of his pension immediately.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 117.

1930

After November 11

In the magazine Mnatobi, the continuation of Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Revolutionary Georgia" is published ("Side by Side, Side by Side!..."). Following the lines: "The chauvinist digs his grave / with his own teeth!" two stanzas are added, leading to an extensive prose text included in the work: "One of the Outcomes of the XVI Congress". This is a Georgian translation of a publication from the magazine Pravda, which occupies nearly five pages, after which the poem's text resumes as usual.

Source: G. Tabidze, "Revolutionary Georgia", Mnatobi, 1930, №10, p. 39.

1930

Until November 15

The Congress of the Federation of Soviet Writers is held. There are 19 people in its presidium, and Galaktion is elected as an ordinary member.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 118, 119.

Dating: The fact is discussed in the diary entry of November 15.

1930

Until November 15

The magazine Mnatobi is transferred to the management of the Federation of Writers, and Kote Gordeladze promises Galaktion Tabidze the position of responsible secretary of the magazine Mnatobi. In the new situation, the Tsisperkantselis are also trying to strengthen their positions.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 118, 119.

Dating: The fact is discussed in the diary entry of November 15.

1930

Until November 15

He makes a note about the events planned within the framework of the Soviet Union's Defence Decade.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-519, 3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 107; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 613.

1930

November 15

He reads the Russian newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta, writing down issues related to publications and everyday problems, and notes that he plans to withdraw another 100 roubles the next day.

Source: MGL, t-653, newspaper "Литературная Газета", November 15, 1930, №53, p. 1.

1930

November 15

Panteleimon Chkhikvadze, the responsible secretary of the Association of Georgian Proletarian Writers and the Federation of Writers, says about Galaktion Tabidze that his path leads to proletarian writers.

Source: Galaktion Tabidze's entry in diary, G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 118, 119.

Note: Galaktion Tabidze's record does not specify where Panteleimon Chkhikvadze said this.

1930

After November 15

In his diary, titled "The Academic Group", he lists the members of the Academic Writers' Association. The list includes Sandro Abasheli, Dutu Megreli, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Pavle Ingorokva, and Siko Pashalishvili. He refers to them as adventurers. Later, he realizes that they are right-wing writers, and their gathering has come to an end because, on November 15, 1930, during the fourth plenum of the Writers' Union Council, at the request of other writers, Alexandre Abasheli declared the group dissolved.

Source: MGL, d-54, 28; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 184.

1930

After November 15

He writes an untitled poem "Let us roll the evening...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-54, 30; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 185;

1930

After November 15

He writes an untitled poem “No one will crucify you...”.

Source: MGL, a-1769, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 346;

1930

After November 15

He writes 15 points on what poetry should be like during the reconstruction period. He condemns examples of disorganization and lack of culture, shoddy work, the magazine Tartaroz, and groups of Komsomol members. He criticizes the “fraternity-style” critique of Sandro Euli, Silovan Todria, and Eremia Astvatsaturov. He reflects on the current nature of the Writers’ Union, noting that the publishing house blocks like-minded writers and worsens their financial conditions. He questions what caused the irresponsibility of the newspapers Komunisti and Musha in matters of art, wonders why only opera is considered true art, and why they ignored his Book “Pacifism”.

Source: MGL, a-1769, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 86-87.

1930

November 16

The newspaper Komunisti publishes information about the holding of the Plenum of the Federation of Soviet Writers of Georgia. It is noted that Galaktion Tabidze was elected to the Presidium consisting of 18 people.

Source: Newspaper Komunisti, 1930, №268, p. 3.

Note: The source presents the list of participants of the Presidium: “S. Todria, K. Gordeladze, P. Chkhikvadze, Alio Mashashvili, B. Zhghenti, D. Volsky, Ar. Tchumbadze, Sh. Radiani, P. Iashvili, B. Buachidze, K. Lortkipanidze, N. Mitsishvili, T. Tabidze, V. Luarsamidze, Sh. Navtlugheli, L. Kiacheli, S. Chikovani, G. Tabidze and S. Shanshiashvili”.

1930

November 17

Titsian Tabidze is accused by Tsisperkantselis themselves of being unfairly appointed as the secretary of the Writers’ Federation, and he answers that when he was not the secretary, even then he was the head of the Writers’ Union. Galaktion Tabidze calls this fraud in his notebook.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 120.

1930

November 17

He writes in his notebook that great political changes are taking place in the Palace of Writers, where Konstantine Lortkipanidze, Nikolo Mitsishvili, Davit Demetradze, Aleksandre Kutateli, Razhden Gvetadze and Simon Chikovani have a complete idyll.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 120.

1930

November 25

He goes to the printing house, then to Shalva Demetradze, to Kote Gordeladze, to Baron Bibineishvili, but no one can help him settle the issue. The editor of Komunisti Davit Gvazava supports Baron Bibineishvili, while Pavle Sakvarelidze looks at Galaktion with anger.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 120.

Note: Kote Gordeladze was the editor of the Saliteraturo Gazeti, Shalva Demetradze worked in the Union of Writers, Baron Bibineishvili - in the state publishing house.

1930

November 28

Money is credited to the savings bank account, and he manages to cover the phone bill.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 120.

1930

November 29

He learns from the Literaturuli Gazeti that journalist and literary critic Alexey Selyvanovsky is visiting Tbilisi.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 120.

1930

November 29

He goes on some business in Plekhanov Street №55. It seems that he can't solve the case, and when he returns, he writes in his diary that everyone there is deaf and dumb.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 120.

1930

Autumn

He makes a note about the Alexander Nevsky Military Cathedral in Tbilisi, mentioning that this church provoked the same hatred as the statue of Alexander III in Petersburg. It embodied dark, elemental power and symbolized the subjugation of Georgia. The Soviet government immediately decided to demolish it, but the task proved difficult to accomplish, and it was prolonged over time.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-489, 10; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 427; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", 2025, p. 601.

December

1930

Until December 13

He suffers from the flu.

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162, 163.

Dating: This is mentioned in a letter dated December 13, 1930.

1930

After December 13

He receives a letter from his brother, Abesalom Tabidze. The addressee is worried about his health. He asks if he has bought out his coat, for which he specially gave him the money, and if he needs tobacco. He asks him to come to the village for a while and work in a cozy environment. He wonders if he still lives on Krylov Street, if Olya Okujava has returned to Tbilisi, if she is with him, and if she wants to meet Galaktion's family.

Source: Abesalom Tabidze's letter, h-24551-321; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162, 163.

1930

December 18 or after

He reads the supplement "Modern Revolutionary Poetry of the West" from the Russian magazine Ogonyok, making highlights, annotations, and sketches while practicing writing Russian facsimiles.

Source: MGL, t-414, "Современная Революционная Поэзия Запада", 1930, Сентябрь, №18, Moscow.

Dating: Inside the magazine, there is a newspaper clipping with the note "December 18, 1930" written by Galaktion.

1930

Until December 23

He is preparing for an evening event at the typists' club. He considers the main topics to be the press, advertising, and posters. He plans to have a large poster made with the inscription "Galaktion Tabidze Hosts the Evening", and to post advertisements and informational sheets on tram cars. The poster should be created by the club's artist, while the Palace of Artists will provide 50 invitations each for Georgian, Armenian, and Russian writers, the Marjanishvili Theatre troupe, the Moscow Art Academic Theatre, the Art Academy, government officials, and the Central Committee. If the garden can hold 6,000 people, they aim to accommodate up to 10,000, with tickets either free or discounted. Students and physical education enthusiasts will attend, a brass band will perform in the middle of the evening, two films will be screened, and a buffet will be available. Opera and ballet performers will participate, and the People's Commissioner of Education, David Kandelaki, will give an introductory speech on modern poetry.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-50, 42-49; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 72-74.

1930

December

The continuation of Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Revolutionary Georgia" ("Many armies exist in the world...") is published in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: G. Tabidze, "Revolutionary Georgia", Mnatobi, 1930, №11-12, p. 78-90.

1930

December

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, Karlo Meladze's article "Notes on Literary Companionship" is published, arguing that the time of "neutrality" has ended and that writers must clearly express their positions – whether they are actively participating in socialist construction or not. The author states that Soviet criticism should be very cautious when assigning the title of "companion" to any poet, as many writers resort to "red hackwork". The critic expresses astonishment that some even wanted to label Titsian Tabidze as a "companion". In his view, the real companion of the revolution among Georgian poets is Galaktion Tabidze, who gradually becomes an enthusiast of the revolutionary era.

Source: K. Meladze, "Notes on Literary Companionship", Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1930, №12, p. 96-103.

1925-1930

He writes an untitled poem "Orphanhood Has Disappeared From Many Faces".

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, №3542; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 387;

1930

In his notebook, he makes a note: "The soul of the blue moustache" - this poem ends the list of 300 works of the poet.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, d-50, p. 13; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIII, Tbilisi, 2006, p. 205.

Note: Galaktion's entry refers to the English writer William Thackeray's work "Bluebeard's Ghost".

1930

He is in Kutaisi and along with his companions he is late for the play staged by Kote Marjanishvili based on Percy Shelley's play "Beatrice Cenci" in the Lado Meskhisvili theatre. Kote Marjanishvili saw the guests in the ground floor. Galaktion is impressed by the skill of Ushangi Chkheidze, who plays Beatrice's father, and also likes the magnificent performance of Tamar Chavchavadze. After the performance, the poet turns to Marjanishvili first and then goes on stage and congratulates the actors.

Source: D. Antadze, Pages of Memories, A Toast To Him, Tbilisi, 1973, p. 183, 192.

Note: The year 1929 was wrongly indicated in the recollection.

1930

At night, he falls asleep in the vicinity of the Rike. In the morning, when he wakes up, he sees that his shoes have been stolen. He returns home in a carriage.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-98, 129; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 295.

Dating: In the poet's note dated March 27, 1938, it is mentioned that the fact happened 8 years ago.

1930 or later

He writes a parody of Simon Chikovani's poem "Khevsurian cow" - "Khevsuri ox".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 500;

1930

Sergi Gorgadze's monograph "Georgian Verse" is published, in which the author presents Galaktion's poem "The City's Skull is Open" as an example of a syllabic tetrameter, "Days of Childhood" as a complete syllabic hexameter, and "It's Not Worth That One Tear" as a complete syllabic octameter. He also includes excerpts from the poems "Blue Horses", "Native Ephemera", and "Fire" as examples of pre-Caesura rhythms.

Source: S. Gorgadze, Georgian Poem, State Publishing House, 1930, p. 43, 45, 47, 99, 100, 103.

1930

At the People's House, a poetry evening is held for the poet Khariton Vardoshvili, featuring Galaktion among other participants. While reading his poem "I and the Night", someone from the audience throws a rose. Galaktion graciously accepts the flower and hands it to Vardoshvili, which earns him a warm round of applause from the audience.

Source: R. Korkia, Three recollections, newspaper Sakhalkho Ganatleba, December 04, 1982, N 98, p. 4.

1930

December

On the back cover of Evgeni Dvali's Book "The Forest Man", he writes a stanza from the poem "We, Poets of Georgia".

Source: MGL, t-47, Evgeni Dvali, "The Forest Man" – Vano Buchashvili, second edition, Tbilisi, 1930.

1930 or earlier

He attends Grigol Robakidze's lecture on Georgian prose. The speaker discusses Sandro Tsirekidze's works but critically refers to Georgian literature and Georgian poets in general. Galaktion, who speaks after the speaker, points out that it is impossible to discuss Georgian prose with such limited material and emphasizes that Georgian poetry is not something anyone can disregard.

Source: Oral speech text, GTDA, №523, p. 1-2.

Dating: The letter should be composed before Grigol Robakidze's departure for emigration.

1930

He makes emphases and comments on the lines of Sergi Gorgadze's Book "Georgian Verse". He reviews the section "Stress" and writes that for a long time, there was a widespread belief in poetry that the Georgian language did not have a stress. This belief is reflected in the poetics of Nikoloz Baratashvili and Grigol Orbeliani. They equated three-syllable words for rhythm (me-ra-ni – qo-ra-ni) and ignored the stress, so the stress would fall on the second syllable of the three-syllable word, rather than the first. As an example of a strong stress in a monosyllabic word, he cites his poem The Wind Blows and concludes that the poem should be read differently.

Source: MGL, t-29, S. Gorgadze, "Georgian Verse", study of verse structure, Tbilisi, 1930, p. 3-7.

1930

At the end of the table of contents of Sergi Gorgadze's Book "Georgian Verse", the pages are listed on which the stanzas from his verses and poems are presented as examples of verse structure: "It is not worth that one tear," "I listen to the longed-for voice," "Days of childhood," "Autumn in the 'Innocent Conception' Monastery," "Shadows of the past," "The starry dome sails," "The wind," "Native ephemera," "It is a war," and "Blue horses".

Source: MGL, t-29, S. Gorgadze, "Georgian Verse", study of verse structure, Tbilisi, 1930, p. 144.

Note: Specifically, the following pages are noted as being excerpted: p. 38, 43, 47, 50 ("It is not worth that one tear"), p. 42, 98 ("I listen to the longed-for voice"), p. 43, 45 ("Days of childhood"), p. 50 ("Autumn in the 'Innocent Conception' Monastery"), p. 72 ("Shadows of the past"), p. 79 ("The starry dome sails," "The wind"), p. 99-100 ("Native ephemera," "It is a war," "Blue horses"), p. 103 ("It is a war").

1930

In Sergi Gorgadze's Book "Georgian Verse", he makes emphases and comments on the lines. In the section "Stress," he writes that the musicality of a poem is unimaginable without rhythm, and rhythm cannot exist without a stress. He disagrees with the views of Niko Marr and Sergi Gorgadze, who claim that monosyllabic words do not have a stress, arguing that every Georgian word has a stress. He notes that poems can already be written using monosyllabic words, and he cites his own poem "The Wind Blows" as an example.

Source: MGL, t-30, S. Gorgadze, "Georgian Verse", study of verse structure, Tbilisi, 1930, p. 1-4.

1930

He is reading Pyotr Skosirev's book "In the Land of White Gold", which reviews a journey through Uzbekistan, making emphases and comments. He notes that it is important to understand the true meaning of city names rather than be astonished by them. He is curious whether the driving force behind the countries of Central Asia is cotton, shadowy green cities, and oases. He is also interested in the role of women.

Source: MGL, t-417, П. Скосырев, "В стране белого золота", с 28 иллюстрациями, картой и объяснением узбекских слов, Moscow-Leningrad, 1930. p. 14-19.

Dating: Galaktion Tabidze began to learn about the literature of Central Asia and think about traveling there on January 29, 1930, after the decision to exile his wife, Olya Okujava, to Central Asia.

1930

In Pyotr Skosirev's book "In the Land of White Gold", he translates an author's phrase about traveling in Central Asia: "I had to travel there for the first time". He notes that he himself was supposed to travel there in 1917 along with several revolutionaries from Smolny, as preparations for the February Revolution were also underway there at the time.

Source: MGL, t-417, П. Скосырев, “В стране белого золота”, с 28 иллюстрациями, картой и объяснением узбекских слов, Moscow-Leningrad, 1930, p. 13.

1930

In Pyotr Skosirev’s book “In the Land of White Gold”, he translates an author’s phrase that it is possible to live in a country for a long time and still not know its true side. He notes that the essence of travel was well understood by Johann Wolfgang Goethe, George Gordon Byron, and Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Source: MGL, t-417, П. Скосырев, “В стране белого золота”, с 28 иллюстрациями, картой и объяснением узбекских слов, Moscow-Leningrad, 1930, p. 13.

1930

He reads the Russian translation of Johann Scherr’s Book “General History of Literature”. He highlights passages and makes notes in the first part, “The East”. He notes that not only the poetry of the East but its entire literature is poetic. He relates the text to his own thoughts about “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin”. He writes that in the poem, the poetry of Greece and India is intertwined, and “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin” should be viewed not solely as a Georgian work but also as a reflection of Arabic, Indian, and Persian poetry. He believes that from this perspective, the poem will be better illuminated and gain richer nuances. He finds it astonishing that in “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin” the rhyme never repeats. He notes that the panther’s skin is an exquisite garment and a symbol of dandyism. He wonders about the similarities between the panther and Tariel. He believes that the chivalrous spirit of Arabia is beautifully portrayed in the poem, but since nothing is mentioned about Islam, it is likely that the brilliant author wrote the poem specifically for Georgia, with many parts reflecting Christian worship. He finds it easy to imagine Queen Tamar’s admiration for “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin”. He concludes that, in the future, the colossal structure of false views surrounding “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin” must be entirely stripped of its deceptive foundation. A new framework should be built based on parallels with world literature because, without this approach, even Georgians will struggle to truly understand the poem. He believes that this issue is deliberately overshadowed by patriotic considerations, which hinders the development of Georgian poetry. He finds Philippe Makharadze’s opinion on “The Knight in the Panther’s Skin” interesting.

Source: MGL, t-474, И. Шерр, Всеобщая история литературы, т. I-II, Saint-Petersburg, 1880;

1930

In the first part, “The East”, of Johann Scherr’s “General History of Literature”, he writes in Russian that the collection of Arabic tales “One Thousand and One Nights” has not been translated into Georgian. He also notes that Théophile Gautier wrote novellas titled “The Thousand and Second Tale” (“Тысяча вторая сказка”) and “The Hashish-Eaters’ Club” (“Клуб Гашишистов”). He also writes there that a writer should master language the way Niccolò Paganini mastered the violin.

Source: MGL, t-474, И. Шерр, Всеобщая история литературы, т. I-II, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 63-64.

Note: He realizes that the first novella, “The Thousand and Second Tale”, belongs to Edgar Allan Poe, not Théophile Gautier.

1930

He writes an untitled poem, “The Sea Turned Turquoise and Free”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №115-d., p. 13; №5189; №3320; N. Kvirikadze’s manuscript, №5249; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 109.

Note: The poem is also found untitled with different opening lines (“The Grass Turned Turquoise...”; “The Grass Grows Green in the Field...”).

1930

He writes a poem “Cinema” (“My Shadow, Walk with Me...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №2751; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 110; For dating: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 780.

Note: The title “Own Shadow” is crossed out.

1930

In the second part of Johann Scherr’s “General History of Literature”, titled “Christianity, Ecclesiastical and New Latin Poetry...”, he reads the literal Russian translation of Giuseppe Giusti’s Italian poem “Gingillino”. He then translates it into Georgian as an untitled poem beginning with “I believe in the almighty idol of gold...”.

Source: MGL, t-474, И. Шерр, Всеобщая история литературы, т. I-II, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 348.

1930

At the end of Johann Scherr’s “General History of Literature”, he writes an untitled, unfinished poem: “If only I had someone like you, / So beautiful, if only I had - /Sorrow wouldn’t have followed me and - / Not until today would it have stayed. / If only I had a childhood...”.

Source: MGL, t-474, И. Шерр, Всеобщая история литературы, т. I-II, Saint-Petersburg, 1880, p. 348.

1930

He writes the characters and a brief summary for the play “The Secret of the Wealthy Heir”.

Source: MGL, d-495-8, G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 465-468;

1930

He writes an untitled poem “Of a Meteorite, a Bolide, or a Fragment of the Moon...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №11-19; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 160; For dating: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 792.

1930

In the eighth volume of the “Small Soviet Encyclopedia”, a brief encyclopedic article titled “Galaktion Tabidze”, written by Platon Kikodze, is published. The article states that Galaktion is a romantic poet who, before the revolution, was a symbolist, and whose work fundamentally transformed after the Sovietization of Georgia. Galaktion is referred to as a “companion” who was among the first to write about industrial themes in Georgian literature. It is noted that the poet’s work enjoys great popularity in Georgia.

Source: Малая советская энциклопедия, Т. 8, Москва, 1930, p. 642.

1930 or later

He makes excerpts from the encyclopedic article about himself in the eighth volume of the “Small Soviet Encyclopedia”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-616, 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 107.

Dating: The Book was published in 1930.

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem “The tiger and the madman echo through the forest...”.

Source: MGL, a-1741, AE in 25 books, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 332;

1930 or later

He reads Prosper Mérimée’s Book “Chronology of the Reign of Charles IX”, making emphases and comments, and translating the epigraphs by François Rabelais and Lope de Vega. In the end, he notes that it is a remarkable Book for a simple soul.

Source: MGL, t-475, Хроника из времен Карла IX, сочинение автора “Театра Клары Газуль” Пр. Мериме, Moscow, 1930, p. 155.

1930 or later

In the first chapter of Prosper Mérimée’s Book “Chronology of the Reign of Charles IX”, he cites an epigraph by François Rabelais, stating that what the Saracens and Barbarians once considered heroism and bravery, Rabelais called plundering and villainy, and he himself names it cynicism. The Ottomans destroyed the most significant architectural monument – the Bagrati Cathedral – and considered it an act of heroism. He notes that this was terror, and he wonders why looting and destruction occurred during times of war.

Source: MGL, t-475, Хроника из времен Карла IX, сочинение автора “Театра Клары Газуль” Пр. Мериме, Moscow, 1930, p. 11.

Note: Based on this text, he writes a poem titled “What the Saracen Once...”.

1930 or later

He is writing a draft of a libretto titled “The East” and listing the names of the composers. Among them are: Zakaria Paliashvili, Giorgi Svanidze, Meliton Balanchivadze, Konstantine Meghvinetukhutsesi, Viktor Dolidze, and Dimitri Arakishvili. The work was meant to demonstrate how beautiful carpets, miniatures, and gazelles are created in the East.

Source: Autograph, GTDA, №103, p. 1,2; GTDA, №398.

1930 or later

He makes a note titled “The Achievements of Our Revolutionary Poetry”, in which he points out that the foremost achievement of the new poetry is the removal of God from literature. No one asks the Almighty for help or daily bread anymore. He points out that the majority of 19th-century Georgian poets were possessed by religious fanaticism. They wrote on themes such as: prayer, the cross, the church, and God. Revolutionary poetry completely expelled these themes and elevated the idea of the world revolution to the status of a god. The devil disappeared from poetry, along with saints and prophets, kings, nobles, and feudalism.

Source: MGL, d-626, 26; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 228-229;

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “While I Was Young...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №70-a, 1802; №4709; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 123.

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “Who Said the Poet Is Good or Bad...”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №70-a, 1792; №4709; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 123.

1930 or later

He writes a poem “The Yard” (“A Washed Sock...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №70-a, 1791; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 124.

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem “When the Army Armed Itself...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №70-a, 1798; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 126.

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem “I Have Praised Your Glory, Homeland, a Thousand Times...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №70-a, 1799; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 127.

1930 or later

He begins working on the poem “Life Is Given to Us”, but after six lines, he does not continue writing.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №70-a, 1819; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 129.

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem “There, the Window of That House...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №8220; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 146.

1930 or later

He writes an untitled poem, “It’s Over! The Sequence of the Storm Ends...”.

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4675; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 148.

1930 or later

He writes a poem “The Map of Adjara with Many Winding Lines” (“I No Longer Recognized the Familiar Body...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1457; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 148.

1930 or later

He writes a poem “The Neva Listened to the Sound of Bullets” (“But of Other Days...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4724; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 149.

1930 or later

He writes a poem “Here Warsaw Appeared” (“Here Warsaw Appeared...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4393; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 155.

1930 or later

He writes a poem “Sheffield” (“Europe Weaves Tirelessly...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4397; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 156.

1930 or later

He reads the Book “Political and Educational Work in the Village”. On the title page, next to the title, he notes his curiosity about whether there is a reading hut in Mtskheta. He writes down a list of materials related to Mtskheta: Mikhail Lermontov’s “The Recluse”, Geronti Kikodze’s letter from Aripioni, Nikoloz Baratashvili’s “Fate of Kartli”, Svetitskhoveli, Andrei Bely’s “Wind from the Caucasus”, Alexander Pushkin’s poem “The Aragvi Roars...”, Arsen’s poem, wrestler Sandro Kandelaki from Mtskheta, Armaz’s inscription, and “Life of Kartli”.

Source: GTSM, 274, “Political and Educational Work in the Village”, Tbilisi, 1930.

1931

January

1931

Until January

He writes a poem “Class Struggle”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №71- 74; 257; 259; 266; 271- 272; 280- 281; 941- 944; 1033; 1910; 4789; 3275-3276; 4790; 3815-3816; 4747; 5178; 5177; 5181; 5179-5180; 5650; d-3,7, p. 58-62 (3755-3759); d-46, p. 1-20; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 187.

Note: The poem appears in sources without a title and under the titles: “The Broken Vase”, “We and You”, “Peach”, and “Send Me Money, Europe”.

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1931

Until January 21

He writes three versions of the untitled poem “Arsena Odzelashvili, What a Boy, Delia!”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-61, 2-3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 216-217.

1931

Until January 21

On January 21, Apolon Tsuladze, along with 20 poets, invites to a feast with sulguni cheese, roasted pig, and good wine.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-61, 8; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 217.

1931

After January 21

In his diary, he writes that he is in a bad mood and must definitely fall.

Source: MGL, d-61, 13; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 218.

1931

After January 21

He writes a letter to be sent to the People’s Commissar of Education Gaioz Devdariani, in which he thanks for the care given to him during the most difficult ten years, when he suffered terribly from unemployment, systematic persecution, homelessness and hunger.

Source: MGL, diary, №61. p. 18-19. G. Tabidze, AE, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 219.

1931

After January 29

In the literary-artistic collection “Soviet Poets and Writers of Georgia”, he makes emphases on the introductory article and the lines of poems, including the first stanza of Vladimir Mayakovsky’s poem “Vladikavkaz-Tbilisi”. He also writes the last stanza from Simon Kirsanov’s poem “For the First Time Here”.

Source: MGL, t-290, collection “Грузии поэты и писатели СССР”, Tbilisi, 1931, p. 2, 16.

1931

After January 30

Olya Okujava leaves a letter at home, drawing attention to the January 30, 1931 issue of the newspaper Pravda, which contains interesting material about the clash between two tumultuous forces in the world.

Source: O. Okujava’s letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-431; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 200.

Dating: The letter mentions the January 30, 1931 issue of the newspaper.

February

1931

February 7 or later

He receives a letter from Olya Okujava, in which she writes that Galaktion's poems reflect each era he has lived through. He has put in great effort to ensure that not a single thread is left out. Therefore, she expresses a desire that none of Galaktion's moments be lost for future generations. She advises him to always date his works so that they do not exist without context, "without time, era, and space". Time is merciless and erases everyone and everything, but his poems will endure.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-373-a; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 200-201.

1931

Until February 15

Olya Okujava visits the house. She is hungry, but neither Galaktion, nor bread, food, or oil can be found at home. She leaves a note saying that it is shameful and a crime to live like this. She asks him to buy bread and oil. She cannot understand how Galaktion ruined the shoes that she had bought with great effort.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-428; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 203;

1931

February 15

Olya Okujava visits the house, bringing 20 pounds of oil to fill the oil stove and lamp, and she pours the rest into bottles on the balcony for Galaktion to have warmth and light in the apartment. She also wants to buy bread and food but is left with only enough money for the return tram ride. She leaves a letter saying she is going to a meeting and will visit again the next morning. She asks him that if he finds himself near her workplace, to drop by at 4 o'clock; otherwise, not to waste time in the street but to work at home. In the meantime, she will arrive, and they can have lunch together and then go to the cinema or somewhere else.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-419; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 201;

1931

February 17

He attends the grand opening and banquet of the Writers' Club.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-73, 25; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 325.

1931

February 18

It's raining terribly in Tbilisi. After work, Olya Okujava stops by the store around eight-thirty in the evening, buys some things, and heads up to Galaktion's place. She finds the door and shutters locked and knocks for a long time. She starts to suspect that Galaktion is home but is not alone, which is why he isn't opening the door.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-413; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 201-202;.

1931

February 19

Olya Okujava sees Galaktion on the street with a woman, but neither of them notices her. Later, Olya goes up to his apartment and leaves him a note, in which she writes about how she found his door locked the previous evening and how she saw him with a woman on the street just an hour ago.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-413; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 201-202;

1931

February 20

At the VI session of the Central Executive Committee of Georgia, they announce him as a candidate for membership in this organization.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-73, 27; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 325.

1931

February 21

The newspaper Musha publishes an announcement stating that the Federation of Soviet Writers of Georgia is organizing an event at the Writers' Club to celebrate the tenth anniversary of Georgia's annexation. During the festive evening, a report will be presented by Petre Sharia, and the poets who will introduce their works to the audience include Galaktion Tabidze, Giorgi Kuchishvili, Simon Chikovani, Titsian Tabidze, Alio Mashashvili, Konstantine Lortkipanidze, Sandro Euli, Grigol Khechuashvili, Grigol Naruoshvili, Razhden Gvetadze, Irakli Abashidze, Giorgi Katchakhidze, and Kale Bobokhidze.

Source: "At the Writers' Club", newspaper Musha, 1931, №44, p. 4.

1931

February 25

The newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti publishes an article by Dimitri Benashvili titled "Ten Years of Proletarian Literature", which reviews Georgian literature following the annexation of Georgia. The publication notes that since the day of annexation, the right wing of the literary scene has attempted to obstruct the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat in Georgia. For instance, Alexandre Abasheli compared the annexation to the invasion of Agha Muhammad Khan. Geronti Kikodze and Seit Devdariani have moved into a phase of covert struggle. In such circumstances, Georgian proletarian literature has strong allies in the form of Galaktion Tabidze and Simon Chikovani.

Source: D. Benashvili, "Ten Years of Proletarian Literature", newspaper Akhalgazrda Komunisti, 1931, №48, (February 25) p. 11.

1931

February 25

The newspaper Komunisti publishes a letter by Benito Buachidze titled "Ten Years of Georgian Literature", in which he evaluates Georgian Soviet literature from 1921 to 1931. According to the author, the Georgian Mensheviks had their own figures in literature who greeted the establishment of Soviet power in Georgia with hostility. Among these artists, he names Ioseb Grishashvili, Konstantine Gamsakhurdia, Alexandre Abasheli, Vakhtang Kotetishvili, Pavle Ingorokva, Shalva Dadiani, and the "Tsisperkantslebi". Buachidze believes that the first poet to follow the path of true comradeship, condemn his own past, and join the ranks of the builders of socialism was Galaktion Tabidze. By the tenth anniversary of the establishment of Soviet power, he succeeded in traversing the path of comradeship and became a genuine ally of the revolution.

Source: B. Buachidze, "Ten Years of Georgian Literature", Newspaper Komunisti, 1931, №47, p. 11.

Note: Benito Buachidze's article was also published in the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, No. 1-2, p. 36-37.

1931

February 25

A fragment from the poem "Revolutionary Georgia" is published in the newspaper Saliteruro Gazeti, under the title "These Ten Years".

Source: Magazine Saliteruro Gazeti, February 25, 1931, p. 4.

1931

After February 25

He writes a poem "Press".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3501-3502; №3925; №5548; №2305; №3917; №3520; №1072; №3500; №3924; №1073; №3919; №28897-50, p. 144-149. G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 22;

Note: The poem is found in the sources both untitled and with the titles: "His Majesty the Press", "Mass", and "The Founding of the New City".

1931

After February 25

In his diary, he makes notes about Georgian poetry. He quotes a conversation with a member of the French Academy and Pierre-Jean de Béranger. The young poet states that he tries to name every subject in his poems by its true name, rather than metaphorically. He simply calls the sea "the sea" and completely removes the names of Neptune, Thetis, Aphrodite, and the Nereids. This simple and clear approach to poetry is acceptable to him. Before the revolution, such mythological names were revived by some poets. After the October Revolution, these ridiculous and meaningless names should have been forgotten. However, fourteen years after the revolution, works full of mythological tales are still being printed in Georgia – Konstantine Gamsakhurdia’s “Dionysus’s Smile”, Grigol Robakidze’s “The Snake’s Shirt”, and Titsian Tabidze’s “The New Colchis”, which talks about Medea. The writer believes that Medea’s poison was the swamps that the Soviet government began to drain. He notes that Georgian poetry mimics Russian poetry just as the monkey Teko, brought to Tbilisi by the Russian circus performer Vladimir Durov, mimicked its trainer. He is captivated by the Roman poet, the author of lyrical melodies – Horace, who protected poetry’s “mild madness” from the attacks of the masses and argued that poets are politically useful citizens for the state.

Source: MGL, d-65, 13-15; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 246-248.

1931

January-February

The magazine Mnatobi publishes the poem “Class Struggle”.

Source: Magazine Mnatobi, 1931, №1-2, p. 13-24.

1931

February

The end of Galaktion Tabidze’s poem “Revolutionary Georgia” (“Loud, loud, loud...”) is published in the magazine Mnatobi.

Source: G. Tabidze, “Revolutionary Georgia”, Mnatobi, 1931, №1-2, p. 13-24.

1931

February

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, Valerian Luarsamidze’s article “The Situation on the Literary Front” is published, reviewing current literary trends. In the work, Grigol Robakidze and the “Tsisperkantslebi” are sharply criticized for failing to grasp the revolutionary reality and merely attempting to become “companions” in a declarative manner. Among the writers who are trying to become allies of the proletarian revolution, the critic names Galaktion Tabidze, Razhden Gvetadze, and Simon Chikovani, who, despite their petty-bourgeois wavering, are attempting to portray the processes related to socialist industrialization.

Source: V. Luarsamidze, “The Situation on the Literary Front”, magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №1-2, p. 119-129.

1931

February

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, the poem “The Legions Are Coming” is published.

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №1-2, p. 36-37.

1931

February

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, under the title “Writers’ Resolution”, a statement in support of Maxim Gorky is published. Georgian authors express solidarity with the leader of Soviet literature, Maxim Gorky, who is being persecuted by Western bourgeoisie. Among other writers, Galaktion Tabidze signs the statement.

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №1-2, p. 214-215.

1931

After February

He reads the magazine Mnatobi, making highlights and annotations. He writes questions on Simon Chikovani’s poem “The Poet’s Word”, which opens the issue, asking why the first issue of the federation’s magazine begins with the word “I” and what the other words in the poem mean.

Source: MGL, t-535, magazine Mnatobi, 1931, January-February, №1-2, p. 3-4.

1931

After February

He reads Noe Zomleteli’s poem “Soviet Georgia” in the magazine Mnatobi. He is curious about the references to the sky, questions where such things have been heard before, and notes that Ajameṭi has nothing to do with it. Next to the stanza “How many ritual oxen have been slaughtered, or how many flocks of sheep gathered”, he writes lines from a folk poem: “He slaughtered a hundred sheep and two hundred ritual oxen”. He notes that this is an old poem and that there is no need to transpose it into modern times.

Source: MGL, t-535, magazine Mnatobi, 1931, January-February, №1-2, p. 5-6.

1931

After February

He reads Giorgi Leonidze’s poem “In the Stalin-Named Repair Factory” in the magazine Mnatobi. He underlines lines, marks them with numerous question marks, and writes above that the poem’s author is the director of the Mtatsminda Writers’ Museum (which includes figures like Alexander Griboyedov, Alexandre Chavchavadze, and others) and that this poem serves as a kind of shield to maintain his position.

Source: MGL, t-535, magazine Mnatobi, 1931, January-February, №1-2, p. 7-8.

1931

After February

He reads Razhden Gvetadze’s poem “The Merkviladze Sisters” in the magazine Mnatobi. He writes that it is not a poem but idiocy - an idealization of the cradle, the moon, the hearth, and the household.

Source: MGL, t-535, magazine Mnatobi, 1931, January-February, №1-2, p. 7-8.

1931

After February

He reads Konstantine Lortkipanidze's novel "Down with the Corn Republic" in the magazine Mnatobi. He is curious whether it is possible to include a hundred-page poor-quality material in a magazine, but he also notes that there are good sections as well.

Source: MGL, t-535, magazine Mnatobi, 1931, January-February, №1-2, p. 13-105.

1931

After February

In the magazine Mnatobi, he makes highlights and annotations in the bibliography of Dimitri Benashvili regarding the poems of Pridon Naroushvili. He concludes that it is a childish review.

Source: MGL, t-535, magazine Mnatobi, 1931, January-February, №1-2, p. 245-248.

March

1931

March

The magazine Mnatobi publishes the conclusion of Shalva Radiani's article "Ten Years of Georgian Literature", in which it is stated that the deepest transformation toward revolutionary ideas among the old generation of writers occurred in the work of Galaktion Tabidze. According to the author, the poet had occasional setbacks, but the main trajectory of his poetry remained correct. Based on his commitment to becoming an ally of the proletarian revolution, he created poems such as "We, Poets of Georgia", "This is the Roar of an Entire Epoch", "The East", "This Poem", "John Reed", "Pacifism", "Epoch", "Revolutionary Georgia", and others. Galaktion Tabidze understands that art must stand by the new life being built on the front of art.

Source: G. Tabidze, "Revolutionary Georgia", Mnatobi, 1931, №3, p. 177-213.

April

1931

April 8

The newspaper Musha publishes a notice about the release of the new issue №1-2 of the magazine Mnatobi, which, along with works by other authors, features Galaktion Tabidze's poem "Revolutionary Georgia".

Source: Newspaper Musha, 1931, №80, p. 4.

1931

April 14

The newspaper Musha publishes information about the printing of issue №1-2 of the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, which, among other materials, includes Galaktion Tabidze's poem "The Legions Are Coming".

Source: Newspaper Musha, 1931, №86, p. 4.

1931

April 16

Razhden Gvetadze, in a letter sent to Shalva Soslani, notes that nothing particularly noteworthy happened at the discussion held at the Writers' Palace, which concluded that very day. However, Sandro Shanshiashvili stood out, expressing the opinion that Galaktion Tabidze's elevation to such heights was undeserved. He cited examples of obscure and convoluted passages from Galaktion's poems, suggesting that not only parts but entire poems were like this, though this topic was considered taboo.

Source: Correspondence of Tsisperkantselis, Book I, Tbilisi, 2018, p. 328-329.

1931

April 29

He attends David Kldiashvili's funeral, where he overhears comments from the right-wingers about him, stating that Galaktion introduced literary dumping, bringing high art down to a level where he is selling it for a mere pittance.

Source: MGL, d-53, 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 122.

May

1931

Until May 1

For six months, he doesn't write anything in his diary, going through many trials, including unemployment and fleeing to the village to stay with his brother due to lack of money. Abesalom helps him out, even giving him a coat, but after returning from the village, he falls ill with the flu again.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121.

1931

Until May 1

After being assigned to the Palace of Arts, his pension increases by 150 roubles, bringing the total to 200 roubles.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121.

1931

Until May 1

His hand hurts. He undergoes surgery, but his finger still doesn't cure.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121.

1931

May 1

In his diary, he writes that articles about him will be published in newspapers such as Na Rubezhe Vostoka, Zarya Vostoka, Komunisti, Akhalgazrda Komunisti, as well as in an Armenian magazine and in the journal Proletaruli Mtserloba. In his opinion, all of this indicates that he is a central figure in Georgian poetry.

Source: MGL, d-53, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121.

1931

May 1

In his diary, he writes that the apartment on Krylov Street is the best for him, and he is not considering any other apartment at that time.

Source: MGL, d-53, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121.

1931

May 1

In his diary, he outlines nine future plans: to publish “Revolutionary Georgia” as a book, organize a grand evening on May 25, publish the Book in Russia, restore his health, assist his mother and Olya, launch an attack on the Palace of Arts, utilize a Russian newspaper to strengthen the poetry front, promote “Revolutionary Georgia” in all newspapers, and rally writers, artists, and friends for propaganda. He emphasizes that everything should be done methodically, with careful planning for each hour, and that he must act energetically to succeed. To bolster propaganda and authority among the masses, he needs a newspaper and should not shy away from hard work, negotiating with the writers’ union and the People’s Commissariat of Education for support in organizing the event.

Source: MGL, d-53, 31-32; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 121-122.

1931

May 1

In his diary, he writes that Tbilisi celebrates the First of May with flags and joy. Twenty-four days later, on May 25, there will be happiness and excitement in Tbilisi for his evening event.

Source: MGL, d-53, 32; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 122.

1931

May 1

In his diary, he writes that it hasn’t been long since the rightists accused him of literary dumping. He believes that when organizing the evening event, he cannot rely on either them or the Tsisperkantselis. He should appeal only to the proletarian writers and others only to the extent necessary for the latter.

Source: MGL, d-53, 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 122.

1931

May 1

In his diary, he writes that the wife of a neighbouring communist expelled their maid because she participated in the May Day demonstration. He notes that it’s disgusting for anyone who has never experienced unemployment, and in general, life is repulsive.

Source: MGL, d-53, 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 122-123.

1931

May 7

The newspaper Komunisti publishes Grigol Khoperia's article "Galaktion Tabidze: Epoch", which serves as a review of the poet's new book. The author develops the idea that Galaktion was the first companion of the revolution among Georgian writers, and now he is more than just a companion, with his poetry elevated to a revolutionary height. According to the reviewer, Galaktion deepened Baratashvili's pessimistic lyricism and pushed it to the extreme. The first phase of the poet's work is shrouded in boundless pessimism. During the revolutionary era, Galaktion shattered his own lyre and underwent an incredible transformation, becoming the Georgian Mayakovsky. Grigol Khoperia asserts that Galaktion repeated Bryusov's actions by not only accepting the revolution but also joining it. The poet's new Book "Epoch" is a magnificent artistic representation of the revolution. It depicts the contemporary era with the artist's magnificent hand. While the reviewer notes that there are some artistically weak spots in the book, this is natural. What matters is that while reading the poem, we feel we are dealing with a great master of words and a remarkable artist.

Source: G. M-li, Galaktion Tabidze, "Epoch", newspaper Komunisti, 1931, №103 (May 07), p. 4.

Note: The article was published under the pseudonym "G. M-li".

1931

May 10

On November 15, 1930, the Council of the Writers' Federation held a purge of the federation concerning right-wing reactionary writers. Paolo Iashvili, along with representatives of the right wing, launched an attack against Galaktion Tabidze, claiming that there are no allies, but he was opposed, and others demanded his expulsion from the hall.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 34; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 123.

1931

May 10

After the session held regarding the purge of the Writers' Federation, he writes in his diary that Benito Buachidze plans to eliminate the group of right-wingers. He believes that significant literary battles are expected. Allies will unite with the proletarian writers, while the right-wingers will use all means against him, and it is essential to engage in a steadfast struggle against them.

Source: MGL, d-53, 34; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 123.

1931

May

In the magazine Droscha, an article by Karlo Meladze titled "Notes on Current Literature" is published, in which Galaktion's works are reviewed alongside those of other authors. K. Meladze believes that Galaktion Tabidze has become the foremost singer of the socialist era, a claim that the critic supports by referencing the poem “Revolutionary Georgia”.

Source: K. Meladze, “Notes on Current Literature”, magazine Drosha, 1931, №7-8, p. 16.

1931

May

The poem “A Warm Salute to Proletarian Writers!” is published in the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba.

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №4-5, p. 36-38.

June

1931

June 16

The secretariat of the Georgian Association of Proletarian Writers calls on proletarian writers and their closest allies to actively participate in the artistic representation of the heroes of socialist construction in literature. To address this important political-literary task, the secretariat issues a resolution allocating writers to specific locations and enterprises. According to the decision, Galaktion is assigned to the silk factory along with Irakli Abashidze, Iakinte Lisasvili, and Karlos Kaladze. A three-member commission is established by the secretariat to oversee the writers. The commission consists of Simon Tsereteli (head), Varlam Luarsamidze, and Aleksandre Sulava. Under the secretariat’s resolution, writers assigned to various institutions must submit artistic works no later than one month from their allocation, after which the pieces will be reviewed by both the commission and the assembly of working-class musicians. The works created by the writers within the month will be sent by the commission for publication in various magazines and newspapers, and a collection will also be published featuring pieces about the heroes of the five-year plan.

Source: Newspaper Musha, 1931, №137, p. 2.

July

1931

July 19

The newspaper Musha features an overview titled “Bibliography”, which discusses the first three issues of the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba from 1931. The reviewer talks about Galaktion’s poem “The Legions are Coming”. According to the assessment, with this work, Galaktion moves closer to proletarian literature, becoming more aligned with it than mere alliance. The review also notes that the poet ignites a fire of enthusiasm regarding the themes of revolution.

Source: “Bibliography”, Newspaper Musha, 1931, №163, p. 4.

1931

Until July 23

He writes two versions of the poem “Let Every Red Army Man Stand Like a Lion”: the first one untitled “I Missed the White Paper...”, and the second one titled “Oh, Adventurers!”.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 87-88; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 168-169.

Note: In the autograph, the titles "Bitter Memory" and "Adventurers Sitting in a Café" are crossed out.

1931

Until July 23

At the Palace of Arts, one writer asks how the international content of Georgian literature can be given a national form when no one is focusing on the main issue – the language. Another quotes Grigol Orbeliani's words: "If the language deteriorates, the nation will also decline". A third person says that the language of Rustaveli, which was evolving, suddenly collapsed. Galaktion thinks that the language of someone who makes such judgments is fundamentally flawed. In his view, there was the language of the Holy Scriptures, the language of Rustaveli, the language of Anton Catholicos, and the language of the nineteenth century, with many changes. Finally, the revolutionary language came with new words that people speak today: epoch, industry, communism, five-year plan. This means that the language is enriched with new words and takes on a new form. It will further develop with national forms and international content, until society has one international language.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 90; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 168-170.

1931

Until July 23

In the 1929-1930 address Book of Tbilisi and the city plan guide, he makes highlights, comments, and sketches. He writes that he is interested in who manages the closed dining hall and the cooperative in the Central Executive Committee. He thinks that he will need an identity card from the Writers' Federation.

Source: MGL, t-391, Путеводитель по Тифлису – Адреса, справки, план города, Tbilisi, 1931;

1931

Until July 23

In the 1929-1930 address Book of Tbilisi and the city plan guide, he writes that on the 24th, he will withdraw 300 roubles. Out of this, 50 roubles are needed for a hat, 50 for a coat, 50 for his own shoes, and 50 for Olya Okujava's shoes.

Source: MGL, t-391, Путеводитель по Тифлису – Адреса, справки, план города, Tbilisi, 1931.

1931

July 23

He writes a statement addressed to the People's Commissariat of Supply. He informs them that he is a candidate of the VI convocation of the Central Executive Committee of Georgia, a member of the Presidium of the Writers' Federation, a member of the editorial board of the journal Mnatobi, the head of literary circles, preparing books, and working according to a strict schedule on the more complex cultural, specifically literary front, which requires great and intense labour. He asks that a closed distributor be assigned to him urgently, as he is in extreme financial difficulty.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 91; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 172.

1931

After July 23

He writes an untitled poem "He has forever parted from the clouded mountain...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 93; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 171.

Note: The title "Workers" is crossed out.

1931

After July 23

He writes a poem titled "The Establishment of Revolutionary Poetry".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 94; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 171-172.

1931

After July 23

In his diary, he writes autobiographical details. He notes that alongside the revolution's fighters, he overcame many obstacles, and with the help of the party, he published his first Book in 1914. As soon as he appeared on the literary scene, he became a central figure in the new poetry. He attended conspiratorial meetings, actively worked in the literary field, travelled around various regions of Georgia with other revolutionary poets, and energetically engaged in literary propaganda through lectures, which inspired admiration in the towns and villages affected by the reaction. The bourgeoisie hated him fiercely, especially Kita Abashidze, but he believed the regime was to blame for this. In contemporary Georgian literature, he plays a key role. During his time in Moscow, his health deteriorated. They urged him to seek treatment, but he did not want to leave the city, which was close to his heart.

Source: MGL, d-53. 95-96; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 172-173.

1931

After July 23

He writes an untitled poem "The intellectual, and the legitimate child...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 97; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 174.

1931

After July 23

He writes a poem titled "Let us erect a monument".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 98-99; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 175-176.

Note: The poem was later published under the title "For the Victory of October".

1931

After July 23

He writes a letter to the revolutionary leader who is steadfastly fighting and dedicated to the complete liberation of Soviet Georgia, its spiritual strength, and its empowerment. He informs him that when returning from Abkhazia, during their crossing of the Enguri River, their car fell into the middle of the river as a result of an accident, and they barely survived by holding onto a beam. Fortunately, he managed to save his work "Revolutionary Georgia", whose pages are still damp with the waves of the Enguri.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 100; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 175-176.

1931

July

The magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba publishes the poem "Let Every Red Army Soldier Stand Like a Lion".

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №6-7, p. 41-42.

1931

July

The magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba publishes Alexandre Sulava's article "War and Literature". The author compares certain trends in Soviet and European literature, noting that Galaktion Tabidze's "Epoch" should be considered an outstanding Book on the imperialist war and revolution.

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №6-7, p. 178-196.

1931

July

The magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba publishes Valerian Luarsamidze's article "Georgian Girondist Literature", which reviews the works of various Georgian writers, including an overview of Galaktion Tabidze's creativity. According to the critic, from 1914 to 1921, Galaktion was a mystic and a propagandist of pessimism. He argues that the poet is now striving to appropriately reflect social issues and aspects of public life in his work, as the proletarian revolution has transformed Galaktion into an enthusiast of a new era and a new country.

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №6-7, p. 178-196.

August

1931

August 13

The newspaper Musha publishes an announcement that the fourth and fifth issues of the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba for 1931 have been released and are for sale. Included is the table of contents of the publication, which features Galaktion's poem "Salute to Proletarian Writers" among other materials.

Source: Newspaper Musha, 1931, №183, p. 4.

1931

August 14

The newspaper Musha publishes an article titled "Bibliography", which reviews the first four issues of the magazine Mnatobi from 1931. The reviewer discusses Galaktion's poem "Revolutionary Georgia", whose individual sections were printed in the first and second issues of the magazine. They note that this work is a text written with joyful uplift and great revolutionary fire. According to the reviewer, the poet has a keen understanding of the intricacies of the contemporary era, which allows him to depict the achievements and challenges of collective farming with realistic colours.

Source: "Bibliography", Newspaper Musha, 1931, №184, p. 4.

1931

August 28

The head of the Georgian section of the radio is requesting materials for the Radio Gazette. He thinks that a fragment from "Revolutionary Georgia" should be provided during the book's release days. He considers it desirable to have a special radio evening dedicated to the book's release, for which a good report should be written, and the actors should be given poems.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 1; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 221.

1931

After August 28

He writes an untitled poem "It is easier than from the cliff of Eklari..."

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 6; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 222.

1931

After August 28

In his diary, he writes that after drinking a couple of glasses, wine eases the sorrow of the heart. After drinking wine, all secrets are revealed, and it no longer seems that the walls can hear you. Mountains will spin, and clouds will stir. Wine has such power that if poured into a jackal's throat, it could bring down a wolf.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 8; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 223.

September

1931

September 3-5

A VI plenum of the Executive Committee of the Proletarian Writers' Association is held at the Writers' House. In his report, Benito Buachidze criticizes the right-wing writers – former members of the Academic Association and the Tsisperkantselis. He names Galaktion Tabidze, Simon Chikovani, Razhden Gvetadze, and Sergo Kldiashvili as the literary companions and allies of proletarian literature.

Source: National Archives of Georgia, 38-1-148; R. Kverenchkhiladze, “Writers' Union of Georgia – 1917-1982”, Tbilisi, 1983, p. 89.

1931

September 5

At the VI plenum of the Executive Committee of the Proletarian Writers' Association, Karlo Meladze mocks Grigol Mushishvili's opinion that Galaktion Tabidze is the Georgian George Byron and should transform into Vladimir Mayakovsky. The audience also laughs. Galaktion is curious if there is cynicism in Karlo Meladze's speech.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 22; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 228.

Note: Karlo Meladze is referred to in the source by his last name, and Grigol Khoperia is mentioned by his pseudonym “Mushishvili”.

1931

September 5

At the VI plenum of the Executive Committee of the Proletarian Writers' Association, Benito Buachidze speaks about the schematic nature of Galaktion Tabidze's work. This pleases Titsian Tabidze and Alexandre Abasheli, as they are not the only ones accused of schematism.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 22; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 228.

Note: Karlo Meladze is referred to in the source by his last name, and Grigol Khoperia is mentioned by his pseudonym “Mushishvili”.

1931

September 5

After the VI plenum of the Proletarian Writers' Association, he wonders if the speeches of Karlo Meladze and Benito Buachidze are the first steps taken against him and whether they have some plan for the future. However, compared to the aggression directed at other companions, he considers it a mere trivial matter. He believes it is essential to take some step, an active public demonstration, evenings, and critical writings, but he knows he cannot achieve anything alone and needs loyal supporters. He concludes that the proletarians and other writers will not defeat him.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 22-23; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 228.

1931

September 6

He sits in the garden of Freedom Square, which, after the cutting of the western part, took on the shape of a revolver's holster. There is unusual movement in the garden, as the tram line near Vere Hill is closed due to renovations. Cars, wagons, and vans rush by. In the middle, there is a bust of Aleksander Pushkin. The garden photographer stands with a tripod and retouches a picture. Unemployed people, vacationers, and a woman with a crying infant sit in the garden. Galaktion notes in his diary that, amidst the noise of the street, Hector Berlioz discovered rhythm and the beginning of labour.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 20-21; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 227.

1931

September 6

An article titled "The Plenary of the Executive Committee of the Proletarian Writers' Association" is published in the newspaper Komunisti without specifying the author. It includes fragments from the speeches at the VI plenum, which was opened on September 3 at the Palace of Arts. It is noted that during the debate, the writers pointed out a major mistake made by Grigol Mushishvili when evaluating Galaktion Tabidze's work. He compared Galaktion to George Gordon Byron, claiming that he should become Vladimir Mayakovsky.

Source: "The Plenum of the Board of the Georgian Association of Proletarian Literature", Newspaper Komunisti, September 06, 1931, №205, p. 4.

1931

September 8

In his diary, he writes that the September 6 issue of the newspaper Komunisti published an article about the VI plenum of the Executive Committee of the Proletarian Writers' Association, in which it is mentioned that Grigol Mushishvili made a major mistake in evaluating Galaktion Tabidze's poetry when he claimed that Tabidze is a Byron and should become Mayakovsky. He wonders what this ambiguity means. He thinks that the article was written by Razhden Gvetadze.

Source: MGL, d-63, 23-25; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 228-229.

1931

After September 8

Shalva Mamaladze informs that Alexandre Duduchava can choose a newsreel for the evening, which is available for sale and not very expensive.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-63, 26; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 229.

1931

September 11

In his diary, he writes that the right-wingers were permanently defeated after the VI plenum of proletarian literature, and the proletarian writers may now turn their attack on him as well. In the newspaper Komunisti, the information directed against Grigol Mushishvili also contains criticism of him.

Source: MGL, d-53, 34; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 123.

1931

September 19

The newspaper Zarya Vostoka reports that there will be a total lunar eclipse on September 26, which will be visible from any point in the territory of the Soviet Union.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-495, 9; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XX, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 466-467.

1931

September 19

He reads in Moscow newspapers that on September 26, at 20:54 Moscow time, a total lunar eclipse will begin, which will be visible throughout the entire Soviet Union. The moon will gradually be covered by a dark shadow, and at the peak of the eclipse, it will shine with a faint purplish disc. The eclipse will last for 1 hour and 25 minutes. He plans to observe it.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 57; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 139.

1931

After September 19

He is thinking of organizing a radio evening, during which poems will be read by Akaki Vasadze and Tamar Chavchavadze.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-64, 6; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 231.

1931

After September 19

He writes an untitled poem "The very first example...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-64, 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 231.

1931

After September 19

He writes two versions of the untitled poem "You were expecting it, weren't you?".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-64, 15-16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 233.

1931

After September 19

He writes an untitled poem “To the teacher of Kistauri...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-64, 19; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 235.

1931

After September 19

The collection of Galaktion Tabidze’s poems “Revolutionary Georgia” is published.

Source: G. Tabidze, “Where is Revolutionary Georgia Headed?”, Tbilisi, 1931, Publisher “State Publishing House”;

Note: The title on the inside title page of the Book states “Where is Revolutionary Georgia Going?”

Dating: The record shows that on September 19, 1931, the Book was printed, but the cover was not yet ready.

1931

Until September 26

He writes a poem “Oil Extraction” (“As They Extract Oil from the Ground...”).

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4732; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 160; For dating: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 792.

1931

September 26

He stands on the balcony, and despite feeling cold and having a cold, he observes the lunar eclipse. He doesn’t have a watch and doesn’t know exactly when it will begin. The last rays of the setting sun are a shade of melon, and the poet seems to even sense the taste. Beyond the botanical garden, he sees a plum-coloured cloud, which moves heavily with a westward push toward the east. He has never seen such a beautiful moon, which majestically illuminates the sky and can tell the stories of the whole country, as it watches over the entire world. The eclipse begins from the east – first, a shadow appears on the left, gradually covering a part of the moon, increasing until it is completely dark. He paints the lunar eclipse in stages.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record and sketch, MGL, d-53. 56-61; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 138-142.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes about what the proletarian writers did to the Tsisperkantselis. They clashed with each other, took them to the leather factory, made them change their ties, took away their sonnet, broke their rhythm, ruined their assonance, threatened them, and forced them to write a poem that they themselves fear, thereby putting an end to it.

Source: MGL, d-53. 64; GTDA, №272, p. 17-18. G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 144.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that Oscar Wilde's "Snobbery" – when everyone agrees with you, that's when you realize you're wrong – is common among revolutionaries, and he thinks that the outright rejection of truth simply because everyone agrees with it is dangerous political snobbery.

Source: MGL, d-53. 67; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 146-147.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that he spent the winter so nervously that he himself didn't know what was happening to him. The weather was bad, and life didn't seem like life. After winter ended, he felt better, but materially, nothing had improved. He hopes that everything will get better.

Source: MGL, d-53. 69; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 150.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that the movie "The Lyre" is excellent, and anyone who has seen it will never forget it.

Source: MGL, d-53. 69; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 150.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes Mark Twain's words that in his century, there were two remarkable people – Napoleon Bonaparte and Helen Keller. The doctor, however, said that Helen Keller was higher, as she was deaf-mute, almost blind, had no sense of smell, and only had the sense of touch. With the sense of touch, she learned four languages and became a prominent figure of her time.

Source: MGL, d-53. 70; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that the profession leaves a mark on the body. If a person writes constantly, they will wear out and develop a hunchback.

Source: MGL, d-53. 70; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that great intellectual work depends on great physical ability. According to specialists' conclusions, if a person is physically exhausted, they won't be able to achieve much intellectually either.

Source: MGL, d-53. 70; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that the development of sexual anomalies is prevented by engaging in public life and regular exercise. He notes that Lenin was physically very well-developed.

Source: MGL, d-53. 70; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151.

1931

After September 26

He watches Dziga Vertov's film "Man with a Movie Camera" and focuses on the fact that it lacks both a plot and captions, showing only the dynamic nature of a modern factory.

Source: MGL, d-53. 70; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 151.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that poetry needs help to find an ideological, class-based line. Part of the writers are unable to work creatively, while others have the ability to create but are excluded from inactivity, as they cannot exist independently. He concludes that the revolution has proven the non-existence of the independence of art and its above-class nature.

Source: MGL, d-53. 70; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 152.

1931

After September 26

He writes a poem "To Sergei Yesenin".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 71; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 152.

1931

After September 26

He writes two versions of the untitled poem "Not Ermile, not Petre, not Ivan..."

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 71-72; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 152-155.

1931

After September 26

He writes an untitled poem "There is no magazine..."

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 72; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 153-154.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that a new 200 cd/qm electronic light bulb has been invented for apartments, the same as the ultraviolet sun, which serves as a replacement for the sun of Davos and also has medicinal properties. It consumes 3.5 kopecks per hour and 2 roubles and 10 kopecks per month.

Source: MGL, d-53. 73; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 155.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that the Mingrelian language, spoken by 50,000 people, has its own literature, and only about a hundred people write in Mingrelian. He thinks that sincere love for one's native language could have sparked the desire to write in the dialect that doesn't extend beyond Chaladidi.

Source: MGL, d-53. 77; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 162.

1931

After September 26

In his diary, he writes that in his childhood, he often saw how the little executioners would take captured mice into the field, pour oil on them for amusement, set them on fire, and release them into the fields, where the burning mice would run. This incident reminds him of the experiments on right-wing writers, who endured a lot of oil and fire, and only the breeze coming through open windows cools their skin, which has been significantly scorched by their impudent jokes. He thinks that although he has seen many experiments, none like this one, and what is still good is that those set aflame sincerely believe in the cooling breeze coming through the open window.

Source: MGL, d-53. 79; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 164.

1931

After September 26

He writes an untitled poem "Sailors and Emblems...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 82; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 164-165.

Note: The poem is found in sources under the title "Transport" with a probable date of the 1930s.

1931

After September 26

He writes two versions of the untitled poem "Nor the Azure appeared in the sky..."

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 84-85; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 165-167.

Note: The first version of the poem is included in the last three stanzas of the poem "Drilling of Oily Places," dated to the 1930s. The second version's three stanzas are followed by two stanzas from the untitled poem "Sailors and Emblems...".

1931

After September 26

While traveling on the tram, a woman sits ahead, wearing an old-fashioned wide hat and a pin as large as a skewer, which bothers those seated on the transport. He thinks it would be aesthetically inappropriate to say anything but eventually decides that a poet should not avoid his duty and gives the woman a remark. In response, the woman tells him that she remembers his earlier brilliant poems, but now he probably doesn't even know what he is aiming for and will forever ruin his name. Galaktion thinks that the woman is still following the old path, even though the country's political, social, and economic conditions have completely changed. He doesn't realize that the time for his earlier poems is gone forever.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53. 86; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 167.

1931

September 29

He writes a statement addressed to the Federation of Soviet Writers of Georgia, requesting his due salary of 30 roubles, and later confirms receipt of the amount with his signature.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-572, 5; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXI, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 362.

1931

September

In the magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, Benito Buachidze's article "Artistic Literature Development Needs Planned Leadership" is published, discussing contemporary literary processes and the prospects for the development of Georgian literature. The critic reflects on Galaktion Tabidze's poetry alongside other authors and notes that the poet's ideological development has become evident, as he has come closer to proletarian literature and established himself as a valuable ally writer. According to the article's author, Galaktion still needs to work on deeply understanding reality. He believes that the poet will overcome all difficulties, a hope that is clearly indicated by Galaktion's recently published works.

Source: Magazine Proletaruli Mtserloba, 1931, №8-9, p. 173-187.

October

1931

October 3

At a meeting with the collective of the printing house of the chef's production, Tamar Chavchavadze reads Galaktion Tabidze's poems – "The Shock-Workers" and "From Revolutionary Georgia".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-64, 24; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 236.

1931

October 4

He meets Varlam Mikadze, who talks about the poems read by Tamar Chavchavadze at the meeting with the collective of the printing house of the chef's production the previous day – “The Shock-Workers” and “From Revolutionary Georgia”.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-64, 24; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 236.

1931

After October 4

He writes an untitled poem “We will fight with the army, everyone...”

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-64, 27-28; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 237;

1931

October 18

He writes an early version of the poem “The Death of the Unemployed”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, 70-a, p. 1793; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 51.

Note: The poem appears in sources untitled and under the titles: “In the Depths of Paris” and “The Death of the Drunken Tyrant”.

November

1931

Until November 1

He is preparing a statement to be sent to the Presidium of the Proletarian Writers' Association and the Writers' Union. He writes that he plans to hold a major literary evening or morning event in the near future at one of Tbilisi's theatres or clubs. The program is being developed and will be shared with them. The main goal of the evening is to strengthen revolutionary and proletarian poetry and to engage a broader audience. He requests assistance in organizing the evening, including ideological and technical advice, which will help expand its reach and add energy to it.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-65, 2; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 238;

1931

Until November 1

He prepares a statement to be sent to the Art Department of the People's Commissariat of Education. He writes that he plans to hold a major literary morning event on November 15 at the Tbilisi State Opera and Ballet Theatre. He requests the theatre's availability for this day.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-65, 3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 239.

1931

Until November 1

He prepares a statement to be sent to the People's Commissar of Education, Gaioz Devdariani. He writes that he plans to hold a demonstrative literary morning on November 15 at the Tbilisi State Opera and Ballet Theatre. He requests that an order be issued for the students and teachers of Tbilisi's educational institutions to attend the event.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-65, 3; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 239.

1931

November 1

He writes a poem "Down with Cynicism".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-65, 10; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 240.

1931

Until November 10

He writes a poem "Drilling the Oil-Rich Place" ("When You Drill the Earth...").

Source: Autograph, MGL, №4731; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 160.

Dating: It is dated based on the first publication.

1931

November 10

The poem "Drilling the Oil-Rich Place" ("When You Drill the Earth...") is published in Literary Newspaper.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1931, №2.

1931

Until November 14

He writes a poem "Let It Resound".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №3663; №4231; №276; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 50.

Note: The poem is also found in sources under the titles: "To a Poet Friend", "The Sound of Machines", "Machines", and "Greeting from the Foundry of the Fourteenth of October".

Dating: We date according to the first publication.

1931

Until November 14

He writes an untitled poem "The grass grows green in the field...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-48, 13.

1931

Until November 14

He writes an untitled poem "Through the eyes of a millionaire...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-48, 30; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 34.

1931

November 14

He is pleased to see a boy who is shooting sparrows with a shotgun. The boy confidently approaches, his pockets full of the dead sparrows.

Source: MGL, d-48, 33; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 34.

Note: The Research Institute of China calculated that the grain consumed by sparrows could feed 35 million people. In 1930, neither this conclusion was reached nor had the campaign for the extermination of sparrows begun, but it seems that a negative attitude toward these birds already existed.

1931

November 14

The newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti publishes the poem "The Locomotive Welcomes October 14th from the Iron Road Workshop, the Foundry, and the Smithy".

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1931, №2, 14 November, p. 2.

1931

November 21

From the next room, he hears drunk guests talking about him, a conversation in which the neighbours also agree. A young woman claims that Galaktion is harassing the Demetradzes and urges everyone to beat him or throw him out of the window. They respond that this is impossible because he is Shalva Okujava's son-in-law. He thinks that the old attack continues; this is an outrageous threat, a manifestation of disrespect and hatred toward him. They consider Shalva Okujava, but not him. The purpose of this provocation is to make him leave the room, where he is completely alone. He struggles to suppress his resentment and regrets that he lacks the physical strength to make these people feel the depth of their shamelessness. He concludes that it is necessary to remain vigilant.

Source: MGL, d-53, 35-36; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 123-124.

1931

After November 21

He writes two versions of the untitled poem "Now, farewell! Goodbye..." and dates them "November 11, 1923".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 38-39; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 124-126.

1931

Autumn

He writes a poem "The Child of Cuckoo and the Cuckoo Bird".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-76, 31; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 362-363.

December

1931

December 24

Together with Olya Okujava, he translates one of the untitled poems "In the Swamp City" included in the novel "The Flying Inn" by the English writer and philosopher Gilbert Keith Chesterton.

Source: MGL, Galaktion Tabidze's archive, s-2154; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 665. For clarification of information: N. Sikharulidze, in the Book "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 118-121.

1931

After December 24

He writes an untitled poem "They are very eloquent" with the creative impulse received from one of the poems ("In the Swamp City") included in the novel by the English writer and philosopher Gilbert Keith Chesterton.

Source: Autograph, MGL, a-2155; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. 1, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 364. For clarification of information and dating: N. Sikharulidze, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 118-121.

1931

After December 24

Olya Okujava is waiting for Galaktion's arrival next to the building of the Trade Unions, but when he doesn't come, she brings candies, cigarettes, and the illustrated weekly magazine Stroika and visits his home. However, she doesn't find Galaktion there either. She tidies up, washes, and leaves a note saying that he probably took the money and is just having fun; if he returns earlier, he should call her, and she will come. She mentions that she has a day-off the next day and suggests going for a walk somewhere.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-418; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 199.

Dating: The note is written on a sheet of paper that contains the first two lines from a poem translated by Galaktion and Olya Okujava on December 24, 1931.

1931

He writes a poem "A Variety of Wishes Fulfilled".

Source: Autograph, MGL, №1346-1347; №2425-2429; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. IV, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 142.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles: "Evening", "Evening in the Village", and untitled ("How Sweet is the Rest...").

1931

December

In the magazine Mnatobi, Shalva Radiani's article "Two Poets" is published, dedicated to the works of Giorgi Kuchishvili and Pridon Naroushvili. According to the author, most writers who emerged after the defeat of the 1905 revolution were characterized by a flight from revolution. One of the main trends in literature during this period was pessimism, with Galaktion Tabidze mentioned as the foremost among these authors.

Source: Sh. Radiani, "Two Poets", Mnatobi, 1931, №11-12, p. 151-162.

1931

Shalva Radiani's book "Contemporary Georgian Literature" is published, featuring an essay dedicated to the works of Galaktion Tabidze. The critic characterizes the poet's early lyrics, reviewing the main poetic concepts and symbols (wind, night, solitude). He notes that Galaktion perceived the revolution aesthetically, akin to that of Blok, viewing it as a force of the old country's dissolution. According to Radiani, the poem "John Reed" is noteworthy for its portrayal of revolutionary struggles. The author points out that the poet also directed his attention to the colonial East, illustrating how it suffers under imperialist oppression. He believes that Galaktion is a typical symbolist in his writing style, following the traditions of romanticism. The cornerstone of the poet's artistic style is metaphor, and Galaktion's poetic composition often defies conventional logic. The critic also discusses the unexpectedness of artistic images, which evoke a mystical atmosphere in the reader.

Source: Sh. Radiani, Contemporary Literature, 1931, Tbilisi, p. 188-201.

Note: The same Book was reissued in 1932.

1931

He writes the untitled poem "Here is Metekhi, where skeletons are piled as a fortress...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, in the book, MGL, t-423, Георгий Строганов, "Аврал", Azerbaijan, 1931, Title.

1931

He writes the untitled poem "Why did the angry voice fade away...".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, in the book, MGL, t-423, Георгий Строганов, "Аврал", Azerbaijan, 1931, p. 14.

1931

He writes the untitled poem "Worker of a Revolutionary Country!".

Source: G. Tabidze's record, in the book, MGL, t-423, Георгий Строганов, "Аврал", Azerbaijan, 1931, p. 14.

1931 or later

He reads Ludwig Eckardt's Russian-language Book "A Guide to Reading Poetic Works," making highlights and comments.

Source: MGL, t-470, Людвигъ Эккардтъ, Руководство къ чтению поэтическихъ сочинений съ приложениемъ примечаний и краткаго учебника теории поэзии, для мужскихъ и женскихъ учебныхъ заведений, Saint-Petersburg, 1875.

Dating: In one of the notes, the Central Executive Committee is mentioned, of which he became a member in 1931.

1931 or later

He writes the untitled poem “Whatever had meaning, only poetry it was...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, in the book, MGL, t-470, Людвигъ Эккардтъ, Руководство къ чтению поэтическихъ сочинений съ приложениемъ примечаний и краткаго учебника теории поэзии, для мужскихъ и женскихъ учебныхъ заведений, Saint-Petersburg, 1875.

1931 or later

He copies samples of folk poetry from Akaki Shanidze’s Book “Georgian Folk Poetry. I. Khevsurian”.

Source: MGL, d-418; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XXIII, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 25-32;

After 1931

He receives a letter from his mother, Makrine Adeishvili. She is heartbroken that he left the village without taking anything with him. She asks him to return, even for just one day, and to bring toys and candies for his nephews, Vasiko and Nodari, as it would make them happy.

Source: Autograph, MGL, 24551-302; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 94, 145.

1931

He gifts his own Book “Where is Revolutionary Georgia Headed?” to his godchild, Judu Pataraia, with a dedication.

Source: N. Natliashvili-Kvinikadze, “Everyone has something as a keepsake”, magazine Sakartvelos Biblioteka, 2011 №4, p. 12.

1931

He writes a poem “The Sea Is the Theme of My Poems”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5480; №2505; №3316; G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 116; For dating: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 781.

Note: The poem is also found untitled (“The Sea Is the Theme of My Poems...”).

1931 or later

He reads Vladimir Mayakovsky’s selected works, writes rhymes, counts the number of verses, and finally notes that it will be useful.

Source: GTSM, 907, В. Маяковский, Избранные произведения, Moscow, 1931.

1932

January

1932

January 12

He buys a train ticket from Tbilisi to Batumi and a ship ticket from Batumi to Sokhumi. He has decided, due to the horrors he has experienced over the past 14 days, when he has lost all hope in anything or anyone, to throw himself into the sea from the ship at night.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-71, 16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 304.

1932

January 12

On the train heading to Batumi, he is accompanied by two bandits who have reconciled with the government and three women – one from the Don River basin, one from Guria, and the third a Komsomol member. They engage in a long conversation.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-71, 16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 304.

1932

January 13

At the extended meeting of the Soviet Writers' Federation, Galaktion Tabidze is named a member of the presidium of the Writers' Federation along with twenty-eight other authors.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №1, p. 2.

1932

January 13

He arrives in Batumi, where the weather is warm, the sea is calm, and the palms and mandarins are in bloom. He meets a Muslim Adjarian who amazes him with his hospitality, as well as enthusiastic young people. At the port, several beautiful ships belonging to foreigners are docked. After much inner struggle, his spirits gradually begin to improve, and thoughts of suicide fade away.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-71, 16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 304.

1932

January 14

He returns from Batumi to Tbilisi, where it is bitterly cold, and it is snowing incessantly.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-71, 16; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 304.

1932

January 21

He is re-elected as a member of the editorial board of the magazine Mnatobi along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №1, p. 2.

1932

January 21

In the newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, Ali Mashashvili's poem "The Heavy Industry of Writing" is published, addressed to Galaktion Tabidze. The author expresses a sharply negative attitude towards Galaktion and advises him to "put a bullet point to the past time and creativity".

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №1, p. 3.

1932

After January 21

He writes a poem "A cynic".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 596; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 410

1932

After January 21

He writes an untitled poem "The last proletarian...".

Source: G. Tabidze, AE, Book VIII, Tbilisi, 2005, p. 599; For dating: L. Beburishvili, "Researches", Tbilisi, 2025, p. 410.

1932

January 23

Olya Okujava waits at home until 7 PM and then leaves a note. She writes that her sister, Mania Okujava, has arrived from Moscow and she is going to visit her. She asks him to come by so they can return home together.

Source: O. Okujava's letter to Galaktion, MGL, 24551-377; G. Tabidze, AE, Book XXIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 207;

1932

January 26

He discusses with Benito Buachidze the poem "The Heavy Industry of Literature" by Alio Mashashvili, published on January 21 in Saliteraturo Gazeti. In the poem, Mashashvili urges Galaktion Tabidze to put an end to his past and his creative work, addressing not only him but also his companions and allies in general. He reads this and other poems by Alio Mashashvili written in 1923. Benito Buachidze responds that it is nonsense and childishness, unworthy of such an attitude, and that Galaktion deserves greater respect and recognition.

Source: G. Tabidze's record, MGL, d-53, 42; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 126-127.

1932

After January 26

He writes a poem “I, the XV Year”. In the title, the word “Revolution’s” is crossed out.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, 46; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 129-130.

1932

After January 26

He writes the untitled poem “To the Revolutionary Germany’s Fighting Poets...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, 47-48; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 130-131.

1932

After January 26

He writes the untitled poem “Time will unfold the nightmares filled with unconsciousness...”.

Source: G. Tabidze’s record, MGL, d-53, 49; G. Tabidze, AE in 25 books, Book XIV, Tbilisi, 2008, p. 131-132.

1932

January

The magazine Drosha publishes an article by Alexandre Sulava titled “For the Fighter Literature of Literary Association of the Red Army and Navy”. The author discusses the specifics of depicting the Red Army and the navy in artistic literature, noting that our literature in this regard is not sufficiently developed. He believes that military themes are given little space in the works of proletarian poets. However, he considers Galaktion’s revolutionary military poems, including “Revolutionary Georgia” and “Let All Red Army Men Stand Like Lions”, to be somewhat of an exception. Additionally, the critic positively evaluates several works by Giorgi Kachakhidze and Irakli Abashidze.

Source: Al. Sulava, “For the Fighter Literature of Literary Association of the Red Army and Navy”, magazine Drosha, 1932, №1-2, p. 7-8.

Note: “Lokafi” is an abbreviation of the Russian name for the Literary Association of the Red Army and Navy. (ЛОКАФ – Литературное объединение Красной Армии и Флота).

February

1932

February 1

Saliteraturo Gazeti prints the statement of the Federation of Soviet Writers, in which it is mentioned that the creative discussion will start from February 1st, that’s why at 8 o’clock Shalva Radiani will read a report on the topic of “Modernity and alliance” in the Writers’ Club. Benito Buachidze, Galaktion Tabidze and others are invited as opponents.

Source: Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №2, p. 1.

1932

February 1

By the decision of the Secretariat of the Soviet Writers' Federation, he is sent to the factory named after Stalin as a member of the first brigade of writers. The brigade is tasked with taking care of activating the literary circle of the factory workers starting from February 1st.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №2, p. 3.

1932

February 1

In the Saliteraturo Gazeti, Benito Buachidze's article "The Light Industry of Writing" is published, where the critic discusses Alio Mashashvili's poem "The Heavy Industry of Writing", which is addressed to Galaktion Tabidze. Buachidze expresses outrage over Mashashvili's tone and believes that such an unrestrained and rude attitude toward Galaktion is unjustified.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №2, p. 3.

1932

February 1

The Saliteraturo Gazeti publishes Shalva Radiani's article "Companionship and Alliance", in which Galaktion's poems are discussed alongside the works of other authors. According to the critic, while significant changes begin in Galaktion's work after the October Revolution, until 1921, the revolution for the poet was primarily associated with a romantic sentiment. Now, G. Tabidze is an ally of the revolution; however, the class struggle is not adequately reflected in his work, and the poet's worldview has not been fully transformed, which prevents him from seeing the complexities and depths of socialist construction. The critic believes that the reasons for the ideological mistakes in Galaktion's work stem not from the nature of the material he is working with, but from the errors in the poet's creative method, specifically that his worldview is still somewhat influenced by symbolism.

Source: Sh. Radiani, "Companionship and Alliance", Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №2, p. 2.

Note: This article by Shalva Radian was also published in the magazine Mnatobi, 1932, №1-2, p. 193-220.

1932

February 21

The newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti publishes an article by Beso Zhghenti titled "Eleven Years of Soviet Literature", which reviews the characteristics of the Georgian literary process following the establishment of Soviet power. The critic discusses the trend of creative alliance and refers to Galaktion as an ideological ally of proletarian literature on the literary front.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №4, p. 3.

1932

February 21

The newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti publishes an informational announcement stating that on February 29th, at 7 PM, the "Production Conference of Poetry" will be held at the Writers' Palace named after Ignat Ninoshvili. Presentations will be given by Dimitri Benashvili, Simon Chikovani, and Konstantine Lortkipanidze. The presentations will address the topic “Situation on the Poetry Front”. Galaktion Tabidze is invited to the event along with other writers.

Source: Newspaper Saliteraturo Gazeti, 1932, №4, p. 4.

1932

February 23

He writes a poem “The Poet and October”.

Source: Autographs: MGL, №5671-72; №5645; №4819-4824; №375-376; №28897-50, p. 154; 5557; №5764; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 7;

Note: The poem appears in sources untitled and under the titles: “Stanzas”; “Tree”; “Newspaper, Newspaper”.

1932

February

The magazine Mnatobi publishes material under the general title “Discussion”, which presents the views of writers and critics on the contemporary literary process. Participants in the discussion, among others, talk about Galaktion Tabidze. Ali Arsenishvili notes that although Galaktion, Simon Chikhovani, and Razhden Gvetadze are considered allies of proletarian literature, in reality, there are still many obstacles in their creative paths, and many aspects of their works need to be revised and changed. Leo Khiacheli expresses hope that these allied writers will overcome their obstacles in a short time and join proletarian literature. Besarion Zhghenti states that Galaktion Tabidze is the best poet of the generation before the October Revolution. He believes that it took special strength for the poet to renounce his idealistic worldview and become an ally of the proletariat. According to the critic, his next task is to demonstrate socialist construction in his works more clearly, realistically, and with greater clarity. Besarion Zhghenti believes that Galaktion was a stronger poet when he wrote “Blue Horses” than he is now, when he writes on revolutionary themes. For this reason, the critic thinks that the poet needs to find a new, organic method suitable for the new content to express his ideas effectively.

Source: “Discussion”, Magazine Mnatobi, 1932, №1-2, p. 221-243.

1932

February

The magazine Mnatobi publishes Besarion Zhghenti’s article “A Decisive Year in Georgian Literature”, in which one section is dedicated to Galaktion. The critic explains what type of writer can be a creative ally of the proletariat. After a general overview, he notes that Galaktion Tabidze’s artistic practice clearly expresses the specific process of alliance. According to the critic, the works of the best representative of Georgian modernist-decadent literature were dominated by hopelessness, scepticism, mysticism, and senseless aestheticism. However, after the October Revolution, Galaktion began to aestheticize the revolution as a destructive force and gradually approached specific Soviet themes. Zhghenti considers that, in terms of development, Galaktion’s poem “Revolutionary Georgia”, published the previous year, represents a distinctive stage in his work, depicting crucial moments of socialist construction. Although the majority of the poem is written in a style characteristic of Galaktion, certain passages show a superficial approach to the material and a relatively low level of artistic refinement. The critic believes that Galaktion's creative journey provides grounds to assert that there are no insurmountable difficulties for the poet. Considering this, he will be able to address the primary task of expressing the construction of socialism more artistically, while also employing new artistic approaches.

Source: B. Zhghenti, A Decisive Year in Georgian Literature, Magazine Mnatobi, 1932, №1-2, p. 244-266.

1932

February

He writes an untitled poem, "Neither did the azure appear in the sky..."

Source: Autograph: MGL, №330-d., p. 82-83; №4123; №8; L. Megreliдзе's autograph: MGL, №24072; G. Tabidze, works in twelve volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 1966, p. 18.

Note: The poem is also found under the titles: "You Must Defeat the Enemy" and "Neither Did the Azure Appear in the Sky", as well as untitled ("Here is the Azure...").

April

1932

Until April

He writes a poem "October Symphony" ("Orators Thundered in the Streets...").

Source: Autographs: MGL, №1056; №5595; №5287-90; №5292-94; №5621; №330 d., p. 43-44; №5295, №5298; №5532; №5593-5594; №5296; №5301-05; №5308; №5316; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 9;

Note: The poem is found in sources untitled and under the titles: "The Horrors of Imperialist War"; "From Folk Motifs"; "The Masses Await Lenin"; "Lenin is Coming".

1932

Until April

The user is writing a poem titled "For the Victory of October".

Source: Autographs: MGL, №d-3,30, p. 96; №339; G. Tabidze, works in fifteen volumes, vol. V, Tbilisi, 2017, p. 21;

Note: The poem is also found in sources under the title "Let Us Construct the Monument".

1932

Until April

He writes a poem "March of Nations".

